To say that it cannot, is to confess that a Review is beyond the knowledge and culture of those who are expected to subscribe for it and sustain it. It is to acknowledge that a sufficient number of readers necessary to make it quarterly a success, cannot be found in our thirty-nine Conferences. Is this a truth? If it is, our mental poverty must be appalling. How many subscribers, at $5 per subscriber, are necessary to make a quarterly a financial success? To answer this, we have but to refer to the history of our Review under its management during the last year of its existence. If we are correctly informed, the number of subscribers was, in round numbers, only 1000. At $5 to each subscriber, the amount received would be $5,000. This sum, if we are not mistaken, paid the whole expense of publication, and gave a net profit of $1000, or about that much. But it is answered, the work of the editor was a labor of love, and hence not to be properly considered. Grant that this was so—if 1000 subscribers yielded a net profit of $1000, how many more are necessary to pay the editor a living salary? Let us suppose that the number were taken and pay for the Review's increased to 3,000. This will swell the gross receipts to $15,000. Now, high, if the expense increase in the same ratio that it will not, is manifest the expense will be $8,000, leaving $7,000 to be applied to salary. Did suppose the list increased to 5,000; this, with the same ratio of expense, will leave a net profit of $11,000. But every one knows it will be much more, for the expenses will not increase in a great, if any, ratio with the increase of paying subscribers.

If these things are so, are there not in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, with its 900,000 members, 1,000 who are able to take a Review, and sufficiently educated to appreciate it after it is taken? To say that there are not, is a sad confession of our poverty both mental and financial. The thought is preposterous. It is a slander on a great church, that proudly towers over many universities, colleges, and other institutions of learning, and of her many thousand educated men and women. What a compliment is it to a church that proudly points to her seminaries, literati and logic to her many wise and learned presidents and professors of universities and colleges, to her noble army of teachers in her own and in other's books; to her many of the who adorn the professions of law and medicine; and to her many daughters who have received a culture equal to that of her sons! Instead of 1000 subscribers to a Quarterly, under the patronage of our great, opulent Church, there should be 25,000; and there would be, if all who ought to take our Church Review would do their duty.

But what kind of Review is needed? WE will answer the needs of the great family for whom it is in order. This all must be the explanation. For it cannot be denied that if a Review, such as I mean, would be supported, a sufficient number of subscribers would be secured to make the publication a success. What should the Review be?

In answer, we will premise, certain of our critics forget that it should come up to the standard of the best Reviews, quarterly, of the day. Because it is [illegible] to be a Review, it does not follow that it should be equal to the best Reviews, quarterly, of the day. Because it is [illegible] to be a Review, it does not follow that it should be equal to the best Reviews, quarterly, of the day.

Now, all this is idle talk. What our critics forget is important. We may wish for ever another generation more or less [illegible] we can hope to compete with the best English and German Reviews.

But because we cannot do this, must we do nothing? Ought we to publish the best we can with such gifts and means as we have? Is it to be supposed that our critics would put other attempts at self-improvement? But why not apply these arguments to all things else? Our weekly papers as well as our quarterlies would become under the same [illegible] and sweeping condemnation. More than this, let us apply the same arguments to our Universities and Colleges. Do these come up to the standard of the best in Great Britain and on the Continent? Have we to Vanderbilt, and Richmond, Macon, and Emory, and Wofford, compare with Cambridge and Oxford, with Leipsic and Berlin? If they do not, close the doors of our University at Nashville, and go to the books and buts the colleges which our children and generation fathers left behind to their sons, or turn out their present presidents and professors, and give their vacant chairs to English and German scholars, trained in the great Universities of Europe. It may be that some of the critics, whose views we have answered, are themselves presidents or professors in our colleges. How would they like their own [illegible] against themselves? Or do they think themselves equal to the best English and German professors, and their colleges on a level with the best in England and Germany?

The truth is, as no man of sense will deny, our Universities and their professors are below the best in Europe. But shall we, for that reason, give them up, or drive out the noble men who [illegible] by no means. They are doing a great, noble work. The very work which is needed. Our Methodist Universities and their professors are better adapted to the wants of our people than the European universities and their professors possibly can be. Transfer Oxford or Leipsic to Nashville, and in their come to what Vanderbilt is doing. No one, that either Oxford or Leipsic has, can supply the place of Dr. Garland or Professor Lupton. They are the right men in the right place, though, doubtless, the reasons for their being and the best education they have to offer to the [illegible] English and German scholars who are superior to them in scholarship and culture.

Let us now apply this common sense reasoning to our Quarterly. We have

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1879.

THE FOURTH WATCH.

BY MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

(Mark vi. 48.

It is the fourth watch of the night,
The waves are tossed to foam,
The weary boatmen hope for light,
And long for rest and home.

All heavily they ply the oar,
The Master far away,
And far away the radiant shore
They tried but yesterday.

How like a dream that happy scene,
The fainting thousands fed,
The meadows green, the face serene,
That blessed the broken bread!

Ah! pale disciples, could ye feel
How near the Master's feet,
How grandly, o'er the hillmas' swell,
He comes your need to meet.

Your fears would fly, your eyes would fill
With mist of thankful tears;
He sees you spent with rowing, still
Your groans and sighs He hears.

And we, so often vexed to day,
By many a care and grief,
Who toil along a shadowed way,
Because of unbelief.

Why should we cease to trust His love?
Why fear the midnight sea?
The storm that hurtles from above,
His chariot-throne may be.

While Christ is Lord of death and life,
No ills His own shall dread;
Secure we brave the utmost strife,
O'er yielding waters tread.

And in the fourth watch of the night,
We hail the dawn of day,
If, dearer than the rising light,
Christ meets us in the way.

Tendencies of Modern Sensational Literature—Its Evils and Its Remedies.

BY REV. E. F. BIRCH, ALABAMA CONFERENCE.)

CONCLUDED.

We come now to consider the evils and corrupting tendencies which attach to the unwholesome and sensational literature of the age. In doing this we notice:

1. The superabundant and indiscriminate character of its productions. This finds its origin in the morbid and feverish excitement of the public mind, and the sensational tastes of the reading masses. These tastes and excitements are engendered, in their turn, by the rush and hurry of speculation and enterprise, and the mighty impulse of electricity and steam. The world is moving forward with a tumultuous and accelerated velocity. No time for calm reflection and patient thought, for rhetorical elegance and refinement of culture, nor for that discrimination of taste and judgment which rejects the vile and worthless, and clings to what is noble and good in literary composition. The busy multitude must have something which excites the mind, stimulates the passions, stirs the sensibilities, and accords with the wild and reckless spirit of the times. Books and periodicals—magazines and journals—are but the constituted expositors and oracles that interpret the popular feelings. The demand is enormous, the supply is superabundant. These noisome productions, like Pharaoh's plagues, overflow the land. Their name is legion, and their power for mischief almost incalculable. Their influence is everywhere felt—from the sensational horrors and impurities of the Police Gazette, to the maudlin nonsense of the magazine love story, from the revolting insanities of the conventional "Dime Novel," to the impossible absurdities of the two-volume romance. All, all is accepted and devoured with the hungry avidity of intellectual starvation. And is this the pabulum upon which minds are to be nourished and developed for usefulness and good? Are these the fountains from which souls are to draw their inspirations for the high purposes and noble duties of life, and for the destinies of eternity? As well might we expect good wheat from the sowing of tares, luscious fruits from the stunted crab-tree, or cool, refreshing waters from the festering slime of a tropical frog-pond.

2. The evil is a growing one—ever multiplying its forces, extending influence, and augmenting its sphere of operations. Like all other hurtful tastes and habits, it feeds upon itself, and fattens upon its own morbid creations. Like whisky and opium, it calls forth its own diseased appetites, and then levies upon them its insatiable demand for ever-increasing gratification. And thus the process goes on, until mind and soul are enervated and enslaved, and a condition of intellectual dwarfage and decrepitude are the inevitable result.

3. But the evil does not stop here. It has a moral and social aspect fearful to contemplate. Much of this sensational literature is corrupt, sensual, devilish in its tendencies, and sometimes infinitely nasty. For the young and unsophisticated of both sexes it possesses a peculiar fascination. With minds sensitive and open to every impression, and hearts ardent, susceptible and impulsive—easily charmed by the witchery of romance, and the soft enchantment of "Love's young dream"—they early yield to these shadowy and voluptuous illusions—the subtle poison enters the soul, and leaves its envenomed sting—too often, alas! to the overthrow of virtue and purity, and the subversion of character. Thus not only are the mental powers impaired, and the taste for solid attainments vitiated, and the heart corrupted by these vile productions, but false views of life are instilled, and evil passions engendered that linger, like haunting in the silent chambers of the soul—the mournful mementoes of a wasted and misguided life in years to come. Survey for a moment the sad condition of fashionable society in the madness that rules the hour—how vain, how frivolous, how abandoned to gayety and pleasure, how devoted to folly and sensual indulgence—and then go trace the origin of its social vices, the records of its progress in voluptuous dissipations, in the baleful and insidious influences of the vitiating and corrupting literature of the age.

3. But there is another view. Such literature is inimical to all true and vital religion. Not only is this true in its secret and indirect influences upon the mind, but also in its uniform and luvariable teachings. True piety and a godly life are the marks for its keenest shafts and bitterest sarcasms. Real Christians—those who abjure the sins and vanities, and licentious follies of the fashionable world—are treated as base and ignorant fanatics, or stigmatized as mean and sniveling hypocrites. They are oftener than otherwise the villains and mar-plots of the sensational love story and the fashionable novel. Their chosen heroes and heroines—the exalted models of all social and fashionable virtues—are the vain, idle, sentimental votaries of hollow worldliness—the distinguished patrons of ball-rooms, and theaters, and operas—whose highest attraction is their personal beauty, their inflated vanity, and their sentimental nonsense. They are the types of no noble and true Christian life or character. And yet they constitute the paragons upon which many a youthful mind is seeking to model itself.

On the other hand, in these sensational productions, Christianity—and Methodism, especially—is uniformly held up to scorn and contempt, and its followers made the object of ridicule and aversion. Even the noble and gifted Dickens could not forbear his distinguished contributions in this direction. Witness the distorted creations—the Mrs. Snagsby's, Mrs. Toney Wollers and Mrs. Jellyby's—rum swillers, virages, and the crazy representatives of "red flannel vestkits for little niggers," and the benevolent enterprise of "Borraboola Gha." Its ministers are frightfully caricatured in the sneaking, drunken Stiggius, and the unctuous and hypocritical Chadband, and others of the same ilk. The impression which these things—and much else besides—is calculated to leave upon susceptible minds I leave thinking men to judge. Its wickedness, extravagance and absurdity must surely plead the only bar to its covert mischief.

These are some of the evils of the literature of the period, briefly and partially sketched, but not exaggerated. Summing all up in one condensed view, the evil is widespread and almost universal. Like the turbid waves of an overflowing and swollen stream, it spreads out far and wide in its course, and leaves the filth and pollution of its malarious deposits behind. It is entering our homes, distorting the minds, corrupting the hearts, perverting the sentiments, deforming the characters, and inflaming the passions of the young of both sexes. It invades our social life, and leaves its impress in the superficial thought, the volatile characters, the sensual tastes and shallow frivolity of the age, and converts our modern society into the mockery of a "vanity fair"—a gorgeous theater for the display of ill-gotten wealth, of heartless pride, and of voluptuous and extravagant fashion. It goes out into the domain of busy life, and seeks to pervert and obscure, by its specious sentimentality, the high claims of personal honor and manly integrity. It sometimes projects its misty shadows even into the sacred precincts of the temple of God, and converts the sanctuary of worship into a bazar of fashionable elegance, the Sabbath of the Lord into a gala day of flaunting show and splendid apparel, and the pulpit itself into a living oracle for the utterance of a sentimental and superficial philosophy, rather than the truth of God, often veiling the simplicity of the gospel in the tinsel drapery of the novelist's glittering phrase and sparkling sentiment.

Thus we have traced the mental, moral and social tendencies of modern sensational literature, of its pictorial periodicals, and its "lake-side," and "river-side," and water-side productions. Its record its legibly inscribed upon the demoralized spirit of the age. Disguising its moral deformities in the tinsel vestments of romance and fiction, it has left upon society the impress of falsehood and insincerity, while it exalts the meanest vices into heroic virtues, and the devil himself into an "angel of light." Assuming the mastery over the imagination and passions, it has shed the glamour of a fictitious and delusive light over the realities of life, and thrown the chilling shadow of skeptical doubt over the sublimest sentiments of Christian truth. Creating for itself an ideal world of imaginary joys—a "fool's Paradise" of sensual happiness—it disqualifies the soul for the grand struggle of a noble and useful life, by the emasculation of its powers, and the prostitution of its energies. In a word, its plots are impossibilities, its incidents an insult to common sense, its heroes are moral monstrosities, its heroines love sick idiots; and its tendencies, like the corruptions of the human heart, are "only evil, and that continually."

The third general view—the remedies for the evil—we reserve for future discussion.

My Mother's Spiritual Birthday.

OCTOBER 17, 1811.

This morning, October 17, 1879, instead of opening my own Bible to read, and without thinking of the date, I thought I would use my sainted mother's Psalm-book. Taking it, and opening at the fly-leaf, my eye rested on this note, in her own hand: "October 17, 1867. My spiritual birthday. Fifty-six years ago, to-day, the Lord spoke peace to my soul. Oh, happy day! Oh, happy day!" And just beneath was this: "October 17, 1871. My sixtieth spiritual birthday. I never have forgotten that glorious morn." And one year later: "October 17, 1872. Glory be to God! I well remember sixty-one years ago, this day, when Jesus spoke peace to my soul. He has been my helper all through this long, tedious journey. Praise the Lord! He is still my all." In each of the four years after this she made a record of this day, as it rolled around, and then she was laid upon a bed of pain to linger out two more years. She remembered and rejoiced over her last spiritual birthday on earth as one of the holiest days in all the calendar. Then the Lord called the dear old wanderer "up higher." This spiritual birthday to her was a vivid reality. Often have I listened to the old, old story, yet it was ever new. She had been under deep conviction for several days, when in despair of receiving the blessing she sought, while alone in her room on the date mentioned she threw herself on the bed, with her face downward, in an agony of prayer, crying for mercy. When instantaneously, as if she saw a vision, and heard a voice speaking peace to her soul, she felt such an overwhelming sense of the divine presence, and the forgiving love of God pervading her soul with such sweet peace, she seemed transported to another world, and shouted aloud for joy. The family running in to learn the cause, she told her father she had seen "the glory of God shining around, and Jesus had spoken peace to her troubled soul." None of the family having a knowledge of her state of mind, made this a scene to be remembered. And in all her long, eventful life, that day stood out in bold relief as a blessed assurance of her acceptance with God. No reasoning could shake her sense of that blessed reality. It was to her as instantaneous and self-satisfactory as it was blessed. She had the blessing of pious parents, who were converts of the Rev. John Wesley. Her father, John Murry Ballard, was converted at the same time and place with the eccentric Lorenzo Dow. For this she ever blessed and praised God. When her palsied tongue could no longer praise Him, she smiled and pointed heavenward, in token of her "welcome in that home" of the soul, to which she was going.

So dies the Christian. Glory to God! So died in 1877 my dear mother, Roxana Ballard Crary, who was born in Fair Haven, Rutland, Vt., November 25, 1793. Born again at White Plains, N. Y., October 17, 1811.

MRS. L. CRARY SADLER.

WEST PEARL RIVER, La., Oct. 17, 1879.

The Light of Other Days.

"What memory will bring in calm review
The pleasant things of life, the good and true,
Sweet memory to us."

During the struggle all enter into, who are ambitious to rise in the world, the thoughts do not often go back, and rest immediately on the early part of life. But after success has crowned each well-directed effort, and the gaining of a desired position no longer remains a subject of doubt, the mind brings up from the far-off past recollections and incidents that were painful or pleasant at the time, and which are seen to have had an influence more or less decided on our whole after-life.

Bright as a beautiful dream of childhood, loving memories, undimmed by lapse of time, awaken in the mind bright scenes of a happy past, fragrant with hallowed impressions, which come to us only in our visions of by gone years, and which are so difficult to describe.

How sweetly they steal upon the heart, in the calm hours of thought, sparkling fresh from the deep fount of joy and innocence, throwing a golden vail of love over the impetuosity and waywardness of childhood.

How soothing to recall the happy influences thrown around us in early youth! Holy memories, which are linked and woven in the chain of our existence, reflecting a moral truth and beauty, a thousand sacred things.

They have largely entered into the shaping of our lives, controlling and guiding us through the perilous straits into which all must pass before entering upon the great Sea of Life. It is the light of the past—the moral force of a grand principle—that steers our course, smoothing the voyage, cheering and comforting our passage, until we are anchored in safety on the peaceful waters whose ports lead to a life beyond—the eternity of God.

The records of the future, with all its unfolding, will be drawn from the unwritten leaves of life, mirrored in the light of heaven, and reflecting our whole life in its true colors.

From the voice of inspiration we gather precious truths—promises replete, and applicable to every condition, a recompense for every sacrifice made for Christ, a Saviour's smile of every cross meekly borne, a joy for every sorrow. No thorn-clad flowers shall we pluck from the garden of the Lord.

Hopes that were fondly cherished have faded like the hues of evening flowers have withered and died. But the "Spirit of the past," the unchanging light of other days, with its train of consequence, is shedding its beams over this life, and shall gather its concentrated glory, like a sunset, over the next.

R. A. THIMS.

HOLLY GROVE, Mississippi.

From the Work.

OAKY STREAK, BUTLER COUNTY, ALABAMA.

MR EDITOR: The ministerial labors of the present year, dispensed on this circuit by Bro. J. B Nelson, pastor, and two local preachers, have resulted in the conversion of a good many, and a goodly number of accessions to the church. Our church building at Oaky Streak, which has been in a dilapidated condition for some time, will now compare favorably with first class country churches, being newly weather boarded and ceiled within, and well furnished with lamps. We have recently been favored with visits and ministerial labor of brethren from Greenville—to wit, Bros. R S. Holcombe and M. E. Butt. Bro. M. E Butt occupied our pulpit last Saturday and Sunday. On Sunday, at eleven o'clock A. M., he delivered a sermon on the origin of the Christian Church, using as a foundation the text taken from the gospel by St. Matthew xvi, 18: "And I say unto thee that thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." Suffice it to say, the sermon was both edifying and instructive, in which he set forth upon Scripture authority that neither Christ nor His apostles established a new church, but that of necessity the sacraments had been changed, baptism taking the place of circumcision, and the Lord's Supper being substituted in the place of the Passover. These facts being true, the authority for infant baptism was permanently established. Farmers in this section are amply rewarded for their labor.

JAMES E. D. BRASWELL, L. P.

NOVEMBER 2, 1879.

Obituaries.

BRO. HAYWARD FOOTE was born in Prince William county, in the State of Virginia, June 11, 1811, and died at his residence, near Cayuga, Hinds county, Miss., October 16, 1879.

He was educated at Warrington, in the State of his birth. He moved to this State in the autumn of 1839, locating in Rankin county, where he was for some time employed as a teacher in Centenary College. It was while he was associated with Centenary that he became interested about the salvation of his soul. Here he made the first step in the direction of everlasting life, as many have done through, by or under the influence of that praise worthy institution, Centenary College.

About forty-three years of Bro. Foote's life was spent in the militant ranks of Christ. The greater part of this time he occupied official position, serving the church acceptably in all. For twenty-five consecutive years he has filled the important and responsible position of steward. Three times at Cayuga, where he lived his membership. And that, under the administration of a score of preachers, who from time to time were in charge of the circuit, one of them ever objecting that his place could be supplied with a more efficient man. He was not a steward when he died, but it was solely on account of his too perceptible, physical decline that he was not retained in that difficult position in the church of Christ.

Bro. Foote was not converted before or at the time he joined the church. He contended very strenuously that it is a man's indispensable duty to connect himself with the church, while it is his blood bought privilege to receive forgiveness. He was converted during the exercises of a revival meeting at old Union camp ground, in Claiborne county, Miss. He placed much stress on the necessity of being a recognized member of the militant church on earth, in order to have membership in the church triumphant in heaven. This conviction led him, unregenerate as he was, into the church, which evidently was to him the stepping stone to regeneration, which he shortly afterward experienced, and never had occasion to doubt.

"Many times," said he, "have I had occasion to doubt my present acceptance; but my conversion? never." Hence the infinite superiority of present faith over past experience, however satisfactory the evidence may have been.

Bro. Foote was a great sufferer; his disease being of such a nature as to involve the entire man—physical, mental and spiritual; the one operating on, and subjecting the other. He was confined to his room and bed about six months, during which time he had quite a diversity of experiences. Sometimes he would be filled with ecstatic raptures—with all the fullness of evangelical love. At other times I would find him overwhelmed with a sense of his shortcomings. Such was the state of his mind for some time before he died.

He was married three times. Two children by his first marriage are living in the vicinity. His last wife, with a little daughter, are also left to feel the pang of separation.

C. A. POWELL.

FOSTER BRADFORD was born in the State of South Carolina in the year 1800, where he lived with his parents until the year 1834, when with them he came to St. Tammany parish, La., and located on the Pearl river, where he joined the Methodist Church in the year 1835, under the ministry of Bro. Galley. The following year he was appointed class leader of what was then called Pine Grove Church, now Lower West Pearl, and has been an official member of the church almost continuously from that time until his death, serving the church as class leader, steward and trustee. A few years after his first marriage he removed to East Baton Rouge parish, La., and settled near what was then called Salem Church, long since gone into disuse and a new house called Bethel Grove taking its place. For twenty years there had nothing been done with the church, for some reason it had been left out of the regular work, and briars and bushes had grown up around it. In the year 1837 he cleared away the undergrowth, and cleaned up the house, and obtained the services of his brother, Rev. Thomas Bradford, who was a local preacher. That year, and in 1838, it was again placed in the regular work, under the pastoral charge of Bro. Davis, sen. In the year 1842 he was one of the active members of the church who established the camp ground known as the Salem Camp Ground, in East Baton Rouge parish, where the parsonage of East Baton Rouge circuit now stands.

Through all these years of walking for the manifestation of the Spirit, he was faithful, hopeful, always trusting to God, and always ready for the work which was assigned him. He was proud of the church of his choice, and watched its growth with increased delight, and often in recounting the trials she had passed through, and the triumphs she had made over sin, his soul would fill with delight and he was led to bless God for being a Methodist. His illness was protracted, and patiently did he bear it with calm resignation to God's will, often repeating passages from the Word suited to his case, and thinking he was not passing through the entire and complete cure that he desired. He was always happy in Bro. Foote's house. He was a wife and three children and a host of friends and relatives to mourn his loss and to bless an overruling Providence that has called him higher up in glory and immortality.

LEWIS T. DAVIS.

ARCHIBALD STEELE, son of Betty and Mary A. Steele, was born in Wayne county, State of Tennessee February 9, 1811. He came with his parents to Simpson county, Miss., about the year 1817 and to Oktibbeha, in 1836, where he died on the morning of the 4th of October, 1879. He was united in marriage to Miss Permelia Parker, near Beckport, September 7, 1839. He was appointed First Lieutenant of Patchitoula Volunteers, February 17, 1847, and to Matthew's Commando Feb. 9, 1847. But few men were so extensively known as Bro. Steele. He lived in the same neighborhood nearly forty years, regarded by all as a consistent Christian man, a man of unswerving integrity, and scrupulously honest in all his dealings with his fellow-men. He was prominently identified with the useful enterprises of his country, especially those of his own neighborhood, always exerting a salutary and controlling influence. In his participation in the political issues of the day he was unselfish in seeking not position nor honor, but his country's good. He did much to check the dangerous measures of extremists, and to promote moderation. He always manifested a deep interest in every measure that promoted the peace and harmony of his community. As a peace maker, he was often called upon to mediate between parties at variance, and through his kind interventions permanent reconciliations were often accomplished. He was a friend of the poor, the widow and orphan; and many a sad heart has been made glad by his benefactions. He was a faithful member, and an active steward in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. He was a true friend of the church, and supported her institutions with a liberal hand. He was a Methodist from choice. He loved the doctrines and usages of his church, but he was not a bigot, but always exhibited the spirit of true Christian liberality toward all Christian denominations. As a Christian, he was modest and humble, but firm and decided. His last work on earth was done on Providence Camp Ground, where he toiled beyond his strength, in his great anxiety to have everything ready for the approaching camp meeting. He was taken sick on the second day of the meeting, but on his bed, in his tent, he communed with his God and was happy. The weary itinerant preacher, who so often found rest at his hospitable home, will miss him. The church and community will miss him. The stricken wife and fatherless children will miss him.

A. M. HARRINGTON.

WILLIAM H. HARDEN.—Our heart moved as the many tears who loved Bro. Harden, was made sad by the announcement: Bro Harden and his wife died, last week, of yellow fever in East Baton Rouge circuit and the Methodist Church has lost a good man, a useful man, and a brother in rare ability. As we pen these lines as a small tribute to his memory, we recall the scenes of days gone by, when in the midst of special efforts for the conversion of sinners Bro. Harden was actively working to that end, and often his voice might be heard above the shouts of new-born souls: "Glory be to God for this unspeakable gift." Often in revival meetings have we seen him, while we were laboring with penitent souls at the altar of prayer, in the rear of the congregation, urging souls to come to Christ, and on one occasion we saw him kneel by the side of a soul to live and pray with him when the good work was going on at the altar, away from the crowd because he had some scruples about coming to the altar for prayer, and wrestling with God until the blessing came in abundance. Truly he was gifted in prayer, and long will the memory of those earnest efforts for the awakening of souls be cherished by the brethren. Bro. Harden was a native of Indiana, converted at Antioch Church, under the ministry of Bro. E. W. Simmons, now in Texas, and in his connection we would speak of the means which brought him to Christ. A brother passing his house invited him to ride with him to church, and on the way spoke to him of his soul. He was awakened, and did not rest until he found peace. That brother is now in Virginia, and will, no doubt, feel sad when he hears of his death, but will rejoice that he was the instrument which led him to Christ and the cross. He is with Christ, and, though he has gone from our midst, yet lingering in our memory will be the sweet assurance we shall meet again. Many rise up to-day and call him blessed. Truly a good man in Israel has fallen, and, though he be dead, yet he liveth in the memory of many precious souls that he has been the instrument in bringing to God.

RUFFIN T. DAVIS.

A. W. STALEY died, at the residence of N. W. Johnson, in Prairie Merrouge, Morehouse parish, La., September 24, 1879, in the sixty-fifth year of his age. He was born near the city of Charleston, S. C., November 13, 1815. Upon his arrival at manhood he left his native State to seek his fortune in the West. In 1836 he settled in Macon county, Ala., and in the year 1845 he moved to Morehouse parish, La., and has lived in said parish since, except two years, which he lived on Red River, in this State. He was married August 7, 1839 to Vashtie E. Johnson, who died January 25, 1865. He united with the Protestant Methodist Church in the year 1833, and in the year 1835 he moved his church membership to the Methodist Episcopal Church, South and has lived a devoted Christian till his death. His health was generally good, until about one month previous to his death. He suffered much during his last illness from pneumonia. He retained his reason to the last, except at intervals, in which his mind seemed slightly, and, with the composure of a Christian, he met the inevitable fate, and his last prayer was with uplifted hands: "Saviour, Saviour, come and bless me: Thou hast been with me in all my troubles, now come and take Thine own."

A. W. Staley was a scrupulously honest man, above all temptation and suspicion. He was a charitable man. He always spoke the truth. He was a devoted husband and father. By his death a vacancy has been created in the neighborhood, which will be difficult to fill. His memory will long be cherished by all who knew him.

N. W. J.

DIED, at the residence of her mother, near Centerville, Miss., MISS GEORGIA M. MCGEHEE, aged seventeen years and eleven months. Put down in the pride and bloom of youth, buoyant with hope and fond expectation. The future gilded with bright and gay anticipation, but, alas, too soon to fade and die.

Possessing these lovely traits of character, it is but natural to suppose that she was beloved and will be mourned by a large circle of friends, who mourn her early death. She was attractive not only to those of her own years, but her deference and respect to her superiors and teachers were displayed in a degree remarkable for one so young. An affectionate and kind sister, loving to her sister, gentle and obedient as a pupil, our hearts weep, while our home is made desolate.

In the midst of extreme pain and suffering she became perfectly tranquil, her mind clear. She accepted and embraced the Saviour, exclaiming of pardon for her sins, and gave bright evidence of her acceptance with God. She seemed to range heaven in all its fullness. Visions of unfolding, unfading glories, loomed up bright before her, a smile of Heaven resting on her face. She said: "The gates are ajar," and I am going to live at the right hand of God through all the endless ages of eternity. She did farewell in loving, weeping hearts, saying: "Meet me in Heaven." Thus she passed from earth, lovely in life, more beautiful in death, to Heaven's bright home, leaving precious memory enshrined in the hearts of her bereaving friends.

JEFF TEACHER.

MARY E. MELTON was born in Holmes county, Miss., January 15, 1836. She was the daughter of Br. Jesse Melton, and therefore had pious instruction from childhood. When she grew up to mature years she joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Sweet Water, continued a member until death, which took place near Emory, Hunt's county, Texas, September 21, 1879. She was married to Rev. Sidney Johnson, December 5, 1854. Young and beautiful she left her home, to be happily married, she set out upon the responsible duties of life with a clear heart. But oh! how soon are our paths as pilgrims clouded. While the hearts of the young father and mother were so happy, so entwined were their little infant, but ere we knew death called the happy young mother suddenly away. The husband awaking from sleep only to find that the heart that so fondly loved him had ceased to beat. We sorrow not as those who have no hope. Though Mary could not testify as she was sinking into the Jordan of death, yet hope beyond the clouds of time.

K. A. J.

SISTER ELIZABETH LANE, wife of Dr. Thos. J. Lane, was born in Lowndes county, Ala., March 31, 1812, and died October 21, 1879. For twenty one years Sister Lane was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and a professor of religion. She was a cheerful, happy Christian. With consumption her life gradually wasted away. For weeks she knew that death was inevitable, of which she talked familiarly, and was ready for it. Some time before her death she said: "I have constant peace, and often feel like shouting. When I am gone I want you to preach my funeral from that beautiful text: 'Thanks be to God, who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.'" Through Christ she had gained complete victory over sin, death and the grave. Yesterday, at the grave according to her request, we preached her funeral. To her husband and children she leaves the rich inheritance of a consistent Christian character.

JOHN RIVES.

MRS. MARY CASE TAYLOR daughter of Rhodon Atkins and Ursula Greene, was born at Milledgeville, Ga., March 9, 1817. Her childhood was spent in Macon county, Ala. From thence she removed with her parents to Claiborne (now Webster) parish, La., in 1839. She was married to Mr. Needham B Taylor in 1858. Her last residence was at Pilot Point, Denton county, Texas, where she died of pneumonia after a brief but painful illness, June 19, 1879, aged forty two years, three months and ten days. She embraced religion while young, and continued faithfully to observe her religious obligations to the time of her death. She leaves a kind husband and seven loving children to mourn her loss. Her membership was with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which she dearly loved. She has indeed removed to the church above. May those she loved profit by her godly example, and prepare to meet her in heaven.

T. F. C.

IT was Sabbath morning, October 12, 1879, that our dear little friend, Robert, son of Rev. J. W. McNeil, was taken from earth to heaven. He was scarcely eleven years old. For one of his age he was prayerful, obedient, and remarkably industrious and useful to his parents. His kind and obliging manners toward his brothers and sisters attached them strongly to him. They do and will sorely miss him, but they have learned to say: "The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away, and blessed be the name of the Lord." They know that Robert is and forever will be happy with Him who said: "Suffer little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

J. L. FORSYTH.

MATILDA LOUZENIA SIRMON was born February 24, 1867, in Caldwell parish, La., and died in the same parish, at her father's home October 5, 1879.

She was a good and obedient child, gave her teacher and parents no trouble in any way. At our last protracted meeting at Pleasant Grove she was a penitent at the altar for prayers. She loved the sabbath-school, and at the time of her death had two unrecited lessons on hand. She bore her last illness with fortitude, and evinced no fear of death. Her parents and friends have good hope of meeting her in the better world.

R. T. PARTEN, P. C.

DIED, in Shubuta, of malarial fever, Bessie, infant daughter of Rev. J. M. and S. G. Wells. Endowed with an intelligence which gave promise of future usefulness. It is no wonder that our hearts were made to feel deep sorrow, when on the 29th of September the good Shepherd took her to Himself. An achblu void has been made, but sometimes will open this heart in the spirit world. Let this church and every parent pray that the parent may learn about their sins and heaven until.

AUNT SALLIE.

DIED, in Shubuta, of malarial fever, Bessie, infant daughter of Rev. J. M. and S. G. Wells. Endowed with an intelligence which gave promise of future usefulness. It is no wonder that our hearts were made to feel deep sorrow, when on the 29th of September the good Shepherd took her to Himself. An achblu void has been made, but sometimes will open this heart in the spirit world. Let this church and every parent pray that the parent may learn about their sins and heaven until.

AUNT SALLIE.

IT was Sabbath morning, October 12, 1879, that our dear little friend, Robert, son of Rev. J. W. McNeil, was taken from earth to heaven. He was scarcely eleven years old. For one of his age he was prayerful, obedient, and remarkably industrious and useful to his parents. His kind and obliging manners toward his brothers and sisters attached them strongly to him. They do and will sorely miss him, but they have learned to say: "The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away, and blessed be the name of the Lord." They know that Robert is and forever will be happy with Him who said: "Suffer little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

J. L. FORSYTH.

MATILDA LOUZENIA SIRMON was born February 24, 1867, in Caldwell parish, La., and died in the same parish, at her father's home October 5, 1879.

She was a good and obedient child, gave her teacher and parents no trouble in any way. At our last protracted meeting at Pleasant Grove she was a penitent at the altar for prayers. She loved the sabbath-school, and at the time of her death had two unrecited lessons on hand. She bore her last illness with fortitude, and evinced no fear of death. Her parents and friends have good hope of meeting her in the better world.

R. T. PARTEN, P. C.

DIED, in Shubuta, of malarial fever, Bessie, infant daughter of Rev. J. M. and S. G. Wells. Endowed with an intelligence which gave promise of future usefulness. It is no wonder that our hearts were made to feel deep sorrow, when on the 29th of September the good Shepherd took her to Himself. An achblu void has been made, but sometimes will open this heart in the spirit world. Let this church and every parent pray that the parent may learn about their sins and heaven until.

AUNT SALLIE.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1879.

BEGIN WITH GOD.

BY BONAR.

Begin the day with God!
He is thy sun and day;
He is the radiance of thy dawn,
To Him address thy lay.

Sing thy first song to God!
Not to thy fellow-man;
Not to the creatures of His hand,
But to the Glorious One.

Awake, cold lips, and sing!
Arise, dull knees, and pray;
Lift up, O man, thy heart and eyes;
Brush slothfulness away.

Look up beyond these clouds!
Thither thy pathway lies;
Mount up, away and linger not,
The goal is yonder skies.

Cast every weight aside!
Do battle with each sin;
Fight with the faithless world without,
The faithless heart within.

Take thy first meal with God!
He is thy heavenly food;
Feed with and on Him; He with thee
Will feast in brotherhood.

Take thy first walk with God!
Let Him go forth with thee;
By stream or sea or mountain path,
Seek still His company.

Thy first transaction be
With God Himself above;
So shall thy business prosper well,
And all thy day be love.

Laura Bridgman.

The name of this celebrated mute is world-renowned. One who visited her some months since thus pleasantly describes her in the Cincinnati Enquirer:

At a recent visit to Perkins' Institute I was indebted to the kindness of Mrs. C. for the pleasure and privilege of seeing Miss Laura Bridgman, the well-known pupil of Dr. Howe. The Institute is in south Boston, not far from "Dorchester Heights." It stands on an elevation commanding a fine view of that glorious "Boston harbor," and we feel very sorry for the poor little folks who crowd around us, and who cannot see, never have seen, the bright, dancing waves. We wonder if they really do wish to see it all, as we are confident we should wish were we in their places. If such is the case, then it can be but a temporary longing, as it leaves no discontent on the happy little faces. We were admitted to the Institute by a very pretty blind girl, with long, curly hair and dark eyes, and who was about seventeen years old. She ushered us into a cosy little parlor, and after a short conversation, during which she was entirely at her ease, conversing in a subdued, ladylike tone, she very kindly sang for us. The song was a plaintive little ballad, and her voice was a pure, sweet contralto, pretty fairly cultivated. We thanked her very sincerely, and, at the request of Mrs. C., she went to announce us to Laura, the bright particular star of the Institute. In a few minutes a lady dressed in gray, and wearing spectacles, quietly glided into the room, and it was hard to believe that this self-possessed person was in any way different from ourselves. Laura Bridgman was born in New Hampshire, in 1829, and, though now over forty-eight, she appears about thirty-five years old. As a baby she was bright and healthy, but disease left her at four years of age in a most pitiable condition, both blind, deaf and dumb. In the words of Dr. Howe, "the darkness and the silence of the tomb were round her," and we are incapable of fully realizing her dreadful condition at that time.

Can we imagine a being more totally dead to all external influences, or a more hopeless task than her education? In 1837 Dr. Howe, having seen and examined Laura, finding her well formed, of a nervous sanguine temperament, and possessing a remarkably well-shaped head, brought her to Boston, his great heart full of the idea of educating her. After unceasing efforts, which we recount in a few minutes, but which occupied months, he at last made her comprehend his purpose. Like all blind children she was taught by giving her objects to feel, and then the letters which spelled the names. That she understood quickly was evinced by her laying the words by the proper objects. Dr. Howe writes: "At this stage her mind began to work;" and she understood that a way was being opened by which she could communicate the thoughts of her own mind to another, and thus find companionship in the strange world around her. To tell of her future progress from that time would require too much space, but that Dr. Howe was untiring in his work, which was crowned with success, the woman herself is a proof.

Laura is about medium height and very slender, with small, delicate hands and feet. Her face was pleasant and happy-looking, but at the same time had an expression of busy thought, which impressed me from its rarity among ladies nowadays. When she came into the room she threw her arms around Mrs. C., whom she already loves, and would not be persuaded to leave her side for a moment. The blind girl then put her hand in both of Laura's, and by signs, which were read with wonderful rapidity and accuracy, I was introduced as a friend of Mrs. C.'s, who was "desirous of knowing Laura Bridgman, of whom so much had been said and written." Woman-like, she was immensely pleased with this bit of flattery, and signified a desire to make my acquaintance through the medium of her morning finger lips, with which I tremblingly complied, as she is quick and unceremonious in her likes and dislikes. Fortunately, I found favor in her "mind's eye," but not on my own personal merit. Woman-like, again, she loves flattery, and one clothed in "purple and fine linen" is sure to command her unbounded admiration.

Her expression was very dubious, as her hands wandered slowly over my face and shoulders, and she looked a little undecided as to the merits of the case, until her fingers touched my silk sleeves, which suddenly turned the scale in my favor.

Her face became radiant, she threw up her hands, swayed gracefully to and fro, making a little, delighted sound, seized the hands of the attendant, and telegraphed quickly that she thought "Mrs. C.'s friend was fine—very fine."

In this connection was told me a very funny story of her.

One day a very fashionable friend of Mrs. C., who was to sail to Europe the next, expressed a desire to see Laura, which was acceded to, but when dressed for the call the lady suddenly discovered that only a pair of lisle-thread gloves were at her disposal, the "best" ones being safely packed up. She was in despair, but it was suggested that the poor little inmates of the Institution would hardly be critical in such a matter, so she ventured to wear them.

After the introduction Laura's fingers lightly touched the lady's dress, and she nodded approvingly at the soft velvet with which her fingers came in contact, but when she reached the gloves they proved even too much for her. A moment she hesitated, looking perplexed, and then broke into a merry laugh. Being questioned, she owned that she was laughing at the idea of "wearing a velvet dress and cotton gloves!" When it was explained she was deeply penitent, and, with an odd little courtesy, begged again and again that the lady would pardon her rudeness. At my request Laura brought some of her work for my inspection, and how she ever made the little lace tie now in my possession is a mystery to me. It is of fine white thread, perfect in every part, and compares favorably with specimens I have seen made by people who have the use of their two eyes and who were not deaf to instruction either.

The money which was given Laura for her work exceeded the price of the article, and I wondered how she would know; but without a moment's hesitation she telegraphed that she "would go for the change," which she did, and always does do, without assistance.

She showed me a jeweled ring which Madame Sontag had given her, and of which she was very proud. Laura conducted us into a bright, airy school-room, full of little girls seated at their desks, busily sewing, all of them blind, and many of them deaf and dumb. Do you think it was a pitiful sight? Not a bit of it. Their faces were bright and happy, looking eager to learn and deeply interested in their tasks. It was impossible to realize that these children were in any way different from others, and that they truly could not see, hear or speak. Some little wee ones were laughing softly over a joke, hidden from the grown folks, and perhaps at their expense, but which tickled the youngsters immensely, and made me long to know what it was all about and laugh with them. So cheery everything looked, so bright, so homelike. Why, it would shame any other children's school I ever saw, and lots of naughty little folks I know, who must learn, would find in this case something to cry for when the A, B, C's have to be studied without any eyes. Many of the children were very pretty, and I regretted exceedingly having missed an exhibition which was given in the morning. Laura procured a needle, and, placing the eye against the tip of the tongue, passed the thread through, caught it in her fingers and in a twinkling presented it to us threaded. This she did several times with pleased at our admiration. Then calling a little girl to her, she took a handkerchief, turned the hem neatly, hemmed a few stitches, took the little hand in hers and inserted it in the hemming process showing us that she was capable of teaching even as she had been taught.

She reads rapidly by means of raised letters, and she gave me her autograph, printed in distinct, well-shaped letters, and all in an even line. How did she do it? And how did she ever learn? Are her fingers all nerves, in compensation, that she is able to distinguish even a lead pencil mark? Her sense of taste is greatly impaired, and that of smell totally destroyed. She is happy and contented teaching to-day to-day, and learning new things always.

Dr. Howe will have one very bright star to shine in his crown, that's evident. This one work of a lifetime almost compels me to honor him. Hardly any other man but Dr. Howe would have deemed the experiment of her education worth the trying. A child of four years has not learned much in any case, but in her sickly condition even that little was an impossibility.

The first ray of hope which penetrated her mind she grasped eagerly, and by the untiring perseverance of her instructor the light became brighter, stronger and clearer, until to-day we see the result—a woman strong for herself and others. We marvel at sculptors who free the angel from the block of marble, but who of them has called into action the slumbering intellect of their creation, surely deeper buried than was that of Laura Bridgman, or endowed them with the powers of seeing, hearing or speaking? When the death of her benefactor was communicated to Laura her grief was excessive, and they feared for the effect on her mind. But the work of the good man was preserved in all its completeness.

On our departure Laura accompanied us to the door of the school-room and bade us good-by, begging us to "come again."

A Christian, when he makes a good profession, should be sure to make his profession good. It is sad to see many walk in the dark themselves, who carry a bright light for others. The whole congregation of a pagan is benighted, and the smile on the face of a converted heathen is a counterfeit.

Religious Intelligence.

—The British Society for the Propagation of the Gospel has made arrangements for the construction of an English Church in the city of Rome. A session is made to the society of between eleven and twelve hundred square metres of ground within the walls in exchange for the site outside the Porta del Popolo now occupied by the building wherein the English Church service has been celebrated since 1818, and against which Cardinal Wiseman, halting for a moment on leaving Rome, delivered a famous anathema. The new site is said to be the best one, all things considered, that could have been chosen, since with a church built by the English on the spot, and the church already erected by the Americans at the further end of the Via Nazionale, the Anglican Church will possess a place of worship at both extremities of the area along which her people are scattered; and, if the clergymen work well together, each may more or less gather within its walls the members of the Anglican Church nearest to it, without regard to nationality, and with much increase of good Christian feeling. At the same there is, midway in the Piazza San Silvestro, the building called Trinity Church, erected some six years ago for the use of the more evangelical members of the Church of England.

—The General Conference of the American Wesleyan Connection, a small body of not more than 20 000 members, is in session at Pittsford, Mich. The church was formed in 1813 by a secession from the Methodist Episcopal Church and on a distinctively anti-slavery platform. Seventeen Annual Conferences send clerical and lay delegates to the General Conference, which meets quadrennially. The Rev. N. Wardner, of the Champlain Conference, was elected president. The denomination is most strenuously opposed to all secret societies and especially hostile to the Masonic fraternity. The General Conference resolved that no minister should be introduced to it who had any connection with the awful order; so when the credentials of the Rev. T. H. Linch were read as fraternal delegate from the Methodist Episcopal Church, the president ruled that, as Mr. Linch was an adhering Free Mason, his introduction must be deferred. The Conference is making a thorough revisal of the Discipline, which will be much reduced.—Independent, October 3.

—The annual report of the Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church of this country shows an income for the foreign work of $148,502 81, of which $79,136 was contributed by 1 163 parishes, while $48,421 18 was received from miscellaneous sources, $16 984 86 from legacies, and $3 760 80 from interest on funds invested. The expenditures for the year have amounted to $168 949 44, leaving $20 346 60 to be placed to the account of treasury overdrawn. The notable events of the year have been the completion and opening of the schools at Cape Mount, Africa, at an expense of about $20 0000; the acquirement of the estate known as Jessfield, in the vicinity of Shanghai, upon which the proposed college of St. John, with other educational institutions and missionary residences, is to be erected, and the laying of the corner-stone for the college, and the consecration of the Rev. Henry C. Riley as Bishop of Mexico.

—If anybody supposes that converts to Christianity in pagan lands are all intellectual weaklings, he makes a great mistake. But there are but few who will not be surprised at the character of the books ordered recently from the rooms of the American Board, in Boston, by the recent graduates of the Board's Training School in Kioto, Japan. Here is the list: "The Reign of Law," Duke of Argyll; Marsh's "Man and Nature;" "Lessons from Nature," St. George Mivart; Butler's "Analogy;" Porter's "Human Intellect," two copies; Butler's Sermons; Hamilton's "Metaphysics," two copies; Abbott's "Napoleon;" Knox's "Cruise of the Portsmouth;" McCosh's "Intuitions of Mind;" Hopkins's "Outline Study of Man;" McCosh's "Divine Government." Pretty strong meat this, as the Missionary Herald suggests.

—Metlakatla, in British Columbia, is lighted with street lamps presented to Mr. Duncan by Admiral Prevost. Thinks the missionary who, a little more than twenty years ago, was introduced to his work at Fort Simpson, by the spectacle of wild medicine men tearing and eating the exhumed bodies of men and dogs. The prosperous missionary colony has become the mother of colonies.

—It is proposed to raise for Dr. J. Cumming, the celebrated Scotch preacher in London, who has attracted wide attention in this country by his advocacy of the second coming of Christ, a sum of money sufficient to secure him an annuity of from $1 500 to $2,500 during the remainder of his life.

—Plymouth Church, Chicago, Ill., has recently paid off the whole of its indebtedness, amounting to $60,000. The pastor and a few leading members undertook to secure pledges for the payment of the debt and the subscriptions ranged from $1 to $10,000, all being made on condition that the whole amount should be raised.

—The total amount of donations to the A. B. C. F. M., acknowledged in the Missionary Herald the past twelve months is $283 627 35; legacies, $221,629 37. Total, $511,117 89. This includes $167,015 95 from the Otis legacy. But for this, there would have been a troublesome deficit for the year.

—India has 115 000 scholars in mission schools, and 1,600 pupils who have passed the entrance university examination. The London Missionary Society has 590 and the English Wesleyans 1,697 schools in the South Seas. It is estimated that there are 12,000 mission schools in the world containing at least 400,000 pupils.

The Chinese in the Sandwich Islands have sent a contribution of $100 to the Basle Mission in Hong Kong, as a thank-offering for an active and faithful missionary sent them some time since. Accompanying the gift was a graceful and truly Christian letter signed by all the subscribers.

—A Christian Church has lately been built on a hill near Jabra, India, by native Christian masons, carpenters and other artisans, and these workmen were originally thieves by profession. In consequence of having become Christians, they have not only forsaken their evil ways, but learned their trades. This good work is mainly the fruit of Mr. Nayan Sheshardi's labors.

—The Jesuits in France point out that the number of pilgrims to the wonder-working grotto at Lourdes is double what it was last year, and hint that this is a pious revulsion from the iniquities of the Jules Ferry education bill.

—Mr. Hanson, who is laboring for the Society of Friends in the Scandinavian states, reports that he has left the society much better organized in Norway than he found it, and has introduced it to places where it did not exist.

—Another good report from Chiua: The Rev. Mr. Innocent, of the Methodist New Connection Mission, writing home, reports satisfactorily of most of the stations, and speaks of other missionary societies, working in the same field as "having most delightful success."

—The four largest Presbyterian Churches in this country are: Dr. Cuyler's, Brooklyn, with 1,685 members; Dr. Talmage's, Brooklyn, with 1,658; Dr. Tucker's, New York, with 1 600; and Dr. Hall's, New York, with 1,570.

—The Conference of the Evangelical Methodist Church of France and Switzerland was held recently at Lausanne, after an interval of nine years. The presence of Dr. Punshon and the admission of lay delegates for the first time made the session a memorable one.

—The July reports of the California Congregational Chinese Mission show a membership of 554. Nineteen teachers are in service, five of whom are Chinese missionary helpers. A large number of teachers are volunteers.

—The Spanish government has repudiated the action of the governor of the Island of Fernando Po in banishing a Primitive Methodist missionary, the Rev. W. Holland, and has permitted Mr. Holland to return and resume his labors.

—The Friends' Foreign Mission Committee are calling for more missionaries for Madagascar. The more natives they are able to employ in the mission field, the more need they say there is for European Christians to superintend the work.

—The amount subscribed to the fund for Dr. Cummiug, who has just resigned the pastorate of Crown Court Church, is about $7 500. It is hoped that about $20,000 may be raised.

—The American Board will get for its foreign missions almost $1,000 000 from the estate of the late Deacon Otis, instead of about $500 000, as was at first supposed to be the value of the bequest.

—The Free Will Baptists are put down in their register for 1879 at 75,686 members. Nearly half of their denominational strength is found in the New England States.

—The Pope's fete day was marked by the laying of the corner stone of a new church, situated on the furthest extremity of the Equiline and to be dedicated to the Sacred Heart.

—The Duke of Norfolk, the richest and most influential Roman Catholic peer of England, is building a Roman Catholic Church on his Sheffield estate which will cost $60,000.

—Theebaw, the new King of Burmah, was educated by an English missionary, and has chosen for his prime minister a man who has visited both England and France.

—The Russian Holy Synod has appropriated $37,500 to enlarge its Japanese mission. The Greek faith is making some progress in Japan, according to the reports of the Greek missionaries.

—The Union Theological Seminary of New York has $200 000 in buildings and grounds, $750 000 in invested funds, an income of $50,000 per annum.

—The year 1880 will complete a semi-millennium of the English Bible, the translation of the New Testament by Wiclif having been issued in 1380.

—Bishop Colenzo's voluminous work on the Pentateuch, the publication of which was begun seventeen years ago, has just been completed by the issue of the concluding volume.

—An Anglican Bishopric has been formed in Bermuda, of which, for the present, the Bishop of Newfoundland will be episcopal administrator.

—The Reformed Church (Dutch) is desirous of having a lectureship of missions established in its theological seminary at New Brunswick.

—The native churches of the American Board in Ceylon contributed last year $2 790 47, an average of $3 15 for each member.

—The income of the Moravian Missionary Society the past year amounted to $84 546, of which $10,807 came from North America.

—Of the 559 congregations composing the Irish Presbyterian Church, all but seventy-two are in the province of Ulster.

—There are 940 professors in the nine universities of Prussia. Of these 82 teach Protestant and 21 Catholic theology.

—The seventy-second General Conference of the New Jerusalem Church has just been held in London.

—From the various seminaries of the Missouri Lutherans seventy-three men entered the ministry last year.

—Father Hyacinthe has now gathered six hundred subscribing adherents to his new church in Paris.

—The French government has for the present interdicted all Methodist work among the soldiers in Paris.

Our Young People.

A BOY'S REMONSTRANCE.

I am feeling very badly; everything is going to smash;
All the things I have believed in are going with a crash;
The folks are growing learned, and all their wretched lore is Used to shake a fellow's faith in his best-beloved stories.
The fairies have been scattered, and the gnomes they have gone,
There are no enchanted castles; they have vanished, every one.
Aladdin never lived, and the dear Scheherazade,
Though very entertaining, was a much mistaken lady.
Of course I see through Santa Claus, I had to long ago;
And Christmas will be going, the next thing that I know.
For I heard, I wasn't listening—I heard the professor say,
He had really—yes had really—gave doubts about the day.
And as for Master Washington, they say the goose should catch it,
Who believed a single minute in that story of the hatchet.
They've given a rap at Crusoe, and dear old Friday. Why!
We'll all believed in Friday, we boys will till we die!
They may say it's not "authentic," and such like if they dare!
When they strike a blow at Friday, they hit us boys. So there!
And I've been reading in a book, writ by some college swell,
That there never was a genuine, a real live William Tell!
That he was just a myth, or what we boys would call a sell!
That he didn't shoot the apple, nor Gesler, not a bit.
That all the other nations have a legend just like it.
I think it's little business for a college man to fight Against these dear old stories and send them out of sight.
And all the boys are just as mad and so the girls are; too;
And so we called a meeting to decide what we should do.
And we passed some resolutions, because that is the one
And only way for meetings, when it's all that can be done.
I send you here a list:

Resolved, that there was a William Tell
That by his bow and arrow the tyrant Gesler fell.
Resolved that he was not a myth, whatever that may be—
That that he shot the apple and Switzerland was free.
Resolved, that Crusoe lived, and Friday; and the goat.
Resolved that little George by his father's fruit-tree note,
And owned up like a hero. Resolved, that all the science
Of all the learned professors shall not shake our firm reliance
In the parties we have mentioned, and we do, merely make known
The fact that we boys feel that we have some rights of our own—
And request that in the future these rights be left alone.

St. Nicholas.

From Our Little Friends.

KENNOTH, WILCOX CO., ALA., October 18, 1879.

DEAR MR. EDITOR: I am a little girl living out in the country with my auntie. I was living with two aunties, who have been taking the dear old CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE ever since I could remember. Last June was a year ago it so pleased God to take from our midst my much-beloved auntie. She was sick for nearly a year, before she was taken to rest. It left my other auntie and me very lonely; but the good old ADVOCATE is always a welcome visitor. In it we can read of so many good meetings, and the dear young folks' department. We have a very good pastor by the name of Mr. Shores. I am not going to school this session on account of leaving auntie so lonely. She has tried to keep me at school until this session, but I have not been deprived of the privilege of going to Sabbath-school and preaching, and I hope it won't be long before I can go to school. There is a very good one at Kelloth, three miles off, which I would like very much to attend; but I must close. From your little friend,

WILLIE H. GILL.

CAMDEN, MISS., Oct. 25, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: We have a small Sabbath-school here. Our superintendent is quite punctual. We shall sadly miss him, as he is speaking about leaving us next year.

I am desirous of some one telling me where to find, in the Bible, the genealogy of Mary, the mother of Christ, in which to prove she was of the house and lineage of David.

In St. Matthew and St. Luke there are two genealogies of Christ, but neither is the genealogy of Mary, but of Joseph, Mary's husband; neither do these genealogies agree.

Your little friend,

WALTER C. BENNETT.

Mama here sends $1 in part payment for her paper. Will soon send the other dollar.

W. C. B.

Capture of Bottle-Nosed Whales.

A movement is seen among the whales, dark forms disappear and presently emerge again; they move slowly at first, then increasing their speed, rush in a foaming crowd towards the shore. We follow at our utmost speed, regardless of the fish! pause, feeling perhaps, by instinct, that they are getting into shoal water; they hurl, seem to deliberate, and select the weakest spot for a charge; our speed is slackened, and all prepare for the struggle.

After a moment's pause, headed by the largest of the herd, they rush at my boat, which happened to be in the center of the line. On they come, raising a wall of foam, behind which are dimly seen arched backs and agitated fins; we shout, fire our guns, throw stones, and dash the oars in the water. They hesitate; a few plunge under the boat; I feel their backs scrape against the keel, as we are thrown over and half filled with water; the next is received with a blow of an axe from a gigantic fisherman; terrified and spouting blood, the whale rushes back into the herd, and heads for the shore in his blind agony.

We redouble our exertions, and the fish finally yielding, follow their wounded companion, and fling themselves on the shore, where they lie wallowing in the shallow water. With a cry of triumph, borne back from the women who stood on the cliff, dancing and waving their arms in delight at the prospect of an abundant winter supply of food, all the boats rowed for the shore, each striving to be first to commence the fight. With a final cheer, the men drove the boats in among the fish; leaped out, and began to strike right and left.

I gave up the lance, and attacked the nearest with my long hunting-knife; seizing hold of the monster's fin, in spite of its struggles I plunged the knife repeatedly into its heart. Its exertions and plunges were incessant, frequently lifting me off my feet, and throwing me under water. I managed to hold on, and kept striking till, with a final effort, it turned on its back. The same encounter was going on all about me; with wild cries and noises the men struck and hewed at the whales as if infuriated, regardless of bruises and the waves which swept over them every moment. While recovering my breath, and looking out for another foe, I received a tremendous blow from the tail of one behind me; I was stunned for a moment, and on recovering found I had been placed in one of the boats.

Quite satisfied with my exertions, I sat in the boat and watched the strange combat, already closing, as the poor stupid fish, ignorant of their strength, fell easy victims to their determined enemies. The sight was strange and striking; the cloudless sun was shining on the waves of the bay, blue, except over a large patch, many yards in extent, dyed red with blood. Each wave showed a streak of crimson as it washed over the glistening bodies, rejoicing that it could insult the strange forms that had lately swam lords of the deep. Behind a narrow beach rose the steep cliff, down which were running the women and children, their shrill cries rising above the shouts of the men and roar of the waves. Gradually the tumult ceased, except where a whale in the last throes wrapped himself in a cloud of bloody spray, and deluged the men who stood watching for another blow.

When all were killed the men dragged the boats on shore and stretched themselves on the sand to laugh and recount their exploits; some were severely bruised by blows from the flus of the fish, but all was forgotten as they talked of the value of the oil and the prospect of a comfortable winter. Ropes were brought, and the work of securing the captured commenced; each fish had to be dragged above high-tide mark, a work of no little labor, as many of the fish required the united efforts of thirty men before they could be moved.

With song and shouts they tugged and pulled, and gradually all were placed so that the waves could not reach them. Women and children lent their aid, and shouts of laughter were heard on all sides as some rope slipped or broke and sent the long line sprawling on their backs. At last we could rest and count the dead; we found that one hundred and ten fish represented a good day's work.—St. James's Magazine.

GOOD CHILDREN DO NOT ALWAYS DIE YOUNG.—Billy Marsh was a dear little English boy, only four years old. He was a beautiful child, and so loving and kind that he was a great favorite with his brothers and sisters, to whom he would give his most cherished playthings, rather than that they should quarrel among themselves. One day, for some small fault, his nurse shut him up in a store-room, and left him there until long after his early dinner hour. She had wholly forgotten the dishes of apples, oranges and cakes, were standing there within his reach ready for the dessert. When she went for him, she saw through the window, the hungry little boy gazing at the tempting dishes by turns, with his small hands firmly clasped behind him, and heard him saying to himself over and over again, "Billy must not touch them, Billy must not touch them, they are not Billy's own."

"Well," I suppose he cried soon after," said Charley, who had listened with great interest to this story.

"Why, no indeed he did not; he grew up to be one of the very best men in the world," said mamma. "What made you think he died?"

"Why, because all good little children die young. The Sunday-school library is full of books about them. I don't want to die, so I shall not begin to be good yet."

"Indeed, if you had read more, you would find that more good children grow up than die, only when they live to grow up, no book is written about them. We are only told about the few that die.

Billy Marsh learned to love the Bible when he was a little boy, so that his brothers and sisters called him "Bible-Billy;" and when he was grown up he became a minister, and was the Rev. William Marsh, of England. Boys and girls loved him, and loved to hear him talk about the Bible, for like Timothy, he had known it from his childhood. He said that when he first began to read it every day, it was hard to him, but he persevered and soon came to love it. Some dear friends who came to see him a short time before he died, found him so absorbed in reading it, that they stood beside him some moments before he observed them. He was nearly ninety years old when he died; and he was always glad that he began to love the Saviour in his childhood.—Child's Paper.

The Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES OF THE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1879.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

OFFICE.—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Christian Fidelity and Worldly Success.

Worldly success may not be made the reason of fidelity to Christ. There may be gain in godliness, but motives springing out of this consideration alone would lead only to a sham godliness. Religious principle has its root in right, and in an expediency that takes in the spiritual and eternal welfare. Ordinarily, however, it is true that the man who serves God faithfully is doing that which is best for him in this world. It is not an uncommon thing to see men, especially young men, throwing off the restraints of religion, and neglecting their duties to the church, while over busy in pushing their temporal fortunes. There was a time when they were active and devoted members, when the claims of the Sabbath-school, and the social and official meetings, were carefully met. But the engrossments of business, and the ambitious desire for world'y success, have brought them by degrees to separate themselves more and more from active participation in religious affairs. The result is almost uniformly disastrous to their temporal interests, and utterly ruinous spiritually. They lose the world and their souls. God's blessing has been withdrawn from their industry, and they are adrift with neither earthly prosperity nor spiritual comfort.

Sometimes this course is one of deliberate choice between what is supposed to be the opposing interests of religion and business. The time and expense incidental to the former cannot be spared from the latter, and religion and its duties are retired as a matter of necessity. This deliberate and purposed giving up of God and His service from motives of secular expediency is by no means uncommon. The man is a candidate for office, he is embarking upon a business that requires special attention, or he is entering upon a profession that calls for all his strength. As between Christ on the one hand, and business on the other, his decision is made. Leaving his religion behind him, he goes out into the world with but one purpose, and that is business success. In some instances this may be achieved according to the worldly standard, but it is at the expense of the soul whose redemption is precious. More commonly, however, the history of such cases reveals the wreck of character, and also of fortune, in the end. Along with prosperity have come the inroads of vices, and these have eaten up and squandered the fruits of toil.

Or, in some form from without, has come blow after blow of reverses, leaving him as bare of self as of grace. The numbers are not few of those who have come to poverty and broken health through their desertion of God. Their life-failure is due to their religious unfaithfulness. If they had held fast to their religion, to the class meeting, family prayer, and their active work in the church, they would have prospered fairly in temporal things. The young man who breaks off from the church, and turns his back upon Christ with the purpose of bettering his fortunes, is making the saddest mistake of his life. The only business successes worth having, that we have ever known, were of those who lived exemplary Christian lives, and with whom the kingdom of God was always first. In nearly every community there are some illustrations of this union of Christian fidelity and worldly success, in which the beauty of righteousness is as conspicuous as the energy and wisdom upon which the crown of prosperity rests. The noblest of characters is that in which spiritual fervor and zeal are associated with consecrated fortune.

While religious faithfulness is with many the only sure ground of success, it is certain that it is no hinderance in any. The time and money given to the service of God are the best investment that can be made, and can never interfere with any laudable and honest pursuit. There are church neglecters, and those who plead lack of time to attend to their church duties, who yet have time and money for the demands of style and fashion. Some of the busiest and most prosperous men we have been acquainted with always found time to attend the official and social meetings of the church. The real cause of negligence is in the loss of religious interest. Actual success, and the engrossing desire to attain it, have robbed the soul of the love of Christ, and stripped it of every vestige of spirituality. Christian fidelity could in no wise lessen the business man's prosperity; it could, in nothing essential, decrease his gains. The alarming fact is he has lost his interest in Christ, and his connection with the church is a nominal tie, in which not a strand or fiber of heart remains.

It is a lamentable fact that business success often seems to destroy the spiritual vitality. At a time when men have the means of doing most for the church they lose the disposition to give personal attention to her service. From being good working stewards, and delighted frequenters of the prayer-meeting, they become merely Sunday morning worshipers, and moderate financial contributors, or they fall off altogether. We heartily wish this class of men could be waked up to a due sense of their peril and responsibility. The Lord has need of them, the church languishes for want of their earnest devotion, and they are themselves drifting to destruction. With the means of indulgence in worldly gratifications their families are gradually losing their interest in the church, and becoming alienated from the simplicity of Methodism. The children especially are wandering from the altars of their parents, and are becoming wholly absorbed in the giddy whirl of fashionable pleasure. Why should the children of Methodists, who have succeeded in making money, turn out mere worldlings, or gravitate into churches of more outward style and a looser discipline? It is doubtless a hard thing for those who have riches to enter the kingdom of heaven, but has there been Christian fidelity on the part of the parents?

Christian fidelity and worldly success have these two striking aspects: Success forfeited by unfaithfulness, and unfaithfulness engendered by success. The two have this ground in common that Christ is denied, and that the loss of the soul is the final and fearful catastrophe. For the most part the temporal gain is uncertain and illusive, the spiritual sacrifice inevitable and eternal.

Revival Season.

In the South the revival season is in the summer and fall; in the North the winter is spoken of as the revival season. The time when outward conditions are most favorable for special services is the time when the greatest results are looked for. The limitation, if there be any, is on the human side. With God, who giveth the increase, it can make no difference. He is ready to save at all seasons; but, as He works in connection with the church and its instrumentalities, the flood tide of grace comes when there is leisure and other favorable conditions for the gathering of the people. Ministers and godly members make special personal preparation for the work by consecrating themselves to God afresh, and by fervent and persistent prayer. These seasons are looked forward to with expectant faith, that at a given time the fire will burn, and that the Holy Spirit will come in converting power. Nor are the devout often disappointed. The work may be of more or less extent, but usually something is done. Refreshing comes upon the church, some sinners are brought to Christ, and there has been a good time.

The matter for reflection in these facts is that we have revivals by our own appointing. This magnifies the instruments, but, in so doing, are we not in danger of limiting God? The mercy of Heaven is not held subject to our civil calendars, it cannot be restrained by the position of the earth in its orbit, nor regulated in its bestowal, by circumstances of barometrical pressure. We believe fully in these special efforts to save souls, but the danger lies in overlooking the ordinary means of grace. If Christians would come to every service with this expectant faith, with this thorough preparation of heart, and with this deep concern for souls, and if preachers would preach to awaken and save on all Sundays of the year, could we not have a revival season, or something as good, nearly all the time? And, then, in this gracious spiritual state there would come frequent revivals of a more genuine and deeper sort than we sometimes have at protracted meetings appointed in an arbitrary way.

Instead of looking for conversions under the stated preaching, and in the weekly prayer meeting, the bad habit is fostered of aiming at the conversion of souls at one time, and that but once a year. Is it not possible for a church to be kept in such a state of spirituality that there shall be a uniformly flowing stream instead of an annual freshet? It is not so in fact, except in a comparatively few instances, but if faith and effort can command a revival season, may they not, also, secure a measure of this power for all seasons? There is as much of the intermittent and of periodicity about the life and work of some churches as there is in taking off a sugar crop. For a couple of months, more or less, the sugar house is enveloped in steam and smoke, the fires are kept hot night and day, and the stream of saccharine flows as a river from the huge rollers. Everybody is busy, and the sugar-house is filled with roar and commotion. But the work is shortly done, and for the balance of the year the machinery rusts in idleness, and the great building is as silent as the grave.

The spiritual rolling season surely ought not to be followed by rust and inaction, and the quiet of death. There were four months to the natural harvest, but the Master's words were: 'Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; for they are white already to harvest.' Between what are called revival seasons sinners are perishing, Christians are backsliding, and the fruits of the revival itself are being scattered. Let us have protracted meetings, revivals once a year, if we can, but let us also try to have a good, lively, spiritual church all the time. We are not sure that God, in His dealing with souls, waits for the revival season. The cumberers of the ground are being cut down all along through the year, the Holy Spirit is striving with souls, and the gospel message is: "Behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation." In accepting and using what has proved a means of many conversions let us guard against a possible damage to our faith, and our habitual spiritual life.

Evangelical Alliance at St. Louis.

BY W. V. TUDOR, D. D.

The third biennial convention of the Evangelical Alliance of the United States met in a two days' session in this city last week. No delegates were present from south of Kentucky and Arkansas, and besides these States, only New York, Connecticut, Iowa, Ohio, Illinois and Missouri were represented. The occasion was interesting, however, and calculated to foster the genuine unity of the church of Christ. After an appropriate address of welcome to our visitors, delivered on the first evening, by Rev. M. Rhodes, president of our local alliance, the Rev. Dr. Chambers, of New York, made response, and coupled therewith an account of the late Conference of the World's Evangelical Alliance, at Basle, from which he had just returned. He described the princely entertainment which the large Conference enjoyed in that city, and gave us a highly entertaining account of the several daily sessions and various meetings in respect of both their intellectual and spiritual aspects and results. I cannot, of course, undertake to reproduce his exceedingly interesting address, but I shall be read in this letter if I give one of his stories in which he related an amusing incident of his own Sunday-school, which one of the most earnest Sunday-school workers in Switzerland gave on the floor of the Conference. How, like children, are children all the world over! The lesson one day was of Jonah and the whale. The children were asked: What animal, told of in the Bible, had the biggest mouth? A little one answered, unexpectedly: The Pharisees. Why? Because they devoured widows' houses. Again, the lesson being of the rich man and Lazarus, the question was: 'Now, children, which one would you rather be like?' A genuine specimen of human nature answered: 'Like the rich man in this world, and like Lazarus in the next.' I tell the tale as it was told to me.

Returning to our occasion, eight papers were read at the successive sessions, distinguished all by thorough preparation and large ability, if one be excepted, as it will appear to all it should be, and which one, when I give the names of the readers, Rush, Woolsey, Craig, Hinsdale, King, Post, Robinson, Tudor, Dr. Rush, Episcopal, of Staten Island, head of Christian unity in a most Catholic spirit. Dr. Woolsey was not present in person, but only by paper, which discussed the Sunday question on its secular side, as sustaining the divine order. Dr. Craig, Presbyterian, of Keokuk, Iowa, showed the province, functions and power of the religious periodical press. Dr. Burroughs, Baptist, of Louisville, drew the first blood of applause, as with mingled fervor and humor he distinguished the essential doctrines of our faith from the non essentials of form and order which chiefly give their names to the denominations, but to some of us it was more amusing than anything he said, to note how grandly he sailed down the broad bay of Christian unity, without ever once touching at points of immersion and close communion. Dr. King, Methodist, of New York, read us a genuine New Yorker's paper on the public schools. Dr. Post, Congregationalist, of our city, gave us an able paper on "The Churches and Social Reform;" and Dr. Stuart Robinson was, as usual, thorough and able in the discussion of his subject, "The Union of Church and State." As to the eighth paper, I would send it to you, Mr. Editor, to judge of it for yourself, but you would be horrified at the closely-printed columns, and perhaps say: "I suppose I am expected to print this for old acquaintance sake, but really I have not the room." Suffice it, therefore, the subject was "City Missions and our Foreign Population," concerning which Dr. Chambers remarked to me, after the reading: "Well, sir, it is a subject which, as concerning our foreign population, we, in New York, do not understand, and have not yet been able to handle in any satisfactory execution." What solution of the problem, therefore, could you expect from me, Mr. Editor? And, seriously, I think it only worth while to mention Dr. Chambers' remark, so as thereby to arrest Christian attention and conscience to an interest and work thus confessed to be but imperfectly understood and inadequately handled in our land, and yet of such vast and vital concern to the social, religious and public life of our country as the evangelization of our immigrant population rolling to our shores in a perpetual tidal wave.

At the farewell meeting of the Alliance on Thursday night one might have been impressed that our great High Priest's prayer had been fulfilled in its real import and power, "that they may be one, even as we are one." There was no extravagance, but a sincere unity, no gush, but love, while there was a hearty response to the sentiment uttered by Dr. King, of New York, that "that man is most to be trusted who loves his own wife and children better than another man's wife and children."

Is it not at last, Mr. Editor, that denominational barriers are, like the apartments that separated the beasts in the ark, able to keep the beast that is in us apart for safe ends, while we sail all together in the same old ship of Zion toward the same "desired haven?"

St. Louis, Nov. 7, '79.

It's a Mistake.

MR EDITOR: I have heard it said that you may always tell the religious proclivities of a family by looking into their book-cases and on their center tables to ascertain what periodicals and books they read. But this is a mistake, at least, so far as too many Methodist families are concerned. Sometimes you find no Methodist periodicals and no Methodist books except it may be a Bible and hymn book. Well enough, as far as they go. But while the religious literature which every Methodist—who intends to be an intelligent Methodist—ought to have is absent, there is a full supply of trashy novels, from the dingy yellow back to the tastefully bound gilt edged volume, while the center table is covered with weeklies, monthlies and quarterlies of fashions and foolishness. Why does not that man get a literature more chaste, pure and edifying for his family to read, something that would make their heads and hearts better in all after life? Why help to pervert their imaginations, and pollute their minds with such foolish fancies, when he could store them with substantial, elevating and useful knowledge, at a much cheaper rate? But, perhaps, in some instances, it is not altogether the fault of Methodist families that they are destitute of Methodist literature. It may be that their pastor, whose duty it is "to see that all the people within the bounds of his charge be duly supplied with our books and periodicals," has failed to tell them where and how our books are to be obtained. A lady who had been in our church, at least ten years, asked me some time ago "if I knew where she could get a Methodist hymn book; that she had been to the stores where they keep such books, but could find no Methodist hymn book." Now I surmise that her pastor had never told his congregations that it was one of his disciplinary duties to supply them "with our books," and that he would "see" that they had any book in our catalogue that they wished to purchase. How strangely things have turned about. In many church enterprises we have advanced, but in some, of prime importance, like the shadow in the dial of Ahaz, we have gone back ten degrees, and in nothing more, in some places, than "supplying the people with our books and periodicals." In 1822 Ebenezer Hearn, then a young man, was on the circuit in which I lived. At his first and second appointments he told the people that he had boxes of our catalogue books deposited at different points on his circuit, which he could sell at New York retail prices, and he would either bring the books to them, or they could call at his places of deposit and supply themselves. He often took the books most in demand to his week-day appointments, where he sold a great many. The commission for selling books was then quite low, but I think he said, at the end of the year, that his commissions amounted to $200, just twice the amount of salary then allowed a single man. Our preachers could benefit themselves as well as thousands of people by selling largely of our books.

J. G. JONES.

Mexico.

THE WORK STILL PROSPERS IN TOLUCA.

MR EDITOR: I wrote for the ADVOCATE a notice of a recent meeting in our church in the city of Toluca, on the occasion of administering the Lord's Supper. The service was interesting and encouraging, both on account of the size of the congregation, in the midst of an extremely fanatical community, and the deep, sincere enthusiasm of the worshipers. Since that time the congregation has grown still larger, and the interest has also increased.

At first we had in our rented house one large room for our worship. Afterward it was necessary to take down a partition wall, and add the length of another room, making our church about fifty feet long. That is now more than full. At the last week-night service there were many standing outside the door who could not get in the room. The sermon of the pastor was excellent, the prayers fervent, and the singing enthusiastic.

But what shall we do for more room? We cannot enlarge our present place of worship except by buying the property, and building a new and better house, which we have not the means to do. Neither can we rent a larger place, for others are even worse fanatics than our present landlady, who is the sister of a Catholic priest, and without any sympathy whatever with us. We can buy where we cannot rent, in this place as well as others, where the growth of our work requires that we have houses of our own. In some important places we could build good churches for four or five hundred dollars, and they are needed very much. We believe that, in answer to prayer, the good Lord who carries on His missionary work will not fail to provide for our necessities in some manner or other. We are thankful for His grace and blessings already bestowed. Our mission has now thirteen preachers at work in twenty-two cities, towns and villages, with the prospect of constant increase, as our resources increase. To the Saviour of the world we give all praise. Pray for us and our work.

Oct. 20, 1879. W. M. PATTERSON.

What Dr. Deems says in Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine about coming to New York applies with nearly equal force to all the large cities. Here in the South, where land is cheap and productive, and where the country invites enterprise and energy, there is no good reason why young men should flock to the cities. They can do much better in the country, live more independently and comfortably in the country, and secure homes and property there. The average of clerks are mere drudges and slaves, working hard for meager salaries, and not one in a hundred ever gets beyond a subordinate and ill paid position. Dr. Deems says:

The fact is, there is no place like a great city in which to achieve a great success, but unless a man have some money, or much brain and great tact, the city will crush him to death. The vast city is attractive. People flock from all quarters. There are ten applicants for every place. There are at least 10,000 adults in New York between whom and starvation there intervene only the helping hand of public and private charity. These people can afford to work for almost nothing. There are boys here whose parents must support them, and are willing that they shall work for a dollar a week rather than do nothing. Strangers must compete with them. Advertise that you want a clerk for $10 a week, and the police will be compelled to guard your door from the throng that will come sweeping up at the hour. Advertise for a boy, and men will come in platoons, sometimes gray-headed men.

There is room enough in New York for men who can hold it, but a man must come prepared to hold his position a long time without help. A great city is great soil to a man who has so much sap that he can live on his sap through a long drouth. But it is a dreadful place to dredge in. Men work for years and do not rise an inch, and then if hard times come, and they are thrown out, there is nothing for them.

If you can get the use of a blind mule and two acres of land, do not come to New York. Do not come without money to bring you and carry you home, and keep you until you go home. If, then, you have a trade or profession, you may succeed. It is no joke to be thrown penniless on a vast city.

DEATH OF DR. LOVICK PIERCE.—Just before closing our forms the news came by telegraph that the venerable Dr. Pierce died at Sparta, Georgia, Monday, November 10. We cannot say that the tidings were altogether unexpected, and yet we had become so accustomed to his rallying from frequent spells of prostration, that it seemed very natural that he should defy the ravages of time almost indefinitely. He had so far passed the ordinary bounds of our mortal years that we came to think of him as invested with an exceptional and almost unlimited lease of life. We had, at any rate, hoped that he would live to celebrate his one hundredth birthday, and thus fill out the round of a century. Dr. Pierce was born March 24, 1783, and was licensed to preach December, 1801. He had been a preacher seventy-five years, and had lived nearly ninety-five years.

Thus has closed the career of one of the most prominent men in American Methodism. In Southern Methodism he was an active participator in the General Conference of 1845, and in the separate organization of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Take him all in all as a preacher, as a counsellor in ecclesiastical affairs, and as a leader, he was a great man in the best sense of that word. Up to near the time of his death he continued to preach, and also to write, with much of his usual force and clearness.

He was an old man when we first met him and heard him preach, now nearly twenty-five years ago. His voice was then strong and well-controlled, but had lost probably something of its earlier flexibility, and the matter of his sermons was doctrinal and experimental. He well understood the force of right words, and he had a wonderful facility in the framing of his sentences so as to express just what he wished in the strongest and happiest way. In his palmy days he was equal to the greatest occasions, and, as a camp meeting preacher, he stood almost unrivaled amidst his giant contemporaries. The remarkable effects of his eloquence are among the traditions of Georgia Methodism, and only people now advanced in years witnessed them. Many of those who knew him in the days of his power regarded him as a greater preacher than his distinguished son, Bishop George F. Pierce.

Dr. Pierce was, first of all, a Methodist and a Georgian, but there were no meets or bounds to the catholicity of his Christian spirit, or his patriotism and benevolence. The doctrine of Christian perfection was specially dear to him, and his pen of late had been much occupied in its statement and defense. His last letter, published but a short time ago, breathed the spirit of humility, of reverence and godly fear, and of hope in Christ, "of insurance rather than assurance," as he expressed it.

Such gifts and such years carry with them a weight of responsibility which it falls to the lot of few to incur. That it was nobly and successfully met we have no doubt. Satisfied with long life, God has now shown him His salvation. Three generations of the world have passed since he was born, and now, at last, he is called to wear the long deferred crown.

Take An Interest In It.

MR. EDITOR: I happen to be at the point where the current of information of the ladies mission work is flowing. It sounds so lively and hope-inspiring that I am moved in this public way to entreat the ladies, girls and children of the Mississippi Conference to take an interest in it. The session is close at hand: the seventeenth of December, in Meridian; yet is there time to gather and label contributions, small and large, for that work, and forward by the preacher in charge, or the presiding elder, or the lay-member, if in your neighborhood, or Mrs. DeMoss McGalloway, of Vicksburg, or Miss Annie E. Linfield, of Hazelhurst. I hope those who have never felt an interest in the missionary enterprise will now join in the undertaking, under auspices of Southern ladies. I never heard Southern women talk better to a purpose, and evince more resolution and hope, than their papers and letters breathe, in this cause that proves so warming to their solicitude, and compacting toward a strong, social union. They do not propose competition, but to take in hand the part of the foreign missionary work that falls from civil regulations and social conditions to their lot. Give them the speed of Mississippi's benevolence and hearty approval.

W. E. M. LINFIELD.

Amazed.

One of our leading preachers and pastors writes:

I am amazed at your complaint of the circulation of the ADVOCATE in the towns. That paper ought to be in every family within your patronizing territory. It will nourish the faith and knowledge of any reader.

We are ourselves surprised that more religious papers are not taken by the Methodists in towns and cities. Among other reasons, it may be that they have more secular papers, more worldly entertainments, and that their privileges in the way of social meetings are greater. We do not know a town or city church that would not be twice as efficient as it is in all church work, and in generous giving, if all its members were habitual readers of our religious papers. A fair amount of effort by the pastors would soon put the paper in nearly every Methodist family in every town or city charge. In the days of our pastoral work we tried it, and know whereof we speak. It can be done, we are sure, and here and there a pastor is doing it.

Our subscribers may help much. Every subscriber can get another. Some do more than this, but there are few who cannot get one. We have no particular proposition to make, except to hold on to our old principle, that every Methodist family ought to subscribe for at least one Methodist paper. It seems to us that subscribers, by a little personal exertion, and pastors, by keeping the matter in mind, could double our circulation in a few months. If much is to be expected of the thousands of converts and members added to the church during the year, they must become readers of our church papers. We should have more confidence in their religious development and perseverance if we knew that they were subscribers to the ADVOCATE.

A Generous Deed.

Under this head Dr. Harrison, pastor of Mount Vernon Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Washington City, writes to the Baltimore Episcopal Methodist as follows:

For ten years past, the congregation of Mount Vernon Place Church, Washington City, has been embarrassed by a debt upon their church edifice. The original debt was $45,000, which, with eight years interest added, amounted to nearly $80,000. Recently the claims upon the church have been held by five gentlemen, James W. Barker, G. T. Dunlap, S. G. T. Morsell, F. A. Lyle and J. B. Wilson.

On Wednesday evening, October 22, 1879, these gentlemen met in the parlor of the church, and after full and free conference among themselves, resolved to donate the entire claim upon the church, except the small sum of $3,000. In other words, to donate $27,000! The small balance remains to be paid within five years—making a practical release of the church from the burden of its debt.

The church in Washington City, and throughout the South, will rejoice to learn that Southern Methodism has been placed upon a substantial and permanent basis in Washington by this munificent action of the gentlemen named above. For myself, I can find no words competent to express my own gratitude and sense of relief. Long Live God!

W. P. HARRISON.

WASHINGTON, D. C., 1879.

Shouting Over It.

The Kansas Methodist is hurrying up the nomination of General Grant, and girls shouting hurrah over the prospect of his election as the next President of the United States. After a protracted strain of fulsome eulogy worthy of a regular campaign sheet, the editor of this Northern Methodist journal closes thus enthusiastically:

His name is a tower of strength, his career a source of pride to every citizen. He stands confessedly above every other who is named for the chief office in the gift of the people. And unless politicians pull wires and bad men expend money to defeat the wishes of the masses, the next national Republican Convention will nominate, by acclamation, and the vote of November, 1880, will constitute as President of the United States, for four years, that illustrious patriot and statesman, Ulysses S. Grant. Hallah! Hallah! Amen!

That glorious hymn beginning "Nearer My God, to Thee," has a commonly printed, says the New York Methodist, five stanzas, and in none of them is there any reference to Christ. Our attention has been called to the fact that a sixth stanza belongs to the hymn, and we have looked into the question a little. Last year Lee & Shepard, Boston, published an illustrated edition of the hymn, which was noticed by us at the time. This edition has the sixth stanza, as follows:

"Christ alone beareth me
Where then lost shine
Joins pale he maketh me
Of the Divine;
In Christ my soul shall be Nearer my God to thee,
Nearer to thee."

In a note to us, Lee & Shepard say that they had a good reason to believe that this sixth stanza belongs to the hymn as originally written. It is a very interesting question, then, why it has been systematically omitted from, we believe, all orthodox hymn-books and hymnals. It is the only verse that distinctly refers to salvation through a Saviour, and it is the one verse that has been cut off. We shall be glad to receive any further information on the subject of the authenticity of the stanza, and on any explanations of its omission in the books of religious song.

The Young Ladies' Classical and Bible College, Binghamton, New York, is making arrangements for the free home and education of one hundred more approved candidates for missionary and temperance work; and for the daughters of deceased or disabled pastors, missionaries and evangelists. The curriculum consists of the regular course at the Binghamton College, with an added course of theology, medicine and music.

THE CLASS MEETING.

BY S. MULLETT ELLIS.

These world-worn men have met to meditate;
Though few and lowly, God is surely there;
The quiet word, the hour seems like a prayer;
The hint he receiveth out the world, heaven's gate
Is opened by their psalms. Then do they state
Their glad experience or anxious care;
What need of blessing, or what bounteous share
Of Mercy's riches it is has been their freight.
And as they speak their lifted hearts catch fire;
Their souls are flames, their thoughts are ecstasies.
And heaven's own glory on their face is bright.
Such earn at hours make men's souls wise the higher;
Such fervent men fulfill high purposes
And humble men, e'en thus, are nobles made.

The Alabama Conference Woman's Foreign Missionary Society will meet in Auburn, December 17. Officers and delegates will be cordially received at Auburn. A full attendance is earnestly requested.

MRS. JEFFERSON HAMILTON,
Pres. Ala. Conf. W. F. M. Society.

Rev. W. G. Veal, member of the Northwest Texas Conference, after the trial, has been expelled from the church by the Conference recently in session at Fort Worth.

Books and Periodicals.

EVENINGS WITH THE DOCTRINES. By Nehemiah Adams, D. D. Revised edition. Boston: D. Lothrop & Co.

The volume contains seventeen lectures delivered in Boston in 1858-59. These lectures embrace nearly all the doctrines of the Bible, and are in a familiar and entertaining style. The author is an out-spoken Calvinist, and meets the question of election and perseverance in the old Calvinistic way, and with as much satisfaction as is possible in such a system. While we find in the lectures much ground of dissent, there is also much that is valuable, and in accord with all evangelical schools. 12mo, 417 pages.

THE MOHAMMEDAN MISSIONARY PROBLEM. By the Rev. Henry H. Jessup, D. D., Presbyterian Presbyterial Board of Publication.

This is a discourse on the Mohammedan Missionary Problem delivered before the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, meeting at Saratoga Springs, May 18, 1879, by the Moderator, Rev. Henry H. Jessup, D. D. Dr. Jessup has spent many years as a missionary in the East, and his discourse is most valuable and instructive.

—We are indebted to the Presbyterian Board of Publication, Philadelphia, for a copy of the Westminster Question Book, International Series for 1880.

—We have received a pamphlet written by J. H. Moss, Esq., entitled: A Review of the Constitution Submitted to the People of Louisiana, in Connection with the Constitutions of 1852 and 1868. The writer takes decided ground against the adoption of the new Constitution.

—Proceedings of the first State Sunday-School Convention of Louisiana are published in neat pamphlet form. The pamphlet contains the several able addresses delivered before the Convention, and is a work of great interest. We are indebted to the Committee of Publication for a copy.

—Prohibited Secession is the title of a pamphlet by Thomas O. Summers, D. D. LL. D., recently issued by the Southern Methodist Publishing House, Nashville, Tenn. The substance of the essay appeared in the October number of our Quarterly Review. We are very glad it has been brought out in pamphlet form. Prohibited secession is a question that most people of sense and spirituality care nothing about, but the discussion is needed in some quarters, and there is occasion for the circulation of a tract of this sort. Parties who have young members flinky on the subject, and when the proselyters are undermining, will do well to send for copies. They will do good. Price, ten cents a copy.

—Plain Talk to the Sick is a little volume of 200 pages, by Adam Miller, M. D., published in Chicago. Dr. Miller belongs to the homœopathic school, and his book is designed for the use of families. Price, $1.

—The American Agriculturist for November is splendidly illustrated. It is full of information suited to farmers, gardeners and housekeepers. Published monthly by the Orange Judd Company, New York. Price, $1.50 per annum.

—St. Nicholas for November is unusually rich in wonderful and amusing illustrations. Among the articles are: 'Adrift on the Ocean; Arthur Vine or Not? Playthings of All Times and Climes; Gathering Mussellins in Mississippi; The Family With Whom Everything Went Wrong; Hunting Jack Rabbits; The Boys at Chiron's School; The Last Dauphin; The Boy-Heroes of Crecy and Poitiers; A Few Pretty Things for Fancy Work. The number of St. Nicholas for December will be the Christmas number, and will be remarkably fine.

—The Theological and Homiletic Monthly for November, 1879. Rev. R. N. Stedd, D. D., editor and publisher, Richmond, Va., has: The Scriptural Form of Christ's Humanity; Faith Lessons—Their Bearing Upon Our Destiny; Qualifications for the Gospel Ministry; Conservatism; Ordination; Choice of Topics; Trinality; The Sabbath Days; Elisha and the Children of Bethel; Editorial Miscellany. An excellent number; a publication that grows better every month. Price, 2.50 per annum.

—The Fortnightly Review, October, 1879, has: South Africa Once More; The Channel Islands; Reply to Fallacies of Evolution; Parliamentary Government in America; Antonio Salaloja; Education and the London School Board; The Conflict of Laws; A Word With Some Critics; The British Museum Library; Home and Foreign Affairs. Also Young Mrs. Jardine, by Miss Mulock, chapters 8-11, from Good Words.

—Southern Cultivator for November has been received.

MARRIED.

BOYT—MYRIN.—October 13, 1879, at the residence of the bride, by Rev. W. P. Dickinson, Mr. Wm. B. Boyt of Pensacola, Fla., to Miss Ella M. Myrin, of Canonsburg, Pa.

RAINE—HOPKINS.—October 19, 1879, at half-past eight o'clock P. M., at the residence of Hon. R. W. Cobb, Governor of Alabama, by the Rev. J. W. Christian, Rev. John Wesley Raine, of the North Alabama Conference, to Miss Amy L., daughter of Col. W. H. Hopkins, of Philadelphia.

LYNN—MAXWELL.—October 26, 1879, at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. W. D. Dunwick, Mr. J. W. Owen to Miss Mackie Maxwell, both of Sanders, Miss.

CRAWFORD—JOYNER.—October 29, 1879, at the residence of the bride's father, on West Point Circuit, by Rev. Jno. J. Vickers, Mr. Thos. Crawford to Miss Ella Joyner.

THOMPSON—ANDERSON.—In Pleasant Hill Church, October 22, 1879, by Rev. R. A. Sloey, Mr. J. H. Thompson and Miss Sarah J. Anderson, all of Sumter county, Miss.

MUIR—McCALL.—At the residence of the bride's father, in Choctaw county, Ala., October 21, 1879, by Rev. W. H. Will, Mr. P. C. Smith of Mt. Sterling, Ala., to Miss Nellie McCall, daughter of Mr. Archibald McCall.

GILBERT—WILLIAMS.—In Jefferson county, Miss., October 15, 1879, under the auspices of the bride's father, by Rev. D. Bradford, Mr. John V. Gilbert, of Columbia, Pearl River, La., to Miss Olivia Williams, of Franklin county, Miss.

McGARITY—PATE.—At the residence of the bride's father, in Jefferson county, Miss., on the 16th instant, by Rev. D. Pate, Mr. M. P. McGarity to Miss Louisa McCain.

EDWARDS—DAVENPORT.—In the Methodist Church, Natchez, Miss., October 29, 1879, by Rev. D. P. Hatch, Mr. W. P. Edwards to Miss Susie Davenport, both of Jefferson county, Miss.

JAMES—LEWIS.—October 15, 1879, in the Methodist Church in Holmesville, Miss., by Rev. Jno. A. Gaudry, Mr. J. E. James, of Amite to Miss F. I. Lewis, daughter of Rev. H. D. Lewis, of the Mississippi Conference.

Publisher's Department.

We desire to do our best to exclude fraudulent advertisements from the ADVOCATE, and to make patronizing them secure to the fair sale of the goods advertised. In ordering please mention the ADVOCATE.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.—January is to the ADVOCATE office what rich cream is to the milk-pan. The "cream" is skimmed off, and the "milk" is left to be consumed on the place. The cream papers constitute the subscription list. Subscriptions being payable in advance for each month, time is allowed after the end of the month for renewal. If the subscription expires with the issue of that month, at which time the paper will be discontinued, unless renewed. This will materially simplify the bill-work, as the publisher will be relieved from the necessity of making out, mailing and charging bills for papers ordered discontinued. Subscribers will please notify the office promptly when they desire the paper discontinued, and pay up all arrearages. Those who receive the paper will be understood as desiring its continuance, and will be charged accordingly.

MARBLE WORKS.—For everything in the marble line, go Stroud's, corner Main and Morgan streets, Algiers. He is the best workman in the South, and his work is the cheapest, as well as being reasonable, for first-class workmanship. Patronize him, and see how cheap you will be with him.

CHEAP TO CLOSE.—Notice the advertisement of Messrs. E. H. Adams & Bro., with the above heading. They are marking down all such goods that can be secured at low-down prices. The best bargains will be secured at Adams's dress goods emporium, 594 Magazine street, where the best and most reasonable rates for new and fashionable goods prevail.

DENTIST.—Dr. Friedrichs is one of the oldest practitioners of his profession, having begun practice in this city nearly thirty years ago. He is a highly educated gentleman, and has become all his many patrons say so. The ladies pronounce it the best there is to be had. So when they all say so can't the people in general say so, and every druggist, in selling you it, take any other. Our old friend Pozzoni will retail it in any quantity your fancy desires. See advertisement.

HEAVY AND SHELF HARDWARE.—Our readers, one and all, are hereby notified that the old and well-known house of Rice, Born & Co. at 89 and 91 Camp street, New Orleans, is the place where all articles in their line can be had at moderate prices, and of the best materials. Read their advertisement in another column, and then go to their store for what you want, or order by mail. They are reliable.

WAUKESHA WATER, FOR DYSPEPSIA, KIDNEY DISEASES, ETC.—This celebrated water is indorsed by some of the most eminent physicians here, among whom is Dr. Holcombe. Parties who have tried the "Bethesda" are loud in the praise of the Waukesha, as being far superior to it. Our friend, L. C. Arny, 26 to 30 Bienville street, is the agent.

MILLINERY EMPORIUM, HAIR WORK AND FANCY GOODS.—If you want to go the most elegant stores in the South of the Rhode-by your taking a walk on Canal street from 157 and 159, and you will see a sight to delight your eyes, and if you go to the show windows step to the where you will see everything the most recherche, and if you do not find what you want you cannot get it in town, for Southern ranks next the big metropolis as well as some of the cities of the old world for things to please the ladies.

CHINA AND GLASS WARE.—It is always a treat to go through a first-class establishment. I like E. Offner's, even if you do not wish to purchase. It is very much like reading the advertisements in the paper. You keep as well as to the progress in art and planning fires. This store, which is conducted at 171 Canal street, in this city, is filled with gold and choice wares in China, glass and silver, in addition, and every class of useful and ornamental articles for the household. Call and you will be welcomed.

REMOVED.—We notice with pleasure the removal to that solid and well-managed institution, the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company, to their commodious and elegant quarters, corner Gravier and Carondelet streets. A friend of mine called recently on official business, so I went with him. The building is one of the finest in the city, and is occupied entirely by the company and its officials, so that to day it is not only one of the best situated offices in our business city, but is very attractive in appearance to the beholder as he passes by. The large clock suspended in front of the entrance is an interesting appendage, as it shows the time of the day in some of the principal cities in the world. Our friend, L. C. Arny, Esq., is the efficient and polite president secretary of this office here.

ORLEANS PLAINING MILL.—Our readers will be glad to know that an enterprising man, Wm. Campbell, has purchased the Orleans Planing Mill, 240 South Rampart street, formerly owned by Mr. Snyder, and it has been thoroughly repaired and restocked at very great expense, and now Mr. Campbell will fill any order, small or large, at prices as low as any mill in the country. He is a gentleman of energy and experience, and we take pleasure in calling the attention of our readers to his advertisement, and to the fact that what you want you cannot get it in town, for Southern ranks next the big metropolis as well as some of the cities of the old world for things to please the ladies.

COAL.—W. G. COYLE & CO.—W. G. Coyle's page advertisement that is said to be read by everybody and walnut in New Orleans. It is not only a genial man with whom it is a pleasure to do business, but he has done his share toward giving the city a cheap supply of coal. In the summer months, when he will take his well-earned rest, he will be found at his place of business, where he will be pleased to see you, as he is one of the most affable men we have met in a long time. Call on him, and you will be well pleased with your visit.

DRY GOODS, DANZIGER SONS.—The grand new wholesale dry goods house of Danziger Sons has been opened to the trade, and has been attended by the magnificent establishment the Danziger Sons. A portion of the building was occupied by the large number and extent of country orders for retail stores and plantations that are sent to this firm from every part of the South and West. As we have said before, the house has the very best of opportunities to choose from the vast products of every country. It has also been specially benefitted by the low rates which it has enjoyed during the very first of goods at very low rates. Our friends will find this a very pleasant one to do business with, as they take special care to see that no one leaves their store dissatisfied. We have worked with pleasure the progress of this fine house for many years, and are happy to congratulate both the worthy proprietors and the people here to call upon our readers.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.—Fruit jars Mason pints, $1; quarts, $1.25; two quarts, $1.50 per dozen. Amerikan China dinner sets, $15 $18. Equal in looks and usefulness to French China. 19

THE air of perfection, cleanliness and home-like comfort which is so apparent at the American House, Boston, is one of the characteristic features of that well-regulated establishment. To those who desire to economize this popular hotel offers an opportunity seldom found at the eligibly situated house, having reduced its rates to $1 and $1.50 per day.

FOR DYSPEPSIA, Indigestion, depression of spirits and general debility in their various forms, also as a preventive against Fever and Ague, and other Intermittents, Every Traveler should carry a flask. "Peters' Pure Rye Malt Whiskey" is highly recommended by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York, and sold by all druggists. It is the best tonic and safest thing for public use, recovering from fever or other sickness all has recommended.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

NEVER RETURN.

It is said that one out of every hundred invalids who go to Europe, Cal., or Colorado for their health, return to their friends in a casket or coffin. The undertakers receive the other ninety-nine. The most critical, stingy and cantankerous men who ever lived, are druggists. They are always willing to recommend Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, Compound Oxygen, Electricity, Inhalers, Nasal Douches, Spray Producers, Electric Belts, Lung Developers, Pulmometers, Respirators, Cough Mixtures, Syrups, Expectorants, Anodynes, Opiates, Emollients, Demulcents, Tonics, Stimulants, Sedatives, Counter-irritants, Vapors, Salves, Ointments, Liniments, Lotions, Gargles, Snuffs, Powders, Troches, Pills, Plasters, Hypodermics, Cod Liver Oil, Whiskey, Wines, Brandies, Rum, Gin, Hot Drops, Bitters, Lozenges, Tobacco, Cigars, Pipes, Cigarettes, Patent Medicines, Nostrums, Quackeries, Delusions, Impositions, Deceptions, Frauds, Lies, Fizzles, Failures, Humbugs, Bubbles, Wind, Gas, Nothing, Vanity, Vexation of Spirit, Emptiness, Worthlessness, Death, Graves, Worms, Oblivion, Hell, Damnation, Amen.

F. E. WALTER BAKER & CO'S.—In connection with the "Yellow Label" Chocolate, the Cocoa and Vanilla Chocolate, for many years held first in the great exhibitions.

TO THE AFFLICTED.—Any person suffering from a Cough, Cold, Asthma, Bronchitis, or any of the various pulmonary troubles that so often result in consumption, should use SHILOH'S CURE. It is the best remedy in the world for the cure of these diseases. Sold by druggists everywhere. Price, 10 cts., 50 cts., and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price, 25 cts. If your children are troubled with Croup, Whooping Cough or Bronchitis, use Shiloh's Vitalizer. Price, 50 cts. and $1. If you have Consumption, Shiloh's Remedy will cure you. If you think your Kidneys or Liver are out of order, Shiloh's Vitalizer is what you need. If you have a Cough, Cold, Sore Throat or Hoarseness, use Shiloh's Cure. If you have Dyspepsia, Shiloh's Vitalizer will cure you. If you have Chills and Fever, Shiloh's Vitalizer is the remedy you need. If you have Headache, Toothache, Earache or Neuralgia, Shiloh's Porous Plaster will relieve you. If you have Rheumatism, Shiloh's Porous Plaster will relieve you. If you have Pain in the Chest, Back or Kidneys, Shiloh's Porous Plaster will relieve you. If you have Pain in the Chest, Back or Kidneys, Shiloh's Porous Plaster will relieve you. Sold by all druggists. Shiloh Manufacturing Co., Proprietors, Rochester, N. Y., Toronto, Ont., and Chicago, Ill. For sale by Lyman, Knox & Co., Montgomery, Ala.; Gunby, Morgan & Hillyer, Memphis, Tenn.; Wholesale Agents, New Orleans.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CHEAP TO CLOSE.

3, 3½, 4 and 4½ inch Fancy Colored HOSE at 25c, worth 50c.
Second Regie CASSIMERES at 17½ and 25c, worth 25c.
Hand Embroidered HANDKERCHIEFS at 25c, worth 50c.
Striped KIDS, 6½ and 8½ to be worth 25c.
Brocaded LOUISINES at 10c, worth 12½.
Wash POPLIN ROBES at 12½, worth 15.
Fine CASSIMERES, new shades, at 15, worth 25.
All-Wool FLANNELS at 10c, worth 15.
Silk HANDKERCHIEFS at 15c, worth 25.
Worsted FRINGES at 10, 12½ and 15, worth double.
Low Neck, Short Sleeve Merino VESTS at 25c, Worth double.

NOVELTIES IN ALL DEPARTMENTS.

E. H. ADAMS & BROTHER,

DEALERS IN
FRESH FIRST CLASS DRY GOODS, NOTIONS, ETC., ETC.,
AT REASONABLE RATES.
594 Magazine Street, Fourth Store above St. Andrew.

E. OFFNER,

No 171 Canal Street, Between Baronne and Dryades.
DIRECT IMPORTER OF
FRENCH, ENGLISH AND AMERICAN
CHINA AND EARTHENWARE
GLASSWARE, CUTLERY, WOODENWARE, TINWARE.
THE FINEST QUALITY OF
SILVER PLATEDWARE A SPECIALITY
LOOK AT THESE PRICES FOR OUR AMERICAN CHINA:

Dinner, Breakfast and Tea Sets, comprising in all 128 pieces, for	$15 00
Decorated Chamber Sets, 10 pieces	2 50
Good Glass Goblets, per dozen	50

All other goods in proportion.
All orders and inquiries promptly attended to. Goods packed with care and shipped promptly. Make no mistake in the name and place. Look for the sign.

E. OFFNER,
171 Canal Street, Between Baronne and Dryades.

DR. GEO. J. FRIEDRICHS,
DENTIST,
135 St. Charles Street, corner of Gravier,
Square above City Hall,
NEW ORLEANS.

Liverpool and London and Globe
INSURANCE COMPANY.
NEW ORLEANS
Office cor. Carondelet and Gravier Sts.

Capital Stock Paid up
Total Assets
Losses paid in Gold and Silver since organization of Agency in New Orleans, over three and five Years Gold
Dwellings and Stores insured on favorable terms.
All Losses by this Company promptly adjusted and paid at this office.

HENRY OGDEN, Esq., of Ogden & Richardson, Cotton Factors, New Orleans.
Hon. E. H. ROUDANEZ, Ex-Judge Supreme Court, New Orleans.
Perry Nicholson, Esq., Nicholson & Bro., Cotton Factors, New Orleans.
HENRY W. OGDEN, Esq., Ogden & Richardson, Cotton Factors, New Orleans.

DANZIGER'S,

No 131 Canal Street,
GRAND OPENING
OF
Fall and Winter Dry Goods,
Embracing a recent and special FINE GOODS all bought and for cash at the lowest prices.

PLANTATION GOODS
Of all descriptions at prices that will surprise you.

We respectfully invite to our retail and jobbing trade a visit and inspection of the most extensive and complete stock we have ever had to offer to the trade. And we promise one and all every courtesy and attention.

Do not fail to visit our Parlor stores, see sales and examine our

ELEGANT CLOAKS,
LADIES' SUITS,
UNDERWEAR,
ETC., ETC., ETC.

Samples sent on application to all parts of the country free of charge.

DANZIGER'S,
No. 131 Canal Street.

THE WINTER IS AT OUR DOORS,
AND
Now is the Time to Buy Your
CLOTHING,
Furnishing Goods and Hats
AT GODCHAUX'S
81 and 83 Canal Street,
Men's, Youths', Boys'
AND
CHILDREN'S WEAR.
Fall and Winter Stock Ready.
VERY LOWEST PRICES.
N. B. CUSTOM WORK a SPECIALTY.
SAMPLES and RULES sent by mail.
Measurement for Suits and Pants taken by mail.

"Crescent City Springs."
WAUKESHA WATER

The subscribers, having been appointed agents for the above celebrated Springs, will keep for sale the WATER constantly on hand, by the barrel, half barrel, quarter barrel and by the gallon, at the Springs.

L. C. ARNY,
26, 28 and 30 Bienville St.

ORLEANS PLANING MILL,
WM. CAMPBELL, Proprietor,
No. 240 South Basin St.,
Near New Basin,
will constantly keep on hand a full assortment of
DRESSED FLOORING,
CEILING, SIDING,
WEATHER BOARDS
and DECKING.
Feather Edge, Fence Board and Rough Weather Boards.
SAWING and DRESSING done for the trade on low rates.

BETTER THAN EVER
Church & Co.'s
CHRISTMAS SELECTIONS
FOR 1879.
SIX Excellent New Carols Written Expressly for Children's Celebrations, SIX
Sunday Schools, etc. Other best writers of Sacred Song. We send Specimen Copy, F. Root, Harry Sanders and others have contributed to this year's selections. NOW READY.
Price 5 cts., $4 00 per 100 copies.
PUBLISHED BY
JOHN CHURCH & CO.,
66 W. Fourth St., Cincinnati, O.
Agents wanted in New York.

RICE, BORN & CO.,
DEALERS IN HEAVY AND SHELF
HARDWARE!
CUTLERY, AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS, AND PLANTATION SUPPLIES.
TINNERS' STOCK AND TOOLS.
HEATING AND COOKING STOVES.
MANUFACTURERS OF ALL KINDS OF TIN AND SHEET IRON WORK.
89 & 91 CAMP STREET,
507 MAGAZINE STREET,
WAREHOUSE: 10, 12, 14 & 16 MAGAZINE ST.,
NEW ORLEANS.

SOLE AGENTS FOR
Slag Refrigerator, Chilling Tubs, Wardwell & Moen Bath Tubs, Range Boilers, Vienna Brass and other Cocks, Lead Moulds, Vienna Brass and other Valves, Anderson Gas Cut Saws, Sprowles Patent Fly Pan, Perfection Washers, Shutters, Kistler's Meat Fine Screens, Wood Pumps.

CELEBRATED
CHARTER OAK STOVES.

PRIZE MEDAL, PARIS, 1878.
MAKE and SAVE MONEY
BY USING OUR CELEBRATED
MODEL PRINTING PRESS
Any small boy can work it. Prints cards, circulars, labels, envelopes, etc., etc., as well as the largest and most expensive job presses. Saves its cost in a few days. Send for circular and specimens of work done with it.
HOW TO PRINT
A Book containing full instructions for printing cards, circulars, etc., sent by mail for 25 cents.
Address, MODEL PRINTING PRESS CO.,
No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

WANTED EVERYBODY TO KNOW that LAPLACE'S IMPROVED PLANTER-NEEDLE-CORN-BALER is the best and cheapest machine for baling cotton in the world. It will bale with less help, more rapidly, more compactly, and with less waste than any other machine. Prepared and sold by LAPLACE, Plaquemine, La. Send for circular. Price, $25. Address all orders as above. Agents wanted in every parish in the State. Liberal terms to the right men. Call and see it at the principal hotels and retail drug stores.

Depot in Mobile at L. C. Dismukes & Co. Depot in St. Louis at Richardson & Co.

Washington Avenue Drug Store,
Cor. Magazine & Washington Sts.
NEW ORLEANS.

Old and Valuable Remedy!
BARK & IRON
Is composed of the two principal elements of Peruvian Bark and Iron, and of half the cost. It is a very pleasant
PALATABLE AROMATIC IRON TONIC,
For the cure of Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Boils, &c.
BILLINGS, CLAPP & CO.,
NICHOLS & CO., BOSTON, MASS.
For Sale by all Druggists.

CINCHO-QUININE!
CURES FEVER AND AGUE;
and all Fevers originating from the use of Quinine, and of both the cost. It is a very pleasant
PALATABLE AROMATIC IRON TONIC,
For the cure of Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Boils, &c.
BILLINGS, CLAPP & CO.,
NICHOLS & CO., BOSTON, MASS.
For Sale by all Druggists.

Farm, Garden and Household.

A SHORT ESSAY ON WASHING.—Experienced housekeepers very seldom give clear and positive instructions in housework. Their success seems to be the result of some uncommon ability. Years of experiment and observation appear to be required in reaching positive knowledge in regard to housework, and that knowledge which must die with the discoverer.

Whose desires to escape all the misery in one important department of housework, is recommended to read the following complete guide to the whole art of washing.

To begin with, clothes should not be soaked overnight; it gives them a gray look, and the soiled parts lying against the clean portions streaks them. Before beginning to wash the clothes should be sorted, and the fine ones kept separate all through the washing. Rain or soft water is best for washing. Hot water sets (instead of extracting) the dirt. Turn them and rub them till perfectly clean in the first water. If the water becomes much soiled, throw it out and take fresh, or if the water is allowed to become very much soiled, the clothes will be dingy. The clothes should then be rubbed out separately in the second as in the first water. No amount of rinsing or boiling will ever make clothes white which have not been thoroughly rubbed out.

After the second rubbing put the clothes in cold water to soak, without rubbing soap on them or putting soap in the water; they are soapy enough. Too much soap makes clothes yellow and stiff. As soon as they begin to boil, remove them to the "sudsing" water. If they boil long they will be yellow. Let each article be well "sousced" up and down in the sudsing water, rubbing them out thoroughly with the hands, to get the suds out; wring dry and throw in the "rinsing water," which is the last water. Let this be slightly blued. Excessive bluing is the careless washerwoman's refuge. The rinsing is to be as thorough as the sudsing.

After rinsing, starch. The old-fashioned idea that clothes requires to be dried in order being starched is not sustained by intelligent observation. Dip the articles in boiling hot starch, plunging the hands constantly into cold water, to prevent their being scalded, and rubbing the starch well in.

Next hang out, and be sure to stretch every inch possible to the sun and the wind. Garments hung double, or in bunches or festoons, will not bleach.

Wash flannels in lukewarm water, and rinse in water of the same temperature. Avoid rubbing soap upon the flannels. Stretch them, when thoroughly clean, snap them energetically, and hang up immediately,—by the fire if the weather is bad. Two waters are enough for flannels.

When sprinkling clothes, dip collars cuffs and shirt-bosoms in cold starch, made so thin as to look like water with a little milk in it. Clothes starched thus need no wax, lard, nor other preparation to make them iron easily. A smooth, dead white is generally more highly esteemed now than the glazed look which steel manufacturers give to their linen.

Clothes washed by the above directions will be white as the driven snow.—Scribner's.

CARROTS FOR POULTRY.—The common yellow carrot, is an excellent vegetable as is well known for horses and cattle, of which these animals are very fond. It is largely used in England and Germany, as well as in France, by gardeners, and is specially as a valued ingredient at fattening time, to boil and mash up with bran meal and grout, and fed to fowls being finally prepared for the markets.

This excellent root may be very easily grown upon the farm anywhere in this country, and large quantities are now produced to profit in Essex county, Massachusetts, and in the vicinity of New York, where carrots have been cultivated very generally for many years to supply the demand in neighboring cities.

Those who have tried carrots in this country as a vegetable to cook with meat and potatoes, have found it more economical and better satisfying than turnips. There is more "body" to measurement, and the flavor seems to be more acceptable to fowls, it is averred.

Where carrots can be had at a fair price per bushel or hundredweight, it will pay those who have a large number of fowls to feed daily to try this vegetable. The quality is good, and when fed to cows or horses regularly, an improvement in the smoothness and gloss of their coats follows, it has been noticed. In the fall of the year we have no doubt it would operate to similar advantage upon the plumage of fine poultry.—Evening Post.

HENS AS FERTILIZERS.—In the last Agricultural Report to the State of Massachusetts, Mr. Kinney, of Worcester, says that, from seventy-five hens he made, in one year, $250 worth of American guano. His main object in keeping hens was for the purpose of dressing his land. Formerly he bought many cords of manure to dress two acres of land. He now cultivates seven acres without buying a cent's worth of manure. He keeps his hens confined the year round. He is very careful to give the hens clean, wholesome food, and to keep their house clean and sweet. The floor is covered with four inches of gravel, and the droppings carefully and frequently removed and kept dry. At the end of the year he has 50 bushels of droppings, losing about one-half in weight, which he pulverized and mixed with 25 bushels of pounded bone and a little plaster of Paris. He then had 75 cords of guano, which he testifies is better than any imported article he has tried. He uses it on the ground, both in a solid or liquid form, in the hill, and every where it is necessary. Speaking of the above, a writer in the New England Farmer says: "All of proper care and feed it will return one hundred per cent. above the full cost of keeping the hens alone, and when we add their increase in poultry, we can say that they are the most profitable to keep."

HOW TO CLEAN GRAPES.—Select nice dressed grapes, and with the hand the steam smooth, and dip it in melted sealing wax. Then put cotton batting (goes 8 cents a pound) in wooden boxes, keep it on a stove or some place. In this way they will keep fresh all winter. The stems dipped and pressed into the cotton batting prevents the air getting in, or the juice of the stem running out, and let them stand one day after sealing, so as to be sure they are perfectly sealed, if not they will spoil very soon. Then pack in boxes of dry sawdust, and keep in a cool place; they will keep nicely all winter without losing their flavor; in packing, do not crowd the bunches; sprinkle the sawdust over the bottom of the box. Then lay the grapes carefully, a bunch at a time, all over the box, then sawdust and grapes, alternately until the box is full.—Times.

HOW TO PEEL ONIONS.—She came in looking as pretty as a minx, and as sweet and fresh as an oregano just up could make her. There was a chattering all on the yacht what they would have for dinner, and it was agreed, for the day as it was thought each one was to do something toward the same. "You have got to peel and slice the potatoes," says a deadly kind of fellow, to the pretty girl. "Agreed," said she, up with a sizzling roll, and she ate another and another. When the time came for doing up things, I brought that pretty girl a deck of the nicest onions to peel I ever smelled. I never saw a more beautiful set of pearls. Her self-satisfied air vanished. "There is no use of crying," thinks I, "this world is full of sorrow in her life." Says she to me, "Mr. Robert, do you not use a pocket of ice and peel it." "Now," says she, "just put them on the ice while we wash the dishes." Then she took all the onions, put them in a dishpan, and put them in the water and peeled them under water, and put them in a dish and sliced them. Now I would not have you think that I am a fool, but I have learned how to peel onions.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BOOKS
FOR THE
FARM AND GARDEN,

A full supply of the best Agricultural works published out of hand and supplied at publishers' prices by mail when desired.

Address
LATHROP & WILKINS,
112 Camp street.

HOW TO PAINT.

A new work by a Practical Painter, designed for the use of Tradesmen, Mechanics, Merchants, Farmers, and as a Guide to Professional Painters, containing a plain common sense statement of the methods employed by painters to produce satisfactory results in plain and fancy painting, every description including formulas for mixing paint to suit color, when required, etc. This is just the book needed by every person having anything to paint and makes

Every Man His Own Painter.

Full directions for using white lead, lamp black, green, yellow, vermilion, brown, whiting, glue, pumice stone, sand-paper, turpentine, oils, varnishes, furniture varnish, milk paint, preparing kalsomine—

Paint for Out-Buildings,

White wash, paste for paper-hanging, hanging paper, graining in oak, maple, rosewood, black walnut, staining, decalcomanie, making rustic pictures, painting flower stands, mahogany polish, rosewood polish, varnishing furniture, waxing furniture, cleaning paint—

Paint for Farming Tools, and for machinery, and household fixtures.

To Paint A Farm Wagon,

Before varnishing a carriage, to make plaster casts. The work is neatly printed, with illustration wherever they can serve to make the subject plainer, and it will save ma'ny times its cost yearly. Every family should possess a copy.

Price by mail, post paid, $1

LATHROP & WILKINS,
112 Camp st., New Orleans.

THE MILD POWER
CURES
HUMPHREYS'
Homeopathic Specifics

Been in general use for 20 years. Everywhere proved the most Safe, Simple, Economical and Efficient Medicines known. They are just what the people want, saving time, money, sickness and suffering. Every single Specific the well tried prescription of an eminent physician.

For Sale by Druggists generally.

Dr. Humphreys' Book on Treatment and Cure of Disease (144 pp.) also Illustrated Catalogue, sent free on application to Humphreys' Homeopathic Medicine Co., 109 Fulton St., N. Y.

Rosedale Cooking Stove,

MANUFACTURED BY
STEWART, PETERSON & CO.,
PHILADELPHIA, PENN.

Is the cheapest and most popular cooking stove ever put on the market. They manufacture four sizes of them, and they are for sale exclusively by

D. W. W. GOODWYN,
44 Camp Street,
New Orleans, La.

THE GENUINE
DR. C. McLANE'S
Celebrated American WORM SPECIFIC OR VERMIFUGE.

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and leaden colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed pale or red cheek; the eyes become dull, the pupils dilate, an azure semicircle runs along the lower eyelid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimy or furred tongue; fetid breath; offensive matter in the discharges from the bowels; sometimes griping pains, with apparent indigestion; in children, unusual voracity, or entire loss of appetite, with various capricious appetites; hard, tense, and occasionally tumid belly; itching of the anus; sudden flushing of the face; starting during sleep; grinding of the teeth; drowsiness, succeeded by restlessness, with disturbed sleep and frightful dreams; cough, sometimes dry and hard, at others loose, as if there was mucus in the throat; breathing sometimes hurried, accompanied with palpitation, and sometimes by fainting fits; in females, a leucorrhœal discharge, with many of the symptoms of chlorosis or green sickness.

Where the above symptoms are found to exist, DR. C. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE will certainly effect a cure.

IT DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY, or any form of mineral, but is entirely a vegetable preparation, containing the simplest means to be found in the materia medica.

The genuine DR. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS., on the wrapper.

DR. C. McLANE'S
LIVER PILLS

are not recommended as a remedy that will cure all the infallible ills to which humanity is subject, but as a remedy for diseases of the liver, and in all Bilious Complaints, Dyspepsia and Sick Headache, or diseases of a bilious character, they may be used with safety and certainty.

AGUE AND FEVER.

No better evidence can be had of the superiority of [illegible] over all other remedies for the cure of Ague and Fever, than the fact that in those districts of country where they have been introduced, they have entirely superseded the use of all other remedies for the cure of these diseases.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

M'Lane

MISCELLANEOUS.

AMERICAN
WARWICKSHIRE SAUCE.

For Chops, Steaks, Roast Meats
Game, Fowl,
Cold Meats, Salad and Oysters.

Imparting a most delicious relish, and from its SUPERIOR QUALITY is more generally useful than ANY OTHER SAUCE IN THE MARKET.

W. G. LYON & CO.,
25 & 27 Tchoupitoulas Street,
AGENTS.

Pontchartrain Cheap Store.

J. A. LACROIX,
CORNER FRENCHMEN AND VICTORY STS.

LADIES', GENT'S, MISSES AND CHILDREN'S
BOOTS AND SHOES
OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS.

Always on hand a full assortment of first-class goods, at prices which defy competition. Call and examine my stock before purchasing elsewhere. MY MOTTO—"Quick Sales and Small Profits." Jackson railroad cars pass in front of the store.

WATCHES AND JEWELRY,
17 BARONNE STREET,
Bet. Common and Canal, NEW ORLEANS.
ALSO
LOAN OFFICE,
Private entrance to right of show window.
Unredeemed pledges of every description sold at very low prices and with full guarantee.
OTTO SCHWANER.
Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired. Jewelry at low cash prices.

Founded July 4, 1808.

OLDEST SHOT TOWER IN AMERICA.

THOS. W. SPARKS,
Patent American
Chilled Shot,
Standard Drop and Buck Shot
AND BAR LEAD MANUFACTURER,
121 WALNUT STREET,
PHILADELPHIA.

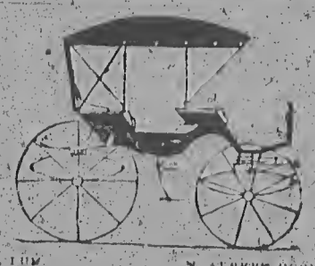
ARMSTRONG, CATER & CO.,
Importers and Manufacturers
Ribbons, Millinery, Straw Goods,
WHITE GOODS,
Linen, Lace, Embroidery, Handkerchiefs,
AND
LADIES' NECKWEAR,
237 & 239 Baltimore Street, Baltimore.

Joseph Mitchell Boiler Yard,
C. J. WALTON, Proprietor,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
STEAM BOILERS,
Lard, Coal Oil, Water and Locomotive Tanks, Sugar and Plantation Boilers a Specialty.
No. 147 N. S. MAIN STREET,
Bet. Twelfth and Thirteenth.
LOUISVILLE, KY.

EXCELSIOR
DISINFECTING FLUID.

This fluid being a disinfectant, an antiseptic and a deodorizer, destroys all noxious gases and disagreeable odors arising from putrescent matter and prevents decomposition of organic substances, by forming a chemical combination with their constituents. It arrests the spread of contagious diseases, and is harmless, inodorous and effective in its work. Sold by the bottle or gallon or in larger quantities. Liberal discount to dealers.

EXCELSIOR DISINFECTANT CO.
121 N. 12th Street, St. Louis, Mo.



J. A. LUX. N. CLERY BOURG.

J. A. LUX & CO.
MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN CARRIAGES, HARNESS, ETC.,
No. 85 Carondelet Street.
☞ A Specialty made of Cultured's Carriages.

H. DEVERGES & CO.,
HARDWARE,
17 and 19 Decatur Street,
Opposite Postoffice, New Orleans.
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
IRON, NAILS, CUTLERY, GUNS, AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS, PLOWS, OILS, PAINTS, CORDAGE, ETC. ETC.

WATCHES.

LADY'S GOLD WATCHES, $10 and upward.
GENT'S GOLD WATCHES, $15 and upward.
GENT'S SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.
BOYS SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.
All guaranteed.
A. B. ORISWOLD & CO.,
Cor. Canal and Royal Sts.

ATTENTION! ATTENTION
M. ANDRIEU,
91 ROYAL STREET 91
Home-Made Shoes, hand-sewed, $4 00
Home-Made Shoes, Screwed, $2.50-3.50
Ully-made Boots and Shoes of all kinds and styles, made of the very best material and workmanship, and at less prices than can be found in the city. Keeps all kinds for Ladies', Misses' and Children's wear. Employs from 75 to 100 workmen constantly.

MISCELLANEOUS.

JOHN CLARK, Jr. & CO'S

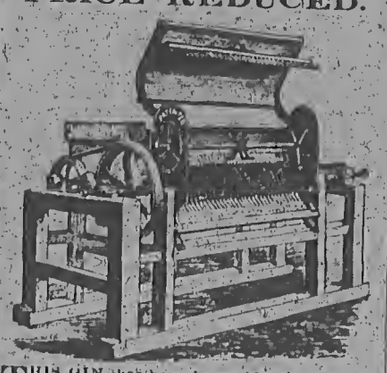
CLARK'S TRADE MILE-END MARK SPOOL COTTON

BEST
SIX-CORD
—FOR—
MACHINE OR HAND USE.

THOMAS RUSSELL & CO.,
SOLE AGENTS.
FOR SALE BY ALL
DRY GOODS AND NOTION DEALERS.

MARBLE
—AND—
GRANITE
TOMBS, MONUMENTS AND GRAVE STONES.
Mantels, Grates Hearths, Tiling, Flagging, etc.
GEO. STROUD.
164 St. Charles street, New Orleans, La.

JOS. B. WOLFE & CO.,
Cotton Factors,
59 Carondelet St., New Orleans.
And General Agents for
DANIEL PRATT'S IMPROVED
"Revolving Head" Cotton Gin,
PATENTED JULY 15, 1873.
PRICE REDUCED.



THIS GIN has been in use for the past six seasons, and several recent improvements have been added. It obviates all friction at the end of the cotton box, prevents the roll from breaking, and gives a larger yield of lint from the same amount of seed than any other Gin in use. The Revolving Head lightens the draft and causes the Gin to run faster with less driving power, thus doing a great deal more work within the same time, while economizing steam or animal power, more than any other Gin. The seed being ginned very close, the length of the staple is increased, producing cotton; on this account of a greater market value. This improved value, given by length of staple, with extra production of lint, added to increased amount of work done, more than covers the cost of the Gin in every 100 bales ginned. Testimonials sent by mail on application.

FEEDERS and CONDENSERS with latest improvements also made by the Daniel Pratt Gin Co. to work with these Gins. Send for descriptive circulars. JOS. B. WOLFE & CO.,
New Orleans, La.

$25.00 to $35.00
STEWART'S NEW IMPROVED
SINGER
Sewing Machine

Great Reduction in Prices!
Down with Monopolies!
Hard Times demand Low Prices.

We warrant all our machines to be NEW, LATEST IMPROVED and PERFECT for FIVE YEARS.

Our NEW MACHINE is supplied with a LOOSE BALANCE WHEEL, which is a great improvement over the old SINGER, as it enables the operator to wind the bobbin without running the machine, or removing the work from the needle. This is the most important improvement ever put on the Sewing Machine.

Also dealer in all first-class machines, such as the

WHEELER & WILSON,
GROVER & BAKER,
DOMESTIC,
WILSON,
WEED, Etc.

Cotton, Silk, Flax, Oil and Needles for all kinds of Machines. Address,

M. A. PECK,
General Sewing Machine Agent,
153 CANAL STREET,
Next to Holmes' Dry Goods Store?
New Orleans.

THE LARGEST SALES
IN COTTON TIES
THIS SEASON
HAVE BEEN MADE BY
EDWARD S. LEVY,
32 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
MANUFACTURER OF
Flinn & Weir Cotton Bale Tie
AND
E. S. Levy's Standard Pierced Tie.

Testimonials from Compressmen, and Planters generally, on file at the office for all who seek further confirmation as to the well-known merits of these Ties.

FRITZ JAENICKE,
(Late Fox & Jaenicke)
Schillinger Artificial Stone Pavement,
Artificial Stone Tiles in various colors,
DEALER IN
North River and Decatur Flags, Curb Stone and Portland Cement.
208 Delord st. between Baronne and Carondelet. Box 128 Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange.
NEW ORLEANS.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WASHBURN'S
CELEBRATED
ART GALLERY,
A TRIUMPH IN PHOTOGRAPHY!
PICTURES MADE PERMANENT
—BY THE—
LAMBERT PATENT PROCESS.

We are prepared, with all the latest inventions and appliances, to produce all the newest styles in photography at
VERY MODERATE PRICES.

JULIUS SEVERIN, Prest. J. F. CURRIER, Supt.
EUREKA IRON ROOFING CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
FINE SHEET IRON ROOFINGS AND SIDINGS
IRON DOORS, SHUTTERS, IRON TRUSS ROOFS, ETC
45 E. Front street Cincinnati.

KEYSTONE MATTRESS.

Durable, Comfortable, Cleanly, Healthful and Economical, altogether the Most Desirable Spring Bed in Use.

WOVEN WIRE.
IRON BEDSTEAD FOR HOSPITALS.
ROBERT KELSO & CO., Manufacturers,
No. 310 MARKET STREET, Philadelphia.
Send for Descriptive Circular and Price List.

E. YEOMAN,
MANUFACTURER OF THE COMFORT BED,
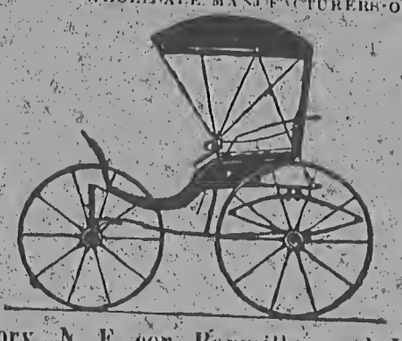
—ALSO—
WIRE MATTRESSES,
YEOMAN'S CANVASS TOP & SLAT BEDS AND COTS,
30 DIFFERENT STYLES IN ALL.
353 and 355 South Canal Street, Chicago.

ANDERSON, HARRIS & CO.,
WHOLESALE MANUFACTURERS OF

Buggies, Phætons,
CARRIAGES VEHICLES,
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,



Office and Factory, N. E. cor. Baymiller and Liberty Streets,
Warerooms, N. W. cor. Livington and Baymiller Sts.
CINCINNATTI.
Send for Illustrated Catalogue and Price List.
☞ Sixth Street (Green) Cars pass the door.

Established in St. Louis in 1858.
R. L. ROSEBROUGH & SONS,
MARBLE WORKS,
OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, 1421 BROADWAY,
Factory, 1415 North Sixth Street,
ST. LOUIS, MO.

SAWS. CURTIS & CO. 515 to 519 S. 2d St. ST. LOUIS, Manufacturers of CROSS-SAWS, Wrought Steel Gearing, BELTING, Rubber and Leather, BELTED ELEVATORS, every description of the FLAX MILL and CROSS-WHEELS, MANUFACTURERS' FLOOR SAW GUMMING HOUSES and SAW and PLANING MILL SUPPLIES. Solid manufacturers of LOCKWOOD'S PATENT SLOTTED CIRCULAR SAW. Careful attention to REPAIR WORK. EVERY SAW WARRANTED. ☞ Our New Illustrated Catalogue mailed free on application.

BOERICKE & TAFEL,
Homœopathic Pharmacy,
130 CANAL STREET,
Between St Charles and Carondelet Sts.
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Keep constantly on hand a complete supply of pure and reliable Homœopathic medicines, as well as a full assortment of Medicine Chests for families plantations etc., and the accompanying books giving directions for the use of Homœopathic remedies in simple ailments.

Illustrated and descriptive catalogues furnished free upon application.

THIS IS THE ONLY COMPLETE HOMŒOPATHIC PHARMACY IN THE SOUTH.

The Purest and Best Medicine ever made.

A combination of Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, and Dandelion, with all the best and most curative properties of all other known remedies, the great Blood Purifier, Liver Regulator, and Life and Health-Restoring Agents in the world.

No disease or ill health can possibly long exist where Hop Bitters are used, so varied and perfect are their operations.

They give new life and vigor to the aged and infirm.

To all whose employments cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary organs, or who require an Appetizer, Tonic and mild Stimulant, Hop Bitters are invaluable without intoxicating.

No matter what your feelings or symptoms are, what the disease or ailment, use Hop Bitters. Don't wait until you are sick, but if you only feel bad or miserable, use them at once. It may save your life. It has saved hundreds.

$500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help. Do not suffer yourself, your friends suffer, but use and have them to use Hop Bitters.

Remember, Hop Bitters is not a vile, drugged, drunken worthless stuff, but the Purest and Best Medicine ever made; the "Invalid's Friend and Hope," and no person or family should be without them.

Get some this day.

Hop Cough Cure is the surest, safest and best. Ask Children.

The Hop Pain Killer relieves pain. Acts promptly.

D. I. P. is the best antidote to Intoxicating drinks, tobacco, opium, tobacco and narcotics.

Wadsworth, Hop Bitters Mfg. Co. Rochester, N.Y.

Send for Circular.

SPENCERIAN
SPENCERIAN 10 COMMERCIAL
STEEL PENS,
Of the Very Best European Make and unrivaled for Flexibility, Durability and Evenness of Point.
REAL SWAN QUILL ACTION.
IN TWENTY NUMBERS.
Samples including the popular numbers
Nos. 1-2-5-8-15 and Broad Points 3-16-18 will be sent by mail, for trial, on receipt of 25 cents.
IVISON, BLAKEMAN, TAYLOR & CO.,
138 & 140 Grand St., New York.
For sale by Larmor & Wickens, No. 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

SEND FOR ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST
BRINLY, MILES & HARDY SOLE MANUFACTURERS LOUISVILLE, KY.
BRINLY PLOWS
BEST & CHEAPEST IN USE
SUITED TO EVERY KIND OF SOIL OR WORK.

ORGAN BEATTY PIANO
New Illustrated Catalogue, 36 pages, Golden Tongue Reeds, Golden Voiced Bells, Walnut Case, sent 4 years, Organ Book $100. New Pianos $145. Organs, 27 Stops, $65. Newspaper free. Address Daniel F. Beatty, Washington, New Jersey.

REDUCTION.
IMPROVED
NOVELTY
PRINTING PRESSES.
The only low price Press that will do the best work. Awarded highest premium at Centennial. Also Steel Type and Printers' Outfits of all kinds. Send for Catalogue.
P. O. WOODS & CO.,
40 Federal St. Boston.

EDUCATIONAL ITEMS.

—There are five Chinese boys in attendance at Phillips Exeter (N. H.) Academy this term.

—The Rev. John S. Tevis, of Indianapolis, preached the annual sermon at the Commencement of Moore's Hill College on Sunday evening, June 8th.

—The Indiana Board of Education has appointed R. D. Richardson, Esq., of Evansville; Judge D. D. Banta, of Franklin, and R. W. Miers, Esq., of Bloomington, Trustees of the State University.

—Dr. Roberts Bartholow, of Cincinnati, long connected with the Ohio Medical College, has accepted a professorship in the Jefferson Medical College, of Philadelphia, at a salary of $12,000 per year.

—The Synod of the Presbyterian Church of England has resolved to appoint the Rev. Dr. Patton, of Chicago, to be Professor of Apologetical Theology in the Presbyterian College, London.

—The cost of the English elementary schools last year was $19,577,250. They instructed 3,154,943 children. The French elementary schools during the same time instructed 3,823,000, and cost $13,630,000.

—The cost of elementary instruction in Prussia amounts to $31,000,000 annually; the sum being covered by eleven and a half millions of marks from property and legacies, five and a third millions from state subventions, and the balance from communal grants. Gratuitous instruction is given in seventeen out of the sixty towns in Prussia which count over 25,000 inhabitants.

—The average monthly salary paid to male teachers in New Jersey during the past year was $60.50; female teachers received an average of $37.14. The total sum set apart for school purposes in that State this year is $1,027,632.44—a decrease of a little more than $75,000 from the total amount last year. The per capita apportionment this year is $1.85, against $4.41 last year.

—The Board of Trustees of Butler University, Indianapolis, has determined that only those belonging to the Christian, or Campbellite Church, can be members of the Faculty of that institution. This will necessitate the resignation of Professors Rachel S. Jordan, Natural History; Miss Catherine Merrill, English Literature; Melville B. Anderson, Modern Languages; and Charles E. Holzepeckz, Commercial Department.

—Massachusetts spends 71 per cent. of her school population to send to New York sends 47 per cent.; New Jersey, 44; Connecticut and Rhode Island, 55; Oregon, 63, and Louisiana, 20. The teacher in Vermont gets $22 a month; the male teacher in Nevada, $125 a month.

—Hon. John Hadley, president judge of the Fifth judicial district of Pennsylvania, has donated to the library of the Bethlehem Memorial Library, at Rutgers College, a volume of the New York Herald, dated Tuesday, the beginning of the end of the world, and the Daily News for a week preceding the Wednesday on which their contents shall always be open to the people of the South.

—At the National Training School of Cookery in London, Mrs. Bishop is giving a series of lectures on "The Chemistry of Foods," this embracing in the course of the session the teaching of the principles and chemical and the training of cooks. Professor Pepper, the Scientific Superintendent, has been at work in the school and laboratory for several days, experimenting on the properties of the various articles of food, and will lecture upon what he has discovered in words.

—Pickett and Marshall College at Lancaster, Penn., has just seven new students. In 1854 the Presbyterian Synod of Pennsylvania gave the institution its charter, and the Methodists the privilege of granting the diploma. The seven new students are those of the fifty-seventh session. The college is named after Franklin Robert Marshall, and stands for the endowment of Franklin College.

—The Roman Catholics of New Britain, Conn., offered the town school board the privilege of temporarily occupying the Corbin point building, which the Catholics have purchased. The board declined the offer. The election was held on Monday, and the entire school question was fully discussed. The following officers were elected: President, Wm. Gray; Secretary, Orrin Booth; Treasurer, Chas. Hart; Auditor, Geo. Booth; Committee, Wm. Gray, Orrin Booth, Chas. Hart, Geo. Booth, Wm. Hart, Wm. Hall, Jr., Wm. Hall, 3d, Wm. Hall, 4th, Wm. Hall, 5th, Wm. Hall, 6th, Wm. Hall, 7th, Wm. Hall, 8th, Wm. Hall, 9th, Wm. Hall, 10th, Wm. Hall, 11th, Wm. Hall, 12th, Wm. Hall, 13th, Wm. Hall, 14th, Wm. Hall, 15th, Wm. Hall, 16th, Wm. Hall, 17th, Wm. Hall, 18th, Wm. Hall, 19th, Wm. Hall, 20th, Wm. Hall, 21st, Wm. Hall, 22nd, Wm. Hall, 23rd, Wm. Hall, 24th, Wm. Hall, 25th, Wm. Hall, 26th, Wm. Hall, 27th, Wm. Hall, 28th, Wm. Hall, 29th, Wm. Hall, 30th, Wm. Hall, 31st, Wm. Hall, 32nd, Wm. Hall, 33rd, Wm. Hall, 34th, Wm. Hall, 35th, Wm. Hall, 36th, Wm. Hall, 37th, Wm. Hall, 38th, Wm. Hall, 39th, Wm. Hall, 40th, Wm. Hall, 41st, Wm. Hall, 42nd, Wm. Hall, 43rd, Wm. Hall, 44th, Wm. Hall, 45th, Wm. Hall, 46th, Wm. Hall, 47th, Wm. Hall, 48th, Wm. Hall, 49th, Wm. Hall, 50th, Wm. Hall, 51st, Wm. Hall, 52nd, Wm. Hall, 53rd, Wm. Hall, 54th, Wm. Hall, 55th, Wm. Hall, 56th, Wm. Hall, 57th, Wm. Hall, 58th, Wm. Hall, 59th, Wm. Hall, 60th, Wm. Hall, 61st, Wm. Hall, 62nd, Wm. Hall, 63rd, Wm. Hall, 64th, Wm. Hall, 65th, Wm. Hall, 66th, Wm. Hall, 67th, Wm. Hall, 68th, Wm. Hall, 69th, Wm. Hall, 70th, Wm. Hall, 71st, Wm. Hall, 72nd, Wm. Hall, 73rd, Wm. Hall, 74th, Wm. Hall, 75th, Wm. Hall, 76th, Wm. Hall, 77th, Wm. Hall, 78th, Wm. Hall, 79th, Wm. Hall, 80th, Wm. Hall, 81st, Wm. Hall, 82nd, Wm. Hall, 83rd, Wm. Hall, 84th, Wm. Hall, 85th, Wm. Hall, 86th, Wm. Hall, 87th, Wm. Hall, 88th, Wm. Hall, 89th, Wm. Hall, 90th, Wm. Hall, 91st, Wm. Hall, 92nd, Wm. Hall, 93rd, Wm. Hall, 94th, Wm. Hall, 95th, Wm. Hall, 96th, Wm. Hall, 97th, Wm. Hall, 98th, Wm. Hall, 99th, Wm. Hall, 100th, Wm. Hall, 101st, Wm. Hall, 102nd, Wm. Hall, 103rd, Wm. Hall, 104th, Wm. Hall, 105th, Wm. Hall, 106th, Wm. Hall, 107th, Wm. Hall, 108th, Wm. Hall, 109th, Wm. Hall, 110th, Wm. Hall, 111th, Wm. Hall, 112th, Wm. Hall, 113th, Wm. Hall, 114th, Wm. Hall, 115th, Wm. Hall, 116th, Wm. Hall, 117th, Wm. Hall, 118th, Wm. Hall, 119th, Wm. Hall, 120th, Wm. Hall, 121st, Wm. Hall, 122nd, Wm. Hall, 123rd, Wm. Hall, 124th, Wm. Hall, 125th, Wm. Hall, 126th, Wm. Hall, 127th, Wm. Hall, 128th, Wm. Hall, 129th, Wm. Hall, 130th, Wm. Hall, 131st, Wm. Hall, 132nd, Wm. Hall, 133rd, Wm. Hall, 134th, Wm. Hall, 135th, Wm. Hall, 136th, Wm. Hall, 137th, Wm. Hall, 138th, Wm. Hall, 139th, Wm. Hall, 140th, Wm. Hall, 141st, Wm. Hall, 142nd, Wm. Hall, 143rd, Wm. Hall, 144th, Wm. Hall, 145th, Wm. Hall, 146th, Wm. Hall, 147th, Wm. Hall, 148th, Wm. Hall, 149th, Wm. Hall, 150th, Wm. Hall, 151st, Wm. Hall, 152nd, Wm. Hall, 153rd, Wm. Hall, 154th, Wm. Hall, 155th, Wm. Hall, 156th, Wm. Hall, 157th, Wm. Hall, 158th, Wm. Hall, 159th, Wm. Hall, 160th, Wm. Hall, 161st, Wm. Hall, 162nd, Wm. Hall, 163rd, Wm. Hall, 164th, Wm. Hall, 165th, Wm. Hall, 166th, Wm. Hall, 167th, Wm. Hall, 168th, Wm. Hall, 169th, Wm. Hall, 170th, Wm. Hall, 171st, Wm. Hall, 172nd, Wm. Hall, 173rd, Wm. Hall, 174th, Wm. Hall, 175th, Wm. Hall, 176th, Wm. Hall, 177th, Wm. Hall, 178th, Wm. Hall, 179th, Wm. Hall, 180th, Wm. Hall, 181st, Wm. Hall, 182nd, Wm. Hall, 183rd, Wm. Hall, 184th, Wm. Hall, 185th, Wm. Hall, 186th, Wm. Hall, 187th, Wm. Hall, 188th, Wm. Hall, 189th, Wm. Hall, 190th, Wm. Hall, 191st, Wm. Hall, 192nd, Wm. Hall, 193rd, Wm. Hall, 194th, Wm. Hall, 195th, Wm. Hall, 196th, Wm. Hall, 197th, Wm. Hall, 198th, Wm. Hall, 199th, Wm. Hall, 200th, Wm. Hall, 201st, Wm. Hall, 202nd, Wm. Hall, 203rd, Wm. Hall, 204th, Wm. Hall, 205th, Wm. Hall, 206th, Wm. Hall, 207th, Wm. Hall, 208th, Wm. Hall, 209th, Wm. Hall, 210th, Wm. Hall, 211th, Wm. Hall, 212th, Wm. Hall, 213th, Wm. Hall, 214th, Wm. Hall, 215th, Wm. Hall, 216th, Wm. Hall, 217th, Wm. Hall, 218th, Wm. Hall, 219th, Wm. Hall, 220th, Wm. Hall, 221st, Wm. Hall, 222nd, Wm. Hall, 223rd, Wm. Hall, 224th, Wm. Hall, 225th, Wm. Hall, 226th, Wm. Hall, 227th, Wm. Hall, 228th, Wm. Hall, 229th, Wm. Hall, 230th, Wm. Hall, 231st, Wm. Hall, 232nd, Wm. Hall, 233rd, Wm. Hall, 234th, Wm. Hall, 235th, Wm. Hall, 236th, Wm. Hall, 237th, Wm. Hall, 238th, Wm. Hall, 239th, Wm. Hall, 240th, Wm. Hall, 241st, Wm. Hall, 242nd, Wm. Hall, 243rd, Wm. Hall, 244th, Wm. Hall, 245th, Wm. Hall, 246th, Wm. Hall, 247th, Wm. Hall, 248th, Wm. Hall, 249th, Wm. Hall, 250th, Wm. Hall, 251st, Wm. Hall, 252nd, Wm. Hall, 253rd, Wm. Hall, 254th, Wm. Hall, 255th, Wm. Hall, 256th, Wm. Hall, 257th, Wm. Hall, 258th, Wm. Hall, 259th, Wm. Hall, 260th, Wm. Hall, 261st, Wm. Hall, 262nd, Wm. Hall, 263rd, Wm. Hall, 264th, Wm. Hall, 265th, Wm. Hall, 266th, Wm. Hall, 267th, Wm. Hall, 268th, Wm. Hall, 269th, Wm. Hall, 270th, Wm. Hall, 271st, Wm. Hall, 272nd, Wm. Hall, 273rd, Wm. Hall, 274th, Wm. Hall, 275th, Wm. Hall, 276th, Wm. Hall, 277th, Wm. Hall, 278th, Wm. Hall, 279th, Wm. Hall, 280th, Wm. Hall, 281st, Wm. Hall, 282nd, Wm. Hall, 283rd, Wm. Hall, 284th, Wm. Hall, 285th, Wm. Hall, 286th, Wm. Hall, 287th, Wm. Hall, 288th, Wm. Hall, 289th, Wm. Hall, 290th, Wm. Hall, 291st, Wm. Hall, 292nd, Wm. Hall, 293rd, Wm. Hall, 294th, Wm. Hall, 295th, Wm. Hall, 296th, Wm. Hall, 297th, Wm. Hall, 298th, Wm. Hall, 299th, Wm. Hall, 300th, Wm. Hall, 301st, Wm. Hall, 302nd, Wm. Hall, 303rd, Wm. Hall, 304th, Wm. Hall, 305th, Wm. Hall, 306th, Wm. Hall, 307th, Wm. Hall, 308th, Wm. Hall, 309th, Wm. Hall, 310th, Wm. Hall, 311th, Wm. Hall, 312th, Wm. Hall, 313th, Wm. Hall, 314th, Wm. Hall, 315th, Wm. Hall, 316th, Wm. Hall, 317th, Wm. Hall, 318th, Wm. Hall, 319th, Wm. Hall, 320th, Wm. Hall, 321st, Wm. Hall, 322nd, Wm. Hall, 323rd, Wm. Hall, 324th, Wm. Hall, 325th, Wm. Hall, 326th, Wm. Hall, 327th, Wm. Hall, 328th, Wm. Hall, 329th, Wm. Hall, 330th, Wm. Hall, 331st, Wm. Hall, 332nd, Wm. Hall, 333rd, Wm. Hall, 334th, Wm. Hall, 335th, Wm. Hall, 336th, Wm. Hall, 337th, Wm. Hall, 338th, Wm. Hall, 339th, Wm. Hall, 340th, Wm. Hall, 341st, Wm. Hall, 342nd, Wm. Hall, 343rd, Wm. Hall, 344th, Wm. Hall, 345th, Wm. Hall, 346th, Wm. Hall, 347th, Wm. Hall, 348th, Wm. Hall, 349th, Wm. Hall, 350th, Wm. Hall, 351st, Wm. Hall, 352nd, Wm. Hall, 353rd, Wm. Hall, 354th, Wm. Hall, 355th, Wm. Hall, 356th, Wm. Hall, 357th, Wm. Hall, 358th, Wm. Hall, 359th, Wm. Hall, 360th, Wm. Hall, 361st, Wm. Hall, 362nd, Wm. Hall, 363rd, Wm. Hall, 364th, Wm. Hall, 365th, Wm. Hall, 366th, Wm. Hall, 367th, Wm. Hall, 368th, Wm. Hall, 369th, Wm. Hall, 370th, Wm. Hall, 371st, Wm. Hall, 372nd, Wm. Hall, 373rd, Wm. Hall, 374th, Wm. Hall, 375th, Wm. Hall, 376th, Wm. Hall, 377th, Wm. Hall, 378th, Wm. Hall, 379th, Wm. Hall, 380th, Wm. Hall, 381st, Wm. Hall, 382nd, Wm. Hall, 383rd, Wm. Hall, 384th, Wm. Hall, 385th, Wm. Hall, 386th, Wm. Hall, 387th, Wm. Hall, 388th, Wm. Hall, 389th, Wm. Hall, 390th, Wm. Hall, 391st, Wm. Hall, 392nd, Wm. Hall, 393rd, Wm. Hall, 394th, Wm. Hall, 395th, Wm. Hall, 396th, Wm. Hall, 397th, Wm. Hall, 398th, Wm. Hall, 399th, Wm. Hall, 400th, Wm. Hall, 401st, Wm. Hall, 402nd, Wm. Hall, 403rd, Wm. Hall, 404th, Wm. Hall, 405th, Wm. Hall, 406th, Wm. Hall, 407th, Wm. Hall, 408th, Wm. Hall, 409th, Wm. Hall, 410th, Wm. Hall, 411th, Wm. Hall, 412th, Wm. Hall, 413th, Wm. Hall, 414th, Wm. Hall, 415th, Wm. Hall, 416th, Wm. Hall, 417th, Wm. Hall, 418th, Wm. Hall, 419th, Wm. Hall, 420th, Wm. Hall, 421st, Wm. Hall, 422nd, Wm. Hall, 423rd, Wm. Hall, 424th, Wm. Hall, 425th, Wm. Hall, 426th, Wm. Hall, 427th, Wm. Hall, 428th, Wm. Hall, 429th, Wm. Hall, 430th, Wm. Hall, 431st, Wm. Hall, 432nd, Wm. Hall, 433rd, Wm. Hall, 434th, Wm. Hall, 435th, Wm. Hall, 436th, Wm. Hall, 437th, Wm. Hall, 438th, Wm. Hall, 439th, Wm. Hall, 440th, Wm. Hall, 441st, Wm. Hall, 442nd, Wm. Hall, 443rd, Wm. Hall, 444th, Wm. Hall, 445th, Wm. Hall, 446th, Wm. Hall, 447th, Wm. Hall, 448th, Wm. Hall, 449th, Wm. Hall, 450th, Wm. Hall, 451st, Wm. Hall, 452nd, Wm. Hall, 453rd, Wm. Hall, 454th, Wm. Hall, 455th, Wm. Hall, 456th, Wm. Hall, 457th, Wm. Hall, 458th, Wm. Hall, 459th, Wm. Hall, 460th, Wm. Hall, 461st, Wm. Hall, 462nd, Wm. Hall, 463rd, Wm. Hall, 464th, Wm. Hall, 465th, Wm. Hall, 466th, Wm. Hall, 467th, Wm. Hall, 468th, Wm. Hall, 469th, Wm. Hall, 470th, Wm. Hall, 471st, Wm. Hall, 472nd, Wm. Hall, 473rd, Wm. Hall, 474th, Wm. Hall, 475th, Wm. Hall, 476th, Wm. Hall, 477th, Wm. Hall, 478th, Wm. Hall, 479th, Wm. Hall, 480th, Wm. Hall, 481st, Wm. Hall, 482nd, Wm. Hall, 483rd, Wm. Hall, 484th, Wm. Hall, 485th, Wm. Hall, 486th, Wm. Hall, 487th, Wm. Hall, 488th, Wm. Hall, 489th, Wm. Hall, 490th, Wm. Hall, 491st, Wm. Hall, 492nd, Wm. Hall, 493rd, Wm. Hall, 494th, Wm. Hall, 495th, Wm. Hall, 496th, Wm. Hall, 497th, Wm. Hall, 498th, Wm. Hall, 499th, Wm. Hall, 500th, Wm. Hall, 501st, Wm. Hall, 502nd, Wm. Hall, 503rd, Wm. Hall, 504th, Wm. Hall, 505th, Wm. Hall, 506th, Wm. Hall, 507th, Wm. Hall, 508th, Wm. Hall, 509th, Wm. Hall, 510th, Wm. Hall, 511th, Wm. Hall, 512th, Wm. Hall, 513th, Wm. Hall, 514th, Wm. Hall, 515th, Wm. Hall, 516th, Wm. Hall, 517th, Wm. Hall, 518th, Wm. Hall, 519th, Wm. Hall, 520th, Wm. Hall, 521st, Wm. Hall, 522nd, Wm. Hall, 523rd, Wm. Hall, 524th, Wm. Hall, 525th, Wm. Hall, 526th, Wm. Hall, 527th, Wm. Hall, 528th, Wm. Hall, 529th, Wm. Hall, 530th, Wm. Hall, 531st, Wm. Hall, 532nd, Wm. Hall, 533rd, Wm. Hall, 534th, Wm. Hall, 535th, Wm. Hall, 536th, Wm. Hall, 537th, Wm. Hall, 538th, Wm. Hall, 539th, Wm. Hall, 540th, Wm. Hall, 541st, Wm. Hall, 542nd, Wm. Hall, 543rd, Wm. Hall, 544th, Wm. Hall, 545th, Wm. Hall, 546th, Wm. Hall, 547th, Wm. Hall, 548th, Wm. Hall, 549th, Wm. Hall, 550th, Wm. Hall, 551st, Wm. Hall, 552nd, Wm. Hall, 553rd, Wm. Hall, 554th, Wm. Hall, 555th, Wm. Hall, 556th, Wm. Hall, 557th, Wm. Hall, 558th, Wm. Hall, 559th, Wm. Hall, 560th, Wm. Hall, 561st, Wm. Hall, 562nd, Wm. Hall, 563rd, Wm. Hall, 564th, Wm. Hall, 565th, Wm. Hall, 566th, Wm. Hall, 567th, Wm. Hall, 568th, Wm. Hall, 569th, Wm. Hall, 570th, Wm. Hall, 571st, Wm. Hall, 572nd, Wm. Hall, 573rd, Wm. Hall, 574th, Wm. Hall, 575th, Wm. Hall, 576th, Wm. Hall, 577th, Wm. Hall, 578th, Wm. Hall, 579th, Wm. Hall, 580th, Wm. Hall, 581st, Wm. Hall, 582nd, Wm. Hall, 583rd, Wm. Hall, 584th, Wm. Hall, 585th, Wm. Hall, 586th, Wm. Hall, 587th, Wm. Hall, 588th, Wm. Hall, 589th, Wm. Hall, 590th, Wm. Hall, 591st, Wm. Hall, 592nd, Wm. Hall, 593rd, Wm. Hall, 594th, Wm. Hall, 595th, Wm. Hall, 596th, Wm. Hall, 597th, Wm. Hall, 598th, Wm. Hall, 599th, Wm. Hall, 600th, Wm. Hall, 601st, Wm. Hall, 602nd, Wm. Hall, 603rd, Wm. Hall, 604th, Wm. Hall, 605th, Wm. Hall, 606th, Wm. Hall, 607th, Wm. Hall, 608th, Wm. Hall, 609th, Wm. Hall, 610th, Wm. Hall, 611th, Wm. Hall, 612th, Wm. Hall, 613th, Wm. Hall, 614th, Wm. Hall, 615th, Wm. Hall, 616th, Wm. Hall, 617th, Wm. Hall, 618th, Wm. Hall, 619th, Wm. Hall, 620th, Wm. Hall, 621st, Wm. Hall, 622nd, Wm. Hall, 623rd, Wm. Hall, 624th, Wm. Hall, 625th, Wm. Hall, 626th, Wm. Hall, 627th, Wm. Hall, 628th, Wm. Hall, 629th, Wm. Hall, 630th, Wm. Hall, 631st, Wm. Hall, 632nd, Wm. Hall, 633rd, Wm. Hall, 634th, Wm. Hall, 635th, Wm. Hall, 636th, Wm. Hall, 637th, Wm. Hall, 638th, Wm. Hall, 639th, Wm. Hall, 640th, Wm. Hall, 641st, Wm. Hall, 642nd, Wm. Hall, 643rd, Wm. Hall, 644th, Wm. Hall, 645th, Wm. Hall, 646th, Wm. Hall, 647th, Wm. Hall, 648th, Wm. Hall, 649th, Wm. Hall, 650th, Wm. Hall, 651st, Wm. Hall, 652nd, Wm. Hall, 653rd, Wm. Hall, 654th, Wm. Hall, 655th, Wm. Hall, 656th, Wm. Hall, 657th, Wm. Hall, 658th, Wm. Hall, 659th, Wm. Hall, 660th, Wm. Hall, 661st, Wm. Hall, 662nd, Wm. Hall, 663rd, Wm. Hall, 664th, Wm. Hall, 665th, Wm. Hall, 666th, Wm. Hall, 667th, Wm. Hall, 668th, Wm. Hall, 669th, Wm. Hall, 670th, Wm. Hall, 671st, Wm. Hall, 672nd, Wm. Hall, 673rd, Wm. Hall, 674th, Wm. Hall, 675th, Wm. Hall, 676th, Wm. Hall, 677th, Wm. Hall, 678th, Wm. Hall, 679th, Wm. Hall, 680th, Wm. Hall, 681st, Wm. Hall, 682nd, Wm. Hall, 683rd, Wm. Hall, 684th, Wm. Hall, 685th, Wm. Hall, 686th, Wm. Hall, 687th, Wm. Hall, 688th, Wm. Hall, 689th, Wm. Hall, 690th, Wm. Hall, 691st, Wm. Hall, 692nd, Wm. Hall, 693rd, Wm. Hall, 694th, Wm. Hall, 695th, Wm. Hall, 696th, Wm. Hall, 697th, Wm. Hall, 698th, Wm. Hall, 699th, Wm. Hall, 700th, Wm. Hall, 701st, Wm. Hall, 702nd, Wm. Hall, 703rd, Wm. Hall, 704th, Wm. Hall, 705th, Wm. Hall, 706th, Wm. Hall, 707th, Wm. Hall, 708th, Wm. Hall, 709th, Wm. Hall, 710th, Wm. Hall, 711th, Wm. Hall, 712th, Wm. Hall, 713th, Wm. Hall, 714th, Wm. Hall, 715th, Wm. Hall, 716th, Wm. Hall, 717th, Wm. Hall, 718th, Wm. Hall, 719th, Wm. Hall, 720th, Wm. Hall, 721st, Wm. Hall, 722nd, Wm. Hall, 723rd, Wm. Hall, 724th, Wm. Hall, 725th, Wm. Hall, 726th, Wm. Hall, 727th, Wm. Hall, 728th, Wm. Hall, 729th, Wm. Hall, 730th, Wm. Hall, 731st, Wm. Hall, 732nd, Wm. Hall, 733rd, Wm. Hall, 734th, Wm. Hall, 735th, Wm. Hall, 736th, Wm. Hall, 737th, Wm. Hall, 738th, Wm. Hall, 739th, Wm. Hall, 740th, Wm. Hall, 741st, Wm. Hall, 742nd, Wm. Hall, 743rd, Wm. Hall, 744th, Wm. Hall, 745th, Wm. Hall, 746th, Wm. Hall, 747th, Wm. Hall, 748th, Wm. Hall, 749th, Wm. Hall, 750th, Wm. Hall, 751st, Wm. Hall, 752nd, Wm. Hall, 753rd, Wm. Hall, 754th, Wm. Hall, 755th, Wm. Hall, 756th, Wm. Hall, 757th, Wm. Hall, 758th, Wm. Hall, 759th, Wm. Hall, 760th, Wm. Hall, 761st, Wm. Hall, 762nd, Wm. Hall, 763rd, Wm. Hall, 764th, Wm. Hall, 765th, Wm. Hall, 766th, Wm. Hall, 767th, Wm. Hall, 768th, Wm. Hall, 769th, Wm. Hall, 770th, Wm. Hall, 771st, Wm. Hall, 772nd, Wm. Hall, 773rd, Wm. Hall, 774th, Wm. Hall, 775th, Wm. Hall, 776th, Wm. Hall, 777th, Wm. Hall, 778th, Wm. Hall, 779th, Wm. Hall, 780th, Wm. Hall, 781st, Wm. Hall, 782nd, Wm. Hall, 783rd, Wm. Hall, 784th, Wm. Hall, 785th, Wm. Hall, 786th, Wm. Hall, 787th, Wm. Hall, 788th, Wm. Hall, 789th, Wm. Hall, 790th, Wm. Hall, 791st, Wm. Hall, 792nd, Wm. Hall, 793rd, Wm. Hall, 794th, Wm. Hall, 795th, Wm. Hall, 796th, Wm. Hall, 797th, Wm. Hall, 798th, Wm. Hall, 799th, Wm. Hall, 800th, Wm. Hall, 801st, Wm. Hall, 802nd, Wm. Hall, 803rd, Wm. Hall, 804th, Wm. Hall, 805th, Wm. Hall, 806th, Wm. Hall, 807th, Wm. Hall, 808th, Wm. Hall, 809th, Wm. Hall, 810th, Wm. Hall, 811th, Wm. Hall, 812th, Wm. Hall, 813th, Wm. Hall, 814th, Wm. Hall, 815th, Wm. Hall, 816th, Wm. Hall, 817th, Wm. Hall, 818th, Wm. Hall, 819th, Wm. Hall, 820th, Wm. Hall, 821st, Wm. Hall, 822nd, Wm. Hall, 823rd, Wm. Hall, 824th, Wm. Hall, 825th, Wm. Hall, 826th, Wm. Hall, 827th, Wm. Hall, 828th, Wm. Hall, 829th, Wm. Hall, 830th, Wm. Hall, 831st, Wm. Hall, 832nd, Wm. Hall, 833rd, Wm. Hall, 834th, Wm. Hall, 835th, Wm. Hall, 836th, Wm. Hall, 837th, Wm. Hall, 838th, Wm. Hall, 839th, Wm. Hall, 840th, Wm. Hall, 841st, Wm. Hall, 842nd, Wm. Hall, 843rd, Wm. Hall, 844th, Wm. Hall, 845th, Wm. Hall, 846th, Wm. Hall, 847th, Wm. Hall, 848th, Wm. Hall, 849th, Wm. Hall, 850th, Wm. Hall, 851st, Wm. Hall, 852nd, Wm. Hall, 853rd, Wm. Hall, 854th, Wm. Hall, 855th, Wm. Hall, 856th, Wm. Hall, 857th, Wm. Hall, 858th, Wm. Hall, 859th, Wm. Hall, 860th, Wm. Hall, 861st, Wm. Hall, 862nd, Wm. Hall, 863rd, Wm. Hall, 864th, Wm. Hall, 865th, Wm. Hall, 866th, Wm. Hall, 867th, Wm. Hall, 868th, Wm. Hall, 869th, Wm. Hall, 870th, Wm. Hall, 871st, Wm. Hall, 872nd, Wm. Hall, 873rd, Wm. Hall, 874th, Wm. Hall, 875th, Wm. Hall, 876th, Wm. Hall, 877th, Wm. Hall, 878th, Wm. Hall, 879th, Wm. Hall, 880th, Wm. Hall, 881st, Wm. Hall, 882nd, Wm. Hall, 883rd, Wm. Hall, 884th, Wm. Hall, 885th, Wm. Hall, 886th, Wm. Hall, 887th, Wm. Hall, 888th, Wm. Hall, 889th, Wm. Hall, 890th, Wm. Hall, 891st, Wm. Hall, 892nd, Wm. Hall, 893rd, Wm. Hall, 894th, Wm. Hall, 895th, Wm. Hall, 896th, Wm. Hall, 897th, Wm. Hall, 898th, Wm. Hall, 899th, Wm. Hall, 900th, Wm. Hall, 901st, Wm. Hall, 902nd, Wm. Hall, 903rd, Wm. Hall, 904th, Wm. Hall, 905th, Wm. Hall, 906th, Wm. Hall, 907th, Wm. Hall, 908th, Wm. Hall, 909th, Wm. Hall, 910th, Wm. Hall, 911th, Wm. Hall, 912th, Wm. Hall, 913th, Wm. Hall, 914th, Wm. Hall, 915th, Wm. Hall, 916th, Wm. Hall, 917th, Wm. Hall, 918th, Wm. Hall, 919th, Wm. Hall, 920th, Wm. Hall, 921st, Wm. Hall, 922nd, Wm. Hall, 923rd, Wm. Hall, 924th, Wm. Hall, 925th, Wm. Hall, 926th, Wm. Hall, 927th, Wm. Hall, 928th, Wm. Hall, 929th, Wm. Hall, 930th, Wm. Hall, 931st, Wm. Hall, 932nd, Wm. Hall, 933rd, Wm. Hall, 934th, Wm. Hall, 935th, Wm. Hall, 936th, Wm. Hall, 937th, Wm. Hall, 938th, Wm. Hall, 939th, Wm. Hall, 940th, Wm. Hall, 941st, Wm. Hall, 942nd, Wm. Hall, 943rd, Wm. Hall, 944th, Wm. Hall, 945th, Wm. Hall, 946th, Wm. Hall, 947th, Wm. Hall, 948th, Wm. Hall, 949th, Wm. Hall, 950th, Wm. Hall, 951st, Wm. Hall, 952nd, Wm. Hall, 953rd, Wm. Hall, 954th, Wm. Hall, 955th, Wm. Hall, 956th, Wm. Hall, 957th, Wm. Hall, 958th, Wm. Hall, 959th, Wm. Hall, 960th, Wm. Hall, 961st, Wm. Hall, 962nd, Wm. Hall, 963rd, Wm. Hall, 964th, Wm. Hall, 965th, Wm. Hall, 966th, Wm. Hall, 967th, Wm. Hall, 968th, Wm. Hall, 969th, Wm. Hall, 970th, Wm. Hall, 971st, Wm. Hall, 972nd, Wm. Hall, 973rd, Wm. Hall, 974th, Wm. Hall, 975th, Wm. Hall, 976th, Wm. Hall, 977th, Wm. Hall, 978th, Wm. Hall, 979th, Wm. Hall, 980th, Wm. Hall, 981st, Wm. Hall, 982nd, Wm. Hall, 983rd, Wm. Hall, 984th, Wm. Hall, 985th, Wm. Hall, 986th, Wm. Hall, 987th, Wm. Hall, 988th, Wm. Hall, 989th, Wm. Hall, 990th, Wm. Hall, 991st, Wm. Hall, 992nd, Wm. Hall, 993rd, Wm. Hall, 994th, Wm. Hall, 995th, Wm. Hall, 996th, Wm. Hall, 997th, Wm. Hall, 998th, Wm. Hall, 999th, Wm. Hall, 1000th, Wm. Hall, 1001st, Wm. Hall, 1002nd, Wm. Hall, 1003rd, Wm. Hall, 1004th, Wm. Hall, 1005th, Wm. Hall, 1006th, Wm. Hall, 1007th, Wm. Hall, 1008th, Wm. Hall, 1009th, Wm. Hall, 1010th, Wm. Hall, 1011th, Wm. Hall, 1012th, Wm. Hall, 1013th, Wm. Hall, 1014th, Wm. Hall, 1015th, Wm. Hall, 1016th, Wm. Hall, 1017th, Wm. Hall, 1018th, Wm. Hall, 1019th, Wm. Hall, 1020th, Wm. Hall, 1021st, Wm. Hall, 1022nd, Wm. Hall, 1023rd, Wm. Hall, 1024th, Wm. Hall, 1025th, Wm. Hall, 1026th, Wm. Hall, 1027th, Wm. Hall, 1028th, Wm. Hall, 1029th, Wm. Hall, 1030th, Wm. Hall, 1031st, Wm. Hall, 1032nd, Wm. Hall, 1033rd, Wm. Hall, 1034th, Wm. Hall, 1035th, Wm. Hall, 1036th, Wm. Hall, 1037th, Wm. Hall, 1038th, Wm. Hall, 1039th, Wm. Hall, 1040th, Wm. Hall, 1041st, Wm. Hall, 1042nd, Wm. Hall, 1043rd, Wm. Hall, 1044th, Wm. Hall, 1045th, Wm. Hall, 1046th, Wm. Hall, 1047th, Wm. Hall, 1048th, Wm. Hall, 1049th, Wm. Hall, 1050th, Wm. Hall, 1051st, Wm. Hall, 1052nd, Wm. Hall, 1053rd, Wm. Hall, 1054th, Wm. Hall, 1055th, Wm. Hall, 1056th, Wm. Hall, 1057th, Wm. Hall, 1058th, Wm. Hall, 1059th, Wm. Hall, 1060th, Wm. Hall, 1061st, Wm. Hall, 1062nd, Wm. Hall, 1063rd, Wm. Hall, 1064th, Wm. Hall, 1065th, Wm. Hall, 1066th, Wm. Hall, 1067th, Wm. Hall, 1068th, Wm. Hall, 1069th, Wm. Hall, 1070th, Wm. Hall, 1071st, Wm. Hall, 1072nd, Wm. Hall, 1073rd, Wm. Hall, 1074th, Wm. Hall, 1075th, Wm. Hall, 1076th, Wm. Hall, 1077th, Wm. Hall, 1078th, Wm. Hall, 1079th, Wm. Hall, 1080th, Wm. Hall, 1081st, Wm. Hall, 1082nd, Wm. Hall, 1083rd, Wm. Hall, 1084th, Wm. Hall, 1085th, Wm. Hall, 1086th, Wm. Hall, 1087th, Wm. Hall, 1088th, Wm. Hall, 1089th, Wm. Hall, 1090th, Wm. Hall, 1091st, Wm. Hall, 1092nd, Wm. Hall, 1093rd, Wm. Hall, 1094th, Wm. Hall, 1095th, Wm. Hall, 1096th, Wm. Hall, 1097th, Wm. Hall, 1098th, Wm. Hall, 1099th, Wm. Hall, 1100th, Wm. Hall, 1101st, Wm. Hall, 1102nd, Wm. Hall, 1103rd, Wm. Hall, 1104th, Wm. Hall, 1105th, Wm. Hall, 1106th, Wm. Hall, 1107th, Wm. Hall, 1108th, Wm. Hall, 1109th, Wm. Hall, 1110th, Wm. Hall, 1111th, Wm. Hall, 1112th, Wm. Hall, 1113th, Wm. Hall, 1114th, Wm. Hall, 1115th, Wm. Hall, 1116th, Wm. Hall, 1117th, Wm. Hall, 1118th, Wm. Hall, 1119th, Wm. Hall, 1120th, Wm. Hall, 1121st, Wm. Hall, 1122nd, Wm. Hall, 1123rd, Wm. Hall, 1124th, Wm. Hall, 1125th, Wm. Hall, 1126th, Wm. Hall, 1127th, Wm. Hall, 1128th, Wm. Hall, 1129th, Wm. Hall, 1130th, Wm. Hall, 1131st, Wm. Hall, 1132nd, Wm. Hall, 1133rd, Wm. Hall, 1134th, Wm. Hall, 1135th, Wm. Hall, 1136th, Wm. Hall, 1137th, Wm. Hall, 1138th, Wm. Hall, 1139th, Wm. Hall, 1140th, Wm. Hall, 1141st, Wm. Hall, 1142nd, Wm. Hall, 1143rd, Wm. Hall, 1144th, Wm. Hall, 1145th, Wm. Hall, 1146th, Wm. Hall, 1147th, Wm. Hall, 1148th, Wm. Hall, 1149th, Wm. Hall, 1150th, Wm. Hall, 1151st, Wm. Hall, 1152nd, Wm. Hall, 1153rd, Wm. Hall, 1154th, Wm. Hall, 1155th, Wm. Hall, 1156th, Wm. Hall, 1157th, Wm. Hall, 1158th, Wm. Hall, 1159th, Wm. Hall, 1160th, Wm. Hall, 1161st, Wm. Hall, 1162nd, Wm. Hall, 1163rd, Wm. Hall, 1164th, Wm. Hall, 1165th, Wm. Hall, 1166th, Wm. Hall, 1167th, Wm. Hall, 1168th, Wm. Hall, 1169th, Wm. Hall, 1170th, Wm. Hall, 1171st, Wm. Hall, 1172nd,

PRICES CURRENT

IN

THE NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY

☞ Correspondents should bear in mind that our quotations represent prices for round lots, and in filling small orders higher rates must be paid.

GROCERIES.

Butter, ₩ lb.:
Western creamery, fancy	38	40
New York, choice	28	30
Coffee, ₩ lb.:
Rio, fair	16¼	16¾
Rio, good	16¾	17
Rio, prime	17¼	17½
Candles, ₩ lb.:
Star, best brands	12½	— —
Corn Meal, ₩ bbl.:
Choice	2 65	2 70
Cheese, ₩ lb.:
Factory	— —	— —
N. Y. cream and English dairy	15½	16
Fish:
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in bbls	— —	9 75
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in kits	— —	1 75
Sardines, quarter boxes	— —	— —
Flour, ₩ bbl.:
Superfine	4 50	4 75
XX	5 25	5 50
XXX	5 75	6 00
Choice XXX	6 10	6 75
Choice family	— —	— —
Fruits:
Dried apples, ₩ lb	5½	6
Dried peaches, ₩ lb	6	7
Raisins, ₩ quarter box	50	— —
Raisins, ₩ half box	1 25	— —
Raisins, ₩ whole box	2 50	— —
Bananas, ₩ bunch	75	1 25
Crackers, ₩ lb.:
Soda	5	6
Butter	6	7
Sugar	8	9
Gingersnaps	9	12½
Oil:
Coal, in cases, best	19	20½
Coal, in barrels, best	17	18
Insurance, in cases	— —	40
Insurance, in barrels	— —	35
Lard, in barrels, best	50	— —
Molasses, in barrels,
Common	25	28
Fair	30	42
Prime to choice	41	0
Golden and Roquet syrups	— —	— —
Half bbls, 5c. and kegs 10c. more.
Rice, Louisiana, ₩ lb.:
No. 2	4	4½
Ordinary	6	6½
Fair	6½	6¾
Prime to choice	7	7½
Soap, ₩ box:
XXX Palm	3 30	— —
Keller's magnolia	2 00	— —
Keller's olive	2 50	— —
Starch, ₩ lb.	3½	— —
Salt, in sacks:
Fine	1 32½	1 35
Coarse	1 10	92½
Sugar.
Good fair	— —	— —
Prime	— —	— —
Choice	— —	— —
Yellow clarified	8½	8¾
Off whites	8½	8¾
Crushed	9	— —
Powdered	9	— —
Spices, ₩ lb.:
Allspice	15¢	— —
Pepper	13¢	14
Cloves	45	— —
Cinnamon	— —	— —
Tea, ₩ lb.:
Black Oolong	27½	1 10
Green Imperial	80	90
Tobacco:
Low lugs	3½ @	3¾
Medium	4 @	4½
Good to fine	4½ @	5
Low leaf	5 @	5½
Medium	5 @	6
Good	6 @	7½
Fine	8 @	9
Selections	9 @	10

GRAIN AND FEED.

Corn, ₩ bushel:
Yellow	58	— —
White	60	— —
Mixed	58	— —
Oats, ₩ bushel:
St. Louis	— —	— —
Texas	— —	— —
Galena	35	40
Bran, choice, ₩ 100 lbs	75	— —
Hay, ₩ ton:
Prime	17 00	— —
Ordinary	— —	— —
Cow Peas:
Whippoorwill	— —	— —
Mixed	— —	— —
Clay	— —	— —

PROVISIONS.

Bacon, ₩ lb.:
Breakfast	7	7½
Sidesmiddles	4	4½
Sides, clear rib	4	4½
Sides, clear	7	7½
Hams, sugar-cured	— —	— —
Mess Pork, ₩ bbl	11 50	— —
Dry Salted Meat:
Shoulders	4½	4¾
Lard, ₩ lb.:
Choice, in kegs and pails	7½	— —
Choice, in tierces and barrels	7	7½

ESCULENTS.

Potatoes, ₩ bbl	1 00	2 50
Onions, ₩ bbl	1 00	4 25
Apples, ₩ bbl	2 00	2 50
Cabbages, ₩ 100	1 00	1 25

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Poultry, ₩ dozen:
Old chickens	4 00	4 50
Young	2 50	3 00
Ducks	2 50	3 00
Geese	3 50	5 00
Turkeys	9 00	15 00
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western	16	17
Louisiana	21	23

WOOL.

Burry	12	18
Louisiana, clear	28	31
Lake, clear	30	32

BALING STUFF.

Bagging:
India	— —	— —
Jute	10½	11
Ties, Arrow, best, per bundle, ₩ ties and buckles	— —	2 50
Twine, hemp	12	— —

"YOU DON'T KNOW THEIR VALUE."

"They cured me of Ague, Biliousness and Kidney Complaints, as recommended. I had a half bottle left which I used for my two little girls whom the doctors and neighbors said could not be cured. I am confident I should have lost both of them one night if I had not had the Hop Bitters in my house to use. I found they did them so much good I continued with them, and they are now well. That is why I say you do not know half the value of Hop Bitters, and do not recommend them highly enough."—B., Rochester, N. Y.—Adv.

NEW ENGLAND CRULLERS.—One quart flour; two teaspoonfuls Kellogg's Baking Powder; a cup sugar; a cup milk; two eggs; a tablespoonful butter, and a little grated nutmeg.

"We are going out with the tied," said a young man to a friend, as he flied down the church aisle after a wedding. "In that case," said a lady in front, "you can afford to get off my train," and he did.

VASELINE.

You may hunt the world over, and still will not find
A word of the household, which helps to the mind
The Rest of value, more plain to be seen
Than petroleum jelly, the famed Vaseline.

If a cut or a scratch, or a wound or a burn
From peace to convulsion, the house-hold shall turn,
On the shelf should be found the fav'rite pain,
And quiet shall reign in the household again.

If our dearest and fairest are kissed by the sun,
And the touch of his Rays is too rough to be borne,
Kind Vaseline comes as gently he woos,
And the cheek takes on velvet it had not elsewhere.

If the voice it is husky, the throat it is sore,
Take the jelly at once, and the trouble is over.
In fact read the circular, send from it glean
All the virtue and claims of the famed Vaseline.

COMMERCIAL.

ADVOCATE OFFICE,
New Orleans, Monday, Nov. 10, 1879.

COTTON.

The news has imparted an additional and stronger impulse to the market, and, although the movement has been checked by the high pretensions of factors, yet the sales already reach 3 500 bales.

The following is the official closing of the Cotton Exchange:

	To-Day.	Saturday
Low ordinary
Ordinary
Good ordinary	10⅞	10⅝
Low middling	11⅛	10¾
Middling	11¼	11
Good middling	11⅜	11⅛
Middling fair	12	11⅝

Sales to-day, 12 200 bales, including 500 yesterday. Market irregular.

Receipts at United States ports, week ending Monday, November 10, 1879.

	Saturday.	Sunday and Monday.	This week last year.
Galveston	2,056	6,590	21, 90
New Orleans	10 051	13 8 0	38 87
Mobile	1 [illegible]	3 766	19,7 3
Savannah	6 331	9 11	26,3 9
Charleston	3,078	2,782	21 768
Wilmington	67	227	5,696
Norfolk	3 955	6,356	17,283
Baltimore			1,223
New York	297	1,973	5,493
Boston	711	975	4 857
Philadelphia	175	432	936
Various			10 918
Total	28,562	40,595	176,877

FUTURES.

The position of the market at New York may be seen by the following:

Middling.	To-day.	Saturday.
January	11.58@11.62	11.7
February	11.85@11.88	11.97
March	12.09@12.07	12 16@12.17
April	12.17@12.19	12.30@12.33
May	12.32@12.35	12.45@12.47
June	12.46@12.49	12.58@12.59
July	12.51@12.56	12.64@12.65
August
September
October
November	11.20@11.00	11.00
December	11.50@11.50	11.48

Sales, 254,000 bales. Market easy.

WHY?—"Father," said a little girl, "why does everybody speak so much of poor E——'s goodness? We never heard of her doing anything remarkable." "My child," asked her father, "what is the lamp doing?" "Nothing, father." "You are right, my child; it is not doing anything; nevertheless it is lighting up the whole room." "Let your light so shine before men," said One, "that they may see your good works and glorify your Father who is in heaven."

A far seeing managing editor says: Young men sending spring poetry to this office will please send names and addresses; not for publication, but as an evidence of their insanity in case they are arrested for murder.

An old man who had been badly hurt in a railway collision, being advised to sue the company for damages, said, "Well, no, not for damages. I've had enough of them, but I'll just sue 'em for repairs."

MISCELLANEOUS.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER.
FOR WOMEN & CHILDREN.

For the countless suffering from pain and weakness will derive great comfort and strength from the use of Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster. Where children are affected with whooping cough, ordinary coughs, or colds or weak lungs, it is the one and only treatment they should receive. This article contains new medicinal elements, such as is found in no other remedy in the same form. It is far superior to the common porous plasters, liniments, electricity, plain cerate and other external remedies. It relieves pain at once, strengthens and cures where other plasters will not even relieve. For Lame and Weak Back, Rheumatism, Kidney disease and all local aches and pains it is also the best-known remedy.

Ask for Benson's Capcine Plaster and take no other. Sold by all Druggists.

Price 25 cents.

JUST OUT!
BELLS OF CORNEVILLE!

A kind comes and completes right on of the 2 Bells of Corneville" by Planquette. It is now ready, and the music, the acting, scenery and everything are of the within the reach of amateurs; it is sure to be extensively given and enjoyed. Pretty, lively French village scenes, contrasting with events in the haunted castle, make a splendid combination. Words and music complete. Price $1 50

WHITE ROBIN, the new Sunday School Song Book, by Abbey and Main, is, we think, far to be one of the most successful books of its class, as it is made up only of sweetest and best. It will pay to buy one if only to sing from at home. Price, thirty-five cents.

VOICE OF WORSHIP. (L. O. Emerson.) $9 per dozen.
THE TEMPLE. (W. O'Perkins.) $9.00 per dozen.
NEW METHOD FOR SINGING CLASSES. (A. N. Johnson.) $6 per dozen.
The above are our three newest Singing School Books. The first two have a full set of tunes for choirs.

See full lists of new sheet music, every week in the Musical Record. That is the way to keep well informed of all new issues. Mailed for six cents.

Will for three books, (almost through the press)
TEMPERANCE JEWELS. J. H. Tenney.
AMERICAN ANTHEM BOOK.
PARLOR ORGAN INSTRUCTION BOOK. A. N. Johnson.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston,
C. H. DITSON & CO.
843 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

DISCOVERY BY which hair can be forced to grow on the smoothest heads. The papers all over the country contain notices of the remarkable virtues of Mrs. Hyatt's Hair Restorer, and there are scores of living witnesses in St. Louis who take pleasure in testifying to the efficacy of the Restorer. Mrs. Hyatt's principle is the most reasonable, because she proceeds on the well-based supposition that the hair gerto never dies while the person, and that it is only necessary to stimulate the gerto to produce a satisfactory growth. Three bottles for $5; $1 to accompany the order and balance to be paid when medicine is delivered.
827 Emily Street,
St. Louis, Mo

STAINED GLASS
FOR CHURCHES
Manufactured by
GEO. A. MISCH.
247 East Washington st.
Chicago, Ills.

T. W. ROTHER,
UNDERTAKER,
OFFICE, 271 CAMP STREET.
STABLES, 272 MAGAZINE STREET
Embalming and disinterring bodies. Bodies carefully shipped. Carriages for hire.
FUNERALS STRICT ATTENTION, 89.

Episcopal Appointments for 1879.

CONFERENCE.	PLACE.	BISHOP.	TIME.
Arkansas	Ozark	Pierce	Nov. 12
Virginia	Norfolk	Wightman	Nov. 19
Memphis	Mayfield	Kavanaugh	Nov. 19
N. Georgia	Augusta	Doggett	Nov. 26
White River	Forest City	Pierce	Nov. 26
N. Alabama	Tuscaloosa	Paine	Nov. 26
N. Carolina	Wilson	Wightman	Dec. 3
N. Mississippi	Water Valley	Kavanaugh	Dec. 3
East Texas	Palestine	McTyeire	Dec. 3
S. Georgia	Perry	Doggett	Dec. 10
Texas	Austin	McTyeire	Dec. 10
Little Rock	Camden	Pierce	Dec. 10
Louisiana	Baton Rouge	Keener	Dec. 10
Florida	Tallahassee	Doggett	Dec. 17
S. Carolina	Charleston	Wightman	Dec. 17
Mississippi	Meridian	Kavanaugh	Dec. 17
Alabama	Tuskegee	Paine	Dec. 17
Baltimore	Front Royal	Keener	Mar. 5

Bishop McTyeire has charge of the Mission in China.

Bishop Keener has charge of the Missions in Brazil and Mexico.

NEW WHEAT FLOUR!

We have LOWERED THE PRICE OF OUR BEST BRANDS OF FLOUR and are selling at the lowest market price by the barrel.

No Drayage Charged in Delivering to Any Part of the City, Steamboat or Railroad.

TEAS! TEAS! TEAS!

Of the NEWEST CROP and of the STRONGEST and most DELICATE FLAVOR. Our prices are as CHEAP AS THE CHEAPEST.

SUGARS! COFFEE!

BREAKFAST BACON, CREAMERY BUTTER, TONGUES, AND FULTON MARKET BEEF.

New Shaker
PRESERVES AND JELLIES.

PLANTATION SUPPLIES
OF EVERY KIND.

Small Orders from the Country Neatly and Securely Boxed and Promptly Filled.

DIRECT YOUR ORDERS TO
JOHN K. RENAUD & CO.,
New Orleans,
Corner Camp and Julia streets.
Say you saw our advertisement in the N. O. C. A.

W. C. SHEPARD & Co.,
AMERICAN CHINA HOUSE,
49 Camp Street, New Orleans.

$15 will buy an elegant American China (or any equal to French China in appearance and far more durable) DINNER SET, comprising pieces to wit:

12 Breakfast Plates,	1 Soup Tureen,
12 Dinner Plates,	1 Sauce Boat,
12 Tea Plates,	1 Salad Dish,
12 Soup Plates,	1 Covered Dish,
12 Preserve Plates,	2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Butter Plates,	1 Cake Plate,
12 Tea Cups and Saucers,	1 Pickle Dish,
12 Dinner Coffee Cups and Saucers,	1 Sugar Dish,
12 Egg Cups,	1 Cream Dish,
	1 Ice Pail.

81 pc. China DINNER SETS. WRITE
Decorated CHAMBER SETS. FOR Real French China DINNER SETS. PRICES.
Gold Banded CHINA TEA SETS.
Tea & TUMBLERS.
Tables & CHAIRS.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.

Established 1838.

JOHN GAUCHE,
MORESQUE BUILDING,
CAMP STREET,
Branch House, 120 Chartres Street.

IMPORTER

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Plain White,
Gold Band and Decorated

CHINA,

Parian and Biscuit Statuettes and Busts,

A Full Line of Baccarat & Bohemian

GLASSWARE.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF

MAJOLICA, CLOCKS, LOOKING GLASSES AND HOUSEFURN-ISHING GOODS

GLASS SHADES IN GREAT VARIETY,

AT VERY LOW PRICES.

Call and See.

COAL.....COAL.....COAL

B. D. WOOD & BROS.,
Corner Camp and Common Streets,
Opposite the City Hotel,

Wholesale and Retail dealers in all kinds of COAL. Pittsburg Coal delivered by boat-load or less on the coast, and shipped in casks or in bulk, at lowest market rates. City trade supplied.

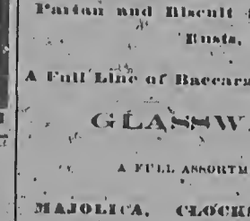
Carpets and Mattings.

ELKIN & CO.

100.....CANAL STREET.....100
NEW PATTERNS
CANTON MATTINGS, Best Quality.
WHITE AND CHECK
CANTON MATTING, For all Grades,
Oil Cloths, all widths, Linoleums and Linoleum Floor Cloths, Nottingham Lace Curtains, new designs, Window Shades and Cornices.
CARPETS OF ALL KINDS
At Reduced Prices.

GRAUGNARD & SCHNEIDER,
DEALERS IN
Fine Cut Chewing, Smoking and Smoking
TOBACCO,
HAVANA AND HOMESTIC CIGARS,
40 Magazine Street, New Orleans, La.
Briar Root and all other Varieties of Pipes constantly on hand.

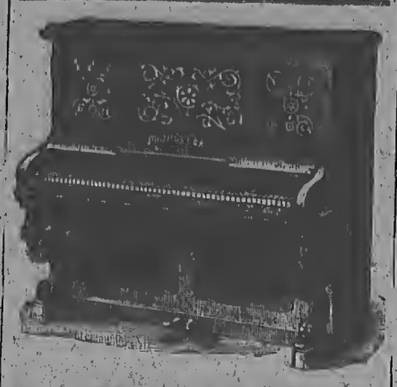
COLUMBIA BICYCLE.



A practical machine for all except the old and infirm. Better than horses as it eats no oats, because on it you can ride more miles in a day over common roads than a horse can go. Send 3c. stamp for price list and twenty-four page catalogue with testimonials and full information.

THE POPE MANUF'G CO.,
Summer St., Boston, Mass.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.



P. WERLEIN,
135 Canal Street,
The Leading Southern PIANO, ORGAN
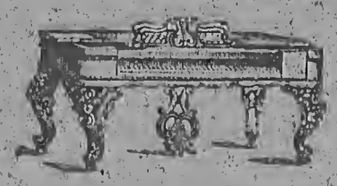
AND
MUSIC HOUSE.

BEST PIANOS AND ORGANS.
Lowest Prices,
Liberal Terms.



My stock consists of the unrivaled
Chickering Pianos,
The Excellent
Mathushek Pianos,
The Reliable and Fine Toned
Hale Pianos.

These Pianos possess all the desirable musical and mechanical qualities of first-class Pianos, and have reached a point of excellence which it seems scarcely possible to surpass. They are constructed of the very best material throughout, and are of the highest workmanship. Their tone is sweet and brilliant, and possesses a peculiar singing quality found in no other Pianos. All improvements developed in the art of Piano making during the last ten years in Europe and this country have been applied to these above Pianos. As to DURABILITY these Pianos are unsurpassed. Not only will they last during a lifetime, but their tone will actually IMPROVE by use for many years.

Prices lower than they have ever been, and my terms to suit every purse.

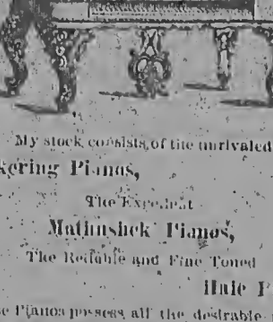
SECOND HAND PIANOS

Which have been rented out during the winter for sale at half their value on payments of from—

from $ a Week Upward.

FULL WARRANTY given with every Piano sold by me. I want my customers to be perfectly satisfied with their purchases and to recommend my house to such of their friends as need Pianos. Should a customer be dissatisfied, Piano will cheerfully be exchanged, or

THE MONEY REFUNDED.



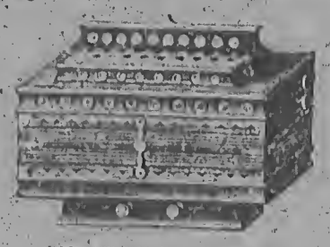
ORGANS.

I am keeping a large stock on hand, consisting of the celebrated

ESTEY,
MASON & HAMLIN,
AND
NEW ENGLAND ORGANS,

Which are considered the BEST in the World. Sold on monthly or quarterly installments.

Churches, Sunday-Schools and Lodges supplied AT FACTORY PRICES. Send for illustrated Catalogue.



DIRECT IMPORTATION OF

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

—SUCH AS—

ACCORDEONS, CONCERTINAS, VIOLINS, HARMONICAS, MUSIC BOXES, FLUTES, GUITARS, HAND ORGANS, ZITHERS.

STRINGS

For all Instruments for sale at
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL

Agency for the celebrated
LECOMPTE BRASS INSTRUMENTS.

The best toned, best made, and cheapest instruments of the kind made.

Send for Illustrated Catalogue.

My MUSIC DEPARTMENT is complete, and includes everything published in this country or in Europe. Sheet Music and Music Books sold at a liberal discount.

PHILIP WERLEIN,
135 CANAL STREET.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LARGEST AND MOST POPULAR
MUSIC HOUSE IN THE SOUTH.

Easiest Terms Lowest Prices

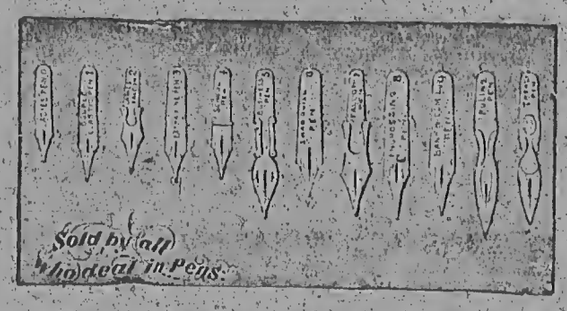
General Agency for the celebrated
STEINWAY, KNABE, PLEYEL, FISCHER PIANOS
And the Popular Organs of
CLOUGH & WARREN AND PELOUBET, PELTON & CO.
Everything in the Music line at rock bottom prices. Send for illustrated catalogues.
LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
Grunewald Hall, New Orleans.

YALE & BOWLING,
IMPORTERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN
- DRY GOODS -
NOTIONS AND MILLINERY,
17, 19 and 21 - Magazine Street, - 17, 19 and 21
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

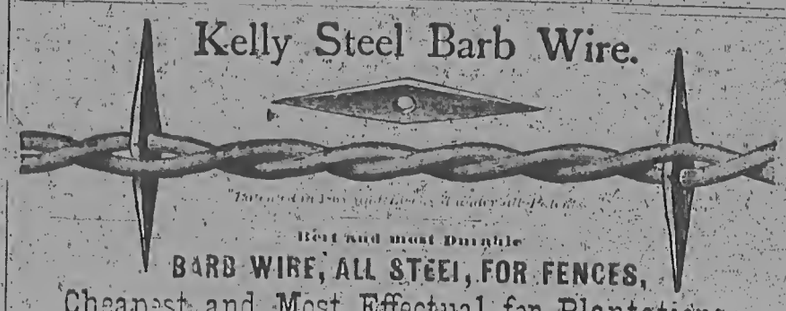
WARRINGTON STEEL PEN CO.'S STEEL PENS.
EQUAL IN QUALITY TO ANY



THAT CAN BE PRODUCED.

Office: 105 and 107 N. Fifth St., Philadelphia.
For Sale by Lathrop & Wilkins, 112 Camp street, N. O.

Kelly Steel Barb Wire.

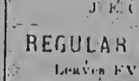


Best and most Durable
BARB WIRE, ALL STEEL, FOR FENCES,
Cheapest and Most Effectual for Plantations.
PROOF AGAINST STOCK, STORMS OR FIRE.
Weighs less than Seven Pounds per 100 feet.
THORN WIRE HEDGE CO., Chicago,
C. E. CUTLER & CO., Agents, Mobile, Ala.
H. SCHWARTZ & BRO., Agents, New Orleans.

Regular Opelousas Mail Packet,
LEAVES EVERY TUESDAY AT 4 P. M.

For Washington, Opelousas and all points on Grand Lake, Bayou Teche, Vermilion River and Bayou Courtableau, and Atchafalaya River and Bayou Cocodrie and tributaries.
For freight or passage apply on board or to
R. W. ALEXANDER, Master.
J. E. CARLIN, 47 Tchoupitoulas St.

REGULAR OPELOUSAS PACKET
Leaves EVERY TUESDAY at 5 P. M.



For Washington Opelousas,
Port Barre, Simmesport, Charenton and all the Bayou Teche Coast, Atchafalaya River and Bayou Courtableau. The very light draft passenger steamer
YAZOO,
WM. CRAWFORD, Master. J. H. SCHMIT, Clerk.
Will leave positively as above. For freight or passage apply on board or to LORD & McPEAKE, Agents, 46 Camp St.
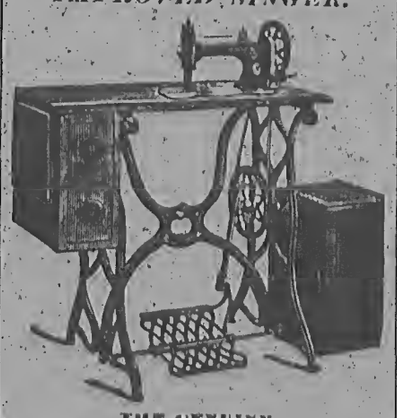
GEO. H. ICKE, Agent, 4 Tchoupitoulas st.
P.S.—Connects closely with Boats for Bayou Des Glaize and Barges for Bayou Boeuf.

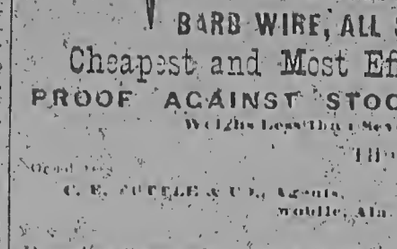
BEWARE OF
Imitation Machines
Offered by second-hand dealers as
IMPROVED SINGER.



THE GENUINE
SINGER MACHINE,
—MADE BY THE—
Singer Manufacturing Co
HAS NO EQUAL.
2,500,000 Singers in Daily Use.
Two-thirds of all the machines sold in the United States are those made by
The Singer Company,
Send for Circular and Price List. Address
The Singer Manufacturing Co.,
85 CANAL STREET,
Agent's for Butterick's Patterns.

Glass Ball Castors.
For Furniture, Pianos, Organs, Etc.
The best and most ornamental Caster in the market. They greatly improve the tone of musical instruments. Noiseless, Rheumatism and Sleeplessness Cured by insulating beds with them. Highest testimonials. Sold by dealers.
Address for circulars
PARENT & CO.,
96 John St., New York.

BEWARE OF
Imitation Machines
Offered by second-hand-dealers as
IMPROVED SINGER.



THE GENUINE
SINGER MACHINE,
—MADE BY THE—
Singer Manufacturing Co
HAS NO EQUAL.
2,500,000 Singers in Daily Use.
Two-thirds of all the machines sold in the United States are those made by
The Singer Company,
Send for Circular and Price List. Address
The Singer Manufacturing Co.,
85 CANAL STREET,
Agent's for Butterick's Patterns.

WILLIAM BUNNS,
Old Virginia Kitchen,
No. 74 CAMP STREET,
Meals and Rooms by the Day or Week, on the European Plan.
Meals at all Hours of the Day

LYNCH & GOMIEN,
Manufacturers of Pianos,
1321 BROADWAY cor. 35th Street.
NEW YORK.

TESTIMONIALS FROM WELL-KNOWN PERSONS.

From Mrs. General Sherman.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 22, 1879.
Messrs. LYNCH & GOMIEN:
Gentlemen—I am very much pleased with the Piano you made for me. It is really a fine instrument in every respect, and is admired by all who have seen and heard it. It is the true tone of Power, and Beauty of Design. Many good musicians and all amateurs, per-ons have called since it has been in our parlor, and all pronounce it a fine instrument. We ourselves are charmed with it. I shall most certainly recommend it to my friends who may wish to purchase.
I am, very truly and respectfully yours,
ELLEN B. E. SHERMAN.
238 I Street.

St. James, December 27, 1873.
Messrs. LYNCH & GOMIEN:
Gentlemen—I am very happy to be able to rank your Pianos as one of the very best I ever heard and saw. I think the touch and brilliancy of tone required to perform the great pieces of modern and classic masters are equal to any Piano made in this country. Hoping that your Pianos will also stand our climate as well as any other manufactured at the North, I shall with much pleasure recommend them wherever I have an opportunity. Very respectfully yours,
ANTHONY WIMMER
Professor of Music St. Mary, Jefferson College
St. James, La. (Convent, P. O.)

From the World Renowned Artist, Camilla Urso.
NEW YORK, May 27, 1873.
Messrs. LYNCH & GOMIEN:
Gentlemen—After giving your Pianos a fair trial I am happy to congratulate you upon the achievements you have made. Your instruments possess pure tone, and it gives me much pleasure to recommend them to the public.
Yours truly, CAMILA URSO.

Extract of Letter from W. H. Aldridge, Saint Tex.
We are delighted with the Piano. The tone is loud, strong and full, yet soft and mellow.
WM. G. LHOTE. A. SAMUELS.

LHOTE & CO,
OLD BASIN
SASH, BLIND,
DOOR FACTORY,
AND
Lumber Yard,
Offices, Cor. Toulouse & Franklin and 32 Carondelet Sts.,
P. O. Box 836. NEW ORLEAN

THE ORIGINAL
Superintendent of Dr. Bly and Lewis Lockwood of New Orleans,
A. McDERMOTT,
has returned and established the lushness of manufacturing Dr. Bly's patent
ARTIFICIAL
Arms and Legs,
and has purchased the sole right for the Southern States. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed if all goes or no pay. Prices greatly reduced.
A. McDERMOTT,
303 Camp Street, N. O.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 25. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1879. NO. 47.

The Christian Advocate.

ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
G. T. LATHROP, Publisher.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address all matters of business, G. T. LATHROP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication REV. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. FELIX R. HILL.
REV. H. D. MOORE.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS, D. D.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.
REV. CHRISTIAN KEENER.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate can be furnished to subscribers at the following rates (including postage):

One Year	$2 00
Six Months	1 00
Three Months	50

To all Ministers of the Gospel and widows of deceased traveling preachers:

One Year	$1 50
Six Months	50
Three Months	25

THY WILL BE DONE.

BY SAXE HOLM.

I can not think but God must know
About the thing I long for so,
Whether 't is good or ill.
I can not think but He will send
Some way to help me to the end,
Or show me that I long for wrong.

I 've reached my hand — it lies so near,
It looks so white, it looks so dear,
"Dear Lord," I pray, "do let me know,
If this wrong is to want so."
Heavily smiles. He does not speak;
My heart grows weaker and more weak,
With looking at the thing so dear,
Which lies so far and yet so near.

Now, Lord, I leave at Thy loved feet
This thing which looks so sweet, so sweet,
I will not ask for it one more,
Almost for I have been wrong.
I'll go and work the harder, Lord,
And will till I see new but clearer Word.
Then call at once the Thing I wished,
To take this thing so dear, so sweet.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 11.—Northwestern Arkansas advices say: A tornado passed through part of Crawford county Saturday, destroying nearly everything in its course, killing several persons and wounding others.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—A special from El Paso, Texas, reporting fight with Indians, in general, in Galveston News special, says these Indians have killed more than two hundred persons within the past six weeks.

PETERSBURG, Nov. 11.—The Venerable Rev. Dr. Lovick Pierce, of the M. E. Church South, aged 93 years, in active ministry for 75 years, was buried here this afternoon. Rev. A. G. Haygood, President of the Emory College, preached the funeral sermon, and many prominent citizens took part in the services.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 12.—A meeting of the Shelby County Medical Association held to-day, twenty-six members, three guests of the Association, every member of physicians in Memphis except two or three, and practically attended the last, and a large number of the latter were present.

VICKSBURG, Nov. 12.—Charles Manis Cotton Seed Oil Mill burned at 1 o'clock this morning. It is claimed that the fire resulted from a cutout. Loss $15,000, insurance $8,000.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 12.—Returns from every county in the State give a final vote for State Treasurer, as follows: Butler, Republican, 280,513; Rex, Democrat, 221,775; Stitzel, Greenback, 27,207; Richardson, Prohibition, 3,270.

DETROIT, Nov. 13.—Gov. Croswell has appointed Fernando C. Beaman, United States Senator, to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator Chandler.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Upon representations of numerous frauds in the sale of stamps in the Post Office Department, the Postmaster General has arrived at the conclusion that all lottery companies and lottery agents are aiding a fraudulent business within the purview of the statutory powers of increasing salaries to defraud the public. He has, therefore, commenced the issuance of special orders to postmasters at specified cities, directed by him to be published in papers known to be the means to the Dead Letter Office.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 14.—A severe gale swept over this part of this this forenoon. Twenty-eight wires of the Western Union Telegraph Company were prostrated. The roof of the Central Christian Church was blown off, and other damage done. Buildings were also unroofed, and walls blown in at Hamilton, and Greenburg, Indiana.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 15.—A mass meeting of citizens of all classes was held to-night in the Gayoso, which was addressed by Dr. A. N. Bell, of New York, on the subject of sanitation.

Resolutions were adopted appealing to the Governor to call an extra session of the Legislature, and a committee of fifteen appointed to devise and agree upon a plan, in conference with the National Board of Health, whereby the citizens of Memphis can suggest to the Legislature whatever action may be necessary looking to the improved sanitation of this city.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 15.—The regulators in Northeastern Kentucky have issued a proclamation fashioned after the declaration of Independence. It recites that in view of a reign of assassination, robbery and rapine, which has lasted in that region four years, they have had to band together to protect themselves and the property of honorable people. They deny that they are a mob, but assert that they are an organized and disciplined set of men who mean business. They assure good citizens they have nothing to fear, and warn all barn burners and murderers to leave the country, and threaten them with lynch law where the State law fails to do its duty.

NINTH EASTHAM, Mass., Nov. 17.—Work was commenced on the shore end of the cable yesterday, and at 6 P. M. it was on the beach and laid through a trench dug to receive it, and signals exchanged with the Faraday from a temporary building on the beach. The shore end being landed, the submarine connected with the cable company, and the American Union Telegraph Company, and others went aboard a steamer and proceeded to the spot where the cable was buoyed, ten miles off shore.

To-day the final splice will be made, and the cable will be worked throughout the entire circuit from Cape Cod to Brest, and America and Europe connected by another line.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—A Pera dispatch to the Daily Telegraph, says: Abdel Kader, one of the four Algerian Chiefs, died recently at Damascus at the age of 72.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—A Constantinople dispatch says: Telegrams showing total destruction of the Turkish cabinet by explosion, and the death of three wives, Russia Sultan's favorite, are to prevent the views of the Grand Vizier and Osman Pasha, who espouse Abdul-Hamid's cause, interfering with Russia.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—A Cabul dispatch says: In fact of the continuity of Yakub Khan in the massacre of Europeans, strengthens the Amir and his revenge cabinet, and compels those who before were lukewarm to join in punishing the Logar Mahomedans. Affairs, however, wear their old aspect, and thirty thousand men are ordered there.

The announcement was not a surprise to those who knew the circumstances. They were rather surprised that the fellow hung so long without the wasting fires, and that the ordeal had been permitted to last so long, and the stories of its heavy ends and grand achievements.

Dr. Pierce has been confined to his house and his bed since last December. He died yesterday morning, as far as we are informed, peacefully, and in thorough preparation for the translation of his spirit. He was in the ninety-fifth year of his age, and of his ministry in the Methodist Church the seventy-fifth.

In the early career of Dr. Pierce we have at hand only very meagre details. We learn that he has prepared notes of his entire ministry, but they have not been given to the public. From these data at hand we find that he was born of humble parentage in Halifax county, North Carolina, in the month of March, 1785. His parents shortly after moved into the Barnwell district, in South Carolina, where he was brought up to manhood. He had a brother, Reddick Pierce, who was some two years his senior. They had few advantages in youth, and came to manhood with but a limited English education. Both were men of individuality, but the characteristics of their genius have been happily discriminated and stated by a recent author, who says that "Reddick Pierce would have been a Cyclopean Workman in granite, while Lovick Pierce would have proven his greatness in marble." They were born destined for greatness in their after life, but it was to the efforts and achievements of the younger that the world was to become indebted in an untold measure.

Both brothers were early converted to God, and entered the society of Methodists. They felt the inspiration to become preachers of the Word and sought admission to the ministry. It was at the conference held in Charleston, January 1, 1805, that they were admitted on trial. Reddick being then 22 years old and Lovick, not quite 20 years of age. The conference was presided over by the beloved Bishop Asbury, who gave words of cheer and God-speed to both. Reddick, we believe, was sent to Cumberland and Lovick to a circuit, on the Great Pedee in South Carolina. They labored quietly and yet successfully, the elder brother making a famous reputation as an exhorter. Lovick's preaching was of a more logical stamp, he appealing to the mind through other media to stir the emotions.

One year later, in 1806, the Georgia circuit was enlarged and Lovick Pierce was sent with Joseph Tarpley, on the Apalachee circuit, comprising the large counties then of Greene, Clarke and Jackson. His labors were marked and his administrations effective and he was loved of his elders.

Two years later, in 1808, he was called to take charge of the Uchee district and enjoyed the distinction of being the youngest presiding elder in America Methodism. In this capacity he was called upon for the exercise of his best powers. The country was then upon the borders of the Indian territory and it was a great labor to hold even the Lord's field gained, much greater and often impossible to make new establishments of altars of the Most High. Lovick Pierce bent all his energies to the work and accomplished great results. The powerful and pious old Christian, Hope Hull, took him into his affections and aided him vastly in the prosecution of his arduous labors. The work grew and prospered and the numbers an influence of the church grew wonderfully under his care.

It is impossible to follow in this brief review all the changes and incidents of the early career of Dr. Pierce, but we single out the leading events that are a part of the data in our possession.

In 1812 he was stationed at Milledgeville, and the war between America and Great Britain was pressing. A draft was ordered, and he was among those drawn to serve. At that time ministers were not exempted from militia duty, and he joined his company. He was appointed its chaplain, however, and remained with it in Savannah during the time it was stationed there.

He was afterward located in various stations or circuits, and constantly grew in force and influence in the church. It was in 1812, at the Conference of that year, that he brought up for admission to the ministry James Osgood Andrews, who afterward became one of the most distinguished Bishops of the church. In fact, in the record of his long career we read of his aid and encouragement freely given in their early days to many of those who have become most distinguished in the ministry of the Methodist Church, South.

It was in the year 1812, as near as we can gather, that he was married to Greensboro to a Miss Foster, a member of a distinguished family in the State. She was one of the noblest of women, and held to him in truth the position of a helpmeet. She was celebrated for her gentle qualities and piety. From 1814 to 1823 he was located, as it was called, and retired from the regular ministry. He lived at Greensboro, Georgia, and practiced medicine. He made his mark for the time being in the profession than he did in the ministry. In 1823 Dr. Pierce returned to the traveling ministry, and returned to Augusta, where he had once been in local orders. It is related of him that before he went to Augusta he was dressed in the plain Quaker clothes with no distinctive trimmings, and the young men of the place, to whom dress, dancing and all kinds of fashionable sport of the new preacher. He preached in such plain sermons the terms of salvation. He was very fashionable for those days, and he was a target of their jeers. As he would pass the streets they would gather upon the corners and solicit him with remarks of "Methodist preacher." The preacher in homespun loudly trumpeted and left behind him an impression and influence that was felt for years following.

His great influence in the church is one of its strongest things in Georgia. He has held no office in the ministry except Bishop. He gave to the church, however, a Bishop in the person of his son, George E. Pierce, who is to-day one of its most powerful leaders. George E. Pierce was admitted to the ministry at the first Georgia Conference in Marion, January 1, 1831. His career is of more recent date, and is a part of contemporary Methodist history.

Dr. Pierce has been a delegate to every General Conference of the Methodist Church, South, and in 1848 was the Doleful messenger sent to the North to General Conference, but was refused admission and recognition. In 1874 he was one of the three sent in response to those who came to the Southern General Conference at Louisville. He was unable to go to the Conference North, but wrote a fraternal letter upon the fraternal relations of the churches.

The death of his wife occurred in 1850, while Dr. Pierce was attending the General Conference in St. Louis. He did not learn of it until he reached Kansas, on the State road, when the news was broken to him and his son by Rev. J. E. Evans, of this city, who was one of his warmest and most beloved brother ministers and friends. She died in Columbus, where Dr. Pierce then was stationed. We learn that the remains of the venerable preacher will go to Columbus to-day, to be laid away in mother earth beside the ashes of that beloved wife.

His last sermon was preached at Marietta, during the North Georgia Conference, on the first Sunday in December last. It was a raw and blustery day, and affected him in health. His sermon was one of great power, for it exhausted him. He complained afterward, and en route home was prostrated in Macon. He lay in bed there entirely ill for six weeks, and was then moved to Sparta, to the home of the Bishop, his son, where he has since remained. He has performed no official relations since, except to baptize some children at the house wherein he was confined.

Bishop Pierce left home on Thursday last and passed through Atlanta on Friday, en route to Athens, to hold Conference. He said his father was failing, and had said to him:

"George, you will never see me alive again. I am dying, but it may take me a week to get through."

The Bishop left impressed with the truth, of the report, but hoped the end was not so near. The Bishop himself is in very bad health.

Mexico City Mission.

CHARACTER OF THE WORK.

Doubtless it will be of much interest to many friends of the cause to know something of the character of the work among the Mexican people. It is certainly not with us its difficulties and discouragements occasionally meet disappointments; but there is much ground for rejoicing in what God has already wrought among this people, and hoping for greater results in the future. The character and spirit of the workers indicate the prospects of the work. The presence and influence of the Holy Spirit, felt and acknowledged, will work wonders among the people and awaken their joyous praises to God.

I design at present only to make a few quotations from the letters of brethren written to me in giving an account of their work. As I am with some of them almost constantly, I hear and see, as well as read, what is done. From one of the towns in the Toluca Valley a brother writes, Aug. 16: "The Lord blesses us. Yesterday we had good success in our services, there being thirty-eight persons present. Brother —— and family were full of joy, and my heart was not free from the same emotion. Blessed be God and his Holy Spirit that guides us." This brother of whom he speaks is a cripple from the ill treatment of fanatical Romanists, but he keeps large-lettered scripture-texts hanging from his door posts, and an open Bible in a glass box in the presence of every one who enters his store, which stands upon the highway where fanatics are constantly passing. In this town of three or four thousand inhabitants we have a good congregation, and they are anxious to exchange their little square room in a private house for a new church.

In another letter the brother says: "I went to visit the town of ——. The rains were heavy and the roads bad. My horse fell with me I see. When night came on I could scarcely see my hand, but how good is the God of the Christian, who always fills us with comfort in the midst of our great trials! We reached the house of a Christian brother, who received us with love as Filemon. Next day we celebrated our worship with twenty-three persons present in the morning and fifty at night. I remained to give the sacrament, and we were so much pressed for time that we could only partake of the holy bread. These brethren, all humble, in poverty as to worth goods, but rich in the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ." During the visit the Sunday congregation promised to build a house for worship, which God is largely enlarging and increasing day by day. Blessed be his name. Again: "Before I left the city of —— I gave some information to the Jewish agent in respect to the person who took charge of the Bible which God is largely circulating

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1879.

"JESUS WAS NOT COME."

BY MARGARET J. PRESTON.

"It was now dark, and Jesus was not come."

And the disciples, faint with toiling, yet,
Strained at their oars, exhausted, wave-drenched, numb,
On wild Gennesaret.

But they were where the Lord had bid them go;
And, though the seething sea might foam and chafe,
And down the gorges wrecking blasts might blow,
Their little bark was safe.

Yet—"It was dark, and Jesus was not come."
And as the hurricane freshened made,
With faithless fear their stricken hearts grew dumb,
And they were sore afraid.

Still, on "they toiled in rowing," as before
Troubled, it may be, as it came to mind,
That, while they struggled to the farther shore,
They left their Lord behind.

But when, across the blinding spray, their eyes
Caught a faint glimpse of the Beloved form
Brave through the rapture of their strong surprise,
What cared they for the storm?

On other seas, how many a beaten bark,
Troubled in the depth of sorrow's hilly sway,
Sends out the wail—"All's dark,
And Jesus has not come."

If at His word we launch and dare the gale—
If every sail on crested wave be lost,
Still let us toil beneath the close-reefed sail:
His own are never lost!

Though it be dark, and Jesus has not come,
The grief makes moan and frenzied anguish raves,
The eyes that watch will see Him through the gloom,
Walking upon the waves.

And when we have received Him and have sat
Down at His feet in wonder and content,
What joy will swell our souls to find we're "at
The land whereto we went!"

—Sunday-school Times.

Credible Profession.

MR. EDITOR: Some time ago I gave you a short revival notice, in which I stated "the revival interest has extended to all denominations. The Baptists have had wonderful influence with the children. We are glad to see them come over to the practice of infant baptism."

The Rev. M. V. Nappsinger, of the Baptist Church, takes notice of it in the Baptist Record, in a rather heated spirit. It is somewhat strange that a minister of the gospel, especially one in the only true church on earth, cannot reply to a little revival notice without showing anger and accusing one of falsehood. Why not state what his church had done, and show that I labored under a false impression, if that impression was false? He does not deny baptizing children. Here is what he says:

"Bro. Evans, the Methodist minister at Brooksville, in an article to the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, 'thanks God that the Baptists have commenced baptizing children too.' Why did he not thank God for all the rest of it?—viz: that they were all baptized upon a credible profession of faith in Christ. What is to be done with a preacher who seeks to make false impressions by withholding a part of the truth? (See Ananias and Sapphira.) I turn him over to the Committee on Character at the next Annual Conference."

You notice he says "Bro. Evans thanks God." My article does not so read. I presume he had never seen it. If not, he should not have professed to use my language. If he had seen it he should have quoted me correctly. When one accuses his neighbor of falsehood he should stick pretty close to the truth himself. I say "we are glad." How does he know we are not glad? And why not be glad? We believe in infant baptism. We believe that the Bible teaches that it is the duty of all Christians to have their children baptized. The Baptists have been the only people, so far as I know, who have not accepted this truth. I heard one of their preachers, not long since, say that "nothing bad ever done more harm than infant baptism." We understand by this that drunkenness, theft, falsehood, etc., are not to be compared with the sin of infant baptism. Now, who is not glad to see them begin to take in the little ones. I must confess that I am, my brother. Just take them a little younger. Take them from their mother's arms. Then all Christians will rejoice with you. We do not like to see a shepherd house the old sheep, and leave the lambs in the cold. That is right, my brother, take in the little ones.

I see he calls me "brother." In his native of me, I was baptized in childhood. I understand by this that he acknowledges my church membership. He calls on those baptized in infancy to lead the congregations in prayer. He must own them as God's people. I am glad to see him accept the situation. Consistency is a jewel. Quite a number in this country, not larger than many we report as "baptized infants," have been baptized by Baptist preachers. Hence I said "they have wonderful influence with the children."

Our brother would not have me suppress the truth, but says "they were all baptized upon a credible profession of faith." How am I to know this? I did not hear their "profession." How does he know it? Did he hear them all? If so, he must be a sort of omnipresent being. We must take it for granted that a minister of the Baptist Church can make no mistakes, as the church is infallible. If I had heard their "profession," how am I to know it was "credible" in the Baptist Church? How does the brother, or any one else, know what is a "credible profession of faith" in the Baptist Church? Where is it published? Where is their book of faith? We have the Bible, I hear him say. Yes, and others have the Bible as the book, and they believe in and practice infant baptism, and have an expressed faith. If the Baptist Church is a unit on any one thing except immersion, I would like to know what it is. Is there any regularity in the preacher's questions? Where is the child who remembers, one hour, the questions propounded, or his answers to them? Where is the child five years old who, prompted by the questions themselves, could not answer correctly in monosyllables, or put his handkerchief over his eyes? I have never known one, little or big, rejected, answer or no answer. It is not my business to hunt up all the children who joined the Baptist Church, and learn whether they made a "credible profession of faith," to avoid suppressing a part of the Baptist economy.

He turns me "over to the Committee on Character." I did not know we had such a committee. Glad of the information.

BROOKSVILLE, Oct. 25, 1879. J. T. EVANS.

The Charity That Thinketh No Evil.

MR. EDITOR: Among the many other beautiful characteristics of that charity described by St. Paul, without which all other Christian graces and excellence are unprofitable and useless, is that it thinketh no evil. We would have very little confidence in the depth of the piety of a professor of religion who could bear malice against his fellow-creature. It is likely that almost the lowest degree of the Spirit of Christ driven all malice from the believer's heart. The very first fruit of the Spirit is love, and, if this fruit does not exist, any others, even if they exist at all, must surely be in a very unhealthy condition.

We think, however, it is possible for persons who believe themselves to be Christians, and who have experienced a genuine work of the Holy Spirit to some degree, at least, and who have enough of the grace of God to love their enemies, to bless them that curse them, and pray for them that despitefully use them, yet to fail of having this all-important grace of thinking no evil. While the condition of such is far less dangerous, because there is less of wilful evil in it, it can scarcely be considered that there is less of injustice in the course of such, than of those who have little enough of religion to hate their fellow-creatures in return for an injury done or a wrong inflicted.

The person who knows anything of experimental religion, and falls so far into sin as to hate his brother, has surely gone very far from his first faith, and is in a condition in which the word of God says he hath not eternal life abiding in him. But it is possible for him still to have done no one injustice. The person whom he hates may have been guilty of no flagrant a wrong that still justice calls forth his hatred, while he who thinks evil may be guilty of the greatest injustice.

While motives are signs of intentions, they are by no means infallible signs. Very many persons who are doubtless sincerely trying to do their best for God and His cause are making a very poor show, and it is not unfrequently the case for us, under such circumstances, to judge them according to the outward appearance, and think even if we do not express the sentiment that there is no depth to their profession or sincerity in their intentions. Under such circumstances it is impossible for us not to be guilty of injustice. Such persons, too, of all others, stand most in need of our help and sympathies.

There are trials for all to endure that are unknown to all, save to themselves and God—temptations to which all are subject peculiar to themselves, and it is impossible for us to know the extreme depth and keenness of these temptations unless we were placed under the same circumstances or occupied their places. If it were possible for us to see as God sees, to look into the heart and behold the secret and heartfelt intentions of many of those whom in our hearts we condemn, we would behold a sight which would call forth our deepest sympathies and excite our highest admiration. How often do we pass a hasty judgment upon the actions of others without knowing anything of the circumstances, or at least not enough to justify us in condemning them.

How often is it the case that when we are placed in embarrassing situations we are compelled by the force of circumstances to act in a manner that looks very mysterious, to put the best construction upon it we can, and yet our intentions may be strictly faultless. Our best judgment may approve of the course which we have pursued, and as there are reasons for our doing this, are unknown to any save to ourselves and God, our consciences may not condemn us, and God himself may look upon the sincerity of our intentions with approbation.

These truths cannot fail to reach the hearts and consciences of every one who will reflect a moment. We know that many of our actions which have been the offspring of good intentions could, on the world's principles, have had unpleasant constructions placed upon them. Then how can we fulfil "the golden rule" of doing unto others as we would that others do unto us, if we think evil of the intentions of others without incontrovertible evidence.

J. P. ROBERTS.

Sorrow and Its Solace.

Whose heart has never been touched by sorrow? There may be periods in one's life when the clouds of sorrow are not very dark. Yet there are periods when the soul is overwhelmed.

Sorrow is necessary for our spiritual development. It is said sometimes gardeners deprive their plants of moisture and light, for a season that they may take a fresh growth. Without moisture and light leaf after leaf drops, and when the plants are stripped of every leaf light is let in, and in a few weeks what a beautiful foliage appears. Sorrow strips us of every earthly joy; but when the crown is given, and the full light of Jesus is enjoyed, we will rejoice that we ever had sorrow. The way of sorrow is not a new way. Jesus is the "Man of Sorrow." The prophets, apostles, Latimer, Cranmer, Hooper, and our fathers, have all traveled this way.

The life of Jesus has sanctified sorrow. Where would you go to find the most beautiful stones? Where the waters are calm? No. Where the waves come and go we find them. The person who has the most sanctified sorrows is the happiest.

Surely Jesus hath borne our griefs and carried our sorrows. But we must carry our sorrows to Jesus before. He will carry them for us. Lord, help us to carry our sorrows to Thee, for they overwhelm us! Be not afraid! Let not your heart be troubled! If we suffer with Christ, we shall also reign with him! These thoughts comfort our hearts. There are places of sorrow—Gethsemane, Calvary and the tomb—but Jesus has been there for us. Jesus, Thou art the solace for all our sorrows!

"All the sorrow stems away,
Nor let men ever stray
From Thine side."

J. M. HARRISON COOPER.

From the Work.

SHARON, MISSISSIPPI.

MR. EDITOR: The month of October has been remarkably warm and dry. Up to date we have had but little rain. Light showers have fallen lately, but not enough to enable many to sow small grain. Water for stock, and many instances for household purposes, is not very plentiful.

We have had a remarkable season for gathering crops. Cotton is being gathered and sent to market very rapidly. Corn is short. The rain and overflow on the first of September damaged the cotton very much, yet the average is very good, better than last year.

Have had good meetings at most of our churches. On the Sharon circuit about twenty-five members have been added to the church. Membership greatly refreshed. Spiritual condition of the church very good. Finances a little behind. The collections ordered by the Conference are being looked after, and we hope to be able to make a respectable report at the end of the year. Health is generally good. Have had two heavy frosts within the last two days.

THOS. J. ALEXANDER, P. C.

NOVEMBER 5, 1879.

SCIENCE HILL, LOUISIANA.

MR. EDITOR: I will give you a sketch of the Sugartown camp-meeting, which we attended, going thirty miles in the pine woods, and meeting many friends. Preachers present: J. W. Heard in charge, and the presiding elder, Harper, Semrlock, Monroe, and several local preachers. Good weather, good attendance and good behavior. We saw that much good has been done through the last year. Those that joined last fall have held out faithfully, and many have been added to the church this year, and a very large number out of the Sunday-schools. Many backsliders have been reclaimed. About fourteen joined at the camp meeting.

I will now give you a glimpse of what we are doing on Spring Creek circuit, Bro. S. H. Cooper in charge. The good work has gone on all through the year, and some have been added to the church at nearly every appointment. Camp meeting came on, embracing the second Sunday in October, which makes eight. Preachers present: Hoyett, two Keeners, Monroe and Silas H. Cooper, and Manley, the blind man, and had a large attendance. Fourteen joined. Some conversions. The ground is built up considerably. It is now an established fact that camp meetings are a success in this country, and many have been converted and sent out all over the country to spread the glad news that salvation is free.

NOVEMBER 6, 1879. DANIEL BREWER.

CITRONELLE, ALABAMA.

MR. EDITOR: I have been reading with great pleasure and contented silence the field notes given us by so many of the brethren, waiting, as if through modesty, among the last to say something myself. Since I saw you at the "feast of tabernacle," by the sea shore, we have had some precious "times of refreshing from the presence of the Lord" among us. About fifty souls have made a public profession of religion, and nearly as many have joined the church. Besides these meetings, we have had a good camp meeting, beginning on the tenth, and closing on the fourteenth of October. It was well attended by both preachers and people. About thirty conversions were reported, and fourteen made application for membership in our church. Some, as usual, went home to join other churches. We do a great deal for others in this way, and the most frequent compensation is persecution. However, several of the above new members were Baptists, and I had taken in as many more of them before the meeting. But few communities are less able to support a camp meeting, and yet, I dare say, none ever sustained one better, under the same circumstances, than this one does, and am satisfied that it will be much stronger next year, and that it will grow each year, until it becomes one of the very largest and best in all the land.

The Sunday school cause receives considerable attention, and is doing well. Our best one is conducted in the camp ground tabernacle, and interests the community almost as much as the camp meeting did. They all, old and young, attend the Sunday-school. This is wonderful.

I expect to carry up every cent of our assessments for the collections ordered by the Conference. I take up the collections myself in public and in private, seeing that everybody has an opportunity to lend the Lord with his substance.

Nearly all the professions and occupations employ the people here. Only we have no lawyers, for we are peaceable. One did mysteriously come among us, but his stay was short, being driven away by the poverty of peace. Two such professionalists might live here, but one cannot. The peace-maker depends on the peace-breaker for something to do. Again, we have only one physician. Notwithstanding his thorough accomplishment and personal popularity, living in the midst of a numerous and well-to-do population, he says that sometimes a whole month intervenes his professional calls. From this you may infer that we enjoy excellent health up here too. A look at the preacher would give additional proof of this fact. He came here ten months ago, sickly and rather lean, from Chipola chills, but now he is a stranger to pain, and weighs nearly two hundred pounds. But he must not say more, lest some others sick of the swamps seek to oust him. We have some agriculture and a great deal of horticulture. Both have done well this year. But the chief, the most material spirit that inspires and moves the greatest number of country laborers, is the spirits of turpentine, there being a dozen distilleries in a little more than as many miles from here.

Families desiring to settle in a locality noted for its healthfulness, religious, refined and intelligent society, with good schools, and railroad facilities, can be accommodated here. Several good homes, consisting of large, nice residences, with barns, orchards, vineyards, gardens, etc., can be bought at very reasonable prices. The immigration of good citizens is earnestly solicited by all the many good people here, and they cordially invite those looking for new homes to come and see what is here. Yours in Christ,

C. B. KELLEY, P. C.

NOVEMBER 4, 1879.

MR. EDITOR: Our Quarterly Conferences have all been held for the present Conference year. The spiritual condition of the church on Lind Grove circuit is encouraging, which can be determined by the following report:

During the year we have received into the church, by letter, six, by ritual, thirty-five, by baptisms, seventy-nine, total, one hundred and twenty, of which number there were eighty-seven who professed conversion. There are three prayer meetings and three class meetings held regularly on the Sabbath, and some in the week, at night. There are many of our new members holding family prayers, and several of them are leading in the prayer and class meetings in their respective societies. The Sabbath-school interest is greatly under-valued in many parts of my charge, I fear, but in other parts the brethren are doing about all they can.

The saddest feature to be mentioned is: Where there is by far the largest membership there is no Sunday-school, and but little interest manifested in behalf of this department of church work. The brethren could have a large and prosperous school here at —— if they would. (I withhold the name of this church for the present, but may possibly give it in the future, unless the brethren arouse themselves—that is, should I ever be the preacher in charge again on this work.)

The health of my work is good, but regret to report that we have lost some of our best members recently. We are erecting two houses of worship, which will be free from debt when finished.

Crops much better than anticipated, especially cotton. We are looking after the interest of the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. Collections ordered by the Conference promise to be full. The presiding elder has been paid up, and the preacher in charge has not been for gotten. Pay for me, Bro. Parker.

Obituaries.

E. B. NORTON, JR., was born November 7, 1851, professed religion and joined the Methodist Church south, in September, 1875, and died in White Plains, Ala., April 13, 1879. He was the son of the Rev. E. B. Norton, of pleasing memory, and in brotherhood with Rev. Norton [illegible] last illness, he was a regular attendant at several protracted meetings, during which he was frequently at the altar, seeking salvation, and was very penitent. He remarked to a friend, while attending these meetings that he had been deeply convicted, about two months, and expressed a desire to attach himself to the church, but under the influence of unwise counsel he postponed it. The writer of this notice was often with Fielding, and learned to love him very much, and feels that it is due the memory of the deceased that he should contribute his mead of praise to the life and character of one admired by so many, and would cheerfully say: Fielding was respectful and orderly in his deportment.

The impression produced in the minds of those who witnessed this sad death will not soon be erased, and should admonish all of the danger of delaying to prepare for eternity until a dying hour.

J. M. M'KEE, P. C.

BRO. WM. N. COLLINS was born in Marshall county, Miss., December 23, 1841, and died on Tuesday, October 21, 1879. On November 28 1877, he married Miss Nannie Hodges, and soon after bought and settled in our town Minden, La. A short while only elapsed before they together joined the Methodist episcopal Church, South, at this place. Bro. Collins was sheriff of the parish at the time of his death, and had been for three consecutive terms, and was nominated for a fourth.

His death was altogether unexpected and very sudden. He died in his office, while in the active discharge of his official duties. He was true and faithful in the performance of said duties as sheriff; was very popular with the people and, I think, was trying to live a religious life. He leaves a precious widow and boy; dear parents and sisters, and hosts of friends to mourn his departure.

JAMES E. BRADLEY.

BRO. THOMAS BUNCKLEY died of pneumonia, in Morehouse parish, La., October 15, after a brief illness, in the sixty-second year of his age. Bro. Bunckley was born in Franklin county, Miss., in the year [illegible] moved from the State of his nativity and settled in Louisiana, in [illegible] and died at the above-named place. [illegible] professional relations [illegible] the Rev. J. T. Davis, [illegible] ministry of Rev. J. T. Davis, [illegible] conference.

[illegible] was called on to mourn the loss of such a citizen, and the church [illegible] more keenly than Bro. Bunckley. There is a [illegible] in the church, in the community, and more especially in the family circle, that will not be filled for years to come. A church, we deeply feel the loss sustained. Health, of [illegible] and devoted was [illegible] zeal for the Master was more [illegible] marked his every than any [illegible] ministry has been a true friend to humanity, very much devoted to his church, and more [illegible] leaves his widow [illegible] a number of children and [illegible] to mourn his loss.

J. M. M'KEE.

ELDER LANE CLARK, eldest son of Rev. Charles and Louisa [illegible] presiding [illegible] Mississippi, in New [illegible] Thursday, November 6, [illegible] years,

[illegible] years and the last year [illegible] [illegible] the public [illegible] [illegible] showed the patient [illegible] [illegible] that he will for the [illegible] was entirely lost in the will of [illegible] while his fond parents [illegible] [illegible] ready bearing the wonderful [illegible] [illegible] like things the Christian [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1879.

THE OLD SWEET SONG.

I remember a song whose numbers throng
As sweetly in memory's twilight hour
As the voice of the blessed in the Realm of Rest,
Or the sparkle of dew on the dreaming flower.
'Tis a simple air, but when others depart,
Like an angel whisper, it clings to my heart.

I have wandered far under sun and star,
Heard the rippling music in every clime,
From the carol clear of the gondolier,
To the wondrous peal of a sacred chime;
I have drunk in the tones which bright lips let fall,
And thirsting spirits in bower and hall.

The anthems bland of the masters grand
Have borne me aloft on their sweeping wings,
And the thunder roll of the organ's soul
Drown not the murmur of fairy strings,
Or the shepherd's pipe, whose music thrills
With the breath of morn o'er the sleeping hills.

But none remain like the simple strain
Which my mother sang to my childish ears,
As nightly and oft, o'er my pillow soft,
She gently hovered to soothe my fears.
I can see her now with her bright head bent
In the light which the taper so feebly lent.

I can see her now, with her fair, pure brow,
And the dark locks pushed from her temples clear;
And the liquid rays of her tender gaze
Made eloquent by a trembling tear,
As she watched the sleep that is sweet for all,
Like rose-leaves over my spirit fall.

And the notes still throng of that old sweet song,
Though silent the lips that breathed them to me.
Like the oldness so dear, which mariners hear,
From the sunken ship beneath the sea.
And never, oh! never can they depart,
While time is my being and heaven my heart.

That sunk, thrilling song of old sweetness!
I gather it up like a golden chain,
Link by link, which to slumber I sink,
And look by look when I wake again;
I shall hear it, I know, when the last deep note
Shall fold me close to the earth's dark breast.

—Youth's Companion.

The Seven Bibles.

BY REV. B. HAWLEY, D. D.

Competent scholars now admit that the world has seven sacred and venerable books which are reputed to be revelations, and are the sources of national religions. Their chronology, sources and teachings are being brought into such survey and comparison as show beyond reasonable question the vast superiority of the Bible of Christians, and the indebtedness of all other religions to it, or to the writers who had access to still older tradition and documents. It is now confidently affirmed that, if there is anything reliable in chronology, it is that Moses lived and wrote 1500 years B. C., and that any just ideas of God, of the immortality of the soul, of the nature and magnitude of sin, of the design and efficacy of sacrifice, of sin, and of prayer, which are found in heathenism, and are universal to man, are traceable to the pictorial documents and the traditions which were somewhat prevalent before Moses, and from which under inspiration he wrote this luminous and historic outline. Even the doctrine of the emanation of Divinity is not peculiar to the Bible, though most certainly inherited from patriarchal faith.

Of the seven sacred books it is now known that the Koran is a compilation made by Mahomet only about seven hundred years since the birth of Christ. Its best thoughts are from the Hebrew and Christian Scriptures. The Eddas of the old Germans, held also by the Icelanders, were written only 300 years B. C., and of all the sacred books of the heathen these alone speak of the All-Father, though others teach a Supreme Being.

The Petekas of the Buddhists were committed to writing only 512 B. C., and the Five Kings of China, containing the sayings of Sages, were written about 1100 years B. C. It was not until 2000 years B. C. that China became an empire, at which time Abraham was a patriarch and the founder of a great nation. China had not a written language earlier than 1500 B. C. And Confucius' writings cannot be fixed earlier than the sixth century before Christ, which is nine hundred years subsequent to Moses. And as Confucius was a compiler of previous writings or traditions, there were at least these intervening nine hundred years from Moses to Confucius for their accumulation.

The Vedas of India consist of prayers, songs and legends. And no chronology of that ancient people is reliable earlier than 1100 B. C. As to the age of the Vedas, the oldest of Hindoo books, they are by the best orientalists deemed no older than the Book of Samuel, the Psalms of David, and are much later than the Pentateuch or than the Book of Job. No written inscriptions are found in that country dating farther back than three hundred years before Christ. Like that of the Bible the religion was monotheistic, but associated with so much sensual idolatry as to make it debasing to its adherents.

Making a truthful comparison with these much-vaunted religions and sacred books, we note that Moses wrote so much earlier as to leave a margin of three hundred years in his favor. But the prehistoric documents and traditional facts, of which his writings are an authentic and reliable record, give a much broader margin. There is no older alphabet than of the Decalogue, so that both vocal utterance and alphabetic writing are God given. The sources of all the chief and valuable thoughts in the religions and morals of the several books here in named, except of the Holy Bible, are through the sons of Noah. The kingdom of Solomon extended to Persia, and Balaam was probably the medium of the truths taught by Zoroaster. These things are now shown to be much nearer the truth as recorded in the Bible than are the weak and vulgary notions of the Duke of Somerset, as given in his late volume entitled Religion and Skepticism.

In any scholarly study of these matters it should be considered that the early works of no Egyptian author are preserved; and that fragments of Manetho were written only 260 B. C., that the chronology of Egypt earlier than the eighteenth dynasty is a matter of dispute by the best scholars, and that the first event in Egyptian history, synchronizing with that of any neighboring nation, is the invasion of Judea by Shishak, B. C. 974. Of course then they can have no weight compared with the statements of Moses, confirmed as these are by modern researches. Why is it that skeptics are eager to credit the least scrap of profane history or myth, but are prompt to question the reliability of sacred historians? The answer is easy. The morals and spiritual teachings of the Bible are against their unbelief and sin. "It has been shown," says George Smith, "that, instead of these people's having subsisted throughout lengthened periods that bid defiance to any reconcilement with Scripture chronology, they are all found to have risen from patriarchs named by Moses as descendants of Noah, their lineage and posterity being thus fully identified with the sacred record." Even the more prominent elements of the early eras of the primitive nations are now proven to have such a likeness to the patriarchal as to be corruptions of the pure patriarchal religion. Turning away from the myths and legends in which some modern speakers and writers seem to revel, we think that the Bible leads us back to the dawn of time, and gives us an outline of man's primitive history. We are willing to accept as true this strong and emphatic assertion of Mr. Smith, the archeologist: "We fearlessly assert that no man, whatever his learning or intellectual power or station may be, when speaking of ancient history, has a right to ignore the Bible."

It is noteworthy and may somewhat fortify our readers against some features of modern skepticism, that the Book of Job is six hundred years older than Homer, the Psalms of Jacob is one thousand years older than Herodotus, the father of secular history, and that David wrote five hundred years before Pindaros, the Theban poet. The Bible is the oldest author in the world, and recent explorations are confirming its reliability.—Northern Christian Advocate.

KAFFIR WOMEN AT PIETERMARITZBURG.—The British province of Natal, which has a native African population of nearly 300,000, and scarcely 20,000 Europeans, may be considered rather as a Kaffir and Zulu protectorate than as a colony of our own people. Its British element, though it has belonged to her Majesty's dominions thirty-eight years, does not seem to grow much more, and in this respect it offers a striking contrast to New Zealand, where the two races are in a reverse proportion, to each other. The Zulus of Natal have lived for an entire generation, under the rule of a civilized government; yet their social and moral condition remains just the same as that of the Zulus, about equal in number, who were subjects of Panda and Cetewayo in the adjacent kingdom. A few converts have been made, and some hundreds of children educated, by the efforts of religious missionaries, both Church of England and Wesleyan; but heathenism still prevails, with polygamy and the slavery of the female sex, tolerated by colonial law. The native people in general, throughout the up country districts, living in associated tribes under their own chiefs, and possessing herds of cattle with ample pasture, will not take employment from European farmers or planters. It has, therefore, been found necessary to import some thousands of coolies from India for the work of sugar cultivation along the coast. This produce, in 1875, amounted to no more than £100,000 in value, while that of coffee and other tropical growths was scarcely anything; and the apparent exports of Natal really consisted, in great part, of the wool, hides, ivory, and other natural products of the upland plains in the interior. Such is the backward industrial condition of Natal, and so poor are its prospects of developing any independent and substantial resources of wealth that it cannot be expected to join in a South African confederation bearing its fair share of financial burdens. The Zulus, however, in and about the towns of Durban and Pietermaritzburg are disposed to take light household and street work, though they will not toil in the fields. Mr. Anthony Trollope speaks of their carrying his portmanteau, running an errand, or holding a horse for 6d.; they will scrub floors, sweep the roads, tend pigs and the like, and the women enter domestic service.—Illustrated London News.

THE VEGETARIANS.—The Annual Conference of the Vegetarian Society was held on Wednesday afternoon at Manchester. Prof. Newman presided, and representatives were present from the Vegetarian Societies of Glasgow, Leicester, Chester, Bristol and Liverpool. Considerable discussion took place upon a resolution proposed by the president: "That persons who desire to abstain from all meat of quadrupeds and birds, though they decline to bind themselves wholly to abstain from fish and marine animals, shall be received by the society into an intermediate grade, concerning which the executive may draw up the necessary regulations." The resolution was carried, but by so small a majority that the question of carrying it into effect was left to the executive. At the soiree in the evening the "bill of fare" consisted of stewed damsons, stewed Normandy pippins, stewed peaches, grapes, "digestive bread," butter, sweet cake, tea, coffee and milk. The party who partook of the feast numbered over two hundred, one half of whom were ladies. Congratulatory letters were read by Mr. Clark from societies in Silesia, Berlin, Hanover and Sweden. The past year was spoken of as the most flourishing in the history of the society, the receipts from all sources amounting to over £800, being £250 more than those of last year. The president, in an address at the opening of the proceedings, said they had abundant proof from Ireland that workers who ate the least flesh meat were stronger and finer men than those who accustomed themselves to meat diet. Similar proof was furnished from Germany, Russia and Turkey. The Italians of the Apennines, who had very little flesh meat, were regarded by Napoleon as the most robust soldiers in his Russian expedition.—London Watchman.

Religious Intelligence.

—Dr. Clark, in his address at the meeting of the American Board on "Ten years in Japan," gives the following results:

"Less than ten converts ten years ago; no church organized; no native agency; no schools for the training of such an agency; no missionary devoted to preaching; only the scantiest Christian literature, and that derived from China; placards everywhere denouncing the very name of Christian, till the utterance of the word balanced the face and sent a thrill of horror through the listener. To-day, more than two thousand five hundred professed believers in Christ; a recognized Evangelical community three times larger; as the body of earnest and faithful native preachers; Christian schools for the preparation of a native ministry; a Christian literature, including more than 100,000 copies of portions of the New Testament; editions of the 'Life of Christ' and other works, reckoned by thousands and finding a ready sale; a Christian newspaper that circulates in all parts of the empire; and, illustrating in their lives the faith that breathes through all, more than a hundred and sixty devoted men and women from Christian lands. These are facts to quicken to the faith and to encourage the most vigorous exertion till the field be won. And yet our oldest missionary, with abundant opportunity of careful observation, remarks that the change in the moral aspect of the country is in no wise measured by the number of Christians who have been gathered into the churches; but the influence of Christian thought and sentiment is manifest in every direction."

The first church, of seven members, was organized in 1872, by a missionary of the Reformed (Dutch) Church. From that time to the present there has been rapid progress.

—At the Illinois Yearly Meeting of Friends, recently, the Committee on Indian Affairs reported that the General Committee is greatly hampered by the unfriendly attitude of the Indian Department and the desire of politicians to have the agencies in Nebraska removed. Unless a change occurs soon, this field will have to be abandoned. Testimony to the progress of the Indians was given. They have improved not only in their personal habits, changing from blanket or wild garb to that of civilized life, and from gambling, stealing, and drunkenness among many of their members to orderly, honest, and temperate people, with scarcely an exception in the principal tribes; but also from a necessary and large dependence upon annuities from the government to a condition of almost entire self support, as the results of agricultural labor. Many are on their farms and doing well.

—The rose light of most reports from the missionary fields, which is generally genuine, though some of the shadows are put out by the enchantment of distance, is complemented now and then by a report that is unfavorable. Such a report comes from the Moravian mission in Greenland, where the external condition of the people has not improved, as was hoped, and no decided spiritual improvement is shown, while the number of exclusions for immorality has increased. The numbers have also fallen off, for while in 1878 there were in the field 1,734 souls under the charge of twenty-four brethren and sisters, there were in 1878 only 1,526 souls and twenty-two missionaries. Hard times, epidemics, and the growth of the taste for European luxuries are the causes assigned for the decline.—Methodist.

—Bishop Herzog, Old Catholic Bishop of Switzerland, has addressed a letter to the bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church in this country, in which, after showing how the Old Catholics will shortly lose several parishes and the state support attached to them, and will have to establish and support independent parishes, he says:

"Unfortunately, our population is poor and the circumstances of the present time are so very unfavorable that there is no possibility to afford the expenses of worship by our own resources. A great many families would, on the contrary, be forced to abandon our church if they were to be bound by duty to pay taxes. I beg you, therefore, instantly to help us kindly in our present critical position, and I give you the assurance that I shall make the most conscientious use of your gift."

—The Chinese question is dominant in Australia as well as in California. There are about twenty thousand Chinese in Victoria, and there is as much opposition to them there as in the Pacific States. The Wesleyan Church has a flourishing mission among these people, having two ordained Chinese ministers and two catechists. In each of the four mission stations conversions have taken place. In this mission, when Chinese are received into the church by public baptism, a written statement about their conversion is read to the congregation.

—The Evangelical Association is a German Methodist body, founded by Albright. It has eight hundred and forty-six itinerant preachers and 107,732 members. It has bishops, who are elected every four years by the General Conference. This body meets this month, and among the questions it will have to settle is that of a change of name. The present name is a sort of firm or company name and might, so far as its meaning is concerned, belong to a publishing or other business company. Several names are suggested, the most appropriate of which seems to be "The Evangelical Methodist Church."

—The North Ohio Methodist Conference has adopted resolutions in regard to the furnishing of parsonages, recommending that the following plan be accepted: "Three years shall be taken to complete the furnishing of parsonages. 1. The first year all the stoves shall be supplied. 2. The second year, tables, stands, common chairs, bureaus, cupboards, and like furniture. 3. The third year, carpets, chamber sets, parlor furniture, and such other finer articles as each charge may desire. 4. That in charges that have no parsonages the same plan shall apply to rented houses."

—The first English Protestant minister who went to Cyprus was the Rev. W. Ferguson, Presbyterian, who continues his work at Limasol. The Rev. Josiah Spencer, of the Church of England, followed him, but he was seized with the idea of restoring the Cathedral of St. Sophia at Nicosia for Anglican worship, and is absent in England, in search of money for the purpose; so the Presbyterian remains alone. The Episcopalians have since taken a perpetual lease of St. Nicholas Church, at Nicosia.

—There is considerable discussion among the Episcopalians of Ireland about laxness in receiving candidates for ordination. It is charged that, owing to the fewness of properly qualified candidates, some have been accepted without regard to their learning or fitness. One of the church papers says, "It would raise the tone of a diocese at once if it were known that one in ten were rejected." It compasses the example of the Methodists, who out of a list of 110 candidates sent back 35.

BURIAL SCANDAL.—A burial scandal, unaccompanied, however, by any scene, occurred on Friday, at Calstock, near Plymouth. A girl eleven years old, daughter of Baptist parents, had died, and the rector, the Rev. Thomas Hullah, refused to read the burial service, whereupon the Rev. D. Cork, Baptist minister, attended the house of the deceased and read the funeral service. The child was buried in the churchyard, the rector's fee, however, being demanded and paid.—London Watchman.

—The Protestant missionaries of Yokohama and Tokio have addressed a memorial to the Japanese government asking for a modification of the passport laws. As it is now, any missionary or other foreigner must procure a passport for every journey, and in case the trip is interrupted, he must get a new passport on resuming it. The memorialists ask for yearly passports of the empire.

—M. Ferry announced in a recent speech that the French ministry would accept no compromise on the Anti Jesuit clause of the education bill. "My colleagues and I are resolved to carry out, without flinching, the task we have undertaken, because we are convinced that the majority of the nation is with us and that Parliament will give us its support. We will wage the anti clerical contest with energy and perseverance."

—The Bishop of Colombo, in Ceylon, a ritualist, got into a controversy with the missionaries of the Church Society, on account of divergence of views between the latter and the former. The bishop refuses to license three new men sent out by the society and refuses to admit to holy orders any one who is a member of the Church Missionary Society.

—The United Methodist Free Churches return a net increase of seventy-two members in their foreign stations. While the secretary was writing his report, the news came that a heathen temple at Ningpo, China, had been presented to the mission and the proprietor of the temple with his wife and six of the principal worshipers had been baptized.

—The Queen of Madagascar has issued a proclamation in which she says she is glad the Gospel of Jesus Christ has come to her country to make her people wise in the knowledge of the true God. She exhorts her subjects to be more diligent in sending their children to the schools recently established where they may learn not only to keep accounts, but also "the sweetness of knowledge and wisdom."

—The American Bible Society has granted 10,000 copies of the Revel Esthonian Bible for distribution by the society's agency in Russia, in Revel, in Esthonia; to the Presbyterian mission in Zululand 100 copies of the Mpongwe Scriptures, and 200 copies of St. John's Gospel in the Dakúle dialect.

—Messrs. Moody and Sankey are having very large meetings at Cleveland, and hope for success, though they went there at a very unseasonable time, the last week of an excited political canvass. At Salem, Mass., Messrs. Pentecost and Stebbins are working successfully in a similar manner.

—The Welsh Baptists have some six Conferences in this country, the largest of which is the Eastern Pennsylvania, with 30 churches and 2,500 members. In all, there are about 5,000 Welsh Baptists in the United States. It is stated that the younger Welsh people all learn the English, and but for immigration the Welsh Churches could not be kept up.

—In 1830 there were nine missionary societies working in India; and some 27,000 converts. In 1871 there were 318,000 converts, and to-day there are probably 500,000.

—Dean Stanley has delivered a lecture on the question "Is the Prayer-book Worth Improving?" He thinks that it is, and that there is no reason why it should not be improved from time to time.

—A curious religious organization is announced in a London paper; it rejoices in the unique title of "The Hallelujah, or Salvation Army," and is composed of lady preachers, under the lead of Rev. W. Booth.

—A very high churchman has been appointed Bishop of Bedford, England.

Our Young People.

OCTOBER'S PARTY.

October gave a party;
The leaves by hundreds came—
The Ashes, Oaks and Maples,
And leaves of every name.
The sunshine spread a carpet,
And everything was gay.
Miss Weather led the dancing;
Professor Wind, the band.

The Chestnuts came in yellow,
The Oaks in crimson dressed,
The lively Misses Maples,
In scarlet looked their best.
All balanced to their partners,
And gayly flirted by;
The sight was like a rainbow
New fallen from the sky.

Then, in the rosy hollows,
Away and seek they played;
The party closed at sundown,
And everybody stayed.
Professor Wind played louder;
They flew along the ground;
And then the party got all
In frolic hung all round.

—George Cooper, in The Nursery.

The New School-ma'am.

It was September when she came. The grapes and muscadines hung in dark clusters against the gold and scarlet leaves. Wild plums filled the woods with fragrance, and yellow butterflies fluttered across the path as the new school-ma'am went slowly up the hill toward the schoolhouse.

Half a dozen children stopped cracking hickory nuts, and pushed back the hair from their eyes to stare, then shyly answer "How'dy" to her pleasant greeting.

I never shall forget just how she looked as she stood there, on the lower step, the sun shining through the leaves down on her hair, the pink bow at her throat, even the tiny diamond that sparkled on her finger. We older girls supposed it must have been her mother's engagement ring—we knew nothing of the battle of Chancellorsville, nor of the heroes who fell there—we only noticed that her lip quivered a little, and a misty look came in her eyes when our curious little D. came up and asked: "Is that a mourning ring? Then please ma'am, put it on my book, so by the time I die it will have grown to be a crown. God makes one of diamonds. But may he not want it for your crown."

She was very gentle and kind, so that we loved her, though she did make us write compositions every Friday evening, and allowed no whispering nor handing notes. As a reward for good behavior, often at recess the school-ma'am told us stories. One day it would be Blue Beard's golden-haired wife crying: "O, Sister Annie, Don't You See Anybody Coming?" That brought the tears to our young eyes. Another noon would find us laughing over "How the Dwarf Won His Wife," while remembrances of the Big Bug and the Black Cat made my little sister draw the sheet up over head, and bury her face in the pillows, many a time when our gentle old maid school teacher had left us forever.

How well I remember the pic nic that spring—so many springs ago—when our teacher curled my little sister's hair, and fastened one of her own little blue bows in the "bonnie brown hair." How happy she was as she tilted about in her new muslin dress, her eyes shining, and her hair in soft damp rings on her face-head—yes, just as happy as the mocking bird trilling a new song in the branches above her. Ah, me! Those were sunshiny days!

The trustees came occasionally, and sat on a long bench, looking solemn and dignified; all unconscious of Mary Jones "taking their pictures" so slyly on her slate. Somewhat exaggerated they may have been—the deacon's nose was a trifle too long—but wonderfully good likenesses for all that. They always praised our recitations and behavior, said a few encouraging words to the teacher, then rode away, we hoped, wiser men.

At last summer came. The leaves moved lazily, the wrens had left the nest by the window, and flown far away. It was the last day. Emily said "Ills speech," blushing and faltering just as ever before. Books were arranged, the last blotted copy-book closed, and pens put away, when our school-ma'am rose and laid her hand on the back of her chair, as she often did when about to call the names of "prisoners," or to make some school announcement, but this time it was to say "Farewell." She said we had all been good children, and she would not forget us—she hoped we would, some of us, remember her. I thought of the nuts lying in my desk, the note from Joe in my pocket; and, wild though I was, they were tears of true repentance for a past that I might perhaps have made pleasanter for our teacher, as well as of sorrow at parting, that ran down my cheeks when the school-ma'am kissed me "Good-by."

E. H.

Under the Microscope.

BY MRS. C. HALL.

Before the invention of this wonderful instrument, which may well be considered one the greatest discoveries in science, no one knew anything about the wonderful creative power and wisdom displayed in every leaf and plant, or of the myriads of creatures that occupy only an atom of space. The life of plants is much more closely connected with animal life than we have any idea of, and this for a wise purpose, as we shall see. You would scarcely believe, though as you may admire them with the naked eye, what there is of beautiful formation and mechanical power in the vegetable creation. Take a single flower and separate each part and subject it to the microscope, what knowledge is opened to us! No human hand could imitate any one of these petals. Even the veins and fibres of plants are wonderful in the extreme. The seeds too, with their endless variety of shapes—many of them so strangely marked, yet we find them all curiously adapted to the plant to which they belong; and, more curious still, the fluids in plants, circulating just as the blood does in your own body.

Perhaps you will think it almost incredible when I tell you that plants breathe! But it is really so. The leaves answer the same purpose as the lungs, and are just as necessary to life, and what is more, this breathing goes on mostly in the dark. When plants are in the shade they take in carbon, thus improving the air by its removal, and making it better fitted for animal life. The microscope shows us first there are a number of small openings in the under part of the leaf, which help the plant to breathe, and it would be impossible for these functions in plants to cease for a moment without their dying, as it would be for animals to live without breathing. You see, then, that in the daytime, when we are busy and require a large supply of air, the little plants help to make it of a better quality, besides the moment the sun shines upon them, they exhale oxygen, and at night, when we are sleeping, or resting from our labors, and we need less oxygen, the plants take in their supply, giving it over again for the benefit of man as he wakes to new necessities.—thus, by the removal of carbon and the renewal of oxygen, keeping the atmosphere in a much better state.

You have heard of the garden of flowers which the bee is so fond of gathering to make her wax; look at it under the glass, you would not believe what a variety of structure it has; some of the prettiest are like little globes covered with petals. Then take the down upon many kinds of seeds, either on the top like a little crown, or like wings. Do you know what this is all for? It is to protect it, or that it may fly away and drop more easily to the spot where it is to spring up and grow. What a wonderful contrivance to increase vegetable life! This is the reason that in many a wild and unfrequented spot we find sometimes such a wealth of floral beauty.

You know that some kinds of nettles are very thickly covered with prickles that sting the flesh severely. Well, these prickles under the microscope look very much like the stings of animals—hollow, and terminating in a very sharp point, with an opening at the end; at the very bottom of this cavity is a tiny bag filled with a sort of liquid, which, upon being touched, is sent through the opening, and, upon entering the flesh, produces the pain you have often felt, no doubt.

Mosses of all kinds are very interesting to look at, and are as perfect in their leaves as the largest flowers that grows; some that grow on the rocks are wonderfully beautiful, yet they are so common, and without flower, that they attract but little attention, and would seem altogether useless, but it is not the case. Here, as in everything created, is infinite wisdom and utility. The mosses shelter and keep alive seeds and roots of plants, which otherwise would die. They give food and shelter to many birds, and this is not all; for in their very decay they supply nourishment to a new generation of plants by fertilizing the soil and improving their condition. In extremely cold climates, where every other species of vegetation would perish, upon the frozen earth and rocks may be found mosses of the richest green.

Homely and insignificant and even repulsive objects are often found, when examined, to consist of exquisite parts and to be beautifully adapted to their proposed ends, and will excite more interest and wonder than you really can imagine. Our every hand, in God's wonderful creation in every bud, every flower, every living thing—the Father's workmanship and the manifestation of His love and power are developed, even in the most minute objects as well as in those of greater magnitude.

"PATIENCE."—"Mother," said Mary, "I can't make Henry put his figures as I tell him."

"Be patient, my dear, and do not speak so smartly."

"But he won't let me tell him how to put the figures, and he does not know how to do it himself," said Mary very pettishly.

"Well, my dear, if Henry won't learn a lesson in figures, suppose you try to teach him one in patience. This is hard to teach and harder to learn than any lesson in figures; and perhaps, when you have learned this, the other will be easier to both."

Mary hung her head, for she felt that it was a shame to any little girl to be fretted by such a little thing, or, indeed, by anything; and she began to think that perhaps she deserved to be blamed as well as Henry.

A fretful, impatient child makes himself and all about him very unhappy. Will you try to learn a lesson on patience?—Well Spring.

Grandma: "Yes, children, when I was young as you are, I used to walk in my sleep." Tommy (eagerly:) "Say, gran'ma, what time did you make?"

The Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES OF THE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1879.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Guilty and Perhaps Neglected.

We mean those who are endowed with gifts of intellect, with the advantages of education, with social position and influence, and with worldly goods, and who are backward in their personal service and activity in the cause of Christ. Connected with the church, and in it, are thousands of this sort who are strangers to the vital communion of saints, and who contribute nothing to the spiritual force, and but little to the financial strength of religious enterprises. We are sure they might do much if they would, and that they might give an impetus to the work of God, which would be "as life from the dead." We confess that we covet these buried, perverted and wasted gifts for the Master. We long to see them enlisted to their fullest capacity in His service, and made productive in the cause of righteousness, and in the building up of the church. In one sense it is true that one soul is as good as another, but not in the capabilities of usefulness. Consecrated education, wealth and social influence can do more than devotion in circumstances of ignorance and poverty. A man of culture, strong intellect and large possessions, can do more for Christ an hundred-fold than a good man who labors under the conditions of poverty and social obscurity. The former has received the larger deposit of his Lord's goods, and the measure of his trust is greater. He can return more to the giver, and God demands it.

We have few rich people, and in these days, not many prosperous people, but of those we have, how many are doing their duty in regard to the educational and religious enterprises of the church? There are more who, out of their poverty, give their mites, that come up to the standard of the divine approval, than of those who contribute of their abundance. Rich men may not be necessary to the church, and yet without their help we cannot endow colleges nor adequately support the gospel. It would be better to say that the Lord has need of all, the rich and the poor, and of all that they can do for the advancement of His kingdom.

But the money of this class is not all that is needed. It is the most inconsiderable part. In looking over a prayer meeting company we are impressed with the fact that "not many wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble" are there. Our merchants, more lawyers, and more influential people, as a rule, are not present. Neither are they found in much force in the Sunday-school nor do they take much personal part in the work of the church beyond occasional attendance at preaching, and a periodical, and not always generous response to the appeal of the stewards. There is a mass of talent, influence, means, nearly as great, perhaps, in the aggregate as all that the church actually realizes, and that is going to waste. The wicked servant, wicked because he hid his Lord's money, has in him the capabilities of usefulness greater than those of many faithful ones. What he withheld is as much as that which a hundred others altogether have to improve.

Of course, without piety and without exemplary Christian living, such people can do the church no good, but if their relations to the church could be vitalized by a deep and heartfelt spirituality, what a power they would become! We can call to mind scores of men in this city, and elsewhere, who owe much to the church, who have a certain connection with it, who have it in their power to contribute almost without limit to the material and moral influence of religion in their communities, and yet they are doing almost nothing. Their real position, if not open to doubt, is not well defined, and, instead of being clearly on the Lord's side, it is rather that of a damaging neutrality.

Such men have an account to render, and for their own sakes, and their families, ought to awaken our deepest solicitude. But as failures of men, beyond the salvation of the single soul, is the further consideration of the capabilities of usefulness that are in it. Not in any sordid spirit, nor with any prejudice or prepossessions of caste, we may well make special effort to save those who promise to become chosen vessels in the work of God. There are masses above, as well as masses below, to be reached, and there are in our flocks others than the poor who need to be fed and to be watched over. Faithful dealing with our more intelligent and influential people is perhaps more needed than with any other class. They have their peculiar dangers and temptations, and their alienation from Christ and the church carries with it a serious loss, not to themselves alone, but to the strength and resources of the church.

Beyond our interest in the salvation of the individual may be this desire for the consecration of his talent, energy, thrift and social influence to Christ. We cannot think of the gifts and culture of a rising young man without wishing that all his brilliance and genius were devoted to Christ in a thoroughly religious life. Nor can we look upon accumulating fortunes and broad estates without the strong desire that these might be made tributary to religion and the world's salvation through the consecration of those who possess them. Neither can we regard the womanly beauty, tact and refinement that shine in society without breathing a prayer that all this may be transferred to a religious sphere and laid at the Saviour's feet. God will never get His own except through the conversion of those who are wasting and perverting His gifts.

However this may be, can we not more carefully look after these of our own people who, with the largest capabilities of usefulness, are almost lost to us? There is enough of the choicest material, life and heft in the church, if it could be aroused and vitalized to put a new aspect upon our affairs in the shortest period of time. When will our men of full purses and wealth wake up to a sense of their accountability to God, and to the demands and needs of His church? It is a time when every man should be at his post, as a pronounced follower and faithful witness for Christ.

The Way Everlasting.

The way of life is a very old way as old as God himself, who is a God of righteousness. Sin is younger, a mere parasite and a comparatively recent intruder upon the divine order of the universe. Holiness was in God before any creature was made. For "before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God." Truth and goodness are properly eternal. They have always been. There was a time when moral evil had not come into being, but there never was a period when all moral perfections did not flash out their splendors and beauties from the eternal throne.

Amid holiness was the first in the character and conduct of the creatures. All must have been made upright. We know not how long, after the creation of the first born sons of light, it was, before there came disorder in their flaming ranks, and the shadow of sin fell upon their bright array. But, as to them, the way everlasting is the way of righteousness. This was first, and before the blot of evil rested upon the fair face of creation. It is the path of God in his eternity, and the earliest path of those exalted beings, of those principalities, powers and dominions which were set forth and endowed to reflect the infinite glory.

It is the oldest way as to man. Evil came in all too soon, but it was not so at the first. There was uprightness in man as he came from the creative hand, and as he sprang, from the inbreathing Spirit, a living soul. Holiness, as pertaining to human history, is more venerable than sin. It was the first settler even here, and has a pre-emption right to the earth. Its letters-patent were issued, and actual possession realized, before the pirates and free-booters from hell ever touched the coasts of paradise. Righteousness dwelt in the earth, and possessed it, before disobedience, unbelief or murder. Satan is an interloper, and sin a comparatively modern invasion. The good old way was the life in Eden, the way everlasting which had come from God, and which alone is the path of happiness and peace. If sin is old, righteousness is older. If the one has grown hoary in its work of misery and death, the other, in its mission of peace and joy and life, wears the crown of the everlasting.

Virtue and goodness are not young in the history of man. The way everlasting is that in which patriarchs and prophets have walked. It was an old and well-trodden path when Jesus came as the way, the truth and the life; and His mission was to reveal himself as the way everlasting, the eternal Son, and, as it had been, a Lamb slain from the foundations of the world, "whose goings forth have been from of old, from everlasting."

The way everlasting has always been. It is in the nature and character of God. It was neither made nor evolved, but it is as God is, and there can be no change in it. The principles of righteousness never change. As exhibited in character and practice, they must be ever the same. Love is the eldest of all things, and it is now as it has been from eternity. Love in us is the divine implanted in us. It is the one power that nerves the seraphim's wing, and moves the arm of the saint on earth. All the law and the prophets are in love. It is the end of the commandment, and the sum of moral philosophy. It is the law of angels and of men. It must needs be a perfect way. As divine, as everlasting, it can be nothing else. We cannot add to it, we cannot take from it. It is the perfection of beauty, of all righteousness, of every conceivable excellence. In its realm there is nothing to be invented, and no improvements possible. It is the perfect law, the perfect life, a perfect love. It is a way that never wears out, and that needs no repairs.

It is imperishable. The forces of evil are striving to overthrow it. Infidelity, in protean form, is trying to tear it up. Its end has been predicted by Voltaire, and evolution and positivism claim to have undermined and exploded it, but more travel it than ever, and not a stone has been shaken. The testimony of reason, experience and history grow stronger in its support. It is becoming the King's highway the world over. A way everlasting, something not shifting and changing as the crude philosophies and speculations of men, is what the soul needs. This it craves, and this the truth, as it is in Jesus, gives.

It touches the eternal in its every aspect of that which was, and is, and is to come. Its source is in the eternal, its law is in the faith and hope of a blessed immortality, and its trend and bearings are across the mysterious gulf. It rises upward and heavenward until lost and blended in the throne of God, and the home of the good in the Father's mansions. Blessed are they to whom is vouchsafed that divine guidance by which they are led "in the way everlasting."

Entire Sanctification.

The London Watchman, in a leader on this subject, says:

Do the present Wesleyan ministers preach the doctrine of entire sanctification as fully, freely and frequently as their forefathers? Do the modern pastors profess to enjoy the blessing as did many of their elder pastors? Do they profess to enjoy it in the love-feasts as much as formerly? Do they speak of it in the class meeting as much as they did thirty years ago? A perfect answer to these questions could only be given by scheduled testimony. Ministers who have met classes and led love-feasts for the last forty years and are doing the same work still can testify whether entire sanctification is as prominent now as it was forty years ago. Our old friends of the laity who have gone to chapel, class and love feast for many years can tell whether the former days were better than these for the theme of this article. But how is all this testimony to be got? Who is to issue the schedules, and who will tabulate them? It is a question which can only be settled by a mass of testimony which is practically unattainable. It is not safe to hazard opinions; nevertheless the risk is worth running for so good a cause. We do not believe that entire sanctification is referred to either in the pulpit, in the love-feast, in the class meeting or in ordinary Christian intercourse so frequently and decisively as it was forty years ago. Neither preachers nor people profess it so much as they did then. We do not mean to say that our people, as a whole, have lost ground; on the contrary, there is more general completeness of Christian character, and a more detailed and comprehensive spiritual culture among us. Never since the days of John Wesley was the general walk and conversation of Wesleyans more consistent than it is now. If we have lost in concentration of conviction, we have gained in breadth of culture. The misfortune is that we have not held fast the former while progressing in the latter. By all means let us be consistent and completely cultured in all the length and breadth of Christian and secular citizenship. But let us see to it that the central jewel shines like a star in the breastplate of the soul. We must have more grace. We must have full salvation. God speed the time when many thousands of our Israel, in the pulpit and out of it, shall be able to say "The blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth me 'from all sin.'"

The doctrine has been injured by the way in which it has been preached. On the one hand, mere conventionalities have been turned into fixed commandments; and fanatical narrowness has usurped authority to close open questions to the aversion of broad and intelligent Christians. And on the other hand, there have been so many subtle distinctions, so many guards, hair splittings and refinements in some of the sermons, that common people have not been able to understand. What wonder that they gave themselves no trouble about realizing a blessing the doctrine of which was beyond their comprehension? A third mischief has sorely been inflicted on the Church of God by the undue and unscriptural exaltation of the standard of holiness. In their anxiety to elevate the Christian life some preachers have put the "second blessing" out of all common reach. In fact they have almost gone the length of making entire sanctification include æsthetics, ethics and social refinement. Yet who does not see that if the highest finish in such elements of human life is to form a part of entire deliverance from all sin, a blessing of holiness becomes the luxury of the few who have time, means and opportunity to obtain the brightest polish of the highest civilization. A plowman may be entirely sanctified without being a courtier, and a godly mother may be free from all sin though she knows nothing of fashionable drawing-rooms and literary reunions.

Our fathers preached the doctrine practically; let us be practical. They encouraged the people to seek it and profess it; let us encourage them. Better a few mistakes than universal silence. Better that a few should sincerely profess what they are mistaken in believing that they enjoy than that nobody should profess it lest they should possibly be mistaken. Let the doctrine of entire sanctification be set forth by preachers and class-leaders; let them set it forth practically, encouragingly and believingly; let them tell the people that it is the common privilege of all believers, and that it will be enjoyed by all when the church is all it ought to be; thus let them seek the glory of God; thus let them brave the sneers of the world and the opposition of lukewarm believers, and He for whom they undertake such work will assuredly give a glorious outpouring of light and life, and zeal and power, and truth and grace!

Conference Sessions.

Our patronizing Conferences hold their annual sessions soon. The following from the Wesleyan Christian Advocate comes to us in good time:

We enjoy Conference. It is hard to understand how a true hearted Methodist can help enjoying these delightful occasions. It is a time of good fellowship. Brethren and friends meet and recount the deeds of the year. There are many experiences in common, bright and shaded. There are many things to talk about—grave and gay, personal and domestic, social and ecclesiastical. There are some humorous things to tell. And they ought to be told on fit occasion and in proper measure. Some persons—well meaning, no doubt—lack the ability to distinguish all humorous things. This we must think, is an error. Humor—pure, simple humor—is wholesome; it may be quite religious. It is useful, moreover; it helps men to endure many hard things. How would our soldier boys have survived army life without the humors of the camp? An innocent joke has helped many a foot sore and hungry soldier to endure the day's march and the night's discomfort. It helps people not to nurse their troubles. It helps in a thousand ways. Don't let us grudge the brethren a hearty laugh or two at Conference.

We are persuaded that pure humor on fit occasion and in fit measure, does no man harm. "It may be—often is—a 'means of grace.'" The thing that hurts is either the excess of good humor, or the slightest taint in the humor. Ten humorous anecdotes—fit for ladies to hear—will do no harm; But one story tainted—spiced with vulgarity or irreverence—will spread mildew over piety. There is very little of this bad sort among preachers; there is a growing sentiment among them against tainted anecdotes. Their speech is purer than it was twenty years ago. We testify on this point with confidence. But there should be no taint at all in our humorous exchanges. One ugly story is too much. It should neither be told nor laughed at. It is not bad manners to hold a hard face when the ear is assailed with improper speech; it is religious to avoid "partaking of other men's sins."

We should be prayerful at Conference, because we should be prayerful everywhere. A man not prayerful at home cannot make up by many groans at Conference. "I will," says the apostle, "that men pray everywhere." In another place he says "always." Our prayers during Conference week naturally take shape and direction from our surroundings. We will naturally pray God's blessings on our hosts the good men and women who try so hard and successfully to entertain us. We want to leave a blessing with them. We pray for the communities and churches where we meet and with whom we worship. We pray for our brethren of the Conference—especially for the young men admitted on trial, and the old heroes who retire by reason of "many infirmities." We pray for the Bishop that he may do his drill-out and delicate work wisely and well. And for his advisers—his "cabinet," if the reader please.

And well may we pray for the Bishops and the presiding elders. They need prayer. And if there is any bottom in our funniest theory, there is a Divine Providence in the appointments. Our opinion is that a preacher who "can't see that Providence has anything to do with the appointments" is bound, in good conscience, to "locate" at the first opportunity.

Funeral of Dr. Pierce.

The Daily Enquirer-Sun of Columbus, Ga., November 12 gives an account of the funeral services of Dr. Lovick Pierce, which took place at St. Luke's Church, Columbus, November 11. Dr. A. G. Haygood preached the sermon. Text: Acts xiii, 36, 37:

"For David, after he had served his own generation by the will of God, fell on sleep, and was laid unto his fathers, and saw corruption."

"But He, whom God raised again, saw no corruption."

All the available space in the church was filled with a sympathizing and attentive audience. The remains of Dr. Pierce's wife, who died in 1850, were buried in Columbus, and it was fitting that his should rest in the same consecrated ground. The Enquirer-Sun says:

At the grave a most affecting scene was presented. Around the spot where the remains were to rest was gathered grief-stricken children and grandchildren of the deceased. Friends who cherished the tenderest feelings for the doctor were also present, and there were but few dry eyes in the large assemblage.

The burial service was conducted by Rev. A. M. Wynn, presiding elder of this district.

The following gentlemen acted as pall bearers: Revs. J. H. Campbell, D. D. J. E. Evans, D. D., J. B. McGehee, W. C. Bass, George Patillo, George D. Dodge, and Messrs. J. A. Bradford, W. H. Young, N. J. Bussey and B. F. Coleman.

Among the ministers present were: Rev. James L. Pierce, of Barnett, Ga., and Rev. Thomas F. Pierce, presiding elder of the Augusta district; Rev. James E. Evans, D. D., of Atlanta, Rev. A. G. Haygood, D. D., of Oxford; Revs. W. A. Dodge and G. H. Pattillo, of Sparta, Rev. J. P. Duncan, Rev. J. S. Key, D. D., Rev. G. G. N. MacDonnell, Rev. J. O. A. Clark, D. D., LL. D., Rev. W. C. Bass, D. D., Rev. F. M. Kennedy, D. D., Macon, Rev. J. B. McGehee, Fort Valley, Rev. B. F. Breedlove, Talbotton, Rev. H. C. Fentress, Cusseta, Rev. E. M. Whiting, Harris county, Ga. From our city there were: Rev. J. H. Campbell, D. D., Rev. A. B. Campbell, Rev. J. W. Hinton, D. D., Rev. A. M. Wynn, Rev. H. W. Key, Rev. J. J. Ansley, Rev. S. N. Tucker, Rev. J. O. A. Cook, and Revs. Robertson and Johnston, colored ministers.

Hons. George F. Pierce and Mr. Lovick Pierce, of Sparta, grandsons of the deceased, were also present.

This city has been considered Dr. Pierce's home until late years. He was known and loved as only such a man can be. There are many now living who remember the doctor's energy when St. Luke Church was built. He laid off the ground and planted the trees that are now growing in the yard. Thus the venerable man of God had labored in every honorable way for the good of God's people. The prayers of the Christian people will go up to heaven, thanking God for giving them such a man. They should remember "he is not dead, but sleepeth."

The doctrine that the Christian Union has always maintained that the Republican managers should send political speakers into the South, with the view of creating public sentiment, has at last been recognized in the case of Louisiana. Several consultations have lately been held among leading Republicans, and it is not improbable that within the next month the few local orators who have not been driven from the South by the terrorism of the last ten years will be reinforced from the North. The coming election in Louisiana is of particular importance, from the fact that the Legislature which will then be elected will have practically in its hands, under the new Constitution, the determination of the next year's presidential electors. It is perhaps too much to expect that, with no organized effort as yet, and with the recollection of the massacres in Tennessee and Caddo parishes fresh in mind, the Republicans of Louisiana can succeed in breaking the solid South, but it is at least worth while for them to make the effort, and for the party in the North to aid and stimulate it to the extent of their power.

The above, from the Christian Union, Henry Ward Beecher's paper—exhibits, not only the strong political feeling which pervades much of the Northern religious press, but also the ignorance connected with it. Every State in the Union has the same right to choose its presidential electors through its Legislature that Louisiana has. It is right conferred upon the Legislatures of the several States by the Constitution of the United States, and cannot be affected in any way by State Constitutions. Every State Legislature is authorized by the Federal Constitution to determine how the electors shall be chosen. There is nothing in our new State Constitution on the subject beyond declaring that they shall be chosen according to law. And, if there were, it would be null and void, since the Federal Constitution has decided the whole matter.

It is more than likely that this report about the purpose of the Legislature of Louisiana to take the choice of presidential electors directly from the people has its origin in New York, and has been started there to cover and justify such a measure on the part of the Republican Legislature of that State. Another object may have been to bring as much sympathy and help to the forlorn hope of Republicanism in Louisiana as possible during the pending canvass. Whatever the object, a religious paper, like the Christian Union, ought to be better informed than to give currency to the nonsense and untruths contained in the paragraph we have quoted from its columns.

The Baltimore Episcopal Methodist says:

There has been recently a series of financial successes in our church which not only excite present gratitude, but also inspire the hope of similar and even greater results in the near future. Calvary bought, and the full amount required for payment secured in cash and available subscriptions; the large and commodious edifice in Harrisonburg finished and paid for; "Emmanuel," in Calvert circuit, repaired, beautified, and, not only paid for, but enough secured in addition to make other needed improvements; and now the good tidings reach us that the heavy debt upon Mount Vernon church, Washington, has been "lifted" by the generous contributions of a few brethren. The pastor may well praise God. Other churches have plans by which debts will be extinguished at an early day. These facts warrant the hope that our people will receive fresh inspiration. Seeing what has been done, they will conclude that they, too, can remove debts which have rested like a nightmare upon them or replace the old church edifice with its insufficient accommodations with a new one better adapted to their wants. There should be a revival—a revival of pure and undefiled religion—a revival also of debt-paying, and where needed, of church repair and building. Let the good work go on, till throughout the Conference our people can say: We owe no man anything. Then, when all debts are discharged, it can truly be said this is the Lord's house, seeing no carpenter, nor bricklayer, nor any man of any business or trade has any unsatisfied claim upon it. Who will be the next to report freedom from the thralldom of debt, or a new and needed church bought and paid for? Our columns will always find space for these and kindred items.

Dr. Johns, editor of the Texas Christian Advocate, writing of the Northwest Texas Conference says:

Bishop Isaac Lane, of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America, who was en route to his Conference in Weatherford, visited the Conference. After an interesting statement of the history and condition of this branch of our church by Bishop McTyeire, Bishop Lane was introduced, and addressed the Conference in words full of genuine fraternal love. We had the pleasure of listening to a sermon on Friday afternoon from Bishop Lane. All the Conference, not compelled to be absent on committee-work, with a crowded audience, listened to the earnest evangelical and fraternal message delivered by this representative of the African race. We wish Bishop Haven could have witnessed the scene. He would have learned a profitable lesson in fraternity. Just here we wish to commend the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church in America to our people. It was organized by our Bishops, and is in full sympathy and fraternity with our church. Our preachers and people should render aid and counsel to its representatives whenever they need our care. They are doing an important work, and the blessing of God is resting on their labors.

—Concerning Bishop Paine and Pierce, the Nashville Christian Advocate of November 15, says:

Bishop Paine is at Nashville, the guest of Thomas D. Fite, Esq., at this writing (Monday, the tenth). It gives us great pleasure to be able to state that he sojourns at the Red Sulphur Springs, in Macon county, Tenn., has been benefited to his health. He looks stronger, and has gained perceptibly.

Bishop Pierce left Nashville on Monday, November 10, looking stronger than he did at Abingdon. We bespeak considerate treatment of him by the brethren in Arkansas. He needs the check-rein, not the spur.

—Bishop Keener reached home from his Western, California and Oregon tour on Wednesday, November 12. He appears in good health, and rather improved by the staging and incessant labors of the past three months. He represents the Western work, and the Conferences on the Pacific Slope, as in a more than usually promising condition.

—The Protestant Episcopal Council, Diocese of Louisiana, at a special session in New Orleans, November 12 elected Rev. John N. Galleher Bishop, to succeed Bishop P. H. M. Wilmer, deceased. The election by both clergy and laymen was nearly unanimous. Mr. Galleher was at one time rector of Trinity Church, in this city, but for several years past he has had charge of a church in the city of New York.

—From a private note recently received from Rev. Dr. W. H. Watkins we are much gratified to learn that his health is greatly improved, and that he is enjoying his old-time vigor and capacity for work.

All subscriptions expiring from this date to the close of the year will be extended to January, 1881, upon renewing yearly subscriptions now.

Bishop Paine was eighty years of age Wednesday, November 12, 1879. May his days be prolonged for many years to come.

—Rev. Ed. McMeans, a superannuated minister of the North Alabama Conference, died October 26.

A host of good people, says the Western Methodist, will with us mourn the death of a noble woman—the widow of the Rev. W. P. Ratcliffe, one of the pioneers and pillars of Arkansas Methodism, and mother of the Hon. W. C. Ratcliffe, of Little Rock, Ark. In that city our now-saluted sister died, October 29—her funeral service was to be held the next day, with a sermon by the Rev. Dr. Winfield, the old friend and fellow-laborer of her glorified husband, whom now she has rejoined in the better country. We deeply sympathize with surviving relations—may they all at last be reunited, a family in heaven.

A daughter of the Hon. Richard H. Dana, Jr., of Massachusetts, having become a pervert to Rome from attending a Romish school, a Romish paper very coolly and candidly says: "The influences of convent education have wrought this change of views, and if her family object to the way she has taken, they have themselves to thank for it. Religious instruction from a Catholic standpoint is about the first thing to find lodgment in an imaginative mind, and Miss Dana is quite romantic and poetic in her temperament." Mark this well, parents, and reflect upon it seriously, if you should ever be tempted to send a daughter or a son to a Romish school. —Western Methodist.

We give below the President's thanksgiving proclamation. It is well to observe the day, and we suppose there will be suitable services in our churches on the occasion.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

A recurrence of the season which the devout habit of religious people has made the occasion of giving thanks to Almighty God, and humbly invoking His continued favors, has the material prosperity enjoyed by our whole country been more conspicuous, more manifold or more universal. During the past year, also, unbroken peace with all foreign nations and the general prevalence of domestic tranquility, the supremacy and security of great institutions, civil and religious freedom, have gladdened the hearts of our people and confirmed their attachment to their government, which the wisdom and courage of our ancestors so ably framed, and the wisdom and courage of their descendents have so firmly maintained, to be the habitation of liberty and justice to successive generations. Now, therefore, I, Rutherford B. Hayes, President of the United States, do appoint Thursday, the twenty-seventh instant, as a day of national thanksgiving and prayer, and earnestly recommend that, withdrawing themselves from secular cares and labors, the people of the United States do meet together, on that day in their respective places of worship, there to give thanks and praise to Almighty God for His mercies, and to devoutly beseech their continuance.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the City of Washington, this third day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand, eight hundred and seventy-nine, and of the independence of the United States one hundred and fourth. Signed,

RUTHERFORD B. HAYES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.—All persons, other than regular clerical members of the above Conference, who design to attend the same, will please notify the undersigned at once, in order that homes may be provided.

C. A. APPLE, P. C.

Books and Periodicals.

—"White Robes" is the title of a new collection of songs and hymns for the Sunday-school, by A. J. Abbey and M. J. Munger. Oliver Ditson & Co., publishers, Boston. A very good collection, so far as we can judge, and much above the average of works of the kind.

CLIMBERS; Or, Classes, traditions and habits. Edited by Mrs. Clara Doty Bates. Boston: D. Lothrop & Co.

This is a large quarto, full gilt, the best of paper, and embellished with over two hundred illustrations. The pictures are, indeed, something wonderful, and the stories are the old, old stories that have amused and delighted the children for many generations. Among the stories illustrated are: Abdilla; The Cat and the Puddings; Boy String; Silver-locks and the Bears; Tom Thumb; Boy Diddle Diddle; Jack and the Bean-Stalk; Blue Beard; Little Red Riding Hood; The Sleeping Princess; Puss in Boots. It is a gem of holiday books for children. Price, [illegible]

—St. Nicholas, Scribner's Illustrated magazine for girls and boys, conducted by Mary Mapes Dodge, Volume VI, November, 1878, to November, 1879. We have had occasion to speak very highly of St. Nicholas, as it has come out monthly during the years. Here we have, in an elegantly bound volume, the gathered store of a year of things, beautiful, instructive and amusing. To any boy or girl the winning would be a treasure, and one hardly equaled by anything the same money would buy.

Scribner's Monthly, an Illustrated magazine for the people, conducted by J. G. Holland, Volume XVIII, May, 1879, to October, 1879 inclusive. Of course this is a fine volume, and replete with some of the best literary productions of the day. There are articles on the educational institutions of the world, on history, science, literature, and most of the living questions of the time. We have in "The World's Work" a record of the progress and discoveries in science. "Culture and Progress" gives us an account of the new books that have come out, and "Topics of the Time," by Dr. Holland, are written with freshness and power, though not always to our liking. The illustrations are numerous, and far above the ordinary magazine engravings. It is a volume for reference, entertainment, and for information.

—Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine for December has: Richard Baxter; John Milton; Glimpses of the Cinnamon Island; Maternal Faithfulness Rewarded; Sunday Traveling; The Egyptians As They Are; Thebes and the Vocal Memnon; Princess Elna; The Home of Industry for Convicts, and many other articles of value, besides Illustrations ad libitum. The present number closes the sixth volume of this popular monthly.

—James Anthony Froude is preparing a paper on Romanism and the Irish Race in America, to appear in the December number of the North American Review.

MARRIED.

RUSS—LEITCH.—At Canton, Miss., on the fifteenth of October, 1879, Mr. Jasper L. Russ, of Osyka, Miss., and formerly of New Orleans, and Miss Lulie Leitch, of Canton, Miss.

GALEY—YOUNG.—In Baton Rouge, at the residence of the bride's mother, on Thursday evening, October 30, 1879, at seven o'clock, by the Rev. J. T. Sawyer, Mr. J. C. Galey to Miss Lydia Young, both of Baton Rouge, La.

LUCAS—CROFT.—At the residence of the bride's father Mr. D. L. Brown on the twenty-third of October, 1879, Mr. E. A. P. Lucas, of Attala county, Miss., to Mrs. Mary J. Croft, of Montgomery county, Miss.

Publisher's Department.

While we continue to do our best to exclude fraudulent advertisements from the ADVOCATE, parties must judge for themselves as to the real value of the goods advertised. In ordering please mention the ADVOCATE.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.—January next the ADVOCATE office will adopt the cash system, and business thereafter will be conducted on the basis of all the leading papers published. Subscriptions being payable in advance for such length of time desired. The date of expiration, by months will appear opposite the name of each subscriber. Instead of the subscription "expires" with the close of that month at which time the paper will be discontinued, such a renewal. This will materially simplify the office work, as the printer will drop the names according to monthly expiration, and individual receipts be saved, as every subscriber will have a stamping of expiration. It will also facilitate agents in giving receipts in accordance with office accounts, correspondingly with printed date. Where advance payments are selling one year are made the year for which paid will be inserted. Erroneous names and dates will be promptly corrected when advised, and we urge you to keep the office of such cases when known, as our desire is to avoid all friction, or causes for complaint, and have everything as near perfect as possible. Accounts will be kept with agents as heretofore, to which payments may be made, or sent direct to the office, if preferred.

DRY GOODS.—There is no concern in this country that can delight for honorable and fair dealing than Messrs. Yale & Bowles, of 17, 19 and 21 Magazine street. They have been engaged in the branch of the business in this city for a great many years, and by perseverance, energy and liberal dealing have attained the front rank in the dry goods line. They have just received direct from Europe and New York as choice a selection, embracing everything in that line as ever was put upon counters and shelves. Southern country friends desire to deal with parties who will give them better terms could not be obtained, and we know their advertisement will be read with interest by the many who have dealt with them.

SALE STABLES.—Alford, Bettis & Co. are located on the corner of Baronne and Howard streets, which is the largest sale stable in the city. The firm is composed of heavy dealers who make quick sales and small profits. Their stock is always large and can be relied on as the finest and best in the city. It is gratifying to see that horse dealers are meeting with success, that they will receive a liberal share of the patronage of the gentlemen this season. Horses are the best pets in the world, and they are the best pets if they are kept in good condition. Their business is conducted on the most liberal principles, and they will sell you a horse or mule as cheap as any other firm in the city. They have a large and commodious stable, and will keep your horse for a reasonable price. Their card will be found in another column.

DRY GOODS, NOTIONS, ETC., are advancing all around, but Messrs. E. H. Adams & Bro., with an immense stock, selected by a skillful buyer at low rates, have resolved not to raise their prices as yet. See the special attractions they offer this week.

LEATHER AND SHOE FINDINGS.—Messrs. Whitelaw & Ricks will supply you with leather and shoe findings as reasonably as you can buy elsewhere. Their store is at 148 Poydras street, between St. Charles and Carondelet streets.

CHRISTMAS SELECTIONS.—Messrs. John Church & Co., (The Cincinnati O.), are publishers of six excellent new carols, written expressly for Sunday-schools, etc., by the best authors. See advertisement and provide yourselves.

CARPETS, WINDOW SHADES, ETC.—As fine a selection as ever came to New Orleans of the above has just been received by Messrs. Elkin & Co., 100 Canal street. Call early and make your selection before the crowd arrives.

COAL.—For coal, lumber, etc., go to Messrs. A. C. Danner & Co., 49 Carondelet street, corner Union.

LOOK at Offer's advertisement of his grocery house and give him a call.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.—Fruit jars. Mason (pint) quarts, $1 25; two quarts, $1 50 per dozen; American Gutta Percha rubber rings, $15 per 1,000. Liquid glue for books and machinery as French Glue. 19t

THE air of perfection, cleanliness and home-like comfort, which is so apparent at the American House, Boston, is one of the characteristic features of that well-regulated establishment. Truth will prevail to commend this popular hotel to travelers and permanently seldom found at or the mighty dollar strikes horse, having reduced its rates to [illegible] per day.

Indigestion, Dyspepsia, nervous prostration and all forms of general debility relieved by taking Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters, the only preparation of best containing the three following properties. It is not a mere stimulant like the extracts of beef, but combines blood-making, life-sustaining and life-sustaining properties, in such a manner as to effect permanent cures in all cases of debility, whether the result of chronic nervous prostration, overwork or dissipation, and particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaints. Caswell, Hazard & Co., Proprietors, N. Y. Sold by druggists.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

WILD'S Cod Liver Oil and Lime.—The great curative properties of this salt and oil in combination are admirable suited to its internal use in the cure of coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, whooping cough, scrofulous humors, and all consumptive symptoms. It does not require the use of a syringe, which is at best unpleasant, but is taken as a common drink. Physicians and druggists recommend it. Manufactured only by A. B. Wild & Co., Chemists, Boston. Sold by all druggists.

COUGH.—Don't keep it up the whole year, but get a bottle of Piso's Cure for Consumption and stop it. Sold everywhere. 25 cents.

WE CO. ILLS suffer from a cough, when a few doses of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL will relieve. Time is money, comfort, health, and all save by it.

TRUTH AND SOBERNESS.

What is the best family medicine in the world to regulate the bowels, purify the blood, remove constipation, biliousness, headache, and all derangements of the stomach and liver? Truth and soberness compel us to answer: Hop Bitters, being pure, perfect and portable. Druggists, Trucks, Hotels and Steamboats.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure for Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge to all who desire it, this recipe in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing, with stamp, naming this paper, W. W. Sherar, 149 Powers' Block, Rochester, N. Y.

PEZZONI'S MEDICATED COMPLEXION POWDER is warranted to clear the complexion of tetter, freckles, pimples, blotches, sallowness, and all cutaneous eruptions, and to render it soft, fair and beautiful. It contains no lead, arsenic or other poisonous ingredient, and is perfectly harmless. Sold by druggists. Depot, 37 Park Row, New York.

QUIRI'S COD LIVER OIL JELLY.

A REVELATION.—A delicacy of medicine at last. Quiri's Cod Liver Oil Jelly. Absolutely pure Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites in a delicious jelly. Tasteless and odorless. Prepared only by Quiri & Co., Chemists, 56 Maiden Lane, New York. Sold by druggists.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

G. W. SENTELL,
COTTON FACTOR
AND COMMISSION MERCHANT,
180 Gravier Street 180
NEW ORLEANS.
Liberal advances on cotton for the filling of orders.

THOMAS MANGAN,
FAMILY GROCER,
AND DEALER IN
ALL KINDS OF COAL AND FIRE WOOD,
cor. Polymnia & St. Charles sts.
NEW ORLEANS.
Wood and Coal Yard, No. 458 St. Charles street.

A. C. DANNER & Co.,
DEALERS IN
Coal, Lumber, Timber, Staves, Etc.
NEW ORLEANS OFFICE:
49 Carondelet Street, corner Union.

DR. GEO. J. FRIEDRICHS,
DENTIST,
155 St. Charles Street, corner of Girod,
Second above City Hall,
NEW ORLEANS.

PIANO TUNING
In Pure Harmony.
Piano Repairing, guaranteed in perfection. Piano Regulating, with great mechanical skill. New and second hand Pianos for sale or rent. Lowest prices in the city. Organs Tuned, Repaired and Built to order.
A. C. GARDNER,
807 Magazine street, New Orleans, La.

COAL. COAL.
WHOLESALE & RETAIL.
PLANTERS IN NEED OF
GOOD PITTSBURG COAL
By boat load or less quantity, will be supplied at LOW ST. MARKET RATES. Those on the upper coast from Baton Rouge, and those on the lower coast from New Orleans—by
W. G. COYLE & CO.,
33 Carondelet street.

FRANTZ & OPITZ,
Diamond Setters
AND
Jewelers,
63 ROYAL ST.,
bet. Bienville & Conti,
NEW ORLEANS.

FOR NEW YORK DIRECT.
THE CROMWELL
N. Y. and N. O. Steamship Line.

This Line is composed of the following first class steamships:
LOUISIANA, HUDSON,
KNICKERBOCKER, NEW ORLEANS.
Steamships of this line leave New York Every Saturday, at 3 P. M. and from New Orleans Every Wednesday at 5 A. M.
Cabin passage ..... $40.
Steerage passage ..... $20.
For further information apply to
ALFRED OPITZ,
11 Carondelet street.

O. E. ALFORD, W. B. BETTIS
M. F. THOMAS. M. A. ALFORD.
ROBT. E. LEE
Sale and Feed Stables,
129 to 135 Baronne St.,
NEW ORLEANS.
ALFORD, BETTIS & CO., Proprietors
DEALERS IN
Kentucky Mules and Horses
Respectfully solicit a call from Buyers.

WANTED, AGENTS, FOR OUR BIBLES, containing Cotton's Paragraphs and over 1000 Illustrations, with all the new Helps, also for Lithgow, Art and Song, with over 400 Engravings. These are the books for the holidays. Write for circulars and terms, and secure territory quick. J. H. CHAMBERS & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

A. SHWARTZ & SON
Importers and Dealers in all classes of FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,
No. 161 Canal Street,
SILKS, VELVETS, DRESS GOODS,
LINENS, NOTIONS, HOSIERY,
HANDKERCHIEFS,
LACES, EMBROIDERIES, CLOAKS, SHAWLS, BLANKETS,
ETC., ETC.
The manufacture of ladies' and children's
UNDERWEAR,
A specialty.
N. O.—Country orders carefully attended to. We send packages with catalogues of the underwear to all points on application.
A. SHWARTZ & SON,
161 Canal Street, New Orleans.

MARSDEN'S
PECTORAL
BALM.
FOR THE CURE OF
CONSUMPTION, COUGHS AND COLDS, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, SPITTING OF BLOOD, PAIN AND SORE-NESS OF THE BREAST,
WHOOPING COUGH,
HOARSENESS, PHTHISIC,
AND
All Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

Hundreds of lives have been saved by using this wonderful remedy. Read the following letter from a prominent citizen of Chicago, by the advice of Dr. [illegible] the beneficial effect of which began with the very first dose. Superstition will not be allowed to enter into this matter, as the writer is well known to the highest authority when I saw your advertisement in the daily papers, and gazing the name of a medical Balm, I was induced to [illegible] and language cannot express the feeling of relief which follows the use of this truly valuable medicine. I have taken three bottles, and feel myself fully improving in health, much to the surprise of my physicians and friends. I would recommend it to [illegible] suffering from diseased Lungs to try Peczoni's Balm. A few doses will find of the [illegible] curative powers.
Your true friend,
J. HENRY MALLERY.

For Sale by all Druggists.
C. R. FINLAY & CO.,
WHOLESALE AGENTS,
NEW ORLEANS.

Washington Avenue Drug Store
Cor. Magazine & Washington Sts.
NEW ORLEANS.
Constantly receiving fresh supplies of pure Drugs, Medicines, Chemicals, Patent Medicines, Combs of all kinds, Brushes, Soaps, Perfumery, Toilet and Fancy Articles, etc., sold at small margin. Coral Tooth Paste, recommended by all who use it as a very superior dentrifice. It beautifies the teeth to a fine pearl like appearance and ravishing beauty. Alkaline Bouquet Powder, by beautifying, softening and preserving the skin the best thing for prickly heat and all summer eruptions. Customers, city and country, will find our stock complete, comprising many articles impossible to enumerate here, and sold at moderate Prices. Prescriptions put up day and night. R. J. MAINEGRA, M. D., Druggist, Pharmaceutist and practical Chemist.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BOOM!
EVERYTHING IN THE LINE OF DRY GOODS, FANCY GOODS, NOTIONS, ETC.
It is the "Boom" or, in other words, is steadily advancing in value, but
E. H. ADAMS & BROTHER,
appreciating the scarcity of money among the masses,
Have Resolved not to Raise their Prices This Week, but that their goods are unaffected by the advance, for they are UNQUESTIONABLY OF THE VERY BEST MAKES, and selected by a master hand.
SPECIAL ATTRACTIONS THIS WEEK:
Dress Goods, Hosiery, Ribbons, Ruchings, Handkerchiefs, Cretonnes, Curtains, Dalmans, Cloaks, Blankets, Comfortables, Etc., Etc.
594 Magazine Street, Fourth Store above St. Andrew.

A Sweeping Reduction!

The reduction here announced in the price of The Sunday School Times puts that paper within the reach of every [illegible] in the land. It now becomes unquestionably the cheapest weekly paper of [illegible] in the United States. It gives 832 large pages (1[illegible] issues) [illegible] a year, or over eight pages for a cent. At its lowest [illegible] a year, or over a cent a week for each member of a club of twenty or [illegible] persons. [illegible] twelve cents taking other publications [illegible] the club rates of The Sunday School Times would be higher than they could afford, will at the new rates be available. The lowest rate heretofore for a club of [illegible] was [illegible] cents. Now the price for twenty copies of a religious paper is [illegible]. This reduction is a bold one, and even the present large circulation does not warrant it, but the change is desirable for the [illegible] of its field, and the [illegible] reduction is sure to come. Lower prices than [illegible] paper, of course, in the contrary, it is purposed to make the paper better than ever before in all of its departments.

Here are the New Rates.—Single copy, [illegible] cents. From five to [illegible] copies, in a package to one address, [illegible] cents each. From ten to fifteen copies, in a package to one address, $1 25 each. Twenty copies or more in a package to one address, $1 00 each. These prices include postage, which is prepaid by the publisher. Subscriptions will be taken for any [illegible] of time, at the same rates. While the papers for a club must be sent to a [illegible] address, subscriptions for [illegible] may be entered with a list containing the names and addresses of the persons who are to receive the paper.

Subscribers will be glad to know that they can [illegible] copies for a [illegible] year at the yearly rate. Ten cents [illegible] for three months' trial.

Any reader of [illegible] who does not [illegible] subscriber to The Sunday [illegible] interested in [illegible] to the [illegible] every Sabbath-school [illegible] should [illegible] Specimen copies [illegible] Sunday-school [illegible] illustrated [illegible] pictures, and a great variety of valuable [illegible].

JOHN D. WATTLES, Publisher, 725 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.
Keep this for reference.

CARPETS. CARPETS.
ELKIN & CO.
100 CANAL STREET. 100
Are making large additions to their stock of
AXMINSTER, MOQUETTE and BRUSSELS
In new and elegant styles, with
BORDERS TO MATCH.
Smyrna, Wilton, Velvet and Tapestry
BRUSSELS.
INDIA and CHINA MATTING.
WINDOW SHADES AND CURTAINS
In great variety.

Liverpool and London and Globe
INSURANCE COMPANY.
NEW ORLEANS.
Office cor. Carondelet and Gravier Sts.

[illegible]

Special attention given to Insurance of Real Estate, Dwellings and Furniture, at low rates.
All claims [illegible] and promptly paid.
By order of the Board of Directors.
[illegible]

Agents or others [illegible] NEW ORLEANS [illegible] CENTRAL [illegible] Superintendent, New Orleans.
Perry Nicholls, Agent, New Orleans.
[illegible]
HENRY V. GOBEL, President.

TILE
WINTER IS AT OUR DOORS,
Now is the Time to Buy Your
CLOTHING,
Furnishing Goods and Hats
AT CODCHAUX'S
81 and 83 Canal Street,
Invites attention to his immense stock for Men's, Youths', Boys'
AND CHILDREN'S WEAR,
MANUFACTURED FOR
Fall and Winter Season 1879-80,
And will sell at
VERY LOWEST PRICES.
N. B.—CUSTOM WORK a specialty.
SAMPLES and INSTRUCTIONS for self-Measurement will gladly be sent on application.

RICE, BORN & CO.,
DEALERS IN HEAVY AND SHELF
HARDWARE!
CUTLERY, AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS AND PLANTATION SUPPLIES.
TINNER'S STOCK AND TOOLS.
HEATING AND COOKING STOVES.
MANUFACTURERS OF TIN AND JAPANNED WARE.
80 & 82 CAMP STREET,
597 MAGAZINE STREET,
WAREHOUSE 12, 14 & 16 MAGAZINE ST.,
NEW ORLEANS.
New York Office, 261 Chambers St.
SOLE AGENTS FOR
Star Ruffler and Betting Co., Washington & Moen Barb Fence Wire, Howe's Improved Screen, Excelsior Lawn Mowers, Ansonia Brass and Copper Oil, American Cross Cut Saws, Fowler's Patent Fly Traps, Peerless Window Screens, Kistler's Measuring Screws, Wood Pumps.
CELEBRATED
CHARTER OAK STOVES.

ST. JAMES HOTEL,
EUROPEAN PLAN.
[illegible] Street, [illegible] the Old Southern,
ST. LOUIS, MO.
[illegible] CENTRALLY LOCATED. [illegible] Rates for [illegible] Visit all the [illegible] Principal [illegible]
[illegible] Depot Omnibus [illegible]
A. LEON, P. MILLER, Proprietor.

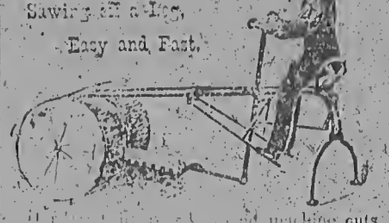
PHILADELPHIA, 1876. 73.
MAKE and SAVE MONEY
BY USING THE CELEBRATED
MODEL PRINTING PRESS
[illegible]
HOW TO PRINT



Sawing off a log,
Easy and Fast.

[illegible] circular cuts
PRESENT [illegible] A $100
[illegible] man who [illegible] can [illegible] free.
[illegible] III.
Caution. We are [illegible] infringements upon our patents and have sued [illegible] for [illegible] one of which [illegible] W. Burdick, of Star City, Ind., [illegible] and [illegible] and made [illegible]

WANTED [illegible] to [illegible] in [illegible] PRINTING [illegible] Send for [illegible] to the [illegible] Co., [illegible] Ind., [illegible] Depot for [illegible] Agents Wanted for [illegible] & Co. 50

An Old and Valuable Remedy!
BARK & IRON
A [illegible] of the [illegible] Peruvian [illegible] Iron. It is endorsed and [illegible] by the [illegible] profession as a very
PALATABLE AROMATIC
IRON TONIC,
For the cure of Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, chills, &c.
BILLINGS, CLAPP & CO.,
[illegible] AND SUCCESSORS TO
NICHOLS & CO., BOSTON, MASS.
For Sale by all Druggists.
Avoid [illegible] Substitute for Quinine.
CINCHO-QUININE!
Is [illegible] to [illegible] Quinine in the same dose in quality as well as cheaper, and is kind [illegible]
CURES FEVER AND ACUE;
does not produce [illegible] or other disagreeable symptoms, and as a tonic and anti-periodic it supersedes all other bark preparations.
Billings, Clapp & Co., Manfg. Chemists, Boston, Mass.
For Sale by all Druggists.

Farm, Garden and Household.

SELECTING SEED CORN.—In selecting seed corn, care is to be taken at the time of ripening, whether of ears upon the stalk, size of the stalk, and the perfection of the ears. Ears which ripen earliest in the field after things being favorable, is to be preferred. Ears on strong stalks that have not suffered by drouth, or other causes, and which are free from disease, and which are well matured, are to be preferred. Ears which are large in the middle, and which taper regularly to each end, and which have a small cob, and deep grains, are to be preferred. Ears which are filled out well at the butt and tip, and which have straight rows of grains, are to be preferred. Ears which have a broad, deep grain, are to be preferred. Ears which have a large germ, are to be preferred. Ears which have a smooth, bright appearance, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good color, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good shape, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good weight, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good quality, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good flavor, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good texture, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good appearance, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good reputation, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good history, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good future, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good name, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good label, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good package, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good price, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good value, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good investment, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good return, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good profit, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good loss, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good gain, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good balance, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good account, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good bank, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good check, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good draft, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good note, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good bond, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good mortgage, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good lien, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good title, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good deed, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good will, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good testament, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good codicil, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good executor, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good administrator, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good guardian, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good trustee, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good agent, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good attorney, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good lawyer, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good judge, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good jury, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good court, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good sheriff, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good constable, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good policeman, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good fireman, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good soldier, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good sailor, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good captain, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good mate, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good engineer, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good fireman, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good brakeman, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good conductor, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good driver, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good rider, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good runner, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good swimmer, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good diver, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good climber, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good jumper, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good runner, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good thrower, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good catcher, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good batter, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good pitcher, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good fielder, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good umpire, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good scorer, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good referee, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good timekeeper, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good starter, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good finisher, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good winner, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good loser, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good spectator, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good audience, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good crowd, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good mob, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good riot, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good war, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good peace, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good treaty, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good alliance, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good league, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good union, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good confederation, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good republic, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good democracy, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good monarchy, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good empire, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good kingdom, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good principality, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good duchy, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good county, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good city, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good town, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good village, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good hamlet, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good farm, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good garden, are to be preferred. Ears which have a good household, are to be preferred.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BOOKS
FOR THE
FARM AND GARDEN.
A full supply of the best Agricultural works published for sale and supplied at publishers' prices by mail when desired.
Address
LATHROP & WILKINS,
112 Camp street.

25,000 SOLD!
Farmers' and Mechanics' MANUAL.
Edited by GEO. E. WARING, Jr.
Author of "Elements of Agriculture," "Draining for Profit and for Health," and formerly Agricultural Engineer of Central Park, New York.
900 Octavo pages. Over 200 Illustrations.
Worth to any Thinking Working Farmer $25 a Year.
The book is, for the most part, a work of facts and figures, plainly stated, and easily understood by all who have occasion to use them. The author has produced a work of substantial and permanent value, and of universal application and interest. It is designed to contain even more information for every farmer and gardener than can be found in any other book, and more of practical hints and advice than in any book ever published in this country. It is sufficiently suggestive in many directions to lead readers to read more and to think more, and to be the means of calling out much valuable information from many readers as well as really instructive articles.
A BOOK OF SOLID WORTH AND PRACTICAL UTILITY, "WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD."
Price, in Extra English Cloth, Gilt Back, Only $3 50.
Sent post-paid on receipt of price. Address
LATHROP & WILKINS,
112 Camp street, New Orleans.

HUMPHREYS' HOMŒOPATHIC VETERINARY SPECIFICS
FOR HORSES, CATTLE, SHEEP, DOGS, HOGS, and POULTRY.
Humphreys' Homœopathic Veterinary Specifics have been used by Farmers, Stock Breeders, Livery Stable Keepers, Horse Railroads, Manufacturers, Coal Mines Companies, U. S. Government and Sportsmen, for over 12 years, and are always reliable.
Humphreys' Veterinary Manual, 144 pages, sent free.
Pamphlets sent free.
HUMPHREYS' HOMŒOPATHIC MED. CO.
109 Fulton street, New York.

Rosedale Cooking Stove,
MANUFACTURED BY
STEWART, PETERSON & CO.,
PHILADELPHIA, PENN.
The cheapest and most popular looking stove in the market. They manufacture four sizes of them, and they are for sale exclusively by
C. W. W. GOODWYN,
74 Camp Street,
New Orleans, La.

45 Years Before the Public.
THE GENUINE
DR. C. McLANE'S
CELEBRATED
LIVER PILLS
FOR THE CURE OF
Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,
AND ALL DISEASES ARISING FROM
Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.
PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, sometimes extending across the body to the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; the pain is often mistaken for heart disease, and at times the stomach is affected, with loss of appetite, nausea, and sick headache. In many cases the skin and eyes assume a yellowish tinge, the tongue is coated, and the bowels are alternately costive and lax. The kidneys also become affected, and there is frequently a dull pain in the back, which is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism. In fact, the diseases of the Liver are so various in their forms that they are unknown.
BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.
The genuine Dr. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS are prepared by Dr. McLANE and have his signature on the wrappers.
Prepared by Dr. McLANE, Philadelphia, Pa., the only genuine.
Sold by all druggists throughout the United States and Canada.
Beware of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but pronounced the same.

MISCELLANEOUS.
AMERICAN
WARWICKSHIRE SAUCE.

For Chops, Steaks, Roast Meats Game, Fowl, Cold Meats, Salad and Oysters.
Imparting a most delicious relish, and from its SUPERIOR QUALITY is more generally useful than ANY OTHER SAUCE IN THE MARKET.
W. G. LYON & CO.,
25 & 27 Tchoupitoulas Street,
AGENTS.

Pontchartrain Cheap Store.
J. A. LACROIX,
CORNER FRENCHMEN AND VICTORY STS.
LADIES', GENTS', MISSES' AND CHILDREN'S
BOOTS AND SHOES
OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS.
Always on hand a full assortment of first-class goods at prices which defy competition. Call and examine the stock before purchasing elsewhere.
MY MOTTO—"Quick Sales and Small Profits."
Jackson railroad cars pass in front of the store.

WATCHES AND JEWELRY,
17 BARONNE STREET,
Bet. Common and Canal. NEW ORLEANS.
ALSO
LOAN OFFICE.
Private entrance to right of bow window.
Unredeemed pledges of every description sold at very low prices and with full guarantee.
OTTO SCHWANEB.
Watches and Jewelry carefully repaired. Jewelry at low cash prices.

BETTER THAN EVER
Church & Co.'s
CHRISTMAS SELECTIONS
FOR 1879.
SIX Excellent New Carols Written Expressly for Christmas Celebrations SIX
Sunday Schools, etc., by the best writers of sacred song. W. O. Duane, Geo. F. Root, Harry Sanders, and others have co-operated to this year's selections. NOW READY.
Price 5 cts. $4 00 per 100 copies.
PUBLISHED BY
JOHN CHURCH & CO.,
66 W. Fourth St., Cincinnati, O.
And 805 Broadway, New York.

EXCELSIOR
DISINFECTING FLUID.
This fluid is not a disinfectant, an antiseptic and a deodorizer, destroys all noxious gases and all disagreeable odors, arising from putrescent matter, and prevents decomposition of organic substances, by forming a chemical combination with their constituents. It prevents the spread of contagious diseases, and is harmless, inodorous and effective in its work. Sold by the gallon or gallon in larger quantities. Liberal discount to dealers.
EXCELSIOR DISINFECTANT CO.,
417 N. 12th Street, St. Louis, Mo.

BOERICKE & TAFEL,
Homœopathic Pharmacy,
130 CANAL STREET,
Between St Charles and Carondelet Sts.
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Keep constantly on hand a complete supply of pure and reliable Homœopathic medicines, as well as a full assortment of Medicine Chests for families, plantations, etc., and the accompanying books, giving directions for the use of Homœopathic remedies in simple ailments.
Illustrated and descriptive catalogues furnished free upon application.
THIS IS THE ONLY COMPLETE HOMŒOPATHIC PHARMACY IN THE SOUTH.

H. DeVERGES & CO.,
HARDWARE,
17 and 19 Decatur Street,
Opposite Postoffice, New Orleans.
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
IRON, NAILS, CUTLERY, GUNS, AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS, PLOWS, OILS, PAINTS, CORDAGES, ETC. ETC.

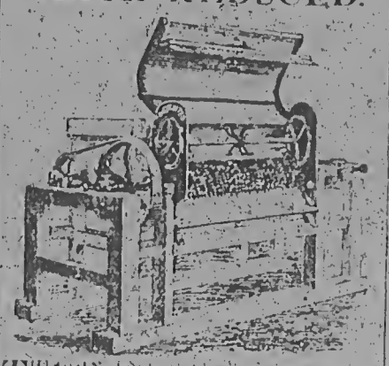
WATCHES.
LADY'S GOLD WATCHES, $30 and upward.
GENT'S GOLD WATCHES, $45 and upward.
GENT'S SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.
BOYS' SILVER WATCHES, $12 and upward.
All guaranteed.
A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
Cor. Canal and Royal Sts.

ATTENTION! ATTENTION
M. ANDRIEU,
51 - - ROYAL STREET - - 51
Home-Made Shoes, hand-sewed, $4 00
Home-Made Shoes, Screwed, $2 50-3 50
City-made Boots and Shoes of all kinds and styles, made of the very best material and workmanship, and at less prices than any other store in this city. Keeps all kinds for Gents', Boys', Ladies' and Children's wear. Employs from 75 to 100 workmen constantly.

The Purest and Best Medicine ever made.
A combination of Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, and Dandelion, with all the best and most curative properties of all other Bitters, makes the great Blood Purifier, Liver Regulator, and Life and Health Restoring Agent on earth.
No disease or ill health can possibly long exist where Hop Bitters are used, as varied and perfect are their operations.
They give new life and vigor to the aged and infirm.
To all whose employments cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary organs, or who require an Aperient, Tonic and mild Stimulant, Hop Bitters are invaluable without intoxicating.
No matter what your feelings or symptoms are, what the disease or ailment is, use Hop Bitters. Don't wait until you are sick, but if you only feel bad or miserable, use the Bitters at once. It may save your life. It has saved hundreds.
$500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help. Do not suffer nor let your friends suffer, but use and get them to use Hop Bitters.
Remember, Hop Bitters is no vile, drugged, drunken nostrum, but the Purest and Best Medicine ever made. The "Invalid's Friend and Hope," and no person or family should be without them.
Get some this day.
Hop Cough Cure is the sweetest, safest and best. Ask Children.
The Hop Pad for Stomach, Liver and Kidneys is superior to all others. Cures by absorption. Ask druggist.
D. I. C. is an absolute and irresistible cure for drunkenness, use of opium, tobacco and narcotics.
Sold by druggists. Hop Bitters Mfg. Co., Rochester, N.Y.
Send for Circular.

MISCELLANEOUS.
JOHN CLARK, Jr. & CO'S
CLARK'S TRADE MILE-END MARK SPOOL COTTON
BEST
SIX-CORD
—FOR—
MACHINE OR HAND USE.
THOMAS RUSSELL & CO.,
SOLE AGENTS.
FOR SALE BY ALL
DRY GOODS AND NOTION DEALERS.

MARBLE
—AND—
GRANITE
TOMBS, MONUMENTS AND GRAVE STONES.
Mantels, Grates, Hearths, Tiling, Flagging, etc.
GEO. STROUD.
164 St. Charles street, New Orleans, La.

JOS. B. WOLFE & CO.,
Cotton Factors,
59 Carondelet St., New Orleans.
And General Agents for
DANIEL PRATT'S IMPROVED
"Revolving Head" Cotton Gin,
PATENTED JULY 5, 1870.
PRICE REDUCED.


THIS GIN has been in use for the past six seasons, and several recent improvements have been added. It obviates all friction at the end of the cotton box, prevents the roll from breaking, and gives a larger yield of lint from the same amount of seed than any other gin in use. The Revolving Head lightens the rack and causes the gin to run faster with less driving power, thus adding a great deal more work within the same time while consuming steam or animal power, than any other Gin. The seed being ginned every time the length of the staple is increased, producing cotton, on this account, of a greater market value. This improved value, given by length of staple, with extra production of lint, added to increased amount of work done, more than covers the cost of the Gin in every bale ginned. Testimonials sent by mail on application.
FEEDERS and CONDENSERS, with latest improvements also made by the Daniel Pratt Gin Co. to work with these Gins. Send for descriptive circulars.
JOS. B. WOLFE & CO.,
New Orleans, La.

$25.00 to $35.00
STEWART'S NEW IMPROVED
SINGER
Sewing Machine
Great Reduction in Prices!
Down with Monopolies!
Hard Times demand Low Prices.
We warrant all our machines to be NEW, LATEST IMPROVED and PERFECT for FIVE YEARS.
Our NEW MACHINE is supplied with a LOOSE BALANCE-WHEEL, which is a great improvement over the old SINGER, as it enables the operator to wind the bobbin without running the machine or removing the work from the needle. This is the most important improvement ever put on the Sewing Machine.
Also dealer in all first-class machines, such as the
WHEELER & WILSON,
GROVER & BAKER,
DOMESTIC,
WILSON,
WEED, Etc.
Cotton, Silk, Flax, Oil and Needles for all kinds of Machines. Address,
M. A. PECK,
General Sewing Machine Agent,
153 CANAL STREET,
Next to Hulbirds' Dry Goods Store.
New Orleans.

THE LARGEST SALES
IN COTTON TIES
THIS SEASON
HAVE BEEN MADE BY
EDWARD S. LEVY,
32 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
MANUFACTURER OF
Flint & Wire Cotton Bale Tie
AND
E. S. Levy's Standard Pieced Tie.
Testimonials from Compressmen, and Planters generally, on file at the office, for all who seek further confirmation as to the well-known merits of these Ties.

FRITZ JAHNCKE,
(PAT. FOR LA.)
Schillinger Artificial Stone Pavement,
Artificial Stone Tiles in various colors,
DEALER IN
North River and German Flags, Curb Stone and Portland Cement.
208 Delord st. between Baronne and Carondelet.
Box 143 Mechanics' and Dealers' Exchange.
NEW ORLEANS.

MISCELLANEOUS
WASHBURN'S
CELEBRATED
ART GALLERY,
A TRIUMPH IN PHOTOGRAPHY!
PICTURES MADE PERMANENT
—BY THE—
LAMBERT PATENT PROCESS.
We are prepared, with all the latest Inventions and appliances, to produce all the newest styles in photography at
VERY MODERATE PRICES.

E. OFFNER,
No 174 Canal Street, Between Baronne and Dryades.
DIRECT IMPORTER OF
FRENCH, ENGLISH AND AMERICAN
CHINA AND EARTHENWARE
GLASSWARE, CUTLERY, WOODENWARE, TINWARE.
THE FINEST QUALITY OF
SILVER PLATEDWARE A SPECIALITY
LOOK AT THESE PRICES FOR OUR AMERICAN CHINA:
Dinner, Break fast and Tea Sets, comprising in all its pieces, for $15 00
Decorated Chamber Sets, 10 pieces 1 50
Good Glass Goblets per dozen 60
All other goods in proportion.
All orders and communications, etc., will receive prompt and careful attention. Make no mistake in the name, number or sign.
E. OFFNER,
174 Canal Street, Between Baronne and Dryades.

JULIUS SEYERIN, Pres't. J. F. CURRIER, Supt.
EUREKA IRON ROOFING CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
FINE SHEET IRON ROOFINGS AND SIDINGS
IRON DOORS, SHUTTERS, IRON TRUSS ROOFS, ETC.
85 W. Front Street, Cincinnati.

KEYSTONE MATTRESS.
Durable, Comfortable, Cleanly, Healthful and Economical, altogether the Most Delicious Spring Bed in Use.
WOVEN WIRE.
IRON BEDSTEAD FOR HOSPITALS.
ROBERT KELSO & CO., Manufacturers,
No. 216 MARKET STREET, Philadelphia.
Send for Descriptive and Price List.

E. YEOMAN,
MANUFACTURER OF THE COMFORT BED,
ALSO
WIRE MATTRESSES,
YEOMAN'S CANVASS TOP & SLAT BEDS AND COTS,
16 DIFFERENT STYLES IN ALL.
353 and 355 South Canal Street, Chicago.

ANDERSON, HARRIS & CO.,
WHOLESALE MANUFACTURERS OF
Buggies, Phætons,
CARRIAGES VEHICLES,
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,

Office and Factory, N. E. cor. Baymiller and Liberty Streets,
Warerooms, N. W. cor. Livington and Baymiller Sts.
CINCINNATI.
Send for Illustrated Catalogue and Price List.
Sixth Street (Green) Cars pass the door.

Established in St. Louis in 1858.
R. L. ROSEBROUGH & SONS,
MARBLE WORKS,
OFFICE AND WAREROOMS, 1421 BROADWAY,
Factory, 1415 North Sixth Street,
ST. LOUIS, MO.

SAWS. CURTIS & CO.
811 to 819 N. 2d St., ST. LOUIS, Manufacturers of every description of CIRCULAR, MILL and CROSS-CUT SAWS. Wholesale dealers in RUBBER and LEATHER BELTING, FILES, EMERY WHEELS, MANDRELS, CANT HOOKS, SAW GUMMERS, UPSETS and all SAW and PLANING MILL SUPPLIES. Sole manufacturers of LOCKWOOD'S PATENT SLOTTED CIRCULAR SAW. Careful attention to REPAIR WORK. EVERY SAW WARRANTED.
Our New Illustrated Catalogue mailed free on application.

FOUNDED JULY 4, 1808.
OLDEST SHOT TOWER IN AMERICA.
THOS. W. SPARKS,
Patent American
Chilled Shot,
Standard Drop and Buck Shot
AND BAR LEAD MANUFACTURER,
121 WALNUT STREET,
PHILADELPHIA.

SPENCERIAN
SPENCERIAN COMMERCIAL
STEEL PENS,
Of the Very Best European Make, and unrivaled for Flexibility, Durability and Evenness of Point.
REAL SWAN QUILL ACTION.
IN TWENTY NUMBERS.
Samples including this popular number Nos. 1-2-5-8-15 and Broad Points 3-16-18 will be sent by mail, for trial, on receipt of 25 cents.
IVISON, BLAKEMAN, TAYLOR & CO.,
138 & 140 Grand St., New York.
And for sale by LATHROP & WILKINS, No. 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

EDUCATIONAL ITEMS.

—The faculty of the Princeton Theological Seminary announce that at the next commencement the sum of six hundred dollars will be awarded to the member of the senior class passing the best examination on certain specific studies. The recipient will be required to study one year in Prince on or any institution sanctioned by the trustees of the Seminary. As another prize, Messrs. Robert Carter & Brothers offer a collection of books worth fifty dollars for the best thesis on the genuineness and correct interpretation of the forty-ninth chapter and tenth verse of Genesis. Messrs. Charles Scribner & Sons offer a similar prize for the best thesis on the principal interpretations of the second chapter, sixth to eighth verses, of the Epistle to the Philippians.

—Johns Hopkins University began its autumn term Tuesday, September 30th. The average attendance last year at each lecture in thirteen different courses was nearly 100. The most popular course was that on the German Empire; the least popular that on the Greek Scriptures. President Eliot's course on English Literature, to be given during the coming winter, it is thought will be fully attended. Lectures on ethics and the history of philosophy will be given by Professor Gilman and S. Morris, and examinations on the same will be held. The public course in the department will be on "British Thought and Thinkers;" and the first lecture, on February 23, will be on "The General Characteristics of the English Mind."

—Professor Morley writes that the admission of women to University College, London, has been found to create no practical difficulties except such as have easily been surmounted by judicious arrangement. The continued increase in the number of students in the College, now more than 1,200, necessitates an extension of the College buildings. This work is now being carried out by the addition of a north wing, which will cost about £24,000, more than £20,000 of which have already been subscribed.

—The Belgian bishops have formally resolved, with regard to the new elementary law, that steps ought to be taken to call teachers and pupils of the public normal schools that, teaching in all public schools being secularized, all teachers employed in them are excommunicated; also that it is to be refused to parents to send their children to public schools, with out any exception; and that the children attending the public schools, being considered as going without a permanent, may be taught such privately to first communion.

—The Boston Society for the Grace Scholars at Home, to promote the study of English literature, has published its sixth report. This society is a private one, founded by Miss Thayer. For the present year the subject in English literature is the favorite course, 370 of the pupils taking the classes now open in the study of its chief authors, their sources, and German and French. Twenty-two lectures are engaged to be given on the work of instruction, all giving their services gratuitously. The expenses are met in part by an annual fee of two dollars from each student.

—The estimated cost of erecting the public schools now in course of erection in the year 1880 is $3,500,000, for the erection of which amount bonds to $2,450,000 are to be issued. A lack of accommodation for the rapidly increasing number of school children. It appears by a recent census that seventy-seven per cent of every school building now occupied [illegible] contain at least 2,000 pupils in proportion.

—Mr. W. E. Forster, the British statesman, said in a recent speech that when evening lectures were established in the factories of England, which were to be given to grown men, children were already at work. Before the end of the year 1,000 operatives in Bradford were gratuitously taught. At present it is a difficult matter to get a class of children who are not gratuitously taught.

—The report of the Commissioner of Education for 1878, which has just been published, shows the school population of the country to be 15,000,000, of whom 9,000,000 are attending school. The number of teachers employed is 250,000, and the average salary of male teachers $45 per month, and of female teachers $30 per month. The number of volumes in public libraries is 3,000,000. The total expenditure for public schools is $80,000,000, of which $50,000,000 is paid for teachers' salaries.

—The Council of Yale College have elected Prof. T. D. Goddin a Bonn Professor of Greek for the ensuing year, instead of the annual course on preaching heretofore given.

—Readers giving teachers' examinations in the Public Schools of Chicago, and publishing their school-books, have been issued in all Leads.

EDUCATIONAL.

Mansfield Female College.

THE FALL SESSION of this institution will begin on Wednesday, September 24. A full and complete corps of teachers. Every advantage offered. Charges moderate. Preachers of this Conference pay no tuition for their daughters in regular course. Extras, birth in favor, one-fourth off. Board of a preacher's daughter, for the year, $100, she to furnish lights and washing. Send for catalogue.

REV. THOS. ARMSTRONG, Pres't.
Mansfield, La

HIWASSEE COLLEGE,
EAST TENNESSEE.

FOUNDED 1849, offers superior advantages and a healthy retreat.

The Male Department is located in a quiet farming community, seven miles from Sweetwater, east Tenn., Va. and Ga. R. R.

The Female Department is located in the model town of Sweetwater, in a lovely section.

Experienced Teachers, good work and Low Charges in both Departments. Patronage merited. For particulars, address

REV. J. R. BRUNNER, D. D.,
Hiwassee College, Tenn.

Woodville Female Seminary.

A NON-SECTARIAN ACADEMY, UNDER the supervision of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Mississippi Conference: Hon. E. Mettehey, President of Board of Trustees. For Thoroughness of instruction, healthfulness, cheapness, and many other advantages it is not surpassed. We invite those interested to examine our credentials, and to obtain circulars, by calling upon Mr. Philip Werlein, New Orleans, La., or address the Principal,

A. J. WRIGHT,
Woodville, Miss.

The Loquet-LeRoy Institute

AND KINDERGARTEN DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES, 280 Camp Street.—This institution has now reopened under the auspices of the Misses MUSE, Prof. L. W. Sallie L., and Corinne (the latter relict of the late H. G. Raciti, daughters of Judge E. Warren Muse deceased, successors of Mme Loquet LeRoy, whose good will and right to conduct the School under its old name they have purchased. Except in so far as the principles may refer to active service, there will be no change of teachers. No closing whatever in the conduct and management of the School. They respectfully solicit a continuance of the patronage heretofore so liberally extended to the institution, and that of their friends, and the public generally, promising strict attention to every interest of the pupils committed to their charge. C. W. MUSE, Principal.

A FINISHED MUSICAL EDUCATION.

THE NEW ENGLAND Conservatory Boston, has pupils 74 Eminent Professors. Has unrivaled facilities and the best for thorough and complete MUSICAL EDUCATION. Charges moderate. Pupils may enter at any time. Circulars free. EBEN TOURJEE, Director.

A GREAT OFFER! ORGANS $30 upwards; PIANOS $125 upwards, not used a year, good as new; warranted. NEW PIANOS and ORGANS at EXTRAORDINARY LOW prices for cash. Catalogues mailed. HORACE WATERS, Agt., 826 B'dway, N. Y. P. O. Box, 3330.

WM. M. WILSON,
Successor to Henry Erben & Co.
CHURCH ORGANS,
Established in 1854.
204 & 262 West 15th near 8th Ave., New York.

SOUTHERN CHURCH ORGAN MANUFACTORY.
No. 103 Baronne Street,
Under the National Theater,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
PETER VETTER, Proprietor.
Church Organs built and repaired all over the South.

FANCY GOODS! FANCY GOODS!
SCHILLING'S
Millinery Emporium, Hair Work AND FANCY GOODS BAZAR,
No. ..... CANAL STREET ..... No.
Possesses always on hand the very latest styles in Millinery Materials, Hats and Bonnets.
HAIR GOODS of every description, and to order on reasonable terms. Jewelry, Fans, Combs, Purses, Card Cases, Vinaigrettes, Perfumes, Paris Mouchoirs and Fancy Goods.
Your patronage is particularly directed to my SPECIALTIES
In manufacturing Real and Pearl HAT GOODS, MILLINERY ARTICLES AND HAIR WORK.
G. F. SCHILLING,
No. 130 CANAL STREET.

YOUNG MEN'S Christian Association
OF NEW ORLEANS,
Rooms No. 57 Camp Street.
Open from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M. on all Sundays, and on Sundays from 3 to 9 P. M., and to evening lectures. The leading daily and weekly papers of the most important cities of the United States.
SERVICES.
Tuesday, 7:30 P. M.—Devotional.
Thursday, 7:30 P. M.—Bible Class.
NOON-DAY PRAYER-MEETING.
Daily, 12 to 12:30.
Rule.—Prayer and Remarks are limited to three minutes.

St. Louis Impenetrable Paint Co.
SOLE MANUFACTURERS OF IMPENETRABLE PAINT
A glossy durable waterproof paint, prepared and colors ready for use.
ALSO PROPRIETORS OF THE COLORLESS
WATERPROOFING
PROCESS,
For rendering brick and stone walls permanently waterproof and preventing their disintegration without altering their appearance.
All orders promptly attended to and information cheerfully furnished upon application at the
OFFICE AND FACTORY:
No. 111 North Twelfth Street,
St Louis, Mo.

BRACKETS. GLOBES.
M. H. APPLEGATE.
PLUMBER,
Gas and Steam Fitter
GAS FIXTURES,
St. George and Defiance Ranges,
Plumbers' Material,
No. 110, POYDRAS STREET,
NEW ORLEANS.

ORLEANS PLANING MILL,
WM. CAMPBELL, Proprietor,
No. 240 South Basin St.,
Near New Basin.
Will constantly keep on hand a full assortment of
DRESSED FLOORING,
CEILING SHELVING,
WEATHER BOARDS
and DECKING.
Feather Edge Fence Boards and Rough Weather Boards.
SAWING and DRESSING done for the trade at low rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,
230 Jackson, St., Bet. Chestnut and Coliseum,
NEW ORLEANS.
Office Hours—Eight A. M. and three to four P. M.

UNITED STATES
Four Per Cent. Bonds
BOUGHT AND SOLD BY
New Orleans National Bank,
5 CAMP STREET.

SPORTSMEN'S DEPOT,
55 ..... ST. CHARLES STREET 55
NEW ORLEANS.
ARTICLES FOR FISHERMEN OF ALL KINDS.
Rods, Nets, Hooks, Lines, and every desirable article for the Angler, wholesale and retail. Guns imported to order. J. R. Cooper's Breech and Muzzle-Loading Guns always on hand. All kinds of improved artificial baits. Address Postoffice Box 1578.

THE GREAT CHURCH LIGHT.
FRINK'S PATENT REFLECTORS.
Give the MOST POWERFUL, the SOFTEST, CHEAPEST and the BEST Light known for Churches, Stores, Show Windows, Public Buildings, Offices, Picture Galleries, Theaters, Depots, etc. New and illustrated circulars sent free. See it in our room. Best in use and estimate. A liberal discount to churches and the trade.
I. P. FRINK, 551 Pearl St., New York.

KENTUCKY BELL FACTORY
Cow Bells, Hand Bells, Sheep Bells.
Loud, Strong, Durable, Cheap.
When you see that any trade mark J. Geo. Dodge's Kentucky Bell is on the label. Then you get the genuine Kentucky Bell that has gone around the globe. For Sale by Hardware Dealers Everywhere. T. P. BARCLAY, Sole Prop'r, Louisville, Ky.

MENEELY'S BELLS,
For Churches, etc., known to the public since 1826. Improved only at "THE MENEELY BELL FOUNDERY," West Troy, N. Y. Catalogues free.

SENECA FALLS
BELL FOUNDRY.
For Church, Academy, Factory, Depot, Steamboat or Locomotive Bells. Improved Patent Mounting. Prize Bells, Etc.
Iron and Brass Wheel Hanging and Frame Timbered.
Illustrated Catalogue Sent Free.
Date of Bells. Average Weight. Price.
No. 1, 2 Bells, 4 ..... 35 pounds ..... $ 9
No. 2, 2 Bells, 4 ..... 60 pounds 15
No. 3, 20 Bells, 4 ..... 140 pounds 30
No. 4, 24 Bells, 4 ..... 250 pounds 50
No. 5, 30 Bells, 4 ..... 400 pounds 100
REMEMBER & CO.
Seneca Falls, N. Y., U. S. A.

J. H. KELLER,
MANUFACTURER OF CARBOLIC.

Office,
10 Gravier St. ESTABLISHED 1849
All Kinds of Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

COOPERAGE.
PHILIP HIRSCH, Cooper,
50 to 60 NORTH PETERS STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Has for sale and keeps constantly on hand a large and select stock of new Claithed and new Rotten Sugar Hogshead and Tanks. A Select Barrels, Molasses Barrels, Half Barrels and Keggs of sizes; also, Cisterns and Barrels Hoop Poles. Contracts for future delivery solicited. Prices moderate. Satisfaction guaranteed.

T. A. BECK,
COOPERAGE,
Office and Salesroom 27 North Peters Street. Manufactory, Carondelet Walk, between Bienville and Peters Streets, New Orleans.
Has constantly on hand, Sugar, Hogsheads Molasses Barrels, Half Barrels, Kegs, Flour, Syrup and Pork Barrels, Cisterns, Tubs and Hoop Poles, at the lowest market rates. Particular attention paid to Timbering.

E. HEATH,
SUCCESSOR TO HEATH, SWEET & LARA,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,
UPHOLSTERY GOODS, Wall Paper, Window Shades, Cornices, Lace and Nottingham Curtains, Mirrors, Mouldings, Chromos, Engravings, etc.
Carpets made to order, and laid.
No. 69 Camp Street, New Orleans.

BUCK'S IMPROVED

BRILLIANT STOVE.
Is acknowledged to be the
BEST COOK-STOVE MADE.
SOLD BY
H. HALLER,
NEW ORLEANS,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
Cooking and Heating Stoves of the most approved modern, stamped, Plain and Japanned Tin-ware, Tinned and Enamelled Hollow-ware, Iron and Clay Furnaces, Miners' Stock, Granite Iron-ware, Lamp-burner and Wick Yarn. Tinned Iron Spoons and Forks, Coffee Mills of all kinds, Planished-ware, Sad Irons, Fire-Dogs, Hatchets, machine, etc. No. 55 Camp St., New Orleans.
Price-lists mailed on application.

The Stewart Stove
WITH LATEST IMPROVEMENT,
Is now the
LEADING STOVE OF THE AGE
There can be no failure in its perfect operation. It will not heat and consume less fuel than any other Stove made.
Can be had for coke, coal or wood.
Hot water attachments for bathing, etc., can be attached with but little extra cost.
Please to repair old Stewart Stoves constantly on hand.
J. H. CAMPMAN,
133 Poydras Street.

MISCELLANEOUS.

C. W. DUNBAR'S SONS,
3 Tchoupitoulas St., New Orleans,
PRESERVERS AND PACKERS OF SHRIMP, OKRA AND PRESERVED FIGS,
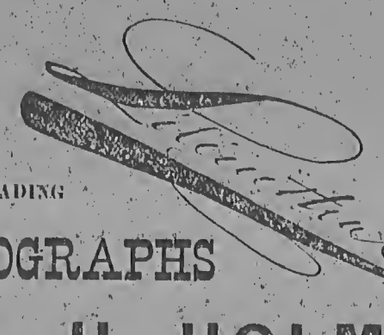
IN TINS,
New Packing Ready for Delivery,
FOR SALE BY WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS.

FOR THE VERY BEST AND NEVER FADING



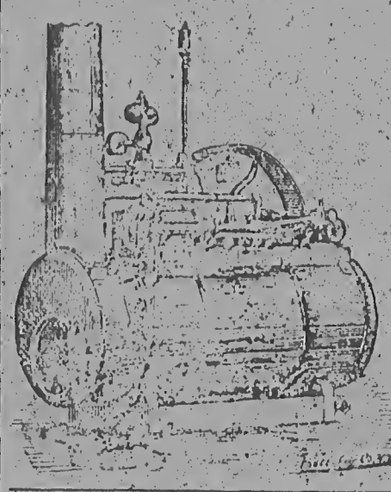
GO TO 121 CANAL ST.

PHOTOGRAPHS
Tanro Building.

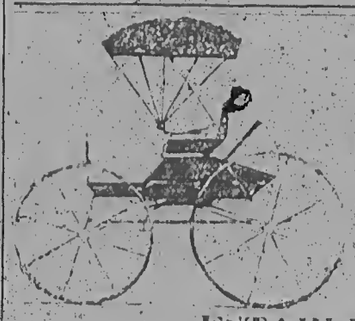
D. H. HOLMES,
155 Canal Street, - - - 15 Bourbon Street.
Our Stock of Spring Goods is now complete, consisting of the latest novelties in
SILKS, LACES, DRESS GOODS IN WORSTED FABRICS
BLACK GRENADINES IN SILK AND WOOL,
LINEN LAWNS, ORGANDIES, AND PERCALES,
HOSIERY in all Styles and Colors,
A Complete Assortment of MATTINGS
SAMPLES sent free of charge.
D. H. HOLMES,
155 CANAL STREET.

THE GOLD MEDAL
PARIS EXPOSITION 1878
WAS AWARDED TO
JOSEPH GILLOTT & SONS
FOR EXCELLENCE IN
STEEL PENS
THE FAVORITE NUMBERS 303, 404, 170, 604 & 351
AND HIS OTHER STYLES—SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

R. M. & B. J. MONTGOMERY,
FURNITURE EMPORIUM,
MORESQUE BUILDING,
Corner Camp and Poydras Streets,
We have received, and are receiving for the Fall and Winter trade, the largest and most elaborate stock of Furniture ever offered to the New Orleans public, and of the latest styles and designs.
BEDROOM AND PARLOR SUITS,
FRENCH PLATE MIRRORS,
FANCY AND ORNAMENTAL FURNITURE.
We also have a complete stock of Medium and Common Furniture. Office, Hall and Library Furniture, Bent Wood Easy Chairs, Rockers and Reception Lawn Benches, with Writing Attachments, Invalid Rocking and Wheel Chairs, Sofa Beds, Spring Mattresses, Hair and Moss Mattresses, Feather Pillows and Bolsters. Carpets and Oil Cloths. Below the lowest. Everything for a warm climate. Rattan and Perforated Seat Cane Rockers and Settees. The Victor Folding and Lock Desk, the best school desk extant.
Our Stock of FURNITURE and MIRRORS is one of the largest in the country, and we can supply customers with any house North or South. Commission merchants and country orders solicited. All goods delivered free of charge. Give us a trial before purchasing.
N. B.—We are prepared to reupholster Parlor Suits and Chairs at very low prices and most



PAYNE'S
PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
5 TO 15 HORSE-POWER.
Strong, Simple and Durable,
BEST PLANTATION ENGINE MADE.
Send for Special Price List of this and Other Sizes and Styles of
B. J. WEST,
SOLE AGENT,
115 and 117 Magazine Street,
NEW ORLEANS.



W. H. SCHLICHER, President and Treas. GEO. ENDER, Secretary
ENTERPRISE CARRIAGE CO.,
BUILDERS OF
Carriages for the Trade,
FACTORY,
25, 27, 27½ & 29½ E. Canal and 24, 26, 28 & 30 E. Court Sts.
WAREROOMS, 311 and 313 W. Second Street,
CINCINNATI.
Put up work for less money than ever before placed in the market.

ESTABLISHED 1838.
NONOTUCK SILK CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
CORTICELLI SPOOL SILK,
THE OLDEST BRAND IN AMERICA.
Sewing Silk, Machine Twist, Button Hole Twist, Embroidery and Saddlers' Silks, Purse Twist, Knitting Silks, Etc., Etc.
H. M. B. BOWEN, Agent.
88 West Third Street, Cincinnati, O.

CATARRH

Is a Terrible Disease. It baffles doctors. Nothing relieves it while the Disease with every change, [illegible] Dr. M. W. CASE'S CARBOLATE of TAR INHALANT
FOR CATARRH, ASTHMA, CONSUMPTION, Bronchitis & Deafness.
[illegible] No Drug, no Hot Water, [illegible] Pamphlet free. No Charge for Medicine. Circulars, etc., Sent Free—Send Satisfaction Always Guaranteed. Address DR. M. W. CASE, 933 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

AGENTS WANTED.

BRIGHT, ATTRACTIVE, CHEERFUL.
Mrs. Lucinda McNair Wright's New Book,
THE COMPLETE HOME
Or, PRACTICAL INFORMATION,
The Young House-Keeper's GUIDE,
The Experienced House-Keeper's FRIEND.
[illegible] Cooking, Dress, Arts of Etiquette, Sickness, Nursing, Marriage, Religion, Morals, Money Matters, Social Life, and a multitude of other [illegible] to make the Home BEAUTIFUL and HAPPY.
A book of more practical utility will seldom, if ever, be offered to the public.
NEEDED in every family. BY rich and poor alike. Every [illegible] Pages. Large [illegible] Illustrations.
AGENTS WANTED. Liberal Commission. Address J. C. McCURDY & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

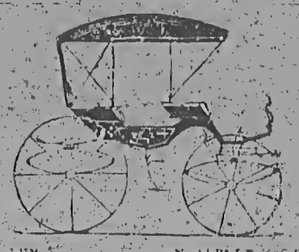
AGENTS WANTED for the Pictorial Bible Commentator. [illegible] 613 Pages, 475 [illegible] Maps, Historical [illegible] Printed from New Electrotype Plates. Sells at sight. Agents are selling from 5 to 10 per day. Send for circulars and extra terms to Agents. Address HUBBARD BROS., Publishers, Philadelphia, Pa., Atlanta, Ga., Chicago, Ill., or San Francisco, Cal.

MISCELLANEOUS.

J. D. CHASSORE,
BOOT AND SHOE STORE,
NO. 21 FRENCH HALF N. ST., between Victory and Monroe Third District, New Orleans.
A large assortment of Boots and Shoes always on hand, and made to order. Ladies', Children's and Gentlemen's Shoes beautifully fitted to order.

WINTELER & RICKS,
IN AGENTS
Leather and Shoe FINDINGS,
TOOLS, ETC., ETC.,
AND MANUFACTURERS OF
Boot, Gaiter and Shoe Uppers.
158 POYDRAS STREET,
NEW ORLEANS.

THE DIEBOLD SAFES.
A large and complete assortment of these Celebrated SAFES on hand and for sale at prices to suit the times. Parties desiring anything in our line are respectfully solicited to address the undersigned, for estimates, etc., as he feels confident of being able to give them satisfaction, both as regards prices and quality of work.
A. ROY, Agent,
DIEBOLD SAFE & LOCK CO.,
27 Carondelet, New Orleans, La.



J. L. LUM. N. AUBLE SOLLER.
J. A. LUM & CO.,
MANUFACTURERS AND DEALERS IN
CARRIAGES, HARNESS, ETC.,
No. 75 Carondelet Street,
A Special Style of Open Buggy and Carriage.

SEND FOR ILLUSTRATED PRICE LIST.
BRINLY, MILES & HARDY CO. MANUFACTURERS LOUISVILLE, KY.
ORGAN BEATTY PIANO
Pianos, Organs, Sewing Machines, Etc.
Daniel F. Beatty, Washington, New Jersey.

REDUCTION.
NOVELTY
PRINTING PRESSES.
B. O. WOODS & CO.,

DR. HOFFMAN'S
LIVER AND BLOOD PILLS,
A combination of the most valuable vegetable remedies ever offered to the afflicted. They act directly on the Liver, Stomach and Blood, thereby curing all diseases arising from a disordered state of the Stomach, Liver and Blood. Sold by druggists. Price 25 cents per box.
P. HOFFMAN,
20 South Ninth St., St. Louis, Mo.
For sale by all druggists throughout the country.

ELLIS'S SPAVIN CURE

(Trade Mark.)
SPAVIN, SPLINT, CURB, RINGBONE, ENLARGEMENTS, ETC.,
PROMPTLY CURED.
DOES NOT BLISTER OR BLEMISH.
Price, Two Dollars per Bottle.
Send for testimonials of greatest cures on record.
SPAVIN CURE OFFICE,
No. 50 Sudbury Street,
BOSTON, MASS.
For Sale by all Druggists.

DRY IN POWDER ROGERS' CITRATE OF MAGNESIA
This preparation is recommended by the Medical Profession for all complaints such as Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, etc. It is one of the best known prepared effervescents. Favorite mackerels are prepared. Always keep it in the house.
A. ROGERS' SONS, Chemists,
New York.
For sale by all New Orleans Druggists.

NEW RICH BLOOD!
PURSON'S PURGATIVE PILLS make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one pill each night from one to twelve weeks may be restored to sound health, if such a thing is possible. Sold everywhere or sent by mail for eight letter stamps.
I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Bangor, Me.

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions so carefully adjusted to secure certainty, safety, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for disease caused by derangement of the stomach, liver and bowels, which require prompt and effective treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore to them healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel, or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Grlpes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then they influence healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

PRICES CURRENT

IN

THE NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY.

☞ Correspondents should bear in mind that our quotations represent prices for round lots, and in filling small orders higher rates must be paid.

GROCERIES.

Butter, ₩ lb.:
Western creamery, fancy	38	40
New York, choice	28	30
Coffee, ₩ lb.:
Rio, fair	16¾	16¾
Rio, good	16¾	17
Rio, prime	17¼	17¼
Candles, ₩ lb.:
Star, best brands	13	— —
Corn Meal, ₩ bbl.:
Choice	2 00	— —
Cheese, ₩ lb.:
Factory	— —	— —
N. Y. cream and English dairy	15½	16
Fish:
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in bbls	— —	9 75
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in kits	— —	1 75
Sardines, quarter boxes	— —	— —
Flour, ₩ bbl.:
Superfine	4 50	4 75
XX	5 25	5 50
XXX	5 75	6 10
Choice XXX	6 10	6 6¼
Choice family	— —	— —
Fruits:
Dried apples, ₩ lb	5½	6
Dried peaches, ₩ lb	6	7
Raisins, ₩ quarter box	75	— —
Raisins, ₩ half box	1 40	— —
Raisins, ₩ whole box	2 50	— —
Bananas, ₩ bunch	75	1 25
Crackers, ₩ lb.:
Soda	5	6
Butter	6	7
Sugar	5	6
Gingernuts	9	12½
Oil:
Coal, in cases, best	21	22
Coal, in barrels, best	19	20
Insurance, in cases	— —	40
Insurance, in barrels	— —	35
Card, in barrels, best	75	— —
Molasses, in barrels.
Common	25	28
Fair	— —	— —
Prime to choice	31	40
Golden and Rachel syrups	— —	— —
Half bbls. 5c. and kegs 10c. more.
Rice, Louisiana, ₩ lb.:
No. 2	4¼	— —
Ordinary	6¼	6¾
Fair	6¾	7¼
Prime to choice	7¼	— —
Soap, ₩ box:
LXXX Palm	3 30	— —
Keller's magnolia	2 40	— —
Keller's olive	2 55	— —
Starch, ₩ lb.	10	— —
Salt, in sacks:
Fine	1 50	85
Coarse	90	92½
Sugar.
Good fair	— —	— —
Prime	— —	— —
Choice	— —	— —
Off white	— —	— —
Unrefined	— —	— —
Powdered	— —	— —
Spices, ₩ lb.:
Allspice	15¢	— —
Pepper	12¢	14
Cloves	25	— —
Cinnamon	— —	— —
Tea, ₩ lb.:
Black Oolong	87½	1 10
Green Imperial	80	90
Tobacco:
Low lugs	3	3½
Medium	4	4½
Good to fine	5	7½
Low leaf	4	5½
Killing	5	7½
Good	7	9
Fine	10	12½
Selections	9	0

GRAIN AND FEED.

Corn, ₩ bushel:
Yellow	53	— —
White	50	— —
Mixed	48	— —
Oats, ₩ bushel:
St. Louis	— —	— —
Texas	— —	— —
Galena	— —	— —
Bran, choice, ₩ 100 lbs	80	85
Hay, ₩ ton:
Prime	18 00	19 00
Ordinary	— —	— —
Cow Peas:
Whippoorwill	— —	— —
Mixed	— —	— —
Clay	— —	— —

PROVISIONS.

Bacon, ₩ lb.:
Breakfast	8	— —
Shoulders	6	6½
Sides, clear rib	4½	— —
Sides, clear	— —	— —
Hams, sugar-cured	9	— —
Pork, ₩ bbl.	12 50	— —
Salted Meats:
Shoulders	4½	— —
Lard, ₩ lb.:
Choice, in kegs and pails	7¾	8¼
Choice, in tierces and barrels	7¼	7½

EDIBLES.

Potatoes, ₩ bbl	2 20	2 30
Onions, ₩ bbl	4 75	5 00
Apples, ₩ bbl	2 00	2 75
Cabbages, ₩ bbl	50	1 25

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Poultry, ₩ dozen:
Old chickens	3 00	— —
Young	2 00	3 00
Ducks	2 00	3 00
Geese	4 00	— —
Turkeys	4 50	10 00
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western	18	20
Louisiana	23	25

WOOL.

Burry	2	18
Louisiana, clear	28	31
Lake, clear	30	32

BALING STUFFS.

Bagging:
India	— —	— —
Jute	10¾	11
Ties, Arrow, best, per bundle, 50
Ides and buckles	— —	2 50
Twine, hemp	12	— —

DROP DUMPLINGS.—One quart of flour; one teaspoonful Kellogg's Baking Powder; butter, the size of an egg; water or milk to mix. Boil only ten minutes.

GREAT MERIT.

All the fairs give the first premiums and special awards of great merit to Hop Bitters as the purest and best family medicine, and we most heartily approve of the awards for we know they deserve it. They are now on exhibition at the state fairs, and we advise all to test them. See another column.—Adv.

VASELINE.

You may limit the world over, and still will find
A need of the household, which it brings to the mind
The idea of value more rich, to be seen
Than petroleum jelly, the purest Vaseline.

If a cut or a scratch, or a wound of a burn
From peace to its finish, the household shall turn.
On the shelf should be found the best of all pain,
And quiet shall reign in the household again.

If our dearest and fairest are kissed by the sun,
And the touch of His fire is too rough to be borne,
Kind Vaseline comes as naught else can be seen,
And the cheek takes on velvet it had not else seen.

If the video it is I ushy, the throat it is sore,
Take the jelly at once, and the trouble is over.
In fact read the circular, and from it glean
All the virtue and claim of the famed Vaseline.

—The jubilee of the temperance propaganda in Great Britain was celebrated at the London Crystal Palace September 2 with a great festival attended by 22 000 persons.

T. W. ROTHICH,
UNDERTAKER,
OFFICE, 871 CAMP STREET,
STABLES, 278 MAGAZINE STREET
Embalming and disinterring bodies. Bodies carefully shipped. Carriages for hire.
FUNERALS STRICT ATTENTION, &c.

COMMERCIAL.

ADVOCATE OFFICE,
NEW ORLEANS, Monday, Nov. 17, 1879.

COTTON.

The news being discouraging, buyers claim concessions, which in some cases, in face of more ample offerings, factors have been compelled to grant, giving way ⅛c. and accepting 11⅛c. for a good style of middling and 11⅛c. for middling, but, others being reluctant to sell at the ruling rates, the reported business thus far does not exceed 1 200 bales.

The following is the official closing of the Cotton Exchange:

	To-Day.	Saturday
Low ordinary
Ordinary
Good ordinary	10	10⅛
Low middling	11⅛	11⅛
Middling	11⅝	11⅝
Good middling	11⅞	12
Middling fair	12⅛	12⅛

Sales to-day, 5 300 bales, including 600 yesterday. Market steady.

Receipts at United States ports, week ending Monday, November 17, 1879.

	Saturday.	Sunday and Monday.	This week last year.
Galveston	3 872	4 830	24 774
New Orleans	14 821	9 317	39 173
Mobile	2 764	1 90	18 514
Savannah	6 744	1 900	22 41
Charleston	2 6 9		19 7 9
Wilmington	7 8	565	7 6 3
Norfolk	3 666	5 201	16 51
Baltimore		3 0	1 1
New York	7 7		5 197
Boston	1 16	85	6 21
Philadelphia	164	279	1 64
Various			1 64
Total	3 6 1		179 108

FUTURES.

The position of the market at New York may be seen by the following.

Middling.	To-day.	Saturday.
January	11 41 @	11 5 @ 11 5
February	12 @	12 30 @ 12 40
March	12 @ 12 38	12 @ 12 5
April	12 57 @ 12 59	12 @ 12 7
May	13 20 @ 13 23	13 @ 13 3
June	13 @ 13 41	13 @ 13 4
July	13 @ 14 13	13 @ 13 7
August
September
October
November	12 @ 12 3	12 @
December	12 @ 12 24	12 @

Sales, 157 000 bales. Market firm.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER.
FOR WOMEN & CHILDREN.

Examples without number from pain and weakness will derive great comfort and strength from the use of Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster. Where children are afflicted with whooping cough, ordinary coughs or colds or weak lungs, it is the most speedy treatment ever discovered, and you will find Piso's Cure for Consumption will be given and you will find Piso's lively Finish a pleasant contrasting with every of the most delicate, and make a speedy combination. Words than portion the Price, 25 cents.

WHITE ROBIN, the new Sunday School Song Book, by Asbury and Muller, ready for delivery. It is the most successful book of the class ever published. Many specimen pages sent free to any one writing for it. Price, thirty-five cents.

VOICE OF WORSHIP, (L. O. Emerson.) (Words and Music.)
THE TEMPLE, (W. O. Perkins.) $ 00 per dozen.
NEW METHOD FOR SINGING CLASSES, (A. N. Johnson.) $ 00 per dozen.
The above are the three newest Singing School Books. The first two have a full set of tunes or choirs.

Send for lists of new sheet music, every week in the Musical Record. That is the way to keep well informed of all new issues. Mailed for six cents.

Will be sent for the above, (almost through the press) TEMPERANCE JEWELS, H. Tenney
AMERICAN ANTHEM BOOK.
PARLOR ORGAN INSTRUCTION BOOK, A. N. Johnson.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston,
C. H. DITSON & CO.
843 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

DISCOVERY BY which hair fast becomes to grow on the smoothest heads. The papers all over the country contain notices of the remarkable virtues of Mrs Hyatt's Hair Restorer, and there are scores of living witnesses in St Louis who take pleasure in testifying to the efficacy of the Restorer. Mrs. Hyatt's patronage is the most reasonable, because the process for the well-bred supposition that the hair grows after while life exists in the person, and that it is only necessary to stimulate the germs to produce natural, healthy growth. Three bottles for $ 2 50, are more than the order and balance in the past when medicine is delivered.
247 Sally Street,
St. Louis, Mo.

STAINED GLASS
FOR CHURCHES.
Manufactured by
GEO. A. MISCH,
317 East Washington st.,
Chicago, Ills.

DANZIGER'S,
No. 131 Canal Street,
GRAND OPENING
OF
Fall & Winter Dry Goods

Furnishing an excellent line of FINE GOODS; also medium low priced and

PLANTATION GOODS

Of all descriptions at prices that will surprise you.

We respectfully invite our friends and customers and the public to an inspection of the most beautiful and complete stock we have ever brought to the market, and promise one and all courteous and prompt attention.

Do not fail to visit our Parlor Stores, up stairs and examine our

ELEGANT CLOAKS,
LADIES' SUITS,
UNDERWEAR,
&c., &c., &c.

Samples sent on application to all parts of the country free of charge.

DANZIGER'S,
No. 131 Canal Street.

JUST OUT!
BELLS OF CORNEVILLE!

A Piano and Organ Duet Collection of the "Bells of Corneville." The Pictorial Rage now ready. A duet of the most fascinating, as well as entertaining kind, quite within the reach of amateurs. It is sure to be extensively given and enjoyed. Price, lively Finish, elegant cover, contrasting with every of the handsomest duets, make a splendid combination. Words that portion the Price, 50

WHITE ROBIN, the new Sunday School Song Book, by Asbury and Muller, ready for delivery. It is the most successful book of the class ever published. Many specimen pages sent free to any one writing for it. Price, thirty-five cents.

VOICE OF WORSHIP, (L. O. Emerson.) (Words and Music.)
THE TEMPLE, (W. O. Perkins.) $ 00 per dozen.
NEW METHOD FOR SINGING CLASSES, (A. N. Johnson.) $ 00 per dozen.
The above are the three newest Singing School Books. The first two have a full set of tunes or choirs.

Send for lists of new sheet music, every week in the Musical Record. That is the way to keep well informed of all new issues. Mailed for six cents.

Will be sent for the above, (almost through the press) TEMPERANCE JEWELS, H. Tenney
AMERICAN ANTHEM BOOK.
PARLOR ORGAN INSTRUCTION BOOK, A. N. Johnson.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston,
C. H. DITSON & CO.
843 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Episcopal Appointments for 1879.

CONFERENCE.	PLACE.	BISHOP.	TIME.
N. Georgia	Augusta	Doggett	Nov. 26
White River	Forest City	Pierce	Nov. 26
N. Alabama	Tuscaloosa	Paine	Nov. 26
N. Carolina	Wilson	Wightman	Dec. 3
N. Mississippi	Water Valley	Kavanaugh	Dec. 3
East Texas	Palestine	McTyeire	Dec. 3
S. Georgia	Perry	Doggett	Dec. 10
Texas	Austin	McTyeire	Dec. 10
Little Rock	Camden	Pierce	Dec. 10
Louisiana	Baton Rouge	Keener	Dec. 10
Florida	Tallahasse	Doggett	Dec. 17
S. Carolina	Charleston	Wightman	Dec. 17
Mississippi	Meridian	Kavanaugh	Dec. 17
Alabama	Tuskegee	Paine	Dec. 17
Baltimore	Front Royal	Keener	Mar. 5

Bishop McTyeire has charge of the Mission in China.

Bishop Keener has charge of the Missions in Brazil and Mexico.

NEW WHEAT FLOUR!

We have LOWERED THE PRICE OF OUR BEST BRANDS OF FLOUR and are selling at the lowest market price by the barrel.

No Drayage Charged in Delivering to Any Part of the City, Steamboat or Railroad.

TEAS! TEAS! TEAS!

Of the NEWEST CROP and of the STRONGEST and most DELICATE FLAVOR. Our prices are as CHEAP AS THE CHEAPEST.

SUGARS! COFFEE!

BREAKFAST BACON, CREAMERY BUTTER, TONGUES, AND FULTON MARKET BEEF.

New Shakers.

PRESERVES AND JELLIES.

PLANTATION SUPPLIES
OF EVERY KIND.

Small Orders from the Country Neatly and Securely Boxed and Promptly Filled.

DIRECT YOUR ORDERS TO
JOHN K. RENAUD & CO.,
New Orleans,
Corner Camp and Julia streets.

Say you saw our advertisement in the ADVOCATE.

W. C. SHEPARD & Co.,
AMERICAN CHINA HOUSE,
49 Camp Street, New Orleans.

We are offering an elegant American China in any, equal to French China in appearance and far more durable, DINNER SETS, 130 matching pieces, to wit:

12 Breakfast Plates, 1 Soup Tureen,
12 Dinner Plates, 1 Sauce Boat,
12 Tea Plates, 1 Salad Dish,
12 Soup Plates, 2 Covered Dishes,
12 Preserve Plates, 2 Vegetable Dishes,
12 Butter Plates, 4 Meat Dishes,
12 Teas and Saucers, 2 Pickle Dishes,
12 Dinner Coffee Cups and Saucers, 1 Sugar Dish,
12 Egg Cups, 1 Cream Dish,
1 Bowl.

We also offer DINNER SETS, WRITE
Stone China TEA SETS,
Decorated CHAMBER SETS, FOR
Real French Porcelain DINNER SETS,
Gold Band Decorated TEA SETS, PRICES.
Opal TIMBLERS,
Table GOBLETS.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.

Established 1818.

JOHN GAUCHE,
MORESQUE BUILDING,
CAMP STREET.
Branch House, 110 Chartres Street.

IMPORTER

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

Plain White,
Gold Band and Decorated

CHINA,

Parian and Biscuit Statuettes and Busts,

A Full Line of Baccarat & Bohemian

GLASSWARE.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF

MAJOLICA, CLOCKS, LOOKING GLASSES AND HOUSEFURNISHING GOODS.

GLASS SHADES IN GREAT VARIETY,

AT VERY LOW PRICES.

Call and See.

"Crescent City Spring,"

WAUKESHA WATER

The undersigned having been appointed agent for the above celebrated Spring, will keep the WATER constantly on sale by the barrel, half-barrel, quarter barrel and by the gallon. Call for circulars.

L. C. ARNY,
26, 28 and 30 Bienville st.

COAL.....COAL.....COAL.

B. D. WOOD & BROS.,
Corner Camp and Common Streets,
Opposite the City Hotel,

Wholesale and Retail dealers in all kinds of COAL. Pittsburg Coal delivered by boat-load or less on the coast, and shipped in sacks or in bulk, at lowest market rates. Clay trade supplied.

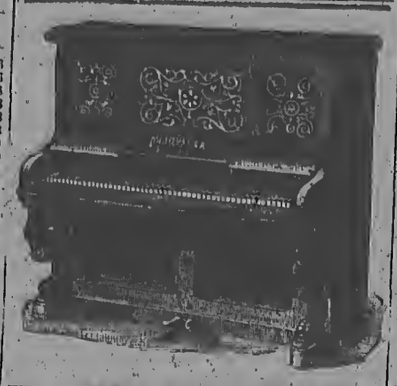
GRAUGNARD & SCHNEIDER,
DEALERS IN
Fine Cut Chewing, Snuff and Smoking
TOBACCO,
HAVANA AND DOMESTIC CIGARS,
10 Magazine Street, New Orleans, La.
Briar Root and all other varieties of Pipes constantly on hand.

COLUMBIA BICYCLE.

A practical machine for all except the old and infirm. Better than a horse as it eats no oats, because you can ride more miles in a day over rough roads than a horse can go. Send 3c. stamp for price list and twenty-four page catalogue with testimonials and full information.

THE POPE MANUF'G CO.,
Summer St., Boston, Mass.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.



P. WERLEIN,
135 Canal Street,
The Leading Southern PIANO, ORGAN
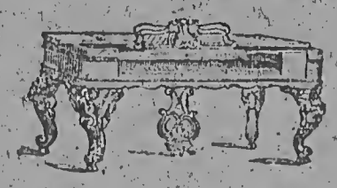
AND
MUSIC HOUSE.

BEST PIANOS AND ORGANS.
Lowest Prices,
Liberal Terms.



My stock consists of the celebrated
Chickering Pianos,
These unequaled
Mathushek Pianos,
The Reliable and Fine Toned
Hale Pianos,

These Pianos possess all the desirable musical and mechanical qualities of first-class Pianos and have received numerous premiums wherever they have been exhibited. They are constructed of the very best materials throughout and are of the finest workmanship. The tone is pure, even and full, and possesses a peculiar singing quality found in no other Piano. All the improvements introduced in the manufacture of Pianos during the last ten years in Europe and this country have been applied to the above Pianos. As to DURABILITY these Pianos are unsurpassed. Nothing will they get out of shape, but their tone will actually IMPROVE by use for many years.

Prices lower than they have ever been, and my terms to suit every purse.

SECOND HAND PIANOS

Which have been rented for the winter or sale are now for their value in new pianos as follows:

From $ a Week Upwards.

Full WARRANTY given with every Piano sold by me. I want my customers to be perfectly satisfied. In your purchase and to recommend my House to such of their friends as may need Pianos. Should a purchaser be dissatisfied, Piano will cheerfully be exchanged, or

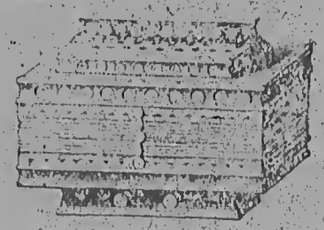
THE MONEY REFUNDED.

ORGANS.

I am receiving a large stock on hand, consisting of the celebrated

ESTEY,
MASON & HAMLIN,
AND
NEW ENGLAND ORGANS,

Which are considered the BEST in the World. Sold on monthly or quarterly installments. Churches, Sunday Schools and Lodges supplied AT FACTORY PRICES. Send for illustrated Catalogue.



DIRECT IMPORTATION OF

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

—SUCH AS—

ACCORDEONS, CONCERTINAS, VIOLINS, HARMONICAS, MUSIC BOXES, FLUTES, GUITARS, HANDORGANS, ZITHERS

STRINGS

For all Instruments for sale at

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

Agency for the celebrated

LECOMPTE BRASS INSTRUMENTS.

The best toned, best made and cheapest instruments of the kind made.

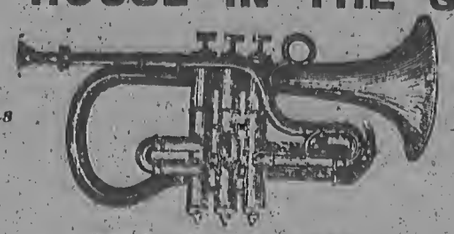
Send for Illustrated Catalogue.

My MUSIC DEPARTMENT is complete, and contains every publication in this country or in Europe. Sheet Music and Music Books sold at a liberal discount.

PHILIP WERLEIN,
135 CANAL STREET.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LARGEST AND MOST POPULAR
MUSIC HOUSE IN THE SOUTH.



Easiest Terms. Lowest Prices.

General Agency for the celebrated
STEINWAY, KNABE, PLEYEL, FISCHER PIANOS
And the Popular Organs of
CLOUGH & WARREN AND PELOUBET, PELTON & CO.
Everything in the Music line at rock bottom prices. Send for illustrated catalogues.
LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
Grunewald Hall, New Orleans.

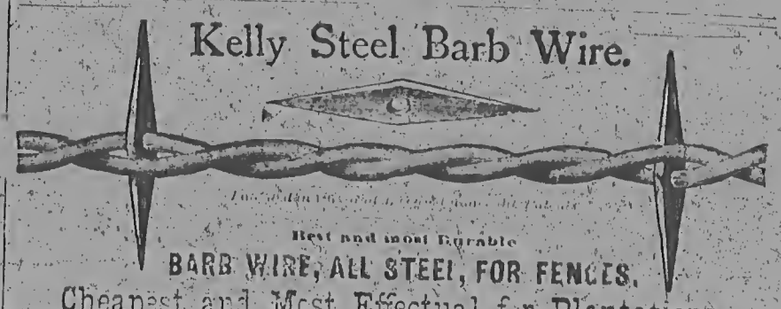
YALE & BOWLING,
IMPORTERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN
DRY GOODS,
NOTIONS AND MILLINERY,
17, 19 and 21 Magazine Street, 17, 19 and 21
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

WARRINGTON STEEL PEN CO.'S STEEL PENS.

EQUAL IN QUALITY TO ANY THAT CAN BE PRODUCED.

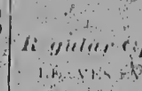
Office: 105 and 107 N. Fifth St., Philadelphia.
For Sale by Lathrop & Wilkins, 112 Camp street, N. O.

Kelly Steel Barb Wire.



Best and most Durable
BARB WIRE, ALL STEEL, FOR FENCES.
Cheapest and Most Effectual for Plantations.
PROOF AGAINST STOCK, STORMS OR FIRE.
Weighs Less than Seven Pounds per 100 feet.
THOMEN WIRE FENCE CO., Chicago,
by all
C. E. FITCH & Co., Agents,
Mobile, Ala. W. SCHWARTZ & BRO., Agents,
New Orleans.

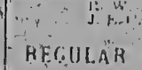
Regular Opelousas Mail Packet
LEAVES EVERY THURSDAY AT 5 P. M.



For Washington, Opelousas, Port Barre, Sunset, Grand Coteau, Carencro, Lafayette, Vermilionville, Teche, Atchafalaya River and intermediate points, and Bayou Sara.

CHANCHON,
Of 11 tons burden, Master JOHN CLARK, will leave as above. For freight or passage apply on board or to
E. W. ADAMS, 21 Commercial Place
J. E. FARRAR, 75 Tchoupitoulas st.

REGULAR OPELOUSAS PACKET
Leaves EVERY TUESDAY at 5 P. M.



For Washington Opelousas, Port Barre, Sunset, Grand Coteau, Carencro, Lafayette, Vermilionville, Bayou Teche, Atchafalaya River and intermediate points.

YAZOO,
Wm. CRAWFORD, Master. J. B. SCHMIT, Clerk
Will leave positively as above. For freight or passage apply on board or to LORD & McPHAIL, Agents, 16 Commercial
JOSEPH HITE, Agent, Pier 1 Tchoupitoulas St.
N. B.—Connects closely with boats for Bayou Teche. Grazing and charges for Bayou Sara.

BEWARE OF
Imitation Machines
Offered by second-hand dealers as
IMPROVED SINGER.

THE GENUINE
SINGER MACHINE,
MADE BY THE
Singer Manufacturing Co.
HAS NO EQUAL.

2 500,000 Singers in Daily Use.
Two-thirds of all the machines sold in the United States are those made by
The Singer Company,
Send for Circular and Price List. Address
The Singer Manufacturing Co.,
85 CANAL STREET,
Agent's for Butterick's Patterns.

Joseph Mitchell Boiler Yard.
C. J. WALTON, Proprietor.
Manufacturer of all kinds of
STEAM BOILERS,
Land, Coal Oil, Water and Locomotive Tanks, Sugar and Plantation Boilers a Specialty.
No 107 N. S. MAIN STREET.
Bet. Twelfth and Thirteenth.
LOUISVILLE, KY.

WILLIAM BURNS,
Old Virginia Kitchen,
No. 75 CAMP STREET.
Meals and Rooms by the Day or Week, cheap. Lunch on Plan.
Meals at all Hours of the Day.

LYNCH & GOMIEN,
Manufacturers of Pianos,
1321 BROADWAY cor. 35th Street,
NEW YORK.

TESTIMONIALS FROM WELL-KNOWN PERSONS.

From Mrs. General Sherman.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21 1878.
Messrs. LYNCH & GOMIEN:
Gentlemen—I am very much pleased with the Piano you sent me for rent. It is indeed a fine instrument, very sweet in tone, and is admired by all who have seen it. Please send me a bill for the time I have used it, and I will purchase it. Yours truly,
ELLEN E. F. SHERMAN,
237 I Street.

St. James, December 27, 1878.
Messrs. LYNCH & GOMIEN:
Gentlemen—I am very happy to be able to state that your Pianos are one of the very best I ever had the pleasure to play on. Their tone and brilliancy of touch are equal to any Piano made in this country. Hoping that your Pianos will always stand as well as they have done with us, and wishing you success in your business, I remain, Yours truly,
ANDREW WARNER,
Professor of Music, St. Mary, Jefferson College, St. James, La. (Convent, P. O.)

From the World Renowned Artist, Camille Urso.

NEW YORK, May 27, 1878.
Messrs. LYNCH & GOMIEN:
Gentlemen—After trying your Pianos a fair trial, I am happy to say that I find them to possess the most beautiful and sympathetic tone, and I consider them a very superior instrument. It gives me much pleasure to recommend them to the public.
Yours truly,
CAMILLA URSO.

Extract of Letter from W. H. Sherwood, Family Tour.

We are delighted with the Piano. The tone is loud, strong and full, yet soft and mellow.
WM. H. SHERWOOD.

LHOTE & CO.,
OLD BASIN
SASH, BLIND,
DOOR FACTORY,
AND
Lumber Yard,
Offices, Cor. Toulouse & Franklin and 32 Carondelet Sts.,
P. O. Box 836. NEW ORLEANS.

DECORATE Your Homes by using Embossed Pictures for Panels, Screens, Fire Boards, Books, etc. 500 Designs on hand. Handsome sample pictures, 5 assorted sheets, 2 cents. Illustrated catalogue with each order. Stamp for 32 page illustrated catalogue. Agents wanted. HART & PRATHER, 74 Beekman St., N. Y.

THE ORIGINAL Superintendent of Dr. Hyatt and Lewis Lockwood of New Orleans, has re-invented and established the business of manufacturing Dr Hyatt's patent
A. McDERMOTT,
ARTIFICIAL
Arms and Legs,
and has purchased the sole right for the Southern States. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed in all cases or no pay. Prices greatly reduced.
A. McDERMOTT,
308 Camp Street, N. O.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH

VOL. 25. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1879. NO. 48.

The Christian Advocate.

ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS, AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
G. T. LATHROP, Publisher.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address all matters of business, G. T. LATHROP 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication REV. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. FELIX R. HILL.
REV. H. H. MOORE.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. Q. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS, D. D.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.
REV. CHRISTIAN KEENER.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers at the following rates including postage:

One Year	$2 00.
Six Months	1 00
Three Months	50

To all Ministers of the Gospel and widows of deceased Traveling-preachers:

One Year	$1 00
Six Months	50
Three Months	25

THANKSGIVING HYMN.

To Thee, O God, who changest not,
Our words of praise we bring—
Unnumbered blessings own for Thee
From Thine outgushing spring.

Unchanging One! the monarch's lyre
Sounds out on Zion's hill;
And flushed the heart with holden fire
With praise those strains repeat it!

But Thou, through ages numberless,
From Thy throne unshaken,
Eternal in Thy changeless state,
Hast loved and blessed Thine own.

And even as while ages sound forth
The psalms of praise
Awoke from East and West and North,
Extol abounding grace,

Could all the praise of every age
Swell to one Thanksgiving song,
Ten thousand times earth's pilgrimage
Would now that strain prolong.

But that grand hymn is not complete,
Unpraised the closing lay,
Each ending age the task shall greet
That Heaven to each assigns.

Jubilant harps shall wake again,
Fair Salem's sons embrace,
And earth shall show that sweet strain,
The anthem of the race.

—Watchman.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 18.—The first annual session of the American Public Health Association was called to order at noon to-day by President J. L. Cabell, of Virginia, in the hall of Representatives of the State Capitol. Over two hundred members were on the floor and the galleries were filled with spectators.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 18.—A special from Carrollton, Miss., says Eliza Erskine was arrested on Saturday, charged with murdering her husband, who died suddenly [illegible]

GALVESTON, Nov. 18.—The fourth story fire brick warehouse of B. R. Davis & Bro. with work upon the rear, and those of the [illegible] brick buildings on the north side of the strand, burned, including T. Davis, Andrews & Bro. and C. S. Mitchell & Co., [illegible] Estimated loss $150,000; insurance about $100,000.

CHARLESTON, Nov. 19.—Cheyenne, with some snow, left here to-day. There are reports of snow in the interior.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 19.—A new and important railroad project in Texas was inaugurated yesterday at Dallas, in that State, by filing a charter of the Texas Trunk Railroad, to run from Denison, southeast nearly to the Gulf of Mexico, at or near Sabine Pass, with a branch from Dallas, the line to Austin or Taylor connecting the Louisiana lines. In addition to other [illegible] The road will run through the best timber section of the State, and to a great extent every line connected.

RALEIGH, Nov. 21.—The Colored People's Industrial Exposition closed to-day. It was the first exhibition in which the whole community, and its success reflects much credit upon the colored people of North Carolina.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21.—The steamer Gaelic from China, to-day, brings the following advices:

YOKOHAMA, Nov. 4.—More than 30,000 deaths have occurred in the province of the present cholera epidemic. The disease is expected to disappear by the end of December. Extraordinary precautions against its recurrence have been taken by the Government, and it is thought the Japanese sanitary system is now unsurpassed in the world.

[illegible] Nordenskjold, Swedish Arctic explorer, has been received with complimentary demonstrations in various parts of the Empire. He is now on his way homeward.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 20.—The following were elected officers of the American Health Association at the morning session to-day: President, John S. Billings, U. S. N.; First Vice President, Samuel Choppin, of New Orleans; Second Vice President, A. C. Hense, of Lansing, Mich.; Treasurer, J. R. Lindsley, of Nashville; Executive Committee, C. B. White of Louisiana; J. L. Cabell of Virginia; E. M. Hunt of New Jersey; J. L. Ellmaker of Tennessee; Chas. F. Folsom of Massachusetts; A. L. Gillson, United States Navy. Drs. Glen, Griffith, Sternbergh, Kelly and Ballahary were appointed a committee to report upon the best means of preventing the spread of venereal disease.

An invitation from New Orleans to hold the next Convention in that city was accepted by an almost unanimous vote.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 22.—Drs. Billings, Folsom, Ames, and Col. Waring, will arrive from Nashville to-morrow and begin a sanitary survey of the city, as ordered by the National Board of Health.

PENSACOLA, Nov. 22.—At the railroad meeting for the interval between the junction forty-five miles north of Pensacola and Pineapple, Alabama, a contract was awarded to Daniel Callahan, of Tennessee, who is to complete sixty-six miles of the road and unite Pensacola and Selma within twelve months.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 23.—The Mississippi river commission finished their business here this forenoon, and left on the United States steamer General Barnard, for New Orleans. They will make an inspection of the river en route, and that their observations may be as complete as possible, they will only travel during daylight, tying up whenever night overtakes them. They will meet the new surveying party, which they ordered into the field last Thursday, to survey the west bank of the river below Helena, at Memphis on the twenty-seventh, and give the [illegible] instructions as to their [illegible] Vicksburg, Natchez and others either on the river. They will invite river pilots, local engineers and others to give their views on the subject of river improvements. They will probably reach New Orleans about December 6, and will then go down to the Gulf.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24.—News by the steamer Newburn, from Mazatlan, indicates an impending revolution in Mexico. Gen. Joseph Rodarjes has pronounced, and some of his forces have been at Rosario Concordia, and Velocia, 50 miles from Mazatlan.

Another small force has pronounced at Quiotla, in the State of Sinaloa. Rich gold leaves was pronounced Loyal, where about 250 men took possession of the town, seized all the arms they were accessible, and left for the interior.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 24.—A party of 129 laborers, sands from the south in search of work, in charge of Elder John Morgan, passed through here last night en route to Manassa, in San Luis Valley, Colorado, where there is already a colony of between 400 and 500. This is the first party from the South that has gone to this locality this season. They got their tickets from the Santa Fé Colonization office, and conform to the laws of the State, which prohibit polygamy.

FOREIGN.

PANAMA, Nov. 15.—The long expected invasion of Peru by the Chilian forces is at last an accomplished fact. On Sunday, November 2, the Chilian fleet of sixteen sail appeared off Pisagua and opened fire on and bombarded the battery on the office on the heights behind the town and covered the landing of a large body of Chilian troops. Gibbon's resistance was unable to the landing. Many men were killed on the Bolivian forces who garrisoned the town finally retreated to San Bernardo, leaving Pisagua in the hands of the Chilians.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The Daily Telegraph's Vienna correspondent reports that a Rome telegram confirms the statement that an agreement has been reached between Germany and the Vatican. Mgr. Jacobini, Papal Nuncio to Munich, will visit Berlin in December, probably to confer with Prince Bismarck, who is said to have made important concessions in the recent negotiations.

HAVANA, Nov. 17.—A German steamer in Vera Cruz brings dates from the city of Mexico to the 14th inst.

A local revolution occurred in Chihuahua against the State Government. The Progressionalists have recognized the revolt and captured the Governor with all the State officials. Gen. Arevino, at the head of the Federal forces has left Zacatecas and is marching on Chihuahua to put down the rebellion.

Congress has approved the contract for laying a telegraphic cable across the Gulf of Mexico to the United States.

New elections have arisen in Yucatan. The Government's apparent ineptitude in the elections of that State. Gov. Ancona immediately organized a force of fifteen hundred men to oppose such fraud, but arrested the Governor's Mental [illegible] Palomino and other instructions from the Federal Government, and reinforcements, which left Vera Cruz on the 5th inst. The local opponents of Gov. Ancona joined the Federal troops.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The Irish arrests continue to be the leading topic of interest. The Times thinks there is every reason to believe that a steady display of firmness will extinguish any treasonable elements of the anti-rent agitation.

PARIS, Nov. 21.—The new French cable was officially opened for business yesterday by a telegram from M. Grevy, President of the French Republic, to the President of the United States, expressing the most cordial sentiments.

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The Globe announces that the widow of Charles Dickens, the famous novelist, died at her residence in Gloucester Crescent, Regent's Park, London, after a lingering illness of fifteen months.

PARIS, Nov. 21.—Antony Gibbs & Sons, merchants, of this city, have received a telegram from Valparaiso announcing that a decisive victory has been gained by the Chilanos over the Peruvians and Bolivians, under Iglesias. The defeat of the allied forces is established as crushing.

HAVANA, Nov. 21.—San Domingo advices are to the 8th inst. An encounter had occurred, between the forces of President Baez and revolutionists at San Pedro. Gilliard was dislodged from the position he held, and he entrenched to retreat in some disorder to the capital.

The fever in Santiago is advanced and the besieging force of the only outlet from which was cholera ever sold towards the province of Seybo, where Gutierrez went to gather fresh troops.

Reports [illegible] is ordered to the province of Seybo, the balance of the regiment has declared against him.

Proclamation by the Governor.

FOR A DAY OF THANKSGIVING AND PRAYER.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
State of Louisiana.

Whilst the passing year has its light with it its inharmonies of our vicissitudes of human life, prosperity and joy, adversity and sorrow, it has shown to the people of Louisiana the breaking of the clouds which have heretofore surrounded them.

It is precisely in periods when a people is so circumstanced that it should give evidence of having neither overlooked nor forgotten the source from which all blessings flow.

I, FRANCIS T. NICHOLLS, Governor of the State of Louisiana, do earnestly recommend that on THURSDAY, the 27th day of November, A. D. 1879, the people of this State do abstain from their usual pursuits and unite in a common and public thanksgiving to Almighty God for the many benefits which they have received at His hands.

Given under my signature and the seal of the State of Louisiana, at the city of New Orleans, this nineteenth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine.

FRANCIS T. NICHOLLS.

By the Governor:
OSCAR ARROYO, Asst. Sec. of State.

FIELD NOTES.

ALABAMA.

FRANKFORT, ALA., Nov. 12.—Our fourth quarterly meeting was an occasion of interest. The love-feast was good. Preaching good. Collections nearly all up. The preacher in charge and presiding elder's salary behind, but efforts are being made to bring it all up. The health of our country is not so good. Typho malarial fever is raging to some extent. Crops are very good. Our people on this circuit are kind, and love the preachers.

C. V. ONEAL, P. C.

FLORENCE, ALA., Nov. 14.—Am closing up my third year upon the Florence district. About three hundred conversions and accessions to our church this year. Missionary contributions a little larger than last year; quarterly collections fully as good. Bishop claims will be met in full. Eight parsonages upon the district, six of which have been built the past three years. I do think there is some vital and lasting improvement in church work in these parts.

R. A. TIMMONS.

CHEPULTEPEC, ALA., Nov. 11.—The fourth quarterly meeting for Mulberries Valley circuit, at Mount Ebel, November 9, was a grand success. Steward's paid in about $200, leaving a balance of $100, which will be paid. Collections are all about square. Spiritual state of the church good. Health good. Farmers are sowing wheat more than usual.

B. F. LEA.

BLADON SPRINGS, ALA., Nov. 18.—Our fourth quarterly Conference at Bladon Springs was an occasion of much interest. The report on the general state of the church showed forty accessions and ten infants baptized. A committee of five was appointed to build a parsonage. Stewards of Ivey Church paid up in full, and Bladon Church will do the same. Providence and Mount Zion Churches are in hope of paying out before Conference. Bladon is a very pleasant work, with a strong, intelligent and pious official board.

J. B. JONES, P. C.

PIKEVILLE, ALA., Nov. 19.—This is my third year on this (Pikeville) mission. We have had a great many conversions, and about ten adults and five infants baptized. The financial report assessed for presiding elder's $25; for preacher in charge, $205; foreign missions, $12 50; domestic missions, $12 50; for Conference claimants, $5; Bishops, $5. Receipts for support of ministry, $57 43, all told; foreign missions, $11; domestic missions, $12 85; Conference claimants, $3. The deficiency of missionary will be paid.

G. M. G. DUNKIN.

PEEKS HILL, ALA., Nov. 22.—I have finished up my year's work on the New Castle circuit. I took twenty-seven into the church; baptized nine adults and nine children. It has been a hard year with the preacher and his wife. The spiritual condition of the charge is what I call low. Finances are badly [illegible] The charge left behind about $175. This circuit is a new one first made last Conference. Sunday school interest but low [illegible] Nine preaching places and seven organizations. Crops very good. Health of the country fine.

JOHN E. WILKINS, P. C.

MISSISSIPPI.

OXFORD, MISS., Nov. 15.—We have held seven protracted meetings on Caswell circuit with the following good results: one hundred and fifty conversions and one hundred and twelve accessions to our church. About fifty of our converts have joined other churches. You see we have succeeded in getting the members of the other denominations to help us in our meetings. We have built one camp-house worth three or four hundred dollars. We have good seasons. Have made good crops of both corn and cotton, and have made a large yield of sorghum, etc. Political bile hinders here. Been in our way considerably. All is quiet now.

EDWARD A. FREEMAN.

CANTON, MISS., Nov. 15.—In our church we have no "Woman's Missionary Society," but do have a Sunday-School Missionary Society in good working order. We have a beautiful banner, presented by one of our good ladies, our superintendent's wife, and the class which has the most money at the end of any month has this banner in their midst during the next month. Thirty-two have been added to our church on probation, of both and by certificate this year, among the number was a class from the Sunday-school.

R. D. NOUSWORTHY, P. C.

HAZLEHURST, MISS., Nov. 15.—We have had fine weather for the gathering of cotton; dry and rather warm for the season. My year's work here is almost ended. It has been pleasant, and, I hope, in some degree profitable. Opportunities for sowing good seed very favorable. Congregations uniformly good and attentive. Visible fruits rather small. About twenty accessions in all. I hope the labors next year will have abundant success.

T. S. WEST.

OXFORD, MISS., Nov. 17.—Our church in this place is decidedly more prosperous now than at any other time since my connection with it. We have had nineteen additions to the membership this year. All the assessments will be met in full. Bro. Ramsey, our presiding elder, has labored faithfully among us. The church expressed its appreciation by giving him a handsome present. The State University is prospering in a high degree. The members of the Methodist Church in the faculty are worthy of all praise. Their works speak loudly.

Judge Watson, of Holly Springs, said, in a public speech last Tuesday night, that Oxford was the most prosperous town in the State. One reason assigned for this was the fact that the Legislature of the State enacted a law prohibiting the sale of spirituous or malt liquors within five miles of the town of Oxford. Let the good citizens of other towns in the State take note.

W. B. MURRAH.

GREENWOOD, MISS., Nov. 17.—Our last quarterly meeting was held here last Saturday and Sunday. Our church was filled to overflowing, and the sermons were heard with deep attention. A sad scene was witnessed, in the morning of Sunday, in the appearance of Bro. H. Williamson in a state of great feebleness and decrepitude. He entered the church on the arm of his son, and a friend, to receive the sacrament, perhaps, for the last time. He is well, but slowly wearing out. He is ready.

J. SIDNEY CARLTON.

CONNERVILLE, MISS., Nov. 13.—We have had gracious revivals in our charge this year, and have been greatly blessed with health and good crops, and the prospects are brightening up for better times.

E. M'TAFFY, A. P.

LOUISIANA.

SILOAM, LA.—We had a good camp-meeting at Siloam on the second Sabbath in October. A goodly number of converts, and much good done. Bros. Hearn, Godbey, Biggs and Crowson, besides the presiding elder and some local brethren, gave good help. Corn a failure here, and tight times ahead.

U. T. RAWSON.

The Remedies for the Evils of a Corrupt and Licentious Literature.

BY REV. E. E. HOSS, CLAYCOMO, MO.

In a former communication we endeavored to direct attention to the character, tendencies and the evils of modern sensational literature. In doing this we sought to trace, as far as possible, its best immediate effects upon the individual mind and character, as well as upon the tone and spirit of our social life. We now propose to point out a remedy for these evils, more by the way of hint and suggestion than of elaborate and exhaustive discussion.

In seeking the remedy for any existing evil two obvious facts must be taken into the account: First, that the remedy must contain in it such conditions as will most effectually counteract and overcome the evils which it seeks to cure. That is, that it will not only arrest and overbalance the wrong already done, but will mitigate and subdue the evil, and, if possible, bring it entirely to an end. Second, that the remedy must strike at the root of the evil, and not only eradicate the disease itself, but the causes and conditions by which it is produced. Thus applying the principle to the subject before us, it is manifest that if there are evils, deep, widespread and hurtful, in the current literature of the day, or, at least, in a large proportion of its multiform cravings, the remedy must be found, in the first place, in something that will arrest its progress and counteract its hurtful tendencies, and, in the second place, by modifying or overcoming the causes and sources of the evil itself.

Now, to appreciate this let us look a little deeper into the philosophy of the subject. The literature of every age and country will precisely express the animus of the people and the times. That is, it will become the expression and exponent of the tastes, the wants and the sentiments of the popular mind. Hence the shrewd and mercenary publishers of the press will publish what the people desire to read, and the people will read what is thus supplied for them in harmony with their tastes and sentiments. Then, looking a little further, we perceive that men's tastes and sentiments are often the outgrowth of their passions and feelings, of their longings and desires, seeking expression and gratification. Thousands are weary of the dull humdrum monotony of life with its ills, and of its burdens and cares. They want some mental excitement and recreation to lift them out of these slough of despond. So we seek high gayety and dissipation, others in reading, and in some kind of literary entertainment, such as is most congenial to their natures and dispositions. All have their meals of a better and higher state of things than are to be found in the dull, plodding, humdrum realities of actual life. They yearn for the realization of scenes and characters, passions and feelings, widely different from what they behold in the dreary and repulsive experiences of every day existence. They crave something that will excite their minds, charm by the imagination, startle emotions, stimulate the passions, and please the fancy, and lure them into the elysian fields and Temple of Beauty of poetry and fiction. Hence the most refined tastes and the most depraved passions of the human soul will readily assimilate themselves with the representative productions of a congenial and corrupt literature. In this way the Count of Monte Cristo, Don Juans, the Mayfields and Claude Melnotte of the Byronic type, or, worse than all, the sentimental vagabonds and the black-hearted despera does of the American dime novel, will become the representative models of human excellence, and the sublime ideals of a heroic character. Their intrigues and achievements will constitute to such minds the measure of a true life, and the aim of its noble duties. And this, the evil finding its origin in a vitiated public taste and a false estimate of life and character, and perpetuated by a congenial and corresponding literary sympathy, goes on acting and reacting until its power for mischief is augmented to a terrible and intensity almost incalculable. In the light of these facts let us now indicate the remedies for the evil.

1. There ought to exist some conservative check, some salutary limitation upon the miscellaneous and enormous production of bad books and worthless periodicals. This check and limitation can be found, in part at least, in a system of stern, relentless, scathing and unsparing criticism; such a judicial tribunal of taste and excellence as shall lash and scourge these vile productions, in shame and disgrace, from the press and the world. We need the literary world needs some high standard authority, like the reviews and reviewers of Great Britain, whose mighty utterances shall strike terror to the hearts of all these literary transgressors, and drive them with their sinful productions into infamy and contempt. This whole country needs some Argus-eyed guardian of our literary sanctity, whose lightening glance shall trace out and whose wary steps shall pursue, like an avenging Nemesis, those crazy romance-monger and sensational serial-issuing shes shall shrink in dismay to hide themselves in the dens and caves of the earth. No fact of the present century is more utterly astonishing than the inexhaustible and near-infinite combination of poor, miserable, vile, demoralizing literature, a stigma on our national character and a disgrace to our civilization. It is [illegible] and read everywhere, from the crowded city to the secluded hamlet, and from the grand hotel to the humble cabin, on railroads and steamers, and the whole land is reeking with its noisome exhalations. Books and periodicals and handbills, pamphlets, and even religious papers, so called, have become the consecrated organs of slander, detraction, perversion and misrepresentation, to an extent unparalleled in the annals of literature. One scarcely knows which to wonder at most, the distorted and fabulous perversions of history or the shameless absurdities of fiction. Witness, for example, the one-sided and disgraceful records of the late civil war, and the man-eating alligators of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Specimens of this latter book was handed to the writer a short time since, purporting to have been written under the personal supervision of Bishop Cottenden, of West Cumberland, or Big Bethesda, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. The first page contained an autograph letter and signature, together with a sworn certificate of the bona fides of Bishop Critteden, of Southern Methodist Church, solemnly attested at every statement of the book was [illegible] and all to come under his own observation. We will not insult the common sense of the reader by assuming that [illegible] in some church fairs and such things. This is bad enough, but the book itself is infinitely worse. Such a mass of nonsense and [illegible] one of the chief orgies was [illegible] and kept up by speaking a list of the men she had murdered in fiercest wantonness and sport. The heroine was a beautiful and refined Southern girl, who, for refusing to marry the lover, or some one else, was taken for the [illegible] of her eighteenth and publicly whipped by a negro constable, and the shouts and laughter and jeers of Southern white men, who enjoyed the delicate [illegible] Now this is but a brief specimen of the [illegible] of many others of the same sort, of course there are not so [illegible] as to be [illegible] without check or limitation, of the greatest of enlightened civilization. What are to be its results upon the intelligence, the moral progress and the [illegible] of the people, Heaven only knows.

2. This brings us to another view. The corruption of the evil implied [illegible] demands the substitution of a higher and purer style of literature to counteract, and take the place of these worthless and degrading productions. Give the people something attractive, entertaining and instructive to read, make it cheap, abundant and available, and they will read it. Suppose, for illustration, that we take our Advocates and religious periodicals and add to their attractiveness and availability by giving them a higher reach and a broader range of literary excellence. Suppose we fill them with the best literature of the times, original and selected, miscellaneous, religious, scientific and literary, poetry and fiction, the purest and best in style and tendency, essays on various subjects, criticisms, reviews, brief lectures and sermons; in a word, with something that will please and [illegible] behind instruct the great mass of readers, and thus render them a [illegible] attraction to all classes, young and old, in the church and in the world, can any one doubt the result? Suppose, now, that we begin work, by thorough contributions, collections, and by every means in our power, to [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] every household and family, every [illegible] and [illegible] and every [illegible] who can estimate the [illegible] every [illegible] with [illegible]

These publications would soon become [illegible] the messengers of truth, the [illegible] to civilization and intelligence, reaching the remote corners of the land. Every [illegible] professors and teachers, [illegible] missionaries, in many a home, in many an [illegible] and lonely wilderness, would be read and re-read, [illegible] from hand to hand, and from [illegible] to [illegible], and the [illegible] and would gather the [illegible] [illegible] to [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1879.

THE LAST SUPPER.

BY SARAH WARING.

Come with unsandaled foot and stand
Where we in thought may gaze
On Him who, amid a chosen band,
His wondrous love displays;
When blessing at the paschal feast
The sacred bread and wine
He gives to each, as King and Priest,
Salvation's mystic sign.

What holding on their spirits fell
In that fair upper room,
While scarce His words of love dispel
The deep impending gloom.
They knew the hours were hastening on
When, like the type foreshown,
Their Master from the earth withdrawn,
They should be left alone.

He felt their grief, He knew their fear,
The load that each must bear;
And, oh! He saw in vision clear
His own unfathomed share.
Not yet descends the last fell stroke
On His devoted head;
But He beholds the altar smoke
As if the Lamb had bled.

And rising from that depth of woe
In majesty of love,
He lifts their hearts from grief below
To blessedness above.
To Him the listening ear is bent,
As with It's dying breath,
He gives that holy sacrament,
His pledge in life and death.

That wondrous love, that grace divine,
Still joins us to our Head,
Strengthened by eucharistic wine,
And by the broken bread.
And still His sacred hand is near
That they who own His grace
With Him the hallowed feast shall share
Within the holy place.

We know not what these words express,
Our hearts are dull and cold;
What depths of love and tenderness
The promise may enfold
We know not, and we cannot know
Till drops this mortal veil;
Yet sometimes touched by unlooked-for glow
Our spirits cry, "All hail!"

—Sunday Magazine.

The Theory of Creation.

MR. EDITOR: In some way, for which I cannot account, I did not see "Roderick Random's" second article for more than three weeks after it was printed, or I would have noticed it sooner. My objections to a formal, argumentative reply to his first article were intended not solely and exclusively for his case, but secondarily for many similar cases in our religious papers. Our newspaper debates are far too largely characterized by personal flings and attempts to make an opponent appear either senseless or ridiculous. There are rules of debate which ought always to be observed, especially in church circles. I have frequently thought our editors, or some of them, would do well to require of their correspondents more dignity and circumspection along here.

Moreover, the schriquet in this case, supposing it to be intelligibly made, was in exceeding bad taste, to say the least, and would indicate anything but sober, respectful inquiry into such a subject as the creation. Roderick Random was a reckless Scotch libertine, bent on mischief, and might be called, as the vulgar Smollett himself represents him, a rich vagabond and degraded fool. I suppose your correspondent may not have been aware of the character he was personating, or he would not have asked me to assume parity with him. But his explanation in the ADVOCATE of October 9 is entirely satisfactory.

As to the particular questions in controversy, I have pretty much lost sight of them, and am not able just now to refer to Random's criticism, or to my remarks which he criticises. But I will restate the latter substantially as well as I can.

The word create, or creation, like other words of its class, has several different significations. You cannot, therefore, know the meaning until you ascertain the particular use made of it in the sentence where it is employed. The primary and radical meaning is to produce absolute existence, to produce something not out of something else, but out of nothing, the absolute origination of material substance which, of course, must be "in the beginning." The secondary meaning is to produce something out of something else, to make or form, by changing or mixing substances by processes, so as to produce a new thing from old ones.

Now your correspondent, Roderick—I wish he had a more decent name—is mistaken in supposing I have brought forward, or propose to bring forward, any "new truth" or new theory. I proposed to bring forward some old and well understood truths which have been neglected and misrepresented and misunderstood too long.

To this end I remind your readers that the word create, in this primary sense, is used in the first verse of the first chapter of Genesis, and no where else in the Bible except when referring to its use in that verse. This is not an opinion that may be controverted, but a demonstrable fact not admitting of difference of opinion.

Creation, supposing there ever to have been such a thing, was necessarily "in the beginning," and, according to the Bible, was complete, finished, once for all, and has never been repeated. We have now material substance existing to begin with, and from that point forward, either in history, time or sequence, have to do exclusively with historic changes, processes and modification. You cannot apply the term or the idea of history to radical creation, for the reason that you cannot conceive of it as phenomenal. It was not a pro duce. History is an account of things in existence—of changes, of modifications—and so there must be something to change, to modify, or to be changed.

Everywhere else in Scripture, yea, and out of Scripture, where words are properly used, the word create is used in a modified sense, or in reference to this first use of it. Creation was in, not after, the beginning.

After the first verse we read history—that is, accounts of created things, of processes and modifications. "The Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters." Of course waters existed. God said: "Let the earth bring forth grass." And God said: "Let us make man," and so on. All this was historic making, forming, producing by processes of change in material substance previously created.

And so the very general and exceeding laconic account of created matter proceeds until you have the present system formed, as we now see it, and in operation. There the account or narrative narrows down to man and his immediate surroundings. What was the period of time for this formation of created matter, into the present outward system, is another question. I have my opinion, but cannot demonstrate it, though it looks to me very plain.

I know it is somewhat common for writers to speak of the "six days of creation," but the language is loose and inaccurate. The Bible does not know of such days or such periods. These periods do not relate to radical or primary creation, but to historic changes in created and existing things. It is no more an absolute creation that "God created great whales" than that he subsequently created a great flood. The word created, or formed, or made, might be reasonably well employed in either case.

As to Darwinism, I think I said about this, in substance, as well as I remember; at least I say it now. These writers have not denied, nor logically attempted to deny, a proper, divine creation. The only thing in all their writings looking in such a direction is an attempt to deny some particular, supposed mode of creation. Instead of it requiring six days, it required, they say, many millions of periods of a year or a century each for this system to evolve and come into being as we now see it. Well, I think so too. Not discerning between the history of existing things, and the creation of them, they, so far as the Bible is concerned, beat the air by denying Moses' account of the creation! But Moses writes not one word on that subject. He says nothing, exactly nothing, about creation beyond the simple fact that God created. Not a word of account, how, when or where.

The only thing that is known, or stated in the Bible, or out of it, respecting primary creation, is that God created. The thing does not admit of either proof, disproof or explanation. It is in the Bible a mere dogmatic statement to be received or rejected without proof. It can be no more explained to us how God created than how he came into existence. You might as well attempt to explain how the attraction of gravitation was made. If it be stated that creation was a work, it might be replied that God does not labor. If it be regarded a process begun, continued and afterward finished, it might be replied that God is not an artisan. He spake, and it was done, He commanded, and it stood fast. And yet He did not speak nor utter words of command. We see God's work in what we call His providence—that is, we see grass grow and rivers flow—but of God's direct and immediate acts, if there be any such, we have no conception. When we read: "Let there be lights in the firmament of heaven to divide the day from the night," we read of development or of evolution.

Prof. Haeckel wrote a book, a few years ago, which he called a History of Creation, and yet there is not a word in it about creation. From beginning to end it treats exclusively of the changes, evolution and development of existing things," never once reaching, or attempting to reach, back to absolute origin.

The history of matter, early or later, what changes the different parts undergo in forming new productions, how they evolve other forms, how products develop in any of the fields of nature, these are questions purely scientific, in which the mere theologian is not at all interested. It is the duty of theologians to protect the Bible, and of scientific men to protect science.

It is then an important inquiry how far these Darwinian philosophers have, in fact, invaded the territories of Christianity. To show that they have committed errors ever so great, is not an answer to that question. I repeat, they have not denied a proper divine creation. They have denied, as they in great ignorance of the Bible fancy, some supposed particular mode or history of creation. But, to either deny or affirm any particular mode or history of creation is, in itself, an absurdity, and, whatever else it may do, it cannot deny any Christian doctrine. To show, or to attempt and fail to show, how certain existing things have developed or evolved from some other things previously existing, cannot deny any Bible truth. To deny the Bible you must deny the truth of some Bible statement.

Darwinian errors, respecting the origin of man, should, in my judgment, be treated in the same way as those respecting the origin of the material world. But this present article is already too long.

R. ABBEY.

A Solemn Time.

MR. EDITOR: Some of our Methodist people ought to "grow in grace," for they need it, and some of them seem to need more at the close of the Conference year than in the beginning of it. Especially do the members of a Quarterly Conference require more grace at the last Quarterly Conference. The fourth Quarterly Conference is upon us. "Isn't it a solemn time!" Men strong in the faith, during protracted meeting seasons, become weaker than a bruised reed when the question is asked: "What amount has been raised the present quarter for the support of the ministry?" No time for shouting now, the time is too solemn, but long faces, dry eyes, and pockets made with puckering strings, and drawing tighter, predominate. "A solemn time, I say!" The year is closing, the preacher is unpaid, the sum of the deficiency shows itself. Now for excuses. The crops are short, the worms and drouth have injured us badly, and we are not able to pay much; our debts must be paid first. Oh! what a charitable, forbearing institution the church is. She yields her claims to the worms and drouth. But there must be no complaint, or the preacher will be accused of preaching for money; but some of the brethren are more hopeful. They promise to do better next year. What promising churches we have in this country! Mr. Editor, would you not like to be presiding elder of a district in such a country? The outlook is fine. They tell us the church is looking up. The finances are looking up—they are so low they can't look any other way. The time for paying up has come, the preacher is growing unpopular, he dresses too fine, has not visited enough, and, after all, we pay enough to preachers; they want too much money any way. The whiner and croaker cries: Give us the good old days of our fathers, when the preacher didn't need much pay, back to the old paths, when we can sing and rejoice in a free gospel.

But, the truth is, it is hard-shellism to the Methodist Church that is withholding a support from the pastor, and the result is such members grow poor in grace and money every year. Let the people be honest, and pay off their indebtedness to those who serve them. They deserve and need what is due them. Then will the fourth Quarterly Conference be a time of rejoicing, instead of a solemn time.

OBSERVER.

A Good Meeting.

MR. EDITOR: We have just closed a meeting at this place, in which there was an outpouring of the Spirit. My pen can give you no conception of the feast of good things God set before us.

Our pastor, T. S. Randle, was assisted by Bros. Allen, Chambers, Biggs, Byers and McKithen; and oh what an outpouring of the Spirit was there. I just felt as if we had gone back to the apostolic age, and that I was listening to the fishermen of Galilee, just after the Pentecostal baptism. We had sermon after sermon, full of power and of the Spirit.

The meeting lasted six days. There were about ten conversions. Nine confessed sanctification. There were three baptisms and five accessions. Surely God has visited His people in mercy. The Winnsboro meeting will be long remembered by those who, through its ministrations, have been led into the light.

C. M. R.

WINNSBORO, Oct. 31, 1879.

Tragic Death.

MR. EDITOR: This community is shocked at the sudden and somewhat tragic death of one of our respected citizens, Maj. M. F. Mims. On Monday morning he got into an altercation with a negro, in which the latter fired three shots from a pistol, the last of which took effect in the left side, from which he died this morning at 5:54 o'clock. Maj. Mims was unarmed at the time, and wholly in the power of the wretch who thus took his life. He leaves a wife and three little children, an aged father and mother, and numerous relatives and friends, who mourn his untimely death. He was about thirty years old. He professed to have found peace with God before he died, and expressed himself as having no fears about the future. The corpse left this evening by special train for Crawfordville for interment. Yours truly,

D. A. LITTLE.

LAUDERDALE, MISS., Nov. 19, 1879.

From the Work.

BOGUE CHITTO MISSION, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: We are thankful to God that we have not been entirely destitute of the manifestations of the divine favor in the labors and privations of a domestic missionary. My nearest appointment is two hundred miles from home—impossible to move; am mostly alone. Although we have had no great revival excitement, yet there has been all the year a constant, gradual improvement, in every respect, in two of the three churches that compose my circuit or mission—i. e., Bethel and Ebenezer. They each have a Sunday-school in good condition. There have been baptized eleven adults and six infants. Twenty five persons have been received into the church, who are walking orderly now. We have good hope of them. There are some outside appointments that are prospering. The public mind seems to be favorably impressed. Our people are mostly very poor. They do all they are able, but our finances are almost a failure. There was estimated for the preacher in charge $200, and for the presiding elder $40. About half paid up to our fourth Quarterly Conference on the eighth, of which Ebenezer paid all her claim—$75 for preacher in charge, and $15 for presiding elder, also missions, Conference and Bishop's claim; the others not half their claims; and most of our Conference is in the same fix. Can you tell what shall be the end of our glorious itinerancy?

Yours in Christ,

JOE. NICHOLSON.

NOVEMBER 12, 1879.

YORKVILLE CIRCUIT, NORTH ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: I have entered upon my closing round, closing out my second year on this work. In some respects, this has been rather a trying year. Supplies have been rather short, and finances at a low ebb. But, with all this, in the good providence of God we have lived, and the Lord has been good and gracious to us.

Our second camp meeting at Andrews' Chapel embraced the first Sabbath in September. It was a season of refreshing showers of divine grace to many Christians. Thirteen souls were brought from darkness to the light of life. Five joined the church with us. Some will doubtless go to Columbus, Miss., and some to other places. We have on our roll here one hundred and seventeen names. This is the largest membership on this circuit. We have class meeting here every month. Health good; crops good.

Our third camp meeting at Paine Chapel embraced the second Sabbath in October. There was one thing peculiar about this camp meeting: There were only about five confessions made, and five joined the church, and one of these came from the Baptist Church. While the membership was greatly blessed, and many of them came forward and covenanted together with the preachers to seek that perfect love that casteth out all fear, and, when we learned the secret, there were not exceeding ten or twelve in our congregation who were not professing Christians. Have you seen such a case in a camp meeting?

We held our first camp meeting on the Yorkville circuit at Tuscumbia, embracing the fourth Sabbath in August, resulting in several conversions, three accessions, and a gracious revival in the church, with a monthly appointment for class and prayer meeting. We have a weekly prayer meeting in the community. Crops are good, and the health of the community fine. We hope for better times in the way of ministerial support.

R. H. CARVER, P. C.

NOVEMBER 4, 1879.

CORRECTION.—In the obituary of Ida A. Hardy, instead of the words "Magnolia, Miss.," it should be "her father's residence in Washington parish, La."

J. W. SANDELL.

MAGNOLIA, MISS., Nov. 7, 1879.

Appointments of the North Texas Conference.

BISHOP H. N. MCTYEIRE, D. D., PRESIDING.

JEFFERSON DISTRICT.—R. Lane, P. E. Jefferson station, D. M. Pastor; Kellyville circuit, J. W. Hill; Linden circuit, Isaac N. Critchfield; Atlanta circuit, James Graham; Queen City circuit J. Clark Smith; Daingerfield circuit, R. G. Sewell; Mount Pleasant circuit, James E. Walker; Coffeeville circuit, J. R. Crowder; Boston circuit, W. W. Horner; Texarkana mission, David F. Fuller.

PARIS DISTRICT.—L. B. Ellis, P. E. Paris station, John H. McLean; Paris circuit, R. G. Rainey, Eugene C. DeJernett; Honey Grove circuit, W. H. Moss; Dodd City circuit, J. C. Weaver, J. A. Allison; Ladonia circuit, Charles E. Lamb; Cooper circuit, N. A. Kern; Blossom Prairie circuit, W. C. Blair; Robbinsville circuit, J. H. Shaw; Wayland circuit, A. C. McDougal; Clarksville circuit, D. J. Martin; Annona circuit, James A. Wyatt; Agent Honey Grove High School, J. W. Piner.

SHERMAN DISTRICT.—J. M. Binkley, P. E. Sherman station, W. G. Conron; Sherman circuit, John H. Reynolds; Denison circuit, F. A. Rosser; Whitesborough, I. S. Ashburn; Dexter, L. F. Palmer, Robert Geraline; Pilot Point station, Thos. E. Sherwood; Collinsville circuit, John W. Horn; Bonham circuit, E. W. Alderson; Fannin circuit, Seth B. Bush; Savoy circuit, W. F. Clarke; Pilot Grove circuit, B. T. Hayes; Van Alstyne circuit, Wiley A. Shook.

GAINESVILLE DISTRICT.—L. P. Lively, P. E. Gainesville station, J. B. Harris; Gainesville circuit, J. R. Smith; Marysville circuit, J. D. Whitehead; Denton circuit, J. W. Chalk, John W. Blackburn; Decatur circuit, Richmond N. Brown; Bolivar circuit, W. W. Bridwell; Roanoke circuit, W. M. Rutting; Montague circuit, S. Crutchfield; St. Jo circuit, J. O'Steen; Henrietta mission, Edward S. Williams; Newport mission, M. W. Shearer, J. A. Jester.

DALLAS DIST.—W. H. Hughes, P. E. Lamar Street, Dallas, H. A. Bourland; Floyd Street, Dallas, L. P. Smith, S. P. Armstrong, sup.; Cochran and Carruth, W. D. Snead, W. Cliton, Young, sup.; Plano circuit, W. S. May; McKinney station, Thomas R. Pierce; McKinney circuit, to be supplied (by J. P. Newsom); Honey Creek circuit, H. H. Sullivan; Bethel circuit, M. H. Cutlon; Grayville circuit, L. M. White; Grapevine mission, Elias Robinson; Lewisville circuit, George S. Gatewood; Professor of Southwestern University, P. C. Bryce.

TERRELL DISTRICT.—R. M. Powers, P. E. Terrell station, W. F. Easterling; Wills Point station, C. F. McWhirte; Kaufman circuit, O. P. Thomas, A. H. Brewer, supp.; Athe Springs circuit, M. C. Simmons; Pleasant Grove circuit, J. L. Agee; Farmersville circuit, W. C. Hall; Rockwall circuit, James McDonald, A. C. Allen, sup.; Trinity circuit, R. R. Fladger; Seyene, J. W. Lively; Forney mission, J. T. Smutey; Agent American Bible Society, Z. Parker.

SULPHUR SPRINGS DISTRICT.—M. H. Neely, P. E. Sulphur Springs station, M. C. Berkburn, T. J. Myhand, supt. Sulphur Springs circuit, J. E. Sherwood; Sulphur Bluff circuit, S. H. Renfro; Greenville station, P. C. Archer; White Rock circuit, J. H. White, W. K. Doff, sup.; Lone Oak circuit, S. J. Hawkins; Winsboro circuit, S. W. Jones; Pittsburg circuit, D. P. Haggard; J. M. Stephenson, sup.; Emory circuit, A. C. Moyer; Gilmer circuit, Howell R. Hughes.

Transferred—G. W. Cottingham, to the White River Conference.

Located at Their Own Request—R. H. Reed, E. S. Boyd, J. M. Langston.

Superannuated.—E. Cooch, A. Cranning, J. W. P. McKenzie, W. E. Bates, J. W. Fields, A. R. Dickson, J. B. Rice, W. P. Reed, C. J. Cock, J. D. Sherrill.

Obituaries.

MRS. AGNES LOUISA THOMPSON died July 7, 1879. She was the daughter of the Rev. Thomas Clinton and his wife, Annie. She was born October 18, 1854, and was married to Dr. Oliver Thompson, August 21, 1875.

We are born, we live and die and are forgotten. Such is the lot of humanity. But the record of what occurs on the journey that lies between the gate of entrance on to life and the one that leads out is very different. Some have help on the way by the riches of mercy that God has created for our benefit, or do some seem to have no drawbacks.

Lucie Clinton was a lovely young woman of great energy and perseverance. Her parents gave her every advantage in their power, and she availed herself of her privileges, and was a fine scholar. She studied harder than her strength justified, and broke down before her literary education was finished, in the struggle to exhaust her private study, and found her self prostrated and gave her the diploma. She graduated at Mrs. Jones' school in Jackson, La., which school turned out many intelligent Christian ladies. Louise was a good, dutiful daughter, and loved her home, her parents, sisters and brothers. When she married she carried to her new home habits of industry and ambitions to excel in what ever was lovely and in good report. The foundation which she built was intelligence and piety.

Like the majority of Eve's daughters, she had her share of trials and sorrows. But with her "Christ made the promise sweet," and in the fields of paradise, I suppose, she talks, to her father, of all that seemed so adverse in her lot, and they see now why those sorrows came. I must here diverge from the subject in hand, to record my conviction, that the Rev. Thomas Clinton and the Rev. Ben Smith Drake were as pure Christians as any canonized saint in the calendar. I knew them well, and saw them tried. So, I hope my dear friend, Louise, who through faith obtained a good report, has found her father in the celestial plains.

She died peacefully, and in "full assurance of faith." She calmly told her family: "I know I cannot last much longer, and I take this time to tell you that I am ready, and want you all to live so as to meet me in heaven." How different this from the infidel's wail over his brother's grave. As one has said: "If living on the heights gives no more light than the advanced thinker sees at the grave of his dear one, let me abide in the valley." Farewell, Louise! May all your loved ones live the lives that you wished them to live, and die as well, assured, as you died, of "an inheritance incorruptible and undefiled."

MARY S. WALL.

MRS. MALENA DAVIS was born in Georgia, October 18, 1818, and died, in Claiborne parish, La., November 2, 1879.

Afflicted several years previous to her decease, we all knew she would not be with us a great while, but were totally unprepared for the suddenness of the attack which hurried her away. Arising as well as usual on the morning of the twenty-fourth ultimo, after breakfasting with the family, she went about her domestic duties when, all at once, she was prostrated by a stroke of paralysis after which she was never able to articulate distinctly.

In her native State, and in her youthful days, she connected herself with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, of which she remained a consistent and faithful member until the day of her death. The last time we remember seeing her at the house of God, shortly after the revival at Whitehall, she met us at the door, and with joy beaming in her countenance, said: "I have good news to tell you all; several of my relatives, reading them by name, have been converted and joined the church."

The pious and sorrowing friends, who tenderly nursed her through her last illness, and the sadness and gloom her departure has cast over the community, attest the high esteem and affection in which she was held. No one was ever heard to say a hard word about "Grandma Davis."

MRS. LUCY REBECCA ALLEY, daughter of Bro. W. W. and Sister L. J. Lumbley, and wife of William Alley, was born in Yazoo county, Miss., October 21, 1853, and died at her father's residence, near Mount Olivet, November 1, 1879, aged twenty-six years and ten days.

Sister Alley united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1866, of which she remained a consistent, exemplary member until God said to her weary spirit: "Well done, good and faithful servant; come up higher." She was confined to her bed for months with consumption, and during this period of intense pain, her christian patience and fortitude was truly manifested to all who chanced to visit or watch by her couch of suffering. The writer visited, talked and prayed with her often during her illness, and always found her calm and trusting, willing patiently the light of release, when the Master should call her away to the "inheritance of the saints in light."

But a short time before she breathed her last she said to her mother: "I have implicit faith in God, and know that He will take care of my little children when I am gone. I am perfectly resigned to His will." And thus this fallen, suffering vessel from earth to the home of the just. Sister Alley leaves two little girls, who are too young to realize their loss, or to appreciate that care and affection which none but a mother can bestow. May our Father in heaven supply the place and comfort to the hearts of the bereft, and mould the characters of the little ones for Himself.

W. W. LUMBLEY.

DR. JOSHUA W. LACK was born in Smith county, Tenn., November 19, 1822, moved with his parents to Madison county, Miss., in September, 1833. In 1846 he moved to Yazoo county, where he was educated and practiced medicine. He was married to Miss Mary [illegible] in 1849, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1850. He died at Hazlehurst, Miss., of malarial consumption, [illegible]. He was a religious man; his father and brothers were preachers in our church. He [illegible] near Doaksville, La., for four years, and assisted in Tennessee. Dr. Lack was kind, generous and sympathetic. As a physician he was one of our best and the country was never more shocked at the death of any one than at his. He was greatly missed. [illegible] one earnest and true heart to meet his fathers. He rests from his labors, and his works follow him. [illegible] where he lived and practiced for the last twenty years. He was the father of thirteen children. Four are not, for God took them.

L. P. MCKENZIE.

MARY ELIZA DUBOSE, wife of Josiah DuBose, was born [illegible], and departed March 27, 1879, [illegible] of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in her twenty-first year. [illegible] Bethel Church of which she was a member for [illegible] 29, 1879, having for husband and seven children to struggle with the world, deprived of the one she in which they all seemed so much to rest. She was very fond of life, wise in her counsel, and ordered her household well; but Christ said to her, she seemed to live for her husband and children and for to her end, she was devoted to them. She was strictly pious, loved God and the church, always delighted to see her pastor, and left nothing undone to make his visit profitable, as well as pleasant. She was beloved by the whole community, and great was the weeping when she died. She had been a little sick in her baby very ill, and from the fatigue of nursing through many nights she dropped down in the bed for a minute to rest, a congestive chill stole upon her, and without a word or even the knowledge of her loved ones around, the wheels of life stood still, and Mary was with God.

There was great sorrow and confusion in the house when it was perceived she had left to be with Jesus. Those who saw this dear friend depart felt that he was only translated from earth to heaven.

MRS. M. F. H.

CHARLES LEVY, SON of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Allen, departed this life October 28, 1879. He was a bright, sweet and promising child, but God called him from papa and mamma to the "house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

S. M. HATTLAB, P. C.

MARY E. WALL was born in Smith county, Tenn., November 19, 1822, moved with his parents to Madison county, Miss., in September, 1833. In 1846 he moved to Yazoo county, where he was educated and practiced medicine. He was married to Miss Mary [illegible] in 1849, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1850. He died at Hazlehurst, Miss., of malarial consumption, [illegible]. He was a religious man; his father and brothers were preachers in our church. He [illegible] near Doaksville, La., for four years, and assisted in Tennessee. Dr. Lack was kind, generous and sympathetic. As a physician he was one of our best and the country was never more shocked at the death of any one than at his. He was greatly missed. [illegible] one earnest and true heart to meet his fathers. He rests from his labors, and his works follow him. [illegible] where he lived and practiced for the last twenty years. He was the father of thirteen children. Four are not, for God took them.

L. P. MCKENZIE.

MARY ELIZA DUBOSE, wife of Josiah DuBose, was born [illegible], and departed March 27, 1879, [illegible] of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in her twenty-first year. [illegible] Bethel Church of which she was a member for [illegible] 29, 1879, having for husband and seven children to struggle with the world, deprived of the one she in which they all seemed so much to rest. She was very fond of life, wise in her counsel, and ordered her household well; but Christ said to her, she seemed to live for her husband and children and for to her end, she was devoted to them. She was strictly pious, loved God and the church, always delighted to see her pastor, and left nothing undone to make his visit profitable, as well as pleasant. She was beloved by the whole community, and great was the weeping when she died. She had been a little sick in her baby very ill, and from the fatigue of nursing through many nights she dropped down in the bed for a minute to rest, a congestive chill stole upon her, and without a word or even the knowledge of her loved ones around, the wheels of life stood still, and Mary was with God.

There was great sorrow and confusion in the house when it was perceived she had left to be with Jesus. Those who saw this dear friend depart felt that he was only translated from earth to heaven.

MRS. M. F. H.

CHARLES LEVY, SON of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Allen, departed this life October 28, 1879. He was a bright, sweet and promising child, but God called him from papa and mamma to the "house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

S. M. HATTLAB, P. C.

MR. JOSEPH C. PARTIN departed this life August 30, 1879, near Mount Willing, Lowndes county, Ala., in the twenty-seventh year of his age. He leaves a most devoted wife and two little children, an affectionate and pious mother, one brother and sister, and many near and dear relatives and friends. He was a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which he joined in youth. He bore his painful and severe affliction of only a few days with much patience. He seemed to know that it was death with him, though he tried to be cheerful all the while. Those who saw this dear friend depart felt that he was only translated from earth to heaven.

MRS. M. F. H.

CHARLES LEVY, SON of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Allen, departed this life October 28, 1879. He was a bright, sweet and promising child, but God called him from papa and mamma to the "house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

S. M. HATTLAB, P. C.

MISS LIDA JOINED the church in her childhood, receiving baptism at the hands of Bishop Andrew. After she became a member of the church her life accorded with the profession she had made. She led her flock divine continually, sweet tempered and self-sacrificing, it is not a matter of surprise that her praise is upon the lips of all who knew her. She was a model daughter, and her parents mourn for her sorely, though they are satisfied that she is with the Lord.

The disease of which Miss Lida died caused her great suffering, which she bore patiently, and as the evening [illegible] that is invisible. It was still day when she crossed the cold river. She knew that she was dying, but was not afraid to [illegible] bravely, sweetly she [illegible] herself into the hands of waiting angels to be carried to the bosom of the good. It is not often that a community is called to lose a treasure of such value, but she is not dead, only gone before.

E. L. COVELESS.

MR. JOSEPH C. PARTIN departed this life August 30, 1879, near Mount Willing, Lowndes county, Ala., in the twenty-seventh year of his age. He leaves a most devoted wife and two little children, an affectionate and pious mother, one brother and sister, and many near and dear relatives and friends. He was a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which he joined in youth. He bore his painful and severe affliction of only a few days with much patience. He seemed to know that it was death with him, though he tried to be cheerful all the while. Those who saw this dear friend depart felt that he was only translated from earth to heaven.

MRS. M. F. H.

CHARLES LEVY, SON of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Allen, departed this life October 28, 1879. He was a bright, sweet and promising child, but God called him from papa and mamma to the "house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

S. M. HATTLAB, P. C.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1879.

TRIALS.

In the trials to be suffered
In this fellowship with care,
'Tis the inward hidden struggle
That will prove the worst to bear.

'Tis the strife that no man pities,
'Tis the cry that no man hears,
'Tis the victory undiscovered,
Save by secret sobs and tears.

Ah! my friends, when God's great angel
Cries aloud the deeds of light;
At the day when hearts are opened
In the holy Father's sight,

The greatest deeds and noblest
Will be those unheard of now;
Hidden under silent heartbeats,
And an uncomplaining brow.

Deeds of patient self rejection,
Wrung from hearts that make no moan;
Tender hearts that, like the Master's,
Tread the wine press all alone.

Hearts that purer grew and fairer,
In the struggles day by day,
Learning thus from holy teachers
How to labor and to pray.

Preaching from Yourself.

BY PROF. WILLIAM F. WILKINSON.

I have spoken of preaching from the Scripture. I have spoken of preaching to the occasion. But, besides scripturalness in preaching and besides opportuneness in preaching, there is a third characteristic desirable in preaching, which I may designate as individuality, personal character, subjectiveness, experience. The man himself who preaches ought to be in his preaching. The preacher should preach from himself. It is of preaching from himself that I wish here to speak to my fellow-minister.

My title makes it necessary that I should begin by explaining. I certainly do not mean that the preacher ought to derive his doctrine from himself, as from an independent and authoritative source of truth. Far from this. What I mean is that the preacher should take suggestion of theme for his sermons from his own personal experience. The natural history—if I may use such a term in this connection—the natural history of his own soul should record itself in his preaching. He should now and again seize upon ideas about which his own thoughts and feelings are earnestly and spontaneously engaging themselves, about which the inward history of his life is revolving, and make these the topics of his sermons. The danger here to be guarded against is that he be thus enticed into preaching tentative, provisional sermons. This he is in duty bound not to do. Not processes, but results, are for the pulpit. If you are struggling with some great doctrinal problem, if you are shaken to the basis of your being by some tremendous doubt, this matter is not yet ripe for broaching in pulpit discourse. Wait. Preach, when you have "arrived," or only so far as you have arrived. After the storm is overpast and the "serene result" is reached, then preach that result, and your sermon will be such as I here recommend. It will be racy of you. It will savor of what you have yourself experienced. It will be what in the old style, the good old style, was called an "experimental" sermon. Of course all your preaching should partake more or less of this quality. The experimental element ought to enter and qualify everything you say in the pulpit. But I am speaking now of distinctively and, as it were, exclusively experimental sermons. And one way of securing a proportion of such sermons in your ordinary tenor of pastoral preaching is consciously and firmly to resolve with yourself to draw a pulpit topic occasionally direct from the inward world of your own experience.

Sermons preached thus from yourself will possess a unique value. They will be living things. They will have the quick throb of your own heart in them. They will be real. They will be genuine. And nothing, after all, takes hold of men so as genuineness. Their genuineness—not genuineness in the technical sense of the apologists, but genuineness in the sense of absolute sincerity, honesty—is the strongest human quality in the writings of the Bible. What a bravo fetish of perfect sincerity stretches and quivers from end to end of Holy Writ! There is not one note anywhere in all the documents that falls below the key. The divine element not only does not hinder the human element in the Bible from being perfectly genuine; the human element there is too perfectly genuine not to have had help—special help, conventionally called inspiration, to be so—from God. The one thing that makes any literary work live is genuineness. The one thing that will make your preaching live and work in human hearts is genuineness in it. Genuineness is correspondence between what you say and what you are. Let what you are appear in what you say. This is preaching from yourself. Genuineness may be considered both as a negative quality and as a positive quality. Genuineness as a negative quality forbids you to say what you do not feel to be true. Genuineness as a positive quality impels you to say what you do feel to be true. In this positive sense of genuineness be genuine. Preach out of yourself.

Robertson did this. He did it, perhaps, too much. He would, I believe, have been a healthier Christian and a more wholesome preacher if he had subordinated the subjective element better to the objective in his preaching. Still, Robertson's habit of preaching from himself is largely what gives his sermons their power. They live, with the presence of the man, "vital in every part" of them. Their intense livingness fascinates. We feel that costly throb of the personal experience went into them.

Bushnell is another example of the preacher who preaches from himself. There is probably less "spiritual strife" in Bushnell's sermons than in Robertson's, but there is not less intellectual strife. Bushnell spoke out of what was in him. The same is the case with Dr. Phillips Brooks' sermons, recently published. These admirably compliment the author's "Yale Lectures on Preaching." You guess easily which ones among a collection of sermons were preached from the preacher himself. There would be little risk in affirming from internal evidence that Andrew Fuller's sermon on the text "All things work together for good to them that love God" was a product of the writer's experience. The synchronous record of his life about the date when the sermon was preached is confirmation, if any were needed. John Foster may be named as an author who writes out of thought rather than out of accumulation; from himself, that is to say, rather than from his acquisitions.

Sermons of other sorts are made. Sermons of this sort grow. Those may be got ready to order. These must wait for the slower genetic processes of advancing experience. They will not submit to be forced. They have their seasons—spring, summer, autumn. Winter even, a period of apparent inaction, may be a necessary stage of preparation. Let the land have her Sabbaths. "God has so arranged the chronometry of our spirits that there shall be thousands of silent moments between the striking hours." So James Martineau says, in his vivid, metaphoric way. And James Martineau, too—he is one that speaks and writes out of his own experience; an experience, however, modified with much acquisition. Let the land enjoy her Sabbaths; but, meantime, enrich the soil with accumulations of knowledge in every kind. Rich crops presuppose fat fertilizing. Make yourself the most in quantity; in quality, the best that is possible. The sermons that are to be you, if they are also to be valuable, must be you to the highest power.

No man is great enough within himself to preach in such a strain of sermons as I thus describe all the time, or half the time, or a quarter of the time. But every man that will pay the price is great enough to do it some part of the time. The price is, as I have indicated, sweat of brain. But the price is something beyond sweat of brain. It is also throe of heart, clear conscience, clean life. Genius alone, even with industry, cannot compass it. There will always be a something wanting to the sermon that comes out of the oratoric imagination merely, quickened, though that faculty be with ready sympathy and at work upon material amply supplied from wealthy knowledge of the human heart. The Pickwickian element of unreality cannot disguise itself deeply enough not to be discoverable if it be present. You must be downright true in the inward part and approved before God. Simulate here you may, to be sure, and deceive some—yourself perhaps, among the number; but not the elect and not God.

Of course the preaching that a man does from himself should and it may constantly grow richer and better as the man advances in age and experience. Here, at least, is every man's chance of constantly improving. The vigor of youth may do much, but it cannot supply the wisdom of experience. Alas! if wisdom of experience grow not as vigor of youth declines. Then the preacher is superseded prematurely. But he cannot complain. He deserved to be. The man that grows with growing age need not fear to be retired as superannuated. He may lose in the easy though fine vivacity of youthful blood; but he will gain more in the substance and mellowness of sweet wisdom.

Apart from the superior worth that thus will go into the sermon itself, there will be also a coefficient of added value in the manner of the preaching; for it is, indeed, true, as that wonderful diviner, Hawthorne, deeply says that "in youth men are apt to write more wisely than they really know or feel, and the remainder of life may be not idly spent in realizing and convincing themselves of the wisdom which they uttered long ago." "The truth," as Hawthorne proceeds to explain, "that was only in the fancy then may have since become a substance in the mind and heart." This more adequate realizing of truth on the part of the preacher qualifies him in later life to preach even the sermons of his earlier years with great increments of power. There is more man then to go into his words.

I have a method of experience to propose in the way of making my advice living and practical. It is a very simple method. It consists in obeying Christ. Obeying Christ—that is, meeting Christ personally in His express commandments, as made known in the Bible; consenting to these with heart and conscience and will, and translating them into life—this is the all smiling condition of a perpetually fresh experience, out of which you may preach as long as you live, with no fear of ever drawing your fountain dry. This fountain has a hidden connection with the inexhaustible heart of Christ. Obeying Christ will give any man an experience that will enable him to preach—occasionally, at least—a sermon that would be possible to no other man.

Let it not, however, be forgotten that in this paper I point out one method only of choosing subjects for sermons, among three methods to be practiced, all of them simultaneously. I recall, in conclusion, the full text of the tripartite rule proposed, and commit it to the consideration and judgment of my brethren in the ministry.

In ordinary pastoral preaching pursue simultaneously these three distinct methods of choosing subjects, viz.:

1. Follow a line of special scriptural investigation, either consecutive or in some other way independent, as far as may be, alike of your own individual experience and of the supposed present circumstances of your congregation.

2. Consult heedfully the current actual needs of your hearers.

3. Obey the suggestions furnished by your own intellectual and spiritual experience and development.

Briefly preach from the Bible; preach to the occasion; preach out of yourself. Do these things simultaneously.—Independent.

Religious Intelligence.

—Reports from Southern India indicate the continuance of the remarkable religious movement begun there a year ago. Our Madura missionaries are greatly encouraged. Our Baptist brethren among the Telooguos are anticipating another great accession, and are only waiting to test the sincerity of those who profess to be converts. A missionary of the London Society near Madras wrote recently: "Everywhere people are crying out for instruction. We have had about twelve hundred new adherents since January, 1879." Let prayer be made continually for India.

—Dr. Pusey, English Ritualist, acknowledges that he has for forty years received the confessions of all who came to him, and "these confessions, in many cases, became habitual at the when of those who made them." And he uttered these words as his reply to the words of the letter put forth by the one hundred bishops in the last Lambeth Council:—"It is the deliberate opinion of the Conference that no minister of the church is authorized * * * even to encourage the practice of habitual confession."

—At Hamadan, Persia, one of the oldest Jewish colonies in the world, a religious movement of the greatest interest is in progress. For months the question, "Is not Jesus the Messiah?" has been discussed with intense earnestness; and four of the leading men, heads of one thousand families, have been publicly baptized. A Nestorian helper is beset day and night with Jewish anxious to be instructed in the New Testament.

—M. Frere-Orban, Belgian minister of foreign affairs, has gone to Rome to negotiate with the Vatican regarding the attitude of the Belgian clergy. The threatened refusal of the sacraments to the elementary school teachers who keep their positions under the new system has induced the resignation of only 100 out of 7,500. The Belgian bishops have now instructed the clergy to refuse absolution to the parents of all children attending the public schools.

—The Brahmo-Somaj movement in India, of which Chunder Sen is the leader, has made considerable progress among the most cultivated Hindoos. There are now 110 Somajs at various places throughout the country, and forty-four places of worship. Four general and a large number of local schools are sustained by the society, and eighteen periodicals are published under its auspices.

—The statistics of the Protestant Church in Berlin for 1878 reveal some curious facts. Only sixty-nine per cent. of the Protestant children born in the year were baptized; only thirty-five per cent. of the marriages of Protestant couples were solemnized by a minister; and only 1,771 of the 9,535 Protestants who died were buried with religious services.

—Rev. Fergus Ferguson, recently suspended by the South Free Church for teaching Universalism, is defining his position. He says: "The punishment of unforgiven sin is everlasting in the sense of the highest kind—namely the loss of the life in God into which those only are admitted who believe in Christ now."

—The Colonial Bishoprics Fund and the Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge have promised £2,500 towards the endowment of the new Bishopric of Caledonia, in British Columbia. For the endowment of the Bishopric of New Westminster £7,050 has been promised.

—The largest Christian congregation in the world, with the exception of the Rev. C. Spurgeon's, is in the Sandwich Islands. It numbers 4,500 members, and it is in the memory of living men that the population from which the church was originally drawn were cannibals.

—The American Board has been disappointed in its expectations concerning the receipts of August, the closing month of its financial year. It needed $130,000, but received only $55,170, which is several thousand dollars less than was received in August, 1878.

—The Waldensian Church, overloaded as it is with a large and increasing evangelistic work, in its poverty maintains two hospitals at Latour, which Englishmen report to be "jewels of order, of comfort, and neatness."

—The Old Testament Company of the British Bible Revision Committee, held their fifty-ninth session a few weeks ago. The second revision of the Psalms was completed and the revision of Job was carried as far as chapter 15, 16.

—The Edinburgh United Presbyterian Presbytery has decided that in future, at the ordination of ministers, it shall be necessary only for the Moderator of the Presbytery to lay his hands on the head of the new minister.

—In connection with the recent sessions of the Church Congress in Great Britain, a meeting of the Funeral and Mourning Reform Association was held, and the object of the association was warmly endorsed.

—Pope Leo XIII. announces that he has decided not to suspend the rule which prescribes that a person cannot be pronounced "blessed" until fifty years after his death, in favor of the beatification of Pius IX.

—The great Cathedral at Cologne, which was begun in 1248, will be completed next spring, having been more than six and a quarter centuries in building. The capstones and crosses have yet to be placed on the towers.

—The Presbyterians of Canada are trying to secure an endowment for Queen's College, the only university they have. They have raised for this purpose $40,000 in Kingston, $15,000 in Toronto and $9,000 in Montreal.

—Two missionaries to eastern Turkey, under the patronage of the American Board, sailed for their field of labor, September 21. They were brothers, William N. and Robert Chambers. They are to be stationed at Erzeroum.

—Mr. Thomas Brassey, M. P., has offered a prize of £25 for the best handbook of suggestions to merchant officers willing to help their crews in spiritual matters, and to conduct divine worship on board ships at sea.

—The Orleans Cathedral is to be decorated with ten painted windows representing scenes in the life of Joan of Arc. A subscription of 125,000 francs to meet the expense was made almost as soon as it was asked for.

—The Christian Reformed Church of the Netherlands, which was formed in 1834 as a protest against the rationalizing tendencies in the Reformed Church of Holland, has now 300 ministers and 350 congregations.

—Three missions to seamen in Scotland take up the whole coast of the kingdom. One of them carries the gospel to 19,000 fishermen and 50,000 visiting sailors, employing fourteen missionaries in its work.

—Says the Advance: "The circulation of the Bible and of those books constituting the only intelligible Christian literature for the millions of Turkey, has reached nearly 100,000 volumes a year."

—A Baptist Missionary in Telooguo asks earnestly for teachers for the 10,000 recent converts. The heathen are endeavoring to win them back and the Romanists are also at work among them.

—The United Presbyterian Church of Scotland returns this year 544 congregations, and 175,066 members, showing an increase over last year of ten congregations and about 1,500 members.

—A circular has been addressed to the bishops throughout the Catholic world calling on them to promote a monster clerical pilgrimage to the Eternal City for the next Feast of the Epiphany.

—There is to be a Congregational Jubilee in England in 1881. Important practical religious and ecclesiastical questions of the age have been given out to be discussed by eminent divines.

—Seven of the chief missionary and Bible societies of London received this year a total income of $1,579,695, which is an increase of $675,000 over the receipts of the same societies in 1869.

—There are about four hundred thousand persons connected with the Christian Churches in India, China and Japan, besides 200,000 children receiving a Christian education.

—Another massacre at Tolnca, Mexico, is announced. It is not yet known how many were killed. The attack was on the Presbyterian mission in charge of Procopia Diaz.

—Rev. S. W. Marston, D. D., of St. Louis, has accepted the appointment of superintendent of missions at the South, under the American Baptist Home Missionary Society.

—It is estimated by the Wesleyan Christian Advocate that the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, has received as many as 20,000 persons since the summer began.

—It is said that about one seventeenth of the population of Vermont is enrolled in the membership of the Congregational Churches, the number being 20,117.

—The annual report of the British Wesleyan Missionary Society shows total receipts of $675,720 and expenditures amounting to $791,600.

—The Rev. H. J. Pare, for many years priest in charge of the Roman Catholic Mission at Ongar, England, has joined the Church of England.

—Three recent conversions of priests to Protestantism are announced in connection with the Protestant movement in France.

—Twenty-five hundred pilgrims left Paris on August 19 for Loudres. This is twice as many as joined the pilgrimage last year.

—It is said that a fourth of all the foreign missionaries sent out by the American Board are graduates of Amherst College.

—The missionaries sent out by the English Baptist Missionary Society, to San Salvador, have arrived at their destination.

—A number of Catholic Churches in various cities in Italy are being converted into Protestant places of worship.

—Evangelistic meetings are being held in Calcutta, India, and a very considerable religious interest is manifested.

—Two new churches have been organized in connection with the mission of the American Board in Japan.

—Either Bishop Gregg or Bishop Toke, of the British Reformed Episcopal Church, will soon visit America.

—There are only 13,750 benefices in the Church of England, while the number of clergymen is nearly 24,000.

—A sanatorium on the Island of Madeira for invalid missionaries from the west coast of Africa, is talked of.

—Bishop Dehm has 60,000 Catholics in his diocese, which embraces the whole of Roumania.

—The American Baptist Missionary Union has recently sent fifteen missionaries to India.

—At last reports the British Wesleyan Thanksgiving Fund had reached the sum of $800,000.

—Rev. William Taylor has sent fifteen missionary workers to India in the last year.

—Canon Sparke, of Ely Cathedral, left by will $800,000 to be divided among his heirs.

—The contributions to foreign missions in Great Britain last year were $5,563,965.

—Dean Stanley has been preaching in a Presbyterian Church near Perth, Scotland.

—The first church of the Church of England in Spain was opened June 22.

Our Young People.

A LITTLE BOY'S TROUBLE.

BY C. PERRY.

I thought when I'd learn my letters
That all of my troubles were done,
But I find myself much mistaken—
They have only just begun.
Learning to read was awful
But nothing like learning to write,
I'd be sorry to have you tell it,
But my copy-book looks a sight.

The ink gets over my fingers,
The pen cuts all sort of shines,
And won't do at all as I told it;
The letters won't stay on the lines
But go up and down and all over
As though they were dancing a jig,
They are there in all shapes and sizes
Medium, little and big.

The tails of the g's are so contrary,
The handles get on the wrong side
Of the d's and the k's and the b's,
Though I've certainly tried and tried
To make them just right, it is dreadful,
I really don't know what to do,
I am getting almost distracted—
My teacher says she is too.

There'd be some comfort in learning
If one could get through, but 'mid
Of that there are books awaiting,
Quite enough to cross my head.
There's the multiplication table,
And grammar, and, oh, dear me,
There's no end place for stopping,
When one has begun, I see.

My teacher says a little by little,
To the mountain top we climb,
It don't all come in a minute,
But only a step at a time.
She says that all the scholars,
All the wise and learned men
Had each to begin at the bottom
If that's so, where's my pen?

—White Awake.

From Our Little Friends.

ANOTHER MISSIONARY GIFT.

MERIDIAN, MISS., Nov. 12, 1879.

Mr. Editor: I am a little boy, not quite twelve years old. Enclosed, I send you fifty cents for the China mission. This is money that I made myself, chopping wood for the Methodist preacher on this circuit. I know this is very little, but it leaves only ten cents in my "Bank." May the Lord's blessing go with it! Your little friend,

HARRY BRADFORD.

Note by the Editor.—The fifty cents received, we will forward it for China mission as desired. Let other boys follow Harry's good example.

Henry I., Beau-Clerc,

A. D. 1100-1135

Henry, the brother of William Rufus, was one of the hunting party; and as soon as the cry spread through the forest that the king was dead he rode off at full speed to Winchester, and took possession of all his brother's treasure. William Rufus had never been married, and left no children; and Henry was much the least violent and most sensible of the brothers; and, as he promised to govern according to the old laws of England, he did not find it difficult to persuade the people to let him be crowned king.

He was not really a good man, and he could be very cruel sometimes, as well as false and cunning; but he kept good order, and would not allow such horrible things to be done as in his brother's time. So the English were better off than they had been, and used to say the king would let no one break the laws but himself. They were pleased, too, that Henry married a lady who was half English—Maude, the daughter of Malcolm Greathead, King of Scotland, and of a lady of the old English royal line. They loved her greatly, and called her Good Queen Maude.

Robert came back to Normandy, and tried to make himself King of England; but Henry soon drove him back. The brothers went on quarrelling for some years, and Robert managed Normandy miserably, and wasted his money, so that he sometimes had no clothes to wear, and lay in bed for want of them.

Some of the Normans could not bear this any longer, and invited Henry to come and take the dukedom. He came with an army, many of whom were English, and fought a battle with Robert and his faithful Normans at Tenchebray, in Normandy. They gained a great victory, and the English thought it made up for Hastings. Poor Robert was made prisoner by his brother, who sent him off to Cardiff Castle, in Wales, where he lived twenty-eight years, and then died, and was buried in Gloucester Cathedral, with his figure made in bog-oak over his monument.

Henry had two children—William and Maude. The girl was married to the Emperor of Germany, and the boy was to be the husband of Alice, daughter to the Count of Anjou, a great French Prince, whose lands were near Normandy. It was the custom to marry children very young, then, before they were old enough to leave their parents and make a home for themselves. So William was taken by his father to Anjou, and there married to the little girl, and then she was left behind, while he was to return to England with his father. Just as he was going to embark, a man came to the king, and begged to have the honor of taking him across in his new vessel, called the White Ship, saying that his father had steered William the Conqueror's ship. Henry could not change his own plans; but, as the man begged so hard, he said his son, the young bridegroom, and his friends might go in the White Ship. They sailed in the evening, and there was a great merry-making on board, until the sailors grew so drunk that they did not know how to guide the ship, and ran her against a rock. She filled with water and began to sink. A boat was lowered, and William safely placed in it; but, just as he was rowed off, he heard the cries of the ladies who were left behind, and caused the oarsmen to turn back for them. So many drowning wretches crowded into it, as soon as it came near, that it sank with their weight, and all were lost. Only the top-mast of the ship remained above water, and to it clung a butcher and the owner of the ship all night long. When daylight came, and the owner knew that the king's son was really dead, and by his fault, he lost heart, let go the mast and was drowned. Only the butcher was taken off alive; and for a long time no one durst tell the king what had happened. At last a boy was sent to fall at his feet, and tell him his son was dead. He was a broken-hearted man, and never knew gladness again all the rest of his life.

His daughter Maude had lost her German husband, and came home. He made her marry Geoffrey of Anjou, the brother of his son's wife, and called upon all his chief noblemen to swear that they would take her for their queen in England, and their duchess in Normandy after his own death.

He did not live much longer. His death was caused in the year 1135 by eating too much of the fish called lamprey, and he was buried in Reading Abbey.—Golden Hours for September.

Iron-Shod.

The safety of a mountain-climber depends upon being well shod. Therefore the Swiss guides wear heavy shoes with sharp spikes in the soles.

On a bright July morning a famous scientist of England started with two gentlemen to ascend the Piz Morteratsch, a steep and lofty snow-mountain in Switzerland.

Though experienced mountaineers, they took with them Jenni, the boldest guide in that district. After reaching the summit of the Morteratsch, they started back, and soon arrived at a steep slope covered with thin snow. They were lashed together with a strong rope, which was tied to each man's waist.

"Keep carefully in my steps, gentlemen," said Jenni, "for a false step here might start the snow, and send us down in an avalanche."

He had scarcely spoken, when the whole field of snow began to slide down the icy mountain-side, carrying the unfortunate climbers with it at a terrible pace. A steeper slope was before them, and at the end of it a precipice! The three foremost men were almost buried in the whirling snow. Below them were the jaws of death. Everything depended upon getting a foothold.

Jenni shouted loudly, "Halt, halt!" and with desperate energy drove his iron-nailed boots into the firm ice beneath the moving snow.

Within a few yards of the precipice Jenni got a hold with his feet, and was able to bring the party up all standing, when two seconds more would have swept them into the chasm.

This hair-breadth escape shows the value of being well shod when in dangerous places. Life is full of dangerous places, especially for the young. No boy is prepared for rough climbing unless he is well shod with Christian principles. Sometimes temptation ices the track under him, and then he must plant his foot down with an iron heel, or he is gone.

A poor boy, of my acquaintance, signed a pledge never to taste liquor. One day his rich employer invited him to dinner. There was wine on the table, but the lad was not ashamed to say:

"No, I thank you, sir. I never touch it."

Then came on a rich pudding, which the boy tasted, and found that there was brandy in it; so he quietly laid the tasted morsel back on his plate. The employer discovered that the boy had principle enough to stand by his convictions, and he will never be afraid to trust him. He is a sure-footed boy.

God knows what steep places lie before us. He has provided the "shoes of iron and brass" for us to put on. They are truth, and honesty, and faith, and courage, and prayer.

A clear conscience will keep the heart sound. And up along the hard road there is a sign-board on which is written in large, bright letters, "He that walketh uprightly, walketh surely."—Rev. Theodore L. Cuyler.

THE PARADISE OF BABIES.—The real "Paradise of Babies" is Japan,—as has been said many times,—for not only do the children have every imaginable toy, but many persons get their living by amusing them. Men go about the streets and blow soap bubbles from pipes that have no bowls as ours have. These young Japanese toys, stilts, top-guns, blow-guns, magic lanterns, kaleidoscopes, wax figures, terra-cotta animals, flying fish and dragons, masks, puzzles, and games; butterflies and beetles that fly after about; turtles that move their legs and pop out their heads; birds that fly about, and peck the fingers and whistle; paste board targets that, when hit, burst open and let a winged figure fly out; and—most wonderful of all, perhaps—little balls looking like elderpith, which, thrown into bowls of warm water, slowly expand into the shape of a boat, or a fisherman, a tree, flower, crab, or bird.

The girls of Japan have dolls' furniture and dishes, and, of course, dolls. They have dolls that walk and dance; dolls that put on a mask when a string is pulled; dolls dressed to represent nobles, ladies, ministers, mythological and historical personages. Dolls are handed down for generations, and in some families are hundreds of them. They never seem to get broken or worn out, as yours do; and, in fact, they can hardly be the dear playmates that yours are. They are kept as a sort of show; and, though the little owners play with them, they do not dress and undress them and take them to bed, as you do. A good deal of the time they are rolled up in silk paper and packed away in a trunk. On the great festival day of the Japanese girls,—the Feast of Dolls, of which no doubt you have heard,—there is a great show of dolls and toys, and it is the event of the year for the queer little black-eyed maidens. The Feast of Flags is the boys' great day, and they have banners, flags, figures of warriors and great men, swords, and other toys suitable for boys.—Olive Thorne, in St. Nicholas.

The Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE ALABAMA MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES OF THE M. E. CHURCH SOUTH.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 27, 1879.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

The Time of Trial.

What is called the gay season is at hand. The skating rink, the ball-room, the theaters will soon be, if they are not already, in full blast. The carnival of worldly pleasure and of social and fashionable dissipation, will test the genuineness and strength of the Christian character. They will show who is on the Lord's side, and who have the firmness to resist the torrent of worldliness. Who are lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God will be seen in the course taken by those who have professed to renounce the devil and all his works.

Frivolity and revel become epidemic during the winter months, and garments, that ought to be kept unspotted, are frequently smirched and polluted. What should be a season of religious progress is to many a time of backsliding. Instead of growing in grace, they relax their vigilance in prayer, and are diverted from the house of God by the attractions of the tents of wickedness.

There are, of course, many social companies, and some recreations that are in accord with the spiritual life, and wholesome in their influence. But there is always danger. Those who cater to the public taste for amusements, and lead in the scenes of mirthful gayety, care nothing for God, and have no sense of spiritual things. The children of this world are far enough from being in sympathy with the children of light. There are Christians, who are so only in profession, who will draw unwary and weak believers into the vortex. The worldly professor is always glad to have the company and countenance of others, and to be able to say that certain others of the church were with them at the circus or the theater.

The season will try the young people who have recently given their hearts to the Saviour, or those who have but lately set out as seekers after God. Will they stand firm against this drift of ungodliness and folly? Or will they forget their solemn vows, and yield to the delusion that godless, sensual and vicious associations can do them no harm? Only the bold and decided course is the safe one. Have the courage to say no to every solicitation to indulge in pleasures that compromise in the slightest degree the character and example of a child of God.

The world and the true disciple are not one. God's people are "a peculiar people," and, if we are of them, we must dare to be peculiar and to be separate. The season will leave many shipwrecks in its path. Some who are now halting and debating will have fallen, and when the glowing hours of the winter's excitements are over they will find themselves poorer in purse, injured in health, and, worse than all, "having no hope, and without God in the world."

The Bright Side.

The bright side of everything is the Christian side. To the Christian there is no dark side. All is bright. His belief in God, in Providence, in a future life, throw a radiance upon every step in his path, and banish all shadows from his experience.

It is an effort with the irreligious to find the bright side of things earthly. It requires a determination, an exertion of will, and a dogged resolution for him to discover the cheerful aspect of the circumstances that surround him. He must reason, sift, scan, and weigh all the details, and at last he is to find in his search for the light that he would persuade himself of. Things might be worse, and he finds a certain dim satisfaction in the resolve to hide the grounds of his fears from his own eyes.

Without God there is really none but a dark side to human destiny. Life is surely not worth living if there be no joyful hereafter. The only happiness possible lies in the arrest of serious thought, and in the banishment of the end from the mind altogether. The philosophy of sense, with all thought of the eternal excluded, is: "Eat us and drink, for to-morrow we die." In suffering there is nothing but unmitigated evil.

Men without hope, and with no spiritual peace, may have a kind of insane delight in the pleasures of the world, but in all tion they are desolate indeed. Things may seem to be well for the present, but we never continue in one stay, and the current bears us swiftly onward to the yawning gulf of nothingness, or worse. We cannot see how there can be anything but a dark side to those who have cast themselves adrift upon the cheerless waste of doubt and sin. There is no bright side for unbelief in this world, and none to the world to come.

On the other hand, there is nothing dark in the way of righteousness. There is healing in the wings of the Sun of Righteousness. Heaven explains all the passages of sorrow here. Eternity comes in to solve the problem of our earthly existence. All is clear when we reflect upon the need of discipline, and when we know that all things work together for good to them that love God. If experience be sound, if faith be lively, there is no shadow upon the scene. The Christian does not hunt for the bright side, because there is for him no other side. He does not shut his eyes to the realities of affliction and death, but, with open face beholding them, he finds nothing but brightness in them. He does not search for the spots of light upon the field of conflict and struggle, but he levels in a flood of unclouded sunshine under every sky. God and Providence and the atmosphere of the immortal are about him whithersoever he journeys, and he reckons "that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory that shall be revealed in us."

We hear worldly people talk about looking on the bright side of things, and we see them striving in their way to realize what is a mere phantom, and a fiction of the deluded heart, let them take Christ for their portion, and every shadow flies, and life and death, and things present, and things to come, are all one with the provisions of God's love. How there can be any thing gloomy in all this, anything cheerless, miserable, anything that horror and despair in the grave, without the sense of God and the surprises of a future life, is beyond our conception. And now a few dutiful years of health and prosperity can invest a momentary gleam of consciousness, that goes out like a fading aurora, with any deep and genuine satisfaction. It is just as inconceivable

The bright side of this world is in the heavenward pent and movement that brings us nearer to Him who is the light of the world. The eclipse of faith shrouds all souls in the darkness of endless night.

Our Tenets and Practices.

It is a bad cause that must be vindicated by misrepresenting another church. And yet this is the main argument of the Northern Methodists in support of their ecclesiastical occupancy in the South. As a sample, a very moderate sample, of this kind of reasoning, take the following extract from a recent communication in the New York Methodist by Rev. Dr. Bristor, pastor of Ames Methodist Episcopal Church, in New Orleans:

"The tenets and practices of the M. E. Church South are of such a character as only partisans can carry. Nobody familiar with any tolerably examined sect can fear from a new sect not preachers, like the Universalists, Episcopalians, nor Freewill Baptists. The unwritten belief of the church strongly opposes a public school system, arises from the ignorance of the masses, believes in knowledge as the support and pillar of both church and state. The M. E. Church, South, does not encourage this and so is not to be classed with the public schools. Not as a church authority do we, as white people, have the freedom of religious and political action we demand, but, God, thankfully we accept blessings. If the religious public sentiment of the new South is in favor of temperance, then we are in favor of temperance. If the spiritual and moral tone of our church are correct, then we are correct. This is the creed of that vast territory, recently conquered by one of those theological sects, that there is no use of official action, however urgent they may be, for every preacher knows his duty, and every member knows his duty, and they are only responsible to the Holy Spirit. Bishops, as well known, had a trouble to get the recent General Conference of the M. E. Church, South, to pass a resolution against the use of tobacco, and even then only by a majority of the voting annual conferences. Is it because in the South this evil does not have such direful examples as are seen in the North? Besides, before that preponderate in the neighborhoods the South has more drunkenness by far than any other section of the country; said one of the leading ministers of the southwestern part of the M. E. Church, South, to the writer who did not as he ever a temperance address in the entire room at his church: 'I cannot make a speech in favor of this temperance work; I do not believe in it.' If a many of our preachers would be permitted to hold such loose views about this subject and not be called to account? And yet that truth of ours, as it has taken by his orders warrant of God, all such men as questions the great doctrine of our church. Every moral evil spreads as if [illegible] in the South; certain [illegible] circumstances seem to [illegible] many phases of wrong to come in the warmer climates; if any thing is needed it is a religion that makes no compromise, that has no "uncertain sound in the day of battle." That is the position of our church everywhere; certainly so in theory, so we believe in practice.

The charge against the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, that we do not advocate public schools, is, so far as we can judge without foundation. That individuals here and there may have opposed them is possible, but we believe our Southern Methodists, as a body, are heartily in favor of them. Their organization and support here, as in the North, are devolved upon the State, but there has never been a deliverance by us, as a church, against them. Our public schools in Louisiana, and the funds belonging to them, especially, were sadly mismanaged by the carpet-bag plunderers some years back, Parson Conway being superintendent, but the State, up to the measure of its ability, keeps up the public school system, and the Southern Methodists, in common with other Protestant citizens, contribute their part to their advocacy and support. The war, followed by years of Republican misrule and corruption, left many of our Southern States without adequate means, but the most, if not all of them, are doing what they can to foster and build up common schools. We do not know a Southern Methodist who is not in favor of them. If there be such, it will be found that their views are based upon other grounds than a desire to keep the masses in ignorance. We know a number of excellent Southern Methodists who teach colored public schools, and this with no loss of the esteem and respect of the church. There may be individuals in the Southern Church, and also in the Northern, who oppose the general education of the people, but in neither can they be regarded as representing the feelings and convictions of the great body of membership. Our efforts as a church to build and sustain schools and colleges are not, perhaps, what they should be, but they are, all things considered, creditable to us.

In regard to temperance, it is true that our Conferences declined to change the General Rule on that subject, and on the ground that further legislation was not needed. It was believed, by those who opposed the change, that it would open the door for special legislation on every moral question, and that the cause of temperance would be rather injured than helped by it. On this ground the General Conference has declined to legislate, specially, on theater going and dancing, because the principles of the General Rules and of the Scriptures are sufficient. So thought those who opposed further legislation on the subject of temperance. We have no doubt that those who held these views were as strong total abstinence men as Dr. Bristor himself, and that they were just as much opposed to the whisky traffic. We may differ as to the expediency and benefits of special church legislation, but we believe that the Southern Church is as sound in the principles, and as exemplary in the practice, of temperance as any church existing.

There may be more drunkenness in the South than in the North. We have not examined the statistics. Since their emancipation intemperance has become a fearfully increasing evil among the negroes, and this in spite of the dominant influence of Northern preachers among them. More drunkenness in the South, perhaps, but more opium-eating, more business frauds, more professional abortionists, more domestic infidelity, and more divorces in the North. That temperance lecture was delivered in a Southern Methodist Church, and the pastor who could not make a speech "in favor of this temperance work" is practically a total abstainer, and so teaches. There is not another pastor on the district who does not preach temperance, and who has not delivered lectures and addresses in special advocacy of it. It would not have answered Dr. Bristor's purpose to have noted that one of our ablest preachers in New Orleans and in Louisiana has devoted himself almost exclusively to the temperance work for the past twenty five years. He probably delivered temperance lectures before Dr. Bristor was born, and has been at it ever since. In the various temperance organizations here the Southern Methodists have a large and prominent representation, and at many of our Annual Conferences there are able and strong reports presented and adopted.

It is very common for men to come down here from the North with the idea that they alone can teach us the value of education and the duty of temperance, and that the "true ring" of godliness has never been heard before. They are the men, and wisdom is to perish with them. So think Dr. Fowler, Bishop Haven and Dr. Bristor. We do not enter into the general question of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the South. Where their work is carried on in a right spirit, and for legitimate ends, no one can object. But if this work cannot be vindicated without slandering and misrepresenting the Southern Churches and people, it surely has no business here.

Immerse Vs. Baptize.

MR. EDITOR: The Copiahan of the eleventh instant, a paper published in Hazlehurst, Miss., has an article in it noticing the fact that Rev. Alex. A. Lomax, the pastor of the Baptist Church in that place, in receiving thirteen persons into his church by baptism, substituted the word immerse for the scriptural term baptize, saying to each candidate: "I immerse thee," etc. In the next week's paper Mr. Lomax comes out in defense of his "immerse," by which he substituted the New Testament term, baptize, and quotes more than a dozen uninspired lexicographers and scholars to prove that the original word, from which we derive our scriptural term baptize and its cognates, ought to be translated, immerse, and only immerse. Now all this parade of uninspired lexicographers and scholars is only calculated to deceive and mislead the uninstructed and unwary. Every well-informed, classical scholar knows that the original word, both in Hebrew and Greek, from which our word baptize, with its cognates, is derived, is a generic term—that is, has a variety of meanings—which can only be determined, in any given case, by its connection with the subject under consideration. Its general use expresses the mode by which persons or things are purified by water, either really or emblematically. Hence, in the Hebrew Scriptures, it is generally used in connection with the ablution of persons, furniture, vessels, etc. In some places it may imply immersion; in many places it necessarily implies affusion. Now the only question which concerns us as to the mode of baptism is: Which of the various meanings of the original word was selected by the inspired writers of the New Testament to express the mode of applying the water in the required ordinance of baptism? Without doubt John the Baptist, Jesus Christ and the apostles understood the meaning they intended to convey by the word they used to express the mode of applying water in baptism. And just here the divergence between the immersionists and affusionists commences. The anti-Pedo-Baptists infer the mode of immersion from mere incidental circumstances, which are, in a few cases, mentioned in connection with the administration of baptism, such as baptizing in Jordan, going into and coming up out of the water, being buried by baptism, etc.; whereas the Pedo-Baptists infer their mode of affusion in baptism from the plain scriptural meaning of the word itself. Let us now, for a few moments, lay aside all this ostentatious parade of outside lexicographers, both ancient and modern, and learn what John the Baptist, our Saviour and the inspired writers of the New Testament teach in regard to their meaning of the word baptize. Their authority ought to be admitted by all Christian people.

Let us first have the testimony of John the Baptist as to his meaning of the word baptize. In Matthew iii, 11, he says: "I, indeed, baptize you with water unto repentance." Now, if a woman says, "I sweep the floor with the broom," she means that she applies the broom to the floor, and not the floor to the broom. If a man says, "I brush my coat with the brush, he means that he applies the brush to the coat, and not the coat to the brush"; so if John the Baptist baptized with water, he applied the water to the person, and not the person to the water, as is always done in cases of immersion. But the remaining part of the verse is demonstrative evidence of his understanding of the word he used: "But he that cometh after me shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost, and with fire." The Baptist here uses the word baptize to express the mode by which the Holy Ghost is received. Now we read nowhere in the Scriptures of any person or congregation being immersed, dipped, plunged or buried in the Holy Ghost, but he is always represented as descending like a dove, being poured out, falling upon, fell on them; the Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, etc.; always by affusion, and never by immersion; so that John the Baptist understood the word baptize, as he used it, to mean to descend upon, to come upon, to be poured out upon, etc. All the evangelists adopt his meaning of the word, so does our Saviour, in Acts i, 5, and so does Peter, in Acts xi, 16. They each indorse John the Baptist's affusion mode of the two baptisms. St. Paul evidently understood baptism to be by affusion, for he asserts, in First Corinthians x, 1, 2, that all the host of Israel, in their passage through the Red sea, "were all baptized unto Moses in the cloud and in the sea." Now turn to Exodus xiv, and you will there see that the sea was made dry land, and that the host of Israel went over on dry ground, and, of course, were not baptized by immersion. I might quote many inferential arguments from the New Testament to show that its numerous authors understood the word baptize, as used by them, to mean only affusion, but it would be superfluous to an unprejudiced and candid mind to do it.

Let us now, in conclusion, make the application of what has been written. We must bear in mind that, though, as a matter of convenience, both to the administrator and subjects, some baptisms took place in the river Jordan, at Enon, where there was much water, that Christ came up out of the water, that Philip and the eunuch both went down into and came up out of the water, yet none of these incidental circumstances constituted the baptism and might have occurred a thousand times without a single baptism. The baptism, though mentioned sometimes in connection with places and other attendant circumstances, was a separate and distinct act between the administrator and subject. In all the baptisms mentioned in the New Testament, so far as baptism with water is concerned, not one word is said about any one being immersed, dipped or plunged. It is simply said they were baptized. What does the word baptize mean, as understood and used by John the Baptist, our Saviour, the evangelists and apostles? They all understood it to mean to descend upon, to come upon, to fall upon, and to be poured out upon; from thence I infer that whatever the incidental circumstances connected with the numerous baptisms mentioned might have been, the portion of water used in baptism was taken up and applied by affusion, for this is the scriptural meaning of baptism. By the above argument, more elaborately discussed, I believe, in the course of my somewhat protracted ministry, I have satisfied thousands of honest minds that baptism by sprinkling or pouring is the New Testament mode.

J. G. JONES.

Opelousas Notes.—French Mission.

DEAR MR EDITOR: At our Conference held last June at Vermillionville, La., it was resolved that special collections be raised at the various stations in the district toward the support of the French missionary. It was furthermore suggested by the brethren that he visit the larger towns, in order to stimulate, by his presence, the generosity of the churches. In accordance with this view, and at the behest of my beloved presiding elder, I started for Opelousas, and now, on my return, I wish to express, through your columns, my gratitude for kindness received.

For more than one reason am I thankful that the appointing powers ruled this visit. It is due the Opelousas Church to state that they heartily responded to the pastor's call on the money question. Thirty-one dollars in subscription and cash was the answer, while on a scrip figured this welcome donation: A suit of clothes. The next day the kind donor had me choose the very best, as a Conference suit. Twenty-one dollars filled this bill, making the Sabbath collection amount to $52. To the gift "hangs a tale." Years ago a gentleman finds himself through adverse circumstances, sans le sou, on a foreign shore. Trusting in God, Providence assists him in the darkest hour, and enables him to return to the Attakapas. Settling down, he soon rises to affluence once more among the French. In his prosperity he forgets not his past estate, but determines to require his debt to the Almighty. The occasion presents itself in the shape of a traveling missionary attired in dusty, worn-out garb. As the French were the means of his rising anew, so good Dr. Foster, your old correspondent, resolved that their preacher of his Conference would reap the benefit. May the Lord remember this for good.

Later on a friendly carpenter accosting me, thrust a $5 note into my hand, with the admonition: "Not for you, but for the missionary baby," my own bonnie Bess, but eight months old. Here, again, I received $1 from Sister Womack, Greensburg, La., for French mission.

Leaving the money matters, I come to the chief cause for rejoicing at my Opelousas trip. Never, as long as I live, can I forget it. It shines on my life as a bright ray through a covered sky. Here with quiet John Wynn, and tender Bro. Manly, my soul dipped deep into the secret things of the Most High. Although clear on the point of acceptance in the Beloved, still, as I looked on the past, and thought of the future, I felt the need of a deeper work of grace in my heart, and a more powerful baptism of the Holy Ghost for my special French work. I groaned after the fulfilling of my ordination vows. In the pastor's office we three knelt, and agonized, and wrestled, and wept together. By faith in the cleansing blood we obtained the blessing. Holiness, as taught by John Wesley, became our theme, and the church soon united with us in the same holy effort. We praised the Lord in Charles Wesley's own soul-stirring words on holiness. Several professed the great blessing, and testified to it, not so much by shouting as by beaming countenance and willing work. It was, indeed, a pentecostal time to my own soul. Even as I write I feel the sacred glow, and glorify God for the Tabor blessing. The result was good, old wounds were healed, forgiveness implored and granted, and holy aspirings after entire sanctification, as expressed in our Bishop's address, burned within. Thank God that we belong to a scriptural holiness church!

After three weeks' loving work we broke up the camp. On my return, passing through Vermillionville, I put up with kind Dr. Hopkins, who, although a Baptist, keeps open doors for Methodist preachers. He handed me $10, just received in answer to his letter, from Capt. E. D. Wimberly and wife, Wesson, Miss., for French mission. May my Heavenly Father bless all these kind givers to a righteous cause.

Yours truly,

WILLIAM F. [illegible].

New Iberia, La., Nov. 11, '79.

The temperance Alliance of [illegible] city has recently put [illegible] ticket and platform. The ticket has on it for State officers:

Hon. Daniel Dennett, of Orleans, for Governor. Hon. Thomas Overton, of Avoyelles, for Lieutenant Governor. Hon. J. L. Mays, of Lincoln, for Secretary of State. Mr. Robert M. Mosher, of Orleans, for Superintendent of Public Education. Hon. Robert J. Bowman, of Rapides, for Attorney General. Mr. Henry S. Bell, of Orleans, for State Auditor.

The following is a part of the platform:

We shall favor the passage of a statute, Sunday law suppressing all sales of intoxicating liquors without infringing upon the rights of any citizen to deport himself in any manner he may see proper, provided he does not infringe upon the rights of others, because the passage of such a law is absolutely necessary in order to reduce crime, and thereby reduce taxation, and because it will protect manual labor from demoralization, and greatly enhance our agricultural productions.

We shall, without fear or favor, protect all citizens, white or black, in all their civil and legal rights, and frown upon any unjust oppression, come from what quarter it may.

Political affairs, especially in New Orleans, are somewhat mixed. A very serious dissatisfaction exists among many of the Democratic citizens in regard to the nominations for parochial offices and for members of the Legislature. We have this to say to those who choose to hear: Don't vote for corrupt or incapable men, no matter on what ticket their names appear, and do all that is possible toward the election of men who are opposed to the Sunday liquor trade, and the legalization of lotteries, and other forms of gambling. Good men everywhere ought to combine for the purpose of putting down vice, and for the election of worthy men to office.

Bishop Peck, writing in the Western Christian Advocate, says:

Moreover the Conference means the highest and greatest responsibility. If men might accept these high functions and rest on a lifetime giving no account of the manner in which they had discharged them, qualifying duty by convenience, and pleading untenable excuses to conscience for unfaithfulness and insincerity, this would indeed be a solecism, a high absurdity in the government of God! We are certainly to answer to Him every day, and at the final judgment for the manner in which we have met these high prerogatives, and have also to acknowledge the rights and authority of "the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth," to call us to account, search and condemn us as heretics and turn away from us, or pass upon us their high approval, echoing the voice of God. Thus from the East and the West, the North and the South, we gather to report in strict candor what the Lord has done by us. If we must say "unfaithful," alas! it is terrible; but if it is true, the truth must come out. If we can say, "Lord, even the devils are subject to us in Thy name," to have Him answer, "I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven," it is well, grandly well. Our figures are not mere figures, nor do they tell merely of numbers enrolled, else they would be the same as any society or civil census. They mean souls, immortal souls snatched from ruin—stars newly set in the coronet of the Redeemer. They mean wholesome discipline. They mean no accumulating fortunes, but the pittance with which lives invaluable to the world have been preserved. They mean the children and youths borne from the frosts of the world to the warm embrace of Him who said, "Suffer little children to come unto Me," and so on. Minutes are not records for time merely, but for eternity. We cannot thoughtfully turn over their pages without feeling the awe of God upon us. With what searchings of heart, with what stern review of the year, do we have it whispered or thundered in the depths of our being, "Every one of us must give account of himself to God." Like solemn preparation for the judgment-day should be our closing up the year for the Annual Conference sessions. As nearly as possible like the scrutiny of the great assizes should be the examination of character.

"Help Those Women."

MR. EDITOR: I desire personally, and in behalf of the Mississippi Conference Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, to extend thanks to Rev. Dr. W. E. M. Linfield for his earnest words in encouragement of our young and yet feeble enterprise, published in the last number of the ADVOCATE. We need not withhold or disguise the fact that we have felt some disappointment that the noble cause of "woman's work for heathen women" has not been more heartily responded to and more zealously advocated. We so much need the counsel and assistance of our pastors. Without that we would fain look for any fruits of our labors. Our annual meeting will soon be held at Meridian, when we hope to have favorable reports from every place where it is practicable to organize a society. Again, I thank Dr. Linfield for his words of cheer, and trust his eloquent voice may awaken throughout our Conference a zealous interest in this great Christian work. Will not our pastors help us?

MRS. CHAS. B. GALLOWAY,
Pres't Miss. Conf. W. F. M. S.
VICKSBURG, Nov. 17, 1879.

DO A GOOD THING.—We have on our mail list at least thirty or forty poor people, some of them widows of preachers, who value the ADVOCATE next to their Bibles, and yet they are not able to pay for it. Our burdens are all we can stand, or the paper would be cheerfully given them. We have in other years received donations to pay for such cases. Are there not liberal minded brethren and sisters who will come to the relief of these worthy people who find comfort and pleasure in a religious paper, and who, by reason of penury, are forced to do without it? It is an opportunity of doing a genuine kindness to those who are deserving.

—We learn that Bishop Keener was summoned unexpectedly to attend the North Georgia Conference which was to meet at Augusta on the twenty-sixth instant. Bishop Doggett is reported to be seriously ill. Bishop Keener left on Monday morning last.

—The Southern Methodist Churches of this city unite in holding thanksgiving service at the Carondelet Street Church, at eleven o'clock to-day, Thursday morning, November 27.

—Rev. J. M. Johnson, Caddo circuit, Louisiana Conference, writes: "We are closing up on Caddo circuit, our third year. Better than the two preceding years."

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.—All persons, other than regular clerical members of the above Conference, who design to attend the same, will please notify the undersigned at once, in order that homes may be provided.

Arrangements are being made with all the leading lines of railroad for reduced rates of fare.

C. A. APPLE, P. C.

Books and Periodicals.

CHRISTIANS OR DISCIPLES. A discussion by Rev. S. Nolan, of the Kentucky Conference, and T. G. Allen, No. 14 Cedar Street, Southern Methodist Publishing House 1879.

We have already published notices of this discussion. The pamphlet is highly endorsed and commended by Dr. McFerrin and others. Price 10 cents per copy, or $5 10 per dozen. Those who are troubled with Campbellism will find the work useful.

—Every Day Songs is the title of a collection of songs with music by Henry Schoefler. Published by R. W. Carroll & Co., Cincinnati. About one-half of the book is devoted to secular songs, sentimental, humorous, patriotic; the rest are sacred songs and hymns. There are many good pieces in the volume. The first pages are devoted to a course of elementary instruction for learners. Price, thirty-five cents.

—Scribner's Monthly for December has: The Capitol of New York, Illustrated; Brother Antonio, Illustrated; Two Visits to Victor Hugo, with portrait; Poems by American Women; The John Hopkins University, Illustrated; Confidence, chapters 9, 10; Coffee Culture in Brazil, Illustrated; Success with Small Fruits—Strawberries for Home and Market, Illustrated; The Grandissimes, chapters 7-12; Waiting for Winter; Bayard Taylor, His Poetry and Literary Career; Under High Pressure; Nature and the Poets; Oddities of Paris; Topics of the Time; Home and Society; Culture and Progress; The World's Work; Brica-Brac.

—Appleton's Journal for December has: Memoirs of Madame de Remusat; Vivian the Beauty; Some Aspects of Robert Burns; The Seamy Side; Parliamentary Government in America; Charles James Mathews; Domestic Art; Fragments—Dr. Hillebrand on Modern England—George Eliot As a Godless Writer; Editor's Table; Books of the Day.

—The North American Review for December has: 1. Romanism and the Irish Race in the United States, part 1—James Anthony Froude. 2. Young Men in Politics—George S. Boutwell. 3. The Religion of To-Day. 4. Is Political Economy a Science?—Prof. Bonamy Price. 5. English and American Physique—George M. Beard. 6. The Permanence of Political Forces, part 1—Cuthbert Mills. 7. Recent Literature—Hector Berlioz; The Edinburg Reviewers, Sergeant S. Prentiss, by John R. G. Hossard.

—The National Repository for December has: The Upper Mohawk Valley, illustrated; Phillip William Otterbein; The Old Home; Cotemporary Life in Turkey; Vanities of Nations; Romance of Christmas; My Land of Beulah; Madame De La Rochefoucald; An Autumn Song; The Quest of El Dorado; Editorial Miscellany.

—Wide Awake for December is beautifully and profusely illustrated. Among its many attractive articles are: Sammy Scalkin's Enemy; The Chinese Professor at Harvard College; Our American Artists—David Neal; Why Mammy Delphy's Baby Was Named Grief; Among Some Sewing Schools; The Pet Squirrel.

—Lippincott's Magazine for December has: Among the Biscayans, illustrated; Summerland Sketches; or Rambles in the Backwoods of Mexico and Central America, chapter 5; La Tierra Fria, illustrated; The City of the Sample; The Impressionist School of Painting; English Coffee Palaces, illustrated; Foreign Education for Young Republicans—its Advantages and Disadvantages; In the Backwoods of Carolina; Poisoning and How to Treat It, and other articles.

MARRIED.

TILLMAN—WILLIAMS.—On the seventh November, 1879, at the residence of the bride's father, A. A. Moore, near Fannin, Miss., by Rev. R. M. Allen, Mr. N. P. Tillman, of Hinds county, to Miss Belle M. Williams, of Rankin county, Miss.

PHILLIPS—HALL.—[illegible] by Rev. A. Sibley, at the residence of Mrs. B. Trotter, Miss. E. Phillips to Miss M. A. Hall, all of Simpson county, Miss.

THOMPSON—ANDERSON.—[illegible] by Rev. A. Sibley, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. J. H. Thompson to Miss Annie Anderson, all of Simpson county, Miss.

MYERS—MYERS.—[illegible] by Rev. A. Sibley, at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Rebecca Myers, Mr. J. C. Myers to Miss Martha Myers, all of Simpson county, Miss.

ADAMS—HARRISON.—November 12, 1879, at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. W. H. Young, Mr. Henry F. Adams to Miss Sue Harrison, all of Rankin, Miss.

RICHARDS—WHITE.—November 11, 1879, at the residence of W. L. White, in Pensacola, Fla., by Rev. C. Breedlove, William W. Richards to Miss Lucy M. White, both of Pensacola, Fla.

WARE—WILLIAMS.—At the residence of the bride's father, in Washington county, Ala., November 12, 1879, by Rev. Jas. H. Jones, Mr. William N. Ware to Miss S. P. Williams, all of Washington county, Ala.

CONNER—PARKER.—November 11, 1879, at the residence of the bride's mother, near Walnut Grove, Miss., by Rev. Irvin Miller, Mr. W. R. Conner to Miss H. G. Parker.

HOWARD—BREWER.—November 16, 1879, at the residence of the bride's father, in Lucky county, Miss., by Rev. Irvin Miller, Mr. L. C. Howard to Miss Hattie L. Brewer.

RUSS—BOARDMAN.—At the residence of the bride's mother, in Pearlington, Miss., November 20, 1879, by Rev. C. W. Calhoun, Asa Russ, Esq., and Miss Harriet L. Boardman, all of Pearlington, Miss.

WEBSTER—WARNER.—At the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. J. L. Skipper, on the twenty-first of November, 1879, Mr. T. B. Webster to Miss S. W. Warner, all of Crenshaw county, Ala.

DUPUSE—GOUDELOCK.—At Montgomery, Ala., by Rev. B. D. Ussery, October 16, 1879, Mr. J. E. Dupuse and Miss Mattie A. Goudelock.

SAVAGE—REYNOLDS.—In Clarke county, Ala., October 30, 1879, by Rev. H. D. Gayle, Mr. J. C. Savage and Miss R. C. Reynolds.

GREEN—ROBERTSON.—At Jackson, Clarke county, Ala., November 6, 1879, by Rev. H. D. Gayle, Rev. John A. Green and Miss Mary E. Robertson.

HUNTER—LAW.—At the residence of the bride's step-father, Mr. R. E. Hughes, November 5, 1879, by Rev. J. E. Magill, Mr. W. S. Hunter to Miss Alice Law, all of Bell county, Texas.

WALLACE—HARKNESS.—On Nov. 6, 1879, at the residence of the bride's father-in-law, Thos. J. Upton, Mr. J. K. Wallace and Miss Annie Harkness.

PACE—HENRY.—October 9, 1879, at the residence of the bride's father-in-law, Rev. Thos. J. Tyson, Mr. J. D. Pace and Miss S. E. Henry, all of Claiborne parish, La.

CRAWFORD—WILLIE.—At the residence of the bride's father-in-law, November 13, 1879, by Rev. G. M. Gilcrease, Dr. A. J. Crawford to Miss Rebecca H. Willie, all of Marion, Lauderdale county, Miss.

HARPER—WILLIAMS.—At the residence of Mr. W. M. Williams, the bride's father, on the 16th of October, 1879, by the Rev. P. A. Johnson, Mr. W. H. Harper, of Simpson county, Miss., to Miss Eva Williams, of Rankin county.

WOODCOCK—BLADE.—In Duckhill on November 5, 1879, at the hotel of Waynesboro, Miss., by Rev. William B. Hamer, Mr. Marion Woodcock to Miss F. Blade, both of Wayne county, Miss.

COX—HOWARD.—At the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. John W. Heidel, M. D., Mr. Cox and Miss Emma A. Howard, all of Cantonment, Leake county, Miss.

DAVIS—RUSSELL.—In Tuskegee, Ala., at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. L. E. Dowdell, Mr. Jacob Davis, of Glenville, Ala., to Miss Lula Russell, of Tuskegee, Ala.

BEYER—MILLER.—By Rev. C. W. Calhoun, November 4, 1879, in the Methodist Episcopal church, South, at Pearlington, Miss., Mr. John Beyer and Miss Amanda Miller, all of Pearlington, Miss.

Publisher's Department.

While we continue to labor best to exclude fraudulent advertisements from the ADVOCATE, parties must judge for themselves as to the reliableness of the goods advertised. In ordering please mention the ADVOCATE.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.—January next the ADVOCATE office will adopt the cash system, and business thereafter will be conducted on the basis of all the leading papers published. Subscriptions being payable in advance for such length of time as desired. The date of expiration by months will appear opposite the name of each subscriber, indicating the subscription expires with the close of that month, at which time the paper will be discontinued, unless renewed. This will materially simplify the office work, as the printer will drop the names according to monthly expiration, and no individual partiality be shown, as every subscriber will have a standing notice of expiration. It will also facilitate agents in giving receipts in accordance with office accounts, corresponding with printed date. Where advance payments exceeding one year are made the year to which paid will also be inserted. Errors in names and dates will be promptly corrected when advised, and we urge you to notify the office of such cases when known, as our desire is to avoid all friction, or causes for complaint, and have everything as nearly perfect as possible. Accounts will be kept with agents as heretofore. Remittances may be made, or send direct to this office, if preferred.

FOR CONSUMPTION.—Those troubled with consumption, neuralgia or rheumatic affections will be glad to know that at last something has been discovered that will entirely remove these time-honored ailments, and it is found in the Pacific Rural Nervo and Brain Building Foods, which are concentrated and combined vital extracts from the most nutritious elements known. Their magical effects lies in their semi-digested qualities, giving the stomach and digestive organs all labor. Owing to their marvelous purifying and life vitalizing demand the system, through their agents, J. B. Gribble, have a depot, and these goods for sale by all druggists in New Orleans. From the testimony of the agent and our own knowledge, these foods have to commend them in the East, where they were first introduced to the public. From a small beginning, they gradually took a hold on the public, until to-day, in that section, these goods are a household name in most of the cities in the East, endorsed by some of the most noble fraternity as being an admirable remedy for those chronic ills which flesh is heir to.

THE LONDON ASSURANCE CORPORATION OF LONDON.—Prominent among the many sterling fire insurance companies of this city is that of the "old reliable," the London Assurance Corporation of London, so favorably known among our business men for solid capital, careful management, and low rates. This institution offers the most positive guaranties to insurers of certain and prompt payment of losses. Our readers will see, by reference to the advertisement, that it has been established since 1720, making it one of the oldest in the world, and which naturally argues well for nothing else, commend itself to the public. Mr. S. A. Moritz is the agent, whose office is at 107 Gravier street, a gentleman well and favorably known to our citizens. Our readers will find it to their material advantage to call at his office and examine his policies before insuring elsewhere.

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC FRUITS.—W. B. Daniel, commission merchant, new arrivals at 18 South Peters street, and during this short time has found ample business for himself and partner, Mr. Chas. Daniel, who was formerly connected with one of our leading houses in this line, where he made many friends, who will be glad to see him again in business, and their gentlemanly deportment will no doubt result in success to the firm. Their card appears in this issue, and those in need of anything in their line will find it to their interest to call on them.

SOUTHERN STABLES.—We visited the stables of the above firm, corner Delord and Dryades, and were surprised to see so many fine horses and mules. Messrs. Wang & Hanson have the credit of handling the finest lot of horses and mules that have been in the city for many years. Those in need of anything in the line of horses, mules, cows, etc., or harness and blooded sheep, will find it to their interest to visit the place before purchasing, as they can be supplied. Having a knowledge of both complexion, they will deal honorably with you, and, as they are good judges in everything pertaining to horses, mules, cows and sheep, you may safely trust yourself to their good judgment.

WE call attention to the professional card of Col. Wm. F. Mellen, which will be found in our advertising columns today. We know Col. Mellen to be a gentleman and a Rabble lawyer, familiar with all branches of practice in the courts, both of Louisiana and our sister State of Mississippi. He is known well to our community as a gentleman of high standing, and knows as the result of practice of many years, and is a safe counselor in the law department of the University of Louisiana. We therefore recommend Col. Mellen to the attention of those who have law business on this side or in Mississippi.

MUSIC, PIANOS, ETC.—L. Grunewald, whose mammoth establishment at 88 Canal and 87 Bourbon streets, is unsurpassed in variety and number of pianos, organs, brass instruments, guitars, etc., in the South. The terms upon which Mr. Grunewald sells his instruments are within the reach of all classes, in small monthly payments allowed to purchasers of moderate means, is to be specially commended and deserving of proper appreciation.

TRUSSES AND BRACES.—H. Sallenave, 92 Bar one street, is out only a common sense brand of advertising common sense trusses. His experience in this line runs through a number of years, and he may be regarded by some of the most competent physicians as a man worthy of patronage, and consulting his business. The methods and, of the cases of thirteen persons, over man and woman, known Sallenave, not for the country gentleman who may be suffering from complaints that trussing and lotions will relieve if not cure. Special advertisement.

COOPERAGE.—Sugar planters and others wanting barrels of any kind of cooperage are referred to Chas. Hergesheimer's advertisement on the second page. His works are complete as any in the South, and while there is a large number of mechanics and coloured people employed, there is a specialty of express and other wagons, as well as the inspection as to the interesting machinery now devoted to cooperage.

JEWELRY.—The stock that is always found at W. Grunewald's consists of every article and variety of the most choice goods in this line of merchandise. The taste and the judgment of the house is always displayed in the selection of the richest, most elegant and beautiful styles and patterns that are popular and desirable on the market. The house is one of the oldest and best in this country. See advertisement.

FOUR SEASONS RESTAURANT.—This is one of the oldest restaurants in New Orleans, where all the delicacies of the season can be had always in perfection. The establishment of the kind in the city. Our country readers should make a note of this, when they come to town. Furnished rooms. See advertisement.

SUGAR AND MOLASSES.—Jas. H. Laws & Co., of Cincinnati, O., handle more sugars and molasses than all the other houses combined. Last year they loaded two boats in the Teche country. A large number of planters ship to them direct. They have been in business many years, and are reliable, and look far and deep into their patrons' interests. Their Southern house is located at No. 12 Gravier street, New Orleans, and is under the immediate management of Mr. L. Keever, who is well up in the line under consideration, and is, besides, an affable and courteous gentleman.

CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS.—E. Heath, 99 Canal street, is one of the new prominent establishments engaged in this business here. His goods are imported direct from the factories, are selected with the greatest care as to designs and patterns, and offered at prices exceedingly reasonable. Consumers may expect the utmost liberality from this house.

HUCK'S BRILLIANT STOVES.—Those requiring a good cooking stove will find that H. Haller, 53 Camp street, will suit them. "Buck's Brilliant" are as popular as any in the market. Orders will have prompt attention. See advertisement.

CO-OPERATIVE COMMISSION HOUSE.—It is only necessary for us to say that Thos. J. Carver, Esq., one of our oldest and best citizens, is the general manager for this house, and whose office is at 53 Carondelet street. Send along your cotton, sugar, etc., to him.

HARDWARE.—Remember when you want hardware of every description don't forget the house of H. DeVergez & Co., 17 and 19 Decatur street. Send in your orders. No better house in New Orleans to deal with.

SELLING a superb stock of imported and domestic goods at hard times' prices, this is the way Messrs. E. H. Adams & Brother dispose of their recent and tastefully selected line of dress goods, shawls, blankets, ribbons, hosiery, etc., notwithstanding the late advances elsewhere.

EVERYTHING in gas-fitting or plumbing done in first-class style by M. H. Applegate, 116 Baronne street.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.—American China dinner, breakfast and tea sets, odd pieces, for B. C. Equal to looks and usefulness to French China.

LOOK at Ofner's advertisement of his crockery house and give him a call.

THE air of perfection, cleanliness and home-like comfort which is so apparent at the Arlington House, Bolivar, is due to the character of the general features of that well-regulated establishment. To those disposed to economize this popular hotel offers an opportunity seldom equaled, as the daily charge is three dollars, having reduced its rates to $2 and $2 50 per day.

Pure Cod Liver Oil made from fresh selected livers on the seashore, by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York. It is absolutely pure and sweet. Patients who have once taken it prefer it to all others. Physicians have decided it superior to any of the other oils in market.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

NERVOUS PEOPLE should avoid the temporary relief of tea and coffee. A cup of pure Cocoa will be found infinitely more beneficial. Insist upon your grocer's obtaining Walter Baker & Co.'s preparation.

To the Consumptive.—Let those who, in the hope of the final cure, put off the time through any calumniously cut physician, or even those who are in a critical condition, by no means despair. There is a sovereign cure remedy at hand, and it is easily tried.—"Brown's Compound Cod Liver Oil and Lime," as from personal use since the very many years I have in the United States and Europe, nothing of the Paris order of Lime Water healing preparations which results in the different specifics for marked benefit or cure. It is always shown to those who desire to see them.—[signed] A. B. Wilmot, Chemist, Pittsburgh, Pa. All druggists.

TRUTH AND SOBRIETY.

What is the best counsel we can give to the world to regulate the bowels, purify the blood, remove costiveness and biliousness, strengthen and stimulate the whole system?

Truth and sobriety compels us to answer, Hop Bitters, being pure, perfect and harmless. See "Truths" in another column.

PEZZONI'S MEDICATED COMPLEXION POWDER is acknowledged by thousands of ladies, who use it daily, to be the only preparation that does not ruin the skin, chap, blister or leave black spots in the pores. Mothers can apply it to infants with perfect safety. Sold by all druggists, and of P. Pezzoni, 607 North Sixth street, St. Louis (Planters' Hotel).

QUERU'S COD LIVER OIL JELLY.

APPROVED by the Academy of Medicine of New York for coughs, colds, bronchial and tubercular consumption, scrofula, and general debility. The most mild, bland and nutritious form in which Cod Liver Oil can be used, and with more benefit secured to the patient than in any other preparation of this Jelly. Dandelion is the quantity of the liquid oil, and the most delicate stomach will not reject it. For sale by all druggists, and E. H. Queru & Co., 61 Cliff st., New York.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

WANTED.

BY a young man, an University graduate, a position as teacher. Salary must be good. Will furnish comprehensive and satisfactory credentials. Address, Teacher, care New Orleans Christian Advocate, New Orleans, La.

WM. F. MELLEN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
12 Carondelet Street,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

W. B. DANIEL,
COMMISSION MERCHANT
AND DEALER IN Foreign and Domestic Fruits,
NUTS, ETC.
18 South Peters St., New Orleans.
Consignments of all kinds of country produce.

JAMES H. LAWS & CO.,
Commission Merchants,
CINCINNATI, O.
Liberal cash advances on CONSIGNMENTS OF SUGAR AND MOLASSES to Jas. H. Laws & Co., Cincinnati.
L. C. KEEVER,
12 Gravier Street, New Orleans.

J. BOSIO,
Four Seasons Restaurant
No. 111 CHARTRES STREET,
Bet. St. Louis & Conti.
FURNISHED ROOMS—PRIVATE SALOONS.
Open till 12 o'clock.

South western Co-operative Ass'n,
FOR THE SALE OF
COTTON, SUGAR AND
All Products of the Soil, and the Purchase of Supplies.
The usual commission of 2½ per cent charged.
Address, THOS. J. CARVER, Gen. Manager,
53 Carondelet Street, N. O.

THE LONDON
Assurance Corporation,
OF LONDON.
Established by Royal Charter, A. D., 1720.
CAPITAL $15,000,000.
This Company issues policies against
FIRE
On Merchandise, Dwellings, Furniture, Stores, Etc.
AT LOWEST CURRENT RATES.
S. A. MORITZ, Agent,
107 Gravier Street.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Notwithstanding the "Boom!"

We are still Selling our Superb Stock of Staple and Fancy

IMPORTED AND DOMESTIC GOODS,

—AT—

HARD TIMES PRICES!

And will continue to do so until the end of the month. Our stock is unsurpassed in refined taste and as it was all bought before the advance in Europe and America.

We are enabled to sell at less than present wholesale values.

Special attraction in DOLMANS, JACQUES, SHAWLS, BLANKETS, DRESS GOODS, PANT STUFFS, FLANNELS, RIBBONS, CORSETS, HOSIERY, ETC.

E. H. ADAMS & BROTHER,
594 Magazine Street, Fourth Store above St. Andrew.

FOOD CURE
TRADE MARK
THE BLANCHARD
FOOD CURE SYSTEM
A Series of Concentrated and Semi-Digested
LIQUID FOODS!
that are the most Reliable Remedy ever offered to the Public for Debility.

FOOD AT LAST A SUBSTITUTE FOR DRUGS.

Light Colored Liquids are found in the proper elements necessary to create a blood like or restore a debilitated condition of mind or body.

The Blanchard Blood, Nerve and Brain Building Foods, are concentrated and digested Extracts from the most nutritious elements known, viz:

BEEF, WHEAT AND MILK

They are not to take the place of your ordinary diet, but are to be taken after your regular meals, furnishing additional nervous building properties that are not found in the usual articles of food. Cures the most obstinate cases of dyspepsia and indigestion, assists the functions of digestion and assimilation.

In cases of Malarial poison these foods are wonderful in their effects.

For Dyspepsia and Consumptive patients after all Nourishing and Strengthening Foods fail, a trial is solicited. Sleep Improved, Blood and Nerves the Result. Those looking for health and strength will find permanent relief.

These foods are not a temporary medicine or drug, and contain their own medicine.

Price List.

Tonic Extract of Wheat ..... $1 00 per bottle.
Food and Wheat ..... 1 00 "
Food and Milk ..... 1 00 "
Food for Porpoise ..... 1 00 "
Pure Food ..... 1 00 "

Any of these foods sent to any part of the country, to be sent by express, on receipt of the money by P. O. order, Express or Bank Draft, or Registered Letter, at Purchaser's risk and cost of Drayage.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

JOS. B. GRIBBLE,
Sole Agent for the Southwest.
BIENVENU STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Agents Wanted.

SOUTHERN STABLES

Corner Delord & Dryades.
HORSES, MULES AND MILK COWS.
FINE BERKSHIRE HOGS.
AND FINE BLOODED SHEEP.
Can be found for sale at the above stables.
WANG & HANSON.

COMMON SENSE
Will tell you, to get your
TRUSSES
AND BRACES
Where they are made and fitted.
The best Trusses in this country or the country from One Dollar up. Call at
H. SPIELMANN'S,
93 Baronne Street, New Orleans.

G. W. SENTELL,
COTTON FACTOR
AND COMMISSION MERCHANT
189 ..... Grayier Street 189
NEW ORLEANS.
Special attention paid to the filling of orders.

THOMAS MAGANN,
FAMILY GROCER,
AND DEALER IN
ALL KINDS OF COAL AND FIRE WOOD,
cor. Polymnia & St. Charles sts.,
NEW ORLEANS.
Wood and Coal Yard, No. 1331 Charles street.

A. C. DANNER & Co.,
DEALERS IN
Coal, Lumber, Timber, Staves, Etc.
NEW ORLEANS OFFICE:
19 Carondelet Street, corner Bishop.

DR. GEO. J. FRIEDRICHS,
DENTIST,
155 St. Charles Street, corner of Girod.
Square above City Hall,
NEW ORLEANS.

COAL. COAL.
WHOLESALE & RETAIL.
PLANTERS IN NEED OF
GOOD PITTSBURG COAL
By boat load or less quantity, will be supplied at LAW STANDARD RATES, the same to be of good coast from Dutch Range and Belle Vue, the lowest coast from New Orleans by
W. G. COYLE & CO.,
33 Carondelet Street.

CARPETS. CARPETS
ELKIN & CO.
190 ..... CANAL STREET 190
Are making large additions to their stock of
ANMINSTER, MOQUETTE and BRUSSELS
In new and elegant styles, with
BORDERS TO MATCH.
Smyrna, Wilton, Axminster and Velvet Rugs.
COCOA and NAPIER MATTINGS.
WINDOW SHADES AND CURTAINS.
In great variety.

O. P. ALFORD, M. F. THOMSON, W. C. BETTIS, W. C. ALFORD.
ROBT. E. LEE
Sale and Feed Stables,
129 to 135 Baronne St.,
NEW ORLEANS.
ALFORD, BETTIS & CO., Proprietors
DEALERS IN
Kentucky Mules and Horses.
Respectfully solicit a call from Buyers.

WANTED AGENTS FOR OUR BIBLES containing Cruden's Concordance and over 200 Illustrations, with all the above books, also for Literature, Art and Song, with over 400 Engravings. These are the books for the holidays. Bibles for parents, and Literature, Art and Song, for the Young People. Circulars and terms sent on application to
J. H. CHAMBERS & CO.,
St. Louis, Mo.

Liverpool and London and Globe
INSURANCE COMPANY.
NEW ORLEANS
Office cor. Carondelet and Gravier Sts.

Capital Stock Paid up	$1,228,200 00
Total Assets	2,711,443 40
Invested in this Country	1,401,897 00

Special attention given to Insurance of Real Estate, Improvements and Five Years Policies issued on Dwellings and Country Residences at lowest rates.
All Merchandise and Property insured against damage by Fire, Lightning, Tornado and Cyclone, and Inland Navigation.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS FOR NEW ORLEANS:
J. H. Schroder, Esq., Chairman.
Perry Nayan, Esq., N. Wright Bessner, Esq.,
George Wigg, Esq.
HENRY V. OGDEN, Resident Sec.

RICE, BORN & CO.,
DEALERS IN HEAVY AND SHELF
HARDWARE!
CUTLERY, AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS
AND PLANTATION SUPPLIES, IRON, STEEL AND TOOLS,
HEATING AND COOKING STOVES,
MANUFACTURERS OF TIN AND JAPANNED WARE.
80 & 91 CAMP STREET,
527 MAGAZINE STREET,
WAREHOUSE: 113, 115 & 117 MAGAZINE ST.,
NEW ORLEANS.
New York Office: 79 Chambers st.

SOLE AGENTS FOR
Star Hollow-ware, Reliance Wrought Iron Range, Wm. Wharton, Jr. & Sheet Iron Co.'s Hollow-ware, Tinned Sheet Iron, Enterprise Cast Iron Stoves, Enamelled Cooper Bottom Cast Iron Stoves, Fowler's patent Cut Feed Portable Cane Mill Engines, Kidder's Mechanical Cane Mill Pumps.

CELEBRATED
CHARTER OAK STOVES.

THE
WINTER IS AT OUR DOORS,
AND
Now is the Time to Buy Your
CLOTHING,
Furnishing Goods and Hats
AT CODCHAUX'S
81 and 83 Canal Street,
I invite your attention to my select stock for Men's, Youths', Boys'
AND CHILDREN'S WEAR,
MANUFACTURED FOR
Fall and Winter Season 1879-'80,
And which will be sold at the
VERY LOWEST PRICES.
N. B.—CUSTOM WORK as usually.
SAMPLES and INSTRUCTIONS for Self-Measurement will imply sent on application.

Rosedale Cooking Stove,
MANUFACTURED BY
STEWART, PETERSON & CO.,
PHILADELPHIA, PENN.,
is the cheapest and most popular cooking stove ever put on the market. They manufacture four sizes of them, and they are for sale exclusively by
G. W. W. GOODWYN,
111 Canal Street,
New Orleans, La.

DR. ROBERT J. MAINEGRA,
WILL GIVE
FREE CONSULTATIONS DAILY
FROM 7 TO 10 A. M.
At the Washington Avenue Drug Store, corner Magazine and Washington streets.

WANTED EVERYBODY TO know that LARKIN'S IN GANTER'S PECTORAL BALM is such a success for consumption, as evidenced by being sent to the United States Army Corps from Texas to Dakota for cases of bronchial affections, coughs, colds, asthma, and all diseases of the throat and lungs, and the relief it affords consumptive patients. Prepared and for sale by R. LARKIN, Proprietor, corner Canal and Franklin Fields street. For sale almost all the principal wholesale and retail druggists.
Depot in Mobile at F. C. Dillmon & Co. Depot in St. Louis at Richardson & Co.

Old and Valuable Remedy!
BARK & IRON
PALATABLE AROMATIC
IRON TONIC,
In the cure of Debility, Loss of Appetite, Boils, &c.
BILLINGS, CLAPP & CO.,
NICHOLS & CO., BOSTON, MASS.
For Sale by all Druggists.

CINCHO-QUININE!
CURES FEVER AND AGUE:
does not produce head ache, or other disagreeable symptoms, and as a tonic and anti-periodic it supersedes all other bark preparations.
Billings, Clapp & Co., Manuf'g Chemists, Boston, Mass.
For Sale by all Druggists.

Farm, Garden and Household.

THE ABSORPTIVE POWER OF THE SOIL.—The capacity of the soil to absorb moisture and nutritive gases from the atmosphere is one of its most valuable properties. These particles of [illegible] are taken up by the growing crop [illegible] through the leaves, but through the roots and the apparent theory [illegible] that the [illegible] is absorbed by the roots [illegible] is a mistake. [illegible] the soil, or by throwing a [illegible] the surface, we promote [illegible] and [illegible] the soil. [illegible] farmer [illegible] and [illegible] absorb moisture from [illegible] that [illegible] the soil, [illegible] fertilizers [illegible] A. DAVIS, Farmer.

BONE DUST.—Bone dust, like hard wood ashes, [illegible] original state [illegible] although [illegible] the bone dust [illegible] and [illegible] very [illegible] The [illegible] phosphoric acid [illegible] the bone dust [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

EDUCATIONAL ITEMS.

—A memorial window to Professor Hopkins is to be put up at Williams College.

—Several of the schools of Washington have engaged Miss Corson to give lessons in cookery to their pupils. A committee of citizens, among whom are many teachers, have determined to invite Miss Corson to give a lecture upon the relation of good cooking to health and temperance.—Tribune.

—The sum of $3,015,256 was given or bequeathed for educational purposes in 1877. Universities and colleges received $1,273,991; scientific and professional schools, $619,908; higher seminaries for women, $183,976; preparatory schools, $171,118; academies, $132,517; libraries, $268,939.

—The annual government grants to elementary schools rose in England last year to $6,375,365. The grant for the current financial year is estimated at a little less than four dollars per capita. The average attendance upon the English and Welsh schools now amounts to 1,075, —Miss Helen Taylor, the step-daughter of John Stuart Mill, has been a member of the London School Board for three years, and the ratepayers of the Southwark Division propose to again re-elect her, and with her Mrs. Lucas, John Bright's sister.

—The Post, Cairo city, states that the faculty of Yale College have asked Professor Christlieb, of Bonn University, in Germany, to deliver next year the annual lecture course on "Preaching," to form the study-list of the Theological Seminary.

—The will of the late Elizabeth Thompson, of Philadelphia, contains a bequest of $2,500 towards establishing a scholarship in Princeton Theological Seminary, to be known as the "Robert Thompson Scholarship." It is to be paid on the death of a niece.

—The Boston Girls' Latin school now has one hundred and eight pupils. It was established last year, and during the first six months only had twenty-six students.

—There are 219 boys at Phillips Academy, Andover, representing three races, twenty-six states and territories of the Union, and four foreign countries.

—A national school of art wood carving has been established in England, to revive the forgotten art of carving in that country. It offers twelve free scholarships.

—Statistics show the number of freshmen in Yale to be 225; Harvard, 209; Cornell, 125; Princeton, 120; Amherst, 102; Dartmouth, 81; Brown, 80; Williams, 68; Wesleyan, 60; Union, 57; Rochester, 40; Madison, 10.

—Exeter College, England, has established a factory and landing of lime flours in which various mechanical appliances are to be erected, so that boys may be taught the practical use of tools. Here is one step in the progress of industrial education.

—The Christian Nation, which numbers about 17,000 people, has forty schools and two pupils for the college education of twenty-two students in the South. The office of superintendent of education is elective, and has been held by a Choctaw for four years.

—Of the nearly twenty thousand students who have been in Oberlin College since its opening fifty-five years ago, only three have been convicted of crime. No theft has ever occurred. No one of the graduates has ever been arrested for any crime. Only seven of the graduates have become confirmed drunkards, and several of these became so after leaving Oberlin. Seventy-five per cent. of the graduates have been engaged in Southern schools for the freedmen.

—A circular states that the Concord summer School will open for a second term on Monday, July 12th, 1880, and will continue five weeks. The courses will be arranged in the same five departments as before, and the lectures will be given morning and evening, except Saturday evening, and on the Sabbath. Among those already announced are Rev. A. Bronson Alcott, D. A. Wasson, Prof. W. T. Harris, Miss Ward, Rev. F. B. Sanborn, Anna C. Brackett, and Rev. E. S. P. Peabody.

—Some of the New York Board of Education are trying to have physiology taught in the schools. At the last meeting of the Board of Aldermen a petition was presented asking that the study of physiology be introduced into the public schools. The petition was referred to the Committee on Public Schools. Dr. Peters, Rev. Dr. Ellinwood, Rev. Dr. Hall, Rev. Dr. Ormiston, Rev. Dr. Hutton, Rev. Dr. Hatfield, Rev. Dr. Wylie, Rev. Dr. Hitchcock, Rev. Dr. Cuyler, Rev. Dr. Hastings, Rev. Dr. Deems, Rev. Dr. Crosby, Rev. Dr. Ferris, Rev. Dr. Chapin, Rev. Dr. Adams, Rev. Dr. Ward

PRICES CURRENT

IN

THE NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY

☞ Correspondents should bear in mind that these quotations represent prices for round lots, and in filling small orders higher rates must be paid.

GROCERIES.

Butter, ₱ lb:
Western creamery fancy ... 40 ... 41
New York, choice ... 38 ... 39

Coffee, ₱ lb:
Rio, fair ... 15¾ ... 16¾
Rio, good ... 16¾ ... 17
Rio, prime ... 17¾ ... 17¾

Candles, ₱ lb:
Star, best brands ... 13 ... — —

Corn Meal, ₱ bbl:
Choice ... 2 70 ... 2 75

Cheese, ₱ lb:
Factory ... — — ... — —
N. Y. cream and English dairy ... 15 ... 16

Fish:
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in kits ... — — ... 1 —
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in kits ... — — ... 1 25
Sardines, quarter boxes ... — — ... — —

Flour, ₱ bbl:
Superfine ... 4 50 ... 4 —
XX ... 5 — ... 5 —
XXX ... — — ... — —
Choice XXX ... — — ... — —
Choice family ... — — ... — —

Fruits:
Dried apples ₱ lb ... — ... 3
Dried peaches ₱ lb ... 5 ... 6
Raisins, ₱ quarter box ... 1 75 ... — —
Raisins, ₱ half box ... — — ... — —
Raisins, ₱ whole box ... 2 75 ... — —
Bunches ₱ bunch ... 1 75 ... 1 85

Crackers, ₱ lb:
Soda ... 8 ... 8
Butter ... 8 ... 8
Sugar ... 8 ... 8
Gingersnaps ... 9 ... 12½

Oil:
Coal, in cases, net ... 21 ... 25
Coal, in barrels, net ... 17 ... 20
Insurance, in cases ... — — ... 45
Insurance, in barrels ... — — ... 35
Lard, in barrels, new ... 75 ... — —

Molasses, in barrels:
Common ... — — ... — —
Fair ... — — ... — —
Prime to choice ... — — ... — —
Golden and Barbadoes, etc ... — — ... — —
Half bbls, 5c, and kegs, 10c, more.

Rice, Louisiana, ₱ lb:
No. 2 ... — — ... — —
Ordinary ... 7 ... 7½
Fair ... 7½ ... 8
Prime to choice ... 8 ... 8½

Soap, ₱ box:
XXX Palm ... — — ... — —
Keller's Magnolia ... 3 00 ... — —
Keller's Olive ... 2 75 ... — —

Shot, ₱ ?:
Fine ... 1 75 ... 1 85
Coarse ... 1 75 ... 1 85

Sugar:
Good fair ... 6 ... 6
Prime ... 6 ... 6
Choice ... 6 ... 6
Yellow clarified ... 7 ... 7
Off whites ... 7 ... 7
Crushed ... — — ... — —
Powdered ... — — ... — —

Spices, ₱ lb:
Allspice ... 15¾ ... — —
Pepper ... 13¾ ... 14
Cloves ... 65 ... 70
Cinnamon ... — — ... — —

Tea, ₱ lb:
Black, oolong ... 27½ ... 1 10
Green imperial ... 80 ... 90

Tobacco:
Low grade ... 30 ... 35
Medium ... 35 ... 45
Good to fine ... 45 ... 55
Low leaf ... 45 ... 55
Medium ... 55 ... 65
Good ... 65 ... 75
Fine ... 75 ... 85
Selections ... 90 ... 1 00

GRAIN AND FEED.

Corn, ₱ bushel:
Yellow ... — — ... — —
White ... — — ... — —
Mixed ... 45 ... — —

Oats, ₱ bushel:
St. Louis ... — — ... — —
Texas ... — — ... — —
Galena ... 44 ... 47

Bran, choice, ₱ 100 lbs ... 90 ... — —

Hay, ₱ ton:
Prime ... 15 00 ... 18 00
Ordinary ... — — ... — —

Cow Peas:
Whippoorwill ... — — ... — —
Mixed ... — — ... — —
Clay ... — — ... — —

PROVISIONS.

Bacon, ₱ lb:
Breakfast ... 8 ... — —
Shoulders ... 4 ... — —
Sides, clear rib ... 4½ ... — —
Sides, clear ... 4½ ... — —
Hams, sugar-cured ... — ... 10¾

Mess Pork, ₱ bbl ... 12 00 ... 12 12½

Dry Salted Meat:
Shoulders ... 4 ... — —

Lard, ₱ lb:
Choice, in kegs and pails ... 8¼ ... 8½
Choice, in tierces and barrels ... 7¾ ... — —

ESCULENTS.

Potatoes, ₱ bbl ... 1 60 ... 2 25
Onions, ₱ bbl ... 4 00 ... 4 25
Apples, ₱ bbl ... 3 00 ... 3 50
Cabbages, ₱ crate ... 3 00 ... 3 25

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Poultry, ₱ dozens:
Old chickens ... 5 00 ... — —
Young ... 3 00 ... 3 50
Ducks ... 3 00 ... 3 50
Geese ... 4 00 ... 5 00
Turkeys ... 8 00 ... 10 00

Eggs, ₱ dozen:
Western ... 18 ... 22
Louisiana ... 18 ... — —

WOOL.

Burry ... 12 ... 18
Louisiana, clear ... 28 ... 31
Lake, clear ... 30 ... 32

BALING STUFFS.

Bagging:
India ... — — ... — —
Jute ... — — ... — —
Twine, hemp ... c. 10¾ ... 11
... 12 ... — —

GREAT MERIT.

All the fairs give the first premiums and special awards of great merit to Hop Bitters as the purest and best family medicine, and we most heartily approve of the awards for we know they deserve it. They are now on exhibition at the state fairs, and we advise all to test them. See another column.—Adv.

SILVER WAFFLES.—One pint wheat flour; two teaspoonfuls Kellogg's baking Powder; the whites of four eggs; a tablespoonful butter; two tablespoonfuls white sugar; one quart of milk to make a batter. Mix and bake quick.

VASELINE.

You may hunt the world over and will not find
A remedy for headache with all things to the mind
The blood and skin it purifies and makes the body clean
That perfect health to the human form does bring.

Its curing and its healing powers
From pole to pole all others o'er
On the shelf it should be found in the bath room
And quiet their reign in the household.

If sore throat and fever are raised by the cold
And in fearful life appears to be doing its work
Kind Vaseline comes to the rescue
And the check taking fever it has not the chance.

If the voice it is husky, the throat it is sore,
Take the jelly at once, and the trouble is over
Infect treat the circular, and from it learn
All the virtue and calm of the famous Vaseline.

The Presbyterian Home Mission Board has received the gift of $25,000 from a devoted layman of Rochester, N. Y., the gift being made on the birthday anniversary of the generous donor.

T. W. BOTHICK,
UNDERTAKER,
OFFICE, 271 CAMP STREET,
STABLES, 273 MAGAZINE STREET
Embalming and disinterring bodies. Bodies carefully shipped. Carriages for hire.
FUNERALS STRICT ATTENTION, &c.

COMMERCIAL.

ADVOCATE OFFICE,
NEW ORLEANS, Monday, Nov. 24, 1879.

COTTON.

The market opened very quiet, with a moderate demand, buyers offering ⅛ less, which sellers were not ready to accept; some small sales, however, were made at easier figures. The sales thus far have been confined to a limited amount.

The following is the official closing of the Cotton Exchange:

	To-Day.	Saturday
Low ordinary
Ordinary
Good ordinary
Low middling
Middling
Good middling
Middling fair

Sales to-day 11,500 bales, including 1,500 yesterday. Market easy.

Receipts at United States ports, week ending Monday, November 24 1879:

	Saturday.	Sunday and Monday.	This week	last year.
Galveston
New Orleans
Mobile
Savannah
Charleston
Wilmington
Norfolk
Baltimore
New York
Boston
Philadelphia
Various
Total

FUTURES.

The position of the market at New York may be seen by the following:

Middling	To-day	Saturday
January
February
March
April
May
June
July
August
September
October
November
December

Sales, 54,000 bales. Market quiet and steady.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER.
FOR WOMEN & CHILDREN.

Females suffering from pain and weakness will find immediate relief and strength from the use of Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster. Where the kidneys are affected with Weakness, Pain and many forms of Colds or Weak Chest, Lame Back and Side, Dropsical Swellings, Female Complaints, Sciatica and Rheumatism, they almost invariably relieve. The active principles now used in these plasters are obtained from the Capsicum, or Cayenne pod, and other extracts, but Capcine is the only pain killing principle. It is also used in Spinal Affections, Neuralgia, Kidney Diseases and Nervousness, and pains it is also the best known remedy.

Ask for Benson's Capcine Plaster and take no other. Sold by all Druggists.
Price 25 cents.

FOR NEW YORK DIRECT,
THE CROMWELL,
N. Y. and N. O. Steamship Line.

This Line is composed of two first-class iron steamships

LOUISIANA, HUDSON
and ROCKERBOCKER, NEW ORLEANS

Sail alternately from each port for New York
Every Saturday, at 3 P. M. and from New York
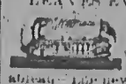
Every Wednesday, at 3 P. M.

Cabin passage ... $30
Steerage passage ... $20

For further information apply to
ALFRED MOULTON,
41 Carondelet street.

Regular Opelousas Mail Packet.
LEAVES EVERY TUESDAY, AT 5 P. M.

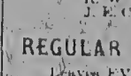


For Washington, Opelousas, Port Barre, Simsport, Church Point and all landings on the Coast, Atchafalaya River and Bayou Courtableau. The new and light-draft steamer

FANCHON,

H. H. BRYAN, Master. TITUS JONES, Clerk, will leave as above. For freight or passage apply on board, or to
R. W. ADAMS, 21 Commercial Place.
J. E. CARLIN, 17 Tchoupitoulas St.

REGULAR OPELOUSAS PACKET.
Leaves EVERY TUESDAY at 5 P. M.



For Washington, Opelousas, Port Barre, Simsport, Churchville and all landings on the Coast, Atchafalaya River and Bayou Courtableau. The very light draft passenger steamer

YAZOO,

WM. CRAWFORD, Master. J. J. SCHMIT, Clerk. Will leave positively as above. For freight or passage apply on board or to LOEB & McPEAKE, Agents, 67 Camp St.
GEO. D. HILL, Agent, Tchoupitoulas St.
P. S. Connects closely with Boats for Bayou Des Allemands and Barges for Bayou Boeuf.

PIANO TUNING
In Perfect Harmony.

Piano repairing, varnishing and polishing. Parties leaving orders at Messrs. Ludden & Bates' Southern Music House, 106 Camp street, will have the same promptly attended to. Pianos and Organs to Let. Pianos sold on monthly payments.

A. GARDNER.

Popular Music Books.

TEMPERANCE JEWELS. A new collection of the best Temperance Songs and Hymns ever issued. Thirty cents.

WHITE ROBES. The new Sabbath School Song Book ever issued. Thirty cents.

GEM GLEANER. Superior collection of Anthems for Choirs. 75 cents.

PRODIGAL SON. A grand Cantata for Sunday Schools. Composed by Mason. Price 40 cents. Every Exercise Book for Sunday Schools.

AMERICAN GLEE BOOK. Most Complete collection of the very best Glees and Part Songs ever published. $1.

EMERSON'S VOCAL METHOD. For Public or Private Schools. The very best. $1.

DE GARCIA'S CANTARA. Fine Operatic Vocal Music and Exercises. $1.

☞ Any number of the above or any other books of any kind of Sheet Music mailed anywhere, post free, for the retail price.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston,
C. H. DITSON & CO.
843 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Joseph Mitchell Boiler Yard,
C. J. WALTON, Proprietor.
Manufacturer of all kinds of
STEAM BOILERS,
Iard, Coal Oil, Water and Locomotive Tanks, Sugar and Plantation Boilers a Specialty.
No. 407 N. S. MAIN STREET,
Bet. Twelfth and Thirteenth.
LOUISVILLE, KY.

Episcopal Appointments for 1879.

CONFERENCE.	PLACE.	BISHOP.	TIME.
N. Carolina	Wilson	Wightman	Dec. 3
N. Mississippi	Water Valley	Kavanaugh	Dec. 3
East Texas	Palestine	McTyeire	Dec. 3
S. Georgia	Perry	Doggett	Dec. 10
Texas	Austin	McTyeire	Dec. 10
Little Rock	Camden	Pierce	Dec. 10
Louisiana	Baton Rouge	Keener	Dec. 10
Florida	Tallahassee	Doggett	Dec. 17
S. Carolina	Charleston	Wightman	Dec. 17
Mississippi	Meridian	Kavanaugh	Dec. 17
Alabama	Tuskegee	Paine	Dec. 17
Baltimore	Front Royal	Keener	Mar. 3

Bishop McTyeire has charge of the Missions in China.

Bishop Keener has charge of the Missions in Brazil and Mexico.

NEW WHEAT FLOUR!

We have LOWERED THE PRICE OF OUR BEST BRANDS OF FLOUR and are selling at the following price by the barrel.

No Drayage Charged in Delivering to Any Part of the City, Steamboat or Railroad.

TEAS! TEAS! TEAS!

Of the NEWEST ROP, of the STRONGEST and BEST DELICATE FLAVOR. Call and see us. CHEAP AS THE CHEAPEST.

SUGARS! COFFEE!

BREAKFAST BACON, CREAMERY BUTTER, TEAS, TOBACCO AND CIGARS, MARKET BEEF.

New Stock of
PRESERVES AND JELLIES.
PLANTATION SUPPLIES
OF EVERY KIND.

Small Orders from the Country Sent Safely and Securely Boxed and Promptly Filled.

DIRECT YOUR ORDERS TO
JOHN K. RENAUD & CO.,
New Orleans.
Corner Carondelet and Perdido Streets.

W. C. SHEPARD & Co.
AMERICAN CHINA HOUSE,
49 Camp Street, New Orleans.

We specialize in
The American China Dinner, Breakfast and Tea Set, comprising 100 Pieces for $15.
A Real French China Dinner Set, 117 Pieces, for $20.
English Stone China Dinner Set, 124 Pieces, for $12.
English Stone China Chamber Set, comprising 10 Pieces, for $2 50.
Decorated Chamber Sets, with different colored Bands, 10 Pieces for $1 50.
Glass Goblets from 60 cents to $1 00 per dozen.

Parties at a distance can send in their orders by mail, express or Peytonia Line Steamers. Orders by mail will receive prompt attention. We have our goods packed in Straw Boxes, and guarantee safe delivery. Parties visiting the city will find it to their interest to call and examine before purchasing.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.

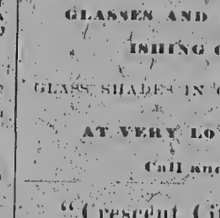
Established 1838.
JOHN GAUCHE,
MORESQUE BUILDING,
CAMP STREET,
Branch House, 110 Chartres Street.
IMPORTER
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
Plain White,
Gold Band and Decorated
CHINA,
Parian and Biscuit Statuettes and Busts.
A Full Line of Bucarat & Bohemian
GLASSWARE.
A FULL ASSORTMENT OF
MAJOLICA, CLOCKS, LOOKING GLASSES AND HOUSEFURNISHING GOODS
GLASS SHADES IN GREAT VARIETY
AT VERY LOW PRICES.
Call and See.

"Crescent City Spring,"
WAUKESHA WATER

The numerous calls having been made upon the undersigned to supply the celebrated Spring, with which the WATER is constantly on sale by the barrel, half barrel, quarter barrel and by the gallon, can be obtained

L. C. ARNY,
26, 28 and 30 Hospital St.

WM. G. LHOTE. A. SAMUELS.
LHOTE & CO,
OLD BASIN
SASH, BLIND,
DOOR FACTORY,
AND
Lumber Yard,
Offices, Cor. Toulouse & Franklin and 32 Carondelet Sts.,
P. O. Box 96. NEW ORLEANS.



FRANTZ & OPITZ,
Diamond Setters
AND
Jewelers,
65 ROYAL ST.,
bet. Bienville & Conti
NEW ORLEANS.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

AT PHILIP
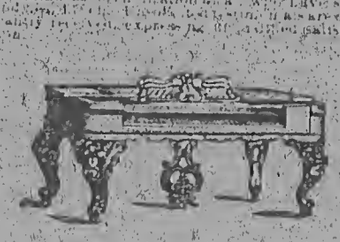
WERLEIN'S
PIANO
WAREROOMS,
135 CANAL STREET. 135

Cabinet Grand.

THE LARGEST STOCK OF INSTRUMENTS in the City of New Orleans, comprising Upright Pianos and Square Grand Pianos.

The Celebrated Decker & Sons' Upright and Square Grand Pianos.

—THE—
MATHUSHEK PIANO



A first-class Square Grand Piano.

HALE UPRIGHT PIANOS.
HALE UPRIGHT PIANOS.
BEAT FIFTH IN TONE.
RICH IN DESIGN OF CASE.

The much admired
Estey & Co., Mason & Hamlin
ORGANS.

The Gabler,
Groesbeck & Fuller
and Hardman.

Every Instrument Warranted

The best Wood and Iron STAND in the market.
PIANO COVERS, of every description.
Descriptive catalogues sent free to any address.

OPEN EVENING

PHILIP WERLEIN,
135 CANAL STREET.

Dealer in Sheet Music, Instruction Books, Importer of Musical Instruments of every description and Music.

Invoices just received per steamers Nurnberg and Teutonia.
Second-hand Pianos for sale.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LARGEST AND MOST POPULAR
MUSIC HOUSE IN THE SOUTH.

Easiest Terms Lowest Prices

General Agency for the celebrated
STEINWAY, KNABE, PLEYEL, FISCHER PIANOS
And the Popular Organs of
CLOUGH & WARREN, AND PELOUBET, PELTON & CO.
Everything in the Music line at rock-bottom prices. Send for Illustrated catalogues.
LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
Grunewald Hall, New Orleans.

YALE & BOWLING,
IMPORTERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN
DRY GOODS
NOTIONS AND MILLINERY,
17, 19 and 21 - Magazine Street, - 17, 19 and 21
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

WARRINGTON STEEL PEN CO.'S STEEL PENS

EQUAL IN QUALITY TO ANY THAT CAN BE PRODUCED.

Office: 105 and 107 N. Fifth St., Philadelphia.
For Sale by Lathrop & Wilkins, 112 Camp street, N. O.

Kelly Steel Barb Wire.

Best and most Durable
BARB WIRE, ALL STEEL, FOR FENCES,
Cheapest and Most Effectual for Plantations.
PROOF AGAINST STOCK, STORMS OR FIRE.
Weighs Less than Seven Pounds per 100 feet.
THORN WIRE HEDGE CO., Chicago.
C. E. TUTTLE & Co., Agents, Mobile, Ala.
M. SCHWARTZ & BRO., Agents, New Orleans.

DANZIGER'S,
No. 131 Canal Street,
GRAND OPENING
OF
Fall & Winter Dry Goods

Comprising a full line of FINE GOODS also a full and well selected

PLANTATION GOODS

Of all descriptions at prices that will surprise you.

We are prepared to offer to the trade the most and are confident to be able to please the most fastidious in every respect. The most beautiful selected Stock we have ever before offered to this market. Especial attention and prompt attention.

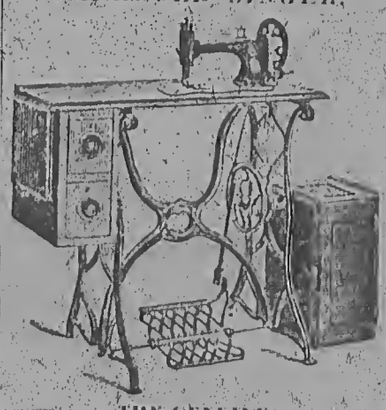
Do not call here. Our Parlor stores up stairs and examine our

ELEGANT CLOAKS,
LADIES' SUITS,
UNDERWEAR
Etc. Etc. Etc.

Send for our illustrated catalogue to all parts of the country free of charge.

DANZIGER'S,
No. 13 Canal Street.

BEWARE OF
Imitation Machines
Offered by second-hand Dealers as
IMPROVED SINGER.



THE GENUINE
SINGER MACHINE,
MADE BY THE
Singer Manufacturing Co
HAS NO EQUAL,
2,500,000 Singers in Daily Use.
Two thirds of all the machines sold in the United States are those made by
The Singer Company,
Send for Circular and Price List. Address
The Singer Manufacturing Co.,
85 CANAL STREET,
Agent's for Butterick's Patterns.

STAINED GLASS
FOR CHURCHES.
Manufactured by
GEO. A. MISCH,
317 East Washington st.
Chicago, Ills.

WILLIAM BURNS.
Old Virginia Kitchen,
No. 73 CAMP STREET.
Meals served Every Day of the Week, from 6 o'clock in the Morning to 12 o'clock at night.
Meals at all Hours of the Day.

LYNCH & COMIEN,
Manufacturers of Pianos,
1321 BROADWAY, cor. 35th Street.
NEW YORK.

TESTIMONIALS FROM WELL-KNOWN PERSONS.

From Mrs. General Sherman.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21, 1879.
Messrs. LYNCH & COMIEN:
Gentlemen—I am very much pleased with this Piano you have brought me. It bears a ring so true and clear, so sweet and so rich, as to delight all who have seen and heard it. It is all I could wish, and I feel that I have made a valuable purchase. Many kind invitations to the theatre and parties have called me out this week, but I preferred staying at home to enjoy the instrument. My own wishes are gratified with it, and I shall not fail to recommend it to my friends who may wish to purchase.
I am, very truly and respectfully yours,
ELLEN B. SHERMAN,
2 I street.

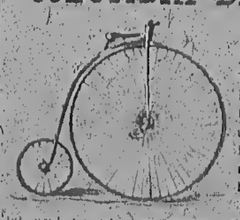
St. James Hotel, 21, 1879.
Messrs. LYNCH & COMIEN:
Gentlemen—I am very happy to be able to rank your Pianos as one of the very best I ever had and now I think the time a sufficient test required to perfect the new improvements in the Piano. I consider them equal to any I have made in this country. Hoping that your Pianos will meet with the success they deserve, as well as any other manufactured in the North, I shall with pleasure recommend them and whenever I have an opportunity. Very respectfully,
SANTLEBEN WIMMER
Professor of Music at Mary Jefferson College
St. James, La., and 19 E. 16th.

From the World Renowned Artist, Carlotta Patti.
NEW YORK, May 7, 1879.
Messrs. Lynch & Comien:
Gentlemen—After having tried your Pianos a full week I take pleasure in expressing to you my satisfaction with the instruments. Your Pianos possess a rich, full tone, and the touch is very elastic, yet firm. I can recommend them to the public as first-class instruments.
Yours truly,
CARLOTTA PATTI.

We are delighted with the Piano. The tone is loud, strong and full, yet sweet and mellow.
CHAS. CASE.

COAL. COAL. COAL.
R. D. WOOD & BROS.,
Corner Camp and Common Streets,
Opposite the City Hotel.
Wholesale and Retail dealers in all kinds of COAL. Pittsburg Coal delivered to vessels or boats on the levee, and shipped in cargoes or in bulk at lowest market rates. Orders promptly attended to.

COLUMBIA BICYCLE.



A practical, durable bicycle at a moderate price. Should fall in the hands of a boy, it is better than a horse, as it costs nothing to keep, is more easily managed, and can be more quickly stopped in a shorter distance than a horse can go. Send 3c. stamps for price list and twenty-four page catalogue, with testimonials and full information.
THE POPE MANUFG CO.,
Summer St., Boston, Mass.

THE ORIGINAL
Superintendent of Dr. Ely and Lewis Lockwood of New Orleans,
A. McDERMOTT,
has returned and established the business of manufacturing Dr Ely's patent
ARTIFICIAL
Arms and Legs,
and has purchased the sole right for the Southern States. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed in all cases or no pay. Prices greatly reduced.
A. McDERMOTT,
903 Camp Street, N. O.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 25. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1879. NO. 49.

The Christian Advocate.

ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
G. T. LATHROP, Publisher.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address all matters of business, G. T. LATHROP 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication REV. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. FELIX R. HILL.
REV. H. C. MOORE.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODEREY.
REV. J. O. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS, D. D.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.
REV. CHRISTIAN KEENER.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers at the following rates, including postage:

One Year	$2 00
Six Months	1 00
Three Months	50

To all Ministers of the Gospel and widows of deceased traveling preachers:

One Year	$1 00
Six Months	50
Three Months	25

AUTUMN.

Out of the prickly burrs awaking,
The nuts are ripe for Autumn raking.
And the walnut hangs its treasure golden;
And the summer's sturdy grass is mowed,
Year after year the same.

The blackberry hangs its jewels all,
The wild grape purples on the wall,
And the persimmon's sweet;
But every nest that's in a bush,
And wood, and hedge, and tree,
Is empty now and still.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—The Roman Catholic Church has made a declaration of policy to be adopted everywhere in New England with reference to the question of public education. The Archbishop, in pursuance of that vote, has just approved a decree in the Archdiocese of New England to establish parochial schools in their parishes, and to request parents to send their children to such schools upon pain of the Church's disapprobation.

In other localities, where the influence of public schools is thought to be especially hostile to Roman Catholicism, parishes are to be required within the next certain number of years, even though there be no parochial schools immediately.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 27.—General Gilmore and others made a tour of the Mississippi river in a small steamboat, furnished by the president under the recent act of congress, arrived this morning on the steamer General Burnside and met the surveyors, and will go below. The surveyors will commence work at Helena, Ark.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—Mexican advices state that Captain Land, of the Lookout Democrats, after killing the sheriff of Mazatlan and being cursed on parole by some of the insurgents. The inhabitants of Mazatlan were living basically until the arrival of Admiral Pierce, the latter who was still in office expected to leave for Panama, and who would be followed by Lerdo, on the first train which passed the Isthmus. Both these movements took, contrary to the terms of the convention, many troops out of the city, and was the occasion of the entry.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 26.—At the meeting of the Memphis Cotton Exchange to-day, Mr. Dickson, of the Memphis Appeal, offered a resolution, which was unanimously adopted, declaring that the Cotton Exchange of Memphis will not receive or handle cotton that is not compressed with the round bale compress.

The

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1879.

For the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

THE SEED SOWN BY THE WAYSIDE.

BY PERDITA.

Yes, I'll step inside the door-way,
Just a minute, as I go,
For I've traveled far this morning,
Looking out for work, you know.
Can't remember when the last time
That I darkened such a door;
But I'll step in here and rest me;
As I've twenty miles or more.

While as snow!" the parson said it,
And I'm sure I heard him right,
"For the Eye that seeth all things,"
And my heart is such a sight!
It will do for men whose business,
Like the parson's, is to preach,
But I'd like to see the water
Such a heart as mine could reach!

"Though thy sins should be like scarlet"—
He is speaking right to me!
Scarlet? Yes, with deepest staining,
He must know that I am so—
I am he whose hands are reddened
With my mother's cruel life;
I am he whose tongue has spoken
Impious words in drunken strife!

"Though thy sins should be like scarlet,
I will make them white as snow."
Now he's looking—now he sees me—
Can I stay or shall I go?
How he says it—the full pitch me,
And he stretches out his hands,
While this ringing voice is calling
"All the needy of the lands."

Can he "wash"—for he knows not
What a carnet heart he calls,—
Prepare others richer, better,
On whose ears the bidding falls,
Here are others with gay dresses,
Lovely belles and rich men,
Listening with fair upturned faces,
Such as they have called them.

There is no one half so wicked,
Here within this church's walls,
With such sins, such deep dyed scarlet,
'Tis not me the parson calls.
"Free—as free for all without money"—
He "the thirsty" is giving now!
Come, ye weary, heavy laden,
Here is one can make you whole!

"Here is fountain, open, full of"—
Whose blood cleanseth from all sin,
Here is One whose sweet compassion
Longs to take the sinner in!
Come to Me," the opened fountain,
"I will make thee white as snow."
Come and learn My love can sound it,
And the rest My people know.

Love? Is this now of love he's speaking?
Love Divine for such as me?
Can it be free mercy calls me,
And can save me—can it be?
"Enough," All, yes I'll venture,
For that rest I long to know,
Hope to rest in that blessed Fountain
That will wash me white as snow.

Ministerial Efficiency.—The True Criteria.

BY REV. E. P. HILCH (ALABAMA CONFERENCE.)

The gospel ministry is manifestly a divine institution. Like the moral law, it was "ordained of God in the hands of a mediator." It is the voice of Jehovah speaking to man "through an organ of clay," the oracle of infinite wisdom interpreting his own truth by his own instrumentalities. It is the manifested life divine in the soul of man, the eternal word translating itself into human thought, the revelation of the unseen realities of Heaven to mortal vision, and "the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ." In its sacred declarations are revealed the wonderful counsels of God; in its sublime mysteries are enshrined the destinies of the human soul. Life and salvation, time and eternity, heaven and hell, are the stupendous issues with which it deals—the grand focal centers from which its celestial rays are reflected. Is it any wonder, then, that to the preaching of the gospel so much prominence is given in the evangelical system itself? Is it any wonder that in it is centered and crystalized the deepest and most intense interest of the whole scheme of redemption?—the profoundest concern of God and men and angels. Surely nothing can be of sublimer import to the world and the church than the proclamation of this gospel message, and the qualification of its chosen instrumentalities.

If the preacher of the gospel, therefore, be the divinely constituted medium through whom the Almighty Creator speaks to His creatures, his office is not only the highest and most sacred known to man, but is invested with the most fearful and stupendous responsibilities. This being conceded, the tests and conditions of its greatest efficiency may well claim our most profound attention. Upon this efficiency must depend all the results of success or failure in the whole gospel system, the dissemination of evangelical truth, the awakening of human minds and consciences, the enlightening and salvation of souls, the edification and quickening of believers, the prosperity of the church of Christ, and the glory of God in the redemption of the world.

In this subject of ministerial efficiency, then, are involved the very destinies of Christianity itself in its mission to earth. Around it must gather the hopes, the prayers, the sympathies of the church. Upon it must concentrate the holiest convictions and noblest efforts of the friends and lovers of the Redeemer's kingdom. With a living effective ministry, such as the divine Master contemplated, and such as the success of His cause still demands, the salvation of the world can be no doubtful problem. Without it the highest appliances of skillful organization and ecclesiastical policy are but a solemn mockery and a pitiful failure. An inefficient ministry is but a "counterfeit presentment" of the divine reality. Its frigid outgivings are as the chill exhalations of a Norwegian ice-berg, its vaunted "power" is as the "sword of the Lord," grasped in skeleton hands, and its hollow tones are but the knell of Christianity and the dirge of a sepulchered Savior.

In the light of these facts let us now briefly consider the question as to what constitute the real tests, the true criteria of an effective gospel ministry. There would seem to be, in the inquiry before us, but three general elements, three grand, leading conditions involved: The Divine Commission, the Human Qualification, and the Spiritual Power. These, with a brief specific analysis of each, must suffice for our present discussion.

1. The Divine Commission. That is a divine call to the ministry, a deep, solemn, abiding conviction impressed upon the inmost consciousness of the preacher, of duty, obligation, necessity. "Woe is me if I preach not the gospel!" or something to the same effect. To be thus truly called of God is the first great indispensable condition, the one essential prerequisite without which all else is nothing in comparison. This constitutes the authority of our commission, the motive of our lives, the strength of our efforts, the inspiration of our thoughts, the symbol of our power, the "seal of our apostleship." It is the consecrating touch of living fire on the prophet's lips, unsealing them for the message divine, the mystic voice from the burning bush, summoning the shepherd-prophet to the fiery mount to hear the words of life, and bear them to the hosts of Israel. The man thus called must henceforth bear the impress of a consecrated life, the embassador of heavenly truth, the herald of the Redeemer's kingdom and glory. Oh, blessed mission! Oh, glorious trust! How should our human hearts thrill with the hallowed message! When God thus speaks, how should the souls of men be open to receive "the words of life," and solemnly "take heed how they hear." How can the man thus called trifle with the sacred commission, or prove unfaithful to the awful trust. He dare not do it. Only let this sublime consciousness abide in the soul, even of the humblest minister of God, and it gives a majesty of assurance and power that transforms him, as it were, into "an angel of light." Without it the words, even of the learned and wise, are but as "a sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal."

2. The Human Qualification. This involves, at least, two things: The gifts and the culture—that is, the natural endowments and the mental discipline. Of course it requires mind as well as words to preach the gospel, the capacity to know, to think, to comprehend, to reason, to analyze, to gather up, and to grasp the truth in all its complicated relations, and then the power to give expression to what we know. It takes thought and expression both to expound, with adequate force, the truth of God. The detonation of the crashing thunder peal is but the expression and interpretation of the quivering fire that rends the heavens and shakes the world. The preacher is the interpreter between God and the human soul. His mind grasps the truths divine, his words reveal them to man. But it takes both language and thought to make the revelation. Empty declamation is a very poor substitute for burning thought, and consecrated stupidity can never take the place of sanctified intelligence. Hence, in the second place, to preach the gospel requires the cultivation of mind as well as mental capacity. He who would teach others must himself be taught. He who would impart knowledge to others must himself be "filled with all knowledge and understanding;" and he who would lead others to the truth must himself be made "wise unto salvation"—"thoroughly furnished unto every good word and work." Of one thing we may be sure, and that is that every true minister of God who feels the burden of his sacred mission and recognizes its solemn trust, will seek to do this to the fullest extent in his power. with labor and striving and toil, whether in "classic shades" or "college halls," or humble cabin home, to store his mind with knowledge and cultivate his powers, and will in some wise "study to show himself approved unto God, a workman, indeed, that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." There is no excuse for whining indolence and stupid regrets about the want of early advantages. Every man called of God to preach, and with capacity to do so, can improve himself, if he will. It is not the advantages that make the man, but the will, the earnestness, the application and the gifts. Great souls cannot be repressed, real minds cannot be kept down. Even earnest mediocrity will rise to its level if the man will only study and pray with all his heart. But he who is content with nothing—aims at nothing—will be sure to hit the mark. Neither in all charity is there any apology for the poor, meager, threadbare sermons so often preached, year after year, by men who might do better. Of course the best men fail sometimes. But we speak of those who never succeed, whose sermons are chronic failures, always breathless and sinewless, and, like the bones in the Valley of Vision, "very dry."

3. The Spiritual Power. This is the great, all-important and crowning condition. We must be "endued with the power from on high." It requires special grace—the baptismal anointing—to preach the gospel, with "the Holy Ghost sent down from Heaven." There are words often on our tongues and in our sermons, but what we need is the reality in our hearts. This implies: 1. A genuine, infelt Christian experience—"Christ in us, the hope of glory." 2. A deep, all-pervading sense of the divine presence with us. From this consciousness comes the hallowed assurance of help from God, and the conviction that the work is His, and not our own. Self is forgotten, and "Christ crucified" fills the whole hemisphere of our vision. It is then that the grandeur of the gospel message translates itself into human language, and echoes through the soul like the music of an angel's song, and sheds the radiance of apocalyptic glory around every theme it touches. 3. The "baptism of the Holy Spirit" upon the word and upon the soul. This is "the promise of the Father," and the heritage of the ministry. It needs no elaborate argument to show that the infinite Spirit can and does so touch the emotions and quicken the intellectual faculties as to impart a sort of supernatural intensity and power to breathing thought and burning word from human lips. It cannot be doubted that these divinely awakened conceptions and utterances of gospel truth can invest the Christian ministry with a wonderful force and effectiveness. Two plain facts will serve to illustrate this subject. One is that the impression made upon the minds of an audience will be in direct proportion to the vividness and intensity of the preacher's conception of his subject; the other is that the emotions and feelings which affect our own minds in preaching will be reciprocally reproduced in the hearts of others. To this we may add another, and that is that when our own hearts are stirred with some deep and sublime emotion it certainly gives a greater brilliancy and power to our own conceptions of truth. Now, putting all these together, it is manifestly self-evident that a soul thus operated upon by the divine Spirit can declare the word of God with a quickening effectiveness otherwise inconceivable. This is true eloquence. A grand thought thus conceived and felt is a power in itself. Utterance will come with the inspiration of the thought, words will thrill and sentences glow, "as if an angel spoke," and the preacher himself will feel the transforming power. He will preach, as for God and eternity. No mincing, and trimming, and time-serving, nor etherial nonsense, nor sounding bombast, but the word of life to dying men.

It is not the dry, fossiliferous written discourse, nor the cold, formal and effete theological essay, nor the sensational pulpit oration, gilt-edged and rose-tinted, that will awaken dead souls sepulchered in "carnal security," but the spiritual power of a living ministry, baptized with the Holy Ghost, which is, indeed, "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." We hear much in these days of the preaching for the times, but this is the preaching for all times, for all occasions, God with us, in His own word, the inspiration and life of a consecrated ministry. This makes its true efficiency. It is ours to possess, to attain as a present evangelical heritage. The Master has spoken: "Lo! I am with you alway, even to the end of the world." Go forth, then, O man of God, "bearing precious seed," and the harvest shall be glorious. Study and wrestle, and think and pray—plead mightily, even with agonizing and tears—until the "day star" from on high appears, and the power is given. And then, with the commission of Heaven upon you, and message fresh and glowing from the fiery mount of holy communion, and lips new touched with hallowed flame, your words shall burn with thrilling intensity, and "the light of God, in the face of Jesus Christ," shall be revealed "from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord."

Marianna District Again.

MR. EDITOR: Among the Field Notes in your ADVOCATE of the thirteenth instant I notice a communication from Rev. Elisha Philips, presiding elder of the Marianna district, Alabama Conference, in which he states that the "Marianna district is now in its twentieth year, and not in its forty-ninth, as some one has asserted," and then concludes his note by saying: "I hope interested parties who write about this district will state facts, and not guess." Now it is very evident, and not guess-work, that he had reference to my report of the Marianna District Conference, which was published in your ADVOCATE some time last July or August, and was reviewed by a Troy (Ala.) critic shortly after its publication. In this report I stated that the Marianna district had been organized forty-nine years. However, this has proven to be a mistake, yet it was no guess work with me. If the presiding elder who presided at the Marianna District Conference will remember, he can know, without guessing, that it was asserted in the preamble of a series of resolutions respecting district parsonage, which reads as follows: "Whereas, The Marianna district has been a regularly organized district for forty eight or forty-nine years," etc. These resolutions, with preamble, were read and discussed for some time in the Marianna District Conference, held at Marianna, Fla., June 26-28, 1879, which I reported through the ADVOCATE.

Therefore, if the presiding elder was in possession of the facts at that time, he did the Conference, and especially those who framed said resolutions an unkindness by not correcting the error. Though if he was not in possession of the facts at that time, but has received them since, he has done me a great injustice by not explaining the mistake. But, instead of doing this, he has positively asserted a direct contradiction to part of my report, and intimated that the whole was a mere guess. But, if the report was guess-work, the members of that District Conference were the guessers, with no objections or corrections on the part of the presiding elder. Every member of that Conference can testify that I was very particular in interrogating the pastors as to the financial condition of their respective charges, and of the number of Advocates taken, which I stated in my report.

The Troy critic seemed to be inclined to harp on seemingly inconsistencies of my report. I am not responsible for that I asserted, that the Conference appeared to be alive on the parsonage question, and so it did, (speeches were made by men, I fear, will never need a parsonage,) but I am not responsible for what the district does, or what it does not, and I assure you that it would be no interest for me whatever to guess. I was requested to write the report, or I should never have done so, for it was exceedingly difficult to do.

And, Mr. Editor, my report of the Marianna District Conference was not "guess," but everything it contained was done and represented as facts at the Conference, whether they were or not, and there being no objections or corrections by the president or others, I deemed everything to be facts and proper. My presiding elder and I are the best of friends. Therefore it is only in vindication of my report that I write this, and claim that an injustice has been done me by an asserted contradiction of my report, or part of it, at least, without explaining wherein the mistake was made. I admit that guessing does harm, but contradiction does greater harm if not well founded.

I assure you and the presiding elder of the Marianna district that most emphatically I do not think, speak, preach or write by guess!

Fraternally,

J. P. ANDERSON.

EARLEHAT, FLA., Nov. 20, 1879.

Sundry and Serious Evils.

MR. EDITOR: St. John said to the church: "Nevertheless, I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love." May not the same charge be made against some professors of religion at the present time? If some have not left their first love, it is because they never had it. There can be no salvation without an open, heartfelt confession of Christ, and a life of good fruits, as the result of the confession. Some of the worst men in our land make an intellectual confession of Christ, while in their hearts they would crucify Him if He lived in the earth, as He once did. Do we not see some members of the church say by their acts: "I never knew the man?" Have we not seen them when they seemed to have lost their first love by meeting their pastor in the presence of sinners, and calling him Mr. Jones, and the next Sunday at church recognize him as Bro. Jones? Have we not seen them invite the preacher to their houses, and have him to pray in the family, and the next Sunday take their seats with sinners at the church? Have we not seen them refuse to take sacrament, because they did not feel worthy? They had lost their first love. Salvation cannot be secured by confessing Christ in the presence of his people, and denying Him in the presence of His enemies. "Whosoever, therefore, shall confess Me before men, him will I confess, also, before my Father which is in heaven." "But, whosoever shall deny Me before men, him will I also deny before my Father which is in heaven." The literature of our church is neglected and discarded for the want of love for Christ's cause. How often do we see members of our own church making liberal contributions to secular literature, and refusing to provide their families with religious literature. "He that fails to provide for his own household hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel." Where does the habitual whisky-drinker manifest his love for Christ? Who ever knew a member of the church to pray habitually in secret, or at the family altar, and at the same time drink whisky habitually? Either the habitual use of whisky as a beverage, or the sale of it as a beverage, will burn the grace of God out of the soul as completely as fire will burn cotton out of a stove pipe, and the soul will be left as hollow and as hard as a stove pipe. Mr. Editor, there are some other things the brethren ought not to do.

LAYMAN.

The Right Way.

"A number of the young ladies of our community went into the cotton-field and picked cotton to raise money to buy a Bible for our new church. They were among the noblest of our little village, and were successful in this undertaking. They picked Nineteen hundred pounds, and received $30."—M. S. Hotchkiss, Winchester, Texas, in Texas Advocate.

These young ladies displayed a commendable spirit, rather than those who raise money for the church by mite parties, where they have theatrical performances, negro minstrels, masks, grotesque costumes, and dialogues of questionable propriety.

W. HANCHOVE MORRIS.

Thanks.

MR. EDITOR: Please return thanks to those who have so promptly and generously responded to my proposition. We will make the amount received $2 55 go as far as possible. If there are yet others who desire to cast in their mite, instead of remitting to myself, they will please remit to Mrs. W. M. Morris, Burtonia, Washington county, Miss.

Your brother,

W. P. ANDREWS.

PALMETTO HOME, Nov. 1, 1879.

Obituaries.

Correspondents, please write names and dates very distinctly. We follow copy on proper names. Obituary notices should be forwarded promptly and immediately. Give only points of general interest, such as will help the living. Details of funeral services, and such phrases as "mourn their loss," etc., are not edifying. Verse, either original or select, not admissible in this department. Give the locality distinctly and in full. In the case of infants only a simple announcement of the death, with names and dates, will be published.

DR JOHN C. TAYLOR, of Parkland, Ala., while on a visit in the family of his son-in-law, Col. J. T. Terry, in Birmingham, Ala., departed this life November 3, 1879, in the sixty-eighth year of his age. Dr. Taylor was a native of Columbia, S. C., was in early manhood married there to Miss Mary D. Thornton, and there began his professional life in 1837. He moved to Alabama, stopped a year in Perry county, and moved in 1840 to Parkland, Orleen county, where he was residing when he died.

He was sadly bereaved, in 1864, by the loss of the wife of his youth and riper years. In 1867 he was united to Mrs. Cornelia Bragg in matrimony, his second wife, who died last April, leaving him overwhelmed with grief and dejected in spirits. He left five children all grown and settled in life—two daughters, all married, and an only son, no two of them residing at the same place—Mrs. D. D. Connerly, at Hamburg, Ark.; Mrs. J. V. Glass, Wheelock, Texas; Mrs. D. A. Cockrell, Livingston, Ala., and Mrs. W. K. Taylor, Parkland, Ala.

He had been a physician in active and successful practice for forty-five years, and was held in high esteem by those to whom he administered, and by his brethren in the profession. He was a good citizen, an obliging neighbor, an affectionate and kind husband, an indulgent and tender father. He was rather scholarly, but modest almost to a fault. He had been an humble and consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, for over a half century. During the last few months of his life he enjoyed a high state of religious experience, and would often in family worship be overwhelmed with joy. He was a faithful steward in the church. The Saturday before his death he reminded his brethren to meet the next Saturday in conference, and said, with a sigh, "You must do the work now without my presence." His trust in his Redeemer was most complete. His own will he had surrendered, and said, "Let God's will be done in all things." He said his life-work was done, and said he was willing and ready to depart at the pleasure of his Heavenly Father. He said he had not been conscious of any pain in his sickness, and soon after became entirely unconscious and passed away. So ended the life of Dr. Taylor, as serene as a cloudless sunset fading into soothing twilight. How blessed thus to die.

D. J. WRIGHT, P. C.

MRS. CAROLINE BONIFOY, wife of George P. Bonifoy, died, in Pollard, Ala., October 26, 1879, after a long and painful illness, aged sixty years.

She was born in Coweta county, Ga., November 5, 1819; removed in Florida early in life, thence to Alabama, about sixteen years ago. When about twenty years old she joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which she remained a consistent member to the day of her death. During all these years, without display, without clashing of others conformity to her standard of social life, and yet without heeding to the whims of modern fashion, or even pretending respect for many of the ridiculous forms of social ethics, she pursued the even tenor of her way, scattering here and there, as she went, the grateful fruits of charity and beneficence to the needy and distressed around her. No conventionalities obscured the secret motives of her life. Frank and artless as a child, the very thoughts and purposes of her mind shone out to invite you into her confidence. She visited the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and kept herself unspotted from the world. She testified to the truth of her religion by the silent evidence of an upright walk, a cheerful conversation, and her alms bestowed without ostentation on the needy around her.

Her life was a pattern of industry and economy worthy of imitation by the generations succeeding her. In all the relations of life, as wife, mother, neighbor, friend, she was affectionate, devoted, unselfish and true. She will be sadly missed in all these. The gap in the ranks of life's busy workers will soon be closed as all hearts on earth are common heritage of the dead. But the example of her religious and cheerful disposition while she adorned the life of a Christian woman, and her faithfulness in fulfilling a consecrated life, will long be remembered. May the prayers of her husband and children all in the presence of God, be answered in the profession and practice of them of her kindred who do not yet embrace religion.

A FRIEND.

MRS. GEORGIANA A. ANDERSON died at her residence in New Orleans, La., November 9, 1879, aged seventy-nine years.

Mrs. Anderson was a daughter of Mr. William Walker, and was born in Nicholasville, Ky. In early girlhood she was married to Mr. John Anderson, a prominent young lawyer, with whom she removed to Missouri, where he died a few years after. She then moved to Vicksburg, Miss., where most of her life was spent. Some years ago, during the war, she was forced to flee from Vicksburg, and went to Texas as a refugee, where she remained until the close of the war, when she returned to Vicksburg, and there she has lived in the midst of her children and grandchildren.

She was a woman of rare mind and character, and of great force of character, combined, as it was, with a keen sense of the beautiful. Her taste for cultivating flowers, a kind friend observed on the occasion of her funeral, was a beautiful illustration of her character, which in her dreamy moments of leisure entertained, and which rendered her cheerful and cordial in her relations with others. She was a gentle, noble Christian woman of the old type.

When quite young she united with the Methodist Church, of which she remained a devoted and consistent member until death. Her last illness was short and painful, but she kept up to the last, and, fearful for the safety of her children, kept writing. She was in great danger till death had removed her from them. Then we have little to console every prayerful, watchful life. A few minutes before she passed away she sang to her Jesus, her favorite hymn, which she frequently repeated in times of prayer. She leaves two daughters to mourn her loss, but look forward to a meeting across the beautiful river where they will soon meet and rest under the shade of the trees.

WILEY W. HOLMES, son of Wm. and L. C. Holmes, died in Bossier parish, La., August 26, 1879, aged twenty-two years and six months. We had known the deceased for over two years; as his pastor during that time I knew him to be a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and as a young man of unblemished character. In all the business relations of life he was strictly honest and upright. He was a devoted son, and on both for his honesty and integrity. At the time of his death he was a student at law in the office of Col. Fullilove, and J. M. Lester, Esq., in Arcadia, Bienville parish, La. His remains were taken to his former home in Bossier parish, and interred in the family graveyard. We were not present at the burial, but from all we could learn the funeral was largely attended. Though the young man was taken away suddenly, he was prepared for the change, and was ready to depart in less than twenty-four hours from the time he was taken sick. Of course the stated fact was not true that he was not prepared; he only regretted he could not be at home with father and mother and give them his last farewell. "Yes, sparkling was the cup laid away, lest that wicked one should alter his mind, or by spiriting or fresh beguile his soul." He pleased the Lord, therefore hasted He to take him away from among the wicked. To his dear father and mother and relations we would say, "Sorrow not as others who have no hope." When this cup passed over the river to make heaven the nearer home.

J. M. PRESTON.

JOHN ROBERT SPEARMAN, son of R. T. and Jane Spearman, was born November 29, 1855, and died in the triumphs of a living faith in Desoto parish, La., November 11, 1879. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1875, under the ministry of the Rev. M. L. Mayo. We buried him to-day at the Presbyterian Church in Grand Cane, Desoto parish, La., amidst the tears and sobs of bereaved parents and friends, but their sorrow is not as those who have no hope. Shortly before he died he said: "I am in great pain, but feel right well." Strange paradox to the unbelieving.

JOHN PAGE.

MRS. NANCY E. ROSS, wife of Capt. C. A. Ross, died at Bayou la Batre, Mobile county, Ala., November 1, 1879, in the twenty-eight year of her age.

To a faithful, amiable and affectionate disposition in the character of Sister Ross, there was added a comprehension and consistent Christian life. Quiet and retiring in her manners, her religious character assumed the same unobtrusive type, yet always pronounced and decided. With her there was no compromise with evil in any of its various forms. Humble and trustful, like Mary, she loved to sit at the Master's feet. Here she found her "inward refreshings" and spirit of cheerfulness.

The agony of terrible suffering from disease, the nature of which forbade hope of recovery, no murmur escaped her lips, but calmly hope all till the hour of deliverance came, then quietly fell asleep. The writer was with her in the tripple capacity of friend, physician and minister. To him in her last and to her friends she gave evidence of "full assurance of hope," of her desire to "depart and be with Christ." O, what a rich legacy! Those are the loved of earth, only "passing to the other shore, between us and them but mighty the veil intervenes."

W. M. LOVELADY.

SALLIE ELLA, daughter of S. W. and Tabitha Mason, died, near Cheneyville, La., November 8, 1879, aged five years, two months and twenty four days. On the morning of the fourth she caught fire. The family were all at breakfast, and she was severely burned. Her sufferings were great. After about thirty-four hours her spirit took its flight into the eternal home. It seemed that she knew that her time was short, and before she went on the road, "Oh, I am so glad, I am so glad." These were her last words. We, too, were glad for the little sufferer.

S. K. MANN.

DORSEY B., son of W. D. and M. A. Felts, was born December 1, 1864, and died August 28, 1879. Given to God in holy baptism when a child, he recognized what was done for him in infancy by acknowledging his responsibility to the church. He intended to come forward in a few days and assume the obligations of church membership, but was stricken down suddenly. Of quiet disposition, ever truthful, obedient to parents, using no bad language, we conclude he has gone to heaven.

P. A. JOHNSTON.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1879.

LITTLE ELSIE.

Two small white hands, with fingers meekly folded
Upon her quiet breast;
A sweet pale face that seems in marble molded;
Is she at rest?
Did she grow weary at her happy play,
And will she wake again at close of day?

No, little Elsie never more will waken
To smile or play;
The angels (scarce more pure) have come and taken
Our pet away;
And yet we think her spirit cannot be
More lovely than this little form we see.

Oh the dear lips a flut'ter rose still lingers,
Reluctant to depart;
And, as we press the dimpled, ice cold fingers
In anguish to our heart,
We cannot find it in our hearts to spare
To the dark grave a thing so bright and fair.

O, blind and weak! let us return to heaven
What was but lent awhile,
Knowing how soon again she will be given
Back, with strange love within her baby mind,
And knowledge which no stage of earth could find.

Safe, darling Elsie, in God's sheltered safety
We lay thee, little flower!
Taking, through our weary earthly bondage,
Thy memories for our hour!
When Death, the leader, beckoneth us mild,
Shall greet us more as sister than as child!

—Chambers' Journal.

Statistics on Longevity.

BY W. H. FAIL, M. D.

"Assuming that a reasonable proportion of the readers of the Christian Union possess a desire to remain in the body till they reach the age of seventy or eighty years, I epitomize for their consideration a report made by Dr. Hutchinson, assistant medical examiner of the United States Insurance Company, to the directors of said company. Dr. Hutchinson last year scattered broadcast through the Northern States circulars containing questions relative to the longevity of the parents and personal habits, occupations, etc., of the answerer, who was to be at least seventy years of age. The investigation was limited to males. One hundred and eighty were returned. Of these 150 men, who were all over seventy years of age, the oldest was ninety-six. Ten were over ninety, 58 over eighty. The average age was 77 5-12 years. Twenty-eight of the 150 had a consumptive taint of greater or less degree at the age of thirty, showing what healthful occupations and hygienic surroundings can do to overcome the power of this great scourge of our race.

One hundred had blue eyes, 41 gray, 25 black and only 14 brown. Eighty-three had brown hair, 29 black, 14 light and 11 auburn; 135 were blessed with a full head of hair, and only 21 showed any evidence of baldness. In answer to the very common belief that people with hairy bodies (Esaus) live longer than those with smooth bodies, we find but thirty of these 150 septuagenarians who were hirsute. Twenty-one report themselves as having poor teeth. Only eight speak of having weak voices.

As to the important question shutting their habits in the use of alcoholic spirits, "at the age of thirty 51 were total abstainers from its use (a rather unusual thing in those days) against 81 later in life; of habitual yet moderate users, at thirty there were 11 against 13 in later life; and of occasional moderate users at thirty there were 105 against 69 later on. Those reported as intemperate users at thirty were 7 against 6 later on."

A physician in the West notified Dr. Hutchinson that he would send him a goodly number of instances where men who had been hard drinkers all their lives had reached the age of seventy and over. But upon examining them he found, to his surprise, that only one or two out of his "Old guard of whisky fraves," as he called them, were seventy, though the whole lot were "old looking, gray, bent and feeble."

Of our 150 at thirty 151 were married, and 25 of the remaining 29 subsequently became so, leaving only 4 who "fought it out" on the line of single blessedness. If this statement shall be read by any bachelors, and it does not induce them to repent and get married, then statistics have no influence as a converting power.

As to occupation, at thirty 17 followed the liberal professions, 20 mercantile pursuits, 32 worked at trades, and 77, more or less, engaged in agricultural life.

As regards the use of tobacco, at thirty 61 did not use it in any form, and 143 did either chew or smoke, or both. Not once was snuff-taking reported; 3 made no report. Under the head of residence the majority spent most of their lives in the country, as distinguished from the city; but then the inquiry was pushed more in the country than in the city. Almost all report no vacation or systematic recreation, but a steady attendance to business during the whole of their lives. Nine used coffee alone, 30 tea alone, 125 both, and only 8 instances are reported in which neither one was used. As to diet, nearly all subsisted on mixed animal and vegetable food, and not more than two or three were vegetarians.

Almost without exception were these old men early retirers to sleep and early risers. The ages of 238 grandparents of these old men are given, showing an average of 74 4 12 years. The average of 317 parents are given, and show that of the fathers to be 71 2 12, and of the mothers 72 4 12 years. One interesting case of family longevity we notice. The respondent himself is now 92 years old; his father and mother died at ages of 86 and 94 respectively; four brothers reached 77, 82, 85 and 90; two sisters reached 85 and 92. This comprises the whole family, none having died in childhood, early or middle life. Still another item of interest is that of a six-fingered family, in which, for several generations, the respondent's ancestors were supplied with these extra digits; he himself has them, and so also have all of his children."

"We shall notice one more interesting instance coming to our knowledge while perusing these records. Many years ago a little book appeared, entitled 'Riley's Narrative,' giving an account of the shipwreck of a vessel on the north coast of Africa, and the capture and enslavement of the crew by the Arabs. It now transpires that one of our old men (seventy-seven years of age) was a cabin boy in that ship. He lived to escape from his captors, and subsequently spent fifteen or twenty years in Mexico. Now, after an eventful life, he is residing quietly in New England."

To these interesting statistics we would add some items in the history of old Aunt Fanny, who is quietly and comfortably awaiting the coming of her Master, though eighty-three years old last Saturday, and nearly blind. Let us go back sixty-four years, and, entering the amphitheater of New York Hospital, consider one of the scenes which occurred there at that date. As we go in we see fifty or sixty medical students arranged in the seats anxious to witness the operation to be performed according to the notice on the bulletin. In the arena are seven surgeons. On the operating table lies a young colored woman, nineteen years old, with a tumor on her neck which threatens her life. She is told that she may survive the operation, and may possibly live a few years—but unless the operation is performed she can only live a few weeks. Four strong men stand ready to hold her on the table and prevent her making any movements which might interfere with the operation—for this is before the days of ether and chloroform. Happily she faints, and their services are not needed. The operation is ended, and the porters carry from the arena one who is destined not only to outlive the surgeons who performed the operation and the porters who are bearing her, but also all of the students who have been so closely studying her case and have cast pitying glances at her as they thought how soon she must die! How poor the chances that she would outlive them all! And yet she has, in all likelihood.—Christian Union.

THE DRUNKARD'S DEATH.—Did you ever see a drunkard die? I knew one who died upon his chair. I knew one who froze to death, with his bottle fully his side. I knew one who was drowned. They die on the pavement, they die in the gutter, they die on their horses, they die along the roadside, they die in the disgusting cell, they die away from home, and when they die at home their friends often wish they had died away. They die unconscious, they die asleep, they die weeping, they die groaning, they die screaming, they die raving, they die cursing. But, oh! when with delirium tremens he dies, the scene is one of horror. No painter can paint the terrors of that hour. If he attempts it, however, he must have a background of awful shades. If he pencils a few arrow gleams of red lightning upon the margin it will be an improvement. Then every character he limns upon the canvas must have a ghastly, fiery shape. And every shape must be girted with a band of twisting and writhing serpents. The painting must be so natural that you can see a sting in every tail, and crooked fang in every mouth. If he paint a scaly dragon, with eyes of rolling fire and nostrils of wheezing flame, with enormous wings of laminated bone fringed with jagged barbs dipped with venom, with a monstrous tail of hideous windings—and in whose sulphurous wake an army of hobgoblins hover—the picture is but the truer. Then the painter must have the power to give his characters life, and fling them from the canvas all over the room—his fiends hanging upon the wall, dropping from ceilings and dancing in the air, his serpents crashing upon the floor and horribly hissing—and his dragon with its fearful train hanging over the dying drunkard's pillow. Drunkards die; but who desires to be the witness? We might fall into the blushing funeral train, and follow him to his burial; and stand around his grave; and there hear the broken-hearted widow weep, and ragged children cry—but let us turn away, and forget him if we can.—Extract from a Lecture by Rev. W. E. Mahaney.

A correspondent of the Philadelphia Press thus describes the great English Liberal leader: "Mr. Gladstone's dwelling is a plain, spacious house, one of a substantial 'row,' with the ordinary architectureless front of a cheek-built city street. It is located in one of the most solid and respectable quarters of London. Inside there is only the usual provision of the average well-off citizen—a great deal of comfort, but no display. He avoids the palace atmosphere in his own home, just as he eschews the glamour of imperial ideas in politics. Simplicity is, indeed, one of Mr. Gladstone's ruling characteristics. The visiting card of the Ex-Premier of England reads simply, 'Mr. W. E. Gladstone.' In this modest house the work-room of the veteran statesman is a modest-sized chamber on the second story—lined with books and very solidly furnished with heavy table, large, comfortable leathern chairs, and a few fine engravings, some of political, some of art interest—the day's papers on the floor. A vase of fresh flowers, full of color and bloom, smiled through the sombre smoke and muddy fog of London. In personal appearance Mr. Gladstone is an active, lithe, muscular man, rather tall, and of well-proportioned frame. His face and figure have that elegant contour which generally indicates several generations of intellectual activity and personal leadership. Mr. Gladstone is the descendant of a long line of Scottish landlords of small wealth and limited possessions, but accustomed to stand first in their community, to think and to lead. The face is scholarly, cultivated, its outlines boldly defined by that meagerness of muscle which distinguishes the intellectual athlete. There is not an ounce of superfluous flesh on it. The thin lips and well-cut mouth and chin betoken firmness, determination and endurance. Seventy summers have sat lightly on Mr. Gladstone, but the years have brought their blessing of rest, and his face in general wears the repose of strength and experience—strongly lined with the record of struggle and thought. A new fact, however, or an aggressive opinion wakes the whole man with the fire of youth, and the eye flashes with eager light, and the body bends quickly forward as if to grasp a fresh acquisition."

Religious Intelligence.

—The mission of the Scottish United Presbyterian Church in Kaffraland has now ten missionaries, ten or eleven central stations, about thirty outstations, native evangelists and school-masters, several hundred scholars in day-schools, and a considerable number of communicants. The mission, however, has had a trying history. In 1857 it had almost died out, and two missionaries were sent out to revive it. Since then it has been a living mission, now prosperous and now discouraging. The missionaries have labored chiefly among the Gaika and Galeka tribes, who are located on both sides of the Kei river. In 1877 a war broke out between these tribes and the neighboring Fingoes, who had excited their jealousy by the favor with which they were treated by the British colonial authorities. Two of the missionaries laboring in the Trans-Kei among the Galekas were ordered to leave at once by the colonial authorities, which they did, receiving no little kindness from Kreli, chief of the Gaikas. The missionaries were hurried off before they could pack anything up to take away. So much goods on the mission premises were lost when the houses were sacked and destroyed. The stations on the colonial side of the Kei were all abandoned to natives. Churches, school-houses, and the huts of Christians shared the same fate. Only two stations in Kaffraland remained undisturbed, while the Kafir Christians were scattered abroad. The rebellious tribes were soon subdued; but as soon as the war was ended, those Gaikas who had remained loyal were ordered to cross the Kei, an injunction which they felt most keenly. The whole Gaika territory was thus depopulated, save one station, which, at the earnest request of the missionaries, was allowed to remain undisturbed. Two of the missionaries crossed the Kei, and are laboring among the loyal Gaikas. How far shall the church submit to this arbitrary policy? The Presbytery of Kaffraland holds a title to deserters at one of the abandoned stations, Henderson. And what about the mission property destroyed? Ought not damages be demanded of the government? These are questions which the missionaries are considering. The mission has devoted itself exclusively to the native tribes, leaving European settlers to other missions, and also solely to evangelistic work. The Synod appointed a deputation to visit the mission, and it is hoped that good results may flow from the visitation. One good effect of the war is the overthrow of the power of the chiefs, who exercised an untoward influence over the people, causing them to stick to their heathenish customs and to resist the gospel. The self-supporting churches of the same denomination in South Africa urge that these missions be constituted into churches as soon as possible and be put in the way of providing for themselves, thus relieving the Mission Board in Scotland of considerable expense.—Independent.

A NEW DEPARTURE IN CHURCH MEMBERSHIP.—A movement of considerable importance, probably, in its bearings on the practical relations to each other of members of the various Evangelical denominations, was initiated on the fourteenth instant by the opening of the new Baptist Church at Bowden. By a clause in the trust deed of the property provision is made for the admission to members of Evangelical Christians of all denominations. Such members—that they may fully preserve their own consistency as Presbyterians, Episcopalians, Wesleyans, etc., are to be styled "non-denominational members;" and, in order that the church may maintain its distinctive principles intact, they are not to speak or vote at church meetings upon matters affecting baptism or other recognized points of difference between themselves and the denomination. No doubt if the plan here indicated were generally acted upon there would be found in many localities one strong and vigorous church, instead of three or four struggling denominations. The advocates of this new departure, as it may be termed, in religious matters point out that various important societies are maintained by persons representing all sections of Evangelical Christians, and they think that in church matters much generous co-operation may be secured between persons whose points of agreement are greater and more important than those of difference, by the frank recognition of the latter and a general consent to treat them as open questions.—Manchester Guardian.

THE LONDON MISSIONARY SOCIETY'S CENTRAL AFRICAN MISSION.—The mail that has just arrived from Zanzibar has, we understand, brought no tidings whatever from the interior of Africa, either to the London Missionary Society or to any friends of its missionaries at the lake, from whom nothing has been heard since February last. Of course, it is possible, and it may be probable, that letters have been intercepted by the Arab slave-traders, or that the messenger charged with their delivery at Zanzibar may have fallen ill, or have died on the way. We were recently informed by a gentleman having extensive commercial relations with the district that he has sometimes known more than a year to pass without any intelligence being received from his agents in the interior. He added the expression of a confident opinion that if any harm had befallen the missionaries at the lake, rumors of it would certainly have reached the coast ere this, for ill-tidings travel swiftly even in Africa. Still, it cannot be disguised that much concern exists at this prolonged silence, especially after the fatalities that have attended past efforts to establish the mission at Ujiji.—Nonconformist.

—The Manchester Guardian's London correspondent writes: The death of the Rev. Nicholas Armstrong, which took place at Alburyhearth on the seventh instant, marks as nearly as possible the last stages of what some may regard as a crisis in the "Catholic Apostolic Church," popularly known as "Irvingites." Mr. Armstrong was the last but one survivor of the apostolic brotherhood, the Apostle of England, Mr. John Bates Cardale, having pre deceased him in July, 1877. A surpassing interest attaches to the sole remaining apostle, for a belief had prevailed that the second coming of Christ would take place before the last of the band of apostles has passed away. As it is nearly fifty years since the "Reanimation" of the apostolate, it will be seen that within a very short period, to be measured by the duration of a single and now protracted life, either a momentous event is to be realized or an article of Irvingite belief has to be exploded or modified.

—The Jewish Missions, Protestant Episcopal, in New York are going on with their work with some measure of success. The report concludes by calling attention to the decadence of religion among the Jews, with the rapid progress of rationalizing principles and tendencies, and pleads the need of earnest missionary work among them. Whatever difficulties and prejudices may lie in the way "the church cannot place herself in antagonism to the great final commission delivered to her by her Lord—to preach the gospel to every creature. The reality of these missions in our day," it declares, "need not to be attested in the presence of the four Jewish bishops who have adorned the church, and have consecrated their lives to the foreign mission field." The work has been charged for the next ecclesiastical year.

—In the Stockholm District, Sweden, the presiding elder judges "we preach to at least 13,000 persons every Sabbath. We have 136 appointments, 20 societies, 20 pastors, 16 chapels, which will accommodate 2,975 persons. We have 37 local preachers, 50 exhorters, 2,147 members in full connection, and 1,072 probationers. Notwithstanding the great number of removals in consequence of hard times, we report 53 increase this year. Four hundred and thirty-seven persons have legally withdrawn from the State Church, and united with us. In ministering among the churches of my district during the year, I traveled 6,500 English miles."—New York Christian Advocate.

—Seven years of earnest, intelligent, and unremitting labor have wrought admirable results in heathen Formosa. When Mr. McKay was sent to Northern Formosa by the Canada Presbyterian Mission Board in 1872, heathenism reigned supreme there. Now there are seven schools, with 150 scholars, fifteen chapels, with as many trained native preachers, five trained helpers, two Bible women, a hospital, and 263 communicants, including eleven elders and five deacons. The number of hearers is estimated at 2,000.

—The November monthly meeting of the managers of the American Bible Society was held on the sixth. It has seven colporteurs in Mexico. Grants of books were made to the value of nearly $14,000; including $6,000 for colportage work, $5,000 to the American Missionary Association, and 11,000 volumes to the New York Bible Society. The receipts for October were $36,915 61. The number of volumes issued, 103,858.

—The Las Vegas (New Mexico) Gazette gives an interesting account of the consecration of the first Episcopal Church in that territory. The church will be called St. Paul's. It was consecrated by Bishop Spaulding, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Forrester, who is the rector, and two other clergymen. The bishop preached the sermon.

—Dr. Somerville met with the same success in Marseilles that he had in Nimes and other places in France during his evangelistic tour. It is said that his work in Nimes has led the Christians of that city to begin a settled mission for the people. The same has occurred in other towns of France where Dr. Somerville has preached.

—Rev. Dr. Kirkus, rector of one of the Protestant Episcopal Churches in Baltimore, asked, recently, for contributions of "gold, silver and jewelry" from the congregation toward the manufacture of a new communion service, and received in response to his appeal offerings of jewelry and ornaments to the value of $1,100.

—The Belfast (Ireland) Presbytery is gravely discussing the question whether in the parish of Newtownbreda a special service in which a harmonium is used should longer be tolerated. The special service has a larger attendance than either of the two regular services, where no instrumental music is allowed.

—Bishop McKendree was an officer in the American army, at the capitulation of the British at Yorktown. The Richmond Advocate says but few in the Methodist Church are aware of this fact in the bishop's life.

—The fine building of the Glasgow Christian Institute, erected at a cost of $150,000, nearly all of which was contributed by the merchant princes of that city, was opened October 17, by the Earl of Shaftesbury.

—The five Protestant ministers of Petaluma, California, have arranged to supply all the school-houses within ten miles of that city with preaching services every Sabbath afternoon.

—Miss Benson, of Philadelphia, who has given considerable money to Reformed Episcopal Churches, has helped the Cummins Memorial Church, Baltimore, free from its financial difficulties.

—The Lutherische Kalender for 1880 reports for all the Lutherans in America, 3,087 ministers, 5,370 congregations, and 659,705 communicants.

Our Young People.

NUTTING.

BY MRS. E. S. L. THOMPSON.

Away o'er the hills this autumn morn,
Away over fields of golden corn
To musle of winds are dropping down
The scarlet leaves and the nuts so brown.

E'en chestnut burs to the frost's caress
Will give to the earth of their largess;
We'll go her up with a right good will
The chestnuts brown on Monadnock hill.

And we'll not forget the nutsy dell,
Where the scarlet partridge berries dwell;
Nor creeping snowberried, Prue's delight,
With their dyrate like leave and berries white.

Come, Fanny and Ross, dear Posy and Kate
For Tom is waiting beyond the gate
I have a sack and a basket, too,
To gather nuggets and berries for Prue.

We'll eat our dinners beneath the trees,
In the golden sunshine autumn gives;
And we'll shout to all whom we meet the cheer—
Out in the woods is the place for fun!

Witches' Night.

The Romans brought this festival to England; there it became All-Hallows, and the evening before it, Hallow-even or Halloween, and that was the night sacred to charms and games. In the seventeenth century England gave up the night to feasting and frolicking. Nuts and apples were plenty from one end of the land to the other, and "Nut-crack Night" was the name given to it.

In England the revels were for fun, such as diving for apples floating in a tub of water, and, of course, getting very wet; or trying to snatch at the teeth in apple on one end of a stick, which had a lighted candle on the other end, and, being hung by a string, could be spun around very fast, so that the players often seized the candle instead of the fruit for a playful fortune-telling by mauling nuts, roasting them before the fire and watching their contact when heated—whether they burned steadily or burned away, or burst with a noise, each movement of the charmed nut being of great importance.

One nut test was tried by grinding and mixing together a walnut, hazelnut, and filbert, shaking into pills, with butter and sugar, and swallowing them at going to bed. Wonderful dreams would follow (which was not surprising).

In superstitious Scotland, the night was given entirely to serious and sometimes frightful attempts to peer into the future by means of charms. One way of trying fortune was to throw a ball of blue yarn out of a window, and wind it into a ball again from the other end. Near the last something would hold it fast, when the winder must ask, "Who holds?" The answer would name one who was to have importance in the questioner's future.

Another Scotch custom was "pulling kale stalks." A young person went blindfolded into the garden, pulling up the first kale or cabbage stalk he touched, and carried it into the house. The whole future was read from that stalk; the size indicated the stature of the future partner in life; the quantity of earth at the roots showed the amount of his or her fortune; the taste of the pith told what the temper would be; and when the stalk was placed over the door, the first name of the person entering was the fated name.

The Island of Lewes, on the coast of Scotland, had some curious customs. Young women made a "dumb cake," and baked it before the fire with certain ceremonies and in perfect silence, expecting to see wonders; and the people also sacrificed to a sea-god called Snong, throwing a cup of ale into the sea, and calling on him to give them plenty of seaweed to enrich their grounds.

In another Scotch trial a girl would go into a barn, holding a winnowing sieve, and stand alone, with both doors open, to see her fate.

The fashion of trying charms is now nearly outgrown among English-speaking people. It survives in America as a pleasant frolic for a social gathering. In our own day, young people "sow hempseed," "eat apples before the glass," "go down the cellar stairs backward," holding a candle and a mirror. They also "pop chestnuts," "launch walnut-shells," holding tapers, and try the "three saucer" test of the future.

In some of our cities, the boys on Halloween collect old tea-kettles, tents, large stones, etc., and deposit them in clean vestibules, ringing the door-bell and running away.

Thus the thirty-first of October—set apart by a pope as a religious festival—became, in superstitious times, "The Witches' Night," crossed the ocean as a season for frolics, and ends with a street-boy's joke.—Olive Thorne, in St. Nicholas.

A Child's Faith.

Johnny Hall was a poor boy. His mother worked hard for their daily bread. "Please give me something to eat, for I am very hungry," he said to her. His mother let the work that she was sewing fall upon her knees and drew Johnny towards her. As she kissed him the tears fell fast on his face, while she said, "Johnny, my dear, I have not a penny in the world. There is not a morsel of bread in the house, and I cannot give you any supper to-night."

Johnny didn't cry when he heard this. He was but a little fellow, but he had learned the lesson of trust in God's promises. He had great faith in the sweet words of Jesus when He said, "Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in My name, He will do it."

"Never mind, mamma, I shall soon be asleep, and then I sha'n't feel hungry. But you must sit here and sew, hungry and cold. Poor mamma!" he said, as he threw his arms around her neck and kissed her many times to comfort her.

Then he kneeled down by his mother's side, to say his prayers after her. They said "Our Father" till they came to the petition, "give us this day our daily bread." The way in which his mother said these words made Johnny's heart ache. He stopped, and looked at her; and repeated them with his eyes full of tears—"Give us this day our daily bread." When they got through he looked at his mother and said, "Now mother, don't be afraid. We shall never be hungry any more. God is our Father. He has promised to hear us, and I am sure He will."

Then he went to bed. Before midnight he woke up, while his mother was still at work, and asked if the bread had come yet. She said, "No, but I am sure it will come."

In the morning, before Johnny was awake, a gentleman called, who wanted his mother to come to his house and take charge of his two motherless children. She agreed to go. He left some money with her. She went out at once, to buy some things for breakfast. And when Johnny awoke, the bread was there, and all that he needed. Johnny is a man now; but he has never wanted bread from that day; and whenever he was afraid, since then, he has remembered God's promises and trusted in Him.

At the remember these three P's, the presence, the power, and the promises of God, and this will help us to learn the lesson of trust. And in all our times of danger and of trial, let us try to follow the example of David, when he said:

"What time I am afraid, I will trust in Thee."—Richard Newton, D. D.

"Hay-Foot! Straw-Foot!"

Many boys and girls may have heard these words applied in a derisive way to raw recruits who were making a beginning in their military education, by learning to march; but very young people—or old ones, either—know how the terms originated. During the war of 1812, there was a great need of drilling and training among the native men all over the country, especially in the large cities and towns, where the provincial recruiting stations were stored. In New York City, much of the drilling of newly enlisted men was done in what is now City Hall Park, in front of a tavern which stood where the Sun newspaper building is located. Many of these would-be soldiers were from the country, and these, of course, knew nothing at all about marching in military fashion. They could walk far enough, some of them, and work as hard and bravely much fat use as any soldier in a regular army; but they were awkward, and had no idea about such things as "keeping step." It is even said that there were fellows among them who did not know their right leg from their left, and who were therefore continually getting themselves and their companions into disorder by mixing up their legs—that is, moving out their right leg when the roll-er who was drilling them called out "Left," and the other leg when he called out "Right." If they could have put both legs forward at once, it is probable that they would sometimes have done so.

To make these men understand exactly which leg was meant when the officer gave his orders, a curious plan was devised. Around the right leg of each man, just below the knee, was tied a wisp of hay, while a wisp of straw was tied around his left leg. Now, these country fellows knew very well the difference between hay and straw, and so, when they were ranged in line and the officer gave the word to march, and called out, "Hay-foot! straw-foot! hay-foot! straw-foot!" each one of them understood exactly which was the foot he must put forward.

It sometimes happened, however, that a man would be so busy observing his companions—and perhaps making fun, at the same time, of their attempts to walk like soldiers—that he would forget his own business, and put forward his "straw-foot," when "hay-foot" was called for.

It must have been very funny to see these raw recruits—here a country esther in high boots and striped shirt; there a farmer in his shirt-sleeves and broad straw hat; then, perhaps, a village doctor or school-master, with his high beaver hat and his spectacles, with a tall boy near by in cap and short jacket—all marching side by side, with hands down by their sides, thumbs turned out, eyes fixed on the officer as he stepped backward before them, and all keeping time to the monotonous call of "Hay-foot! straw-foot! hay-foot! straw-foot!"

The regular soldiers who may have been drilling at the same time probably smiled, if they did not dare to laugh, at these queer-looking men, with their hay and straw bound on; but the mothers and fathers and sisters of the recruits, if any of them chanced to come to town to see their sons or brothers drill, doubtless thought the affair a fine military display, and that Jeremiah or Caleb would be a general yet, if the war lasted long enough.—St. Nicholas.

READ THE CHILD.—Learn to darn stockings neatly and then always see that your own are in order. Do not let a button be off your shoes a minute longer than is needful. It takes just about a minute to sew one on, and oh, how much neater a foot looks in a tidily buttoned boot than it does in a lop-sided affair with half the buttons off. Every girl should make the simple articles of clothing. We know a little Miss of seven who could do all this and who also made the whole of a blue calico dress for herself; and pieced a large bed-quilt. She was not an over-taxed child, either, but a merry, romping, indulged, only daughter. But she was "smart," and she did not die young, either. Indeed, we have seldom known children "too smart to live." Very few ever die of that complaint, whatever their grandmothers may think.

So never be afraid a bit of overdoing the business. Help all you can and study over the business daily. Once get in the habit of looking over your things, and you will like it wonderfully. You will have the independent feeling that you need not wait for any one's convenience in repairing and mending, but that you can be beforehand with all such matters. The relief to your weary mother will be more than you can over estimate. Presbyterian Journal.

The Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES OF THE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1879.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., EDITOR.

OFFICE, 124 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Last Words of Paul.

Paul pens on [illegible] nearly his latest [illegible] when he was [illegible] a good fight, [illegible] come and [illegible] shall [illegible] that day, [illegible] and all who love [illegible] when he [illegible] I know [illegible] I have believed and am persuaded that He [illegible] keep [illegible] have [illegible] from Him against that day. [illegible] has [illegible] power of being [illegible] compared with Paul [illegible] gives [illegible] mind in the dear [illegible] Heaven [illegible] the [illegible] I think [illegible] from [illegible] this reference [illegible] may [illegible] that [illegible] we are [illegible] away [illegible] that ye may be able [illegible] to have [illegible] always [illegible] remembrance.

What a record that! [illegible] the mind of the aged [illegible] go back to that [illegible] call where he saw and heard [illegible] many years, and with a holy wonder of [illegible] experiences [illegible] the future with [illegible] upon the walls of memory. The power and [illegible] of our Lord Jesus Christ was becoming developed [illegible] him, the excellent glory and the voice [illegible] as fresh as of yesterday. For his own comfort as well as for the consolation of others, he goes back to that [illegible] passage in his earlier Christian history, and dwells upon it with a peculiar satisfaction, as he now stands upon the verge of eternity. Does not the aged believer ever return, again and again, to the hour of his conversion as a part of the wonderful revelations, and as the beginning of a divine life that carries along with it the dissipation of every doubt? And there are epochs in the annals of [illegible] every spiritual soul, [illegible] of special blessings and [illegible] days, they glow with [illegible] splendor [illegible] in the evening time of life. These pictures come back to the heart of the weary and aged pilgrim, restored and refreshed, to cheer his last hours.

The end to both Paul and Peter seems to have been a matter of revelation. They might have been persuaded of it without. They stood consciously and assuredly upon the brink, but hardly more so than all aged and infirm, Christians do. Paul had written about the body and the resurrection: "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a [illegible] house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." He felt that, "though our outward man perisheth, yet the inward man is renewed day by day." Peter regarded death as the putting off of "this my tabernacle." Both thought of the final change. The sense of the soul's immortality was strong in them, and the supreme consciousness that they were spiritual beings. The soul was something different from cells and tissue, and blood and nerves. The earthly body was the tabernacle, the temporary home of the soul, and death was the moving out of the Spirit, simply the putting off of the outward perishing man. There is no sign of doubt, no shadow of fear. Death was a change of habitations. The tenant lives after the old house has been dissolved. In neither case is there any word of regret. There is something of rapture in Paul's frame as he tells of his confidence in Christ, and fixes his thoughts upon the crown awaiting him. Peter is content to refer to his "decease," only that he may point to the sure foundations of his faith, and that he may stir up believers.

In these last utterances neither alludes to what he might wish were blotted out in his earlier career, and probably because as to God it was blotted out, and because, as to himself, "there is therefore now no condemnation to them" which are in Christ Jesus." One had been a persecutor, the other had denied his Lord, and yet, in the near prospect of death, the sky is clear. Grievous as their sins had been, these had been laid upon the Lamb of God. What might have been fearful and angry clouds covering the horizon had been swept away, and the setting sun kindles with the light and glory of the perfect day.

In that sense [illegible] the complacent, [illegible] self-righteous reflection [illegible] had kept the faith. The [illegible] gospel dwelt with satisfaction upon the integrity that had marked [illegible] career. It must be remembered that in age and in the last days there is a tendency that we have seen [illegible] to dwell upon the [illegible] Paul could [illegible] that a crown of [illegible] was [illegible] and all who love [illegible] when he [illegible] I know [illegible] I have believed and am persuaded that He [illegible] keep [illegible] have [illegible] from Him against that day. [illegible] has [illegible] power of being [illegible] compared with Paul [illegible] gives [illegible] mind in the dear [illegible] Heaven [illegible] the [illegible] I think [illegible] from [illegible] this reference [illegible] may [illegible] that [illegible] we are [illegible] away [illegible] that ye may be able [illegible] to have [illegible] always [illegible] remembrance.

What a record that! [illegible] the mind of the aged [illegible] go back to that [illegible] call where he saw and heard [illegible] many years, and with a holy wonder of [illegible] experiences [illegible] the future with [illegible] upon the walls of memory. The power and [illegible] of our Lord Jesus Christ was becoming developed [illegible] him, the excellent glory and the voice [illegible] as fresh as of yesterday. For his own comfort as well as for the consolation of others, he goes back to that [illegible] passage in his earlier Christian history, and dwells upon it with a peculiar satisfaction, as he now stands upon the verge of eternity. Does not the aged believer ever return, again and again, to the hour of his conversion as a part of the wonderful revelations, and as the beginning of a divine life that carries along with it the dissipation of every doubt? And there are epochs in the annals of [illegible] every spiritual soul, [illegible] of special blessings and [illegible] days, they glow with [illegible] splendor [illegible] in the evening time of life. These pictures come back to the heart of the weary and aged pilgrim, restored and refreshed, to cheer his last hours.

The end to both Paul and Peter seems to have been a matter of revelation. They might have been persuaded of it without. They stood consciously and assuredly upon the brink, but hardly more so than all aged and infirm, Christians do. Paul had written about the body and the resurrection: "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a [illegible] house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." He felt that, "though our outward man perisheth, yet the inward man is renewed day by day." Peter regarded death as the putting off of "this my tabernacle." Both thought of the final change. The sense of the soul's immortality was strong in them, and the supreme consciousness that they were spiritual beings. The soul was something different from cells and tissue, and blood and nerves. The earthly body was the tabernacle, the temporary home of the soul, and death was the moving out of the Spirit, simply the putting off of the outward perishing man. There is no sign of doubt, no shadow of fear. Death was a change of habitations. The tenant lives after the old house has been dissolved. In neither case is there any word of regret. There is something of rapture in Paul's frame as he tells of his confidence in Christ, and fixes his thoughts upon the crown awaiting him. Peter is content to refer to his "decease," only that he may point to the sure foundations of his faith, and that he may stir up believers.

In these last utterances neither alludes to what he might wish were blotted out in his earlier career, and probably because as to God it was blotted out, and because, as to himself, "there is therefore now no condemnation to them" which are in Christ Jesus." One had been a persecutor, the other had denied his Lord, and yet, in the near prospect of death, the sky is clear. Grievous as their sins had been, these had been laid upon the Lamb of God. What might have been fearful and angry clouds covering the horizon had been swept away, and the setting sun kindles with the light and glory of the perfect day.

In that sense [illegible] the complacent, [illegible] self-righteous reflection [illegible] had kept the faith. The [illegible] gospel dwelt with satisfaction upon the integrity that had marked [illegible] career. It must be remembered that in age and in the last days there is a tendency that we have seen [illegible] to dwell upon the [illegible] Paul could [illegible] that a crown of [illegible] was [illegible]

[illegible]

A [illegible] D. D., is [illegible] a very able and [illegible] paper on "Our Missions and Our Foreign Population." We quote the concluding portion of this address from the report in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat:

With respect of the neglected masses the church has a solemn responsibility as yet unfulfilled. It bears on our consciences, it troubles our thoughts, it comes to the surface of our conversation continually from a great deal of emotion; but the execution is not yet.

[illegible]

The question would thus come subject. Is the only thing which Paul [illegible] of the instructions which James and Cephas and John gave him and Barnabas with the right hand of fellowship, when the two parties were about to part to go, one to the heathen, the other to the circumcision, "Only they would that we should remember the poor"? The alms which I also was forward to do." It said it was the poor brethren or families in the church, of course, in Rome; but again we might profit by the example, for by every token Paul's labors were confined by among the poor. Our fashionable churches, deter the poor, agree the question as we may. "Go to your church with this bonnet, sir! It is all the bonnet I have?" Is the Israelite his argument in the other side. We rob our fashionable congregations and splendid edifices churches, our labors and conventicles among the poor and lowly, a name that might be dropped to advantage, as conveying under circumstances a needless and offensive distinction. Why should we not have a church system as manifestly for all, and never a doubt of it for any least reluctance in the minds of the poorest, as the public school system is popular in buildings and appointments and gives an impression upon the public? Why should not the German be taught religion as readily as he is the blessings of the common education in our common schools? If he can love the teaching of his own tongue into the schools at public expense, why should not Christian enterprise effectively aggressive upon him? We want plenty of small, plain churches; we want God represented before the people as no respecter of persons; we want the churches to evangelize, and our common schools relieved thereby from the entanglement of rationalistic teachings. When the churches are scattered plentifully for all and the schools are, the school beside the church will have the Bible and prayer left. For twenty years past reports of Home Missions in London and New York and other large cities declare a remarkable aptitude for the reception of the gospel among native and foreign people where the church-bell has been manifestly a call to all, and the church a place for all, thousands and tens of thousands being accessible to missionary operation who could not be brought to attend the services of the sanctuary in sumptuous edifices, whose vacant pews yawn and hunger for sitters, but from Sunday to Sunday are not filled. The marvelous success of well directed enterprise among the foreign population, according to these reports, is one infallible guide to the management of an immense immigration which will demoralize us if we do not Christianize it. All reports agree that the foreign are reached when the poor are reached, and thereby my first proposition is sustained.

[illegible]

And now at this point I am almost inclined to say that my subject would have been nearly the same if it had stood not only city missions without the population, but even mission without the city, implying domestic as distinguished from the foreign, a distinction which might be dropped to advantage, and the great interest work of the universal church should [illegible] one as it really is, but connection not [illegible] and all the world and all nations. The [illegible] seemed to be convenient, perhaps necessary, but it has begotten a [illegible] and prejudice. The general [illegible] work [illegible] the appropriate [illegible] of the church [illegible] A Romish missionary enters [illegible] a living [illegible] Foreign interests are engaging the [illegible] zeal now more than [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

the Mississippi valley, with suggestions as to their origin and uses. We have not been able to give the work a careful examination, and cannot pronounce upon its merits. It certainly contains a great deal of curious information, and the author seems to have bestowed much intelligent and careful labor and study upon the subject of which he treats. Price, in cloth binding, $1 50.

—The Fortnightly Review for November has: A German View of the British Army; Winter Quarters; The Austrians in Bosnia; Men and Women; Arnold's Wordsworth; An Indo-Mediterranean Railway—fiction and fact; The Conflict of Laws; Assurance Investments; Home and Foreign Affairs. Also Young Mrs. Jardine. By Miss Mulock, chapters 12, 13 from Good Words.

—The Nineteenth Century for November has: Public Business in the House of Commons; The History of Money; Is Typhoid Fever Contagious? Alsace-Lorraine Since 1871; Cinderella; The Next Ice Grave Bid; Experiments in Punishment; Compulsory Providence—a reply to Mr. Blackby; The Book Language of China; The Unity of Nature—a speculation; The Spoilt Child of Europe; also Splendid Misery by Miss M. E. Braddon, chapters 18-23, from London World. The Nineteenth Century is republished by George Munro, New York. Price, $2 25 per annum.

—The Magazine of Art, November, 1879, contains a number of exquisite engravings. Among the editorial articles are: Our Living Artists; On Some of the Signs of London; Sketching Grounds—the Oeschinen See and the Gemmi Pass; Durnecker—a study of modern sculpture—1758-1841; Art in the Streets; Frank Snyders; The Little Rubbers; The International Art Exhibition at Munich.

—Our Sunday-school periodicals for December are to hand in good time, as beautiful and fresh as need be.

Publisher's Department.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.—January next the Advocate will enter upon its [illegible] volume, and we desire to call the attention of the [illegible] to the following [illegible] which will be observed in the future publication of the paper. [illegible] will be discontinued at the expiration of the time for which subscription is paid. The paper will be sent to subscribers [illegible] for one year after the time paid for, when the name will be stricken from the list, unless otherwise ordered. Subscribers will please examine the date on the paper, and if not correct, notify us at once, that the error may be corrected. Remittances should be made by Post-office Money Order, Registered Letter, or Draft on New York. Money sent in any other way will be at the risk of the sender. Subscribers will please write their names and Post-office address plainly, and always give the Post-office to which they have been receiving the paper. Communications should be addressed to the Publisher, and not to any individual connected with the office. Rates of advertising will be made known on application. Advertisements should be handed in by Monday morning, to insure insertion the same week. Bills for advertising will be rendered quarterly. Obituaries exceeding one square will be charged for as advertisements. All remittances will be acknowledged by receipt, and if not received in due time, should be promptly reported, that the matter may be investigated. Receipts for money sent will be given by the Publisher, and the change in the date on the paper will be evidence that the money has been received and credited. Bills for advertising will be rendered quarterly, and will be due when rendered. Communications for the paper should be written on one side of the sheet only, and should be as brief as possible. Anonymous communications will not be published. Marriage notices must be accompanied by the name of the parties married, and the name of the officiating minister. Obituaries must be accompanied by the name of the deceased, and the age, time and place of death. Resolutions of societies, and notices of meetings, must be accompanied by the name of the secretary. Communications for the paper should be addressed to the Publisher, and not to any individual connected with the office. Rates of advertising will be made known on application. Advertisements should be handed in by Monday morning, to insure insertion the same week. Bills for advertising will be rendered quarterly, and will be due when rendered. Communications for the paper should be written on one side of the sheet only, and should be as brief as possible. Anonymous communications will not be published. Marriage notices must be accompanied by the name of the parties married, and the name of the officiating minister. Obituaries must be accompanied by the name of the deceased, and the age, time and place of death. Resolutions of societies, and notices of meetings, must be accompanied by the name of the secretary. Communications for the paper should be addressed to the Publisher, and not to any individual connected with the office.

MANHATTAN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY. By letter from the well-known [illegible] Marshall [illegible] Agency of the Manhattan Life Insurance Company, [illegible] is informed that the Directors of this company have declared a dividend of [illegible] per cent. on the premiums paid during the year ending November 1st, 1879. This is the largest dividend ever declared by any life insurance company, and is a most gratifying result to the policy-holders. The Manhattan Life has been remarkably successful in securing the best class of risks, and the mortality among its policy-holders has been very small. The Company has issued policies for over [illegible] millions of dollars, and has a net income of over [illegible] millions. No wonder it is rapidly forging to the front. Its policies are liberal, and the Company is one of the most reliable in the country. The Manhattan Life is represented in this city by Messrs. E. H. [illegible], whose card appears in our columns. Parties desiring to insure their lives cannot do better than to call on them.

WATCHES AND JEWELRY.—[illegible] 37 Bienville street, [illegible] Watches and Jewelry [illegible]

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.—[illegible] China [illegible]

FOR bargains in everything in the [illegible] line, go to [illegible]

THE [illegible] Co. [illegible]

FOR DYSPEPSIA, Indigestion, [illegible] Nervousness, [illegible] Sick Headache, [illegible] Constipation, [illegible] Impure Blood, [illegible] Female Complaints, [illegible] Kidney Troubles, [illegible] Nervous Prostration, [illegible] Debility, [illegible] Sleeplessness, [illegible] Loss of Appetite, [illegible] Malaria, [illegible] Fever and Ague, [illegible] Chills and Fever, [illegible] Dizziness, [illegible] Biliousness, [illegible] Jaundice, [illegible] Rheumatism, [illegible] Neuralgia, [illegible] Erysipelas, [illegible] Boils, [illegible] Carbuncles, [illegible] Ringworm, [illegible] Tetter, [illegible] Salt Rheum, [illegible] Scrofula, [illegible] Scurvy, [illegible] Blood Diseases, [illegible] Kidney Complaints, [illegible] Liver Complaints, [illegible] Dropsy, [illegible] Gravel, [illegible] Diabetes, [illegible] Urinary Diseases, [illegible] Diseases of Females, [illegible] Children, [illegible] Old Sores, [illegible] Ulcers, [illegible] Tumors, [illegible] Cancers, [illegible] Fever Sores, [illegible] Scald Head, [illegible] Piles, [illegible] Fistula, [illegible] Worms, [illegible] Spinal Diseases, [illegible] Paralysis

Farm, Garden and Household.

OIL-CAKE IS STOCK-FEEDING. The sheet anchor of our meat production, aside from grass, is Indian corn as the fertilizer of other cereal crops. But of late, and [illegible] manifest the science and judgment in compounding [illegible] of a number of articles such as stock food as the English farmers in the Lamp. The proportion of a hundredweight of cotton cake, is about the same as Indian corn as to nitrogen, being in a very concentrated form, and promoting a healthy condition of the animal. Linseed cake, [illegible] because the oil in the seed [illegible] Cotton cake is better [illegible] cake rapidly, and [illegible] Linseed cake [illegible] Cotton cake [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Scientific.

—It is of the utmost importance that chloroform, when used for anæsthetic purposes, should be absolutely pure. Dr. J. Reginald recommends the following simple test to determine its purity: If chloroform be dropped upon paper and allowed to evaporate, the last portion, on being inhaled, has a characteristic pleasant smell, and leaves the paper perfectly dry. Impure chloroform has a disagreeable, irritating odor, which it imparts to the paper. Pure chloroform does not redden blue litmus, or give even a cloudiness with silver nitrate; but if the sample should do either, it contains hydrochloric acid or the products of the decomposition of some other chlorides. Pure chloroform remains perfectly colorless when boiled with platinum; the presence of a dehydrating causes it brown coloration. When chloroform is shaken with concentrated sulphuric acid and allowed to stand for half an hour, the two liquids should separate into two colorless layers; the presence of alcoholic chlorides produces a brown coloration. The purity of chloroform may be judged by its constant boiling point, 60.8 degrees Centigrade; the impure sample may boil above or below according to the impurities it contains. The assigned specific gravity affords no certain test. Hoffman's violet will dissolve completely in pure chloroform, but if there is a trace of alcohol the solution is of a beautiful purple color.

—Judge Longworth, after months of experimenting, has discovered the process used by a few old World photographers in the preparation of sensitized or dry glass plates. The value of this happy result cannot be overestimated. By the method referred to the amateur or landscape photographer can now prepare the plates at home in any number desired, stow them away in a valise, and, taking with him a portable camera and folding tripod, start out on his labors unincumbered with chemical bottles and other needless supplies. Another and very important advantage arising from the discovery is the fact that negatives can be taken almost instantaneously, thus Judge Irving secured faultless pictures of sailing boats in motion. Landscape views by this means do not possess the blurred look occasioned by the restless foliage. The artist now in his country rambles, when meeting with a bit of scenery especially pleasing to the eye, can set the tripod, place on it the camera, draw the slide, raise the curtain, let it fall, and the work is done. The plate is then placed away in darkness preparatory to reaching home, and the artist, with loss of but three minutes time, moves on to other scenes.

—At a recent meeting of the Paris Academy of Sciences, M. Tresca gave an account of some experiments in pumping by electricity which he witnessed at Sermaize in the Marne. A Gramme machine, making 1,200 revolutions per minute, and driven by a steam engine, was connected to a second Gramme in the distance of 1½ kilometers, and caused the latter to receive all the force of 1,200 revolutions to the minute, the electricity produced by the first machine being thus converted into work. The second machine was connected to a pump and a discharge of 30 litres, and these two worked tubes attached to a double Brahant pump. According to M. Tresca, the experiment was very successful, the work accomplished representing the equivalent of three-horse power, while one half of the motive power obtained from the steam engine was readily transferred to a distance of more than 1,000 yards from the furnace.

—Gaulle has made an improvement on the Leclanche battery which recommends itself to users, in which have been that very desirable object to evolve by. The chief objection to this battery has been the fact that when the metals are persuaded to over exhaust themselves. Dr. Gaulle mixes peroxide and the elements can be charged as easily as in other batteries. He places the peroxide of manganese in dried bobbins, cut in the cylindrical carbon which serves both as the negative electrode and as a porous vessel. It is enclosed or stopped in a box and as the chloride, which acts as the exciting liquid, and a rod of amalgamated zinc forms the negative pole. The chloride of zinc should be free from lead, and the ammoniac should be pure.

Before the introduction of cheap cotton the production and manufacture of flax were important industries in this country. In 1850, when the population was but 23,000,000, there were produced in the United States over 21,000,000 yards of linen cloth made in families. At the present time, when the population of the country is believed to be 50,000,000, the total annual production of flax and linen fabrics is probably not over 5,000,000 yards, and not a yard of the linen is made in the country.

M. Jamin and other investigators have found that a very pure specimen must be manufactured at 0.8 degrees Fahr., and even at 2 degrees Fahr., provided there is no sudden shock. If it is now shown that, during this condition of supercooling, there be a sudden shock, such as that produced by the discharge of electricity, the ice gradually forms, disappears, and a union of particles takes place, forming hailstones of various sizes.

Ague Cure

is a purely vegetable bitter and powerful tonic, and is warranted a speedy and certain cure for Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Intermittent or Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, and all malarial disorders. In unacclimated subjects, the rapid pulse, heated tongue, thirst, lassitude, loss of appetite, pain in the back and loins, and coldness of the spine and extremities, are only premonitions of severer symptoms which terminate in the ague paroxysm, succeeded by high fever and profuse perspiration.

It is a startling fact, that quinine, arsenic, and other poisonous minerals form the basis of most of the "Fever and Ague Preparations," "Specifics," "Syrups," and "Tonics," in the market. The preparations made from these mineral poisons, although they are palatable, and may break the chill, do not cure, but leave the malarial and their own drug poison in the system, producing spinal disease, dizziness, ringing in the ears, headache, vertigo, and other disorders, more formidable than the disease they were intended to cure. Ayer's Ague Cure thoroughly eradicates these noxious poisons from the system, and always cures the severest cases. It contains no quinine, mineral, or anything that could injure the most delicate patient; and its unfailing excellence, above its certainty to cure, is that it leaves the system as free from disease as before the attack.

For Liver Complaints, Ayer's Ague Cure, by direct action on the liver and biliary apparatus, drives out the poisons which produce these complaints, and substitutes the system in a vigorous, healthy condition.

We warrant it when taken according to directions.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

EDUCATIONAL.

Mansfield Female College.

THE FALL SESSION of this Institution will begin on Wednesday, September 24. A full and competent corps of teachers. Every advantage offered. Charges moderate. Preachers of this Conference pay no tuition for their daughters in regular course. Extras, in this is favor one-fourth off. Board of a preacher's daughter, for the year, $100, she to furnish lights and washing. Send for catalogue.

REV. THOS. ARMSTRONG, Pres't.
Mansfield, La.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE,

EAST TENNESSEE.

FOUNDED 1849 offers superior advantages and is head by forces!

The Male Department is located in a quiet temperate community, seven miles from Sweetwater, East Tenn. Va. and Ga. R. R.

The Female Department is located in the model town of Sweetwater, in a lovely section. Experienced Teachers, good work and Low Charges in both Departments. Patronage merited. For particulars, address

REV. J. H. BRUNNER, D. D.,
Hiwassee College, Tenn.

Woodville Female Seminary.

A NON-SECTARIAN ACADEMY, UNDER the supervision of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Mississippi Conference: Hon. S. Meriwether, President of Board of Trustees. For Thoroughness of Instruction, healthfulness, cheapness, and many other advantages is not surpassed. We invite those interested to examine our credentials, and to citizens of Woodville generally. Mr. Philip Werlein, New Orleans, La., or address the Principal,

A. J. WRIGHT,
Woodville, Miss.

The Lequet-LeRoy Institute

AN KINDERGARTEN DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES, 280 Camp Street. This institution has now reopened under the auspices of the Misses MORSE, Cecelia W., Sallie L., and Corinne, the latter relieving the Rev. H. S. Bascom, daughters of Judge L. Wagner Morse, deceased, successors to Mme. Lequet LeRoy, whose good will and right to conduct the School under the old name they have purchased. Except in numbers, the proprietors do not enter into active service, there will be no change of teachers. No change whatever in the conditions and management of the School. They respectfully solicit a continuance of the patronage so liberally extended to the institution, and that of their friends, and the public generally, promising strict devotion to every interest of the pupils committed to their charge.

C. W. MORSE, Principal.

A FINISHED MUSICAL EDUCATION. THE NEW ENGLAND Conservatory Boston, employing 75 Eminent Professors, Rank reports in the complete MUSICAL EDUCATION at merely cost of tuition. Complete Commercial Course. Fall term opens with RARE public and private advantages. Fall term opens September 4. For prospectus address E. TOURJEE, Music Hall, Boston, Mass.

A GREAT OFFER! ORGANS $30 up; Guards; PIANOS $125 up; used 3 years, good as new; warranted. NEW PIANOS and ORGANS at EXTRAORDINARY LOW Prices for cash. Catalogues mailed. HORACE WATERS, Agt., 826 Broadway, N. Y. P. O. Box 3550.

WM. M. WILSON,
Successor to Henry Erben & Co.
CHURCH ORGANS,
Established in 1824.
260 & 262 W. 37th St., near 8th Ave., New York.

SOUTHERN
CHURCH ORGAN
MANUFACTORY.
No. 103 Baronne Street,
Under the National Theater,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
PETER VETTER, Proprietor.

Church Organs imported and repaired all over the South.

FANCY GOODS! FANCY GOODS!
SCHILLING'S
Millinery Emporium, Hair Work
AND
FANCY GOODS BAZAR,
159 ..... CANAL STREET 159

The assortment comprises the very latest styles in Millinery Materials, Hats and Bonnets,
HAIR GOODS of every description, and the most perfect confections in Jewelry, Combs, Brushes, Dressing Cases, Purses, Card Cases, Vienna Oil Ornaments, Porte Monnaies and Perfumery.

Your attention is particularly directed to my SPECIALTIES
in fine Shell, Ivory and Pearl JET GOODS,
MILLINERY ARTICLES AND HAIR WORK.

G. T. SCHILLING,
159 CANAL STREET.

YOUNG MEN'S Christian Association
OF NEW ORLEANS,
Rooms No. 87 Camp Street.

Open from 9 A. M. to 10 P. M. except Sunday, and on Sundays from 2 to 6 P. M., where may be found the leading daily and weekly papers of the most important cities of the United States.

SERVICES.
Tuesday, 7:30 P. M.—Devotional.
Thursday, 7:30 P. M.—Singing Class.
NOON-DAY PRAYER-MEETING.
Daily, 12:45 to 2 P. M.

Rule—Prayers and Remarks to be limited to three minutes.

St. Louis Impenetrable Paint Co.
SOLE MANUFACTURERS OF IMPENETRABLE PAINT
A glossy durable, waterproof paint, prepared in all colors ready for immediate use.
ALSO PROPRIETORS OF THE COLORLESS
WATERPROOFING
PROCESS,
For rendering brick and stone walls permanently waterproof and preventing their disintegration with all atmospheric changes.

All orders promptly attended to and information cheerfully furnished upon application at the
OFFICE AND FACTORY,
No. 141 North Twelfth Street,
St Louis, Mo.

BRACKETS. GLOBES.
M. H. APPLEGATE.
PLUMBER.
Gas and Steam Fitter
GAS FIXTURES.
St. George and Defiance Rangers,
Plumbers' Material,
No. 118 POYDRAS STREET,
NEW ORLEANS.

ORLEANS PLANING MILL,
WM. CAMPBELL, Proprietor,
No. 3 & 5 South Rush St.,
Near New Basin,
will constantly keep on hand a full assortment of
DRESSED FLOORING,
CEILING SIDING
WEATHER BOARDS
and DECKING.
Feather Edge Fence Boards and Rough Weather Boards.
SAWING and DRESSING done for the trade at low rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

DR. C. J. BICKHAM,
RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,
220 Jackson St., Bet. Chestnut and Coliseum,
NEW ORLEANS.
Office Hours—Eight A. M. and three to four P. M.

UNITED STATES
Four Per Cent. Bonds
BOUGHT AND SOLD BY
New Orleans National Bank,
5 CAMP STREET.

SPORTSMEN'S DEPOT,
55 ..... ST. CHARLES STREET, ... 55
NEW ORLEANS.
ARTICLES FOR FISHERMEN
OF ALL KINDS.
Rods, Nets, Hooks, Lines, and every desirable article for the Angler; wholesale and retail. Guns imported to order. J. R. Cooper's Breech and Muzzle-loading Guns always on hand. All kinds of improved artificial baits. Address Postoffice Box 1589.

KENTUCKY BELL FACTORY
Cow Bells. Established 1858. Sheep Bells,
Loud, Strong, Durable, Cheap.
When you buy see that my trade-mark, J. Geo. Dodge's Kentucky Bell is on the label. This year of the genuine Kentucky bell which is good and cheap. For sale by Hardware Dealers everywhere.
T. P. BARCLAY, Sole Prop'r, Louisville, Ky.

McNEELYS' BELLS,
For Churches, etc., known to the public since 1826, are made only at "THE McNEELY BELL FOUNDERY." West Troy, N. Y. Catalogues free.

SENECA FALLS
BELL FOUNDRY.
For Churches, Academy, Factory, Depot, Steamboat, Plantation, Factory, Farm, Foundry, Etc., Etc., Etc.
Sizes and Prices with Wheel Hangings and Frame Complete.

Diam. of Bell		Weight
No. 1	36 inches	1,400 pounds
No. 2	31 inches	1,000 pounds
No. 3	27 inches	750 pounds
No. 4	24 inches	500 pounds
No. 5	20 inches	300 pounds
No. 6	17 inches	200 pounds

HUNTLEY & CO.
Seneca Falls, N. Y., U. S. A.

J. H. KELLER,
MANUFACTURER OF CARBOLIC.

Office
110 Gravier St.
ESTABLISHED 1849.
All Kinds of Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

COOPERAGE.
PHILIP HIRSCH, Cooper.
50 to 60 NORTH PETERS STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Has for sale and Keeps constantly on hand a large and selected stock of new Clarified and open Sugar-Hogsheads and Tierces. A Sugar Barrels, Molasses Barrels, Half-Barrels and Kegs, all sizes; also, choice Inspected and Barred Rice Casks. Contracts for future delivery solicited. Prices moderate. Satisfaction guaranteed.

T. A. BECK,
COOPERAGE,
Office and Salesroom 27 North Peters Street,
Manufactory, Corner Old Basin and Prieur Streets, New Orleans.
Has constantly on hand Sugar Hogsheads, Molasses Barrels, Half Barrels, Kegs, Flour, Sugar and Rice Barrels. Orders for Hard Pine Wood at the lowest market rates. Particular attention paid to Repairing.

E. HEATH,
SUCCESSOR TO HEATH, PIPPEY & LARA,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,
UPHOLSTERY GOODS, Wall Paper, Window Shades, Cornices, Lace and Nottingham Curtains, Mirrors, Mouldings, Chromos, Engravings, etc.
Frames made to order—a specialty.
No. 99 Camp Street, New Orleans.

BUCK'S IMPROVED
BUCK'S
BRILLIANT STOVES
BRILLIANT STOVE.
Acknowledged to be the
BEST COOK-STOVE MADE.
SOLD BY
H. HALLER,
NEW ORLEANS,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
Cooking and Heating Stoves of the most improved makers. Stamped, Plain and Japanned Tinware. Tinned and Copper-ed Hollow-ware from all the Factories. Planter's Stock, Portable Iron Pipe and Elbows, Sheet Iron, Fire Brick, Fire Clay, Boiler Tubes, Cast Iron Sinks, Lead Pipe, Fire Grates, Plumbing Goods, etc.
H. HALLER,
No. 85 Camp St., New Orleans.
Price list mailed on application.

The Stewart Stove
WITH LATEST IMPROVEMENT,
Is now the
LEADING STOVE OF THE AGE
There is no fear of failure in the perfect operation. Will cook and remain hot first class as any other Stove made.
Can be kept cool or used
Hot & does all cooking by boiling, &c., can be done first with but little extra cost.
Please to replace old Stewart Stoves constantly on hand.
J. D. CAPMAN,
133 Poydras Street.

FRITZ JAENICKE,
(P. T. FOR L. A.)
Schallinger Artificial Stone Pavement,
Artificial Stone Tiles in various colors,
DEALER IN
North River and Belgian Flags, Curb Stone and Dressed Gravel.
508 Delord st., between Baronne and Prytania-Office 122 Mechanics' and Dealers' Exchange.
NEW ORLEANS.

MISCELLANEOUS.

C. W. DUNBAR'S SONS,
3 Tchoupitoulas St., New Orleans,
PRESERVERS AND PACKERS OF SHRIMP, OKRA AND PRESERVED FIGS,
IN TINS.
New Packing Ready for Delivery,
FOR SALE BY WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS.

FOR THE VERY BEST AND NEVER FADING

GO TO 121 CANAL ST.
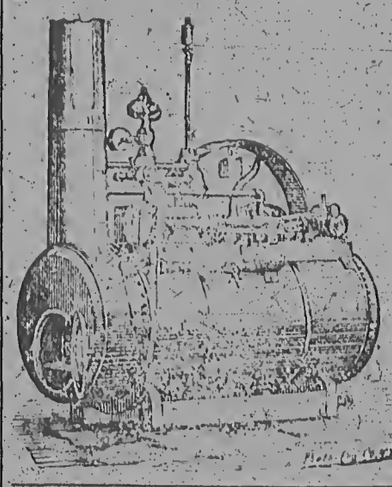
Touro Building.
PHOTOGRAPHS

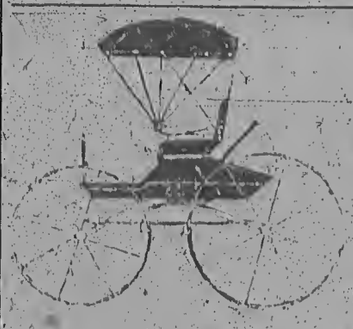
D. H. HOLMES,
155 Canal Street, - - - 15 Bourbon Street.
Our Stock of Spring Goods is now complete, consisting of the latest novelties in
SILKS, LACES, DRESS GOODS IN WORSTED FABRICS
BLACK GRENADINES IN SILK AND WOOL,
LINEN LAWNS, ORGANDIES, AND PERCALES,
HOSIERY in all Styles and Colors,
A Complete Assortment of MATTINGS
SAMPLES sent free of charge.
D. H. HOLMES
155 CANAL STREET.

THE GOLD MEDAL
PARIS EXPOSITION 1878
WAS AWARDED TO
JOSEPH GILLOTT & SONS
FOR EXCELLENCE IN
STEEL PENS
THE FAVORITE NUMBERS 303, 332, 404 & 170
AND HIS OTHER STYLES SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

R. M. & B. J. MONTGOMERY,
FURNITURE EMPORIUM,
MORESQUE BUILDING,
Corner Camp and Poydras Streets,
We have received, and are receiving for the Fall and Winter Trade, the largest and best selected stock of Furniture and Mirrors ever offered in the New Orleans market, all of the latest styles and designs, comprising
BEDROOM AND PARLOR SUITS,
FRENCH PLATE MIRRORS,
FANCY AND ORNAMENTAL FURNITURE.
We also have a complete stock of Medium and Common Furniture, Office, Hall and Library Furniture, Bent-Wood Lawn Chairs, Rockers and Benches, Lawn Settees, Wire Cornice Arrangements, Invalid Rockers and Wheel Chairs, Spring Beds, Excelsior, Woven Wire Spring, Hair and Moss Mattresses, Feather Pillows and Bolsters, the Patent Elliptic Spiral Spring Mattress, the best spring for a warm climate. Rattan and Perforated Seat Chairs, Rockers and Settees, the Vater Folding and Lock Desk, the best school desk extant.
Our Stock of FURNITURE and MIRRORS is one of the largest in the country, and we can successfully compete with any house North or South. Country merchants and country orders solicited. All goods delivered free of charge. Give us a trial before purchasing.
N. B.—We are prepared to reupholster Parlor suits and Chairs in any style to please any selection.



PAYNE'S
PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
5 TO 15 HORSE-POWER.
Strong, Simple and Durable.
BEST PLANTATION ENGINE MADE.
Send for Special Price List of this and other Styles Engines, Boilers, Etc.
B. J. WEST,
SOLE AGENT,
115 and 117 Magazine Street,
NEW ORLEANS.



W. H. SCHRADER, Pres't and Treas. W. T. ENGLISH, Secretary.
ENTERPRISE CARRIAGE CO.,
Manufacturers of
Carriages for the Trade,
FACTORY,
21, 23, 25 & 27 Court and 124, 126, 128 & 130 Clay Street,
Warerooms 31 and 33 Longworth Street,
CINCINNATI.
Best work for less money than ever before produced in the market.

ESTABLISHED 1858.
NONOTUCK SILK CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
CORTICELLI SPOOL SILK,
THE OLDEST BRAND IN AMERICA.
Sewing Silk, Machine Twist, Button Hole Twist, Embroidery and Saddlers' Silks, Purse Twist, Knitting Silks, Etc., Etc.
H. M. B. BOWEN, Agent,
88 West Third Street, Cincinnati, O.

CATARRH
Is a Terrible Disease. It is offensive to others, repulsive to the sufferer, and dangerous in its consequences. It is the cause of more than half the colds, headaches, and throat troubles that afflict humanity. It is the most loathsome disease with which mankind is afflicted. It destroys the sense of smell, taste, and sight, and often results in consumption, ending in the grave. No remedy has ever been discovered that will cure all cases of Catarrh, but Dr. M. W. Case's Carbolate of Tar Inhalant comes nearer to it than any other. It is pleasant to use, safe, and certain in its effects. It is the only remedy that can be relied on to cure Catarrh in the worst stages. It is the only remedy that will relieve at once. It is the only remedy that will cure when all others fail. It is the only remedy that will cure when the patient is given up to die. It is the only remedy that will cure when the patient is given up to die. It is the only remedy that will cure when the patient is given up to die.

Dr. M. W. CASE'S CARBOLATE of TAR INHALANT
FOR CATARRH, ASTHMA, CONSUMPTION, Bronchitis & Deafness

AGENTS WANTED.

BRIGHT, ATTRACTIVE, CHEERFUL. Mrs. Hollis McNair Wright's New Book.
THE COMPLETE HOME
Full of PRACTICAL INFORMATION.
The Young Housekeeper's GUIDE.
The Experienced Housekeeper's FRIEND.
How to Talk, Dress, Dress, Behave, Entertain, Marriage, Etiquette, Money, Cooking, Health, Children, Parlor, Chamber, Kitchen, Table, Etc.
Tells how to make the Home BEAUTIFUL and HAPPY.
A book of more practical utility will not claim if ever, beyond the limits of imagination.
NEEDED IN EVERY FAMILY. Liberal Terms.
AGENTS WANTED. Liberal Commission.
Nearly 600 Pages. Superbly Illustrated.
C. McCURDY & CO., 56 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo.

AGENTS WANTED for the Pictorial Bible, Commentator, Bible Dictionary, Family Record, Bible Atlas, Concordance, Bible Encyclopedia, Bible Stories, Bible Text Book, Bible Biography, Bible Chronology, Bible Antiquities, Bible Geography, Bible Natural History, Bible Manners and Customs, Bible Proverbs, Bible Parables, Bible Miracles, Bible Prophecies, Bible Types, Bible Symbols, Bible Figures, Bible Allegories, Bible Similes, Bible Metaphors, Bible Idioms, Bible Phrases, Bible Words, Bible Letters, Bible Numbers, Bible Weights, Bible Measures, Bible Money, Bible Time, Bible Distances, Bible Directions, Bible Locations, Bible Names, Bible Titles, Bible Offices, Bible Relationships, Bible Genealogies

PRICES CURRENT

IN

THE NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY

☞ Correspondents should bear in mind that our quotations represent prices for round lots, and in filling small orders higher rates must be paid.

GROCERIES.

Butter, ₩ lb.:
Western creamery, fancy	40	41
New York, choice	30	32
Coffee, ₩ lb.:
Rio, fair	16¾	16¾
Rio, good	16¾	17
Rio, prime	17¼	17¼
Candles, ₩ lb.:
Star, best brands	13	— —
Corn Meal, ₩ bbl.:
Choice	2 35	2 50
Cheese, ₩ lb.:
Factory	— —	— —
N. Y. cream and English dairy	15	16
Fish:
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in bols	— —	8 75
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in kits	— —	1 25
Sardines, quarter boxes	— —	— —
Flour, ₩ bbl.:
Superfine	— —	— —
XX	— —	— —
XXX	— —	— —
Choice XXX	— —	— —
Choice family	— —	— —
Fruits:
Dried apples, ₩ lb	—	—
Dried peaches, ₩ lb	—	—
Raisins, ₩ quarter box	—	—
Raisins, ₩ half box	—	—
Raisins, ₩ whole box	—	—
Bananas, ₩ bunch	—	—
Crackers, ₩ lb.:
Soda	—	—
Butter	—	—
Sugar	—	—
Gingernuts	—	—
Oil:
Coal, in cases, best	—	—
Coal, in barrels, best	—	—
Insurance, in cases	—	—
Insurance, in barrels	—	—
Lard, in barrels, best	—	—
Molasses, in barrels:
Common	—	—
Fair	—	—
Prime to choice	—	—
Golden and Requet strups	—	—
Half bbls, 5c. and kegs 10c. more.
Rice, Louisiana, ₩ lb.:
No. 2	—	—
Ordinary	—	—
Fair	—	—
Prime to choice	—	—
Soap, ₩ box:
XXX Palm	—	—
Keller's magnolia	—	—
Keller's olive	—	—
Starch, ₩ lb.	—	—
Salt, in sacks:
Fine	—	—
Coarse	—	—
Sugar:
Good fair	—	—
Prime	—	—
Choice	—	—
Yellow clarified	—	—
Off whites	—	—
Crushed	—	—
Powdered	—	—
Spices, ₩ lb.:
Allspice	—	—
Pepper	—	—
Cloves	—	—
Cinnamon	—	—
Tea, ₩ lb.:
Black Oolong	—	—
Green Imperial	—	—
Tobacco:
Low lugs	—	—
Medium	—	—
Good to fine	—	—
Low leaf	—	—
Medium	—	—
Good	—	—
Fine	—	—
Selections	—	—

GRAIN AND FEED.

Corn, ₩ bushel:
Yellow	—	—
White	—	—
Mixed	—	—
Oats, ₩ bushel:
St. Louis	—	—
Texas	—	—
Galena	—	—
Bran, choice, ₩ 100 lbs	—	—
Hay, ₩ ton:
Prime	—	—
Ordinary	—	—
Cow Peas:
Whippoorwill	—	—
Mixed	—	—
Clay	—	—

PROVISIONS.

Bacon, ₩ lb.:
Breakfast	—	—
Shoulders	—	—
Sides, clear rib	—	—
Sides, clear	—	—
Hams, sugar cured	—	—
Mess Pork, ₩ bbl.	—	—
Dry Salted Meats:
Shoulders	—	—
Lard, ₩ lb.:
Canvas, in kegs and pails	—	—
Choice, in tierces and barrels	—	—

EDULENTS.

Potatoes, ₩ bbl	—	—
Onions, ₩ bbl	—	—
Apples, ₩ bbl	—	—
Cabbages, ₩ 100	—	—

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Poultry, ₩ dozen:
Old chickens	—	—
Young	—	—
Ducks	—	—
Geese	—	—
Turkeys	—	—
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western	—	—
Louisiana	—	—

WOOL.

Burry	—	—
Louisiana clear	—	—
Lake, clear	—	—

BALING STUFFS.

Bagging:
India	—	—
Jute	—	—
Twine, hemp	—	—

GOLDEN WAFFLES.—The same as for silver waffles; except use brown sugar and the yolks of four eggs, in stead of the whites.

GOOD FOR BABIES.

We are pleased to say that our baby was permanently cured of a serious protracted irregularity of the bowels by the use of Hop Bitters by his mother, which at the same time restored her to perfect health and strength.—The Parole University, Ave., Rochester, N. Y. See another column.—Adv.

VASELINE.

You may land the world over and still will not find
A use of the household, which it defies of the mind.
The uses of Vaseline, are plenty to be seen
Throughout every by the finest Vaseline.

It can cure a pimple, or a wound it can heal
From pain it can relieve you, the household shall tell,
On the shelf should be found the bo of all pain,
And quiet shall reign in the household again.

If our dear sick friend are bleed to the sun,
And the tete boil its ills is too rough to be borne,
Kind Vaseline comes to us ally be with,
And the chick takes on very it had not else seen.

If the voice it is husky, the throat it is sore,
Take the jelly at once and the trouble is over,
In fact read the circular, and from it glean
All the virtue and stables of the famed Vaseline.

—The largest church in the United States is the First African Baptist Church of Richmond, Va. It has 3,300 members. On one Sunday the pastor baptized 585 persons and added nearly 900 to the church.

T. W. BOTHICK,

UNDERTAKER,

OFFICE, 371 CAMP STREET,

STABLES, 378 MAGAZINE STREET.

Embalming and disinterring bodies. Bodies carefully shipped. Carriages for hire.

FUNERALS STRICT ATTENTION. ☞

COMMERCIAL.

ADVOCATE OFFICE,
NEW ORLEANS, Monday, Dec. 1, 1879.

COTTON.

The general tenor of the news being unfavorable, buyers are standing aloof or coming forward with offers which factors are unwilling to accept. The business has consequently been confined to a few hundred bales, mostly of styles which cannot be accepted as criteria of the market.

The following is the official closing of the Cotton Exchange:

	To-Day.	Saturday
Low ordinary
Ordinary	11	11⅛
Good ordinary	11¼	11⅜
Low middling	11⅝	11⅝
Middling	11⅞	11⅞
Good middling	12⅛	12⅛
Middling fair	12⅜	12⅜

Sales to-day, 1,500 bales, including 250 yesterday. Market dull.

Receipts at United States ports, week ending Monday, December 1, 1879.

	Saturday.	Sunday and Monday.	This week.	Last year.
Galveston
New Orleans
Mobile
Savannah
Charleston
Wilmington
Norfolk
Baltimore
New York
Boston
Philadelphia
Various
Total

BITTERS.

The position of the market at New York may be seen by the following:

Middling.	Friday.	Saturday.
January
February
March
April
May
June
July
August
September
October
November
December

Sales, 1,050 bales. Market strong.

MISCELLANEOUS.

BENSON'S CAPCINE POROUS PLASTER.
FOR WOMEN & CHILDREN.

Females suffering from pain and weakness will derive great comfort and strength from the use of Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster. Where children are afflicted with whooping cough, and many times of colds or weak lungs, it is the one and only treatment they should receive. This article contains new medicinal elements, such as is found in no other remedy in the same form. It is far superior to the common porous plasters, for most electrical & physician altogether exert ual remedies & it relieves pain at once, strengthens and cures where other plasters will not even relieve. For Lame and Weak Back, Rheumatism, Kidney disease and all aches and pains it is the best known remedy.

Ask for Benson's Capcine Plaster and take no other. Sold by all druggists.

Price 25 cents.

FOR NEW YORK DIRECT,
THE CROMWELL
N. Y. and N. O. Steamship Line.

This line is composed of the following first class iron steamships:

LOUISIANA, HUDSON,
KNICKERBOCKER, NEW ORLEANS.

Steamships of this line leave New York
Every Saturday, at 3 P. M.
and from New Orleans
Every Wednesday at 8 A. M.

Cabin passage ..... $60.
Steerage passage ..... $30.

For further information apply to
ALFRED MOULTON,
81 Carondelet street.

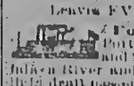
Regular Opelousas Mail Packet.
LEAVES EVERY TUESDAY, AT 5 P. M.

For Washington, Opelousas, Port Barre, Simsport, Churchville and all landings on the Coast, Atchafalaya River and Bayou Courtableau. The new and light-draft Steamer

FANCHON,

H. H. BROAS, Master. THEO. JOHNS, Clerk, will leave as above. For freight or passage apply on board, or to
R. W. ADAMS, 21 Commercial Place.
J. E. CARLIN, 17 Chamipollus St.

REGULAR OPELOUSAS PACKET.
Leaves EVERY TUESDAY at 5 P. M.



For Washington Opelousas, Port Barre, Simsport, Churchville and all landings on the coast, Atchafalaya River and Bayou Courtableau. The very light draft passenger steamer

YAZOO,

WM. CRAWFORD, Master. J. B. SCHMIT, Clerk will leave positively as above. For freight or passage apply on board or to DAVID & SCHMIT, Agents, 8 Camp St.
GEO. D. HILL, Agent, 4 Carondelet St.
P. S. Connects closely with Boats for Bayou Des Glaises and barges for Bayou Rouge.

PIANO TUNING
In Purest Harmony.

Piano Repairing, Varnishing, Covering, Polishing, Packing and Moving. Pianos for Sale or Rent. Lowest prices in the city. Organs, Tunes Repaired and Built to order.

A. C. GARDNER,
87 Magazine street, New Orleans, La.

Popular Music Books.

TEMPERANCE JEWELS. New Temperance Song Book. Contains the Best Temperance Songs. Price 35 cents; $3.60 per dozen.

WHITE HORSE. The newest Sabbath School Song Book ever made. Price 35 cents.

GEM GLEANER. Superior collection of Anthems for Church service. $1.00.

PRODIGAL SON. A grand Cantata. By SULLIVAN. Commended to Musical Societies. Seventy-five cents.

AMERICAN GLEE BOOK. Mixed Voices. One of the very best Glee and Chorus Books. $1.50.

EMERSON'S VOCAL METHOD. For Voice Training. One of the very best. $1.50.

DR. OF ALCANTARA. Elite Opera. Good Music and easy. Retail $1.00.

☞ Specimens of these or any other books, or any piece of Sheet Music mailed anywhere, post free, for the retail price.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston,
C. H. DITSON & CO.
843 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Joseph Mitchell Boiler Yard,
C. J. WALTON, Proprietor,
Manufacturer of all kinds of
STEAM BOILERS,
Iard, Coal Oil, Water and Locomotive Tanks, Sugar and Plantation Boilers a Specialty.
No. 407 N. S. MAIN STREET,
Bet. Twelfth and Thirteenth.
LOUISVILLE, KY.

Episcopal Appointments for 1879.

CONFERENCE.	PLACE.	BISHOP.	TIME.
S. Georgia	Perry	Doggett	Dec. 10
Texas	Austin	McTyeire	Dec. 10
Little Rock	Camden	Pierce	Dec. 10
Louisiana	Baton Rouge	Keener	Dec. 10
Florida	Tallahassee	Doggett	Dec. 17
S. Carolina	Charleston	Wightman	Dec. 17
Mississippi	Meridian	Kavanaugh	Dec. 17
Alabama	Tuskegee	Paine	Dec. 17
Baltimore	Front Royal	Keener	Mar. 6

Bishop McTyeire has charge of the Mission in China.

Bishop Keener has charge of the Missions in Brazil and Mexico.

BEWARE OF
Imitation Machines
Offered by second-hand dealers as
IMPROVED SINGER.

THE GENUINE
SINGER MACHINE,
—MADE BY THE—
Singer Manufacturing Co.
HAS NO EQUAL.

2,500,000 Singers in Daily Use.
Two-thirds of all the machines sold in the United States are those made by
The Singer Company,
Send for Circular and Price List. Address
The Singer Manufacturing Co.,
85 CANAL STREET.
Agent's for Butterick's Patterns.

DANZIGER'S,
No. 131 Canal Street,
GRAND OPENING
OF
Fall and Winter Dry Goods.

Comprising an extensive assortment of LINE GOODS at greatly reduced prices.

PLANTATION GOODS

Of all descriptions at prices that will surprise you.

We respectfully invite our friends and customers to call and examine our stock, which is the most beautiful and complete we have ever had to show, and promise one and all courteous and prompt attention.

Opened and in west corner, prior stores up stairs and examine our

ELEGANT CLOAKS,
LADIES' SUITS,
UNDERWEAR
Etc., Etc., Etc.

Samples sent on application to all parts of the country free of charge.

DANZIGER'S,
No. 131 Canal Street.

"Crescent City Spring,"
WAUKESHA WATER

The undersigned having been appointed agent here for the above celebrated Spring, will keep the WATER constantly on sale by the barrel, half barrel, quarter barrel and by the gallon. Call for circulars.

L. C. ARNY,
26, 28 and 30 Bienville st.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALER IN

LHOTE & CO,
OLD BASIN
SASH, BLIND,
DOOR FACTORY,
AND
Lumber Yard,
Offices, Cor. Toulous & Franklin, and 32 Carondelet Sts.,
P. O. Box 836. NEW ORLEANS.

LYNCH & GOMIEN,
Manufacturers of Pianos,
1321 BROADWAY, cor. 35th Street,
NEW YORK.

TESTIMONIALS FROM WELL-KNOWN PERSONS.

From Mrs. General Sherman.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21st, 1878.

Messrs. LYNCH & GOMIEN:

Gentlemen: I am very much pleased with the Piano you made for me. It is really a first-class instrument, perfect in all its parts, and has an even, perfect and delicate touch, and beauty of finish. Many good judges and skilful musicians have called since it has been in our parlor, and all pronounce it a fine instrument. We are satisfied and charmed with it. I shall, most certainly, recommend it to my friends, who may wish to purchase.

I am, very truly and respectfully yours,
ELLEN H. P. SHERMAN,
234 I Street.

St. James, December 27, 1878.

Messrs. LYNCH & GOMIEN:

Gentlemen: I am very happy to be able to rank your Pianos as one of the very best I ever had and saw. I think the tone, and brilliancy of tone required, for perhaps the great pieces of modern and classical masters are equal to any Piano made in this country. Hoping that your Pianos will also stand our climate as well as any other manufactured at the North, I shall with much pleasure recommend them wherever I have an opportunity. Very respectfully yours,
ANTHONY WIMMER,
Professor of Music, St. Mary, Jefferson College, St. James P. O., (Convent, P. O.)

From the World Renowned Artist, Camilla Urso.

NEW YORK, May 27, 1873.

Messrs. LYNCH & GOMIEN:

Gentlemen: After giving your Pianos a fair trial I am happy to congratulate you upon the excellent results you have made. Your instruments possess rare merits, and it gives me much pleasure to recommend them to the public.

Yours truly,
CAMILA URSO.

Extract of Letter from W. H. Aldridge, Travis Tex.

We are delighted with the Piano. The tone is loud, strong and full, yet soft and mellow.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

AT PHILIP
WERLEIN'S
PIANO
WAREROOMS,
135 . CANAL STREET . 135

Can be found
THE LARGEST STOCK OF INSTRUMENTS in the South in New Orleans. The only agency for parties wishing to purchase Pianos

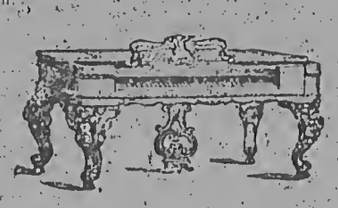
The Chickering & Sons' Upright and Square Grand Pianos.

They are the result of the combination of artists of world wide reputation, and have been pronounced by the musical profession and musical critics throughout the country to be the most perfect instruments in the world ever made. They combine all the improvements ever made in the art of piano forte making. Call and examine them in the warerooms of

PHILIP WERLEIN,
135 CANAL STREET.

—THE—
MATHUSHEK PIANO

It is a great pleasure to recommend the Mathushek Pianos. Having used one of them for the past two years, I have found it to be a very superior instrument. Its tone is very sweet and powerful, and has a very long and pure sustaining quality. The touch is very even, with the finest elastic ring. The action appears to be simple, and is all that could be desired. The case has a very handsome appearance, and is well made. The Mathushek Piano is a first-class instrument in every respect, and I can recommend it to the public as such.



A full assortment of the Popular
HALE UPRIGHT PIANOS
HALE UPRIGHT PIANOS.
BEAUTIFUL IN TONE.
RICH IN DESIGN OF CASE.

have just been received and are now ready for inspection at wholesale and retail customers. Direct factory prices. These Pianos are acknowledged perfect instruments in every particular. They combine all the improvements ever made. Every Piano is fully warranted in the most satisfactory manner. Call and examine them at the warerooms of

PHILIP WERLEIN,
135 CANAL STREET.

Second-Hand Pianos Taken in Exchange.
Instalments Sold on Installments.

Every Instrument Warranted.

The best Wood and Iron STOOLS in the market.
PIANO COVERS of every description.
Descriptive catalogues sent free to any address.

OPEN EVENINGS.

PHILIP WERLEIN,
135 CANAL STREET.

Dealer in Sheet Music, Instruction Books, Importer of Musical Instruments of every description and Music.

Invoices just received per steam rs Nurnberg and Teutonia.

Second-hand Pianos for sale.

The much admired
Estey & Co., Mason & Hamlin
ORGANS.

are known all over the world. They are with many other first class Organs, far superior. In order to get the satisfaction to purchase an Organ, it must be seen and heard. The best evidence and appreciation is the sales I obtained for them.

In order the great variety of Pianos I have added the following first class Pianos to my Stock:

The Gabler,
Groveteen & Fuller
and Hardman.

They are Pianos of highest standard, finely finished and are to give warrant as to being just what they represent.

Second-Hand Pianos Taken in Exchange.
Instalments Sold on Installments.

Every Instrument Warranted.

The best Wood and Iron STOOLS in the market.
PIANO COVERS of every description.
Descriptive catalogues sent free to any address.

OPEN EVENINGS.

PHILIP WERLEIN,
135 CANAL STREET.

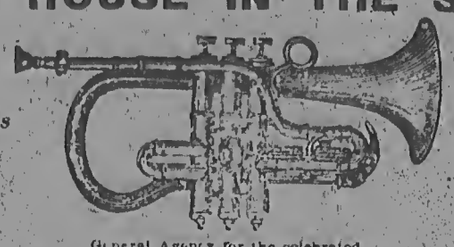
Dealer in Sheet Music, Instruction Books, Importer of Musical Instruments of every description and Music.

Invoices just received per steam rs Nurnberg and Teutonia.

Second-hand Pianos for sale.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LARGEST AND MOST POPULAR
MUSIC HOUSE IN THE SOUTH.



Easiest Terms — Lowest Prices

General Agency for the celebrated
STEINWAY, KNABE, PLEYEL, FISCHER PIANOS
And the Popular Organs of
CLOUGH & WARREN AND PELOUBET, PELTON & CO.
Everything in the Music line at rock bottom prices. Send for illustrated catalogues.
LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
Grunewald Hall, New Orleans.

YALE & BOWLING,
IMPORTERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN
- DRY GOODS -
NOTIONS AND MILLINERY,
17, 19 and 21 - Magazine Street, - 17, 19 and 21
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

WARRINGTON STEEL-PEN CO.'S STEEL PENS.

EQUAL IN QUALITY TO ANY THAT CAN BE PRODUCED.

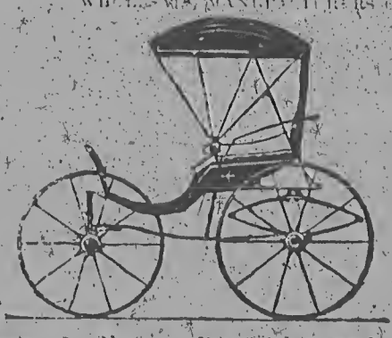
Office: 105 and 107 N. Fifth St., Philadelphia.
For Sale by Lathrop & Wilkins, 112 Camp street, N. O.

Kelly Steel Barb Wire.

Best and most Durable
BARB WIRE, ALL STEEL, FOR FENCES.
Cheapest and Most Effectual for Plantations.
PROOF AGAINST STOCK, STORMS OR FIRE.
Weighs less than Seven Pounds per 100 feet.
THORN WIRE HEDGE CO., Chicago.
C. E. TUTTLE & CO., Agents, Mobile, Ala.
M. SCHWARTZ & BRO., Agents, New Orleans.

ANDERSON, HARRIS & CO.,
WHOLESALE MANUFACTURERS OF

Buggies, Phætons,



CARRIAGES OF EVERY VEHICLES, DESCRIPTION,

Office and Factory, N. E. cor. Baymiller and Liberty Streets,
Warerooms, N. W. cor. Livingston and Baymiller Sts.
CINCINNATTI.

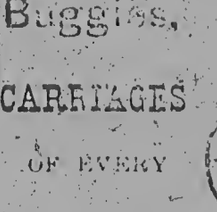
Send for Illustrated Catalogue and Price List.

☞ Sixth Street (Green) Cars pass the door.

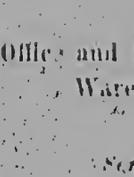
E. OFFNER,
No. 174 Canal Street, Between Baronne and Dryades.
DIRECT IMPORTER OF
FRENCH, ENGLISH AND AMERICAN
CHINA AND EARTHENWARE
GLASSWARE, CUTLERY, WOODENWARE, TINWARE.
THE FINEST QUALITY OF
SILVER PLATEDWARE A SPECIALITY
Look at the following prices for our AMERICAN CHINA:
Dinner Sets (97 pcs) Pattern comprising in all 100 pieces, for $15 00
Tea and China Dinner Sets (Pattern) 12 00
Decorated Chamber Sets, 10 pieces 4 00
Cut Glass Goblets per dozen 9 00
All other goods in proportion.

Orders by mail will receive prompt and careful attention. Make no mistake in the number and No. of the stand.

E. OFFNER,
174 Canal Street, Between Baronne and Dryades.



FRANTZ & OPITZ,
Diamond Setters
and
Jewelers,
63 ROYAL ST.,
bet. Allen's Alley and Conti
NEW ORLEANS.



STAINED GLASS
FOR CHURCHES,
Manufactured by
GEO. A. MISCH,
217 East Washington st.,
Chicago, Ills.

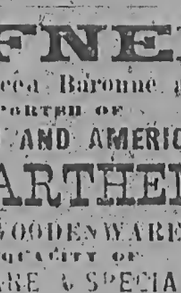
COLUMBIA BICYCLE.

A practical machine for all except the old and infirm. Better than a horse as it eats no oats, because on it you can ride more miles in a day over common roads than a horse can go. Send 3c. stamp for price list and twenty four page catalogue with testimonials and full information.

THE POPE MANUF'G CO.,
Summer St., Boston, Mass.

COAL. COAL.
WHOLESALE & RETAIL.
PLANTERS IN NEED OF
GOOD PITTSBURG COAL
By boat load or less quantity, will be supplied at LOWEST MARKET RATES. Mines on the upper coast from New Orleans by
W. G. COYLE & CO.,
33 Carondelet street.

WILLIAM BURNS,
Old Virginia Kitchen,
No. 75 CAMP STREET.
Meals and Rooms by the Day or Week, on the European Plan.
Meals at all Hours of the Day.



THE ORIGINAL
Superintendent of Dr. Bly and Lewis Lockwood of New Orleans.
A. McDERMOTT,
has returned and established the business of manufacturing Dr. Bly's patent
ARTIFICIAL
Arms and Legs,
and has purchased the sole right for the Southern States. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed in all cases or no pay. Prices greatly reduced.
A. McDERMOTT,
205 Camp Street, N. O.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 25. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1879. NO. 50.

The Christian Advocate.

ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
G. T. LATHROP, Publisher.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address all matters of business, G. T. LATHROP 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication REV. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. FELIX R. HILLS.
REV. H. D. MOORE.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. G. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS, D. D.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.
REV. CHRISTIAN KEENER.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers at the following rates, including postage:

One Year	$2 00
Six Months	1 00
Three Months	50

To all Ministers of the Gospel and widows of deceased traveling preachers:

One Year	$1 00
Six Months	50
Three Months	25

The Christian Advocate.

A PILGRIM ODE.

BY PILGRIM.

When the way is dark and the night of life
Seems longer and longer to grow,
They love to think of the promised bliss
The isle of which rest the cold waves kiss
Of a home in the Father's house,
Where the sun will be forever bright
And by-and-by, when our work here is done,
We will see the King in all His glory.

And we will rest there, for His word has said
It is so for those who believe.
He has gone there the faithful to lead
He has told us, and I hope the Father's Right.
When they pass round the throne of the one
To that golden city by crystal sea.
He's promised to carry us, very safe!

So, up! heavy the cross and the journey long
And I walk by faith for I never have seen
Then I love to think of this peaceful isle
And the children that sing of Day
My beautiful home that is kept safe with Angels.
Beyond the boundless, starry world of stars,
Where the King in His beauty shall be seen
In the shining Jerusalem He went to prepare

He hath loved us so, with such wonderful love,
That his death and death we can never know,
Can we ever assure the love that will live Himself,
And pay with the blood that in that we owe?
So I live by faith in that unknown but love,
The one of all others to me first sweet,
When His face is hid in Love as His Hand,
As He leads through the dark my way worn

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

Memphis, Dec. 2.—At a joint meeting of the executive committee of fifteen and the local committee of twenty-one, held to-night, to consider the report of the committee appointed by the sanitary convention in Memphis, were approved.

The committee were empowered to draft a memorial to be presented to Congress, which memorial is to be presented to the Congress of the United States, and to be presented to the Congress of the United States, and to be presented to the Congress of the United States, and

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1879.

SHALL WE KNOW OUR FRIENDS IN HEAVEN?

We can not hear the fall of gentle feet
Beyond the river they may cross no more,
Nor see familiar faces, all so sweet,
Through the dim distance, on the other shore.

Where are the friends' companions, down the years,
Who shared our care and labor, gain and loss;
Who wept with us, in sorrow, bitter tears,
Who knelt beside us at the Saviour's cross?

Some were a weary of the world, and old,
And some had scarcely passed meridian prime;
And some were gathered to the blessed fold
In all the beauty of life's morning time.

A few had climbed the heights not many gain,
And battled nobly for the good and true;
Many wrought humbly, on life's common plane;
But all accomplished what they came to do.

And as we walked together by the way,
They turned and left us—left us, one by one.
Love followed weeping, but they might not stay,
For all her pleading, when their work was done.

Shall we not meet again, or soon or late?
Meet at the entrance to the final goal?
Did the Pale Angel, at the shadowy gate,
Undo the tie that bound us, soul to soul?

Nay, by the holy instincts of our love,
By every pulse humanity holds dear,
I trust in God to meet my treasures trove,
Tenderly loving, as we parted here.

It must be so, if deathless mind retain
The noblest attributes that God has given
Love, hope and memory count but for a vain,
If what they win on earth be lost in heaven.

And if the human love, that underlies
All that is true and good, in man's estate—
All that remains to us of paradise—
Were lacking there, heaven would be desolate.

Nay, as the rich man knew, on Abraham's breast;
The willful beggar, at his palace gate;
As Saul knew Samuel, when, at God's behest,
He came to warn the monarch of his fate.

As Moses and Elias, heavenly bright,
Were recognized upon the mount sublime—
Shall we know our beloved, in the light
That lies beyond the shores of death and time.

—Indianapolis Journal.

Whence Immersion.

THE MOST PROBABLE ACCOUNT OF THE ORIGIN OF IMMERSION.

MR. EDITOR: From the truth presented in the article found in the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE of August 14, 1879, as expressly stated in the word of God, on the ceremonial use and mode of using water to teach mankind the truth, that they are corrupt beings, and need to be cleansed, and that God has presented this truth plainly, so that any one can understand it; and since God is capable of selecting the best means and modes of conveying truth, and that, we see, was sprinkling, no one can dispute this, we naturally inquire: Whence came the idea of immersion? We offer one suggestion, which, if it be not the whole truth of the matter, and it may be, yet, will be forcibly felt, even by the common reader.

We have already seen that John practiced the mode established by God for purification (St. John iii, 25,) which was then called baptism or symbolical cleansing, foreshadowing the real purification which must be accomplished by the truth and Holy Ghost, this mode being of God's own command, and in harmony with the prophesy (Isaiah lii, 15, and Ezekiel xxxvi, 25,) and we all know prophecies must be fulfilled, and that the Master authorized it, for which arose a question as to who had authority to do this.

The Jews supposed that John was the only one commissioned to do this work of preparation, and, as they did not dream that He, for whom the way was being prepared, was present as God-man with authority, and, being somewhat disposed to reject Him, they questioned His authority. To their complaint—for it was a complaint more than a report, simply—he very appropriately ascribed this authority to Him, verse 27, and said: "He must increase, but I must decrease." Here John and Christ harmonize with the law and the prophets, and we remember the Savior came not to destroy, but to fulfill the law and the prophets. Just here all doubt must vanish before the truth.

Profane history tells us that immersion began some time in the first century, but fails to say why. It is certain that it came not from the Scriptures, the Old Testament, nor from John and the Master, with the beginning of the drag generally known as the gospel, for, as already seen, there is no doubt as to what John was doing. He was calling upon them to acknowledge their sinfulness and sinful condition, and their need of being cleansed, not by the water, but by the blood of Jesus, which was to make an atonement for sin, and that he used a ceremony known and practiced for ages, which harmoniously and plainly conveyed this essential truth to mankind, and in harmony with the prophesy. It was shown in the article before referred to that this truth could not be taught any better by immersion, and that a change without a reason would be likely to confuse rather than instruct man. So that there can be no reason or account for it, except from one source, which will now be noticed. After the New Testament was given to the people in the Greek language, those who knew no other language but that would naturally be impressed with the original sense of that language. This was the condition of the Gentiles when introduced into the church. They had no knowledge of religion or of truth, or of figures or language used to convey truth, as in the Old Testament. They had been accustomed to look upon the Jews as their enemies, and would naturally lack confidence in their interpretations, and would, therefore, be much inclined to lean upon their own understanding of the language, and were likely to be sticklers for the signification of Greek words, forgetting, or probably never having thought, that the Greek language was called upon to convey the sense of Scripture to the world, and harmoniously so, too.

Doubtless some honest converted heathen, or a number of them, without the light of past instruction given by God, even as to the truth taught by this ceremony, for some do not understand, as yet, being very ignorant, as thousands were, ignorant of the Hebrew, and probably having barely an acquaintance with the mixed language then spoken, for profane history tells us of the almost universal ignorance which then prevailed, especially as to religion, the Jews themselves having lost the spirituality of their religion, this heathen convert, or, we will say, any number of them, in order to keep right and preserve the truth, may have determined to hold to the original sense of the Greek. And this is very reasonable, since they had no other light, and as they were surrounded by other sects, such as the Pharisees, Sadducees, and quite a number of others mentioned by history, who were also making disciples. Driven by these circumstances, together with the terrible persecutions of the first century, a few of them, in some dark corner, determined to hold to the Greek language without the counsel of those better informed. And this is more probable, since that is characteristic of their descendents to-day. The trouble is not about what the Scriptures teach, but about the Greek language. We want the truth of the Bible, since that, accompanied by the Holy Ghost, is the power to save. This is why the Master said a man must be born of water and the Spirit, in other words, born of the truth conveyed by the water.

To sum up the whole truth, we see that water was used for ages to teach the essential truth already noticed, also the mode was established by God, and foretold by the prophets concerning this kingdom, that Christ authorized, and John practiced this mode, and from the circumstances of baptism by the apostles they taught the same truth by the same mode. For when we go back beyond the present translation we may read those words and phrases which have caused so much contention, in perfect harmony.

In all honesty we ask: Whence came immersion? The reason just given must answer. When the Master taught His apostles, who, so far as we know, had not been baptized, this essential truth, He, to appear as a servant, washed His disciples' feet.

From this circumstance we see that mode is not essential. Satisfactory reasons can be given why the Master washed feet instead of the other ceremony, but we have said enough now.

When all truths and circumstances harmonize, we have found the truth, indeed, and there will we rest.

JOHN W. ELLISON.

Proper Regard for the Aged.

MR. EDITOR: It is often the case with the aged sire, and the matron of many years, from the selfishness and ill treatment of their children, that they, with Jacob of old, are constrained in their hearts to say: "Ye will bring down my gray hairs with sorrow to the grave."

PARENTS

who have tried to discharge their duty toward their children in training them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, and for usefulness in life, and labored day and night, denying themselves of many of the necessary comforts of life, in order to procure means to educate them, and prepare them for any station or office that the government or church may call them, often in the discharge of these parental duties look forward with pleasing anticipation to the time, if the Lord should spare them, until they grow old in years, their children married and settled, in the loving and kind returns their children will make, and how happy they will be, even if they, too, should have to make some sacrifices to render their aged parents comfortable, and, if need be, as far as possible, supply their absolute wants. When children, even if not able to do much for the temporal wants of their parents, can, by showing to them "love without dissimulation," make them happy. Oh, how happy aged parents must feel, when visiting their children, to be received with a hearty welcome, and then listening to the little prattling ones, saying: "My grandpa. My grandma!"

There is an account given in history of an Eastern lady, who, before starting on a long journey, requested her three sons to furnish her with an expression of their love. The first brought a marble tablet, with the inscription of her name, the second a garland of fragrant flowers, the third entered and said: "My mother, I have neither marble tablet nor fragrant nosegay, but I have a heart; here your name is engraved, here your memory is precious, and this heart, full of affection, will follow you wherever you travel, and remain wherever you repose." Here was "love without dissimulation," and a happy mother and son.

CHILDREN,

sometimes in this fast age of pride, fashion and show, become ashamed of their parents if they be poor and plain in their dress. It was different, however, with Archbishop Tillotson, of England. His father was a very plain Yorkshire man, and who made no pretentions whatever to an aristocratic life. Once on a visit to his son, who lived in a fine mansion, on his arrival at the door of his son's mansion, he inquired of a servant if "John Tillotson was at home." The servant, indignant at what he thought insolence in such a plain looking man, drove him from the door. But the archbishop, who was within, hearing and recognizing the voice of his father, hastened out, exclaiming, in the presence of his astonished servants: "It is my beloved father," and fell down upon his knees and asked his blessing.

There is one other case worthy of special notice, of filial affection, and by one who was born in a heathen land, the circumstances of which are recorded in the Book of books, the Bible, to which both parents and children should go for instruction. The case is that of a heathen by birth, and the widow of Naomi's son. When Naomi, Ruth's mother-in-law, in her old age determined to leave Moab, and return unto the land of Judah, she called the affectionate and lovely Ruth, and insisted on her to remain in Moab among her kindred. No, no. Ruth had too tender a regard for her aged mother-in-law to so act, and replied: "Entreat me not to leave thee * * for whither thou goest I will go; and where thou lodgest I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God shall be my God." When they reached Bethlehem the aged mother-in-law was probably in destitute circumstance, hard run for food to sustain her body, but the affectionate Ruth was still young and active, and started out to find employment, and, finding reapers in the field cutting the ripe grain, she fell in behind to glean what the reapers left, and carried what she gathered home for her hungry mother-in-law to eat. Nor was this all. After this noble woman was married to the wealthy Boaz, and she blessed with a son, she did not spurn from her presence, nor treat with contempt, her poor and aged mother-in-law, but said to her: This son "shall be unto thee a restorer of thy life, and a nourisher of thine old age, for thy daughter-in-law, which loveth thee, which is better than seven sons, hath borne him."

RUTH,

No part of the Scripture were written without a special object or design, and it does seem that the great design of the history of Ruth was to teach children their duty toward their aged parents. In conclusion, suffer an old man, who once had aged parents to care for, and now feels the necessity of being cared for, to entreat who have aged parents, who in your infancy watched over you, through days of anxiety and wearisome nights, and who, in after years, toiled and labored to prepare you for usefulness in life, to read and study the history of Ruth, and learn wisdom, duty, and a religious regard for your parents, be they rich or poor.

CHILDREN

SEPTUAGENARIAN.

Methodism in Prophecy,

OR THE GREAT WESLEYAN REFORMATION FORETOLD IN THE SCRIPTURES.

MR. EDITOR: The work with the above title, issued in 1877 from our Publishing House, is, we presume, well known. But it seems that it has not met with the universal appreciation it deserved at the hands of "the mighty hosts of God's peculiar people, called Methodists," to whom it is fraternally inscribed by the author, the Rev. G. T. Vickers, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Aside from the general merits of the book, as an exposition of the designs of prophecy, and the insight it gives of the sublime truths of the divine inspiration of the prophetical and apocalyptical writings, it should be highly prized by all Methodists as a valuable contribution to our beloved cause.

It has much literary merit, and its author displays great research and a thorough acquaintance with his subject, and the careful and candid reader must certainly be convinced of the facts so forcibly illustrated.

The main fact is that the great Wesleyan reformation of the eighteenth century was foretold by "the revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave unto Him, to show unto His servants the things which must shortly come to pass."

Is this true, or is it not? "That's the question" for the "mighty hosts, called Methodists," whose "parish is the world," to answer. Will they let the prejudice against any interpretation of prophecy close their eyes to this great luminous fact? If no one is to understand, or interpret the "revelation of Jesus Christ," or expound the Scriptures as Aquilla and Priscilla did, why was it made? Our author has shown that the twenty-one symbols of revelation occupy the whole time from Christ's first to His last coming, and that between the sounding of the seventh trumpet which occurred A. D. 1697, and the pouring out of the first vial, A. D. 1789, which is the period designated by expositors, Methodism arose, and it being the only great ecclesiastical organization arising in this epoch, demonstrates Methodism as that organization. Expositors declared that the fulfillment of this prophecy was to "be a scene of great glory and unfettering of the truth." Was not Methodism the wrench that unfettered the truth that had so long lain in chains under the iron despotism of Rome and the dead formality of the seventeenth century?

Mr. Wesley said, in the Wesleyan Conference in 1765, (which was in the midst of the epoch above designated,) that "In 1729 my brother and I read the Bible"—(they had read the prayer book before that,) "saw inward and outward holiness therein, followed after, and incited others to do so. In 1737 we saw this holiness comes by faith. In 1738 we saw we must be justified before we are sanctified. But still holiness was our point, inward and outward holiness. God then thrust us out to raise a holy people." "God thrust them out," as the Egyptian king "thrust out" the children of Israel. The one to "go up and possess the land," and the other to "raise a holy people." From this humble beginning when John and Charles Wesley first "read the Bible," in 1729, to the time of his death, in 1791, there were fifty itinerant with thousands of local or lay preachers; among the latter class were many women, and over 140,000 members. At the present time the lowest estimate is that there are 2,100,000 in our Western hemisphere alone. Well may one ask, with wondering awe: "What hath God wrought?" Does not the fact of the marvelous growth and spread of Methodism, arising as it did in the epoch above mentioned, demonstrate its prophetical mission in the revival of apostolic and spiritual life proved it to be, as Bro. Vickers says, "the everlasting gospel" "on angels' wings?" And Mr. Wesley did not say that the Established Church thrust them out from its pulpits and sacred altars, but "God thrust them out to raise a holy people," and this occurred in the period that our author claims as the only ecclesiastical organization that arose, and this, agreeing with the "cleansing of the sanctuary" in the prophecy of Daniel, seems to prove completely that Methodism was foretold in the Scriptures. This fact is not proclaimed in the spirit of vain glory, but as an incentive to further and greater efforts by Methodists for the conversion of the world, and a just appreciation of their "heaven-born credentials." This Methodists may well be proud of, but, "the best of all is, God is with us."

PATIENCE.

From the Work.

AN EXPRESSION OF THANKS FROM THE CHURCHES IN CHOCTAW COUNTY, ALA.

Whereas, The Rev. A. J. Briggs, pastor of our work, the Oaktuppa mission, Mobile district, Alabama Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, found on his arrival upon the work the churches badly disorganized and almost a total wreck, and there being no provision made for a home for him, and he being forced to serve the work from his distant home of Montgomery, Ala.; And whereas, The work was unable to pay his traveling expenses, much less support his family; And whereas, He has been true and faithful, doing a work among us which no other man did; indeed, unprecedented in this country, building a camp ground in the center of the work, erecting one new church, and repairing others, and adding to our churches 165 adult members, and dedicating to God in holy baptism 105 of our infant children, reclaiming a host of backsliders, and leaving the entire change revived, alive and awake to God; now, therefore, be it Resolved, By this Quarterly Conference that we fully indorse the Rev. A. J. Briggs as a man of God in the pulpit and out of it, laboring energetically, not for money, but for the up building of the kingdom of the Prince of Peace, and the salvation of his fellow-men; and that it is the unanimous wish of the churches we represent that the Alabama Conference does, and it is hereby officially requested to return to this work our beloved pastor, as none can be more acceptable.

Resolved, That the thanks of our people are due, and are hereby tendered, to the commanders of the different steamboats plying the Bigbee and Warrior rivers, for their uniform kindness to our pastor, and generously passing him to and from the work free of charge.

Resolved, That Col. Edmund L. Tyler, of Montgomery, Ala., vice president of the Montgomery and Mobile Railway Company, has brought this entire people under very great obligations to him for his goodness in passing our pastor free of charge over his road, without which he could not have served the work, and have accomplished the grand results above stated.

Resolved, That we are doubly grateful to the friends of Bro. Briggs in Montgomery, Ala., for their generous care of his family while he has been breaking the bread of life unto us and our children, and for their health and prosperity in this life, and their eternal happiness in the life to come, we will devoutly pray.

Resolved, That we fully indorse the Rev. Edward Wadsworth, D. D., of Mobile, Ala., as a man of God, full of faith and good works, eminently qualified for the high position he occupies, and that we are greatly indebted to him for his labors in our midst as presiding elder of the Mobile district, and do earnestly pray for his early restoration to health, and to his loved employ.

HENRY LASSITER,
For Summers' Chapel.
E. H. RYATT, Jones' Chapel.
JAMES WOOD, Pleasant Hill.
W. M. MCEACHERN, Bethel.
ALEX. THEAD, Pine Grove.
WM. NICHOLSON,
Bethel Hill.
H. H. GRAYHAM,
Dep. Chct. to Ann Conf.
C. W. MOODY,
E. C. STEARNS,
Local Preachers.

WEST PASCAGOULA MISSION.

MR. EDITOR: This field of labor extends from the coast, about fifty miles north, along the Pascagoula river. This is, in some respects, a beautiful country, but more interesting and pleasant than beautiful.

We have many facilities here for a support, more, I think, than I have ever seen in one place. Here we have a good country for cattle, sheep and hogs, and the men who own sheep in this country are more independent than those who own large cotton farms in the richest portions of Alabama and Louisiana. This is not only a good stock country, but it is becoming to be a good farming country; at least the people are learning to improve this poor land with cotton meal, until it grows as good corn, oats, peas and potatoes, as some of our best up country land. Stock-raising and farming is not all that a man can follow to make a good living in this country. We have here the charcoal business, the saw log, and good turpentine business; all of the above mentioned is good employment for those who want work. When I was assigned to this work, two years ago, some of my brethren called me a "coal burner," and seemed to be proud that their destiny was not such. I felt a little badly about it myself, it being my first work from the Conference; but now I have learned more about the business, and I am willing to follow it just as long as the authorities think best to impose His duty upon me.

We have had some glorious revivals of religion this year. About thirty persons have joined the church, and the church has been greatly blessed almost throughout the whole work. While engaged in a protracted meeting, not long ago, I looked around, and saw that almost every person in a large congregation seemed to be so happy, these words came to my mind: "And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place."—Acts ii, 1.

Our financial report will be tolerably good. Conference collection all in hand for preacher in charge and presiding elder. There will be a little deficiency, not more than $25. I can say for the encouragement of the preacher, whoever he may be, that is sent to this work next year, that he will find a large work and a good people.

JOHN S. CALHOUN.

NOVEMBER 18, 1879.

Obituaries.

ANOTHER good and true man has been called from the walks of men to join the glorified host above. On the morning of the twenty-sixth of October, 1879, just as the silvery shine of the holy Sabbath was streaking the eastern skies, the pure and tired spirit of BRO. A. F. LEGARD, of Shubuta, Clark county, Miss., was taken to our "Father's house," to rest forever.

Born in the City of New York, in 1804, his pilgrimage was seventy-five years, seven months and five days. In early life he moved to the state of Alabama, and the greater part of his useful life was spent in Mobile, until, in 1861, he moved to this place. On December 23, 1830, he was wedded, in holy matrimony with Miss Lavinia T. Hill, of Coffeeville, Ala., who adorned his life with the graces of a true Christian wife, and still survives him. In 1840 he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Demopolis, Ala., under the ministry of Bishop Keener, and to the hour of death he adorned the doctrine of Christ by a holy walk and an upright conversation.

Though the last several months were filled with illness and suffering, no words of murmuring were heard to escape his lips; with the confidence of a little child he awaited the fulfillment of the promises of the Father. A few hours before he died I asked him if he still enjoyed the comforts of religion, and he replied: "My will is perfectly lost, and I am only waiting the voice of the Master calling me to rest." He was rational to the last, and taking an affectionate farewell of his sorrowing companion and those of his children who were present, he caught them out to grieve for him, as he was perfectly happy and ready to go.

While this bereavement falls with greatest severity upon his stricken family, yet the church and a large community of friends, deeply mingle their griefs and tears over the loss of one who was ever kind of heart, gentle in deportment, and loved as a brother by all.

J. M. WEEKS.

AT the fourth Quarterly Conference of the Cleveland circuit, Georgetown district, Alabama Conference, held at Parkland, November 8, 1879, the following action was had in reference to the death of Dr. J. P. Taylor.

Dr. S. H. Cox, P. E., appointed a committee, who offered the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, In the Providence of God a vacancy has occurred in our board of stewards by the removal of one of your most faithful and consistent members, Dr. J. P. Taylor, who departed this life at Burnsborough, Ala., November 6, 1879.

Resolved, We feel no doubt in our great loss and our hearts are filled with grief at his removal; therefore, be it

Resolved, That, while we feel our loss, yet we humbly submit to the will of Him who never errs, and in whose hands are the destinies of all. As a member of our board of stewards, we will ever cherish with kind remembrance the relationship we sustained to him, and will strive to so fulfill our duty that when we are called from labor and sorrow we may meet him in that bright home above, and rejoice in the reward to which he has entered.

Resolved, That we tender the family and relatives our heartfelt sympathy.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minute book, and published in the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, Clinton Wide Awake and Observer.

D. J. ARMENT,
For Committee.

MRS. ANN MARY PINE was born in South Carolina, January 13, 1816, and died in Clark county, Ala., near Lower Peach Tree, October 11, 1879. Her maiden name was Cobbs. When early age she joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which she lived and died a consistent member till her death. She was a simple, plain Christian, the savor of whose life was sweet. She died of paralysis, and never spoke after the stroke, being total. She was stricken on Friday morning, and died on Sunday morning following. She needed not words to assure us of her happy state now after such a life. Her husband, Bro. D. F. Pine, and three children, who survive her, we believe, have all that is necessary to comfort them, in that for some years she loved and served Christ. Still it is sad that those who have been so happily connected for so many years should be separated at last. Yet our heavenly Father graciously prepares us by age for it, and it is but for a short while. She was an affectionate wife and a kind mother. May His word and grace support and direct those who are left till they all come to our Father's house above.

W. P. H. CONNERLY, Pastor.

FRANCES LILLIAN APPLEWHITE, daughter of J. W. and S. C. Applewhite, was born February 28, 1857, and died October 3, 1879. Her sufferings were beyond description; but the loving, gentle spirit of the brave little girl was a sweet child, loved by all who knew her. We will not dear ones, God seeing she was too pure for this world, only took up and placed the sweet blossom in a world of eternal light. We know [illegible] we know [illegible] she was so [illegible] death, we feel assured that she has gone to that far away home of the soul, where no storms ever rise on that glittering strand while the years of eternity continue to roll. The happy reunion of mother and daughter in heaven is too profound for the imagination. She so often of late spoke of dying and being with her darling "Pleta."

My own mind often wanders back to the bright, sunny past, and it seems but yesterday since we played together in the home of our childhood's happy days. But, alas! she is gone, and the vacuum which has thus been created in our midst can never, never be filled. A friend who was by her asked if she was aware of her condition. "Perfectly," she replied; "My eyes are closing rapidly on all earthly things, but opening upon the immortal fields of pleasure in the world to come."

MOLLIE PERRY.

SISTER LUCY A. THOMAS, eldest daughter of Rev. J. W. S. and M. A. Goodwin, was born in Tipton, Ala., July 17, 1855, and died in the same place, October 14, 1879. Baptized in infancy by Rev. Wm. H. Grier, at the Alabama Conference assembled in Gallatin, Miss., she was received in full connection in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Columbia, Ala., and remained an acceptable member until her death.

Unpretentious and active in her religious character she was, nevertheless, very possibly to be proficient in experimental religion. Surrounded by circumstances not always favorable to the best growth in grace, she nevertheless maintained her Christian profession, and declared, shortly before her death, her consciousness of pardoned sin.

She has left mother and three little ones, whom may the Good Shepherd safely conduct to a reunion in "the upper fold."

PASTOR.

MRS. ELIZA J. MERRELL died, in Coushatta La., May 3, 1879, aged thirty-six years. The shadow of death must come sooner or later to the brightest hearthstone and the loveliest households. His cold, unfeeling hand was laid upon the home of Dr. Merrell, and she who had served as the fond kind wife, the good mother, the watchful and loving sister, tender mistress and kind neighbor, was called to transfer her church membership to Mount Zion above. She was a faithful member of the Methodist Church, and will be sadly missed, having been a worthy and efficient member. From the remarks which she made just before her death, we feel assured that she has gone to that far away home of the soul, where no storms ever rise on that glittering strand while the years of eternity continue to roll. The happy reunion of mother and daughter in heaven is too profound for the imagination. She so often of late spoke of dying and being with her darling "Pleta."

My own mind often wanders back to the bright, sunny past, and it seems but yesterday since we played together in the home of our childhood's happy days. But, alas! she is gone, and the vacuum which has thus been created in our midst can never, never be filled. A friend who was by her asked if she was aware of her condition. "Perfectly," she replied; "My eyes are closing rapidly on all earthly things, but opening upon the immortal fields of pleasure in the world to come."

MOLLIE PERRY.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1879.

"A LITTLE WHILE."

BY L. TUTTIETT.

"What is this that He saith, A little while"—
A little while"—the Summer's light
Could make the bleakest moorland bright:
A little while"—and not a flower
Is left to cheer the Wintry hour;
A little while"—and lo! the Spring
Will all be greater glory bring.

A little while"—each lightsome heart
Some pleasure finds, and sings its part:
A little while"—in lonesome grief
We look to Heaven for sure relief;
A little while"—and we shall praise
Our Father's love for saddest days.

A little while"—we learn to bind
Some hearts with ours in friendship kind:
A little while"—and, one by one,
They change or die, till all are gone;
A little while"—and love shall be
From Change and Death forever free.

A little while"—we love to pray,
And bright is all the heavenward way;
A little while" In Doubt and Fear
We hardly know a Saviour near;
A little while"—and not a cloud
The vision of our God shall shroud.

—Scottish Guardian.

Assyrian Explorations.

Mr. Hormuzd Rassam has just returned to England, bringing with him the results of his second expedition to explore the mounds of the Tigro-Euphrates Valley. Although not furnishing any such grand discovery as that of the bronze gates from Balawat, the expedition has been an extremely successful one. With the exception of the explorations in Syria, and especially on the site of Carchemish, Mr. Rassam has followed the programme which was detailed in the Times of October 10, 1878. His explorations on the mounds of Nineveh have this time extended to a site hitherto untouched by former explorers, namely, the mound of the Nebby-Yunus, or Tomb of Jonah. In this mound he was fortunately able to make some few explorations and to recover a number of inscribed fragments bearing inscriptions of the reigns of Esarhaddon and Sennacherib, as well as some statuettes in terra-cotta, which exhibit a higher art than any before recovered. Explorations have been continued in both the palaces of Sennacherib and Assur-ban-i-pal and many hundreds of inscribed tablets have been recovered. On the mounds of Nimrond, the exploration of the Temple site, discovered by Mr. Rassam in his former expedition, was continued, and a number of fragments of tiles and several inscriptions were recovered. This temple, or rather temple area, is now found to have contained a number of altars as well as a systematically-arranged series of seats. It would appear rather to have been a species of forum, where religious assemblies, councils and other gatherings were held. Warned by the violent riots which attended his former explorations in the mound of Balawat, Mr. Rassam has carefully abstained from any attempt to continue the work there. His labors on sites which did not come within the scope of his former expeditions have been most fruitful, considering the short period which he was able to devote to them. His explorations at Kileh Shergat, the site of the ancient City of Assur, the primitive capital of Assyria, have much enriched our knowledge of this site, and furnished us with some valuable inscriptions of the early Assyrian Empire. Among these we may specially notice one brick written in a most archaic script.

The discoveries which Mr. Rassam has been able to make on the mounds of Babylonia will be welcomed by all students of archeology, for hitherto the parent Empire has been much neglected in favor of the northern offshoot, the Assyrian Empire. Mr. Rassam was able, after a considerable amount of opposition by the brick merchants, who dreaded his presence as a menace to their vandalism, to carry out a series of excavations on most of the mounds. From the examination of the ruins buried beneath the Mugelibe, Mr. Rassam has been able to ascertain the site of the edifice from which have come the series of bonking and commercial tablets known as the Egibi tablets. From the relation of this edifice to the King's palace, it standing on the northeast side among a number of small buildings, evidently the Royal offices, it is now clear that the theory advanced by Mr. Hoskawen, that the traders were also the keepers of the King's treasury, and the revenue officers of the Kings of Babylon, receives a strong confirmation. Hitherto, owing to the irregularity which has characterized the system of digging among the mounds of Babylon, no traces of any regular edifice have been found. Mr. Rassam, however, managed to infuse some species of order among the brick-hunters, and the result was the discovery of several halls and rooms. In a mound called Jubjuba, the Jumjumma of Mr. Rich's memoir, he discovered the remains of a large hall of most rich construction. Painted bricks, rich Indian woods, and enameled tiles, all indicated the richness of the edifice. His excavations in the Hirs Nimroud have brought to light the remains of edifices and a number of inscriptions. A most interesting discovery in connection with this ruin has resulted from the examination of the site by Mr. Rassam, namely: that its destruction was due, not to a fire or the vengeance of an enemy, but to a volcanic eruption, which has split the whole edifice in twain, and vitrified all the brick-work with which the lava and flame came in contact. The exploration of Babylon has too long been neglected, and it is to be hoped that the short but fruitful visit of Mr. Rassam will tend to direct attention to the site.

We are glad to note that Mr. Rassam carried out the roving commission which we indicated in our notice of October 10, 1878, and exercised his authority on the itinerant explorers from Baghdad. He paid a visit to the mound of Tel Ho, and examined and copied the inscription on the black basalt statue which was there. He has also obtained a number of inscribed tablets from this site, and among them are several of those interesting examples of Babylonian cunning, the commercial deeds in duplicate, the one copy forming an envelope to the other. From this site he also obtained a number of very curious inscribed coins, with legends of early monarchs. During his visit to the city of Baghdad he obtained, by purchase, a number of inscriptions, mostly of the contract or commercial class. As Mr. Rassam has only been a few days in England, and many of his cases have still to be forwarded, we cannot as yet fully learn the results of this expedition, but we have every reason to believe that students of both the philology and art the Assyrian and Babylonian Empires will find much of great importance to aid them in all their researches.—London Times.

AN ADMISSION.—Prof. Tyndall, in a late number of the Fortnightly Review, declares:

"If asked whether science has solved, or is likely in our day to solve, the problem of the universe, I must shake my head in doubt. Behind and above and around us the real mystery of the universe lies unsolved, and, as far as we are concerned, incapable of solution. The problem of the connection of body and soul is as insoluble in its modern form as it was in the pre-scientific ages.

"There ought to be a clear distinction made between science in the state of hypothesis and science in the state of fact.

"And inasmuch as it is still in its hypothetical stage, the ban of exclusion ought to fall upon the theory of evolution.

"After speaking of the theory of evolution applied to the primitive condition of matter, as belonging to the dim twilight of conjecture, the certainty of experimental inquiry is here shut out.

"Those who hold the doctrine of evolution are by no means ignorant of the uncertainty of their ground, and they only yield to it a provisional assent.

"In reply to your question, they will frankly admit their inability to point to any satisfactory experimental proof that life can be developed save from demonstrable antecedent life.

"I share Virchow's opinion that the theory of evolution in its complete form involves the assumption that, at some period or other of the earth's history, there occurred what would be known as spontaneous generation. I agree with him that the proofs of it are still wanting.

"I hold with Virchow that the failures have been lamentable, that the doctrine is utterly discredited."

A NEW VIEW OF CREMATION.—A lecture with this title was given last week by Mr. A. Bakewell, at the City of London College, Tudenhall street. There was a good attendance, and in the absence of the principal of the college the Rev. R. Whittington, the chair was taken by Dr. Cooper. Mr. Bakewell gave an interesting sketch of the religious views and funeral practices of Greece, Gaul, Rome, Thrace, Sweden, Japan, and other countries, his object being to show from the universality of reverence for the that the practice of burning remains sprang from religious motives. There was nothing in the Bible against cremation, and it was a remarkable fact that when it died out in Europe science and the arts died out also, giving place to burial and the dark ages. In the course of a comprehensive argument for cremation in the present day the lecturer condemned burial-grounds as sources of disease, and quoted a paragraph from the Lancet to the effect that some of the cemeteries in London were perilous to the whole metropolis. Cremation would enable the ashes of the dead to be preserved in the churches, and would thus solve many difficulties, including those of the burials question. He urged that no act permitting cremation in this country should be passed, or that at least the government should appoint a commission to inquire into the subject.

FOUR HOURS OF THE DARK.—Somebody has started the story that the sun never sets on the territories of the United States, to which the Scientific American administers the following quencher:

"It is a humiliating confession to make—but geography is pitiless, and our national vain-glory must bow to its decrees,—that four hours in every twenty four the entire territory of the United States is deprived of sunshine. As the sun goes down on our farthest Aleutian Island, its morning rays are just lighting up the hill tops of the western coast of Ireland, and the breadth of the Atlantic lies between us and daylight. To our Fenian citizens this may be another and cogent reason for annexing the dear little Isle of the harp and the shamrock; but until it is done, the exultant cry of the Rocky Mountain Presbyterian, that the sun never sets on the United States, must be admitted to be a trifle exaggerated. It does set every day, and, paradoxically, four hours before it rises.

"In the depth of our humiliation we may possibly console ourselves with the reflection that—though our British cousins can say with truth what we cannot—the sun really shines on the United States when it is up. We have to submit to four hours of sunlessness a day; England is lucky to get four hours of sunshine. So life has its compensations, and existence in the United States remains endurable, though we do not (geographically speaking) make quite so great a spread as we thought."

The Southern Presbyterian Theological Seminary, at Columbia, S. C., will lose, it is feared, by the failure of a business firm, $25 000 or $30 000, leaving it without the means for continuing its operations. It contains 21 students preparing for the ministry.

Religious Intelligence.

—The annual statement of the treasurer of the Missionary Society of the M. E. Church (which we give, omitting the detailed receipts from Conferences) is a suggestive document. It shows that the receipts from the churches amount to $478,515 40, which is about $1 350 in excess of the year preceding; the receipts from legacies, necessarily a variable quantity, falls off about $2 000, while "sundries" does not vary a hundred dollars from the year before, notwithstanding that through the reduction of rentals the receipts from the missionary buildings are nearly $7 000 less than was reported a year ago. The actual income from all sources is in advance by $500. If we recall correctly, the highest figure our collections ever reached, calculated on a gold basis, was in 1872, when it was probably a hundred thousand dollars beyond any amount reported any year since. In 1875 the collections fell off nearly $100 000 under the pressure of the times, and they have barely exceeded a half million in gold any year since. This year we have approaching the half million and have nothing to discount for currency as the contributions this year for the first time since 1862 have been at par throughout the year.

Without any material increase in the income, the debt which stood three years ago at the enormous and threatening figure of $262 000 is now reduced to $63,037 16, which points to the significant fact that the result is due, not to increased benevolence, but to wisdom and economy of administration. Other societies have made special collections to liquidate their debts, and some have had to do it year after year, the energy of the debt-paying impulse being followed by corresponding lapses from the usual subscriptions.—Northern Christian Advocate.

—The activity of Protestant work in France is one of the prominent features of current religious history. The number of missionary chapels and evangelistic halls in Paris has become quite large. Services for workingmen are held regularly at Lyons, Marseilles, Bordeaux, Roulen and Boulogne. A hall was recently opened at Rouen, in the working-man's quarter, where service will be held three times a week. No public was given of any kind, yet a good audience was attracted, and appeared much interested. The meetings at Union are held four times a week in two different places. Mr. Somerville, in September, concluded a successful season of work at Nantes, where he had audiences of 2,000 persons, underwent fierce infringes, and afterward held seven meetings at Nimes, with large and steadily increasing congregations. This work has resulted in the establishment of a regular popular evangelistic service. The schools connected with the Mac-All mission in Paris had a picnic during the pleasant days of September, when 500 of them, attended by 50 or 60 teachers, assembled at the Arc de Triomphe, and proceeded to the Bois du Boulogne, where a pleasant spot had been assigned them by the authorities. Thence they went to the Jardin d'Acclimation, for which they had been given free tickets. It is pathetically remarked that many more children would have enjoyed the festival if they had had suitable clothing. The greater part of the expenses of this festival were obtained through the lecture by Mr. J. B. Gough.—Christian Intelligencer.

—Recently a pleasing event took place on a West African mission station, where both the church and Wesleyan missionary societies are working, from which a good lesson may be learnt by some Christians both at home and abroad. The pulpit of Faji Wesleyan Church, Lagos, was occupied on Sunday morning, August 24, by the Right Rev. S. A. Crowther, D. D., native bishop of the Niger. His lordship, who wore his episcopal vestments, sat near the communion-table in the chancel during the whole of the service except the sermon. The abridged liturgy was read, hymns, etc., announced by the Rev. M. J. Elliott, the minister appointed for the service. The bishop prefaced his sermon with a short extempore prayer. He also from the chancel offered a brief prayer after the last hymn was sung and pronounced the benediction. Collections were taken on this day in all the churches of Lagos on behalf of the Auxiliary of the British and Foreign Bible Society, and the bishop's sermon, from Psalm cxix. 129, 130, had special reference to this object. Only a week or two before Bishop Crowther had spoken at a missionary meeting in the Baptist Church (American Mission) which was presided over by his excellency the governor (a liberal-minded Roman Catholic,) and in which the Revs. J. Milum and J. Elliott (Wesleyan missionaries) and the Rev. W. B. George (native Wesleyan minister) also took part.—London Watchman.

—It would seem that Herr von Puttkamer, the Prussian minister of education and public worship, has decided to yield to the demands of the Ultramontanes and the Confessional Lutherans for denominational schools. Says the German correspondent of the London Guardian: "Dr. Falk gave all his energies to the establishment of 'paritatic' or 'simultaneous' schools, where children of all confessions were received and where religious instruction was imparted to them by teachers of their own confession. So called confessionless schools did not exist and were not fostered by Dr. Falk. But his successor has begun the crusade in favor of denominational schools. The case of Edrug is the great proof. There the corporation had, at great expense, erected district 'simultaneous' schools, and had just completed the last; which was to be publicly opened and dedicated, when a telegraphic communication arrived from Herr von Puttkamer, ordering the postponement of the opening as the minister disapproved of this class of schools. The mayor and town council hastened off to Berlin to remonstrate; but in vain. The minister was polite, but firm. He differed, unfortunately, but completely, from the policy of his predecessor on the question of denominational education, and he would not allow an undenominational school, unless very great necessity for its existence could be shown. A similar case has occurred with a school in Westphalia, and again another with a school in Munich, so that there is great joy among the Ultramontanes and High Lutherans in Prussia."

NEW ZEALAND CHURCH STATISTICS.—Our New Zealand exchanges of October 1, 1879, bring us many items of interest concerning the census of that country for 1878. One of the tables just completed shows the "religious professions" of the whole population, namely:

Church of England	176,116
Presbyterians	95,173
Roman Catholics	58,881
Methodists	37,879
Persons who objected to state in belief	16,961
Baptists	9,156
Congregational Independents	2,776
Lutherans	5,613
Pagans (chiefly Chinese)	4,379
Jews	1,124
Free-thinkers	490
Irvingites	95
Spiritualists	52
"Atheists"	36
Mormons	37
"Church of the Future"	7
Huguenots, or French Protestants	7
"Free to Choose"	19

Another table gives the relative increase of the several principal denominations from 1871 to 1878 as follows: Methodists, 50.20 per cent.; Roman Catholics, 45.85; Lutherans, 41.17; Baptists, 41.12; Church of England, 38.66; Presbyterians, 31,22; Independents, or Congregational, 2.40.—New York Christian Advocate.

—The Associate Reform Synod of the South is a small Presbyterian body, which was left as one of the remnants after the union which produced the U. P. Church. The Synod has just held its annual meeting at Union, S. C. Ministers and delegates from ten presbyteries, scattered from South Carolina to Texas, were in attendance. The strongest presbyteries are those of South Carolina. The smallest are those of Ohio and Virginia, with three ministers each. The Rev. J. H. Peoples was elected moderator, and he announced a long list of committees as in the Presbyterian assemblies. The treasurer of Erskine College reported the present value of the funds of that institution at $38,855. The treasurer of the Synod reported receipts of $6 755. The committee on presbyterial reports expressed gratification at the evidences of prosperity. Five new churches have been organized. Ohio Presbytery had asked permission to join the United Presbyterian Church, and the Tennessee and Alabama Presbyteries to unite. Both requests were favorably reported on. Three delegates—Drs. Boyce and Bonner and the Hon. T. B. Stanton—were appointed to attend the Presbyterian Council next year in Philadelphia, and a committee was ordered to open correspondence with the United Presbyterian Church, with a view to establish more intimate relations.

—The New York Tribune is responsible for the following statements:

A large expense has attended the revision of the Bible, which, as already announced, is now nearly finished. The committee numbers fifty-two members, who meet five days in every three weeks. They are paid their traveling and hotel expenses, but no salaries. These expenses and other items will bring the cost of the first edition up to nearly $200,000. It has been determined to sell the early issues of the work at a high price in order to insure a return for the outlay. The university presses have become responsible for the expenses. Neither parliament nor convocation has authorized the new Bible. It was learned during the sittings of the committee that the so-called authorized version was never authorized at all, either by a political or an ecclesiastical body, and that it established itself by its own merits. This the revised Bible is expected also to do.

—The Congregationalist says: "It seems that the last early records of the Boston Presbytery were found recently among the rubbish in the cellar of the old Malbone Hotel on Washington street, when the building was taken down. A book-selling firm had purchased a large lot of paper and old books found there, and as they were sorting it over, a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society happened in, and spied a musty looking volume, just as it was being tossed into the heap that was to go to the paper mill. It proved to be those old records, and subsequently three more books of the same records were found in the same collection. Thus Rev. Ira P. Tyson of Bedford, N. H., will now be able to complete his history of Presbyterianism in New England."

—By a concerted arrangement, quite a large number of ministers in Brooklyn preached on beer and beer-drinking on Sunday evening, October 26, and distributed the hand bill, "A Crusade against Beer." There was an abundance of material for powerful sermons, and it was well improved. The nature and effects of malt liquor were shown up in many forms, social and political. The power of the money invested in the brewing interest, the temptation to church members, to women and children, from the "light and wholesome drink," were fearlessly exposed. We hope it will be the beginning of good, earnest, and efficient work against beer.—Christian Advocate.

—The Rev. Narayan Sheshardi, a converted Brahmin and missionary in India, whose presence in New York in 1873 will be remembered, has caused a church to be built on a hill near Jalna, by native Christian masons and carpenters, who originally were thieves by profession. In addition to becoming Christians, they have learned their trades.

—Miss Mary Travis, a lady who attained the advanced age of one hundred years a few weeks ago, has recently been baptized by the Vicar of Cottingham. This event is said to be without a parallel in the history of the Church of England.

Our Young People.

AUTUMN VOICES.

Fading flowers whisper:
"Little ones, farewell!"
Will you miss our faces
From the field and dell?
Will you dream about us
In the wintry night,
When the sleet and snowflakes
Hide the earth from sight?

Flying birds are warbling:
"We are going now.
Will you long to see us
In the blooming boughs?
Through our airy journey
Far away in lands,
Sweeter, brighter faces
We shall never see."

Silver brooklets murmur:
"Little ones, good-bye.
Winds are growing chilly,
Ice-bound days are nigh.
We shall miss your bright eyes
Peeping o'er the hills,
When in icy fetters
We lie mute and still."

"Flowers, birds and brooklets,
Little ones reply,
Earth is sad and lonely
When you all good-bye.
We shall not forget you.
Never, never fear.
We'll be watching for you
Early in the year."

—George Cooper, in The Nursery.

How a Boy Became a Christian.

My first taste of the love of God in Jesus was when I was four years old. My father, who was a missionary, had come to preach at ——, where my brother and I were placed at school. How very young, you will say, to be away from home! Yes, it was. But when missionaries are forming new stations, though they are ready to sleep under a rock or in a poor hut themselves, they do not like such risks for their little ones, and so are glad to leave them safely at school in England.

My father had preached on the Sunday from this sweet text, "God is love," and in the Monday, before he left, to ride a long way from us, he took my brother and me on his knees while he talked with us about the love of God. Then there came up in my soul a wish to love my God.

That wish came over me again like a breeze from heaven, when I was led to give a last kiss to my dear mother's cold face, so like was being asleep in Jesus. But though a mother may die, I have found that a mother's prayers never die.

On the first time the mother which I was at school, and was whipped, like a naughty boy, I had done wrong, and was in disgrace. I crept under the desk, and while many tears prayed to my mother's help me. I knew better than to do so now, for God is our only refuge and strength.

But, alas! it was not until I was fourteen years of age that I gave my heart to the Lord Jesus. I am very sad at this moment, and the tears start to my eyes as I remember that I did not sooner yield to Him who died for me. I should have been a holier, happier, and more useful minister to-day had I done so.

When in my fifteenth year, I spent a short time at the house of some friends of my father. I was on my way to enter upon a difficult situation. As I sat at the dinner table it was as though a voice said to me, "You have left your father's roof, what will you do if I am not your Father?" Asking to be excused from the table, I rushed to my bed-room, and prayed, saying, "My Father, be Thou the guide of my youth."

When I reached my destination, to please my father rather than from a desire to be helped on the way to heaven, I attended class. I was fast settling into a lukewarm state, when I heard a sermon from the text, "Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof." That sermon so affected me, that I was afraid to hear the same preacher at night, so I went to another chapel. But again the same text was announced! I reached home assured that God had spoken to me. The expectation of a death in the house greatly alarmed me.

I was sitting alone in the parlor the next evening, full of sad musings, when an elderly female in plain attire entered. This poor woman earned her living by taking in washing; but she was rich in faith, and mighty in prayer; this made her eagerly welcomed as a visitor to the sick, even in the homes of the rich. She was on such an errand now. Taking me by the hand, she said, "Dear boy, are you happy in the love of Jesus?" Her manner won my heart, and I told her all I felt. The next Sunday she came to me in an after meeting, and finding me in earnest prayer, she whispered in my ear, "Thou art not far from the kingdom." She spoke truly.

The next morning early, while I was reading my Bible, the Holy Spirit suggested to me that salvation was by faith, and might be had now, and these words came to my mind: "Being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ," I was then made very happy. I was in such a hurry to let my father know, that I scribbled a few lines to him in pencil. Those pencilled lines I found, carefully treasured among his papers, after his death. More than a quarter of a century I have preached the gospel, and am still confident that the gospel is true, and that God is love.—Early Days.

Three Short Prayers.

I laid my baby in her bed last night—who is only a year and a half old—and this was her prayer. Looking up into the blue sky through the window she waved her little hand, and when I said, "Now I lay me," she added, "Downey soop. Amen. Good night!" That was all.

It was a very little prayer to be heard away up in heaven, but I do believe Jesus listened and was pleased to hear it.

Cousin Chonte is older, four years old.

He is always glad when the hour for morning prayer comes, and when his grandfather is from home he never fails to call the family together and to repeat his own little prayer, for he is the "head of the house," he thinks, when grandpa is gone.

One day grandpa was sick, away up stairs, and Chonte went for a little visit to his room. "I'm sorry you're sick. Don't you want me to pray for you, grandpa?" he said. Then kneeling down by the bed he prayed, "O Lord, my grandpa is sick; please make him well. For Thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen."

When he asked for just what he wanted, and nothing else; so must we do when we pray."

A little drummer boy had been badly wounded, and lingered along for weeks and months in the hospital, so brave and patient under his suffering that all came to love him. He spoke often of his mother, who was looking for him in her little cottage among the trees. "When I am a little stronger I shall go to her." But his nurse knew he would never be stronger, so she said to him, "Robbie, if you knew that you were going to another home, up yonder, would you be sorry?"

When he knew he had not long to live he cried, "Oh, I wish I had loved Jesus better! I wish I knew how to pray to Him!"

"Can't you say, 'God be merciful to me a sinner?'"

"Oh yes; is that praying?"

And after that he would lie for hours with eyes closed, hands clasped and while seeming that earnest prayer. So the sweet note and quiet how told the mail that God had sent His own peace into his soul, and so the drummer boy went to Him.

When little children go to bed,
And fold their hands and say
Their prayers, I wonder if they know
God does not care for what they say,
Unless it comes from the heart.

—Child's World.

GOD'S WORK NOT BOUND.—There is a point of work and success among the heathen which cannot be put down in tables. Many think there is no progress in missions, unless we can report so many chapels built, so many schools organized and so many persons brought into the church. There is a blessed work going on quietly and silently in many parts of this great heathen nation. Men come from more than a thousand miles in the interior, and purchase Christian books to take home with them. I will, in the October Visitor, give an account of a copy of the New Testament far in the interior of China. The Holy Spirit of God is doing a great and wonderful work in the whole empire where missionaries cannot go. The word of God is not bound. There is much that we do not thank God for, which can never appear in the reports of secretaries.—Our China Visitor.

A SUNDAY STORY.—One chilly day I was left at home alone, and after I was tired reading "Robinson Crusoe," I caught a spider and brought him into the house to play with. Fanny, playmate, wasn't it? Well, I took a wash-basin and fastened up a stick in it like a vessel's mast, and then, pulled in water enough to turn the mast into an island for my spider, which I named Crusoe, and put him on the mast. As soon as he was fairly cast away, he anxiously commenced running round to find the mainland. He'll scamper down the mast to the water, stick out a foot, get it wet, shake it, run around the stick and try the other side, and then run back to the top again. Pretty soon it became a serious matter to Mr. Robinson, and he sat down to think over it. As in a moment he acted as if he wanted to shout for a boat, and was afraid he was going to be hungry. I put treacle on the stick. A fly came, but Crusoe wasn't hungry for flies just then. He was home-sick for his web in the corner of the wood-shed. He went slowly down the pole to the water and touched it all around, shaking his feet like pussy when she wets her stockings in the grass, and suddenly a thought appeared to strike him. Up he went like a rocket to the top and commenced playing circus. He held one foot in the air, then another, and turned around two or three times. He got excited, and nearly stood on his head before I found out what he knew, and that was this, that the draught of air made by the fire would carry a line ashore on which he could escape on his desert island. He pushed out a web that went floating in the air until it caught on the table. Then he hauled on the rope until it was tight, struck it several times to see if it was strong enough to hold him, and walked ashore. I thought he had earned his liberty, so I put him back in the wood-shed again.—Hearth.

A CHILD'S FAITH.—An intelligent and sparkling-eyed boy of ten summers sat upon the steps of his father's dwelling, deeply absorbed with a highly-embellished and pernicious book, calculated to poison and deprave the mind. His father, approaching, discovered at a glance the character of the book. "What have you there, George?"

The little fellow, looking up with a confused air, though his young mind had already been tainted with tales of romance and fiction, promptly gave the name of the work.

His father gently remonstrated, pointing out the danger of reading such books; and having some confidence in the effects of early culture upon the mind of his child, left him with the book closed by his side.

In a few moments the father discovered a light in an adjoining room and on inquiring the cause was informed that it was George burning the pernicious book.

"My son, what have you done?"

"Burned that book, papa."

"How came you to do that, George?"

"Because I believed you knew better than I what was for my good."

Here was a three-fold act of faith—a trust in his father's word, evincing love and obedience, and a care for the good of others. If this child exercised such faith in his earthly parents, how much more should we, like little children, have true-hearted implicit faith in our Heavenly Father.—Little Christian.

The Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES OF THE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1879.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

OFFICE—113 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Making Religion Easy.

It is well to insist upon the simplicity of the plan of salvation, and that the way is a plain one, adapted to the capacity of all. And yet, with all its simplicity and plainness none can comprehend the plan without the help of the Holy Spirit. The wayfaring men, though fools, shall not err therein, but they will fail to find it, and miss it altogether, unless they seek the divine guidance. A child of tender years can come to Christ, and, through the Holy Scriptures, be made wise unto salvation, but the wisest and most learned in worldly knowledge will be unable to discern the truth without the light of life. "The natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God, for they are foolishness unto him, neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned." What seems clear to the spiritually enlightened mind is really very obscure and mysterious to the natural man. We insist that everything is very plain, and yet it is not so to those who, by unaided reason, endeavor to apprehend the way of life. It is both easy and difficult for men to be saved. Easy, if they seek the guidance of the Spirit and submit to the voice of God; difficult, impossible, if they persist in depending upon their own strength.

In our endeavors to persuade men, we attempt to prove that nothing is easier than to be a Christian. It would seem to be smooth sailing and without head winds or choppy seas. Something of the counsel of God may be kept back in this rose-colored gospel. The divine Teacher declared: "If any man will come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross and follow Me." To be a Christian is to be in peace with God, and to be filled with a joyous hope of eternal life. Wisdom's ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace. Both David and Christ sallow the blessedness of a godly character and life. It must be so, but there are conflicts, there are self-denials, there are struggles in the Christian course. It cannot be other than a straight gate and a narrow way. Paul, at the end of his career, says: "I have fought a good fight."

As in coming to the knowledge of the truth, so in keeping it, it is easy, and it is hard. There is sufficient grace, and there are blessings and joys which eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, and there is a warfare and cross-bearing at every step. With all it costs in the way of trial and effort, the incorruptible crown is worth striving for. In the carnal and worldly sense the way to heaven is not easy. God never intended that it should be. He means that we shall endure hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ.

It is a part of our needed discipline to develop character meet for the heavenly inheritance. Education, made easy, is not education. It is the hardness of the lesson that trains and strengthens the mind, and draws out the faculties. Success in business, made easy, would be a misfortune rather than a benefit. What men gain by industry, by toil, and by untiring effort, is better appreciated, and the schooling of competition and invention is good for them. The haste to get rich, the endeavors to find easy methods of making money, lead to wild and reckless speculation, to gambling, and often to fraud. Honest wealth is usually the result of hard work, and persevering, self-denying toil. An easy religion is open to suspicion. The priest kept conscience, the purchased absolution, the hope based upon outward rites, and every persuasion of safety short of a thorough repentance, and a new creature in Christ, are delusions. It may be an easy religion here, but it will be hard in the dying hour, harder still in the judgment. We have reason to suspect all systems in which religion is made easy, in which there is no heart struggles, no renunciation of the world, no inward crucifixion.

As we value souls, and as we would meet the final account, we cannot afford, in our doctrinal teaching, nor in our discipline, to pretend to make the path of holiness an easy one. Whatever others may do by winking at the worldliness, the pleasure seeking, and the dissipations of society, Methodism should insist upon the new birth, and stick to the General Rules. By relaxing the high standard of experience and of discipline some adherents may be gained, but they would not be made better, while the church, in its moral and spiritual forces, would be enfeebled. And, after all, while the way into the church may be made easy, and we may attempt to smooth the path of duty, the road to heaven must always be by the cross.

North Alabama Conference.

We have enjoyed the privilege of a visit, at last, to this body. Although this ADVOCATE is not the organ, there are a good many friends and subscribers in its bounds. In other days the southern part was within our limits, and so, for old acquaintance sake, and to look after what business is left us in those parts, we went. The way is somewhat long, but the connections by Mobile, Meridian, and up the Alabama and Great Southern are perfect. Leaving New Orleans at five P. M., we are in the Conference room at Tuskaloosa at ten the next morning. It was Friday morning, and the Conference was busy with the undergraduates.

Bishop Paine in the chair, clear of head, firm of hand, and with the voice of authority doing his work thoroughly, faithfully, as if it might be his last. His wise and fatherly admonitions, his appropriate and vigorous counsels and addresses, give interest and emphasis to the proceedings. He is now in his eighty-first year, with mental powers apparently unabated, his heart full of tenderness and sympathy for his brethren, and above all, awake to all the interests of the church, and zealous beyond measure for the Master's cause. Some knotty questions of ecclesiastical law came up in connection with the administration of some of the pastors, but he untied them, and gets at the root of matters with an acumen and sagacity which seem perfected by study, labor and long experience. His address to the Conference on the subject of raising the Bishop's Salary, and the Woman's Missionary Society, and Woman's Work for Women, was a high order of pulpit eloquence, burning with power, and brimming with thought. His address to the Conference was more than usually impressive. He is anxious to see his work well done, and his counsels are timely and edifying. It is gratifying to notice the deference, reverence and love manifested for him by the Conference over which he presides.

The Conference is made up largely of young and middle-aged men. We saw not many old men, and not many with gray hairs. For the most part, they are young, robust in body, and averaging well as to ability. It occurred to us that, for orderly behavior in Conference, they were ahead of the other Conferences we are in the habit of attending.

The missionary meeting on Saturday night was addressed by Bro. McCoy, who was elected at the last Conference to perform this duty. A capital address, both as to matter and manner. Dr. R. A. Young lifted the collection, and he lifted with his might. Result pretty good, considering that Tuskaloosa had already raised $200 for missions, and that the preachers had little surplus cash from their year's allowance. Dr. Fitzgerald would probably put it down as conservative, but it was fair, as such things go, somewhere in the neighborhood of $140. These missionary collections, as commonly conducted, remind us of the most painful operations in dentistry, but there was less laughing gas administered on this occasion than usual. The Conference has a large number of domestic missions, for which, if we remember rightly, about $2,000 had been collected. The collection for foreign missions was in the neighborhood of $1000, and an increase on the collections of last year, for both foreign and domestic, of several hundred dollars.

On Sunday Dr. Young preached at eleven o'clock in the morning at the Methodist Church, at which hour a large number were ordained deacons. At three in the afternoon Bro. Mabry preached an impressive discourse, after which the elders were ordained, and at night this editor expounded as best he could. From what we heard of the morning sermon, the preacher was fully up to the mark of an episcopos. The Baptist and Presbyterian Churches were also occupied by members of the Conference. The Committee on Public Worship sent us over the War-rior to Northport twice, where we found a thriving community, and a live, large and spiritual congregation.

Dr. Young is the embodiment of finance, representing Vanderbilt, the Publishing House, the Quarterly Review, Nashville Christian Advocate, and Methodism generally. His collections on the subscribed bonds were very gratifying, and twenty-five of the twenty-five-dollar supplemental bonds were sold also. This Conference has invested largely in the Vanderbilt endowment notes, and the interest is paid promptly. There is not much money left in a Conference after Dr. Young gets through with it. He comes nearer squeezing the sponge dry than any man we know. By the way, the doctor informs us that he obtained fifty subscribers to the Review at this Conference, and that this is about an average from all the Conferences he has lately attended. He regards the financial prospects of the Review as exceedingly encouraging. Bro. Powers, financial agent of the Southern University, Greensboro, Ala., was present during a part of the session, and addressed the Conference. We were glad to learn from him that the University has opened with better prospects than for years past, and that the financial situation is improving. Dr. Smith, of Athens, was also in attendance, representing the interests of the female school at Athens, of which he is the worthy principal. When we left Tuskaloosa, Monday afternoon, December 1, the Conference was in session, Dr. Anson West in the chair. The report on church publications, besides its endorsement of other periodicals, makes honorable mention of our ADVOCATE, and embraces commendatory resolutions, for which we are duly thankful. Bro. Thompson, the efficient and patient secretary, promised to forward items and appointments as soon as possible after adjournment.

Tuskaloosa was to us a classic ground. We had thought of it for many years as associated with some of the best people we have ever known, and as connected with the labors of Kinnoo, Hamilton, and other great and precious men. To the church, to the right of the pulpit, we noticed a mural tablet: "Sacred to the memory of Rev. Robert L. Kennon, D. D." Bishop Kenner was pastor here in his early ministry, and the impress is still fresh. For another of their old pastors, Dr. John Mathews, many inquiries were made. If the walls of the old church could only speak what a torrent of gospel eloquence they would pour forth! A beautiful town is Tuskaloosa, a place of wide and shaded avenues, a paradise of water oaks, of pleasant homes and of shrubbery and flowers in the late season. And best of all, a noble, intelligent, hospitable people. We had not time to visit the State University, which is located here, nor to accept many kind social invitations. We are indebted to Capt. J. S. Kennedy, and to his excellent family, for a delightful home during our stay, and to the friends in Northport for appreciated courtesies. Bro. Brandon's time is out at Tuskaloosa, much to the regret of his people. He will doubtless have a worthy successor. Bro. Hawkins has filled his third year at Northport, and his flock have some anxiety lest he should not be returned. May the Lord direct.

North Mississippi Conference.

Water Valley is scattered about on many hills, some of them as the hill of Bashan for height. A creek of clear water makes its way through the town. There are gulches and ravines, and clumps of trees, and the place is rimmed and framed with points which look like mountains to our low country eyes. It is a place of business. In these days they are shipping two hundred bales a day, and the freight and other trains passing through keep up a continual hubbub. Here they have extensive shops for the building of cars and locomotives, and a great many people are employed. Here the trains change locomotives, and the screeching, whistling and pulling are appalling at times. The population is estimated at about three thousand. The Methodists have two churches. The larger one, in which the Conference met, is a commodious house, but too near the railroad, as we felt most painfully on Wednesday night. Those bellowing and blowing monsters came near putting us down, but the hearers seemed to be used to the racket. And this is the main thing. What does not distract the audience does not often trouble the preacher.

The Conference met at nine o'clock Wednesday, December 3. John Barcroft, as heretofore, is secretary. Bishop Kavanaugh is in the chair, as rugged as our live-oak, and his leaf doth not wither. As bland and full of sunshine as a May morning, and presiding easily. In the chair, in the pulpit and in the social circle, he is the most natural man in the world. We have heard him tell, that when he was elected Bishop he wondered what it was for, and, while considering how he should depart himself in this very grave and responsible office, he concluded that, as they had elected Hubbard H. Kavanaugh, Hubbard H. Kavanaugh he would be. And so he has always been himself, plain, simple, good natured, sublimely eloquent, and beloved by the church. He is great enough to be perfectly natural.

In the process of organizing the Conference a rather novel question came up. The Greenville district had elected a lady as one of its lay delegates. She was an "elect lady," in the scriptural sense. She had acted as steward and Sunday-school superintendent, but could she be recognized as a member of an Annual Conference? The question was submitted in writing to the chair, and a decision given, that both Discipline and Scripture exclude women from holding official position in the church. For substance, a sound decision, we think, and in harmony with the views of the majority of the Conference, although some of the best men there dissented. The woman's rights question, so prominent in political and ecclesiastical bodies in the North, would seem to be coming to the front in our Southern Methodism.

We spent the most of two days with the brethren, were very kindly received, and left them in the midst of the passage of character. The reports of the preachers, as far as made, were remarkably good. We have heard no such reports from any Conference within the past ten years. The greater part was up to the assessments for missions, Conference claimants, Bishops and ministerial support, and there have been extensive revivals in every section. In many cases the collections overran the assessments. Evidently this has been a prosperous year in the North Mississippi Conference. Preachers and laymen all seemed in good heart, cheerful and strong. They are a body of fine men, a fair proportion of old men, and men of excellent gifts and attainments. There are among them men of genius and learning, poets, professors, orators, and altogether a most effective and devoted company of preachers.

Bro. J. Inson, editor and publisher of the Western Methodist, was present, representing the interest of his paper, and deep in accounts. Arkansas, since the removal to Little Rock, has been determined on, is solid for the Western, and the prospects of the paper are flattering, as they ought to be. If Southern Methodism has no sturdier or staunchier advocate and defender than W. C. Johnson.

Dr. Young was our companion in travel from Tuskaloosa. We wish he would tell about that night on the cars from Jackson to Water Valley. That dialogue between a rickety Campbellite and a Second Adventist ought to be preserved, and handed down to posterity. The doctor was having fine success at this Conference, in bond collections, in Vanderbilt endowment, and especially in subscriptions to the Quarterly Review. On the last, with one or two more working days before him, the list already was ahead of any Conference he had attended—sixty subscribers when we parted. Indeed, every connectional interest at this Conference seemed to be at high tide. Even for our ADVOCATE the Bishop and most of the brethren subscribed. We found our paper to be almost universally popular with the preachers' wives—a circumstance that encouraged us somewhat in a region where we have no organic claim. The good sisters are not hampered by pledges, and may be they will send us an occasional sporadic subscriber.

We were the guest of an excellent Presbyterian lady, Mrs. M. J. Mayes, and were, with Dr. Sullivan, most kindly entertained. To Willie we were indebted for skillful guidance on that trip through the mud, and darkness, and rain, and perilous paths, to the church. The pastor, Bro. Boone, was on hand at all hours to receive the preachers, and he and his people were very attentive to the comfort and enjoyment of their many visitors. Blessings upon Water Valley, and upon the good people, and upon the Conference!

As we were on our way to the train we heard a man say to another: "Look here, they say a man by the name of Young is to preach at the Methodist Church to night?" About the time our train got under way the doctor was probably moving out into his theme, and preaching the gospel to a crowded house. Sorry that we could not stay to hear. We learned that the Bishop preached one of his grand sermons on the night before Conference.

Bishop McTyeire in Texas.

Writing to the Raleigh Christian Advocate, Bishop McTyeire says:

Thousands are moving into Texas—especially into the Northern counties; and hundreds, disheartened by the season, are moving out, trying to get back to North and South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama and Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky.

I give you an instance of emigrant restlessness and instability that came under my notice this year. My friend B. had a daughter married a few years ago, and she and her young husband went out to Texas "to grow up with the country." The young folks went out toward the frontier, where land is plenty and cheap. They gave the old folks no rest—"Come out; do come. O, that you were here. Land so rich—cheap—grass—stock—health," etc. By and by R. and his wife yielded to the entreaty of children who seemed to lack nothing but the parental presence and participation in their blessings, to make them happy. They sold out their little home and stock and went to Texas. I met him in October—long face; heavy heart; sad story. He and wife with their two younger children, reached the promised land in August; took lodgings in the prairie with their married children, and rejoiced for a month or so over the grandchild. They found them getting ready to return to Tennessee; and return they did, despite of parental entreaty! Now they are as far apart as ever. Said my friend R. to me, "We had spent pretty much all we had following our children to Texas, and when they returned back, we could follow them no further."

The movement to Upper Texas is from the Southern part of the State as well as from other States. Cattle growing is very profitable in the lower prairie stretches, near the coast. Fenced fields or pastures are not uncommon which enclose 50,000 acres. Poor people and small farmers must move away—are crowded out. With all the diligence of preachers, there is a decrease of membership in these regions. One is reminded of a couplet in the Deserted Village,

> "Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey,
> Where wealth accumulates and men decay."

A member from the Corpus Christi district, on his way to Conference at Gonzales, sold a lot of ten thousand steers out of one of these pastures. It is in connection with the West Texas Conference that a noteworthy spiritual work has been developed among the native Mexicans. From El Paso down, on the Rio Grande or American side of the Rio Grande river, is a large admixture of this original population. San Antonio until recently was a Mexican city. The Lord has opened the way for our entrance, and striking manner. We hear of very many of thoroughly converted men having been raised up among the Mexicans to preach the doctrines in their own tongue. We have now a dozen preachers and about 500 members among them. They added a peculiar feature to the Conference session, and to the ordinations. Our Discipline has been translated into their language; but the ordination vows were made through an interpreter. This work grows. We humbly trust it is of the Lord. In a few cases it has crossed over into Mexico.

The greatest of the Texas Conferences is destined to be the Northwest Texas. It takes in the vast pan-handle country, now filling up from the Southern and Western States, and to be penetrated by railroads. Ever and anon we add on a new, rousing elder's district, until the region of the "Staked Plains" that figured on our old geographies is disappearing. Wanted, for possessing this land—this growing empire—wanted, godly young men; or older ones, if unmarried. Preachers that can ride horseback and live in a pair of saddle bags; who are willing to endure hardness, as the Lord's servants; to lay foundations for the near future; to save souls now, and to pray for the salvation of coming generations—men to do for the Methodism of North Texas what Brock and Doub and Drumgoole and Lee and Hope Dull did for the Methodism of North Carolina. I would like to hear from them.

Rev. P. H. Lightfoot.

MR. EDITOR: At 4 to this evening our dear Bro. Lightfoot died. He was pastor of the church in this place. His sickness was not long—only one week in bed. His prayer seemed to be that he might have an "easy passage out of this world into heaven." For this he asked Dr. Mitchell to pray, and at another time Bro. McVoy and myself. And in a most signal manner was the prayer answered. I have stood by many dying Christians, but never did I witness more calmness of spirit, more patience, and hope and faith. He was perfectly conscious and able to talk to within fifteen minutes of the last breath. Not a fear was on his mind, not a murmur escaped his lips, but frequently he spoke of heaven as his home, of Jesus as being present, of his preparation, and of his trust in the grace of God. His soul was so tender, his words so loving and Christ-like, that really I feel I have been in company with one who was already more than half in heaven. This day I can never forget, for up to this time I have never seen anything equal to it. Just as the sun was setting in a cloudless sky his tranquil soul passed away from earth.

Lately his preaching has been eminently spiritual and impressive, but to-day the exhortations given to his brethren in the ministry, and to the members of his flock, will linger in their minds among the sweetest memories and most hallowed associations.

Oh! I thank God that it was my privilege to be with this dear, good man to-day, and listen to his words of tenderness, and love, and triumph.

Bro. Loveless will preach his funeral to-morrow. At Conference it will be said, "he is dead." Yet, being dead, he will speak on for years to come to the loving people of this church and community.

Sincerely, etc.,

J. W. HUSH.

SUMMERFIELD, ALA., Nov. 18, 1879.

Color Line.

The Central Methodist, Catlettsburg, Ky., says:

Our brethren of the Methodist Episcopal Church made a great to do, because soon after the war we found it best for all concerned to set off our colored members into a separate ecclesiastical organization. The whole list of adjectives were exhausted, and the "Kitchen Church," as the new organization was called by them, received neither sympathy nor friendly co-operation from those vowing such undying friendship for the colored people.

But events have changed somewhat, and now the Methodist Episcopal Church has white and colored Conferences, separated on the "color line," in nearly all the southern territory occupied by them. One exception is the Holston Conference. But even there the spirit of caste would not down, as will be seen by the following, copied from one of their church papers:

"The colored members of the Holston Conference passed a resolution at its recent session requesting the General Conference to constitute the colored members of this Conference an Annual Conference, to be known as the East Tennessee Conference. That this desire is not all on the colored side is very apparent, as the inevitable color line must be drawn in Holston.

As to the general aspects of the question, the proposition to elect a colored man bishop, has brought out the true sentiment of the leaders of that church. Touching the reasons which most likely prompt the leaders among the colored people in their demand for a bishop of their own color, and the position of the church upon the same question, the California Advocate says:

"We half suspect that their far-seeing preachers have that object in view; and if so, they must regard separation from the mother church, when the proper time comes, as desirable. If the colored membership, after they have a good supply of well educated ministers, deem it desirable to go out from us, under a division that it will be best for them—we shall be ready to let them—and brother and peace—go for our sakes—but for his own. Just here we stand."

—We deeply sympathize with Bro. White and family, of Oregon, in the great sorrow that has come upon them. The father's letter, which we published last week, brought us the first and only tidings of the death of his son. We felt an interest in Ernest, not only because of the affection we had for his parents, but for his own sake, as one we had known in childhood, and as one whose development in manhood gave promise of usefulness in the church, and of comfort to his parents. The death of our children helps us more than anything else, to realize the love of which the gift of the only begotten Son is the expression. This peculiar grief interprets for us the profoundest mystery in religion, and brings with it the only balm for bleeding hearts. "He that spared not His own Son." Bereaved parents know better than anybody else what that means. Many prayers will go up for that desolate household. God grant that His sustaining presence may be there.

—In the death of Rev. P. H. Lightfoot, of the Alabama Conference, our church has lost one of its purest and best men. We presume an obituary sketch will be furnished for publication soon. In our acquaintance with Bro. Lightfoot we were drawn to him by his deep spirituality, his evident consecration to Christ, and by the sweetness, fidelity and unselfishness of his spirit. He was strong, and firm, and brave, and at the same time he was gentle and refined. Everybody loved him and trusted him. He was a young man, apparently in the morning of a bright, and promising career. It seems like a strange and severe providence that he should be given away so soon, but, as good Bishop Andrew used to say, "God knows best."

NOTICE TO MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.—The Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific Railroad will pass the preachers and delegates attending the session of the Mississippi Conference at Columbus, Miss., December 17, at six cents per mile one way. Return trip tickets must be purchased from the agents.

The ticket agents of the Mobile and Ohio railroad at and between State Line and Macon, Miss., will be instructed to issue to delegates and others desiring to attend, excursion tickets to Meridian, Miss., and return, at three cents per mile each way, commencing said December 15, and closing December 17, making return coupons not good after December 26, 1879. Those who fail to purchase regular excursion tickets will in every case be charged full local rates both ways.

The ticket agent of the Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans railroad at Jackson, Miss., will be instructed to sell tickets to members and delegates returning from Conference at Meridian, to their homes on said line, at one-half the regular fare, on presentation of a certificate signed by the secretary, that the party has been in attendance at Meridian, has paid full fare in going, and is now entitled to half fare returning from Jackson, to his home on said line. Certificates will be good for tickets from December 17 to December 25 inclusive.

The New Orleans and Mobile railroad has not been heard from.

E. H. MONGER.

DECEMBER 4, 1879.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.—Arrangements for reduced fare to members of the above Conference, which meets at Tuskegee, Ala., December 17, 1879, have been effected over the following roads:

"Western Railroad of Alabama." Round-trip tickets at six cents per mile. Will be on sale December 16, 17, 18, to all who present certificates or satisfactory evidence of membership. Get tickets to Chehaw Station, from which passengers reach Tuskegee by the Tuskegee railroad.

"Mobile and Girard Railroad."—Three cents per mile each way.

"Mobile and Montgomery Railroad."—Three cents per mile each way.

"Selma, Rome and Dalton Railroad."—Round-trip six cents per mile. Tickets from December 16 20.

"Montgomery and Eufaula Railroad."—Will sell tickets only at usual round-trip rates.

"South and North Alabama Railroad."—Has promised to grant reduced rates—but has not specified the amount—on tickets from December 16 20 inclusive.

The "Tuskegee Narrow Guage Railroad" will transport passengers from Chehaw Station to Tuskegee at about half fare for each member.

Local arrangements have been made with some other roads.

C. A. TAYLOR, P. C.

TUSKEGEE, ALA., Dec. 6, 1879.

NOTICE FROM THE TREASURER OF THE BOARD OF MISSIONS.—Will all parties having funds for foreign missions in their hands please forward them promptly? Where it is not cause of too much delay, it is better to send through the Conference Treasurers. But please help us in this emergency. Will all be careful to state their Conferences in sending funds? As State lines and Conference lines are not the same, it is frequently the case that it requires fifteen minutes to hunt for Conference relations before an entry can be made; this is a great waste of valuable time, and fruitful source of mistakes. Address,

J. W. MANSEL, Treas.,
Nashville, Tenn.

TO THE PREACHERS OF THE MISSISSIPPI ANNUAL CONFERENCE.—I notice in the Clarion, the following schedule: The mixed train on the New Orleans, St. Louis and Chicago railroad is due at Jackson at 6 50 P. M. The passenger train from Vicksburg to Meridian leaves Jackson at 7 50 P. M.

W. E. M. LINFIELD,

HAZLEHURST, Miss.

NOTICE.—The class of the first year, Mississippi Conference, will please meet the committee in Meridian on Tuesday, December 16, at nine A. M.

J. W. CARSON,
Chairman of Committee.

MERIDIAN, MISS., Dec. 3, 1879.

MARRIED.

CRAWFORD—PATTERSON—In Freeport, Fla., at the residence of W. H. McCullough, Esq., December 2, 1879, by the Rev. J. B. Anderson, of the Alabama Conference, Capt. Martin Crawford and Miss Rosey A. Patterson, all of Freeport.

COKE—HOOVER—November 26, 1879, in the Methodist church, Edwards, Miss., by Rev. W. C. Black, Mr. J. W. Coke to Miss Ida J. Hoover.

LOWE—DRUMMOND, November 26, 1879, at the residence of the bride's father, near Edwards, Miss., by Rev. W. C. Black, Mr. S. L. Lowe to Miss Alice Drummond.

SMITH—DANN, November 13, 1879, at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. Thomas W. Adams, Mr. Leonidas F. Smith to Miss M. Lizzie Hanna, both of Attala county, Miss.

OLIVER—MOORE, November 19, 1879, at the residence of the bride's father, B. H. Moore, Esq., by the Rev. J. S. Oakley, Mr. J. Monroe Lower to Miss Hettie A. Moore, of Hinds county, Miss.

MARTIN—JOHNSON, November 26, 1879, at the residence of the bride's father, Aberna, Miss., by the Rev. J. S. Oakley, Mr. Samuel H. Martin of Sebastopol county, to Miss Sallie Johnson, daughter of Mr. D. L. Johnson.

GLENN—SHIFF—November 26, 1879, at the residence of the bride's father, in the Rev. J. S. Oakley, Mr. Joseph A. Glenn to Miss Isabelle A. E. Shiff, daughter of Mr. Sylvester Shiff, of Black Hawk, Miss.

THOMS—TANNER—In West Pelahatchie, Miss., at the residence of the bride's grandfather, on November 30, 1879, by Rev. C. B. Cyell, Mr. James A. Thoms to Miss Maggie A. Tanner.

DEATH—DAZIER—In the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Merino, Miss., November 27, 1879, by Rev. J. M. Crews, Mr. O. L. Drake and Miss Lillie B. Dazier.

Publisher's Department.

While we continue to do our best to exclude fraudulent advertisements from the ADVOCATE, parties must judge for themselves as to the real value of the goods advertised. In ordering please mention the ADVOCATE.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.—January next the ADVOCATE office will adopt the cash system, and business thereafter will be conducted on the basis of all the leading papers published, subscriptions being payable in advance for such length of time as desired. The date of expiration by months will appear opposite the name of each subscriber, indicating the subscription expires with the close of that month, at which time the paper will be discontinued, unless renewed. This will materially simplify the office work, as the printer will drop the names according to monthly expiration, and no individual partiality be shown. Every subscriber will have a standing notice of expiration, but it will start to facilitate agents in getting receipts in accordance with office accounts, corresponding with printed date. Where advance payments exceeding one year are made the year to which paid will also be inserted. Errors in names and dates will be promptly corrected when advised, and we urge you to notify the office of such cases when known, as our desire is to avoid all friction, or causes for complaint, and have everything as nearly perfect as possible. Accounts will be kept with agents as heretofore, to whom payments may be made, or sent direct to this office, if preferred.

HOLIDAY GOODS.—Among the houses engaged in the glove business, in New Orleans, none have attained to the high place that Kreeger enjoys in the Crescent City. Kreeger's name is a household word in every house in the city on the gloves of the Southwest, and, we must say, that he has well earned this honor, which can only be attained by honorable and fair dealing, polite attention to the wants of all his patrons, and his rare business qualifications. His stock embraces leather goods, elegant toilet sets, silk umbrellas fine kid gloves, fans, rich back combs, rolled plate jewelry, etc. In fact, it would take up column after column to give the reader a full description of the many elegant holiday presents displayed at his beautiful stores. Remember fur gloves, and the articles mentioned above, there's no better house than Kreeger's.

CHOICE FAMILY GROCERIES.—At the corner of Rampart and Poet streets will be found a grocery store, and in that establishment as choice a selection of everything that is usually kept in a well-regulated grocery can be had. For the convenience of our readers living in that neighborhood, we will suggest to them the propriety of dealing there, as Mr. C. Everett sells his goods at prices which are no higher nor lower than elsewhere. No extra charge for drayage. See advertisement.

CLOTHING.—In this column will be found the card of D. Mercier Sons, an old established house devoted to the business of clothing and furnishing goods, and whose father had been intimately associated with this branch, in our midst, for over a quarter of a century. The house is also well and favorably known for their orders system, liberal and all those qualities which please the careful merchants with the popular citizens. See advertisement.

FURNITURE.—W. G. Tebault, 47 Royal street, is one of the few who appear in our price. This gentleman, though not long in this line, has built up a business that has exceeded his most sanguine expectations. The writer of this noticed him the reason of his success. He sells for low rents, buying furniture from the manufacturers for cash, and small expenses enables him to compete with any house in the south, and selling consequently lower than some of our leading houses. His store is crowded with the most complete and best assorted stock in the city, and is one of the first visited by visitors in search of pattern and novel designs. Any one reading at the head of Poydras will be pleased in making the acquaintance of Mr. Tebault, for a gentleman who will be glad to be interrupted in patronizing Bro. Haire's advertisement on the page next to reading matter. Country orders solicited.

PIANOS.—Among the leading manufacturers in the great metropolis of the country are Sewers—none hold a higher place than Steck & Co., for the Southern trade. Their instruments, wherever known, are unsurpassed. Overall in every thing that goes to make up a piano, they are a first class instrument in every respect. For sale by all leading houses in the country. From the testimonials appearing in their advertisement on the last page of readers must be struck with the approval with which they are approached. While and get their circular, and you will be satisfied of the relative merits of Steck pianos and the other makes of first class pianos.

PRESERVERS, PACKERS AND MANUFACTURERS.—C. W. Dunbar's sons are the largest preservers, packers and manufacturers of shelled bay oysters, crabs, crabmeat, orange and fig preserves in the south, and very few of Europe can excel them. Their goods fully take the premium of any in the market in this country, having received and demand in many of the capitals of Europe. During the French Exposition, which brought into competition with the best manufacturers of all Europe, they received the highest honors in the shape of a grand silver medal, being the only award to the Southern states by the jurors, so say citizens. See advertisement.

MR. H. P. BUCKLEY is at the stand so well known for years, No. 8 Camp street, and continues to offer to the public watches and jewelry from the best makers in America and abroad. Mr. Buckley's long experience in matters pertaining to his business enables him to offer inducements unsurpassed, and purchasers can rely on what he says. His advertisement, stating particulars of his business, will be seen on this page.

STEAM ENGINES.—There is no concern in the South, probably, that is better known among planters than B. J. West, 115 and 117 Magazine street, as dealer in steam engines and plantation hardware, agricultural implements, etc., of all kinds. Among this class of business he has assumed large proportions from the fact that he has made his business his constant study, so that Quitmen, in wanting their orders filled, can rely on Mr. West for it. See his advertisement.

SPAVEN CURE.—Ellis' Spavin Cure is recognized by the veterinary surgeons in New England as well as judges of horse flesh as being every thing that is claimed for the removal of spavins. Those owning the horses that are troubled with these blemishes should read the particulars on the seventh page.

KEYSTONE MATTRESS.—By your sampling for subscriptive circular of this mattress to R. Kelsey & Co., 110 Mail street, Philadelphia, Pa., you will find by it that it is the best made, as attested by many of the medical fraternity in that section as well as dealers in furniture. Confer with these gentlemen.

UNIVERSITY OF LOUISIANA.—No doubt that this Annex bearing will step upon its doors till June 30, 1880. This institution ranks high in the South, where students receive as complete a course in all the branches of learning as it is possible for them to do. Grads of law department for their sons a thorough education, so as to fit them for any profession, whether all be for the study of the medicine of the law, or should they choose a commercial training, no academy can give them a discipline more thorough than the above. The advertisement will be seen on this page, and heads of families should remember that when the stern realities of the world are to be encountered by their sons a good education will stand them in better stead than wealth. To encounter all obstacles in the future. Money takes wings and flies away, but a good, cultivated mind will be your friend.

NEW MILLINERY AND DRESSMAKING ESTABLISHMENT.—We visited the elegant parlors of Madame Foerster, at 15 Baronne street, last week. Her old quarters where she had been for years were getting too small for her rapidly increasing business, so with considerable forethought, and an eye to the future, she located at the place above mentioned. These elegant rooms are among the most attractive in the city, and, aside from her exceedingly tasteful selections, which are as magnificent as ever arrived in this city the appointments of this emporium must be seen to be appreciated. To Mr. W. C. F. Haire is due the credit of this masterpiece of work manship. Mrs. Hunt, than whom no lady is better known for the taste and good judgment which she always displays in her selection of becoming styles, for the ladies, is manager of the business. See advertisement. Country orders will receive prompt attention.

MESSRS. E. H. ADAMS & BRO., in addition to a splendid stock of ladies' dressing goods, announce a large assortment of articles suitable for Christmas presents. See advertisement in another column.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.—American China dinner, breakfast and tea set, 160 pieces, for $5. Equal in looks and usefulness to French China.

THE air of perfection, cleanliness and home-like comfort which is so apparent at the American House, Boston, is one of the characteristic features of that well-regulated establishment. To those disposed to economize this popular hotel offers an opportunity seldom found at so thoroughly a first-class house, having reduced its rates to $2 and $2 50 per day.

Indigestion, Dyspepsia, nervous prostration and all forms of general debility relieved by taking Messam's Peptonized Beef Tonic, the only preparation of beef containing its entire nutritious properties. It is not a mere stimulant like the extracts of beef, but contains blood-making, force-generating and life-sustaining properties; is invaluable in all enfeebled conditions, whether the result of exhausting, nervous prostration, overwork or acute diseases, particularly if resulting from pulmonary complaints. CASWELL, HAZARD & CO., Proprietors, New York. Sold by druggists.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A LADY'S WISH.

"Oh how I do wish my skin was as clear and soft as yours," said a lady to a friend. "You can easily make it so," answered the friend. "How?" inquired the first lady. "By using Hop Bitters, and making pure rich blood and blooming health." I did so, and it's very nice.

POZZONI'S MEDICATED COMPLEXION POWDER is acknowledged by thousands of ladies, who use it really, to be the only preparation that does not freckle the skin, chap, blister or leave a black spot in the pores. Mothers can apply it to children with great relief. Sold by all druggists, and at 37 Union Square, New York, and 6 Locust street, St. Louis (Dutton Patent).

QUEEN'S COD LIVER OIL JELLY.

APPROVED by the Academy of Medicine of New York for its purity, its odorlessness, and superior curative powers. Is the most elegant and concentrated preparation of cod liver oil. The most delicate and nervous patient can take it. Combines with the hypophosphites, and with acids, alkalies, or other medicines. Prescribed by the leading physicians. Sold by druggists. Manufactured by CHARLES N. CRITTENTON, 115 Fulton street, New York.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

To Printers and Publishers.

For sale a series of type, &c., of the Christian Advocate, of a size suitable for publishing a weekly paper. Can be delivered after January 1st, 1880, when time the paper will be issued from New Orleans.

For further particulars address

G. T. LATHROP,
Publisher.

KREEGER,

119 CANAL STREET 119

Kid Gloves! Kid Gloves!

The Greatest Bargain of the Season.

Twelve hundred dozen and more Dress Kids going to-day, one purchaser, at the extraordinary low price of fifty cents (50c.) per pair. KID GLOVES (worth $1 50 and $2 per pair), our price for the three days of Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, 50c. per pair. The best makers of Europe, during the French Exposition, brought into competition with the best manufacturers of all Europe, they received the highest honors in the shape of a grand silver medal, being the only award to the Southern states by the jurors, so say citizens. See advertisement.

KREEGER,

119 Canal Street 119

THE "RED STORE."

Cor. Rampart & Poet sts., New Orleans.

A constant supply on hand and at the lowest rates.

Choice Family Groceries,

C. EVERETT, Proprietor.

Goods delivered free of Drayage to all parts of the City.

ACADEMICAL DEPARTMENT
OF THE
UNIVERSITY OF LOUISIANA.

The special session opened on the first of last October and will close on the fortieth of next June. Terms (one quarter session, payable in advance):

FACULTY.

E. H. LARNE, graduate of University of Virginia, Dean, and Professor of Latin and English Literature.

J. L. ROSS, graduate of Virginia Military Institute, Professor of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy.

R. C. BARTINO, M. A., (Johns Hopkins), Professor of Greek and the English Language.

M. P. DUCIAN, graduate of the University of France, Professor of French Language and Literature.

H. HOEFLICH, graduate of the Royal Normal College of Munich, Professor of German Language and Literature.

R. H. MONTGOMERY, Professor of Penmanship and Commercial Course.

ASSISTANTS, Professor Alcee Fortier, Professor C. L. Bennett.

Nothing but French is spoken in the French lectures rooms. In English Literature, also in Languages, will be read this session from each of the English writers from Chaucer to Shakspeare inclusive. There is a parallel course of English that by examination every other session period. Next session, the course of Literature will begin with Lord Chatham, ending with Edmund Burke. For catalogues and further information, address R. H. LARNE, Dean. Offices—Corner of Bayou and Common. Recitations hours from ten to eleven each day.

H. P. BUCKLEY,

8 CAMP STREET

GOLD AND SILVER

Stem Winding Watches,

AMERICAN, ENGLISH AND SWISS.

Fine Quality and Lowest Prices.

DIAMONDS,

JEWELRY AND STERLING SILVERWARE,

At a great reduction to Special attention paid to Watch Repairing, Diamond Setting and Jewelry Repairing.

Millinery and Dressmaking.

Mme. E. Foerster

has removed to her new and elegantly appointed store

15 ..... Baronne Street 15

OPPOSITE GRUNEWALD HALL

where she is ready for her many lady friends with a splendid stock of FRENCH IMPORTED MILLINERY GOODS, HATS, BONNETS, FLOWERS, FEATHERS, and all the novelties of the season in Fancy Goods. DRESSES, CLOAKS, and COSTUMES, made up in the most elegant styles.

JAMES H. LAWS & CO.,

Commission Merchants,

CINCINNATI, O.

I make liberal cash advances on CONSIGNMENTS OF SUGAR AND MOLASSES to Jas. H. Laws & Co., Cincinnati.

L. C. KEEVER,
118 Gravier street, New Orleans.

MISCELLANEOUS.

W. G. TEBAULT,

47 Royal Street,

THE CHEAPEST

Furniture House

IN THE CITY.

FIRST CLASS GOODS AT THIRD CLASS PRICES.

THE FINEST ASSORTMENT OF

Modern Designs of Furniture.

TO BE SEEN IN THE CITY.

Fine Ebony and Gilt Parlor Suits. Fine Walnut and Gilt Parlor Suits in Cretonne, Raw Silks, etc. Fine Walnut Chamber Suits. Fine Walnut Library Room Suits. Folding Carpet Chairs and Rockers, of all descriptions.

A VERY COMPLETE ASSORTMENT OF

Medium and Common Furniture

Notwithstanding Paris Fairs has advanced fifteen per cent., I will offer my immense stock at prices LOWER THAN EVER, which I am compelled to do to make room for other goods, which will arrive by the next few days.

Look for the large sign across the Street.

W. G. TEBAULT,
47 Royal Street.

BLACK AND FANCY SILKS

AND

Winter Dress Goods,

Cloaks and Shawls.

FLANNELS AND BLANKETS,
CARPETS, MATTINGS AND RUGS,
OIL CLOTHS, OIL CLOTHS AND WINDOW SHADES.

Also a full stock of

HOUSEKEEPING AND DOMESTIC GOODS

Which we offer at the lowest prices and will be sold as low as in the present market.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS.

Just received a variety of

JAPANESE TOYS AND FINE FANCY ARTICLES

Universal Dictionary of Dates,
Photographic Albums,
Toilet Paraphernalia,
A choice lot of
Silk Handkerchiefs and Neck Ties,
Embroidered and Plain Collars and Cuffs,
Colored and White Kid Gloves, all Hand Sewed,
Ladies' Fichus, Scarfs and Hoods,
Children's Printed Dresses,
Beaded Ruches and Sashes.

Agent for Bargain by

REAL VALENTIENNE LACE HANDKERCHIEFS.

J. A. BRASELMAN,

150 Magazine street. 150

P. S.—Country orders solicited. Goods sent to them only C. O. D. Samples free on application.

THE MANHATTAN LIFE

INSURANCE COMPANY,
OF NEW YORK.

The General Agency for the State of Louisiana of the above Company has been transferred to Messrs. MARSHALL, SMITH & CO., 30 Gravier street, of policy holders will pay premiums at the office as at this office.

MR. ALEXANDER ROSE is continuing his connection as general agent of the Company.

A. L. GRISWOLD & CO.,
General Southern Agents.

REFERRING TO THE ABOVE, WE respectfully solicit the patronage of our friends and the insuring public.

MARSHALL, SMITH & CO.,
Sole Agents, 30 Gravier street.

WM. F. MILLEN,

ATTORNEY AT LAW,

12 Carondelet Street,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

W. B. DANIEL,

COMMISSION MERCHANT

AND DEALER IN

Foreign and Domestic Fruits,

NUTS, ETC.,

18 South Peters St., New Orleans.

Consignments of all kinds of country produce.

G. W. SENTELL,

COTTON FACTOR

AND COMMISSION MERCHANT.

189 ..... Gravier Street 189

NEW ORLEANS.

Special attention paid to the filling of orders.

THOMAS MAGAN,

FAMILY GROCER,

AND DEALER IN

ALL KINDS OF COAL AND FIRE WOOD,

cor. Polymnia & St. Charles sts.,

NEW ORLEANS.

Yard and Coal Yard, No. 4 St. Charles street.

A. C. DANNER & Co.,

DEALERS IN

Coal, Lumber, Timber, Staves, Etc.

NEW ORLEANS OFFICE:

19 Carondelet Street, corner Union.

DR. GEO. J. FALDRICHS,

DENTIST,

135 St. Charles Street, corner of Girod,

Square above City Hall,

NEW ORLEANS.

DR. ROBERT J. MAINEGRA,

WILL GIVE

FREE CONSULTATIONS DAILY

FROM 7 TO 10 A. M.

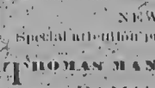
At the Washington Avenue Drug Store, corner Magazine and Washington streets.

The Doctor is a practitioner of long experience, and has devoted a professional celebrity to the treatment of diseases of hair, scalp, or chronic character.

FOR NEW YORK DIRECT.

THE CROMWELL

N. Y. and N. O. Steamship Line.



This Line is composed of the following first class iron steamships:

LOUISIANA, KNICKERBOCKER, HUDSON, NEW ORLEANS.

Steamships of this Line leave New York

Every Saturday, at 3 P. M.

and from New Orleans

Every Wednesday at 8 A. M.

Cabin passage ..... $40.
Steerage passage ..... $25.

For further information apply to

ALFRED MOULTON,
207 Carondelet street.

PIANO TUNING

In Purest Harmony.

Piano Repairing, guaranteed to perfection. Piano Regulating with great mechanical skill. New and second hand Pianos for sale or rent. Lowest prices in the city. Organs Tuned, Repaired and Reed Recorded.

A. G. GARDNER,
907 Magazine street, New Orleans, La.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WHEELER & PIERSON,

(Successors to Darcy & Wheeler and Pierson & Hewes)

CLOTHING AND FURNISHING GOODS,

Nos. 13 and 15 CAMP STREET, New Orleans.

Black Cloth Suits, $20 to $40 | Business Suits, $12 to $25
6 Shirts for $9 | Collars $1.50 per Doz.

Orders from Clergymen solicited, and Work from their made to them.
Rules for Self measurement sent on application and goods sent C. O. D.
Plantation Clothing for Country Stores at very low prices in our Wholesale Department up stairs.

D. MERCIER & SONS,

BETTER KNOWN AS CHEAP JOHNS.

NO BRANCH STORE IN TOWN.

MEN'S BOYS AND YOUTH'S

CLOTHING,

HATS, BOOTS, SHOES, FURNISHING GOODS, ETC.

Corner Dauphine and Bienville Streets, New Orleans, La.

Orders for Country Merchants promptly executed on most reasonable terms.

NOVEAUTES.

Extended Velvets, Ribbons and Black Silks, Worsted Mantle Cloths, Persian and Cheviot Dress Goods, Ladies' Sacques, Hood Knit Shawls, Jackets, Hoods, Silk Gloves and Ruches, Shoe Pins, Mantilla and Crepe Ruchings, Corkscrew Stripes and Pleated Fancy Muslins and Nets, Garnets, Bobbinet and White Tarlatan Robes, Swiss Plaid and Fashion Striped Hose, Black Satin Collars, Bustles, Hoods, Flannel Skirts, Knitted Skirts, Scarfs, Worsted Shawls, Knitted and Crochet Cloaks and Hoods, Embroidered Sacques, Infants' Robes, Nets, White and Black Lace Fichus, Pleated Scarfs, Velvet Silks and Bows, etc., etc. Also a large assortment of articles suitable for CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

TO CLOSE. Cartwright & Warner's Live Lock Stitch Sewing Machines, Finished Veils at 50c., two pieces of Brussels net for 1 00, worth $2.

E. H. ADAMS & BROTHER,

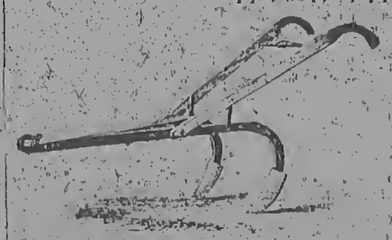
594 Magazine Street, Fourth Store above St. Andrew.

IRON-BEAM DOUBLE-SHOVEL PLOWS

ARE MANUFACTURED IN LARGE QUANTITIES BY

B. F. AVERY & SONS,

LOUISVILLE, KY.



B. F. AVERY & SONS,
Louisville, Ky.

Or their Agents,

A. BALDWIN & CO.,
STAPLES, MAURELLY & CO.,
New Orleans, La.

COAL ..... COAL ..... COAL

E. D. WOOD & CO.,

Corner Camp and Common Streets,

Offices in Exchange Hotel.

Will handle and sell dealers in all grades of COAL. Pittsburg Coals delivered by boat-loads, by the barrel, and shipped by Packet or by rail at lowest market rates. Cash trade solicited.

ANTHRACITE COAL.

Having made arrangements with the largest coal shipping firm in the city, we are prepared to fill orders promptly at the lowest rates. Orders left at the store will be filled at 87 Poydras street, or at the yard, corner Tchoupitoulas and Thalia streets, will receive prompt attention.

H. ENGLER & BRO.

Office, 87 Poydras street, and corner Thalia and Tchoupitoulas sts.

THE

LONDON

Assurance Corporation,

OF LONDON.

Established by Royal Charter, A. D. 1724.

CAPITAL $10,000,000.

This Company issues policies against

FIRE

On Merchandise, Dwellings, Furniture, Stores, Etc.

AT LOWEST CURRENT RATES.

S. A. MORITZ, Agent,
197 Gravier Street.

"Crescent City Spring,"

WAUKESHA WATER

The undersigned having been appointed agent, hereafter the above celebrated Spring will deliver the WATER constantly on sale by the barrel, half barrel, quarter barrel and 15 gallon jug. Cash or city orders.

L. C. ARNY,

26, 28 and 30 Bienville St.

FOOD CURE
TRADE MARK

THE BLANCHARD

FOOD CURE SYSTEM

A Series of Concentrated and Scientific Digested

LIQUID FOODS,

That are the most Reliable Remedies for all Cases of Debility.

FOOD AT LAST A SUBSTITUTE FOR DRUGS.

Purified elements are combined by properties therein necessary to regain a lost tone of health and restore a debilitated constitution of mind or body.

The Blanchard Blood, Nerve and Brain Building Foods, are concentrated and scientific digested extracts from the most nutritious elements known to

BEEF, WHEAT AND MILK.

They are not to take the place of your ordinary diet, but are to be taken after meals, as the nutritious and life-sustaining properties that are not found in solid food are to be obtained in liquid form, easily, quickly, and to assist the functions to digest and assimilate solid food.

Because of Material, Nutrition these foods are wonderful in their efficacy.

For Dyspeptic and consumptive patients, for all Neuralgic and Rheumatic affections, for Loss of Sleep, Impoverished Blood and Scrofula these foods are the natural, safe and permanent relief.

These foods are curative, but no medicine, drug or alcohol into their composition.

PRICE LIST.

Tonic Extract of Wheat, ... $1 00 per bottle
Filgrin and Wheat ..... 1 00 "
Beef and Milk ..... 1 00 "
Fat Producing Food ..... 1 00 "
Fine Food ..... 1 00 "

By per cent. discount on orders of half dozen or more sent by Express. Correspondence by mail or P. O. order. Pharmacy for Registered Letter. Special Discounts to Agents and Druggists.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

JOS. B. GRIGNON, JR.,

Sole Agent for the Southwest.

98 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

Agents Wanted.

A CHOICE GIFT

For all times,

HOLIDAYS, WEDDING, BIRTHDAY, ANNIVERSARY, or any other day for PASTOR, TEACHER, PARENT, CHILD, FRIEND.

WEBSTER'S UNABRIDGED.

NEW EDITION.

A SUPPLEMENT of over

4600 NEW WORDS and Meanings.

ALSO ADDED, A NEW

Biographical Dictionary

of over 9700 NAMES.

A NATIONAL WORK, PUBLISHED

WEBSTER

in the year 1879,

Famed

throughout the world for more than a quarter of a century for 3000 by the U. S. Supreme Court, and by the Public Schools of the United States.

W. C. SHEPARD & Co.,

AMERICAN CHINA HOUSE,

19 Camp Street, New Orleans.

We have on hand a few pieces

The American China Dinner, Breakfast and Tea Set, consisting 160 Pieces for $15.

A Real French China Dinner Set, 115 Pieces, for $20.

English Stone China Dinner Set, 121 Pieces, for $12.

English Stone China Chamber Set, comprising 10 Pieces, for $1 50.

Decorated Chamber Sets, with different colored Bands, 10 Pieces for $1 50.

Glass Goblets from 40 cents to $1 00 per dozen.

Particular attention given to Novelties and Specialties pertaining to the House Furnishing line, and are constantly receiving the latest styles. We have on hand a full and complete stock of Crockery, Glass and Lamps, and intend to keep it so. Call and examine before purchasing.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.

WANTED—EVERY BODY TO KNOW that LAPLACE, LA., is a place to escape the fever, being the highest point on the Jackson Railroad, 40 miles above New Orleans. It is highly recommended for its pure water and healthy climate, and is the home of the late Gen. Beauregard. For sale about the depot, where also sale and retail drug store. Depot to Mobile & O. Railroad & Co. Depot in St. Louis at Rue Marquette & Co. Depot &c.

A Royal and Valuable Remedy!

BARK & IRON

A combination of the active principles of Peruvian Bark and Iron. It is endorsed and recommended by the medical profession as a very

PALATABLE AROMATIC IRON TONIC,

Efficacious in dyspepsia, loss of appetite, boils, &c.

BILLINGS, CLAPP & CO.,

SUCCESSORS TO

NICHOLS & CO., BOSTON, MASS.

For Sale by all Druggists.

Substitution Guaranteed.

CINCHO-QUININE!

CURES FEVER AND AGUE!

Is a safe, prompt and sure remedy in all the above diseases, and is offered at half the cost. It is pleasant to take, and will not produce head ache or other disagreeable symptoms, and is a sure and safe preventative. It is prepared in a similar form to Bark & Iron.

Billings, Clapp & Co., Manfg Chemists, Boston, Mass.

For Sale by all Druggists.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Gapes. How to Operate For. The instrument used was a feather, but a straw but stiffer than I had seen used before. I was [illegible]
to [illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
[

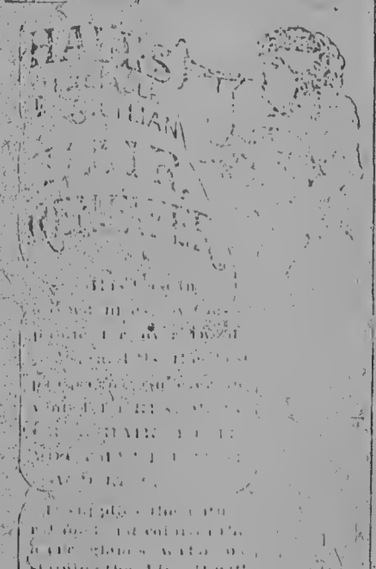
Scientific.

—The Kansas City Review of Science for October contains an address by Prof. B. F. Mudge, in which he takes ground that botany does not favor prevailing views of the evolution of species. He contends that diconyledonous plants came into existence at the beginning of the cretaceous age, without any predecessors connecting them with the vegetation of the preceding ages. They appeared suddenly, with the incoming of the cretaceous age, and what we regard as the most highly organized forms appear to have come at once into existence. Among these he mentions magnolias, tulip trees, sassafras, prunus, pyrus, and others allied to existing species. He notes that, instead of progressing to new species by time, the genera are disappearing. As in the sa-safras, for instance, there were many species; now only one exists in the United States, where in the same district there were once numbers. He then notes that the existing species is so like one fossil form that it can scarcely be distinguished, though so many thousand geological years have been given it in which to progress. Yet he thinks this sassafras must have had the full benefit of many climatic conditions supposed to be the leading factor in inducing change. Referring to climatic conditions, he refers to gentians, dandelions, and other plants that have a wide range, from the Arctics to the Tropics, from high mountain-peaks to low sea-levels; and, though they must have been ages under these different conditions, they continue essentially the same. And her point he uses is, that in our meadows we find species of violets and of many other plants closely allied, and which the evolutionist would regard as from one common parentage, and yet they have evidently all been for ages under precisely the same conditions of environment. Finally, he lays much stress on the fact that with modern history no genus did not from an existing one insect known to appear, or even distinct species, though what we call marked varieties—variation within certain limits may abound. It may be observed that Prof. Mudge's arguments are rather against the manner of evolution than against evolution in some form. There are evolutionists who believe that new forms spring into existence by an inherent law, but definitely understood, suddenly and irrespective of external conditions; and there are others who by no means regard the line between monocotyledons and dicotyledons to be as decidedly drawn as Prof. Mudge deems it to be. The leaves of lilies are not, as veined; but the petals, which are but transformed leaves, often are. And, again, in ordinary dicotyledon as seeds there are often cases which hint that they have a monocotyledonous relationship. There can be no doubt of the unity of plan; and though there may be many cases where no "connecting links" are found, there are enough instances of such connection to warrant a search for them when they are missing.

—CHARCOAL AS AN ABSORBENT. The absorptive power of charcoal is well known in the arts. Its capacity in this direction is quite remarkable. Accurate experiments have proved that in twenty-four hours a moderate sized piece will absorb nearly five times its own volume of ammoniacal gas, eighty-five times its volume of carbonic acid gas and sixty-five times its volume of sulphurous acid gas. It subtracts more than twenty times its own volume of oxygen, and preserving meats, vegetables and fruits from rapid decay. Its power of destroying odors is well known, and its value here depends upon the same quality. It separates and appropriates to itself the gases, or matters and other impurities in water, rendering it pure and sweet. It placed on the surface of the soil, it will gather from the atmosphere and gases, and impart them to the growing plants. On these principles the value of charcoal, and staple and hoppens, as an antiseptic agent, is calculated. When used for this purpose to open the pores a manure should be in the powdered state.—Ohio Farmer.

GLASS SLEEPERS.—On some of the English lines railroads they are experimenting with glass sleepers. These are made by a process patented by E. Siemens, of Dresden. Unlike the bubble glass which is broken, the Siemens product does not fly into fragments. The sleepers are three feet long, four inches wide, by six inches deep, and are moulded to fit accurately the rail. Bearing plates are placed under the longitudinal rails are attached to them. A sleeper resting on supports thirty inches apart bears a weight of five tons. Glass, unlike iron, is practically indestructible by moisture, and is, of course, not so heavy as cast-iron. The glass sleepers cost about the same as iron ones.

A FLOATING ISLAND.—Half fill a dish with a rich custard; then place in the center a round stick of sponge cake, covered with any red jelly; then a smaller round of cake, covered with apricot jam, alternately place the rounds of cake, each smaller than the last, and sweetmeats of various colors, till you form a pyramid. Whip sweetened cream for the summit. It is a very handsome as well as delicious dish.



BUCKINGHAM'S DYE FOR THE WHISKERS

will change the beard in a BROWN or BLACK at discretion. Being in one preparation it is easily applied and produces a permanent color that will not wash off.

PREPARED BY
R. P. HALL & CO., NASHUA, N. H.
Sold by all Dealers in Medicine.

EDUCATIONAL.

Mansfield Female College.

THE FALL SESSION of this Institution will begin on Wednesday, September 24. A full and competent corps of teachers. Every advantage offered. Charges moderate. Preachers of this Conference pay no tuition for their daughters in regular course. Extras, in their favor, one-fourth off. Board of a preacher's daughter, for the year, plus six to furnish lights and washing. Send for catalogue.

REV. THOS. ARMSTRONG, Pres't.
Mansfield, La.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE,
EAST TENNESSEE.

FOUNDED 1849 offers superior advantages and is healthy resort.

The Male Department is located in a quiet farming community, seven miles from Sweetwater, East Tenn., Va. and Ga. R. R.

The Female Department is located in the model town of Sweetwater, in a lovely section.

Experienced Teachers, good work and low Charges in both Departments. Patronage merited. For particulars, address

REV. J. H. BRUNNER, D. D.,
Hiwassee College, Tenn.

Woodville Female Seminary.

A NON-SECTARIAN ACADEMY, UNDER the supervision of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Mississippi Conference; Hon. E. Mead, Jr., President of Board of Trustees. For Thoroughness of Instruction, healthfulness, cheapness, and many other advantages, is not surpassed. We invite those interested to examine our credentials, and to obtain circulars, by calling upon Mr. Phillip Werlein, New Orleans, La., or address the Principal,

A. J. WRIGHT,
Woodville, Miss.

The Lequet-LeRoy Institute

AN KINDERGARTEN DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES, 280 Camp Street.—This Institution has now reopened under the auspices of the Misses MUSE, Cecelia W., Sallie L., and Corinne, the latter relicts of the late R. G. Rhea, daughters of Judge E. Warren Muse, deceased, successors of Mme Lequet LeRoy, who, good will and right to conduct the School under the style and name they have purchased. Except in so far as the proprietors may enter into active service, there will be no change of teachers. No change whatever in the conduct and management of the School. They respectfully solicit a continuance of the patronage heretofore so liberally extended to the Institution and that of their friends, and the public generally, promising strict attention to every interest of the pupils committed to their charge.

C. W. MUSE, Principal.

A FINISHED MUSICAL EDUCATION. THE NEW ENGLAND Conservatory, Boston, Employing 75 Eminent Professors, has a reputation unequalled for furnishing the MOST MUSICAL EDUCATION at merely nominal rates, combined with HOME cultured Womanhood. Fall term opens September 25. For prospectus address E. TOURJEE, Music Hall, Boston, Mass.

A GREAT OFFER for HOLIDAYS

ORGANS $35. Upwards: PIANOS $150 upwards not used 6 Mos. room as new. Unrivalled. New PIANOS AND ORGANS at EXTRAORDINARY LOW prices for cash, or for Cash Payments. HORACE WATERS, 826 Broadway, cor. 12th St., N. Y. P. O. Box 3550.

WM. W. WILSON,
Successor to Henry Erben & Co.,
CHURCH ORGANS,
Established in 1854,
280 & 282 West Third, near 6th Ave., New York

SOUTHERN CHURCH ORGAN MANUFACTORY,
No. 103 Baronne Street,
Under the National Theater,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
PETER VETTER, Proprietor.

Church Organs tuned and repaired all over the South.

J. BOSIO,
Four Seasons Restaurant
No. 111 CHARTRES STREET,
Bet. St. Louis & Conti.
FURNISHED ROOMS—PRIVATE SALOONS.
Open till 12 o'clock, at
Moderate prices.

Sout western Co-operative Ass'n,
FOR THE SALE OF
COTTON, SUGAR AND
All Products of the Soil, and the Purchase of Supplies.
The usual commission of 2½ per cent charged.
Address THOS. J. CARVER, Gen. Manager.
37 Carondelet street, N. O.

YOUNG MEN'S Christian Association
OF NEW ORLEANS.
Rooms No. 87 Camp Street.
Open from 9 A. M. to 9 P. M. except Sunday, and on Sundays from 2 to 6 P. M., where may be found the leading daily and weekly papers of the most important cities of the United States.
SERVICES.
Tuesday, 7:30 P. M.—Devotional.
Thursday, 7:30 P. M.—Sterling Class.
NOON-DAY PRAYER-MEETING.
Daily, 12 to 12:30.
Short Prayers and Remarks are limited to three minutes.

St. Louis Impenetrable Paint Co.
SOLE MANUFACTURERS OF
IMPENETRABLE PAINT
A glossy durable water-proof paint, to
ALSO PROPRIETORS OF THE COLORLESS
WATERPROOFING
PROCESS,
For rendering wood or the walls of buildings impervious to water, preventing the disintegration of the surface, and giving a fine appearance.
All orders promptly attended to and information cheerfully furnished upon application at the
OFFICE AND FACTORY,
No. 141 North Twelfth Street,
St. Louis, Mo.

BRACKETS. GLOBES.
M. H. APPLEGATE.
PLUMBER,
Gas and Steam Fitter
GAS FIXTURES,
St. George and Defiance Ranges,
Plumbers' Material,
No. 118 POYDRAS STREET,
NEW ORLEANS.

ORLEANS PLANING MILL,
WM. CAMPBELL, Proprietor,
No. 220 South Basin St.,
Near New Basin,
will constantly keep on hand a full assortment of
DRESSED FLOORING,
CEILING SIDELAVING,
WEATHER BOARDS
and DECKING.
Feather Edge Fence Boards and Rough Weather Boards.
SAWING and DRESSING done for the trade at low rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

DR. C. J. RICHIAM,
RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,
220 Jackson St., Bet. Chestnut and Coliseum,
NEW ORLEANS.
Office Hours—Eight A. M. and three to four P. M.

UNITED STATES
Four Per Cent. Bonds
BOUGHT AND SOLD BY
New Orleans National Bank,
54 CAMP STREET,

SPORTSMEN'S DEPOT,
55 ..... ST. CHARLES STREET 55
NEW ORLEANS.
ARTICLES FOR FISHERMEN
OF ALL KINDS.
Rods, Nets, Hooks, Lines, and every desirable article for the Angler, wholesale and retail. Guns imported to order. J. H. Cooper's Breech and Muzzle-Loading Guns always in hand. All kinds of improved artificial baits. Address Postoffice Box 1578.

KENTUCKY BELL FACTORY
Cow Bells. [Established 1848] Sheep Bells.
Loud, Strong, Durable, Cheap.
When you buy see that my trade-mark "J. Geo. Dodge's Kentucky Bell" is on the label. Thus you get the genuine Kentucky Bell which is good and cheap. For sale by Hardware Dealers everywhere.
E. BARCLAY, Sole Prop'r, Louisville, Ky.

MENEELYS' BELLS,
For Churches, etc., known to the public since 1826, are made only at "THE MENEELY BELL FOUNDRY," West Troy, N. Y. Catalogues free.

SENECA FALLS
BELL FOUNDRY
For Church, Academy, Factory, Depot, Steamboat, Ships, Locomotive, Plantation, Fire Engine, etc.
Sizes and Prices with Wheel Hanging and Frame Complete.

Diam. of Bell	Weight of Bell & Frame Complete	Hung,
No. 6, 25 inches	231 pounds	$ 45
No. 7, 27 inches	341 pounds	50
No. 7, 30 inches	442 pounds	50
No. 8, 34 inches	736 pounds	100
No. 9, 38 inches	924 pounds	120

HENRY & CO.
Seneca Falls, N. Y., U. S. A.

J. H. KELLER,
MANUFACTURER OF CARBOLIC,

Office, 110 GRAVIER ST.
All Kinds of Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

COOPERAGE.
PHILLIP HIRSCH, Cooper.
50 to 60 NORTH PETERS STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Has for sale and keeps constantly on hand a large and selected stock of new clarified and open kettle sugar Hogsheads and Coffee & Sugar Barrels; Molasses Barrels, Half Barrels and Kegs, all sizes; also, choice Hogshead and barrel Head Poles. Contracts for future delivery solicited. Prices moderate. Satisfaction guaranteed.

T. A. BECK,
COOPERAGE,
Office and Salesroom, 97 North Peters Street, Manufactory, Carondelet Walk, between Roman and Prieur Streets, New Orleans.
Has constantly on hand Sugar Hogsheads Molasses Barrels, Half Barrels Kegs, Flour, Sugar and Rice Barrels. Order for Head Poles filled at the lowest market rates. Particular attention paid to Trimming.

E. HEATH,
SUCCESSOR TO HEATH, PIPPEY & LARA,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,
UPHOLSTERY GOODS, Wall Paper, Window Shades, Cornices, Lace and Nottingham Curtains, Mirrors, Moldings, Chromos, Picture Rods, etc. 64" Frames made to order—a specialty.
No. 99 Canal Street, New Orleans.

BUCK'S IMPROVED

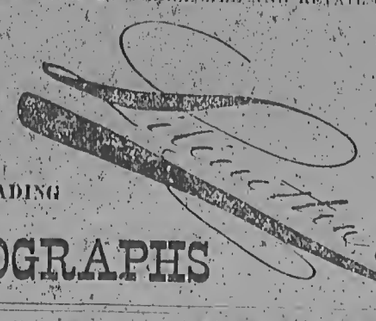
BRILLIANT STOVE.
Is acknowledged to be the
BEST COOK-STOVE MADE.
SOLD BY
H. HALLER,
NEW ORLEANS.
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
Cooking and Heating Stoves of the most Improved makes. Stamped, Plain and Japanned Tin-ware, Tinned and Enameled Hollow-ware. Iron and Clay Furnaces, Tinners Stock, Granite Iron-Ware, Lamp Burner and Wick to suit. Tinned Iron Spoons and Forks, Coffee Mills of all kinds. Planished Ware, Sad Irons, Fire Grates, Tinning machines, etc. H. HALLER,
No. 85 Camp St., New Orleans
Price-lists mailed on application.

The Stewart Stove
WITH LATEST IMPROVEMENT,
Is now the
LEADING STOVE OF THE AGE
There can be no failure in its perfect operation. Will cook and consume less fuel than any other Stove made.
Can be had for coke, coal or wood.
Hot water attachments for bathing, etc., can be attached with but little extra cost.
Please to repair old Stewart Stoves constantly on hand.
J. D. CAMPMAN,
133 Poydras Street.

FITZ JAHNCKE,
(PAT. FOR LA.)
Schillinger Artificial Stone Pavement,
Artificial Stone Tiles in various colors,
DEALER IN
North River and German Flags, Curb Stone and Portland Cement.
208 Delord st., between Baronne and Carondelet. Box 143 Mechanics' and Dealers' Exchange.
NEW ORLEANS.

MISCELLANEOUS.

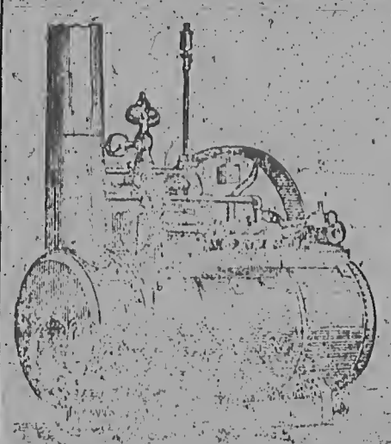
G. W. DUNBAR'S SONS,
3 Tchoupitoulas St., New Orleans,
PREMRVERS AND PCK ERS OF
SHRIMP, OKRA AND PRESERVED FIGS,
IN TINS.
New Packing Ready for Delivery,
FOR SALE BY WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS.



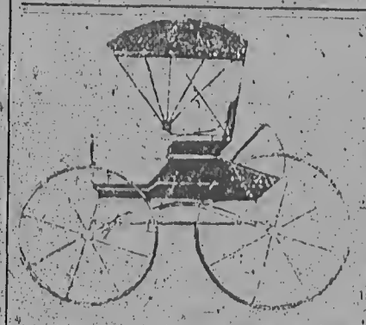
D. H. HOLMES,
155 Canal Street, - - - 45 Bourbon Street.
Our Stock of Spring Goods is now complete, consisting of the latest novelties in
SILKS, LACES, DRESS GOODS IN WORSTED FABRICS
BLACK GRENADINES IN SILK AND WOOL,
LINEN LAWNS, ORGANDIES, AND PERCALES,
HOSIERY in all Styles and Colors,
A Complete Assortment of MATTINGS
SAMPLES sent free of charge.
D. H. HOLMES
155 CANAL STREET.

THE GOLD MEDAL
PARIS EXPOSITION 1878
WAS AWARDED TO
JOSEPH GILLOTT & SONS
FOR EXCELLENCE IN
STEEL PENS
THE FAVORITE NUMBERS 303, 404, 170
AND HIS OTHER STYLES—SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

R. M. & B. J. MONTGOMERY,
FURNITURE EMPORIUM,
MORESQUE BUILDING,
Corner Camp and Poydras Streets,
We have received, and are receiving for the Fall and Winter trade, the largest and best selected stock of Furniture and Mirrors ever offered to the New Orleans public, all of the latest styles and designs, comprising
BEDROOM AND PARLOR SUITS;
FRENCH PLATE MIRRORS,
FANCY AND ORNAMENTAL FURNITURE.
We also have a complete stock of Medium and Common Furniture; Office, Hall and Library Furniture; Bent Wood Lawn Chairs, Rockers and Reclining Lawn Benches, with Vending Attachments; Invalid Rocking and Wheel Chairs; Spring Beds, Spiral, Woven Wire, Spring, Hair and Moss Mattresses; Feather Pillows and Bolsters; the Patent Elliptic Sight Pillow, the best ever invented for a warm climate; Rattan and Perforated Seat Chairs, Rockers and Settees; the "Victor" Folding and Lock Desk, the best school desk extant.
Our Stock of FURNITURE and MIRRORS is one of the largest in the country, and we can and will compete with any house North or South. Commission merchants and country orders solicited. All goods delivered free of charge. Give us a trial before purchasing.
N. B.—We are prepared to reupholster Parlor Suits or Chairs in any goods to the may select.



PAYNE'S
PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
2 TO 16 HORSE POWER.
Strong, Simple and Durable,
BEST PLANTATION ENGINE MADE.
Send for Special Price List of this and other styles Engines, Boilers, etc.
B. J. WEST,
SOLE AGENT,
115 and 117 Magazine Street,
NEW ORLEANS.



ENTERPRISE CARRIAGE CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
arriages for the Trade,
FACTORY,
Nos. 25, 27 & 29 E. Canal and 24, 26 & 28 E. Court Sts.
WAREROOMS, 31 and 33 SYCAMORE STREET,
CINCINNATI.
Better work for less money than ever before offered in the market.

ESTABLISHED 1838.
NONOTUCK SILK CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
CORTICELLI SPOOL SILK,
THE OLDEST BRAND IN AMERICA.
Sewing Silk, Machine Twist, Button Hole Twist, Embroidery and Saddlers' Silks, Purse Twist, Rolling Silks, Etc., Etc.
H. M. B. BOWEN, Agent,
88 West Third Street, Cincinnati, O.

CATARRH Is a Terrible Disease. It is an offensive combination of running sores in the throat, weak eyes, deafness, loss of voice, loss of smell, ulcerating ulcers, head noises, and nightly restless pain. To get rid of it, while it is possible, it may rapidly develop into quick consumption. The most thorough, successful and pleasant treatment is

Dr. M. W. CASE'S CARBOLATE of TAR INHALANT
FOR CATARRH, ASTHMA, CONSUMPTION, Bronchitis & Deafness.
It allows you to quite ten minutes to demonstrate the Value of Carbolate of Tar, the most healing, remedial agent known to science. Balsams and Cordials of the most healing and soothing properties are so combined with Pine Tree Tar, that the more breathing converts them into a dense smoke or vapor. This is inhaled taken right to the diseased parts. No Heat. No hot water, simply inhaling or breathing it, and you feel its healing power at once. This treatment is endorsed by physicians everywhere, and highly commended by Druggists, who have used it with perfect satisfaction. FULL TREATMENT—Circulars, etc., Sent Free—Sent. Satisfaction Always Guaranteed. Address DR. M. W. CASE, 933 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

AGENTS WANTED.

BRIGHT, ATTRACTIVE, CHEERFUL. Miss Lizzie McNair Wright's New Book,
THE COMPLETE HOME
Full of PRACTICAL INFORMATION;
The young Housekeeper's GUIDE.
Their experienced Home Friend and COUNSELLOR.
It tells how to make the Home BEAUTIFUL and HAPPY.
DEEDED BY 600 PAGES.
AGENTS WANTED
WANTED
WANTED AGENTS FOR

MISCELLANEOUS.

ST. JAMES HOTEL,
ETHUPEAN PLAN,
Fifth Street, opp. the Old Southern,
ST. LOUIS, MO.
THIS HOUSE IS CENTRALLY LOCATED, and has been refitted throughout. Rates reasonable. Table unsurpassed. Polite attention to guests. Free coach to and from the house. Elevator. First-class restaurant attached. Depot for Kentucky Distilleries.
L. D. WATSON, Manager. THOS. F. MILLER, Proprietor.

WINTELER & RICKS,
DEALERS IN Leather and Shoe
FINDINGS,
TOOLS, CUTLERY, ETC.,
Boot, Gaiter and Shoe Uppers,
168 POYDRAS STREET,
NEW ORLEANS.

BEMIS, MILES & HENRY,
MANUFACTURERS
LOUISVILLE, KY.

ORGAN & BEATTY PIANO

REDUCTION.
NOVELTY
PRINTING PRESSES.
B. O. WOODS & CO.,

RICE, BORN & CO.,
DEALERS IN HEAVY AND SHELF
HARDWARE!
CUTLERY, AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS AND PLANTATION SUPPLIES.
TINNERS' STOCK AND TOOLS.
HEATING AND COOKING STOVES.
MANUFACTURERS OF TIN AND JAPANNED WARE.
89 & 91 CAMP STREET,
527 MAGAZINE STREET,
WAREHOUSE 111, 113 & 115 MAGAZINE ST.,
NEW ORLEANS.
New York Office, 56 Chambers St.

SOLE AGENTS FOR
Star Rubber and Sterling Co.'s Warranted Steel & Wood Fast Reverse Wire Hames, Annunciator Shoes, Excelsior Lawn Mowers, Victor Brass and Copper Cut, Vertical and Cross Saws, Fowler's Patent Cane Seats for Windsor Saddles, Kidder's Shoeing Screws, Wood Pumps.
CELEBRATED
CHARTER OAK STOVES

DR. HOFFMAN'S
BLOOD AND LIVER PILLS,
Are a perfect cure for all Scrofulous affections of the Blood and Liver, Ulcers, Humors, Boils, Pimples, Blotches, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Erysipelas, Chronic Sore Eyes, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Female Irregularities, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Piles, Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Intermittent Fever, Bilious Fever, Remittent Fever, Typhoid Fever, Yellow Fever, Malarial Fever, Dumb Ague, Fever and Ague Cake, Fever Sores, Worms, Worm Fever, Colic, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, Summer Complaint, Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Nausea, Vomiting, Loss of Appetite, Indigestion, Flatulency, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Nervousness, Nervous Debility, Nervous Headache, Nervous Prostration, Nervous Irritability, Hysteria, Hypochondria, Mental Depression, Loss of Memory, Sleeplessness, Dizziness, Drowsiness, Coldness of the Extremities, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision, Pain in the Head, Back and Limbs, Female Weakness, Leucorrhœa, Prolapsus, Falling of the Womb, Suppressed, Painful and Irregular Menstruation, Spermatorrhœa, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Sexual Debility, Kidney Complaints, Dropsy, Gravel, Inflammation of the Bladder, Urinary Difficulties, Stone in the Bladder, Diseases of the Prostate Gland, Retention of Urine, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Pain in the Region of the Kidneys, Female Complaints, Nervous Complaints, Blood Diseases, Liver Complaints, Kidney Complaints, Urinary Complaints, Skin Diseases, Bladder Complaints, Sexual Complaints, Diseases of the Blood, Diseases of the Liver, Diseases of the Kidneys, Diseases of the Bladder, Diseases of the Skin, Diseases of the Sexual Organs, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, Diseases of the Nervous System, Diseases of the Digestive Organs, Diseases of the Reproductive Organs, Diseases of the Generative Organs, Diseases of the Female Organs, Diseases of the Male Organs, Diseases of the Urinary System, Diseases of the Digestive System, Diseases of the Nervous Organs, Diseases of the Blood and Liver, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Diseases of the Skin and Blood, Diseases of the Liver and Kidneys, Diseases of the Bladder and Urinary Organs, Diseases of the Nervous System and Digestive Organs, Diseases of the Reproductive and Generative Organs, Diseases of the Female and Male Organs, Diseases of the Urinary and Digestive Systems, Diseases of the Nervous and Digestive Organs, Diseases of the Blood, Liver and Kidneys, Diseases of the Bladder and Urinary Organs, Diseases of the Nervous System and Digestive Organs, Diseases of the Reproductive and Generative Organs, Diseases of the Female and Male Organs, Diseases of the Urinary and Digestive Systems, Diseases of the Nervous and Digestive Organs.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

(Trade Mark.)
SPAVIN, SPLINT, CURB, RINGBONE, ENLARGEMENTS, ETC.,
PROMPTLY CURED.
DOES NOT BLISTER OR BLEMISH.
Price, Two Dollars per Bottle.
Send for Illustrated Circular of Special Cures on record.
SPAVIN CURE OFFICE,
No. 50 Sudbury Street,
BOSTON, MASS.
For Sale by all Druggists.

CURE FOR THE ROGERS' POWDER
CITRATE OF MAGNESIA
This preparation is recommended by the Medical Profession for all complaints such as Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, etc. It is one of the best known preparations extant. Favorite medicine for children. Always keep it in the house.
A. ROGERS' SONS, Chemists,
New York.
For Sale by all New Orleans Druggists.

NEW RICH BLOOD!
PARSON'S PURGATIVE PILLS make New Rich Blood, and will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take one each night from one to twelve weeks may be restored to sound health, unless such a thing be possible. Sold everywhere or sent by mail for eight letter stamps.
I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Bangor, Me.

PRICES CURRENT

IN

THE NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY

☞ Correspondents should bear in mind that our quotations represent prices for round lots, and in filling small orders higher rates must be paid.

GROCERIES.

Butter, ₩ lb.:
Western creamery, fancy	38	40
New York, choice	30	32
Coffee, ₩ lb.:
Rio, fair	16¼	— —
Rio, good	16¾	— —
Rio, prime	17⅛	— —
Candles, ₩ lb.:
Star, best brands	12½	— —
Corn Meal, ₩ bbl.:
Choice	2.25	2.35
Cheese, ₩ lb.:
Factory	— —	— —
N. Y. cream and English dairy	15	16
Fish:
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in bbls	— —	9 75
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in kits	— —	1 25
Sardines, quarter boxes	— —	— —
Flour, ₩ bbl.:
Superfine	— —	— —
XX	5 25	— —
XXX	6 25	6 50
Choice XXX	6 75	6 87½
Choice family	— —	— —
Fruits:
Dried apples, ₩ lb	5	7
Dried peaches, ₩ lb	6	7
Raisins, ₩ quarter box	70	— —
Raisins, ₩ half box	1 40	1 70
Raisins, ₩ whole box	2 25	2 30
Bananas, ₩ bunch	75	1 25
Crackers, ₩ lb.:
Soda	8	9
Butter	8	9
Sugar	8½	9
Gingernuts	9	12½
Oil:
Coal, in cases, best	21	22
Coal, in barrels, best	19	20
Insurance, in cases	— —	40
Insurance, in barrels	— —	35
Lard, in barrels, best	75	— —
Molasses, in barrels.
Common	23	27
Fair	30	32
Prime to choice	33	36
Golden and Roquet sirups	— —	— —
Half bbls. 5c. and kegs 10c. more.
Rice, Louisiana, ₩ lb.:
No. 2	4½	4¾
Ordinary	6¼	6¾
Fair	6¾	7⅛
Prime to choice	7¾	7¾
Soap, ₩ box:
XXX Palm	3 50	— —
Keller's magnolia	2 61	— —
Keller's olive	2 51	— —
Starch, ₩ lb.	3½	3¾
Salt, in sacks:
Fine	1 30	1 35
Coarse	90	92½
Sugar:
Good fair	6½	6¾
Prime	7	— —
Choice	— —	— —
Yellow clarified	— —	— —
Off whites	— —	— —
Crushed	— —	— —
Powdered	— —	— —
Spices, ₩ lb.:
Allspice	15	— —
Pepper	13	14
Cloves	45	— —
Cinnamon	— —	— —
Tea, ₩ lb.:
Black Oolong	27½	1 10
Green Imperial	80	90
Tobacco:
Low grade	3 00	3½
Medium	4 00	4½
Good to fine	5 00	6 00
Low leaf	3 00	4½
Medium	5 00	6½
Good	8 00	9 00
Fine	10 00	12 00
Selections	9 00	60

GRAIN AND FEED.

Corn, ₩ bushel:
Yellow	50	— —
White	— —	— —
Mixed	46	— —
Oats, ₩ bushel:
St. Louis	— —	— —
Texas	— —	— —
Salina	50	— —
Bran, choice, ₩ 100 lbs	80	— —
Hay, ₩ ton:
Prime	21 00	— —
Ordinary	— —	— —
Cow Peas:
Whippoorwill	— —	— —
Mixed	— —	— —
Clay	— —	— —

PROVISIONS.

Bacon, ₩ lb.:
Breakfast	8½	9
Shoulders	6	6½
Sides, clear rib	8	— —
Sides, clear	8	— —
Hams, sugar-cured	11	11
Mess Pork, ₩ bbl	13 75	14 00
Dry Salted Meat:
Shoulders	5	— —
Lard, ₩ lb:
Choice, in kegs and pails	8½	9
Choice, in tierces and barrels	8	8½

ESCULENTS.

Potatoes, ₩ bbl	1 50	2 00
Onions, ₩ bbl	3 75	— —
Apples, ₩ bbl	1 00	5 00
Cabbages, ₩ crate	3 00	— —

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Poultry, ₩ dozen:
Old chickens	3 75	— —
Young	— —	2 50
Ducks	— —	— —
Geese	5 00	6 00
Turkeys	8 00	10 00
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western	18	20
Louisiana	22	25

WOOL.

Burry	9	13
Louisiana clear	17	21
Lake, clear	30	32

BALING STUFFS.

Bagging:
India	— —	— —
Jute	10½	11
Twine, hemp	12	— —

PUNCH CAKE AND OTHER FANCY CAKES.—Make in the regular way, only add a teaspoonful of Kingsford's Baking Powder. You will have better cakes than your neighbors.

GOOD FOR BABIES.

We are pleased to say that our baby was permanently cured, of a serious profound irregularity of the bowels by the use of Rob Bivers by its mother, which at the same time restored her to perfect health and strength.—The Parents' University, Ave., Rochester, N. Y. See another column.—Adv.

VASELINE.

You may hunt the world over and still will not find
A need of the household, which brings to the mind
The likes of value, more plain to be seen
Than jelly-cum-jelly, the famed Vaseline.

If a cut or a scratch, or a wound or a burn
From pearl to confusion, the household shall turn,
On the shelf should be found the box of all-pain,
And quiet shall reign in the household again.

If our dearest and fairest are kissed by the sun,
And the touch of his lips is too rough to be borne,
Find Vaseline comes as an ally he wots,
And the cheek takes on velvet it had not else seen.

If the voice it is husky, the throat it is sore,
Take the jelly at once, and the trouble is o'er,
In fact read the circular, and from it glean
All the virtue and claims of the famed Vaseline.

Joseph Mitchell Boiler Yard,
C. J. WALTON, Proprietor.
Manufacturer of all kinds of
STEAM BOILERS,
Lard, Coal Oil, Water and Locomotive Tanks, Sugar and Plantation Boilers a Specialty.
No. 407 N. S. MAIN STREET,
Bet. Twelfth and Thirteenth.
LOUISVILLE, KY.

COMMERCIAL.

ADVOCATE OFFICE,
NEW ORLEANS, Monday, Dec. 8, 1879.

COTTON.

The market opened under the depressing influence of a decline in futures at New York, and sales were made at 12c. for strict low middling and 12⅛c. for middling, indicating a decline of ⅛c., but on the sharp rally reported by later telegrams prices have hardened, and middling is now quoted at 12⅛@12⅜c., with a leaning to the outside figures. Sales thus far, 3 200 bales.

The following is the official closing of the Cotton Exchange:

	To-Day.	Saturday
Low ordinary	.....	.....
Ordinary	11⅝	11⅝
Good ordinary	11¾	11¾
Low middling	12	12
Middling	12⅜	12⅜
Good middling	12⅝	12⅝
Middling fair	12⅞	12⅞

Sales to-day, 12 500 bales, Market opened easy; closed active and strong.

Receipts at United States ports, week ending Monday, December 8, 1879.

	Saturday.	Sunday and Monday.	This week last year
Galveston	3 526	6 877	26 816
New Orleans	11 903	9 297	71 370
Mobile	4 1 6	3 955	26 924
Savannah	5 012	7 548	26 197
Charleston	3 619	5 251	24 [illegible]
Wilmington	7 2	1 359	2 967
Norfolk	3 842	4 301	16 801
Baltimore	118	395	783
New York	850	3 170	5 822
Boston	1 774	1 165	3 021
Philadelphia	311	200	1 [illegible]
Various	.....	.....	10 891
Total	36 046	44 236	219 215

FUTURES.

The position of the market at New York may be seen by the following:

Middling.	To-day.	Saturday
January	13.55	12.77@13.35
February	13.80@13.81	13.26@13.60
March	14.06@14.08	13.77@13.79
April	14.15@14.20	13.90@13.95
May	14.30@14.35	14.10@14.11
June	14.45@14.50	14.24@14.25
July	14.55@14.57	14.38@14.39
August	14.60@14.63	14.50@14.50
September	.....	.....
October	.....	.....
November	.....	.....
December	13.31@13.33	13.26@13.28

Sales, 166 000 bales. Market firm.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WM. G. LHOTE. A. SAMUELS

LHOTE & CO,
OLD BASIN
SASH, BLIND,
DOOR FACTORY,
AND
Lumber Yard,
Offices, Cor. Toulouse & Franklin and 32 Carondelet Sts.,
P. O. Box 836. NEW ORLEAN

X-MAS.
Church & Co.'s
CHRISTMAS SELECTIONS
For 1879.

Six beautiful Carols by the best writers of sacred song better than ever for Sunday-Schools, Choirs and the Home Circle.

Price, $4 per hundred; Single copies 5 cents.

"CHURCHES MUSICAL VISITOR,"
A SUPERB NUMBER.

The Holiday Number is the most attractively ever published. Contains original articles from acknowledged the greatest writers on musical topics. Handsomely Illustrated Poems by Rev. —, and full page engraving of "Good Time Coming." The most melodious X-Mas songs ever published, Carols, Anthems and Sanctuary Music, also the popular Sunday-School song, "THE DAY WE SING OF LITTLE ROBERT," Music published in this No. is worth $1, and a lovely Wreath and Cross in gold and color. A rare gift for Music-lovers. Price 25 cents; Subscription, 41 cts a year with premium.

☞ To cause to send for the Holiday Visitor and have it sent to musical friends. Address

JOHN CHURCH & CO.,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
Or 19 Broadway, N. Y.

FANCY GOODS! FANCY GOODS!

SCHILLING'S
Millinery Emporium, Hair Work
AND
FANCY GOODS BAZAR,
159 CANAL STREET 159

The assortment comprises the very latest styles in Millinery Materials, Hats and Bonnets.

HAIR GOODS of every description, and the most choice to select from in the city. Ears, Combs Brushes, Dressing Cases, Shell and Fancy Card Cases, Vienna Gilt Ornaments, Perfumeries and Fancy Goods.

Your attention is particularly directed to my

NOVELTIES

in Imitation Shell Ivory and Pearl JET GOODS.

MILLINERY ARTICLES AND HAIR WORK.

G. T. SCHILLING,
159 CANAL STREET.

Popular Music Books.

TEMPERANCE JEWELS. New Temperance Songs of the best quality. Thirty cents. (Nearly ready.)

WHITE ROBES. The Sweetest Sabbath School Song Book ever made. Thirty cents.

GEM GLEANER. Superior collection of Anthems for Church service. $1 00.

PRODIGAL SON. A grand Cantata. By SULLIVAN. Commended to Musical Societies. Seventy-five cents.

AMERICAN GLEE BOOK. Mixed Voices. One of the very best Glee and Chorus Books. $1 50.

EMERSON'S VOCAL METHOD. For Voice Training. One of the very best. $1 50.

DR. OF ALCANTARA. Fine Opera. Good Music and easy to give. $1 50.

☞ Specimens of these or any other books, or any piece of Sheet Music mailed anywhere, post free, for the retail price.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston,
C. H. DITSON & CO.
843 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

T. W. BOTHICK,
UNDERTAKER,
OFFICE, 271 CAMP STREET,
STABLES, 272 MAGAZINE STREET.
Embalming and disinterring bodies. Bodies carefully shipped. Carriages for hire.
FUNERALS STRICT ATTENTION. ☞

Episcopal Appointments for 1879.

CONFERENCE.	PLACE.	BISHOP.	TIME.
S. Georgia	Perry	Doggett	Dec. 13
Texas	Austin	McTyeire	Dec. 10
Little Rock	Camden	Pierce	Dec. 10
Louisiana	Baton Rouge	Keener	Dec. 10
Florida	Tallahasse	Doggett	Dec. 17
S. Carolina	Charleston	Wightman	Dec. 17
Mississippi	Meridian	Kavanaugh	Dec. 17
Alabama	Tuskegee	Paine	Dec. 17
Baltimore	Front Royal	Keener	Mar. 5

Bishop McTyeire has charge of the Mission in China.

Bishop Keener has charge of the Missions in Brazil and Mexico.

Quarterly Appointments.

NORTH ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

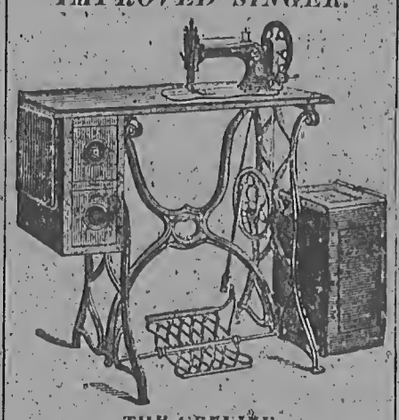
FLORENCE DIST.—FIRST ROUND

Chickasaw circuit, at Mt. Zion ..... Dec. 27, 28
Valley station, at Pine Grove 29
Frankfort circuit, at Farwell ..... Jan. 3, 4
Burleson miss., at N. Reid's schoolhouse 8
Colbert taliaha, at New Hope 6, 11
Tuscumbia station 12
Florence station 13
Oakland circuit, at Reserve 17, 18
Waterloo circuit, at Waterloo 19, 20
Cypress circuit, at Pisgah 24, 25
Shoal circuit, at Harrison Chapel ..... Jan. 31, Feb. 1
Leighville circuit, at Moss Chapel ..... Feb. 7, 8
Rogersville mission, at Rogersville 9

The District Stewards will please meet me at Tuscumbia at the Methodist church, at 10 o'clock A. M., December 25. The prompt attendance of every member of the board is all important.

50 S. A. TIMMONS, P. E.

BEWARE OF
Imitation Machines
Offered by second-hand dealers as
IMPROVED SINGER.



THE GENUINE
SINGER MACHINE,
—MADE BY THE—
Singer Manufacturing Co.
HAS NO EQUAL.

2 500,000 Singers in Daily Use.

Two-thirds of all the machines sold in the United States are those made by

The Singer Company,
Send for Circular and Price List. Address
The Singer Manufacturing Co.,
85 CANAL STREET,
Agent's for Butterick's Patterns.

DANZIGER'S,
No. 131 Canal Street,
GRAND OPENING
OF
Fall and Winter Dry Goods
Comprising as ever, Full Line of FINE GOODS; also medium, low priced and

PLANTATION GOODS

Of all descriptions at prices that will surprise you.

We respectfully invite our friends and customers and the public to an inspection of the most beautiful and complete stock we have ever had to this market, and promise the same old and prompt attention.

Do not fail to visit our Parlor Stores up stairs and examine our

ELEGANT CLOAKS,
LADIES' SUITS,
UNDERWEAR,
Etc., Etc., Etc.

Samples sent on application to all parts of the country free of charge.

DANZIGER'S,
No. 131 Canal Street.

Established 1838.
JOHN GAUCHE,
MORESQUE BUILDING,
CAMP STREET,
Branch House, 130 Chartres Street,
IMPORTER
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
Plain White,
Gold Band and Decorated
CHINA,
Parian and Biscuit Statuettes and Busts.
A Full Line of Barcarat & Bohemian
GLASSWARE.
A FULL ASSORTMENT OF
MAJOLICA, CLOCKS, LOOKING GLASSES AND HOUSEFURNISHING GOODS.
GLASS SHADES IN GREAT VARIETY,
AT VERY LOW PRICES.
Call and See.

SOLUTION OF TRIBASIC PHOSPHATE OF LIME
IN
COD LIVER OIL.
The only medicine warranted by Letters Patent in the U. S., No. 154,746, obtained by Dr. Hava, in July, 1873.
DR. HAVA,
99 & 101 St. Charles street.
New Orleans.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

AT PHILIP
WERLEIN'S
PIANO
WAREROOMS,
135 . CANAL STREET . 135

Can be found,

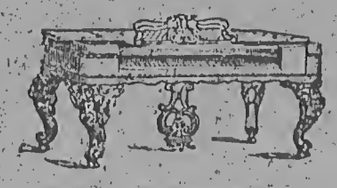
THE LARGEST STOCK OF INSTRUMENTS to select from in New Orleans. The attention of parties wishing to purchase strictly first-class Pianos is called to the following:

The Chickering & Son's Upright and Square Grand Pianos.

They stand only as crowning the culmination of artists of our own country, but command praise in Europe, where they have been awarded Prize Medals. They have received and do now command the highest encomiums of the masters of the country from their unrivalled powers, delicacy of touch, singing quality over all other Pianos. A large assortment of them in ACTION and TONE, with case of purest and richest styles of rosewood. They are the best of music.

—THE—
MATHUSHEK PIANO

It is gratifying to record the unprecedented success it has met with in these Pianos. Relying solely on their intrinsic merits, they have never had an agent, but are sold entirely through the recommendation of those of taste and magnificence of finish have won the most flattering encomiums, and elicited the enthusiastic admiration of all who have seen and listened to them. Orders from abroad are promptly received, executed, and entire satisfaction given.



A full assortment of the Popular
HALE UPRIGHT PIANOS
HALE UPRIGHT PIANOS,
BEAUTIFUL IN TONE,
RICH IN DESIGN OF CASE,

have in them the very latest and best improvements of the day, and are to be fully warranted as being just what they represent.

Second-Hand Pianos Taken in Exchange.

Instruments Sold on Installments.

Every Instrument Warranted.

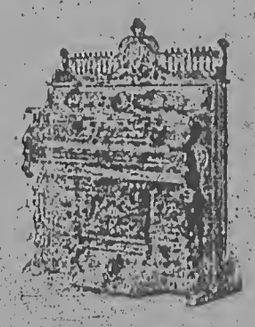
The best Wood and Iron STOOLS in the market.
PIANO COVERS of every description.
Descriptive catalogues sent free to any address.

OPEN EVENINGS.

PHILIP WERLEIN,
135 CANAL STREET.

Dealer in Sheet Music, Instruction Books, Importer of Musical Instruments of every description and Maker.

Invoices just received per steamers Nurnberg and Teutonia.
Second-hand Pianos for sale.



The much admired
Estey & Co., Mason & Hamlin
ORGANS.
are now in the market. These with many other first-class Organs, of various styles and prices, in their warerooms, can be seen and heard. The best evidence of appreciation is the growing demand for them.

To meet the great demand for Pianos, I have added the following first class Pianos to my stock:

The Gabler,
Grovesteen & Fuller
and Hardman.

They are Pianos of highest standard, finely finished and are to be fully warranted as being just what they represent.

Second-Hand Pianos Taken in Exchange.

Instruments Sold on Installments.

Every Instrument Warranted.

The best Wood and Iron STOOLS in the market.
PIANO COVERS of every description.
Descriptive catalogues sent free to any address.

OPEN EVENINGS.

PHILIP WERLEIN,
135 CANAL STREET.

Dealer in Sheet Music, Instruction Books, Importer of Musical Instruments of every description and Maker.

Invoices just received per steamers Nurnberg and Teutonia.
Second-hand Pianos for sale.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LARGEST AND MOST POPULAR
MUSIC HOUSE IN THE SOUTH.

Easiest Terms

Lowest Prices

General Agency for the celebrated
STEINWAY, KNABE, PLEYEL, FISCHER PIANOS
And the Popular Organs of
CLOUGH & WARREN AND PELOUBET, PELTON & CO.
Everything in the Music line at rock bottom prices. Send for illustrated catalogues.
LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
Grunewald Hall, New Orleans.

YALE & BOWLING,
IMPORTERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN
- DRY GOODS -
NOTIONS AND MILLINERY,
17, 19 and 21 - Magazine Street, - 17, 19 and 21
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

WARRINGTON STEEL PEN CO.'S STEEL PENS.

EQUAL IN QUALITY TO ANY

THAT CAN BE PRODUCED.

Office: 105 and 107 N. Fifth St., Philadelphia.
For Sale by Lathrop & Wilkins, 112 Camp street, N. O.

E. OFFNER,
No 171 Canal Street, Between Baronne and Dryades.
DIRECT IMPORTER OF
FRENCH, ENGLISH AND AMERICAN
CHINA AND EARTHENWARE
GLASSWARE, CUTLERY, WOODENWARE, TINWARE.
THE FINEST QUALITY OF
SILVER PLATEDWARE A SPECIALITY.
LOOK AT THESE PRICES FOR OUR AMERICAN CHINA:

Dinner, Breakfast and Tea sets comprising in all 130 pieces, for	$15 00
Real French China Dinner Sets, 115 pieces	20 00
Stone China Dinner set, 124 pieces	12 00
Decorated Chamber Sets, 10 pieces	1 50
Good Glass Goblets, per dozen	60
All other goods in proportion.

All orders addressed to E. OFFNER will receive prompt and careful attention. Make no mistake in the number. Entrance on Dryades.

E. OFFNER,
171 Canal Street, Between Baronne and Dryades.

THE DIEBOLD
SAFES.

A large and complete assortment of these Celebrated SAFES on hand and for sale at prices to suit the times. Parties selecting anything in our line are respectfully solicited to address the undersigned for estimates, etc., and feels confident of being able to give them satisfaction, both as regards price and quality of work.

A. ROY, Agent,
DIEBOLD SAFE & LOCK CO.,
27 Canal St., New Orleans, La.

O. P. ALFORD
M. V. THOMSON
W. C. BEATTIE
M. C. ALFORD

ROBT. E. LEE
Sale and Feed Stables,
129 to 135 Baronne St.,
NEW ORLEANS.
ALFORD, BEATTIE & CO., Proprietors
DEALERS IN
Kentucky Mules and Horses
Constantly on hand a large stock of fine Mules and Horses, which we offer at reasonable prices. Call and see us.

LOUIS WEISHAAR,
Importer & Dealer in
French Calf Skins, Patent Leather,
Sole Leather and Findings,
93 ADELOUSE STREET 93
Between Rampart and Dauphine,
NEW ORLEANS.

COMMON SENSE
Will teach you to get your
TRUSSES
AND BRACES
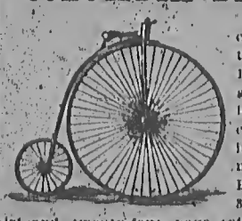
Where they are made and fitted.
The best Trusses in the country, other country, from One Dollar up. Call at
H. SPIELMANN'S,
93 Baronne Street, New Orleans.

STAINED GLASS
FOR CHURCHES
Manufactured by
GEO. A. MISCH,
217 East Washington st.
Chicago, Ills.

COLUMBIA BICYCLE.



A practical machine for all except the old and infirm. Better than a horse as it eats no oats because on it you can ride more miles in a day over common roads than a horse can go. Send 3c. stamp for price list and twenty four page catalogue with testimonials and full information.

THE POPE MANUF'G CO.,
Summer St., Boston, Mass.

THE DIEBOLD COAL. COAL.
WHOLESALE & RETAIL.
PLANTERS IN NEED OF
GOOD PITTSBURG COAL
Is hereby informed that we are supplied at the LOWEST MARK OF RATES. Our coal is superior to any coal ever before offered in this market, and we defy competition. Orders from the planters solicited.
W. G. COYLE & CO.,
33 Carondelet Street.

LYNCH & GOMIEN,
Manufacturers of Pianos,
1321 BROADWAY cor 25th Street.
NEW YORK.

TESTIMONIALS FROM WELL KNOWN PERSONS.

Extract of letter from Wm. H. Aid, Mus. Editor Tribune.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21, 1878.
Messrs. LYNCH & GOMIEN:
Gentlemen,—I am very much pleased with the Piano you made for me. It is a fine, full, rich toned instrument, and I have seen and heard no Piano in the house of double its beauty and power. Many thanks for the excellent care you have taken and improvement in the instrument. We wish you success, as you deserve it. Be kind enough to send me your Catalogue and Price List. Yours truly, WM. H. AID.

St. James Hotel, Nov. 27, 1878.
Messrs. LYNCH & GOMIEN:
Gentlemen,—I am happy to be able to say that your Piano is one of the very best I have ever had the pleasure of hearing. It is a perfect singing instrument, and I feel sure it will give entire satisfaction wherever it may be placed. Yours truly, ANTHONY REMMER.
Professor of Music, St. Mary's Dominican College, Professor of Music, St. Joseph's Convent, &c., &c.

Extract of letter from Wm. H. Aid, Mus. Editor Tribune.
NEW YORK, May 1, 1878.
Messrs. LYNCH & GOMIEN:
Gentlemen,—I am very happy to say your Pianos I am happy in commending to the notice of my friends. Your instrument fills a place which I have long desired to see filled, and it gives me much pleasure to commend them to the public. Yours truly, CAMILA URSO.

Extract of letter from W. H. Aid, Mus. Editor Tribune.
We are delighted with the Piano. The tone is loud, strong and full, yet soft and mellow.

FRANTZ & OPITZ,
Diamond Setters
AND
Jewelers,
26 ROYAL ST.,
bet. Iberville & Conti
NEW ORLEANS.

WILLIAM BURNS,
Old Virginia Kitchen,
No. 75 CAMP STREET,
Meals and Rooms by the Day or Week, on the European Plan.
Meals at all Hours of the Day.

THE ORIGINAL
Superintendent of Dr. Bly and Lewis Lockwood of New Orleans.
A. McDERMOTT,
Has returned and established the business of manufacturing Dr. Bly's patent
ARTIFICIAL
Arms and Legs,
and has purchased the sole right for the Southern States. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed in all cases or no pay. Prices greatly reduced.
A. McDERMOTT,
208 Camp Street, N. O.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 25. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1879. NO. 51.

The Christian Advocate.

ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
G. T. LATHROP, Publisher.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address all matters of business, G. T. LATHROP, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication, REV. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. FELIX R. HILL.
REV. H. D. MOORE.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. J. O. JONES.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS, D. D.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.
REV. CHRISTIAN KEENER.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate will be furnished to subscribers at the following rates including postage:

One Year	$2 00
Six Months	1 00
Three Months	50

To all Ministers of the Gospel and widows of deceased traveling preachers:

One Year	$1 00
Six Months	50
Three Months	25

FLOWER OF GRASS.

The graceful ease that lies in lily-like poise—
When love is all it is not, you saw in her.
No color, but soft tints in lovely blend—
A charm which fled when each damsel was gone.
Like light on a passing cloud. All whom
The fairy fates bloomed on you alone.
We, through the softening of their prisoning them
Into their book had sober-ing girlish growth—
Some tender roses had faded in the air—
A loss sensibly to us all-real.
The thought was, indeed, that all to-day was there.
The future of such souls is to be blind.
To self, and to self-seeking; let them plead
Their life as harmony and atmosphere
With other lives—let them but have a friend
Whose merit they suspect not, or to fear,
And they are colder than many graves,
Or drains of their own separate happiness.
Earth, we, don't we, will, at such cost as hers
Even at the rose and its might we there
She was the flower of grace, that only pays
To sing the rose, and melt each other's fire
But to forget us in the doing good;
One of life's lowly, saintly saint jade.

—Sunday Afternoon.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

LOS PINOS AGENCY, Colo., Dec. 10. Chief Ouray came to the agency yesterday, with one of the Indians called for by the commission, and turned him over to Gen. Hatch, remarking that the others would be surrendered as soon as captured. The Work of the commission will end this week.

It will be remembered that the White river agency, the establishment of that agency, distributed between Los Pinos and the southern agency. That the loss of property occasioned by the outbreak be paid from out of the funds now on deposit at Washington, and that a portion of the property formerly occupied by the White River Utes be ceded to the government.

PETERSBURG, Va., Dec. 12. In accordance with the rules adopted by the board of trade, all markets and public houses in this city were closed to-day for the month. Their closing ended the fact for the State to fail to comply with its pledges to support the Hawkins fund out of the taxes. The board of trade will not be given until next week.

BOSTON, Dec. 13. Bishop Gilbert Haven, of the Methodist Episcopal church, died this afternoon.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11. The Herald's Panama correspondent says: Admiral Rodgers has left Callao with the Alliance, and the Pensacola, and Lancaster will follow. The Peruvian fleet will be increased to seven vessels. Chili has also increased her fleet. Peru has been unable to purchase vessels in Europe. Chili has purchased two vessels in England, and has also purchased the Huascar, which was captured by Admiral Grau during the war between Peru and Chili.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11. The Herald's Panama correspondent says: Admiral Rodgers has left Callao with the Alliance, and the Pensacola, and Lancaster will follow. The Peruvian fleet will be increased to seven vessels. Chili has also increased her fleet. Peru has been unable to purchase vessels in Europe. Chili has purchased two vessels in England, and has also purchased the Huascar, which was captured by Admiral Grau during the war between Peru and Chili.

LONDON, Dec. 13. A Berlin dispatch to the Pall Mall Gazette says: The Catholic clergy have refused the government's concessions allowing them to supervise religious instruction in the schools. They claim they themselves should actually give instruction, as before the enactment of the Falk laws.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—Ayoub Khan, governor of Herat, left that city a fortnight ago with his troops, with the intention of attacking the British at Candahar.

The correspondent of the Times at Candahar says the natives of that district will unite with the British if necessary to resist the Herales.

FIELD NOTES.

ALABAMA.

ELMORE CIRCUIT, ALA., Nov. 28.—I am now on my last round on the circuit for this year. Will close December 14. I have added two appointments to the circuit this year, which will be eleven for the new year. A good size work for two young men. Have nearly completed a good parsonage; hope to have it ready for the preacher by the new year. When finished it will be one of the best on any circuit in the district. Health of the church good; five deaths out of 450 members. This is a fine country, healthy, productive, adapted to all kinds of grain and cotton. It only needs the church to feel her duty to herself and God to make it one of the finest counties of the State. Our beloved presiding elder is doing much in this section to elevate the church to a higher sense of duty. We have in the bounds of this county two other appointments. At Wetumpka Chas. Williams is a zealous, faithful and efficient worker, loved and appreciated by his charge. John Berry is at Tallassee; has done a noble work this year in building up the church. The spiritual condition of the circuit is improving. Finances short. Collections ordered by the Conference are behind. Not as many Advocates taken as should be. Where they are taken I and they are more liberal and prompt to duty. May the Lord direct our affairs another year where we, as His servants, do the most good.

FRANK H. WARDLAW.

COATOPA, ALA., Nov. 29. The present closes our third year on the Coosa circuit, Alabama Conference, with a better wind up than the two preceding. A good revival at each appointment. Increase in membership not very large, but the church greatly strengthened and more firmly established in the confidence and appreciation of the people. Finances will come up very well. Our new church at York Station is in process of erection. Crops good. Farmers well advanced in gathering and getting to market.

J. M. PATTON.

MISSISSIPPI.

WATER VALLEY, Miss., Nov. 27.—Last Sunday ended my year's work on the Charleston circuit, Grenada district, North Mississippi Conference. I can truly say we have had a "good old time." I have all my collections ready for Conference. My people supported me liberally, and God has blessed my ministry this year. I report 85 conversions, 108 accessions to the church, and my charge is a healthy spiritual condition at all points. Next week I am going to Conference, praying the Master to send me where I will accomplish most good the next year.

W. F. PHILLIPS, P. C.

GREENVILLE, Miss., Nov. 28. Year now ended. Though only a few conversions, yet every interest of the church is in good condition. All assessments more than paid; some of them twice over; large improvement on parsonage. College about gross of debt. Never saw business better; nearly one hundred business houses in a constant rush. Have had goodly Lever saw. I was made to go up to the mercy-seat on Deer Creek, adjoining Arcola, in July; very one a dozen to be converted. In 16 toker, at Friar's Point, two to one addition. This district has grown this year nearly double. Nearly all business was suspended on the twenty-seventh for Thanksgiving service, unusual for this place.

A. L. PETRELL.

KOSCIUSKO, Miss., Nov. 29. During the year there has been an increase of over fifty per cent. In consideration of this charge, Crops are not considered good, but the people are cheerfully responding to the financial claims of the conference, and of the assessments, I think will be fully met.

JAS. W. WILKINS.

ENTERPRISE, Miss., Dec. 1. From the ninth to the fourteenth of November I held a meeting in this place, which, so far as conversions and accessions were concerned, was a failure. On the sixteenth we began a meeting at Pachuta, which lasted two weeks, with large results. Brother and others, we hope, will secure accessions to our work and strengthen church at this place. The first meeting Bro. Hines and the Second Bro. Wells gave us valuable assistance. The son and the glory divine God's. We secured a subscription of $100 to help Pachuta church.

J. F. RICHARDS.

BOONEVILLE, Miss., Dec. 1. This circuit has over two hundred and fourteen members, including a small colony of Germans. Have received forty or fifty conversions, about forty additions, assessments nearly paid, and good prospect. Spiritual condition moderate. Crops and health good. Farmers and merchants forward. Have been getting in the woods, and will be able to do an extended work. We hope soon to see the people interested in their own and their property and the glory revived in their power.

T. ROWAN, P. C.

WINONA, Miss., Dec. 2. Have just closed my second year on the Wilson circuit. In all I endeavored to give no offense, for my success, which has been very nearly unparalleled, would be found in many articles in the way of a living free of charge. We have enjoyed many spiritual seasons of the presence of the Lord. Nineteen have been added to the church on profession of faith this year. Seventy-five souls have been purified. Cotton good. Corn short. Health good.

A. WALKLEY.

LOUISIANA.

LOGANSPORT, Mission, La., Nov. 29. The fourth quarterly Conference was held at Reynolds' Schoolhouse, November 29, 1879, the presiding elder being present. The pastor reported for the quarter twenty-seven sermons, sixty-eight visits; collections reported, $11; for Missions, $11. Also the preliminary steps were being taken to build several churches but one—the one of the Board of Stewards was present, and he a resident one. What can pastors do for when their officials refuse to co-operate with them? We pray for charity.

J. PIPES.

CLINTON, La., Dec. 2. Our region passed all more quietly than any I ever saw. No disturbance of any kind heard of. Our farmers have generally finished gathering their crops. Fields all open. Some cases of sickness. Weather fine. Busy getting up reports for Conference. Conference and missionary collections in full. Other dunnes behind, yet with promises of full amounts, if possible.

T. H. HOLLOMAN.

HOUSTON, La., Dec. 4. I send this from the Cotile circuit, Shreveport district, Louisiana Conference. This is a new circuit. This is the first year. This circuit is southwest, west and northwest of the Cotile Landing, on Red river, embracing a part of Rapides, Vernon and Natchitoches parishes; a pine woods region. Have had some interesting meetings; twenty-three accessions to the church; baptized three adults and four children; three of the old members died—one brother and two sisters. They died in peace. Spiritually, this circuit is improving. Financially, but little done. Crops are short. Health has not been very good. People are poor, but kind, upright and industrious.

J. A. MONROE, P. C.

False Estimates of Ministerial Efficiency.

BY REV. E. P. BIRCH (ALA. CONF.)

CONCLUDED.

2. Another false standard is ministerial popularity. It need scarcely be stated that this point is to be taken with some conservative limitations. The favor and appreciation which come to the way-worn and weary itinerant from the consciousness of duty done, and of a faithful and earnest ministry, can be but a grateful recompense to us all. Yea, more! it is but a just and proper tribute to ministerial usefulness and fidelity, and cannot fail to act as a stimulus and encouragement to the humble and true who minister in holy things. But is mere popularity a true test of ministerial usefulness and efficiency? If so, it is a sad case with the prophets and apostles of the olden times, who endured a "great fight of afflictions" and persecutions for "righteousness' sake," and for the "testimony of Jesus." St. Paul, the greatest of apostles, was sometimes "accounted as the filth and offscouring of the earth," and his "bodily presence with some was weak and contemptible," and he was often hated and persecuted for his testimony to the truth. Even the Divine Master Himself "came unto His own, and His own received Him not." "He was as a root out of dry ground." "He was despised and rejected of men," and "persecuted and forsaken" even unto death. Besides this, such a test is opposed to the whole spirit of the gospel. We are to "endure hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ," submitting to be "hated of all men" for His sake. We are to seek not for the honor that cometh from men, but for the honor that cometh from God," for "My glory will I not give to another, saith the Lord." Ever let this become the established test of ministerial efficiency, and our holy, self-sacrificing ministry would soon degenerate into a set of time-serving sycophants, "sensational humbugs," or ecclesiastical demagogues. The temptations to self-seeking and worldly concessions are already wide-reaching and abundant. Almost any preacher can be popular if he will, only let him pay the price, and the boon is his. But dare we do this? Dare we stoop to become pulpit-men-pleasers, and cringing eye-servants, to win popular favor, even at the expense of ministerial fidelity? Are we to howl and cringe and flatter, and to become obedient slaves to the whims and caprices of men, in order to hold our own in the contest for popularity and ecclesiastical preferment? No "the people, indeed, make the appointments," as has sometimes been claimed in official circles? Shades of the mighty dead! of the grand old fathers of Methodism! has it come to this? Are our venerated Bishops but phantom figure heads, and our worthy presiding elders but mocking puppets, moved by the gabbling hand of popular dictation? Is our boasted itinerancy but a gossiping delusion, a "misguided humbug," and its heroic preachers only the passive agents and hired flunkies of public sentiment? Heaven forbid! We have not come to this, yet popularity outright, as the reward of a noble life and a faithful ministry, is a gracious thing, but when made the arbitrary test of ministerial efficiency, it is a snare and a delusion. If ever it comes to this then farewell to the glories of Methodism! The voice of the true prophets of God shall sound no more through her solemn courts, the lights shall have gone out from her deserted sconces, and the ashes heaped and scattered upon her desolate altars!

3. Another unsound test is long sermons, or short sermons. This, with some people and communities, seems to have possessed into a sort of ecclesiastical monomania, insomuch that with them the one sole virtue in a sermon is brevity, and the one unpardonable sin that of "preaching over thirty minutes." We do not propose to enter into this discussion, at least it is not the purpose of this article to do so. Let the people

After the fashion of La Mancha's "Flower of Chivalry," to make a stand at this formidable windmill, it is going about with zeal enough "to break lances." It is simply our design to glance at the subject very briefly, in the light of common sense, and to dispose of the notion more false and foolish than the dreams of romance. What are the facts then? Simply these: the length of a sermon must depend, of course, upon the character of the subject, the amount of thought or doctrine it contains, and the capacity of the preacher to discuss it. Some sermons are long at twenty minutes, others are short at sixty. We even know preachers master of his subject, and presents it with clearness and force, with brilliancy and power, who thinks of time? When another bungles through a cyclopean mass of undigested words, who does not devoutly wish him done in ten minutes or less? Much depends upon the man and the subject. Some men can interest an audience for any reasonable length of time, others cannot do so at all. Some subjects require clear and positive, broad analysis, profound argument, while illustration and explanation discussion. Can all this be done in twenty or thirty minutes? Are we to measure out the burning thoughts and glowing utterances of a soul on fire with the mighty truths of God like the merchant, his calico and tape by the yard; or like the engineer the speed of his locomotive by the flick of a clock? As well measure old ocean's crested billows with a mason's plumb-line, or the rainbow's gorgeous sweep with a carpenter's compass. The truth is this whole idle and silly ado about short sermons is a piece of contemptible nonsense, and is as degrading to those who make it as it is insulting to the ministry. There must be a very limited modicum of intelligence on either side—preacher and hearer. This short sermon mania is throwing contempt upon the word of God, by holding it as a sort of necessary evil, and to be accepted only in infinitesimal doses, the less of it the better, and, sugar-coated, to suit the taste; like the medicated globules in homœopathic pharmacy. It is certainly degrading the ministry by creating a very low standard of preaching, and taking away every incentive to thought and study, and reducing all preaching to the same level, regardless of all merits or deficiencies. Just so as it is short. The question is sometimes asked: "Why have we so few great preachers in these days?" The answer is plain: Because the people don't want them. They are becoming an extinct race, and no longer only as transition fossils of a departed age. The very term itself is almost becoming an epithet of reproach, and pathos and brevity are the order of the day. And yet, how much does Methodism owe to such men, and to their preaching. Who does not remember some sermons, grand, mighty, overwhelming, whose echoes still linger as imperishable memories of the soul, how like a lava stream of inspired eloquence they cleft their way to the hearts of men, even to "the pulling down of the strongholds of satan," and "the building up of the kingdom of God." One such sermon has done more lasting good than a whole year of tame, and commonplace preaching. And are such gifts to be discouraged, neglected and underrated by the church, and are they to be supplanted by weak, shallow, powerless preaching just because of its brevity. The whole truth is that the length of a sermon has nothing to do with its power and effectiveness, and whether short or long, we must "preach the gospel in demonstration of the Spirit and of power." We must, "as in sincerity," "declare the whole counsel of God," "not handling the word of God deceitfully, but by manifestation of the truth, commending ourselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God."

4. In conclusion we notice but one more false test, and that is the test of "financial ability." In the eyes of some, to be a good "financier," and to "bring up all the collections," is the sum total of all ministerial virtues. But is this true? Has the Heavenly Master ever made any such test? Of course it is a right thing to do, and would to God we could all bring up ten-fold more than we do to the treasury of the Lord! But when the preacher has done all he could, when he has begged and plead and importuned, even sometimes to the detriment of his own interests and popularity, "Is he to blame if the people will not pay the money?" If they are grasping, near, close, stingy, and won't pay, or poverty-stricken, unfortunate, and can't pay, it surely cannot be his fault. And yet he must bear the responsibility, and suffer reproach at the hands of the great apostles of a financial and statistical Christianity. Well, let us be patient, and God will show us some day that there are greater and nobler things to do, and things which He prizes more than collecting money, however important this may be. To each and all of us, in our several spheres, He has distributed our separate gifts and talents to improve, our life-work to do. Let us do it humbly and faithfully, not as "men-pleasers," but "in singleness of heart, fearing God;" and it may come out in the great day of God that many a neglected laborer, from obscure and humble places, and shunned even in Conference circles, will yet "shine forth as the stars, forever and ever," and thrill with rapture at the jubilant welcome that can never grow old: "Well done good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Honor and Aid the Methodist Steward.

His work is delicate, often difficult and disagreeable, while, in ignorance, it is sometimes odious to the preacher, to each church of the first service succeeding the Annual Conference, the preacher, on closing his sermon, call the Steward or Stewards elect. Let these stand before the people in the presence of the congregation. Let the preacher read, from the Discipline and Manual, passages relating to the character and work of stewards, and, presenting a copy of the church roll, let him invest them with the prerogatives, and charge them with the duties of the office of steward.

A quiet, such instruction of stewards there is no law. It will put more honor where honor belongs, on the men who bear the burden, and do the hard work of the church. It will call those men to register once their work. It will afford the preacher at the first time an opportunity to instruct his congregation in his duty to do in the scriptural duty of supporting the ministry. It will quicken before it is too late, in stewards and congregations, the sense of duty on this subject. And, where there is not the deadness of utter indifference, it will induce hopeful methods and promotion in this department of church work. Immense advantage is gained by a good start. Begin with the year. Only this will deliver us from the demoralizing and discreditable agonies enginred in the closing of the year by sixty many preachers, stewards and congregations.

Will the Mississippi Conference approve the installation of stewards, and furnish on slips, printed during the ensuing session, the form of service, in whole or in part, for the guidance of preachers?

JOHN A. ELLIS.

North Mississippi Conference.

MR. EDITOR: I send herewith a summary of the minor business of the North Mississippi Conference just closed. Water Valley displayed a princely hospitality in entertaining the Conference. Bishop Kavanaugh's bow abides in his strength, and he is dearer than ever to the members of this body. Our statistics show a net increase of over 2,000 members within our bounds, with 5,000 conversions during the year. Finances have improved greatly. Our missionary anniversary was a glorious success. The collection on the occasion exceeding $500, notwithstanding the presence of a menagerie and circus, which were on exhibition at the same hour. The appointments gave almost universal satisfaction. Thus we enter upon the duties of the new year, encouraged by past success, and by the hope of our inheritance in the eternal heaven. Two members of our body died in the work during the year, both of yellow fever—Dr. Jesse W. Perry and David Plews. Fraternally,

JOHN LYNCH.

1. Admitted on trial: John W. Dorroh, John P. Young, C. C. Graham, Arthur M. Wyatt, George H. Day, Henry L. Valentine, James M. Massey, Edward L. Scruggs, James B. Johnson, James H. Hunter, Wm. W. Herron.

2. Recommended: Elijah T. Cayce, Thomas M. Huggins, Hezekiah R. Tucker, John J. Eastland, John M. Hunt, Henry B. Scruggs.

3. Discontinued: None.

4. Admitted in full connection: A. W. Gibson, Joshua H. Mitchell, Edward A. Tabor, James Porter, Rozzle F. Waters, Joseph B. Wade, Carl M. Von Buren, Wilbur F. Rozell, Elias H. Kilgore.

5. Re-admitted: Thomas G. Freeman.

6. Received by transfer: T. A. S. Adams, T. B. Mabry, from the Tennessee Conference; J. W. Price, from Louisville Conference; W. B. Armstrong, from the North Alabama Conference; H. L. Coggeshall, from the Los Angeles Conference.

7. Deacons in full connection: Jesse T. Moody, James A. Bowen, Colin E. Thames, Charles N. Terry, David M. Cogdell, Edward B. Romeo, W. M. Adams, Robert A. Burroughs, Wm. A. Dollar, Isaac N. Foose, Thomas J. Newell, Hiram P. Parsons.

8. Traveling preachers elected deacons: Edward A. Tabor, James Porter, Rozzle F. Waters, Carl M. Von Buren, Wilbur F. Rozzel, Elias H. Kilgore.

9. Traveling preachers ordained deacons: The classes named under Question 8.

10. Local preachers ordained deacons: Daniel S. Elmore, Robert F. L. Satterfield, James S. Moseley, Henry M. Courtney, Burrell E. Webster, Robert H. McKnight, James M. Massey, Henry E. Vandiver, James H. Speed, Wm. J. Vinson.

11. Local preachers ordained deacons: James S. Moseley, Henry M. Courtney, B. H. Webster, B. H. McKnight, J. M. Massey, H. L. Young, R. Wm. K. Hollingsworth, James H. Lenderman, Jo eph S. Nicholson.

12. Traveling preachers ordained elders: W. W. Wilkins, W. P. Leslie, T. J. Burns, T. Y. Ramsey, Jr., Daniel T. Frost, G. W. Gordon, D. C. Brown, S. A. Steele.

13. Traveling preachers ordained elders: The classes named under Question 12.

14. Local preachers elected elders: Edward McCurdy, Henry T. Hodnett, R. E. Gore, L. D. Hollingsworth.

15. Local preachers ordained elders: E. McCurdy, H. T. Hodnett, R. E. Gore.

16. Too aged: Peter Fleming, J. R. Rogerson.

17. Superannuated: P. J. Eckles, J. R. Morris, R. T. Moorehead, D. D. Moore, A. A. Houston, J. P. Pennington, Joseph Johnson, W. E. Ellis, W. R. Ramey, J. W. Hines, T. C. Paris, A. W. Price.

18. Superannuated: W. Maxwell, H. Watkinson, K. Adams, E. J. Williams, L. H. Davis, W. J. Reeves, George Schoppert, Jr., Wade J. E. Douglass, W. C. Green, J. G. Carlisle.

19. Died: T. W. Peavy, David Plews.

20. All passed the seventh ninth character, except J. T. Tipslow, whose case was left over for the next session.

21. Number of local preachers and members: 22. Deaths by fever: 2.

23. Adults baptized: 2,250.

24. Number of Sunday schools: 94.

25. Number of teachers: 1,177.

26. Number of Sunday school scholars: 11,900.

27. Assessed for Conference claims: $2,000.

28. Collected for Conference claims: $1,046 70.

29. Chargeable by missions: $1,000.

30. Next Conference at Starkville.

APPOINTMENTS.

HOLLY SPRINGS DISTRICT, J. W. Hines, P. E. Holly Springs, J. W. Hines; Holly Springs Circuit, W. D. Matthews; Pine Mountain, N. M. Cooper; Bethlehem, S. E. H. Monk; Mount Carmel, S. W. Myers; New Salem, M. M. Dunn; Pleasant Grove, H. Mize; Chesterville, A. J. Easterling; Bonita Corinth, Shaw Creek, E. G. Brooks, S. B. Carson; Iuka, to be supplied; Corinth and Glendale, J. M. Hughes; Burnsville and Rienzi, J. R. Atkinson; Burnsville and Rienzi, H. E. Phillips; Ramsey, E. M. Davis; Enon, J. T. Lee; one to be supplied; Dyersburg, W. B. Murrah; Dixfield, one to be supplied; Tabor, A. A. Henderson; Superannuated, Caswell, D. C. Gillon; Bayou, E. M. Hampton; Ridgeville, T. J. Lowry, Bemis, one to be supplied; J. M. Ingram, Tuscumbia, to be supplied; University of Mississippi, J. J. Wheat; Grenada Female College, T. C. Watts.

GRENADA DISTRICT, S. G. Stone, P. E. Greenville, J. L. Pickett; Estes, Leonard Leonard, to be supplied; Deer Creek, J. R. Wynn; Pace, superannuate; Coffeeville and Abbeville, to be supplied; Batesville, R. F. Waters; Bolivar, J. D. Newsom; Austin, H. L. Coggeshall; Johnstown, Carl M. von Buren; Perry Hill, W. M. Adams; Clarksdale, P. P. Young; Friar's Point, J. M. Wyatt; Indian Village Mission, to be supplied; Cat Fish Point Mission, to be supplied; Panola, to be supplied; Farmington, Indian Bayou, W. P. Rozell; Jones Circuit, W. A. Hollis.

WINONA DISTRICT, R. J. Boyd, P. E. Winona Circuit, A. W. Langley; Carrollton, Q. A. Gaines; Black Hawk, E. S. Gilbert; T. C. Patrick, superannuates; West, G. W. Brown; Lexington, H. H. Day; Richland, J. F. Evans; Kosciusko and Durant, R. P. Mitchell; Attala, H. C. Faust; Newport, J. A. Burroughs; J. P. Commander, supernumerary; French Camps, W. S. Lagron; Zilpha, H. W. Buchanan; Bethlehem, D. N. Foose; Greenwood, E. Johnson; Kosciusko Methodist High School, T. A. S. Adams, President.

COLUMBUS DISTRICT, T. W. Dye, P. E. Columbus, S. A. Steel; Columbus Circuit, H. F. Morris; Crawfordsville, S. M. Thames; Brooksville, H. D. Howell; Macon, T. J. Newell; Hebron, W. S. Harrison; Shuqualak, E. L. Scruggins; Louisville, J. T. Moody; Chester, W. W. Williams, J. J. Fontaine; W. Cunningham, J. H. Brooks; Mount Vernon, W. A. Bryant.

GREENVILLE DISTRICT, T. F. Watkins, P. E. Greenville, C. R. Reasor; D. H. Magee, supernumerary; Arcola Circuit, J. P. Duncan; Walnut Valley, W. A. Chapman; Sharkey, G. W. Bagley; Cypress Lake, J. T. Brinkley; Leland, R. F. Phillips; Batesville, E. M. Davis; Eureka, to be supplied; Belzoni, one to be supplied; Dyersburg, W. B. Murrah; Oxford Circuit, T. A. Tabor; A. A. Henderson, superannuate; Caswell, D. C. Gillon; Bayou, E. M. Hampton; Batesville, T. J. Lowry, Bemis, one to be supplied; J. M. Ingram, Tuscumbia, to be supplied; University of Mississippi, J. J. Wheat; Grenada Female College, T. C. Watts.

GREENVILLE DISTRICT, S. G. Stone, P. E. Greenville, J. L. Pickett; Estes, Leonard Leonard, to be supplied; Deer Creek, J. R. Wynn; Pace, superannuate; Coffeeville and Abbeville, to be supplied; Batesville, R. F. Waters; Bolivar, J. D. Newsom; Austin, H. L. Coggeshall; Johnstown, Carl M. von Buren; Perry Hill, W. M. Adams; Clarksdale, P. P. Young; Friar's Point, J. M. Wyatt; Indian Village Mission, to be supplied; Cat Fish Point Mission, to be supplied; Panola, to be supplied; Farmington, Indian Bayou, W. P. Rozell; Jones Circuit, W. A. Hollis.

WINONA DISTRICT, R. J. Boyd, P. E. Winona Circuit, A. W. Langley; Carrollton, Q. A. Gaines; Black Hawk, E. S. Gilbert; T. C. Patrick, superannuates; West, G. W. Brown; Lexington, H. H. Day; Richland, J. F. Evans; Kosciusko and Durant, R. P. Mitchell; Attala, H. C. Faust; Newport, J. A. Burroughs; J. P. Commander, supernumerary; French Camps, W. S. Lagron; Zilpha, H. W. Buchanan; Bethlehem, D. N. Foose; Greenwood, E. Johnson; Kosciusko Methodist High School, T. A. S. Adams, President.

COLUMBUS DISTRICT, T. W. Dye, P. E. Columbus, S. A. Steel; Columbus Circuit, H. F. Morris; Crawfordsville, S. M. Thames; Brooksville, H. D. Howell; Macon, T. J. Newell; Hebron, W. S. Harrison; Shuqualak, E. L. Scruggins; Louisville, J. T. Moody; Chester, W. W. Williams, J. J. Fontaine; W. Cunningham, J. H. Brooks; Mount Vernon, W. A. Bryant.

GRENADA DISTRICT, T. F. Watkins, P. E. Greenville, C. R. Reasor; D. H. Magee, superannuate; Arcola Circuit, J. P. Duncan; Walnut Valley, W. A. Chapman; Sharkey, G. W. Bagley; Cypress Lake, J. T. Brinkley; Leland, R. F. Phillips; Batesville, E. M. Davis; Eureka, to be supplied; Belzoni, one to be supplied; Dyersburg, W. B. Murrah; Oxford Circuit, T. A. Tabor; A. A. Henderson, superannuate; Caswell, D. C. Gillon; Bayou, E. M. Hampton; Batesville, T. J. Lowry, Bemis, one to be supplied; J. M. Ingram, Tuscumbia, to be supplied; University of Mississippi, J. J. Wheat; Grenada Female College, T. C. Watts.

[illegible] DISTRICT, [illegible] [illegible]; Hernando, [illegible]; Senatobia, [illegible]; Coldwater, [illegible]; Sardis, [illegible]; Oakland, [illegible]; Abbeville, [illegible]; Oxford, [illegible]; Water Valley, [illegible]; Pontotoc, [illegible]; Ellistown, [illegible]; Pontotoc Circuit, [illegible]; Ellistown, [illegible]; Pontotoc Circuit, [illegible]; Ellistown, [illegible]; Pontotoc Circuit

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1879.

A WINTER SABBATH WALK.

BY JAMES GRAHAME (1765 1811)

How dazzling white the snowy scene! deep, deep,
The stillness of the winter Sabbath day—
Not even a lost fall heard. Smooth are the fields,
Each hollow pathway level with the plain;
Hid are the bushes, save that here and there
Are seen the topmost shoots of brier or broom.
High ridged, the wilful drift has almost reached
The powdered keystone of the churchyard porch.
Mute hangs the hooded bell: the tombs lie buried;
No step approaches to the house of prayer.
The flickering fall is o'er; the clouds disperse
And show the sun, hung o'er the welkin's verge,
Shooting a bright but ineffectual beam
On all the sparkling waste. Now's the time
To visit nature in her grand attire.
Though perilous the mountainous ascent,
A noble recompense the danger brings.
How beautiful the plain stretched far below!
Unwarlike though it be, save by you stream
With azure winding, or the leafless wood.
But what the beauty of the plain, compared
To that sublimity which reigns enthroned,
Holding joint rule with solitude divine,
Among yon rocky fells, that lift defiance
To step the most adventurously bold!
There silence dwells profound; or if the cry
Of high-poised eagle break at times the calm,
The mantled echoes no response return.
But let me now explore the deep sunk dell,
No footprint, save the covey's or the flock's,
Is seen along the rill, where marshy springs
Still rear the grassy blade of vivid green.
Beware, ye shepherds, of these treacherous haunts,
Nor linger there too long. The wintry day
Soon closes; and full oft a heavier fall
Heaped by the blast, fills up the sheltered glen,
While gurgling deep below the buried rill
Makes for itself a snow roofed way. Oft then
Your helpless charge drive from the tempting spot,
And keep them on the bleak hill's stormy side,
Where night winds sweep the gathering drift away
So the great Shepherd leads the heavenly flock
From faithless pleasures, full into the storms
Of life, where long they bear the bitter blast,
Until at length the veriest laggards forth,
Redimmed with showers; then to the pastures green
He brings them, where the quiet waters glide,
The sheltered fold, the shade of the sequestered pine.

Our Two Pastors.

MR. EDITOR: The ADVOCATE of August 7 contains the obituaries of my first and last pastors—Rev John J. Clark and Rev. Henderson H. Montgomery.

How well I remember, though only "a wee small child," just learning to repeat, with dear brothers and sisters, while kneeling by a pious mother's side, "Our Father which art in heaven," the visits of "Uncle Clark," as he told us to call him; and I remember, too, the little prayer he taught us to repeat after the Lord's Prayer:

"Bless father and mother,
Bless sister and brother
And the little preacher. Amen."

He used to come and preach for us and the colored people on the plantation, but I can only remember the songs he used to sing, in which the eager throng of dusky listeners joined, making such melody that it echoes still in "Memory's halls." But the day came when he had to preach his farewell sermon, had to sing his farewell hymn; and when I saw the tearful crowd pressing around him I comprehended the meaning of the song, which he alone could sing, for sobs choked the utterance of those untutored but affectionate creatures; and when I saw my parents, and older brothers and sister in tears I too wept in childish but deep sympathy.

The refrain of that parting song lingers with us yet, and we feel so glad to know that it is still beautiful and true—

"When we get to heaven we will part no more."

The words of that song, and all the attendant circumstances, made a lasting impression on my heart, and left the image of "the little preacher" stamped indelibly on my memory. I have the little Testament he gave to my sister, who left us to live with God and the angels. How fondly and how sacredly she cherished the precious gift, reading it three times daily, until God took her from this world, where she had known only affliction, to "an inheritance incorruptible," and I think there is no happier angel, no brighter star in "the crown of Christ" rejoicing, than my gentle, sweet-spirited sister, who doubtless welcomed to the better land "the little preacher," our first pastor.

I knew my last pastor and kind friend, Rev. H. H. Montgomery, in my childhood days, and from our first acquaintance he manifested a deep interest in my spiritual welfare, and was my true friend and wise counselor "unto death." He prayed with and for me, when in agony of mind and deep contrition of spirit I earnestly inquired: "What must I do to be saved?" When I had found peace and pardon, and wished to cast my lot with the people of God, it was his hand that was extended to receive me into the church which he loved and served so faithfully. He watched over me, giving me counsel and encouragement, writing when he could not visit me; and when the hand of affliction was upon me the sympathy and words of cheer of this dear old friend came to soothe me. How has he made me to know that his fervent, effectual prayers were offered up to Heaven in my behalf, and never will I forget the prayer he offered during his last precious visit. It seemed to me that, like Moses, he was "the friend of God," speaking with Him "face to face." How earnestly he prayed for my restoration to health and usefulness, but in all meekly saying: "Thy will be done!"

How hard it is to realize that he will not come again, that the kind, cheery voice is hushed, that the dear old pastor, last and best beloved, has left us, for the Master called for him, and he has gone to enjoy the rest which he so much needed, and to hear the words of welcome: "Well done, good and faithful servant!" When I do realize that this dear friend is indeed "gone before" me, that it is only "in the Spirit" that he is with us, though I cannot repress the tears, which is the only tribute I can bring, I rejoice that it is well with him. Oh! how we miss him, how the brethren in the ministry will miss him when they meet in the Conference, and greet only a vacant chair! While "his works do follow him," he is sleeping so calmly, so peacefully in "God's acre," near my dear schoolmates—his happy children—dear Ella, and the lovely, gentle Anule, two of earth's purest, fairest flowers.

Oh! who will help the sad-stricken wife, to mark, with a memorial offering, the sacred resting-place, where only the grass and flowers grow, and the birds sing songs of love?

INVALID.

Dark Side of An Itinerant.

MR. EDITOR: As bright as the sun is, he has dark spots. The moon, the queen of night, has a bright side and dark at the same time. So the itinerant has dark spots in brightness, as well as a dark side, and bright at times. The bright is always the more beautiful and delightful side. Nevertheless, the dark side must be acknowledged and considered. It is folly to say there is not a dark side at times, and the darkness can be felt, at least, by himself, wife and children. This darkness is sometimes made darker, because of the absence of expressed sympathy upon the part of some who ought to be concerned.

When the itinerant is appointed by the Bishop, and presiding elders to a certain field of labor for the ensuing twelve months, then usually a dark spot in brightness may be seen, especially if he has a family. His wife is at home waiting, with sleepless anxiety, the news from Conference. At length it comes, in the person of her husband. He returns from Conference with a sad heart and bowed head, and, may be, suffused eyes. Now begins the tearing down and tearing up process. Bundling, packing, boxing, gathering, getting ready. The day arrives on which to start. It is a dark, cloudy, cold, threatening morning. But then he must go. With quivering lips and tearful eyes they bid good by to those whom they have learned to love and trust, and off they roll. Now the rain descends in torrents and floods. Streams are swimming, bridges are floating, the roads muddy, boggy, and almost impassable. But on they toil.

After long, weary toiling, wet, cold, shivering, hungry and tired, they reach their home for the year. About the house the fencing is down, the hogs under the house squealing, grunting, and snapping, the cows in the yard and garden, and not a stick of wood in the yard or about the place with which to make a fire to warm the crying, freezing children, and nobody cares to see, or even say a word of comfort, or bid the weary itinerant a cordial welcome. At last, however, they move into the house, which has been rented for the purpose, or the old parsonage, as the case may be. When the wind blows it whistles and roars through open panes and cracks, and when the rain falls it runs in streams through the rotten roof, and the old rickety stove smokes enough to fill the halls of pandemonium. But all must be endured with lamb-like silence, or he is not a faithful dispenser of the word, or he is actually preaching for money.

With all the faith and courage he can command, he enters upon the responsible duties of the year. He fills all his appointments faithfully and promptly. He visits his flock pastorally, and prays from house to house. The stewards labor diligently. God bless them! But when the end, financially, is looked at, it is a failure. In the mean time, however, the cracks have been stopped, the house recovered, and a good, new stove put into the kitchen, corn in [illegible] wood in the yard, and [illegible] relations formed in the [illegible] kind humility.

[illegible] friend, [illegible] shall be done? The charge [illegible] by it [illegible] only $587 50, and $200 of [illegible] rent, [illegible] has that must go for house-rent, leaving the preacher in charge $387 50. The pen of the Bishop lifts him into another field of labor and toil, where he is better cared for. By the diligence of the faithful he and his are comfortably housed, and fed, and clothed. But he must go again and again, until his courage is gone, and confidence in humanity greatly shattered. Worn out, broken, and shattered, having buried his children, and may be his wife, in separate and distinct grave-yards, in different counties, perhaps, and different States, he is put in charge of a very poor work, without missionary aid, to toil and die! Or, may be, he is so hard run and pressed that he seeks a location, in order to provide for and educate his sons and daughters. And in the evening shades of life, surrounded by noble and virtuous children and grandchildren, and in the brightness of joy eternal, he

"Wings his flight from earth-born woe and care,
And soars above these clouds of night his Savior's bliss to share."

This is the bright spot on the dark side.

JANGUS DOWLING.

VILLULA, ALA., Nov. 28, 1879.

"He Leadeth Me."

Not when our way lies through "green pastures," and "beside still waters," does the thought, "He leadeth me," come with its sweetest influence. It is when the way is roughest, when thorns pierce our poor tired feet, and in our weak moments we shrink from our allotted walk, or fain would "cross over the river and rest under the shade of the trees," that we realize the fullness, the depth, the soothing power of the knowledge that we are led by One who knows just what is best for us. And we are encouraged to battle on, even though stormy clouds lower, and turbid waters dash hard against our frail barks, threatening often to overwhelm, or wreck against the jutting rocks which ever and anon cast their bold outline along Life's shore. True, to our limited vision the paths through which we oft times are led seem strange; in vain we try to solve the enigma of the present by striving to look into the future. But do we find an answer there? Even the torch of Time may-haps will not be sufficient to reveal to our anxious gaze why we are led in such strange lands, why our pathway is not "beside the still waters." But we turn from our wanderings dissatisfied, holding our tired, empty hands, toward Him, and cry: "Father, lead me whithersoever it pleaseth Thee, only let all be for Thy glory. Make light to shine out of this darkness, and peace and gladness out of this weary, broken way." There is something in our natures which must depend upon a stronger than ourselves, or be forever dissatisfied. Take the thought, "He leadeth me," from the Christian's heart, and life has lost its dearest pleasure. Surely He who notes the "sparrow's fall" guides those who are trusting Him. If "the hairs of our heads are numbered," are not the miles of Life's journey measured? It would be an unjust God to allow us, His creatures, to wander in ways unknown to Him, but as He is Justice, Love and Mercy, we do know, can realize, that He leads us. And if we are not allowed to know why we are led where the cold winds chill our brightest hopes, we can, at least, trust our Father and our God to lead us all the journey through, patiently awaiting the end of Time, when Eternity shall spread before our clearer view all the way over which we have trod, and the Hand which guided here will there point out the sunshine which seemed but shadow, the light which now is darkness. The golden links broken here will there be united. The tearful clouds that we so vainly have tried to mend together will be tied by stronger, better hands—hands that have led and will still lead us ever upward and onward,

"Sometimes mid scenes of deepest gloom," but always under God and to the glory land.

"Lord, I would clasp Thy hand in mine,
Nor ever murmur nor repine,
Content whatever lot I see
Since 'tis my God that leadeth me."

SNOWFLAKE.

MAGNOLIA GROVE, LA., Dec 2, '79.

The Ruin of Our Young Men.

MR. EDITOR: I have traveled over the State from near the coast to its northern boundary. In every locality I have inquired into the habits and morals of the people and especially that of the young men, on whom aged parents and the hope of the country depend, many of whom have the mind and the ability to make glad the heart of a fond father and a living mother, and stand as a guide on the Ship of State. But, alas! how often do we see those young men, with every hope blighted, parents bowed down with grief, feeling that their sons are more than ruined, and, in place of our State being benefitted by her young men, how often is it that she is taxed to pay the fees of officers, and the time of our courts consumed, all for what reason? Why all this sorrow and ruin to so many of Louisiana's noble young men! There must be a reason. Can it be given? Yes, we think so. It is our failure, as a State, to observe God's law as regards His Sabbaths.

As we travel over our beautiful State, and behold the beautiful orange groves, waving sugar-cane and cotton-fields, the best of any State in the Union, what a sad picture do we see mixed with all those rich blessings of Heaven! Almost in every neighborhood there is the dram shop, and on so many of the large plantations there is also the whisky-shop, kept often by a son or some relative, with a back room furnished sometimes with a table, or an old goods box, large enough to hold a deck of cards, and to tell of whisky, and the keepers of such places know no Sabbaths. They are the open doors of ruin to so many of our young men, that I can but feel that it is the duty of every lover of our noble young men to raise their voice to have these highways to ruin closed on our holy Sabbaths. Almost one half of the crimes committed in the State are done on the Sabbath, or through causes that grew out of the violation of the Sabbath.

Young men will be young men, and the young man who has life, and the energy to make a man of usefulness, will do something, and if the doors of vice stand open all around him on the Sabbath he may go there first to hear the news, and pass off the time in a merry laugh, not intending to drink or gamble, but the constant scene before him causes him to forget the holy Sabbath, and the good boy is led, step by step, until he forms the habit of dram-drinking, and then business is neglected, self-respect is lost, and then he is a fit subject for still worse crime. Fathers and mothers of Louisiana, have we not the moral courage to say that we will, for the good of our sons, even for this life, not to say anything of a higher life, say, in our selection of men to fill the offices of the State, that we will not cast our votes for the man that seeks and obtains his nomination by buying up all the dram-shops of his parish? I appeal first to all who love our Lord Jesus Christ, and then to every lover of young men, to think on these things, and govern themselves accordingly, and the hearts of many parents will rejoice over good and industrious sons.

OBSERVER.

A Pleasant Memory.

MR. EDITOR: In the ADVOCATE of October 16 is an obituary of Mrs. E. E. Minter, who died at Oyka Mess., aged seventy-eight years.

As I read it it brought to mind an incident connected with the life of this "elect lady" worthy of note.

When she resided at Covington, many years ago, I had the pleasure of a short acquaintance with her. I was then a young lady, and our family sojourned at that place for a short time. One Sunday I and a sister-in-law attended the Methodist Church, which was served that year by Rev. J. Lusk. After the sermon a very pleasant elderly lady approached us, and introduced herself as Mrs Minter, and said: "You are strangers, and it is a long walk to your home, will you not accompany me home to dinner, and stay to the evening service?" We readily accepted the kind invitation, and found her home to be a pretty white cottage, nestled among the trees and flowers, befitting such a pleasant occupant. We were charmed with our hostess, for her conversation was, in heaven. When invited to dinner she said: "You are truly welcome to all my table affords, but you will have to accept a cold dinner to-day. I never have any cooking done on Sunday. When I had several servants I had all my cooking for Sunday done on Saturday, and now I have only one. I have it done on Saturday, and if I had none I would do it myself. We should keep the day holy in word and in deed." Her household consisted of herself, a young niece, and one servant-woman. All the dinner was cold except the coffee and that had been made on Saturday, and warmed over for dinner. I and my sister-in-law having been brought up in the same churches and faith, enjoyed the occasion very much. It was a cold day and a cold dinner, but there were warm hearts and a sweet "communing of saints" around that hospitable board. It made a never-forgotten impression upon me; and the other day one of my grown daughters, after reading her obituary, said: "Mother, is that the Mrs. Minter I have heard you speak of so often?" It was. We went to the evening service, then parted, and never met again. But she and my sweet sister-in-law, Louisa Hawkins Crary, have now met "over there on the other shore," and I, a pilgrim still, pen these thoughts to-day as a slight tribute of love to one of God's saints who was "not forgetful to entertain strangers."

MRS. L. PEARY SADLER.

WEST PEARL RIVER, LA., Nov. 11, 1879.

From the Work.

COLUMBIA, MISSISSIPPI.

MR. EDITOR: Wisely the citizens of this place are building up a good school, under the conduct of Prof. Watson, a capable and Christian man. A new and commodious house will be completed in January. The Sunday-school and congregations speak well for the town. The people appreciate the preacher in charge (Bro G. W. Brown,) and have paid him in full, adding something as a compliment.

In this Pearl river country cane, corn and cotton are good, peas, potatoes and rice plentiful, and pork, pumpkins and turnips sufficient. Logs, wool and cattle bring money into circulation the year round.

JOHN A. ELLIS.

NOVEMBER 26, 1879.

Tribute to Mrs. Lydia A. Shores.

BY JOSEPH B. COTTRELL, D. D.

"Friend after friend departs!" For the sake of the measure and the rhyme, the poet goes on to say that "there is no union here of hearts that hath not here an end!" We protest: Hearts united never sever. Our friends are ours, and we are theirs, forever. Blessed be the name of the Father of all the children of earth—the Father who knoweth no caprice; who bestows, and again, to bereave—to deprive!

She is not dead—the wife of your affection—
But gone unto that home
Where she no longer needs your fond protection.

The wife of the Rev. James W. Shores, of the Alabama Conference, was, by the angels of God, taken away out of the shadows and mists, and from under the infirmities and limitations of the flesh, and her dying eyes set on Sunday morning, the second day of November, 1879 at Orrville, Ala. Were this way of saying it a mere voluntary fetch of the mind, for sake of variety—of novelty—it would shock, it would offend. But the heart-pulsations, under assurance that "God is not the God of the dead, but of the living"—Words are such poor things when transcendent with the glorious portrayal. We may only sit and weep, and think and weep—impotent as we are to phrase in any satisfactory way the admiration and affection—the esteem in which we hold (we say not less!) our sister. For genuine dignity, grace, and readiness in all the offices of hospitality at home and for a specially appreciative expression of countenance under the infirmity of the word, as well as for engaging in favor and manner in social converse, we have never known her surpassed. And she was so manifestly the subject of her own charm of modesty, grace, dignity and benevolence, that a friend might associate with her for years and feel that it were a violence, by any word of personal commendation, to throw her thought back upon herself, inducing self-consciousness. Her soul came out, to have its healthful commerce with her sons, in the objective truth—that undivided requisite to the full realization and expression of life as we may have it in ever-increasing satisfaction and delight, reciprocally. Since 1868 we have not met her. For several years previous to that her husband had charge of a work in a district whereof we were presiding elder. He had been in charge of the district, and our appointment displaced him and his from the district parsonage, and in the same little village—Orion, Ala. our families were thrown into intimate association. The friends that go deepest, and become most intelligently incorporate with the live experience of an itinerant preacher and his other self, are those incident to his receiving appointments. At that point the intimates of their true manhood and womanhood are reached. Our intimate acquaintance and association were included in an incident experience that furnished occasion for disclosures of character; and the queenly bearing—the wise and prudent, and helpful criticisms and constructions that came out in the counsel and conversation of precious Sister Shores—they were illustrative of that "wisdom which is from above—pure and peaceable, easily entreated and full!"—full of everything that is worthy, effective, persuasive, inspiring and assuring. She was the mother of twelve children, four of whom preceded her through the "valley and shadow" out of which the evils have all been driven; and when disease had made conquest of all the physical forces which had served her in the offices of maternity and untiringly solicitous obligation, she said to those who nursed her: "Straighten me out and let me die!" Her oldest daughter, Mary, had, at her bidding, arranged the clothing for her burial, which she inspected and approved; and then, without a fear or a doubt, she looked and passed homeward!

She was born within four miles of Montgomery, Ala.; was raised at Indian Hill, Autauga county; was educated in the academy there and at Summerfield; was married, on the sixteenth of March 1852, to Rev. J. W. Shores, of the Alabama Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Her maiden name was Lydia Ann Edwards. In the language of Bro. Shores, in his letter telling us of her departure: "As a wife and mother, she was unexcelled; and as the wife of a traveling preacher, up to all the demands of that hard and responsible position."

At her funeral it was most fitting that the pastors of the Presbyterian and Cumberland Presbyterian Churches should join in the services, for she belonged to the catholic brotherhood and sisterhood—as does her husband, who, through weary itinerant years, has ever been considerate and respectful toward the ministers of other churches.

Of beyond that bourne,
In the vast cycle of being which begins
At that broad threshold, with what fairer forms
Shall the great law of change and progress clothe
Its workings? Gently—as we have good men taught—
Gently, and without grief, the old shall glide
Into the new, the eternal flow of things,
Like a bright river of the fields of heaven.
Shall journey onward in perpetual peace.

BOWLING GREEN, KY., Nov 11, 1879

Nashville Christian Advocate.

Obituaries.

RESOLUTIONS passed by the Quarterly Conference of Summerfield station, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, on the death of the pastor, REV. P. H. LIGHTFOOT.

Whereas, An All-wise Providence has removed from our midst our beloved pastor, Rev. P. H. Lightfoot, who died November 26, 1879; therefore,

Resolved, By the members of this fourth Quarterly Conference, that in the death of Brother Lightfoot God's church has lost an able and faithful minister, an earnest and strong preacher of the Gospel, a true and consistent follower of the Master whose unerring walk, life and character clearly illustrated the blessed gospel he loved to preach, and whose life-work so nobly and gloriously ended, among us has resulted in lasting good to the membership of this church and to those who attended his ministry.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with the bereaved pastor, and we sincerely hope that in the deepest sorrows he has left us one, he does not feel forsaken by God in causing all to follow his worthy example in the service of the Master.

Resolved, That the church at large, and especially the Alabama Conference, in the death of this useful and valuable minister, have sustained a great loss, which only the One who knows the end from the beginning knows how to repair.

Resolved, That we, who loved him and appreciated him, do most heartily sympathize with his aged father in his great affliction, and we pray God to comfort him in prayer to God; because we have fully confided and blessed him in his death, as God alone gives his death-bed scene a remarkable one of the most remembered among us.

Resolved, That we [illegible] sympathize with the [illegible] in the [illegible] and that we [illegible] request the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, the Selma and Texas papers to publish them.

A. D. MCVOY, Pastor.

REV. R. P. BRITTON was born in Montgomery county, N. C., A.D. 1808. He was converted to God and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church when quite young. He removed to Georgia, and was licensed to preach while living in Putnam county. He was a local preacher of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and a member of the Georgia Conference the greater part of his life.

Resolved, That the members of the Church, especially the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in this vicinity, have lost a pleasant and valuable friend.

Resolved, That the Quarterly Conference has been [illegible] of much worth as a member, and [illegible] by all as a [illegible] and father, and the community as a [illegible] and worthy member.

Resolved, That we tender our sincere sympathies to the [illegible] in this bereavement.

Resolved, That this obituary and resolutions be spread on the [illegible] Quarterly Conference book, and that a copy of the same be sent to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, with a request that it be published.

A. D. MCVOY, Pastor.

In behalf of the Quarterly Conference.

MRS. S. A. HIMES was born in [illegible] William Himes, was in [illegible] Louisiana in her girlhood she [illegible] the Methodist Church. In [illegible] she was united in marriage to Mr. John Harrison, of this city. [illegible] November 1856. She was married to Mr. W. [illegible] in [illegible] January, 1875. Sister Himes lived [illegible] with the Methodist Episcopal Church South at the Carondelet Street Church, pastorate of Dr. Tudor. January 1, 1879, Mrs. Himes was stricken with the malady which [illegible] and [illegible] that [illegible] her life. [illegible] and while many can not depict her [illegible] she is among the glorified. She fell asleep in Jesus at her home in New Orleans, October 27, 1879.

J. F. WARREN, Pastor.

WE have recently conveyed to their last resting places four precious little ones. First among these was little Louis Kerr, who, while engaged in play in a lumber yard, was instantly killed by falling lumber. He was a precious little boy. Next little Annie Latimer passed away to the land of blessed rest. She was a darling pet at home. And again little Fanny Bird left her devoted parents and brothers and sister, to join the angel bands beyond the skies. And on Wednesday morning, November 26, little J. R. Mayson heard and answered the summons to go to the bosom of God. The three last named died of diphtheria. May our good Father console the afflicted ones with the thought that the little ones are at home, safe in the arms of Jesus.

R. H. STRAWBRIDGE, Pastor.

WILLIE AMEAT, son of William P. and M. S. Cuxe, was born in Livingston parish, La., May 14, 1878, and died November 21, 1879. He was dedicated by his parents, but Jesus, who said, "Suffer the little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of God," had a use for little Willie.

J. C. WILLIAMS.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1879.

FEAR NOT.

BY MARIANNE FARNINGHAM.

Though the dull days come again,
Though the clouds are dropping rain,
Though the winds in sighs complain,
Fear not;
For the summer shall be cheery,
And the days no longer dreary,
And thy heart less often weary,
And the sorrow all forgot.

Though the June of life be shaded,
And the first sweet flowers have faded,
And thy heart is tired and jaded,
Trust and sing;
Hawthorn hedges shall be white,
And the roses sweet and bright,
God shall make thy summer light,
He lives and sings.

Though some pleasant things have fled,
Though some friends beloved are dead,
Though life's golden days have sped,
Be not sad
Thy best pleasures yet remain,
And the dead shall rise again,
Heaven's day dawns when earth hours wane,
Oh, be glad!

Though the difficulties throng,
And the struggle may be long,
And the powers of evil strong,
Hope on.
For to patient, brave endeavor,
Cometh never failure ever,
And the crown at last forever,
Shall be won.

Emigration to the Holy Land.

BY PROF. WILLIAM WILLS.

WHY OR CAST?

Now the ordinary mind can easily comprehend why the spirit of unrest can impel many to seek their fortunes in the lands already enumerated, but who can imagine that any can be induced to wander to the Holy Land as a place of temporal rest or prosperity? And still the spirit is, and has been abroad for years that there is great work to be done there for the spiritual and material good of the people; and thus, for a generation, small bodies of emigrants have turned their steps Jerusalemward, in spite of the miserable rule of Islam and the Turks, and the deplorable religious and political condition of the land. In the course of the last ten years at least a thousand Germans have gone to Palestine, mostly as representative men and forerunners of a stream of which they are endeavoring to form a course; and during the same period some three thousand Jews have returned to the home of their fathers, and still the stream flows on. The why and wherefore of this remarkable phenomenon we shall now make it our business to explain.

The captious reader will naturally retort that these numbers are quite insignificant; but not so, when we consider the small number of the population and the principal object of many of the emigrants, whether Jewish or Christian, which is to prepare the land for the future reign of the Messiah, still expected by the Jews, and looked for in second advent by those followers of Christ who look for His early appearance to establish the reign of the millennium on earth.

That Canaan which was once a land of milk and honey, and how to it many a weary wanderer with longing eyes, has now a poverty-stricken soil that gives but scanty nourishment to about one-tenth of its former population. The plains of Lebanon and Anti Lebanon once so beautiful with cedars, are now nearly stripped of their forests, while the blazing sun scorches what little vegetation is left, and dries up the springs. The fertile soil, once upheld by terraces, is now washed down into the valleys, so that the passing traveler sees little but bald and sterile rocks. The olive, fig and grape still grow, but they are inferior in quality to those of ancient time, and are surpassed by the same products in other regions.

Of the three or four hundred Jews, which annually now go to Palestine nearly all are from Russia. And they come not to avoid the military duty now resting on all persons, without exception, by virtue of a recent enactment. Doctrinal conflicts between the orthodox and the reformed Jews, between the adherents of the Talmud and those of the Cabala, are now disintegrating and destroying the old Jewish congregations and communities there more than anything else, and leading to such bitterness of feeling as to make many families consider emigration a desirable relief from a life of strife with brethren. But a still stronger motive is the hope among the Jews of Russia, in its lowliest form, that the Messiah will soon appear and found His Kingdom in Palestine, and there fulfill His prophetic word. The redeemed of the Lord will then return and come to Zion with shouting. Eternal joy will then rest on their heads, peace and bliss will take possession of them, and pains and sighs will be forced to flee away.

This hope has a magic power over them, and, though many will not see its fulfillment during life, their bodies at least will repose with their fathers in the Promised Land, at rest in the sacred Valley of Jehoshaphat, there to open their eyes on that day when the Lord will sit in the valley to judge all the heathen and oppressors of His people, of whatever name. Therefore are found among the Jews of Palestine so many old people who have no other wish than to spend the evening of life on the sacred mount, there to pray and finally to be buried in face of the site of the ancient temple.

Thus these thrifty and industrious Germans have laid the foundation for several colonies in Jaffa, Haifa and Jerusalem, all of which are growing and promising. Their settlement in Jaffa peeps out from orange gardens, and that at Haifa, at the base of Mount Carmel, is a neat and thriving village; and that near Jerusalem is surrounded by fertile fields. Everywhere there is order, cleanliness, industry and thrift. The comparison with the native population is so marked that the latter must soon be affected by it, and the Germans are lighting their way to acceptability on the part of the inhabitants; and for strangers, whose fate or inclination leads them thither, the German settlements are like refuges from the surrounding barrenness.

They commenced with heavy sacrifices, but are becoming acquainted with the ways and requirements of the land, and acclimated as well; so that their sanitary condition is not now unsatisfactory. And still the struggle is to be a long and hard one. The principal occupation for colonists for a long while must be agriculture, and the prosecution of this is attended with very discouraging circumstances. The Turkish government, as well as the native Arabs, seems inclined to lay every obstacle in the way of the settlers, and they are thus annoyed by the interference and importunity, to say nothing of the chicanery, of officials and tax-gatherers.

The roads and the ports are in a terrible condition, so that it is almost impossible to transport and export the wine, the olive or the grain. The native Arabs can live on so little, and raise that at so trifling an expense, that, in one sense, they are dangerous commercial rivals, if indeed they conclude to be so, which they are not likely to be, because of their code in cultivating their land, which is mainly to till only enough for their scantiest use, and the ground that any surplus would be seized by the rapacious tax gatherer. From his aggressions nothing but the extremest poverty is a protection. The poorest peasants are the best off; for, having nothing to be anxious about, and enough to keep soul and body together, they can make out to get and to bide.

Now all this would seem the acme of discouragement, and would be so to most men; and consequently there is much distrust as to the result of this effort at colonization of Palestine without large and frequent assistance from home, which of course could not last long. But if the Holy Land is to be redeemed from the sacrilegious hands of the indolent Moslem, these enthusiastic Germans are the men to do it. Their religious enthusiasm, concentred in the idea of an early advent of the Messiah, is a supplement to their wonderful capacity patiently to work and wait for slow coming; and by these two qualities they must conquer, if at all.—Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine.

TIMBUCTOO.—The Oran (Algeria) Geographical Society has been fortunate enough to catch an Israelite Rabbi of Morocco on his way to Paris from Timbuctoo, who has already twice traversed Central Africa. By means of questioning, a commission of the society were able to extract some interesting information from the Rabbi as to the present condition of Timbuctoo, about which existing information is vague. Timbuctoo, the Rabbi told them, is an Arab town in every sense of the term, built absolutely like all those of the interior. The inhabitants are Foulah negroes, and there are no whites. There are, however, sometimes Jews from North Africa, who come to trade, but never settle there. The town is about six hours' distance to the north of the Niger. Its population is about 50,000; it is larger than Oran (about six miles round), but not so large as Marseilles. The town is, in fact, a mass of villages, extending over a very considerable area. The Niger, which passes to the south of the town, flows from the west to the southeast, and is very broad; there is abundance of fish. Navigation is carried on by means of flat-bottomed barges and rafts, constructed of pieces of wood bound together by cords. The blacks call the Niger the Nile, or "El Bar" (Arab, "the sea"). The river is subject to regular freshings, which fertilize the lands on its banks, the only ones which are cultivable; the inundation reaches the walls of the town. The country is very fertile; the crops are sorgho, millet, rice, tomatoes, onions, turnips; indigo grows wild. There are also many cocoanut trees, gum trees, and a tree which produces oil which the natives use for lighting. There are also forests of valuable timber trees. The country is governed by a Mardbout, who takes the title of Sultan; the present ruler is named Mollah el el Bekai. He does not reside at Timbuctoo; his capital is Akabet-Ellah, a town of more than 100,000 souls, situated about twelve leagues from Timbuctoo. The road connecting the two towns is covered with villas and gardens. The town of Timbuctoo is under the command of a Caid, who has very great authority, and who has under his orders a tax-collector, also very powerful. The Sultan has no army, but when fighting is necessary everybody is a soldier. They are armed with bows and arrows; only the chiefs have guns, pistols and sabres. Trade is carried on principally by barter or by means of cowries. Caravans bring cotton or their goods, glass trinkets, mirrors, arms, swords, guns, pistols (generally of English manufacture), knives, needles, etc. Salt is a valuable import, a slave often being given for a kilogramme or two. The caravans take back loads of the grain of the country—rice, sorgho, millet, ostrich feathers, gum, ivory, goldust, lead, copper, etc. Trade in slaves is carried on on a very large scale. To the north of Timbuctoo many camels are reared; to the south the people wander about with herds of sheep and cattle. The Rabbi also gave some interesting information on the Sahara.—Times, London.

Mr. Edmund Lyon celebrated his eighty seventh birthday by giving $25,000 to the Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church. He is a member, we believe, of the Brick Church of Rochester, N. Y. The money is to be invested in United States four per cent. bonds, and the interest is to be appropriated to the support of five missionaries laboring west of the Mississippi, who are to report once a quarter to the Brick Church. In 1907, when the bonds become due, the Board can do as it pleases with them.—Christian Intelligencer.

Religious Intelligence.

—French Protestants are rejoicing over the fact that a Protestant assembly has been permitted in the halls of the palace at Versailles. Through the request of M. Favre, whose wife is a Protestant, the minister of worship granted to Pastor Bassa, of Versailles, the privilege of holding religious services in a part of the palace while a new church is being erected. The first service was on Sunday, November 2. A large audience assembled, and M. Vernes, president of the Paris Consistory, passed through, carrying the pulpit Bible, followed by M. Bassa. At the end of the Court of Honor, in the great hall, the pulpit was erected. In this room Luther's chorale was chanted and the gospel was preached. Near by was the room in which Louis XIV. breathed his last, and above was the room in which he signed the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes. M. Jules Favre, in a note to Pastor Bassa expressing his pleasure at the public thanks given him, says:

"I love your church because it defends and represents true liberty of thought on matters of religion. I love it in itself. Permit me to add that I love it also in you, its worthy pastor, and the eloquent defender of those high truths of which it is the palladium. I love it lastly because it is the church of my dear wife, and I should be a monster of ingratitude if I was not grateful to it for having guarded for me such a treasure."

—In reply to a letter of inquiry from Bishop Schreuder, of the Norwegian Lutheran Mission in South Africa, Sir Garnet Wolseley writes that "erroneous impressions which have gone abroad in Natal as to the position of missionaries in Zululand under the recent settlement of that country." He says:

"This position is the same as it was formerly, with this exception, that, whereas formerly the missionary had to deal with an arbitrary and despotic monarch, possessing a large and powerful army, the missionary wishing to settle in any particular district has now to deal with the chief of that district, who has no longer an army at his back, who has solemnly promised to rule justly, not to take human life without trial, etc., and whose actions will always be under the surveillance of the British residents among the thirteen chiefs. It is possible there may at first be some in whom the native dislike to missionaries may be so strong that they will object to having missionaries in their districts; but it is almost certain that many of them will raise no objection. Indeed, as almost all the missionaries who have hitherto worked in Zululand have been traders, it may be felt by the chiefs to be very convenient to have such a respectable class of traders to deal with. Although they may dislike their teachings, they may appreciate the convenience which the mission stations will afford them."

The letter does not at all reassure the missionaries, and it is severely criticised for its slurs.

A PROTESTANT CEMETERY AT ST. SEBASTIAN.—The Protestant Cemetery at St. Sebastian, granted long since by the Spanish government for Protestants, was used for the first time on the thirteenth instant by the burial of a young Scotchman named James Watson, who died immediately after his arrival with Gen. Sir Hedworth Hodgson, his master. In the absence of any Protestant minister the funeral service was read by Gen. Hodgson in the presence of a large number of Spaniards, who exhibited the greatest sympathy and decorum, all uncovered. This event is interesting as shown that the Spaniards are emerging from bigotry, as a few years ago, if a Protestant corpse had been carried through a Spanish town, in all probability a disturbance would have ensued.—Post.

—M. Jules Ferry delivered a speech at the opening of the Protestant Faculty of Theology of Paris, which is under State domination, in which he paid a compliment to Protestantism. He said:

"Protestantism has been in modern history the first form of liberty. Our political gospel is also yours. The revolution of 1789, of which our Republic is the logical development and necessary conclusion, was partly effected for you. It is the date of your definitive emancipation. We greet you, therefore, as a friendly power, as a necessary ally, who will not be wanting either to the Republic or to liberty. You may count upon us, as we count upon you, sure of meeting from us at all times not merely justice, but profound sympathy."

—Methodists will always feel an interest in the Moravian Church. Recent reports show that it now has 221 preachers engaged in missionary work, with 1,011 native assistants, and has made 71,000 conversions to heathen converts. At the recent meeting of the General Synod, several days of fasting and prayer were appointed, and it was decided to send a suitable minister for the archives of the church, and to appoint a person properly qualified to collect and arrange materials for a history of it.

—Though the proceedings which were instituted against Bishop Colenso, of Natal, in the ecclesiastical courts of the Anglican Church, failed, the South African Synod, as will be remembered, deposed him. He was invited to neither of the Lambeth Conferences; but it appears that his legal status as a bishop is now recognized. Some time ago the Bishop invited Mr. Colley, of the Diocese of Worcester, to become archdeacon in his see. Mr. Colley consulted his bishop and the Archbishop of Canterbury, and both advised him to accept the appointment. Said the Bishop of Worcester: "Though I am far from agreeing with the Bishop of Natal in all the opinions he has published, I can heartily wish God speed to him and to all who labor with him in his diocese."

—The Episcopal prayer-book has a rubric directing that no one be admitted to the communion who has not been confirmed or is ready and desirous to be confirmed. But many Episcopal ministers restrict that rule to Episcopalians, and admit Christians of other denominations without scruple. The Churchman thinks it a question for each minister's discretion. But Bishop Whitehouse, of Illinois, the Standard says, decides that there is no rightful discretion, and that the practice is wrong.

THE EXCLUSION OF MISSIONARIES.—At a largely-attended meeting of the clergy of the district, held at Plymouth, it was unanimously decided to request the bishop of the diocese to write to the colonial secretary, representing the extreme inadvisability of permission being given by her majesty's government to John Dunn and other chiefs selected to rule provinces in Zululand to have the power of excluding missionaries from any part of the country over which her majesty's government have control.

—Another African bishop, Bishop Moore, of the Zion Church, is in England, soliciting help for the educational establishments of his denomination. He is described as appearing "to be a truly devout and earnest man, and an acceptable preacher."

—At the Baptist State Convention of New York the following statement was made:

"In 1807 this Convention was organized in the town of Pompey, Onondaga county. There were then 144 churches, with a membership of less than 10,000. At present there were 881 churches, with 115,000 membership. The missionary churches alone numbered 508, with a membership of 58,000. These latter were the fruit of the State Convention, directly or indirectly." The net gain of members the past year was 7,131.

—The Church Union (Ritualist) has invited the Church Association to join with it in protesting against the horrible theft of a consecrated wafer from the Bardesley Church, in order to produce it in the ecclesiastical court in the Bardesley ritual case. In this way, says the Union, the oft-repeated declaration that the Association promotes strife and division can be disproved. The Association declines, on the ground that no practical advantage would follow.

—A committee appointed by the Victoria Wesleyan Conference to prepare a report on the subject, has recommended to the district meetings to be voted upon a provision that the maximum term of service of a minister in a circuit be lengthened from three years to six years, the appointments still to be annual, but that no appointment beyond the present term of three years be made except by a two-thirds majority of a quarterly meeting.

—Very suggestive was the question which formed the title of a paper read at the recent English Social Science Congress: "Is it a legal or moral duty for a civilized nation to observe, toward an uncivilized race, lands or principles which that race either ignores or persistently neglects?" The immediate bearing of the question was upon the British proceedings in Afghanistan and Zululand.

—The first of a series of monthly united meetings of the English-speaking congregations in Paris to promote evangelization was held on the third instant. The Rev. R. McCall gave an account of the operations begun by him eight years ago, and spoke warmly of the aid rendered him by the English and American ministers. Almost all the English and American clergymen in Paris were present at the meeting.

—The United Brethren Almanac for 1880 is out early this year. It reports 1,356 churches, showing an increase of 169 during the year; 151,797 members, increase 2,565; and 2,217 ministers, a gain of 65. The salaries of ministers amount to $313,065, against $316,415 the previous year. The contributions for missions reached $35,514, an increase of $1,657. The grand total of contributions was $661,662, an increase of $13,016.

—Dr. V. M. White, of London, publishes statistics to show that Catholicism is declining, relatively, in the United Kingdom. In 1811 the Catholics formed twenty-seven per centum of the population; now their proportion is eighteen per centum. He thinks, however, that the political influence of the Church of Rome has increased.

—The Abbe Meigne, of France, believes that he can go to the exact spot where the Egyptians were swallowed up in the Red Sea, and is seeking a subscription of 300,000 francs to dig in the place and find the remains, to be a visible evidence of one of the very few Scriptural events of which some kind of a profane record has not yet been found.

—Mr. Spurgeon, after announcing his text on a recent Sabbath morning, said that the discourse he was about to deliver would be the 1,500th sermon which had been preached from his pulpit and often printed week by week.

—Mr. Burnaby Thiebe, of Bulbridge Mearstone, in Newport and Cowes circuit, Isle of Wight, died October 5. For thirty years he was connected with the Methodist cause in the village of Mearstone, where the "Dairyman's Daughter" was a member.

—King Mondgk, of Kon, South Abyssinia, has abolished slave-trading in his realm and on his frontier, because, as he tells the London Missionary Society, "I am and wish to remain a Christian."

—Mrs. Elizabeth Lansborough Gill, deceased, has left legacies from $500 to $5,000 each, to twenty different British religious and benevolent societies.

—The members of the Metropolitan Tabernacle (Mr. Spurgeon's) Evangelists' Association have during the past year conducted 1,707 services, an average of 33 a week.

—The Wesleyan Thanksgiving collections in the Islands of Guernsey and Jersey amounted to more than $4,165.

—There is a rumor in the air that the Papacy is looking toward Jerusalem as the place to which to transfer the throne of the Pope.

—The Catholic Congress of Germany will be held this year at Aix-la-Chapelle.

Our Young People.

A BIT OF LOGIC.

BY ROSA GRAHAM.

Baby Berry sat at table,
On the great Thanksgiving-day,
Gazing down upon the platter,
Where the well-browned turkey lay.
Berry's first Thanksgiving dinner—
What did all this woe beginner?
"Don't you like it, dear?" I said;
Baby Berry raised her head,
Opened her blue eyes big and solemn
"Does 'oo fink," the answer sped,
"It were wight to kill the birdie?"
Don't seem wight at all to me,
Pause—but four merry peals of laughter
Drowned her words—and promptly,
This rare-hearted young logician
Picked at her belated dinner.
Sudden looked, in spelling mood,
Espying her diminished food,
And said: "I does 'oo wight to kill him
Or he wouldn't taste so good?"

White Aprons.

Death of Our Pastor.

SUMMERFIELD, ALA., Dec. 1, '79.

MR. EDITOR: Last Wednesday evening, as the winter sun was setting, our dear pastor, Mr. Lightfoot, closed his labors and his life and was received into the house which has many mansions. Our eyes will never again look with joy and pride upon his noble face. But time cannot efface from our young hearts the impression made by his kind and gentle manner.

Many able notices of his life and death will be written, but, Dr. Parker, he loved children and we loved him, and feel that we have a right to declare our love for him. Almost every child in Summerfield claimed to be his favorite, and to love him more than any of the others did. I know that he was my friend. I am poorer by his death. He received me into the church. As long as my life lasts I will cherish his kind, loving words. His sermons, always good, were becoming more impressively spiritual, but how simple when compared with his glorious Christian death. Oh! it is hard to give our pastor up, but we will try to follow him. Yesterday our church was draped in black. Dr. Loveless preached a solemn, touching sermon. Mr. Rush closed the memorial services with beautiful and appropriate remarks. It was a day to be marked by gloom we can never forget it. Your young friend,

GEORGIA DAVIS.

A Tale of a Tub.

We believe it was Sydney Smith who said that in time of danger, absence of body was better than presence of mind, and most people will be inclined to agree with the genial divine. The following anecdote of his boyhood will show however, that the future wit evinced the possession of the latter quality at an early age.

At the time of which we write, his father occupied, with his family, the habitable part of an old ruined castle near Woodford, in Essex. At a short distance from the castle was a sheet of water, large enough, in English eyes, to be dignified with the title of lake. Young Sydney, although unable to swim, was passionately fond of boating, but his aquatic aspirations were sadly restricted by the fact that he had no boat, and his father being decidedly opposed to his venturing upon the water at all, was not likely to provide one for him.

In this dilemma Sydney's inventive genius soon found a way of overcoming the difficulty. Taking his little sister into his confidence, he surreptitiously possessed himself of a large tub from the castle laundry, and persuading her to accompany him, launched it upon the lake. Provided with a small piece of board as a paddle, the adventurous young navigator managed to paddle his unwieldy craft to the very middle of the lake.

He was greatly elated by his success, and waved his paddle triumphantly aloft with the air of a conqueror. Alas! it slipped from his hand, fell into the water, and floated off beyond his reach, leaving him without any means of propulsion, at the mercy of the winds and the waves. There was nothing left but to cultivate patience, and wait for succor; so, like a new Diogenes, he remained seated in his tub, trying to calm the fears of his sister, who was now badly frightened and crying bitterly.

It was not long before the perilous position of the two children was detected from the house, and soon the father and mother, with all the household at their heels, ran down to the bank in great alarm. Indeed, the situation was one of real peril. The crank, top-heavy craft in which they were embarked seemed ready to capsize every instant, and the agonized father could think of no means of rescuing his darlings that did not involve so much loss of time as to invite a catastrophe.

A favorite dog had followed the others to the shore, and as if understanding that something was amiss, several times plunged into the water, and after swimming a little way returned, apparently conscious of his inability to help.

Young Sydney, however, who had remained cool and collected, despite the lamentations of his mother and brothers, suddenly exclaimed: "Get a rope, father, get a rope and tie it to Jack's collar; perhaps I can pull him to me!"

His father, filled with admiration for the courage and self-possession of the boy, quickly procured a rope, and tying one end to Jack's collar, pointed to the tub, while Sydney at the same time called and whistled to the dog. The intelligent animal at once sprang into the water and swam out toward the tub, while Mr. Smith paid out the rope from the shore, and Sydney encouraged the dog with shouts of "Here, Jack! Here, Jack! Good dog! good fellow!" and the like. It was a long swim, and the anxious watchers hardly hoped that the dog could accomplish it; but he stuck to his task bravely, and at length reached the tub, and was seized by the collar by his delighted young master. Emptying the rope from the dog's neck, Sydney fastened it to the tub, and was speedily drawn to the shore, where the children were instantly clasped in the arms of their over-joyed parents.—Freeman's Journal.

WHAT BOYS SHOULD BE.—1. Be true—be genuine. No education is worth anything that does not include this. A man had better not know how to read the bad letter never learn a letter of the alphabet, and be true and genuine in intention and in action, rather than being learned in all sciences and in all languages, to be at the same time false in heart and counterfeit in life.

2. Be pure in thought, language—pure in mind and body. An impure man, young or old, poisoning the society where he moves with smutty stories and impure examples, is a moral ulcer, a plague spot, a leper who ought to be treated as were the lepers of old.

3. Be unselfish. Care for the feelings and comforts of others. Be polite. Be just in all dealings with others. Be generous, noble and manly.

4. Be self reliant and self-helpful even from early childhood. Be industrious always, and self supporting at the earliest proper age. All honest work is honorable, and all idle, useless life of dependence on others is disgraceful.

When a boy has learned these four things, which he has made these ideas a part of his being—however young he may be, however poor, or however rich—he has learned some of the most important things he ought to know when he becomes a man.—Home Arts.

"JEST COMFERABLE."—"Where is mamma?" cried the eyed Bessie, coming breathlessly into the room the other morning. "Never mind, you'll do, supey; I only want to know something. Is my parish?"

"No, very. Why?"

"'Cause Bennie Bond and May Monk and Kate Kinsley are out there, telling about their pas, and I didn't know about mine."

"Well, Bessie, I'll tell you. Your papa is not a too rich and not too poor; he is just comfortable."

The child stood for a moment, looking thoughtfully then repeated over and over to herself, "Not weddy rich, not weddy poor, 'jest comferable,'" and went out.

Presently her mother came in. Bessie following her. "Well, Bessie and the, have you been a good girl to-day?"

"No, mamma."

"Why, Bessie, I hope you have not been a bad girl?"

"No, mamma," said the little thing. "Not weddy bad, not weddy good; just comferable."

GOD'S FLOWERS.—Some one has called children by the sweet name "God's flowers." I have been wondering lately how many children have a right to the name, for you know there are many things besides flowers in a garden. There are weeds rank and useless, and some kinds of weed look so very like flowers that only the gardener's eye can tell the difference. I want you, dear children, to ask yourselves to-day whether you are weeds or flowers.

In order to be one of God's flowers you must be planted by Him. The gardener does not plant weeds. There is a short passage in the Bible which says, "Every plant that my Heavenly Father hath not planted shall be rooted up." You must be "rooted" in Christ and grow upon Him, drinking in your life from Him as the little weeds drink in the rain and sunshine of the sky. What use will you be if you become God's flowers? Have you ever wondered of what use the real flowers are? How dark the earth would be without them! They do not do much, but their soft beauty brings pleasure to both their Maker, and their sweet fragrance carries comfort to many a weary heart.

This is what you can do, little ones, if you are God's flowers. Your very sweetness and beauty, caused by drinking in the sunshine of God's smile, and the dew of His word, will be a witness to Him and men seeing it will glorify your Father which is in heaven.

What are you, children—weeds or flowers? Won't you come to Jesus and ask Him to make you His very own children, now and forever?—Eva Travers, in the Christian.

A GOOD ONE.—A gentleman on the streets of Albany, N. Y., prayed on a Sabbath evening in a Methodist church, and was politely let to a front seat. After Rev. David Ostrander ended his sermon, a Brother McKendree arose and gave his experience of how he was converted from Roman Catholicism, and made a new creature. This was a new way to gain a new place for a Roman Catholic. This experience awakened our young friend, and led to his conversion. He subsequently came to New York, and in 1819, when Mark Moore was spoken of as likely to be sent to New Orleans as a pioneer, it was objected that he would not get his support. Our young friend drew up a subscription paper for those who would give six per year, showed it to G. P. Disosway, John Harper, and others; also to Rev. Joshua Soule, the book agent, who upon looking at it said, "This thought is capable of expansion." He did expand it by bringing it before the next Quarterly Conference of New York City, which at that time included all the preachers and the officers of all the churches in the city. It found favor with the leading members present—Nathan Bangs, Frederick Farrington, Laban Clark, and others; Daniel Ayres, and other laymen. Before the year closed the Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church was organized. The young man of 1819 was the present octogenarian, beloved of all who know him as Rev. Daniel De Vinne.—New York Mission Rooms, Methodist Episcopal Church.

The Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES OF THE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1879.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Divine Guidance.

Will God guide? This question comes up in almost every phase of life. Reason has been given us, and the presumption is that we are to use it. We have physical senses, muscle, hands, feet, and they, too, are to be employed. The material world is about us, and the channels of business and of industry are open in many directions. Having done all, as reason and strength permit, have we the right to fall back upon the divine arm, and to rest in the assurance that we shall be directed and sustained?

It is written that "the steps of the good man are ordered of the Lord." Let us also mark another important declaration: "In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths." So abundant are the testimonies of Scripture on this point, we cannot doubt their meaning. A man may be in great straits, at his wit's end, and with no clear vision of the way he should take, and yet it is written: "If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not, and it shall be given him." The vital condition would seem to be that, after having used our powers of understanding and our strength to their utmost, under a sense of reliance upon God, we are then to trust implicitly. There must be on our part the spirit of docility and submission, and the disposition to yield our own wishes and plans to the will of God. Balaam sought the divine guidance, and yet he was perversely bent upon having his own way. Covetousness possessed him, and at the same time there was a sense of dependence and need of God's approval. Sordidness overcame him, and he was ruined.

In thought and purpose we may cling to our own schemes, and strive in our prayers to bring God over to our way of thinking. We wish for His help and blessing, but hold tenaciously to our own way. We would be rich, prosperous, exempt from sickness and affliction. We have chosen our pursuit and determined our course in life. The turn which our piety takes is not to submit all these to God, but rather it is an effort to get Him to bless the way of our own choosing and to give us the things that we have set our hearts on. Then, again, there may be a difficulty in the matter of our own faithfulness. Will God guide the unfaithful servant? If we do not acknowledge Him in all our ways, there is a flaw in the application of the promise. The steps of the good man are ordered of the Lord, but am I good? Perhaps we do not seek first the kingdom of God. At heart we are seeking first the things of the world, and then we wonder that we do not prosper.

God has promised to guide us, but how can He, if we are unwilling to be guided? We wish for God to give success to our own plans, and to bring about the consummation of our desires. It is more a purpose to guide God than to be guided by Him. In this matter of guidance we must make sure of our willingness to be guided before we doubtingly inquire: Will God guide us? A good man may be weak-minded, the elements of what is called worldly success may not be in him, and he may make mistakes of judgment, but, if faithful and true to God, his steps will be divinely ordered. All things will work together for good to him. His very blunders in worldly wisdom will somehow be sanctified and overruled, and the hand of the Lord will be with him.

This complete submission, and disposition to be taught of God, and unreserved purpose to be in all things conformed to the divine will, is comparatively a rare character. Our doubts and perplexities grow out of a misconception of what divine guidance is, and of the conditions which make it possible. The conflict is between self and God. We may ask how does God guide, but more frequently the ground of skepticism is in our own experience. Have we not prayed, have we not asked? But in what spirit have we prayed, and for what have we asked? Perhaps, after all, we have only prayed that God would come to us, and ally himself with us in our enterprises, while we have not come to God, and asked him to choose our lot for us, and to bless only that which ought to be blessed.

God will guide us with His counsels if we are willing to take His counsels. He will add all the needful things when we reach the point of supreme devotion to Him, and when His kingdom and righteousness are with us absolutely first. He knows how to adjust the mistakes and infirmities of good men, and send a blessing upon the weak and ignorant. The seeming damages that arise from the errors of holy men can be repaired by the infinite wisdom, and the heart that is sound in the statutes will never be left alone in its perplexities. God can and does guide the consecrated, trusting soul.

The Decreasing Spirit.

This is a grace as valuable as rare. To exercise it cheerfully commands the sublimest faith and most intelligent perception of Christian obligation and reward. It was voiced by John the Baptist, in these words: "He must increase, but I must decrease." John's disciples brought him intelligence of Jesus' baptizing, and the multitudes flocking to him. His reply revealing the depth of his inner life, and the clear comprehension of his true relation to God, ought to be written in gold upon the door posts of every heart. He said: "Ye yourselves bear me witness that I said I am not the Christ, but that I am sent before Him. He that hath the bride is the bridegroom, but the friend of the bridegroom, which standeth and heareth him, rejoiceth greatly because of the bridegroom's voice: This, my joy, therefore is fulfilled. He must increase, but I must decrease." This was not the reluctant acknowledgment of the inevitable. He did not say: "I yield, because I cannot resist." But with joyful faith bore testimony to the greater glory of his Lord, whose coming he had foretold.

John recognized and rejoiced in his true rank. He enthroned the master above his servant, the king above his subject, the bridegroom above his waiting friend. "I am not the Christ," but only His witness and forerunner. Let the multitudes gather about Him and be saved. In His successes I rejoice, and am a partaker." Such a spirit challenges emulation. We are servants, Christ the Master. To bear witness of Him is our divine employ. Wherever successes attend our labors, and victories crown our banners, He claims and deserves the glory. We serve by His command, and are sustained by His strength. Without Him we can do nothing. But here is our temptation. We are too prone to exalt the servant above his Lord. Spiritual and pastoral successes we attribute to our own wisdom and skillful administration. For these years of abundant harvests we want credit. Alas! how many have grown dissatisfied and censorious because, as they think, the true need of praise has not been accorded. In this they arrogate to themselves the honor which only belongs to the Master. A pastor goes to a new circuit. It is mid-winter. The weather is inclement, roads are well-nigh impassable, church buildings are uncomfortable, and congregations small. By and by, with opening of spring, congregations increase, hybernating Sunday-schools draw out, prayer-meetings are reorganized, some good revivals are held, and he writes: "When I came to this charge there were neither prayer meetings nor Sunday-schools, and congregations were very small. Now we have Sunday-schools, good congregations at every appointment, and —— accessions. To God be all the glory!" Surely the glory belongs to the Lord, but the impression will not down that the brother felt he also deserved high honor. John the Baptist was willing for Christ to be exalted and himself forgotten. He must increase, His kingdom will be enthroned above all principalities and powers. So may it be, though I fade from the eyes and am forgotten by the lips of men. To render zealous, divine service purely for the work's sake, without having due acknowledgment, is a test of faith. Those who can so live and labor illustrate a sublime character of rare type.

John also rejoiced in the increasing labors and honors of another. His own ministry was exceptional in grand success. No man since the heroic days of Elijah the Tishbite—his prophetic prototype—had so startled the slumbering conscience of the world, and attracted such eager multitudes. So inspiring was his zeal, and so marvelous the power of his rustic eloquence, that many would hail him as the Christ himself. Now, after all this unusual popular favor, he saw Jesus come forth and attract even wider attention. His disciples forsook him for the true Messiah. The common people heard him gladly, and crowded along his pathway. John saw his own star fade before the supernal brightness of the rising Sun of Righteousness. This, to his heart of faith, was cause for rejoicing. To see another supplant him awakened neither envy nor opposition. In this he is eminently worthy of emulation. To decrease gracefully before the increasing usefulness and popularity of another demands grace in no ordinary measure. An old veteran of the field—the successful commander of many brilliant campaigns—is reluctant to yield his high place to a younger and stronger chieftain. To see his star decreasing, and another ascending, with possibly a brighter ray, is hard for the old hero to endure. And so with the veterans of the Lord's hosts. To yield the field they have so long commanded, to retire from active service, and rejoice in the gifts and conquests of younger men called of God to posts of command, taxes faith to its utmost tension. A lack of this grace—a failure to extend the congratulatory hand, and bid them a hearty God speed—has stayed the march and chilled the faith, and wounded the spirit of many a brave young soul designed of Heaven for a hero. To leave a pastorate, and have a successor achieve greater success, and enjoy wider popularity, ought to fill us with joy. This may also apply to the laity. There is oftimes reluctance to surrender place to the younger and more enterprising. A brother may have ranked in the ordinary of the church for years, and now to return to the line, and follow the leadership of a younger, is beyond the measure of his grace. The spirit of John the Baptist ought to be revived. We should bless the Lord that others are coming to the front to occupy our places—that when the flag-staff falls from our palsied hand another is ready to grasp it, and bear it aloft to greater victory. Thus God carries on His work. For every faithful Moses He raises up a courageous Joshua. For every ascended Elijah there is a devoted Elisha. Should a Saul prove faithless, a David will arise to grace his throne and adorn his crown. Should an Iscariot betray his Lord, a noble Matthias will succeed to his ministry and apostleship. However valiantly we have fought and zealously labored, and heroically endured, we must decrease. The ranks will close up so soon as we have fallen. Let us thank God that it is so; work for our very work's sake, and welcome into the field every one who can wield a sword or wave a flag, or bear a shield. We have a common cause, and will share a common triumph.

C. H. G.

Notes from Nashville.

The Vanderbilt clock has just struck five. Chanticleer has just sounded his matin horn. I have just been out "surveying the heavens." How could I help it when Lucifer was chasing Pleione in the southeastern sky, where last night, when I retired, Sirius was chasing Orion; watched on the one side by Mars and Saturn, and on the other by Jupiter, while lesser orbs peered out in wonder at the grand display. Oh, yes, the great poet was right:

> Look how the floor of heaven
> Is thick inlaid with patines of bright gold:
> There's not the smallest orb which thou behold'st,
> But in his motion like an angel sings,
> Still quiring to the young-eyed cherubins.

But there is one thing lacking in that exquisite passage. Addison supplies it:

> For ever singing as they shine,
> "The Hand that made us is divine."

Verily, Dr. Young is right: "An undevout astronomer is mad."

It is Monday morning. I preached yesterday morning for our Presbyterian brethren of Morse Memorial Church, as I did the Sunday before; their pastor, Mr. McNeilly, having made his farewell visit to Houston, but has been detained in Kentucky by personal affliction. It is hoped he will be in his pulpit next Sunday. In the afternoon I preached in Vanderbilt Chapel. A month ago I suffered from a catarrh, which left some bronchial disturbance, which I apprehended would interfere with my preaching; but I am happy to say that a couple of sermons each Sunday, and a few other vocal efforts, seem to have had a curative effect, proving a more efficacious remedy than "the doctors' stuff," on which so many rely. But I must speak respectfully of doctors—they are my good friends—they help me often, and generally gratis. They do more work for nothing than any other men I know, except preachers. A young physician told me that in about a twelve-month his bill at the druggist's for medicines which he prescribed to poor patients, who could neither pay him for his practice, nor for the medicines which he prescribed, was between two and three hundred dollars, which he paid.

We have but a corporal's guard just now at the Publishing House. Drs. McFerrin, Wilson, Young and Fitzgerald are attending Conferences. The business manager has just returned from a visit to the North Georgia Conference, where Bishop Keener presided with great satisfaction, in place of Bishop Doggett, who has been sick, but, we trust, has recovered his health so as to be able to attend the South Georgia and Florida Conferences, which are imminent. Bishop McTyeire is attending Conferences in Texas. Dr. Kelley, associate treasurer of the Board of Missions, has removed to his country home, between Nashville and Lebanon. He is rendering valuable assistance to the Board, which, by the way, holds its monthly meeting next Wednesday—that is, if we can get a quorum; but with our forces so scattered that is very doubtful. I am not afraid to say the General Conference ought to put more residents in or about Nashville in the Board of Missions. The paucity greatly annoys us. "This would be considered."

A distinguished minister, who visited us not long since, said he had heard a good deal about a Nashville ring; he had looked for it, but could not find it. I fear that he went away with the impression that there is here too much individuality (or whatever else you may call it,) but I hope he will not think that we are lacking in harmony. Our General Conference officers are members of various Annual Conferences, as are the clerical professors at Vanderbilt, and every man, as far as I know, is true as steel to his Conference relations, and compromises not one jot or tittle of his independence by his official position. As for myself—and I am not disposed to say much about so poor a creature as I feel myself to be—I am devoted to my own noble Conference, but my devotion to that makes me none the less a connectional man. I have labored all my official life to promote all our connectional interests—indeed, the interests of Ecumenical Methodism—and, leaping all boundaries, I say, from my heart: "Grace be with all them that love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity."

We are bringing out the Southern Methodist Almanac for 1880. It is an interesting annual. Besides the usual calendar pages, it has a good deal of information concerning our own connection—full statistics—also a general view of all the Methodist bodies the world over, and other matters of interest. I think it will be considered very useful.

We have just printed for the author—I saw it through the press for her—a beautiful and interesting book on Florida and Cuba, bearing a somewhat flowery title: "Petals Plucked from Sunny Climes. By Silvia Sunshine." It is a handsome duodecimo of 495 pages—the best book on Florida I have seen.

We have in press the Southern Methodist Quarterly Review for January, 1880. It will contain a good mélange of able papers—Methodist Episcopacy, Rise of Monotheism in Greece, Bible Revision, Studies in Shakspeare (being a most exquisite analysis of "The Merchant of Venice," by one who has studied that marvelous work of dramatic art, as no one before seems to have done,) The Problem of Life (being a philosophical analysis of Ecclesiastes, by a master hand,) Spencer's "First Principles" (handled without gloves,) The Providential Uses of Pain (a powerful reply to an objectionable article, by an eminent scientist in the Cotemporary Review.) There will be a rich department of Literary Notices from able pens, and notes and queries of general interest, affording that variety which is the spice of a Quarterly Review. Dr. Young, as publisher, spares us reasonable expense in regard to mechanical execution, and the editor does "the best his circumstance allows"—wishing all the time he could help on the work without bearing the burden of responsibility. He will drop it if the work shall not meet the reasonable demands of those concerned.

Vanderbilt is moving on in the even tenor of the way. The gymnasium is a unique and beautiful edifice, in the northwest corner of the campus. The boys are getting their athletic suits, and the exercises will soon begin. The edifice for the Civil Engineering Department is approaching completion, and the deep and broad excavations for new Wesley Hall are made for the foundations, which are being laid. All the professors are in their place, except Dr. Lipscomb, who is convalescent, and expects to be in his chair after Christmas, though he is deeply affected, and, I fear, thrown back in his convalescence, by the news of the illness of his venerable father, who has had a paralytic stroke. His great age warrants serious forebodings. But why speak so? He shall come to his grave, or rather go to his heaven, in a full age, like as a shock of corn cometh in in his season.

God bless you, Mr. Editor. I hope to meet you next week in Tuskegee, at the Alabama Conference.

THOS. O. SUMMERS.

NASHVILLE, Dec. 8, 1879.

P. S.—Since writing the foregoing, I learn that Dr. Young has returned, to be present at the marriage to-morrow of his nephew, David Moore Smith, to Miss Virginia J. Cunnyngham, a lovely and accomplished young lady, daughter of our beloved confrere, Dr. Cunnyngham. Everybody commends the union, and blesses the bridal pair.

T. O. S.

Us and Our Appointments.

MR. EDITOR: We will soon go up to Conference to report our works, and receive other appointments. Where will I be sent? is the question. It is difficult to keep from wishing to be sent to this or that good place. To prevent disappointment, I always try to keep myself free from a desire to be sent to any particular place. But this time I go up half desiring a certain work. I assure you I would not mention this if I thought it would have the least bearing on the mind of the Bishop, for I might get the work, and be subjected to the accusation of influencing my own appointment, "which thing I hate."

Earnestly hoping the "cabinet" will not pay the least attention to what I say here, I express some desire to be sent where I don't want to go. Not that I am seeking martyrdom, but that I desire success. I knew of some half dozen preachers that were literally sacrificed at our last session, so they thought. One has done one of the very best years' work of his life. One poor fellow wrung his hands in anguish—didn't see how a set of men could be so regardless of a brother's interest—but he went like a man to his work. Your "field notes" give strong testimony of his success—many converts, many Advocates taken, collections coming up finely.

Another brother was greatly desired by a charge, he supposed, but was sent whirling in another direction, greatly to his sorrow and chagrin. Being nimble, he caught on his feet like a cat, went to work, success crowned his efforts. His presiding elder thinks it one of the best appointments the Bishop made. Two others had selfish officials to "wash their hands of them," hurling them off at random, without a care for their interests. As to them it appeared they talked about transfers, going to where they would be appreciated, but they went to their works, and, instead of finding heathen, found cultured people, many of them more so than themselves. They are greatly beloved, and are doing fine works. Finances all right. Is not the finger of God in this matter? Do not the presiding elder know more about us than we know about ourselves? They certainly do, as far as our availableness in the work is concerned. Who is a dispassionate, unbiased judge of his own merits? We are as apt to go above as fall below the truth in this matter, especially if we make our estimate from what we hear said of us. Compliments reach our ears more easily than criticisms. Some kindly-hearted sister, or good-natured brother, lavishes upon our attentive ears the good things said about us, but are too polite and tender hearted to wound us with criticisms.

Some of us have many fine points, and yet are tided back by some weakness, some slight defect or eccentricity clear to others, but that we are not ourselves very conscious of. This one is scholarly but unsocial, and dry as a preacher. This one has a fine fund of information, but lacks common sense. Here is a good, sensible man and a very fair preacher, but he lacks somewhat in that grace in manner that suits a station. Here is a good, easy, social, clever, fizzy sort of fellow, that everybody likes, but nobody wants for their pastor. If he should judge by the way people treat him, he would think he was wanted everywhere. I once thought I was the man for a certain work; they told me so. It seemed to me that everybody desired it, and I was perfectly willing to go, but was sent elsewhere. I learned about a year afterward they told my presiding elder a different tale. I have been very careful since then in supposing that any place wanted me.

The case is rare that we may not rest ourselves in the hands of the presiding elders and Bishops. These ought to be God-loving and God-fearing men. To them two sides of the question are presented, and they are possibly in as much danger of afflicting a work with us as afflicting us in a work.

T.

THE EXODUS.—Bishop Miles, of the colored M. E. Church, of America, who is well and favorably known in this section of the country, and who has traveled very extensively through the South, made special inquiry among the leading colored people as to the cause of the exodus. He reports that he learned from the most reliable sources that the movement is entirely political, and organized at Washington, there being no local cause for it whatever.—Lebanon Times.

The Northern press is very much exercised in reference to the exodus of the colored people from the South during the past season. With but few exceptions they attribute the disposition of the negro to leave the home of his childhood to their unjust treatment by the white population.

That this may be the impression of some of them we do not question, but there are journals, and some of them religious journals, in which these statements are made, whose editors have every facility for learning the truth, and whose duty it is to examine into this question before making any further statement on this subject.

Bishop Miles, whose report we copy from the Lebanon Times, is well known as a man of strict integrity and of sound judgment, and whose statements will be taken as true wherever he is known. We think it a pity that the poor negro should allow himself to be the dupe of bad, designing men.—Southern Methodist.

Popery, says the Northwestern Christian Advocate, is the old wolf still. Our mission authorities in New York have advices from Rev. W. Butler, City of Mexico, September 22, respecting another missionary massacre in Mexico, September 16, in Toluca, the capital of the State of Mexico, and sixty miles from the City of Mexico. Mr. Butler says:

The massacre took place in the Presbyterian mission of which Sr. Procopio Diaz is pastor. He is the same man who was in charge at Acapulco some four years ago, when several were murdered. I have not yet learned how many were killed in Tolnca; but one poor fellow was terribly cut and then dragged through the streets, after which he was hung up to a tree, where his body remained all night. All this took place in the capital of the State of the Republic. I have proposed to Mr. Hutchinson, superintendent of Presbyterian missions, that a delegation wait upon President Diaz about the matter. His native preacher is to arrive to-day, and I think the president will be waited upon. Let all Christian people at home remember their missionaries in Mexico in constant prayer. It is certainly a cause of gratitude to Almighty God, that while both the Presbyterian and Episcopal missions have each received two different baptisms of blood, not a man, native or foreigner, of our own has fallen by violence.

CONFERENCES.—The Louisiana Conference met at Baton Rouge on Wednesday, December 10, Bishop Keener presiding, and will probably close Monday night. From that Conference we expect to go to the Mississippi and Alabama Conferences. The former convening at Meridian, Miss., December 17, and the latter at the same date, in Tuskegee, Ala.

We must attend the Louisiana Conference, of course, and after its adjournment spend as much time as possible at the others. We trust the sessions will be harmonious, and occasions of spiritual refreshment and profit. We refrain from any extended homily on the nature of a Conference, and the behavior proper on the part of its members. Bishop Paine presides over the Alabama Conference, and Bishop Kavanaugh over the Mississippi.

The L. P. Preachers', Exhorters' and Sunday School Superintendents' Association, meets first Thursday night every month at the Carondelet Street Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at seven P. M.

At their last meeting the secretary was authorized to call upon the Christian households of this city to donate all the religious papers, Sunday-school periodicals, and other reading matter, lying unused about their houses, to be distributed in the Sunday-schools, missions, Charity Hospital, Boys' House of Refuge and the Parish Prison.

Those who feel disposed to answer to this call can leave or send such papers to Luthrop & Wilkins, 112 Camp street, of the sexton at the Carondelet Street Methodist Church.

SORROW UPON SORROW.—Week before last we published a letter from Rev. T. B. White, of Albany Oregon, bringing the sad tidings of the death of his son, Ernest. Bro. White writes us again saying: "Eleven days after Ernest's death, our dear little Mary Louise Fuller is gone—the angels came and kissed her pure spirit away November 22, aged three years and eight months. Died of scarlet fever." Truly our brother and sister are passing through deep waters. The prayers of their Louisiana friends will go up for them in this hour of deepest sorrow.

MEETING OF MISSIONARIES IN MEXICO.—A social entertainment was recently given at the American Legation, in the City of Mexico, by Mrs. Col. Foster, wife of the United States Minister, at which were present sixteen foreign missionaries of the Presbyterian Church. There are also about this number of Northern Methodists in the same field, and two Southern Methodists.

Mr. Mark Firth, a benevolent gentleman of Sheffield, Eng., has erected at a cost of $100,000, to which he has added $25,000 as the nucleus of an endowment fund, a college, where sons and daughters of poor men, able and industrious, may obtain the benefits of university training.

Louisiana Conference.

This Conference met at Baton Rouge, La., December 10, and adjourned Monday night, December 15 Bishop Keener presided. Other particulars will be given next week. We have only time at present to insert the

APPOINTMENTS.

NEW ORLEANS DIST.—L. Parker, P. E. Carondelet Street, J. B. Walker; Felicity Street, John Hamton; St. Charles Avenue, John Mathews; Moreau Street, J. M. Beard; Louisiana Avenue, C. Keener; Algiers, Lewis A. Reed; Lafourche mission, to be supplied; Baton Rouge, John T. Sawyer, A. G. Miller, supt.; Plaquemine and Grosse Tete, T. K. Fauntleroy; Editor NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, L. Parker; Southwestern Bible Society, Jas. A. Ivy.

DELHI DISTRICT.—B. F. Alexander, P. E. Monroe, Trenton and Delhi, C. W. Carter; Colony and Faulk's Chapel, C. W. Hodge; Bastrop, J. M. McKee; Lind Grove, A. A. Cornett; Oak Ridge, R. S. Trippett; Rayville, N. S. Cornell; Winnsboro, Philip Allen; Water proof, Vidalia and St. Joseph, J. L. Wright; Tensas circuit, J. Lendrum; Tensas Chapel, A. M. Wailes; Lake Providence and Pecan Grove, H. O White; Floyd, T. H. McClendon.

HOMER DISTRICT.—J. H. Stone, P. E. Homer, Jas. A. Parker; Tulip, T. J. Upton; Haynesville, J. A. Miller; Minden, J. E. Bradley; Sparta, R. M. Crowson; Arcadia, J. J. Billingsly; Vernon, J. M. Brown; Indian Village, R. T. Parish; Rochester, to be supplied; Downsville, R. Parvin; Farmersville, J. F. Patterson; Webster, to be supplied.

SHREVEPORT DISTRICT.—R. Randle, P. E. Shreveport, J. T. Davis; Mooringsport, F. S. Ramle; Caddo, G. M. Liverman; Logansport mission, John Pipes; Mansfield, J. Lane Borden; Pleasant Hill, W. D. Saynton; Natchitoches, Thos. J. Hough; Natchitoches circuit, R. M. Bloeser; Anacoco, to be supplied; Springville, A. T. Galloway; Coushatta, J. B. Cassity; South Bossier, J. W. Medlock; North Bossier, R. A. Davis; Many circuit, to be supplied by J. A. Monroe; Cotile, to be supplied; Lone Oak, to be supplied.

ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT.—F. G. Hocutt, P. E. Alexandria and Pineville, J. D. Harper; Rapides circuit, G. N. Whately, supply; Montgomery circuit, William Hart; Hartsonburg and Trinity, C. R. Godfrey; Sicily Island and Buhlt Prairie, W. R. Whately; Jena circuit, C. R. Benson; Columbia, R. S. Isbell; Castor, C. T. Minshollard; Bayou Bœuff and Evergreen, J. L. P. Sheppard, Chas. T. Sivers, Jr., Fred. White, sup.; Spring Creek, S. H. Cooper; Simsport, Patrick Galvin.

OPELOUSAS DIST.—J. M. Johnston, P. E. Opelousas, M. C. Manly; Washington, J. F. Wynn; Vermillionville, B. Clegg; Plaquemine Brulee, J. V. Painter; Abbeville, Enos B. Foust; New Iberia, Alfred E. Clay; Attakapas French mission, W. J. Picot; Franklin, B. F. White; Patterson ville and Morgan City, Samuel Keener; Lake Charles, J. E. Scurlock; Sugar Town, J. W. Hearn; Calcasieu mission, to be supplied (by John Hiney.)

SUPERANNUATES.—H. C. Thweatt, John T. Davis, W. E. Doty, E. W. Yancy, Philo M. Goodwyn, Joel Saunders, W. H. Dillenweirth, J. C. Reid, Jesse Fulton, George Jackson.

TRANSFER.—S. Halsey Wurleln, to Texas Conference; John T. Graham and John W. Chambers, to Mississippi Conference.

WITHDRAWN.—Patrick Lane.

LOCATED.—J. M. Franklin, at his own request.

MARRIED.

ALLEN—STEWART.—In Gainesville, Ala., October 23, 1879, by Rev. J. A. Peterson, Mr. Charles H. Allen to Miss Belle A. Stewart.

HIDDLEY—ORMOND.—Near Shuptersville, Ala., November 13, 1879, by the Rev. J. A. Peterson, Mr. William E. Godfrey to Miss Cornelia Ormond.

WILLIAMS—GIDDS.—Near Gadsdenville, Ala., November 18, 1879, by the Rev. J. A. Peterson, Mr. Charles S. Williams to Miss Eliza T. Gibbs.

WEBSTER—WARNER.—November 26, 1879, at eleven o'clock A. M., at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. Pleasant Warner, by the Rev. J. L. Skipper, Mr. Theo. H. Webster to Miss Sallie W. Warner, all of Crenshaw county, Ala.

PARK—JORDAN.—In Biloxi, Miss., on Saturday, November 29, 1879, by the Rev. W. M. Jordan, Mr. George E. Park to Miss Mary E. Jordan.

HEWSON—CHAPMAN.—In Baton Rouge, La., November 27, 1879, by Rev. John T. Sawyer, at the residence of the bride's father, Benjamin F. Hewson, Esq., of Orange, Texas, and Miss Georgia F. Chapman, of Baton Rouge, La.

HATTIMER—LECROTH.—November 11, 1879, at Mrs. M. E. Lee's, Mount Willing, Lowndes county, Ala., by Rev. T. Y. Abernethy, Mr. J. R. Hattimer to Miss Irene Lecroth, of both county.

REYNOLDS—DUDLEY.—November 13, 1879 at Mr. W. H. Shanks', Forest Home, Butler county, Ala., by Rev. T. Y. Abernethy, Mr. J. W. Reynolds to Miss Katie R. Dudley, both of Butler county, Ala.

WEEMS—STOVALL.—At the residence of the bride's father, Judge C. A. Stovall, December 3, 1879, by Rev. J. M. Weems, Mr. William L. Weems to Miss Sallie F. Stovall, all of Shelmia, Miss.

BYLES—BEURDEAUX.—December 1, 1879, at the residence of Miss Rebecca Rosemo, by Rev. J. L. Skipper, Mr. Littleton Byles to Miss E. W. Beurdeaux, all of Crenshaw county, Ala.

RICHARDSON—HOLLINGSWORTH.—At the residence of the bride's father, Mr. J. H. Hollingsworth, in Yazoo City, Miss., December 9, 1879, by Rev. W. E. Ballard, Mr. J. W. Richardson and Miss Mary Hollingsworth, all of Yazoo county, Miss.

BESLATTER—DAY.—In Baton Rouge, La., December 3, 1879 at the residence of the bride's parents, by Rev. John T. Sawyer, Jean Louis Deslattes, M. D., and Miss Lavinia F. Day.

LEDRETTER—DUNN.—December 9, 1879, at the residence of the bride's father, in Hackneyville, Ala., by the Rev. C. L. Dobbs, Rev. R. N. Ledretter, of the North Alabama Conference, to Miss Luella Dunn.

Publisher's Department.

While we continue to do our best to exclude fraudulent advertisements from the ADVOCATE, parties must judge for themselves as to the real value of the goods advertised. In ordering please mention the ADVOCATE.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.—January next the ADVOCATE office will adopt the cash system, and business thereafter will be conducted on the basis of all the leading papers published. Subscriptions being payable in advance for such length of time as desired. The date of expiration, by months, will appear opposite the name of each subscriber, indicating the subscription expires with the close of that month, at which time the paper will be discontinued, unless renewed. This will materially simplify the office work, as the printer will drop the names according to monthly expiration, and no individual partiality be shown, as every subscriber will have a stopping notice of expiration. It will also facilitate agents in giving receipts in accordance with office accounts, corresponding with printed date. Where advance payment exceeding one year are made the year to which paid will also be inserted. Errors in names and dates will be promptly corrected when advised, and we urge you to notify the office of such cases when known, as our desire is to avoid all friction, or causes for complaint, and have everything as nearly perfect as possible. Accounts will be kept with agents as heretofore, to whom payments may be made, or sent direct to this office, if preferred.

CHOICE DRY GOODS, NOTIONS ETC.—Messrs. E. H. Adams & Bro. have a splendid stock for you to select from, and they have attentive and polite clerks, who understand their business, and will help you in your choice. Fair fresh and first-class goods at low prices they have earned a rep, to maintain that is truly enviable. See advertisement, and call or address them.

COLDS, COUGHS AND CONSUMPTION.—Marshall's Cordial Balm is spoken of very highly as being the very best remedy for the above and for rheumatism, gout and neuralgia. Jenkins' Annihilator ranks high. Give them a trial.

DRUGGIST.—At the corner of Customhouse and Dauphine streets will be found a well kept drug store, containing everything in the patent medicine line, also perfumery and toilet articles. Mr. Arlaud is a practical apothecary, and his medicines are always fresh. Give him a call.

PRACTICAL BUTCHER.—Augustus C. Merkel, at stalls 9-1 and 13 Poydras Market, is the pioneer butcher in the city. He commenced the reduction of the high prices down, and by parting them for the palate of the rich and the poor. There is hardly a boarding house lady, no matter if she lives but can speak highly of the delicious meat with which he supplies them, and dates will be promptly corrected when advised, and we urge you to notify the office of such cases when known, as our desire is to avoid all friction, or causes for complaint, and have everything as nearly perfect as possible. Accounts will be kept with agents as heretofore, to whom payments may be made, or sent direct to this office, if preferred.

SHOE PALACE.—There is nothing that a lady is so particular about with regard to her appearance, as a nice fitting shoe, and nothing that is so remarked by the fashion. By referring your friends to Sol Lion's extra five advertisement, on the space you will find to it that he gets his goods from the best manufacturers, and as he buys large quantities for cash he is thus enabled to give his customers the benefit of low prices. This, combined with good, small expenses, enables him to sell cheaper than any house in the business. People living at a distance can get their shoes as well, by sending direct orders, as if they were here. He is perfectly reliable. Give him a call.

PIANOS.—In buying an instrument there are two important features to be considered. The first is where shall I go to get a first class piano for the least money, and the other no less important consideration, by whom shall I be dealt with honorably? The purchaser from the best manufacturers, and his stock is as large as any in the Southwest. His selections of sheet music are very extensive, and the prices are as reasonable as any in the country. We cordially recommend this gentleman and his line stock to the consideration of our friends. His supply of brass instruments is very extensive. See advertisement.

W. C. SHEPARD & CO.—American, China dinner, breakfast and tea sets, 150 pieces, for $15. Equal in looks and qualities to French china.

THE air of perfection, cleanliness and homelike comfort which is so apparent at the American House, Boston, is one of the characteristic features of that well-conducted establishment. To those disposed to patronize this popular hotel orders are always cordially solicited, also those going by steamer to Boston, having testified its rates to be $3 per day.

Pure Cod Liver Oil made from fresh selected livers on the seashore, by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York. It is absolutely pure and sweet. Patients who have once taken it prefer it to all others. Physicians have declared it superior to any of the other oils in market.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

HEALTH—the poor man's riches, the rich man's bliss—is found by Ayer's Medicines, after a faithless search among other remedies. A word to the wise is sufficient.

$500 REWARD.

They cure all diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Blood, Liver, Nerves, Kidneys and Urinary Organs, and I will be paid for it in case they will not cure or help, or for anything impure or injurious found in them. Moth Patches, Freckles, Tetter, Scald Head, Ringworm, Pimples and Blotches on the face, are speedily removed by the use of Dr. Swayne's Hair Tonic. Sold by druggists. Depot 330 North Eighth street, St. Louis. (Lindell Hotel.)

QUERU'S COD LIVER OIL JELLY.

APPROVED by the Academy of Medicine of New York for coughs, colds, bronchial and tubercular consumption, scrofula and general debility. The most mild, bland and nutritious form in which Cod Liver Oil can be used, and with more benefit secured to the patient by a single teaspoonful of this jelly than by double the quantity of the liquid oil, and the great delicacy stomachs will not reject it. For sale by all druggists, and E. H. TRUEX, 3 Platt st., New York.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

AUGUSTUS C. MERKEL,
Practical Butcher,
Stalls 9, 11 & 13 Poydras Market.
Boarding-houses, Families, Shipping and Steamboats supplied in the shortest notice with everything the market affords and all of the most superior quality, as his arrangements are ample for that purpose. All delivered free of charge.

SOL LION'S SHOE PALACE.
110 & 112 Baronne Street,
Between Poydras and Perdido.
NEW AND FRESH SHOES RECEIVED FOR THE HOLIDAYS
LADIES' FANCY SLIPPERS,
OPERA SLIPPERS,
MIGNON TIES,
Two, Three, Four and Six-Strap TIES,
PINAFORE TIES,
Ladies' French Kid Button BOOTS, French Heel.
Also Opening Carmen Kid Button BOOTS.
Misses' and Children's French Kid and Chrocon Kid Button BOOTS.
INFANTS' SHOES
Of all descriptions, qualities and sizes.
WHITE KID BUTTON BOOTS.
WHITE KID TIES.
WHITE KID SLIPPERS.
Before purchasing elsewhere, Ladies would do well to call and learn our popular prices. We guarantee Shoes from the following factories:
Burts, Strelley, Dunbarr, Sollers, J. Neumayer & Co.
SOL LION & CO.,
110 & 112 Baronne St.
Bet. Poydras and Perdido.

KREEGER,
119 ..... CANAL STREET. 119
Kid Gloves! Kid Gloves!
The Greatest Bargain of the Season.
For the next 10 days we offer to retail only and more than SIX pairs to any one purchaser 4 buttons of SIMPLE GLASS Kid Gloves (worth $1 per pair), equal to three button Kid Gloves sold elsewhere for $1 per pair. The lot of two buttons embraces all the new and most fashionable colors, and every pair will be warranted.
KREEGER,
119 ..... Canal Street. 119

THE MANHATTAN LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY, OF NEW YORK,
The General Agency for the State of Louisiana of the above Company (now the oldest transferred to Messrs. MACSHALL J. SMITH & CO., 80 Gravier's street, jointly and severally with pay premiums due on policies at this office.
Mr. ALEXANDER BONNEVILLE, Jr., has his confection in agency with the Company.
A. E. GRAEFELLER & CO.,
General Southern Agents.

REFERRING TO THE ABOVE, WE RESPECTFULLY solicit the patronage of our friends and the insuring public.
MACSHALL J. SMITH & CO.,
Special Agents, 80 Gravier street.

ACADEMICAL DEPARTMENT OF THE UNIVERSITY OF LOUISIANA.
The second session opened on the first of last October, and will close on the 1st of next June. The fall session offers special inducements.
FACULTY.
R. H. JESSE, Graduate of University of Virginia, Head Master, and Professor of Latin and English Literature.
T. L. ROSS, Graduate of Virginia Military Institute; Professor of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy.
C. HARDIN, M. A., late Fellow in Greek in the Johns Hopkins University, Professor of Greek and the English Language.
M. POLITZIAN, Graduate of the Universities of Naples; Professor of French Language and Literature.
H. DELLBRUGGE, Graduate of the Royal Normal College of Munich; Professor of German Language and Literature.
R. R. MONTGOMERY, Professor of Penmanship and Commercial Course.
ASSISTANTS, Professor Alcee Fortier, Professor L. L. Beattes.
Nothing but English spoken in the French lectures. The English Lectures, about 150 pages will be read this session from each of the principle writers on Shakspere themselves. There is a parallel course of English History extending over the entire period. Next session, the course in Literature will begin with Lord Bacon and end with Edmund Burke. For catalogue and for further information, address H. JESSE, President. Office 50 Bar one and Common. Business hours from 10 to 4 on Tuesdays excepted.

W. C. SHEPARD & Co.,
AMERICAN CHINA HOUSE,
49 Camp Street, New Orleans.
We append a few prices:
The American China Dinner, Breakfast and Tea Set, comprising 160 Pieces for $15.
A Real French China Dinner set, 115 Pieces, for $20.
English Stone China Dinner Set, 121 Pieces, for $12.
English Stone China Chamber Set, comprising 10 Pieces, for $2 50.
Decorated Chamber Sets, with different colored Bands, 10 Pieces for $1 50.
Glass Goblets from 50 cents to $1 00 per dozen.
Particular attention given to Novelties and Specialties pertaining to the House Furnishing Department. Orders promptly attended to. We have just received a full and complete stock of holiday goods. Call and examine before purchasing.
W. C. SHEPARD & CO.

X-MAS.
Church & Co.'s
CHRISTMAS SELECTIONS
For 1879.
Six beautiful Carols by the best writers of sacred song. Better than ever for Sunday-Schools, Children and the Home Circle.
Price $1 per hundred; Single copies 5 cents.
"CHURCHES MUSICAL VISITOR,"
A SUPERB NUMBER.
The Holiday Visitor is the most attractive ever printed. Contains original articles from each one of the foremost writers on musical topics. Handsomely Illustrated Poem by Rev. Card, and full page group of "Great Tone Poets." The music includes X-Mas songs by Sullivan, Pinsuti, Root and Sanders; popular song "THE DAY WHEN YOU'LL FORGET ME," piano music by S. G. Pratt, and a lovely "WOODLAND CALM" by Schneider. A rare treat for music-lovers. Price, 25 cents; Subscription, $1 50 a year with premium.
Be sure to send for the Holiday Visitor and have it sent to musical friends. Address
JOHN CHURCH & CO.,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
Or, 805 Broadway, N. Y.

MISCELLANEOUS.

W. G. TEBAULT,
47 Royal Street,
THE CHEAPEST
Furniture House
IN THE CITY.
FIRST CLASS GOODS AT THIRD CLASS PRICES.
THE FINEST ASSORTMENT OF
Modern Designs of Furniture.
TO BE SEEN IN THE CITY.
Fine Ebony and Gilt Parlor Suits. Fine Walnut and Gilt Parlor Suits in Goblelin, Raw Silks, etc. Fine Walnut Chamber Suits. Fine Walnut Dining-Room Suits. Folding Carpet Chairs and Rockers, of all descriptions.
A VERY COMPLETE ASSORTMENT OF
Medium and Common Furniture
Notwithstanding Fossil Fuel has advanced fifteen per cent., I will offer my furniture stock at prices LOWER THAN EVER, which I am compelled to do to make room for other goods, which will arrive in the next ten days.
Look for the large sign across the street.
W. G. TEBAULT,
47 Royal Street.

BLACK AND FANCY SILKS AND Winter Dress Goods, Cloaks and Shawls.
FLANNELS AND BLANKETS.
CARPETS, MATTINGS AND RUGS.
CRUMB CLOTHS, OIL CLOTHS, AND WINDOW SHADES.
Also a full stock of HOUSEKEEPING AND DOMESTIC GOODS.
Although below the late advance, and will be sold at less than the present prices.
HOLIDAY PRESENTS.
Just received a variety of
JAPANESE TOYS AND FINE FANCY ARTICLES,
Gloves and Handkerchief Boxes,
Portemonnaies and Perfumery.
A choice selection of Silk Hamik reticles and Neck Ties.
Embroidered and Plain Linen Handkerchiefs.
Colored and White Embroidered Handkerchiefs.
Lace Fichus, Scarfs and Handkerchiefs.
Children's Embroidered Dresses.
Brocaded Ribbons and Sashes.
A great bargain in REAL VALENCIENNE LACE HANDKERCHIEFS.
J. A. BRASELMAN,
580 ..... Magazine street 588
P. S.—Country Orders solicited. Goods sent to the country C. O. D. Samples free on application.

H. P. BUCKLEY,
CAMP STREET.
GOLD AND SILVER
Stem Winding Watches,
AMERICAN, ENGLISH AND SWISS.
First Quality and Lowest Prices.
DIAMONDS,
JEWELRY AND STERLING SILVERWARE,
At a great reduction.
Special attention to Watch Repairing, Diamond Setting and Jewelry Repairing.

WM. F. MELLEN,
ATTORNEY AT LAW,
12 Carondelet Street,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

W. B. DANIELS,
COMMISSION MERCHANT AND DEALER IN Foreign and Domestic Fruits,
NUTS, ETC.,
18 South Peters St., New Orleans.
Consignments of all kinds of country produce solicited.

G. W. SEATELL,
COTTON FACTOR AND COMMISSION MERCHANT
180 ..... Gravier Street 180
NEW ORLEANS.
Special attention paid to the shipping of orders.

THOMAS MANGAN,
FAMILY GROCER,
AND DEALER IN
ALL KINDS OF COAL AND FIRE WOOD,
cor. Polymnia & St. Charles sts.
NEW ORLEANS.
Wood and Coal Yard, No. 458 St. Charles street.

A. C. DANNER & Co.,
DEALERS IN
Coal, Lumber, Timber, Staves, Etc.
NEW ORLEANS OFFICE:
49 Carondelet street, corner Union.

DR. ROBERT J. MAINEGRA,
WILL BE AT
FREE CONSULTATIONS DAILY
FROM 7 TO 10 A. M.
At the Washington Avenue Drug Store, corner Magazine and Washington streets.
The Doctor is a practitioner of long experience, and has acquired a professional celebrity in the treatment of diseases of an acute or chronic character.

THE "RED STORE."
Cor. Rampart & Poet Sts., New Orleans.
Choice Family Groceries,
C. EYEBETT, Proprietor.
Goods delivered free of Drayage to all parts of the City.

Millinery and Dressmaking.
Mme. E. Foerster
has removed to her new and elegantly appointed store
15 ..... Baronne Street 15
OPPOSITE GRUNEWALD HALL,
where she is ready for her many lady friends with a splendid stock of FRENCH IMPORTED MILLINERY GOODS, HATS, BONNETS, PLUMES, FLOWERS, and all the novelties of the season in Fancy Goods. DRESSES, CLOAKS, and COSTUMES, made up in the most elegant styles.

JAMES H. LAWS & CO.,
Commission Merchants,
CINCINNATI, O.
I make liberal cash advances on CONSIGNMENTS OF SUGAR AND MOLASSES to Jas. H. Laws & Co., Cincinnati.
L. C. KREVER,
142 Gravier street, New Orleans.

MISCELLANEOUS

LEON ARLAUD,
- DRUGGIST -
Cor. Customhouse and Dauphine Sts., New Orleans.
PURE AND GENUINE DRUGS. GUARANTEED UNADULTERATED.
Medicines, Perfumery, etc. Specialty of Rubber's Eau de Cologne.

AVERY PLOWS TRIUMPHANT!!
AT GEORGIA AND ALABAMA FAIRS.
NORTH GEORGIA STOCK AND Fair Association, HELD IN NOVEMBER, AT ATLANTA.
AWARDED
B. F. AVERY & SONS.
ELEVEN PREMIUMS.
1. Best One-horse Plow, Light soil ..... Silver Medal
2. Best One-horse Plow, heavy soil ..... Silver Medal
3. Best Two-horse Plow, light soil ..... Silver Medal
4. Best Two-horse Plow, heavy soil ..... Silver Medal
5. Best Sub-soil Plow ..... Silver Medal
6. Best Middle Plow ..... Silver Medal
7. Best Plow Stock ..... Silver Medal
8. Best Rolling Plow ..... Silver Medal
9. Best Cotton Scraper ..... Silver Medal
10. Best Cotton Sweep ..... Silver Medal
11. The great Display ..... Silver Medal

Georgia State Fair, HELD IN NOVEMBER, AT MACON AWARDED
B. F. AVERY & SONS.
EIGHT PREMIUMS.
1. Best One-horse Plow ..... Gold and Diploma
2. Best Two-horse Plow ..... Gold and Diploma
3. Best Sub-soil Plow ..... Gold and Diploma
4. Best Rolling Plow ..... Gold Medal
5. Best Cotton Sweep ..... Gold Medal
6. Best Plow Stock ..... Gold Medal
7. Best Display ..... Fine Silver Medal

Alabama State Fair, HELD IN NOVEMBER, AT MONTGOMERY
AWARDED
B. F. AVERY & SONS.
FIVE PREMIUMS.
1. Best One-horse Plow ..... Gold Medal
2. Best Two-horse Plow ..... Gold Medal
3. Best Sub-soil Plow ..... Gold Medal
4. Best Walking Cultivator ..... Gold Medal
5. Best Display of Plows ..... Gold Medal

This cut represents the Gold Medal awarded B. F. Avery & Sons for best display of Plows and Agricultural Implements at Alabama State Fair. The premiums were awarded after actual field trials, in which were represented all prominent Plows sold in the South.

WHEELER & PIERSON,
Successors to Darcy & Wheeler and Pierson & Howes,
CLOTHING AND FURNISHING GOODS,
Nos. 13 and 15 CAMP STREET, New Orleans.
Black Cloth Suits, $20 to $40 | Business Suits, $12 to $25
6 Shirts for $9 | Collars $1.50 per Doz.
Orders from Clergymen filled and liberal reduction made to them.
Rules for Self-measurement sent on application and goods sent C. O. D.
Plantation Clothing for Country Stores at very low prices in our Wholesale Department up stairs.

LARGEST AND MOST POPULAR
MUSIC HOUSE IN THE SOUTH.
Easiest Terms. Lowest Prices
General Agency for the celebrated
STEINWAY, KNABE, PLEYEL, FISCHER PIANOS
And the Popular Organs of
CLOUGH & WARREN AND PELOUBET, PELTON & CO.
Everything in the Music line at rock bottom prices. Send for illustrated catalogues.
LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
Grunewald Hall, New Orleans.

NOVEAUTES.
Corded Velvets, Ribbons and Black Silks, Worsted, Mohair Braids, Persian and Oriental Trimmings, Gimps, Buttons, Sashes, Dahl Knit Straws, Jackets, Hosiery and Boots, Horse-Shoe Pins, Mechanical Corset Clasps, Crochet Cottons, Satin and Corded Ottoman Ribbons and Ness, Barnes, Fabian Braid and White Terry Fringe, Fine Dress Braids, Satin Paris and Bonnet Strings, Black Satin Ribbons, Ruched Illusion and Tarlatan Skirts, Knitted Sashes, Felt Striped Hose, Black Satin Ribbons, Ruched Illusion and Tarlatan Skirts, Knitted Sashes, Felt Skirts, Velvet Sash Ribbons, Lace Pins and Scarfs, Colored Silks and Bows, Nets, White and Black Lace Goods, Fans and Scarfs, Colored Silks and Bows, Nets, White and Black Laces, Fans and Scarfs, Colored Silks and Bows, Notions, etc. Also a large assortment of Fancy Goods suitable for CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.
To CLOSE—Cotton Flannels, Linen Sheetings, Table Linens, Napkins, Towels, Quilts, Blankets, Flannels, Ticks, Denims, Cottonades, Jeans, Cassimeres, Linseys, Shirtings, Prints, Ginghams, Cambrics, Muslins, Laces, Embroideries, Corsets, Hosiery, Gloves, Handkerchiefs, Parasols, Umbrellas, Ribbons, Sashes, Ruchings, Collars, Cuffs, Veilings, Fancy Goods, Notions, Etc., Etc., at Cost.
Store open from 7 A. M. to 6 P. M. Saturdays, 10 P. M.
E. H. ADAMS & BROTHER,
594 Magazine Street, Fourth Store above St. Andrew.

FOR NEW YORK DIRECT.
THE CROMWELL
N. Y. and N. O. Steamship Line.

This Line is composed of the following first class iron steamships
LOUISIANA HERSON
KNICKERBOCKER NEW ORLEANS.
Sailing from this line twice New York
Every Saturday, at 3 P. M.
and from New Orleans
Every Wednesday at 5 A. M.
Cabin passage $40
Steerage passage $20
For further information apply to
ALFRED MOLTON,
41 Carondelet street.

COAL ..... COAL ..... COAL
B. D. WOOD & BRO.,
Corner Camp and Common Streets,
Opposite the City Hotel.
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in all kinds of COAL. Pittsburg Coal delivered by boat-load or from the coast, and shipped in sacks or in bulk, at lowest market rates. City trade supplied.

ANTHRACITE COAL.
Having made arrangements for a constant supply of the above COAL by direct importation, we will sell at $7 per ton delivered.
CHANDLER & ASHBEY,
Office 12 Carondelet street, and corner Philip and Echo Public Levee, Sts.

PIANO TUNING
In Purest Harmony.
Piano Repairing, guaranteed in perfection. Piano Regulating with great mechanical skill. New and second hand Pianos for sale or rent. Lowest prices in the city. Organs Tuned, Repaired and built to order.
A. GARDNER,
807 Magazine street, New Orleans, La.

WANTED EVERYBODY TO know that LAPLACE'S INDIAN TURPENTINE BALM is not a secret preparation, the efficacy being due to the Indian Turnip, arum triphyllum. It is chiefly effective for coughs, colds within, and all diseases of the throat and lungs, and the relief of consumptive patients. Prepared and for sale by H. LAPLACE, Pharmaceutical Chemist, Elysian Fields street. For sale also at the principal wholesale and retail druggists.
Depot in Mobile at J. C. Dunnoss & Co. Depot in St. Louis at Richardson & Co.

A Cheap and Valuable Remedy!
BARK & IRON
A solution of Peruvian bark and Peruvian iron with Port wine. Highly endorsed and recommended by the medical profession as a very valuable tonic.
PALATABLE AROMATIC IRON TONIC,
For the cure of dyspepsia, loss of appetite, boils, &c.
BILLINGS, CLAPP & CO.,
CHEMISTS AND STEREOTYPERS,
NICHOLS & CO., BOSTON, MASS.
For Sale by all Druggists.

A Safe and Valuable Substitute for Quinine.
CINCHO-QUININE!
Is superior to sulphate of quinine in the same dose as regards its tonic properties, and at half the cost.
CURES FEVER AND AGUE.
Being used with perfect safety by ladies and children. It is recommended by the most eminent physicians of New Orleans, and is in use in the Charity Hospital, Marine Hospital, Parish Prison, and other public institutions.
Billings, Clapp & Co., Manufacturing Chemists, Boston, Mass.
For Sale by all Druggists.

Farm, Garden and Household.

THE CAULIFLOWER.—The earliest culture of the cauliflower in this part of the country, to any extent, of which we have any knowledge, is credited to Capt. George Pierce, of Charleston, Mass., who, thirty-five years ago, raised good quality flowers and founded a ready market for them. He soon after removed to West Cambridge (now Arlington), where he began to cultivate them in much larger quantities, until it became a famous product of the vegetable. Not only furnished the Boston market with the vegetable, but exported it. The Arlington, next succeeded Capt. Pierce, and cultivated the cauliflower on a larger scale. Twenty years ago Boston shipped to New York city as much as 1,000 bbls. But as it now does with early peas, and now bears up commands a higher price than it does here, for the reason that it is used more generally.

Early in the season the cauliflower sold as high as $2.50 and $3 per dozen. Of late the price has ranged from 50 cents to $1 per dozen. The plant is ordered for Thanksgiving use and sells at the rate of 75 cents and $1 per head.

Cauliflower, like most other vegetables, is used as a condiment in connection with other articles of consumption. The demand for cauliflower among those who make pickles, catsup, pickled cauliflower is constantly increasing. A local firm in Boston packed 3,000 heads of cauliflower recently for pickling purposes.

DEPTH OF SEEDING WHEAT.—Farmers who are wide awake enough to keep a little ahead of the times, and who are not afraid to try experiments, will find that they can very materially improve the yield of their crops by a little extra care in the preparation of the seed-bed. The great cause of failure in crops in dry years is the shallow depth to which the seed is covered. Wheat, which is now commonly sown broadcast, should be covered to the depth of several inches. Till on the surface a day or two before sowing, to a depth of three or four inches, deepening to six or seven inches in a day or two, and so on, getting as near as the depth you desire. The aim is to come up was planted three and one-half inches deep, and was four or five days in reaching the surface. None planted deeper ever reached the surface. At the end of six weeks that planted one-fourth to one-half inch deeper was ahead of the rest.—Rural and Farmer.

SAVING MANURE.—A correspondent of the "Farm & Home," who says that he has been cultivating a farm for twenty years, and that it is richer and more productive than when he first cleared it, gives it as the result of his experience, that, twenty dollars worth of labor expended in saving some made manures will be productive of better and more lasting results than two hundred dollars spent for fertilizers. He manages it chiefly, says he, by putting two hundred loads of muck, or fine soil, and when the pile is ready, or time has it so, goes all over his pasture, that is to put on heavy loads and coarse clothes, and shovel in hard, go to the barn yard, cow stable, or hog pen and collect manure; but after all, this just as one's fancy runs. In doing this you see how the Chester boys, gentle jersey cows, Southdown or Cotswold sheep, fancy horses, etc., and also see how your pet fowls and make the waste help and there find what is saving manure is saving and more profitable mode of feeding is discovered, for a great saving as well as profitable feed to a ten thousand.—Alabama Farmer.

PLANTING TREES.—In those parts of the country where the Autumns are long, fall planting is coming into favor. The ground can be more thoroughly prepared and planting can go on more carefully and with greater comfort. At this season raise a mound of earth about the newly set tree from ten to fifteen inches high; this will serve to keep the water from settling about the roots, keep away mice, and serve as a stay to prevent the tree. Trees may be set out before the leaves fall, provided the woods is fully ripe, and the leaves are brought with the wood; and are only waiting for a hard wind to take them off. In this condition the leaves are readily stripped off by hand. If trees are to be set in the Spring, it is best to prepare the ground now, and to secure the proposed trees in, in a safe place, where water will not settle about and do no injury.

LIME FOR BORERS.—Regarding borers in peach-trees, says the Country Gentleman, it is safe to say that a peck of dry slaked lime will kill the peach-trees after the grubs have been picked out and before the earth is drawn back to the trees. The lime kills any grubs that may be left. If slaked lime is thrown into the dry limit it will soon fall to pieces. This may be tried to satisfy any inquiring mind. We recommend lime in this way in 1877, the writer found no borers in his trees in 1878, and therefore has no confidence in this means of repressing the depredations of this pest.

A HABIT OF CATTLE.—A correspondent of Nature writes: "In the colony of Natal the cattle have an extraordinary liking for bones. They will stand for hours with a bone in the mouth gently munching, sucking, or perhaps more correctly speaking, extracting the bone with the tongue. I have not heard that cattle here [the same in the Australian colonies of South Africa, but I have been told that ox [illegible] the same taste in some parts of South Australia. In Natal there is, I believe, a scarcity of chalk and limestone in the geological formation. Will this fact account for the bone? Do the cattle lick bones in search of lime? Can any of your readers account for this strange taste in cattle? I may mention that horses and other herbivorous animals in Natal do not exhibit the same taste."

A three-legged dairy stool.—Farmers will feed a bushel of corn to produce six pounds of pork, while the same amount of corn will keep a cow all day in the year and she will produce at least twelve dozen eggs, averaging eighteen cents per dozen, [illegible] and equal to [illegible] cents in addition, she will [illegible] worth as much [illegible] of [illegible] pounds of pork, and [illegible] worth [illegible] and [illegible] seven times as much [illegible]

CARAMEL CAKE.—Put a tin dish of coffee sugar in a saucepan with a little water, and set it on the stove until it begins to boil; brown [illegible] boiling) to [illegible] cupfuls of coffee, [illegible] yolks of six eggs well beaten, [illegible] flour, and one pint of milk; flavor to taste with lemon. Bake in jelly cake tins, and when cold ice with the whites of the eggs beaten to a stiff froth with powdered sugar, to which add the juice of a lemon and a little grated rind. Put the icing on a tin sheet and brown in the oven. Put between the cakes when cold.

CUSTARD PIE.—One pint of milk, three eggs, one cup of sugar, one tablespoonful of flour, one teaspoonful of vanilla; bake with one crust; when done, beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth, add a little sugar, spread on the pie, return to the oven and brown slightly.

JAPANESE WAX.—Heat your boiling water, wet a tray, pass a cake of wax over it, it will flake off with a quick and neat pull. Wet a sponge in warm water and rub over, then wipe off with a soft cloth. A tray becomes spoiled, taken off of wood cloth and oil, put a little sweet oil on, and rub as hard as possible, and the lines will disappear.

Chemical analysis and common experience has proved that grass cut when the flower is better for cow than when cut later. For horses and working cattle it is better when more heavy fibre but not woody. As a rule nutrients dry hay to nutrients

PUFF PUDDING.—Three eggs, nine tablespoonfuls of flour, one pint of milk, salt; pour the milk on the flour scalding hot, then add the eggs. Bake from twenty minutes to half an hour.

MISCELLANEOUS.

To Printers and Publishers.

The entire dress of type, etc. of the CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, for sale cheap, to be delivered after January 1, at which time this paper will come out in a New Year dress.

For further particulars address

G. T. LATHROP,
Publisher.

J. O. CHANSONS,
BOOT AND SHOE STORE,
NO. 26 FRENCHMEN ST., between Victory and Morgan, Third District, New Orleans.

A large assortment of Boots and Shoes always on hand, and made to order. Ladies', Children's and Gentlemen's shoes manufactured to order.

FOOD CURE
TRADE MARK
THE BLANCHARD
FOOD CURE SYSTEM
A Series of Concentrated and Semi-Digested
LIQUID FOODS,
that are the most Reliable Remedies for all Conditions of Debility,
FOOD AT LAST A SUBSTITUTE FOR DRUGS,
In Every Instance and in all the properties necessary to restore a healthy or to create a debilitated condition of mind or body.
The Blanchard Blood, Nerve and Brain Building Foods,
Are concentrated extracts from the best nutritious elements known, viz:
BEEF, WHEAT AND MILK,
They are not to take the place of your ordinary food, but are to be taken between your regular meals to strengthen and nourish exhausted properties of the system, and to assist the functions of digestion to do their part.
In case of Malarial poison these foods are unrivalled in their efficacy.
For Dyspepsia and Consumptive patients, for all Scrofulous and Rheumatic affections, for Loss of Vitality, Impoverished Blood and Scrofula, these foods are the natural, sure and permanent remedy.
These foods are creative, for no medicine or drug is used in their composition.
PRICE LIST:
Triple Extract of Wheat ..... $1 00 per bottle.
Luscious Wheat ..... 2 00 "
Beef and Milk ..... 2 00 "
Red Fibrine Food ..... 1 00 "
Fine meal ..... 1 00 "
Any or all of the above will be ordered on half dozen or more lots sent by Express on receipt of the money by P. O. Order, Registered Letter, Special Messenger to Agents and the Trade.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.
JOS. B. GRIBBLE,
Sole Agent for the Southwest.
96 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Agents Wanted.

HUMPHREYS' HOMEOPATHIC VETERINARY SPECIFICS
FOR THE CURE OF ALL DISEASES OF HORSES, CATTLE, SHEEP, DOGS, HOGS, and POULTRY.
For TWENTY YEARS Humphreys' Homeopathic Veterinary Specifics have been used by Farmers, Stock Breeders, Livery Stable and Turnouts, Horse Railroads, Manufacturers, Coal Mine Companies, Trav'g Hippodromes and Menageries, and others, handling stock, with perfect success.
Humphreys' Veterinary Manual, 250 pp. sent free by mail on receipt of postage.
Pamphlets sent free on application.
HUMPHREYS HOMEOPATHIC MED. CO.
109 Fulton Street, New York.

45 Years Before the Public.
THE GENUINE
DR. C. McLANE'S
CELEBRATED
LIVER PILLS
FOR THE CURE OF
Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,
AND ALL DISEASES ARISING FROM A DISORDERED LIVER, SUCH AS Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.
PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, sometimes extending across the abdomen; the pain is in the left side, and is often mistaken for pleurisy; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; there is a dull pain in the back part of the head, and the top of the shoulder blade, and a dull heavy pain over the eye; there is usually a considerable loss of appetite, sometimes nausea, the bowels are generally costive, sometimes alternating with diarrhœa; the head is troubled with pain, dizziness, and a dull, heavy, drowsy feeling, accompanied sometimes with slight chills, alternating with flushes of heat; a sensation of weariness, with a disposition to perspire on slight exertion; the feet and hands are sometimes burning, and sometimes cold and clammy; the appetite is usually poor, sometimes voracious; the stomach is often affected with sour eructations, and sometimes with a dry, teasing cough; the tongue is coated with a white or yellow fur; the urine is scanty and high colored, and upon standing deposits a sediment; the bowels are usually costive, the stools sometimes dry and hard, and sometimes light colored, and at others resembling clay; sometimes the whole system is affected with a yellowish appearance of the skin and eyes, and sometimes the whole body is affected with a dull, yellowish hue; the blood is impoverished, and the whole system debilitated; the nervous system is easily deranged, and the patient is frequently subject to a dull, heavy headache, which is sometimes mistaken for apoplexy; the memory is impaired, and the patient is subject to fits of despondency, and sometimes to partial derangement; the pulse is sometimes accelerated, sometimes depressed, and sometimes intermittent; the patient is frequently troubled with a dry, hacking cough, and sometimes with a loose cough, with copious expectoration; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of coldness creeping over the body, and sometimes with a chilly sensation running up and down the back; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of numbness in the limbs, and sometimes with a sensation of pricking in the flesh, as if pricked with pins; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the head, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the head; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the stomach, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the stomach; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the bowels, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the bowels; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the kidneys, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the kidneys; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the bladder, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the bladder; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the genital organs, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the genital organs; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the limbs, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the limbs; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the joints, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the joints; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the muscles, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the muscles; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the nerves, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the nerves; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the blood-vessels, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the blood-vessels; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the lymphatics, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the lymphatics; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the glands, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the glands; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the skin, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the skin; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the hair, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the hair; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the nails, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the nails; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the teeth, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the teeth; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the gums, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the gums; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the tongue, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the tongue; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the throat, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the throat; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the nose, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the nose; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the ears, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the ears; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the eyes, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the eyes; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the forehead, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the forehead; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the temples, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the temples; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the crown of the head, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the crown of the head; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the back of the head, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the back of the head; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the neck, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the neck; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the shoulders, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the shoulders; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the arms, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the arms; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the hands, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the hands; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the fingers, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the fingers; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the thighs, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the thighs; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the knees, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the knees; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the legs, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the legs; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the feet, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the feet; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the toes, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the toes; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the nails, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the nails; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the skin, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the skin; the patient is frequently troubled with a sensation of fullness in the hair, and sometimes with a sensation of emptiness in the hair

Scientific.

THE DEAD POINT IN MIND TENSION.—It is a prevalent but groundless error to suppose that the state of mind in which most capital offenders meet their doom is one of scare or paralyzing amazement. They retain every faculty, taste, consideration and even fancy. They frequently give tokens of especial thoughtfulness, and are punctilious in the observance of rules and the adoption of measures to minimize their own pain, and the trouble and sympathetic suffering of those by whom they are surrounded or who will be left burdened with their memories. Mentally and physically the criminal, during the last few hours of his life, in the unmistakable presence of a cruel death is self-possessed and tranquil. His pulse is even less disturbed than those of the officials who are compelled to take part in his execution. Why is this? The answer will be obvious on reflection. The mind has reached what may be designated a "dead-point" in its tension. The excitement is over, the agony of anticipation, the trembling doubt between hope and fear of escape, has extinguished the irritability of the mind, and there is, as it were, a pause, an interval of passive endurance between the end of the struggle for life, and the bitterness of remorse and agony of disappointment which may begin at death. In this interval the mind is released from the tension of its effort for self-preservation, and almost rebounds with the sense of relief that comes with certainty, even though the assurance be that of impending death. In the pause there are time and opportunity for the recognition of surrounding circumstances which have been, as it were, overlooked in the yearning for life. The clearness of mental vision, the cognizance of details displayed at such a moment, are remarkable, not only on account of the strange circumstances under which they occur, but in degree. Men and women who have for some time previously exhibited no trace of delicacy or refinement exhibit characteristic traits of thoughtfulness. They are, so to say, lifted out of themselves and placed in new conditions calculated to awaken feelings of courtesy, which, long failed to respond. The mental state of a criminal during the hours preceding execution presents features of intense interest to the psychologist, and highly comprehensive. It is to be feared they would throw new light on the supposed preparation of these unfortunate persons twice for a fate which, being inevitable, they at the final moment are able to meet with a composure in which hypocrisy or self deception find the amplest scope.—The Lancet.

—In a lecture delivered before one of the English mining societies lately, a model illustration was given of electrically performing mechanical work. A saw bench was placed on a platform connected with a dynamo-electric machine, which, in turn, was connected by wires with the machine inside the hall used for producing the electricity during the lecture. On the electricity being communicated, the saw was set in motion, and timber in the form of planks was cut across with ease, and, also, with speed. This result has induced some of the leading colliery owners to test the practicability of working coal cutting machines and other underground machinery by electricity, compressed air being at present the only power employed for driving these machines, as from interfering with the ventilation of the workings. Electricity is said to possess the advantage of doing the work at less cost.

—When we look from a distance flames of ordinary gas lamps twinkle like the stars, and this is regarded Mr. E. A. Fote as a sign that the air is not at rest when they have the corresponding steady look. Theory of such optical lights. All the conditions of the atmosphere should be taken into account by the observer, such as the pressure, moisture, temperature, etc., may be much more readily ascertained than the studying conditions of the upper regions of the air.

—The King of Greece has expressed a wish that a national museum should be erected at Athens for the reception of the recently discovered treasures. M. Singros has placed his own private residence at the King's disposal for this purpose, and the scheme is warmly seconded by M. Angelakis, the Minister for Instruction. Another party, however, contend that the museum should be located at Argos. The obstacles in the way of the latter are the great cost of transporting the enormous mass of stone and marble.

—Dr. Berg, of San Diego, Cal., describes the singular mode of formations covering the dry soil of that region to the depth of many feet: chalcedony, broad-branched plants with a large system of roots, chief among which is Rhus trilobata. These detain moisture and collect dust, and the result is the lucky appearance of thickets, which has puzzled many travellers.

—A writer in Les Mondes proposes this treatment of rabies: "The tongue and inside of the animal's mouth is first well cleansed with a wet brush. The same parts are then treated with softened Paraguayo rosin and alcohol of eighty-six per cent strength. Lastly, the meat is washed thoroughly with a liter of water containing ten grammes of ammonia."

Ayer's

Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

This most elegant dressing, which is entirely free from oil and alcohol, imparts to the hair the lustre, softness, and flexibility of youth. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while in baldness, weakness, or other diseased conditions of the hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and generally restores it to health.

The Vigor cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff, and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and free from irritation, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair, The Vigor is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.,

Practical and Analytical Chemists.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

EDUCATIONAL.

Mansfield Female College.

THE FALL SESSION of this Institution will begin on Wednesday, September 24. A full and competent corps of teachers. Every advantage offered. Charges moderate. Preachers of this Conference pay no tuition for their daughters in regular course. Extras, in the latter favor, one-fourth off. Board of a preacher's daughter, for the year, $100, she to furnish lights and washing. Send for catalogue.

REV. THOS. ARMSTRONG, Prest.
Mansfield, La.

HIWASSEE COLLEGE,

EAST TENNESSEE.

FOUNDED 1849 offers superior advantages and a healthy retreat.

The Male Department is located in a quiet farming community, seven miles from Sweetwater, East Tenn., Va. and Ga. R. R.

The Female Department is located in the model town of Sweetwater, in a lovely section.

Experienced Teachers, good work and Low Charges in both Departments. Parents entertained. For particulars, address

REV. J. H. BRENNER, D. D.,
Hiwassee College, Tenn.

Woodville Female Seminary.

A NON-SECTARIAN ACADEMY, UNDER the supervision of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Mississippi Conference. Hon. E. McGehee, President of Board of Trustees. For Thoroughness of instruction healthfulness, cheapness, and many other advantages is not surpassed. We write these items hoping to extend our credentials, and to obtain circulars, by calling upon Mr. Philip Worleti, New Orleans, La., or address the Principal,

A. J. WRIGHT,
Woodville, Miss.

The Lequet-LeRoy Institute

AND KINDERGARDEN DAY AND BOARDING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES, 280 Camp Street.—This Institution has now reopened under the auspices of the Misses MOISE, Cecelia W., Sallie L. and Corinne, the latter relicte of the late R. G. Rapil, daughters of Judge E. Warren Moise, deceased, successors of Mme Lequet LeRoy, whose good will and right to conduct the School under the old name they have purchased. Except in so far as the proprietors may enter into active service, there will be no change of teachers. No change whatever in the conduct and management of the School. They respectfully solicit a continuance of the patronage, or rather so liberally extended to the Institution, and that of their friends, and the public generally, promising strict devotion to every interest of the pupils committed to their charge. C. W. MOISE, Principal.

A FINISHED MUSICAL EDUCATION. THE NEW ENGLAND Conservatory, Boston, Employing 75 Eminent Professors, has reputation for unequaled facilities for furnishing a COMPLETE MUSICAL EDUCATION at merely nominal rates, combined with RARE collateral advantages. Fall term opens September 2. For prospectus address E. TOURJEE, Music Hall, Boston, Mass.

A GREAT OFFER for HOLIDAYS

ORGANS $35, Upwards: PIANOS $125 upwards not used 6 Mos, good as new; warranted. NEW PIANOS and ORGANS at EXTRAORDINARY LOW prices for cash. Send for Catalogues. HORACE WATERS, 826 Broadway, cor. 12th St., N. Y. P. O. Box 3330.

WM. B. WILSON,
(Successor to Henry Erben & Co.,
CHURCH ORGANS,
Established in 1845.
260 & 262 W. 38th St., near 8th Ave., New York.

SOUTHERN
CHURCH ORGAN
MANUFACTORY.
No. 103 Bayonne Street,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
PETER VETTER, Proprietor.

Church Organs tuned and repaired all over the South.

J. BOSIO,
Four Seasons Restaurant
No. 111 CHARTRES STREET,
Bet. St. Louis & Conti.
FURNISHED ROOMS—PRIVATE SALOONS,
Open till 12 o'clock, '78
Moderate prices.

Scott Western Co-operative Ass'n,
FOR THE SALE OF
COTTON, SUGAR AND
All Products of the Soil, and the Purchase of Supplies.
The usual commission of 2½ per cent charged.
Address THOS. J. CARVER, Gen'l Manager,
31 Crondelet street, N. O.

Rosedale Cooking Stove,
MANUFACTURED BY
STEWART, PETERSON & CO.,
PHILADELPHIA, PENN.,
Is the cheapest and most popular cooking stove ever put on the market. They manufacture four sizes of them, and they are for sale exclusively by
G. W. W. GOODWYN,
44 Camp Street,
New Orleans, La.

St. Louis Impenetrable Paint Co.
SOLE MANUFACTURERS OF IMPENETRABLE PAINT
A glossy durable waterproof paint, prepared in all colors ready for use.
ALSO PROPRIETORS OF THE COLORLESS
WATERPROOFING
PROCESS,
For rendering brick and stone walls permanently waterproof and preventing their disintegration without in any way altering their appearance.
All orders promptly attended to and information cheerfully furnished upon application at the
OFFICE AND FACTORY:
No. 12 North Twelfth Street,
St. Louis, Mo.

BRACKETS. CLOTHES.
M. H. APPLEGATE.
PLUMBER,
Gas and Steam Fitter
GAS FIXTURES,
St. George and Defiance Ranges,
Plumbers' Material,
No. 144 POYDRAS STREET,
NEW ORLEANS.

ORLEANS PLANING MILL,
WM. CAMPBELL Proprietor,
No. 29 South Basin St.,
Near New Basin.
will constantly keep on hand a full assortment of
DRESSED FLOORING,
CEILING SHELVING,
WEATHER BOARDS
and DECKING.
Feather Edge Fence Boards and Rough Weather Boards
SAWING and DRESSING done for the trade at low rates.

PROFESSIONAL CARDS.

DR. C. J. RICHIAM,
RESIDENCE AND OFFICE,
220 Jackson St., Bet. Chestnut and Coliseum,
NEW ORLEANS.
Office Hours—Eight A. M. and three to four P. M.

UNITED STATES
Four Per Cent. Bonds
BOUGHT AND SOLD BY
New Orleans National Bank,
5 CAMP STREET.

SPORTSMEN'S DEPOT,
55 ..... 57 CHARLES STREET 55
NEW ORLEANS.
ARTICLES FOR FISHERMEN
OF ALL KINDS.
Rods, Nets, Hooks, Lines, and every desirable article for the Angler, wholesale and retail. Rods imported to order. J. K. Cooper's Breech and Muzzle-Loading Guns always on hand. All kinds of improved artificial baits. Address Postoffice Box 1599.

KENTUCKY BELL FACTORY
Cow Bells, [Established 1848] Sheep Bells,
Loud, Strong, Durable, Cheap.
When you buy see that the Trade-mark "J. Geo. Dodge's Kentucky Bell" is on the label. Thus you get the genuine Kentucky Bell which is good and cheap.
For sale by Hardware Dealers Everywhere.
T. P. BARCLAY, Sole Propr., Louisville, Ky.

MENEELYS' BELLS,
For Churches, etc., known to the public since 1826, are made only at "THE MENEELY BELL FOUNDERY," West Troy, N. Y. Catalogues free.

SENECA FALLS
BELL FOUNDRY.
For Church, Academy, Factory, Depot, Steamboat, Ship, Locomotive, Plantation, Fire Engine, etc.
Sizes and Prices with Wheel Hanging and Frame Complete.
We Warrant Bell, Mounting and Hanging complete. Send for Circular.

Diam. of Bell.		Weight.	Price.
No. 6	22 Inches	234 pounds	$ 35
No. 5	25 Inches	340 pounds	50
No. 4	30 Inches	440 pounds	65
No. 3	31 Inches	700 pounds	75
No. 2	36 Inches	925 pounds	100

BLYMYER & CO.
Seneca Falls, N. Y. U. S. A.

J. H. KELLER,
MANUFACTURER OF CARBOLIC.

Office,
110 Gravier St.
ESTABLISHED 1866.
All Kinds of Laundry and Toilet Soaps.

COOPERAGE.
PHILLIP HIRSCH, Cooper.
50 to 60 NORTH PETERS STREET,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
Has for sale, and keeps constantly on hand a large and selected stock of dew, rectified and open ket to Sugar Hogsheads and Tierces, Sugar Barrels, Molasses Barrels, Half Barrels and Kegs, all sizes; also, cisterns Hogshead and barrel Hoop Poles. Contracts for future delivery solicited. Prices moderate. Satisfaction guaranteed.

T. A. BECK,
COOPERAGE.
Office and Salesroom 27 North Peters Street, Manufactory, Carondelet Walk, between Bienville and Orleans Streets, New Orleans.
Has constantly on hand Sugar Hogsheads Molasses Barrels, Half Barrels, Kegs, Flour, Sugar and Rice Barrels. Order for Hoop Poles filled at the lowest market rates. Particular attention paid to Trimming.

E. HEATH,
SUCCESSOR TO HEATH, PIPPEY & LAHA,
IMPORTERS AND DEALERS IN
CARPETS, FLOOR OIL CLOTHS,
UPHOLSTERY GOODS, Wall Paper, Window Shades, Cornices, Lace and Nottingham Curtains, Mirrors, Mouldings, Cheniles, Engravings, etc.
Frames made to order—a specialty.
No. 99 Camp Street, New Orleans.

BUCK'S IMPROVED

BRILLIANT STOVE.
Is acknowledged to be the
BEST COOK-STOVE MADE
SOLD BY
H. HALLER,
NEW ORLEANS,
DEALER IN ALL KINDS OF
Cooking and Heating Stoves of the most Improved makes, Stamped, Plain and Japanned Tin-ware, Tinned and Enameled Hollow-ware, Iron and Clay Furnaces, Hunter's Slate, Granite Iron-ware, Lamp-burner and Wick-Tassels, Tinned Iron Spoons and Forks, Coffee Mills of all Kinds, Polished ware, Sad Irons, Fire-Grates, Plating machines, etc.
H. HALLER,
No. 55 Camp St., New Orleans.
Price-list mailed on application.

The Stewart Stove
WITH LATEST IMPROVEMENT,
Is now the
LEADING STOVE OF THE AGE
There can be no failure in its perfect operation. Will outlast and consume less fuel than any other Stove made.
Can be had for coke, coal or wood.
Hot water attachments for bathing, etc., can be attached with but little extra cost.
Pieces to repair old Stewart Stoves constantly on hand.
J. H. CAMPMAN,
133 Poydras Street.

FRITZ JAHNCKE,
(P. T. FOR LA.)
Schillinger Artificial Stone Pavement,
Artificial Stone Tiles in various colors,
DEALER IN
North River and German Flags, Curb Stone and Portland Cement.
208 Delord st. between Baronne and Carondelet
Box 144 Mechanics' and Dealers' Exchange.
NEW ORLEANS.

MISCELLANEOUS.

C. W. DUNBAR'S SONS,
3 Tchoupitoulas St., New Orleans,
PREMRVERS AND PCK ERS OF
SHRIMP, OKRA AND PRESERVED FIGS,
IN TINS.
New Packing Ready for Delivery,
FOR SALE BY WHOLESALE AND RETAIL GROCERS.

FOR THE VERY BEST AND NEVER FADING

GO TO 121 CANAL ST.
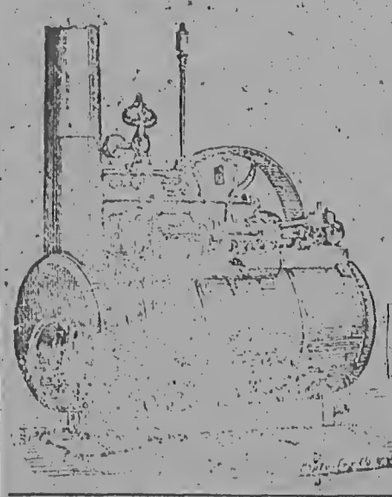
Tenro Building.

PHOTOGRAPHS

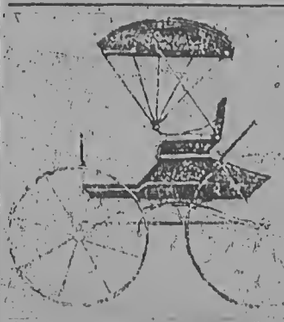
D. H. HOLMES,
155 Canal Street, - - - 15 Bourbon Street.
Our Stock of Spring Goods is now complete, consisting of the latest novelties in
SILKS, LACES, DRESS GOODS IN WORSTED FABRICS
BLACK GRENADINES IN SILK AND WOOL
LINEN LAWNS, ORGANDIES, AND PERCALES
HOSIERY in all Styles and Colors;
A Complete Assortment of MATTINGS
SAMPLES sent free of charge.
D. H. HOLMES
155 CANAL STREET.

THE GOLD MEDAL
PARIS EXPOSITION 1878
WAS AWARDED TO
JOSEPH GILLOTT & SONS
FOR EXCELLENCE IN
STEEL PENS
THE FAVORITE NUMBERS 303, 404, 170
AND HIS OTHER STYLES SOLD BY ALL DEALERS
THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

R. M. & B. J. MONTGOMERY,
FURNITURE EMPORIUM,
MORESQUE BUILDING,
Corner Camp and Poydras Streets,
We have received, and are receiving for the Fall and Winter trade, the largest and best selected Stock of Furniture and Mirrors ever offered in the New Orleans market, all of the latest styles and designs, comprising
BEDROOM AND PARLOR SUITS,
FRENCH PLATE MIRRORS,
FANCY AND ORNAMENTAL FURNITURE.
We also have a complete stock of Medium and Common Furniture, Office, Hall and Library Furniture; Best Wool Lawn Chairs, Rockers and Benches, Lawn Benches, with various Attachments; Invalid Rocking and Wheel Chairs; Spring Beds, Spiral, Woven Wire, Spring, Hair and Moss Mattresses; Feather Pillows and Bolsters; the Patent Elastic Spring Pillow, the best ever invented for a Carriage; Rattan and Perforated Seat Chairs, Rockers and Settees; the Victor Folding and Lock Desk, the best school desk extant.
Our stock of FURNITURE and MIRRORS is one of the largest in the country, and we can sell as cheaply and quote as low as any house North or South. Commission merchants and country orders solicited. All goods delivered free of charge. Give us a call before purchasing.
N. B.—We are prepared to reupholster Parlor Suits and Chairs, heavy goods, in a workmanlike manner.



PAYNE'S
PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
4 TO 25 HORSE POWER.
Strong, Simple and Durable,
BEST PLANTATION ENGINE MADE.
Send for Special Price List of this and other Sizes Engines, Boilers, &c.
B. J. WEST,
SOLE AGENT,
115 and 117 Magazine Street,
NEW ORLEANS.



W. H. SHEADER, Pres't and Treas. J. H. ENGER, Secretary
ENTERPRISE CARRIAGE CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
Carriages for the Trade,
FACTORY
23, 25, 27 & 29 E. Canal and 24, 26, 28 & 30 E. Court Sts.
WAREROOMS 31 and 33 W. Pearl Street,
CINCINNATI.
Best Work for less money than ever before placed in the market.

ESTABLISHED 1838.
NONOTUCK SILK CO.,
MANUFACTURERS OF
CORTICELLI SPOOL SILK,
THE OLDEST BRAND IN AMERICA.
Sewing Silk, Machine Twist, Button Hole Twist, Embroidery and Soldiers' Silks, Purse Twist, Knitting Silks, Etc., for
H. M. B. BOWEN, Agent,
88 West Third Street, Cincinnati, O.

CATARRH

Is a Terrible Disease. Its loathsome effects—corruption running down the throat, weak eyes, deafness, loss of voice, loss of smell, disagreeable breath, deformities, and finally consumption. Do not let it run on until it is even aggressive. Ordinary treatments are worse than useless. If you would have a cure, and that speedily, positively, and without a chance of failure, and as rapidly as possible, at once begin to use Dr. M. W. Case's Carbolate of Tar Inhalant. It is the most thorough, successful, and pleasant treatment in existence.

Dr. M. W. CASE'S CARBOLATE of TAR INHALANT.

It does not require months of treatment, but a few minutes to demonstrate the value of Carbolate of Tar, the most valuable medical discovery known to science. Balsams and Cubebs and the usual remedies are worthless. Carbolate of Tar, combined with Pine Tree Tar, that the more breathing converts them into a dense smoke or vapor. This is inhaled, taken right to the diseased parts. No Drugging, no bad taste, simply inhaling or breathing it, and you feel its healing power at once. The treatment is endorsed by physicians everywhere, and highly recommended by Druggists, Preachers, etc. Send for Circulars, etc. Sent to thousands, who have used it with perfect satisfaction. FREE TREATMENT. Sent. Satisfaction Always Guaranteed. Address, DR. M. W. CASE, 933 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

AGENTS WANTED.

AGENTS WANTED For the Pictorial Bible Commentator. 1,018 Pages, 475 Illustrations and Maps. The most complete and cheapest reference Bible published. Commands large prices. Sells at sight. Extra terms. $3.75. Send for circulars. Address J. C. McCURDY & CO., Phila., Pa.

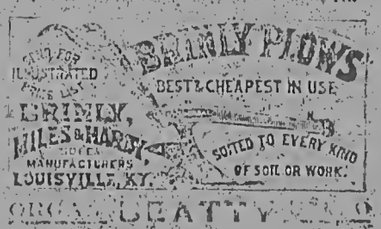
AGENTS WANTED For the best and cheapest CHEAPEST BIBLES Ever published. Agents Outfit, Extra Terms and Large CASH PREMIUMS. Address HUBBARD BROS., Cincinnati, O.

WANTED AGENTS For our BIBLES containing 1,000 Engravings and over 100 Illustrations, with all the Scriptures; also for Literature, Art and Song, with over 300 Engravings. These are the books for the holidays. Bibles for parents and Literature, Art and Song for the young people. Circulars and full descriptive matter free. J. C. McCURDY & CO., St. Louis, Mo.

MISCELLANEOUS.

ST. JAMES HOTEL,
EUROPEAN PLAN,
Fifth Street, opp. the Old Southern,
ST. LOUIS, MO.
THE ST. JAMES IS CENTRALLY LOCATED, and contains all the modern improvements and conveniences for the comfort and pleasure of guests. Has all the modern conveniences and comforts. Prices very moderate.
The Cuisine and Restaurant attached. Dinner thirty-five cents.
L. D. WATSON, Manager. THOS. P. MILLER, Proprietor.

PRESENT ... V. $100
... free.
... Ill.



ORGANS BEATTY

REDUCTION.
NOVELTY
B. O. WOODS & CO.

RICE, BORN & CO.,
DEALERS IN HEAVY AND SHELF
HARDWARE!
CUTLERY, AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS AND PLANTATION SUPPLIES.
TINNERS' STOCK AND TOOLS.
HEATING AND COOKING STOVES,
MANUFACTURERS OF TIN AND JAPANNED WARE.
59 & 61 CAMP STREET,
307 MAGAZINE STREET,
WAREHOUSE 104, 106 & 107 MAGAZINE ST.,
NEW ORLEANS.
New York Office, 76 Chambers St.
SOLE AGENTS FOR
Star Rubber Belting, Rogers' Co. Washington & Mason Bard's Screw Wire Hooks, Jones' Screws, Leonard's Lever Mowers, Wrought Brass and Copper Cut Nails, Diamond Saws, Bowen's Patent Clevis for Plow Beams, Cross Shifters, Kistler's Mowing Scythe, Wood Pumps.
CELEBRATED
CHARTER OAK STOVES.

DR. HOFFMAN'S
BLOOD AND LIVER PILLS,
A positive and effectual remedy for the cure of Sick Headache, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Jaundice, Loss of Appetite, Disorders of the Stomach, Colds, Fevers, Rheumatism, Costiveness, Piles, and all diseases arising from a disordered state of the Stomach or Liver. Prepared only by DR. HOFFMAN,
No. 9 Carondelet Street, New Orleans.
For sale by all druggists.

ELLIS'S SPAVIN CURE.

SPAVIN, SPLINT, CURB, RINGBONE,
ENLARGEMENTS, ETC.,
PROMPTLY CURED.
DOES NOT BLISTER OR BLEMISH.
Price, Two Dollars per Bottle.
Send for testimonials of cures on record.
SPAVIN CURE OFFICE,
No. 58 Southern Street,
BOSTON, MASS.
For Sale by all Druggists.

DRY IN ROGERS' POWDER
CITRATE OF MAGNESIA
It is presented to the Medical Profession for all cases requiring a Saline Aperient. Sick Headache, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Jaundice, Loss of Appetite, Disorders of the Stomach, Colds, Fevers, Rheumatism, Costiveness, Piles, and all diseases arising from a disordered state of the Stomach or Liver. Prepared only by DR. ROGERS,
No. 9 Carondelet Street, New Orleans.
For sale by all Druggists.

NEW RICH BLOOD!

PRICES CURRENT

IN

THE NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY

☞ Correspondents should bear in mind that our quotations represent prices for round lots, and in filling small orders higher rates must be paid.

GROCERIES.

Butter, ₩ lb.:
Western creamery, fancy	37	38
New York, choice	27	28
Coffee, ₩ lb.:
Rio, fair	16	— —
Rio, good	16¾	— —
Rio, prime	17	— —
Candles, ₩ lb.:
Star, best brands	11	— —
Corn Meal, ₩ bbl.:
Choice	2 50	2 60
Cheese, ₩ lb.:
Factory	— —	— —
N. Y. cream and English dairy	15	15¾
Fish:
Mackerel, extra No. 1, lo bbls	— —	9 75
Mackerel, extra No. 1, lo kits	— —	1 25
Sardines, quarter boxes	— —	— —
Flour, ₩ bbl.:
Superfine	— —	— —
XX	6 00	6 12½
XXX	6 37½	6 62½
Choice XXX	6 87½	7 12½
Choice family	— —	— —
Fruits:
Dried apples, ₩ lb	5	7
Dried peaches, ₩ lb	6	7
Raisins, ₩ quarter box	70	— —
Raisins, ₩ half box	1 40	1 70
Raisins, ₩ whole box	2 75	3 00
Bananas, ₩ bunch	75	1 25
Crackers, ₩ lb.:
Soda	5	6
Butter	6	7
Sugar	6	9
Gingernuts	9	12½
Oil:
Coal, in cases, best	21	22
Coal, in barrels, best	19	20
Insurance, in cases	— —	40
Insurance, in barrels	— —	35
Lard, in barrels, best	75	— —
Molasses, in barrels.
Common	25	27
Fair	30	32
Prime to choice	33	40
Golden and Roquet sirups	— —	— —
Half bbls, 4c. and kegs 10c. more.
Rice, Louisiana, ₩ lb.:
No. 2	4¼	4¾
Ordinary	6¼	6¾
Fair	6¾	6¾
Prime to choice	7¼	— —
Soap, ₩ box:
XXX Palm	3 80	— —
Keller's magnolia	2 90	— —
Keller's olive	2 85	— —
Starch, ₩ lb	3¼	3¾
Salt, in sacks:
Fine	1 35	1 40
Coarse	15	97½
Sugar.
Good fair	6¼	6½
Prime	7¼	— —
Choice	— —	— —
Yellow clarified	7¾	8¼
Off whites	8	8¼
Crushed	— —	— —
Powdered	— —	— —
Spices, ₩ lb.:
Allspice	15¾	— —
Pepper	13¾	14
Cloves	45	— —
Cinnamon	— —	— —
Tea, ₩ lb.:
Black Oolong	27½	1 10
Green Imperial	80	90
Tobacco:
Low lugs	3¾@	4¾
Medium	4 @	4½
Good to fine	4½@	4¾
Low leaf	5 @	5¾
Medium	6¼@	7¼
Good	7¾@	8¾
Fine	9¼@	8¼
Selections	9 @	10

GRAIN AND FEED.

Corn, ₩ bushel:
Yellow	55	— —
White	57	— —
Mixed	57	— —
Oats, ₩ bushel:
St. Louis	— —	— —
Texas	— —	— —
Galena	50	51
Bran, choice, ₩ 100 lbs	77½	— —
Hay, ₩ ton:
Prime	26 00	— —
Ordinary	— —	— —
Cow Peas:
Whippoorwill	— —	— —
Mixed	— —	— —
Clay	— —	— —

PROVISIONS.

Bacon, ₩ lb.:
Breakfast	8	8¼
Shoulders	5¾	— —
Sides, clear rib	8¾	— —
Sides, clear	8¾	— —
Hams, sugar-cured	10	11
Mess Pork, ₩ bbl	13 50	— —
Dry Salted Meats:
Shoulders	4¾	5
Lard, ₩ lb.:
Choice, in kegs and pails	9	— —
Choice, in tierces and barrels	8¾	8¾

ESCULENTS.

Potatoes, ₩ bbl	1 50	2 00
Onions, ₩ bbl	3 75	— —
Apples, ₩ bbl	3 75	4 50
Cabbages, ₩ box	1 00	2 00

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Poultry, ₩ dozen:
Old chickens	3 00	— —
Young	2 50	— —
Ducks	2 50	— —
Geese	5 00	6 00
Turkeys	9 00	11 00
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western	16	22
Louisiana	20	22

WOOL.

Burry	5	18
Louisiana, clear	28	31
Lake, clear	38	— —

BALING STUFFS.

Bagging:
India	— —	— —
Jute	10¾	11
Twine, hemp	12	— —

BENEFACTORS.

When a board of eminent physicians and chemists announced the discovery that by combining some well-known valuable remedies, the most wonderful medicine was produced, which would cure such a wide range of diseases that most all other remedies could be dispensed with, many were skeptical; but proof of its merits by actual trial has dispelled all doubt, and to day the discoverers of that great medicine, Hop Bitters, are honored and blessed by all as benefactors.—Adv.

SEA FOAM CAKE—One cup sugar; half cup butter; one cup milk; three eggs; two cups flour, sifted with two teaspoonfuls Kellogg's Baking Powder.

VASELINE.

You may hunt the world over and still will not find
A need of the household, which brings to the mind
The idea of value; more plain to be seen
Than petroleum jelly, the famed Vaseline.

If a cut or a pain, or a wound or a burn
From pesky to'mentum, the Lone Child shall turn,
On the shelf should be found the foe of all pain,
And quiet shall reign in the household again.

If our dearest and fairest are kissed by the sun,
And the touch of the Fays is too rough to the bone,
Kind Vaseline comes as an ally be ween,
And the cheek takes on velvet it had not else seen.

If the voice it is husky, the throat it is sore,
Take the jelly at once and the trouble is over.
In fact read the circular, and from it gleam
All the virtue and claims of the famed Vaseline.

T. W. BOTHICK,
UNDERTAKER,
OFFICE, 271 CAMP STREET,
STABLES, 273 MAGAZINE STREET
Embalming and disinterring Bodies carefully shipped. Carriages for hire.
FUNERALS STRICT ATTENTION. 6p

COMMERCIAL.

ADVOCATE OFFICE,
NEW ORLEANS, MONDAY, Dec. 15, 1879.

COTTON.

The market opened with some appearance of increased steadiness, but has since been manifestly easier, and factors have accepted ⅛c. under Saturday's quotations. Sales thus far, 1,200 bales.

The following is the official closing of the Cotton Exchange:

	To-Day.	Saturday
Low ordinary	.....	.....
Ordinary	11	11⅛
Good ordinary	11⅛	11⅛
Low middling	11⅜	11⅜
Middling	11⅝	11⅝
Good middling	12	12⅛
Middling fair	12⅛	12⅜

Sales to-day, 4,500 bales, including 250 yesterday. Market irregular.

Receipts at United States ports, week ending Monday, December 15, 1879.

	Saturday.	Sunday and Monday.	This week	Last year.
Galveston	3,767	4,338	20,510
New Orleans	14,218	13,710	71,727
Mobile	3,282	4,087	24,264
Savannah	4,592	6,546	25,781
Charleston	2,205	6,693	20,484
Wilmington	1,151	215	2,480
Norfolk	3,971	5,712	19,089
Baltimore	.....	450	1,356
New York	1,907	.....	5,134
Boston	2,351	2,468	10,181
Philadelphia	120	124	2,483
Various	.....	.....	8,839
Total	37,733	.....	212,599

FUTURES.

The position of the market at New York may be seen by the following:

Middling.	To-day.	Saturday.
January	12.53@12.53	12.60@12.61
February	12.76@12.76	12.85@12.90
March	13.03@13.04	13.10@13.15
April	13.30@13.31	13.30@13.33
May	13.48@13.49	13.56@13.62
June	13.62@13.63	13.64@13.66
July	13.66@13.67	13.74@13.75
August	13.7 @13.74	13.78@13.82
September	13.67@13.74	.....
October	12.27@12.35	.....
November	.....	.....
December	12.36@12.37	12.45@12.47

Sales, 120 000 bales. Market easy.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE DIEBOLD
SAFES.

A large and complete assortment of these Celebrated SAFES on hand and for sale at prices to suit the times. Parties desiring anything in our line are respectfully solicited to address the undersigned for estimates, etc., as he feels confident of being able to give them satisfaction, both as regards price and quality of work.

A. ROY, Agent,
DIEBOLD SAFE & LOCK CO.,
27 Canal St., New Orleans, La.

D. P. ALFORD, W. C. BETTIS,
M. F. THOMSON, M. C. ALFORD.

ROBT. E. LEE
Sale and Feed Stables,
129 to 135 Baronne St.,
NEW ORLEANS.
ALFORD, BETTIS & CO., Proprietors
DEALERS IN
Kentucky Mules and Horses.
Respectfully solicit a call from Buyers.

SOLUTION OF
TRIBASIC PHOSPHATE OF LIME
IN
COD LIVER OIL.

The only medicine warranted by Letters Patent in the U. S., No. 152,736, obtained by Dr. Hava, in July, 1874.

DR. HAVA,
99 & 101 St. Charles street,
New Orleans.

FANCY GOODS! FANCY GOODS!
SCHILLING'S
Millinery Emporium, Hair Work
AND
FANCY GOODS BAZAR,
159.....CANAL STREET.....159

The assortment comprises the very latest styles in Millinery Materials, Hats and Bonnets.

HAIR GOODS of every description, and the most recherche selections in Jewelry, Fans, Combs Brushes, Dressing Cases, Sponge Purses, Card Cases, Vienna Gilt Ornaments, Perle Mannikins and Fertinery.

Your attention is particularly directed to my SPECIALTIES in fine Shell, Ivory and Pearl JET GOODS, MILLINERY ARTICLES AND HAIR WORK.

G. T. SCHILLING,
159 CANAL STREET.

HOLIDAY MUSIC.

SIX CHRISTMAS CAROLS, (twenty-five cents) New. By H. N. BARTLETT. A so many other Fine Carols. Send for list.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS. Nothing is better than an elegant volume of Round Sheet Music, such as GEMS of ENGLISH SONG, CLUSTER of GEMS, SUNSHINE of SONG or one of the thirty others of similar style, costing from $3 to $4 each, and containing each from one to two hundred popular Songs or Pieces.

CHRISTMAS GIFT. Nothing is better than a Violin Guitar Cornet, or any Band or Orchestral Instrument a Music Box (large or small), a Organ, or any Toy Instrument. Full stock. Send for lists.

ORGANISTS will do well to present themselves with DITSON & CO'S ORGAN SELECTIONS, ($1 50) containing fifty two pieces by the best composers. May be used as Voluntaries.

The sweet Sunday School Song Book, WHITE ROBES (thirty cents) will be a most acceptable present for Sunday schools.

The bright Temperance Song Book, TEMPERANCE JEWELS, (thirty cents) just out, will give new impetus to Lodge and Reform meetings.

Any book mailed for retail price.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston,
C. H. DITSON & CO.,
843 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

Joseph Mitchell Boiler Yard,
C. J. WALTON, Proprietor.
Manufacturer of all kinds of
STEAM BOILERS,
Lard, Coal Oil, Water and Locomotive Tanks, Sugar and Plantation Boilers a Specialty.
No. 407 N. W. MAIN STREET,
Bet. Twelfth and Thirteenth.
LOUISVILLE, KY.

Quarterly Appointments.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

WINONA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Kosciusko and Durant, at Durant	Dec. 27, 28
Winona and Valley, at Winona	Jan. 3, 4
West Station, at Spring Hill	10, 11
French Camp, at Shady Grove	16
Zion, at Wesley Chapel	17, 18
Carrollton, at Enon	24, 25
Black Hawk, at Black Hawk	31, Feb. 1
Winona circuit, at Bethlehem	Feb. 8, 9
Lexington, at Lexington	14, 15
Newport, at Salem	20
Attala, at Spring Ridge	21, 22
Richland, at Goodman	28, 29
Greenwood, at Greenwood	Mar. 6, 7
Bellefontaine, at Spring Hill	13, 14

The district stewards' meeting will be held at Durant on Monday, January 12, at ten o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

51. R. A. JONES.

NORTH ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

FLORENCE DIST.—FIRST ROUND

Chickasaw circuit, at Mt. Zion	Dec. 27, 28
Valley station, at Pine Grove	29
Frankfort circuit, at Farad	Jan. 3, 4
Hurricane miss., at N. Reid's schoolhouse	8
Colbert mission, at New Hope	10, 11
Tuscumbia station	12
Florence station	15
Oakland circuit, at Reserve	17, 18
Waterloo circuit, at Waterloo	19, 20
Cypress circuit, at Pisgah	24, 25
Shoal circuit, at Harrison Chapel	Jan. 31, Feb. 1
Lauderdale circuit, at Moss Chapel	Feb. 7, 8
Rogersville mission, at Rogersville	9

The District Stewards will please meet me at Tuscumbia at the Methodist church, at 10 o'clock A. M., December 25. The prompt attendance of every member of the board is all important.

50 R. A. TIMMONS, P. E.

BEWARE OF
Imitation Machines
Offered by second-hand dealers as
IMPROVED SINGER.

THE GENUINE
SINGER MACHINE,
—MADE BY THE—
Singer Manufacturing Co
HAS NO EQUAL.

2,500,000 Singers in Daily Use.

Two-thirds of all the machines sold in the United States are those made by

The Singer Company,
Send for Circular and Price List. Address
The Singer Manufacturing Co.,
85 CANAL STREET,
Agent's for Butterick's Patterns.

DANZIGER'S,
No. 131 Canal Street,
GRAND OPENING
OF
Fall and Winter Dry Goods

Comprising an excellent line of FINE GOODS; also, med um low priced and

PLANTATION GOODS

Of all descriptions at prices that will surprise you.

We respectfully invite our friends and customers and the public to an inspection of this, the most beautiful and complete stock we have ever brought to this market, and promise one and all courteous and prompt attention.

Do not fail to visit our Parlor Stores up stairs and examine our

ELEGANT CLOAKS,
LADIES' SUITS,
UNDERWEAR,
Etc., Etc., Etc.

Samples sent on application to all parts of the country free of charge

DANZIGER'S,
No. 131 Canal Street.

MARSDEN'S
PECTORAL
BALM.

THE GREATEST REMEDY KNOWN FOR CONSUMPTION, COUGHS AND COLDS,
BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, WHOOPING COUGH
AND
All Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

No family should be without a supply of this standard Medicine, the merits of which in the treatment of Pulmonary Affections have been lauded by thousands who have been rescued by its timely use from the clutches of disease.

PRICE:

Large bottles	$1 00
Small bottles	50

For sale by all Druggists and dealers in Patent Medicines

C. R. FINLAY & CO.,
NEW ORLEANS.
WHOLESALE AGENTS.

JENKINS'
ANNIHILATOR,
A SURE CURE FOR
RHEUMATISM, GOUT AND NEURALGIA.

It will not fail to effect a permanent cure in any ordinary case of either of these diseases, if used according to directions.

Price, One Dollar Per Bottle.

For sale by druggists everywhere.

G. R. FINLAY & CO.,
NEW ORLEANS,
WHOLESALE AGENTS.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

AT PHILIP
WERLEIN'S
PIANO
WAREROOMS,
135. CANAL STREET. 135

Can be found

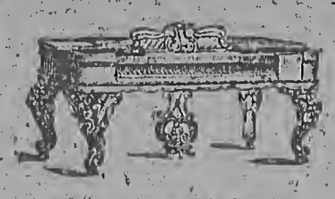
THE LARGEST STOCK OF INSTRUMENTS to select from in New Orleans. The attention of parties wanting to purchase strictly first-class Pianos is called to the following:

The Thickering & Sons' Upright and Square Grand Pianos.

They are not only receiving the admiration of artists of our own country, but command a sale in Europe, where they have been exported in large numbers. They have received universal, unanimous and voluntary concessions of superiority from the leading critics and musicians of the old country over all other makes. They are absolutely perfect in ACTION and TONE, with cases of plain and richest styles of rosewood. They are the soul of music.

—THE—
MATHUSHEK PIANO

It is gratifying to record the unprecedented success achieved by these Pianos. Relying solely on their intrinsic merits, they have acquired an enviable reputation and wherever introduced their superiority of tone, durability of construction, extreme delicacy of touch and magnificent, yet distinct, singing quality of the entire scale of the instrument, have been seen and heard to gain. Unsolicited testimonials are constantly received, expressing unqualified satisfaction.



A full assortment of the Popular
HALE UPRIGHT PIANOS.
HALE UPRIGHT PIANOS.
BEAUTIFUL IN TONE,
RICH IN DESIGN OF CASE,

have just been received, and I am now fully all orders, guarantee satisfaction. Over fifteen hundred of these Pianos have been sold, not one case of dissatisfaction has arisen, and every one of them is now giving perfect satisfaction. They embrace all the improvements known in the art of pianoforte making. The material is the best that can be procured.

The much admired
Estey & Co., Mason & Hamlin
ORGANS.

are growing in demand. These, with many other first-class Organs, I offer to purchasers at the lowest figures. The best evidence of appreciation is the growing demand for them.

In view of the great demand for Pianos, I have added the following first class Pianos to my stock:

The Gabler,
Groves teen & Fuller
and Hardman.

They are Pianos of highest standard, finely finished and are fully warranted as being just what they represent.

Second-Hand Pianos Taken in Exchange.
Instruments Sold on Installments.

Every Instrument Warranted.

The best Wood and Iron STOOL in the market.
PIANO COVERS of every description.
Descriptive catalogues sent free to any address.

OPEN EVENINGS.

PHILIP WERLEIN,
135 CANAL STREET.

Dealer in Sheet Music, Instruction Books, Importer of Musical Instruments of every description and Music.

Invoices just received per steamer Nurnberg and Teutonia.

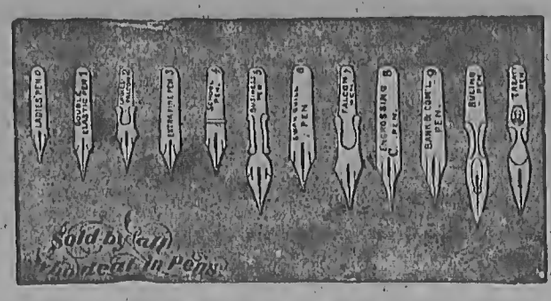
Second-hand Pianos for sale.

MISCELLANEOUS.

YALE & BOWLING,
IMPORTERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN
- DRY GOODS -
NOTIONS AND MILLINERY,
17, 19 and 21 - Magazine Street, - 17, 19 and 21
NEW ORLEANS, LA.

WARRINGTON STEEL PEN CO.'S STEEL PENS.

EQUAL IN QUALITY TO ANY



THAT CAN BE PRODUCED.

Office: 105 and 107 N. Fifth St., Philadelphia.
For Sale by Lathrop & Wilkins, 112 Camp street, N. O.

E. OFFNER,
No 174 Canal Street, Between Baronne and Dryades.
DIRECT IMPORTER OF
FRENCH, ENGLISH AND AMERICAN
CHINA AND EARTHENWARE
GLASSWARE, CUTLERY, WOODENWARE, TINWARE.
THE FINEST QUALITY OF
SILVER PLATEDWARE A SPECIALITY
LOOK AT THESE PRICES FOR OUR AMERICAN CHINA:

Dinner Breakfast and Tea Sets, comprising in all 160 pieces, for	$15 00
Real French China Dinner Sets, 115 pieces	20 00
Stone China Dinner Set 124 pieces	12 00
Decorated Chamber Sets, 10 pieces	4 50
Good Glass Goblets per dozen	60

All other goods in proportion.

All orders and enquiries for prices, etc., will receive prompt and careful attention. Make no mistake in the name and place. Look for the sign

E. OFFNER,
174 Canal Street, Between Baronne and Dryades.

D. MERCIER & SONS,
Better Known as Cheap John's.
NO BRANCH STORE IN TOWN.
MEN'S, BOYS' AND YOUTH'S
CLOTHING,
HATS, BOOTS, SHOES, FURNISHING GOODS ETC., ETC.,
Cor. Dauphine and Bienville Sts.,
New Orleans, La.
Orders for Country Merchants promptly executed on most reasonable terms. 8p

WM. G. LHOTE. A. SAMUELS
LHOTE & CO,
OLD BASIN
SASH, BLIND,
DOOR FACTORY,
AND
Lumber Yard,
Offices, cor. Toulouse & Franklin and 32 Carondelet Sts.,
P. O. Box 958. — NEW ORLEANS
8p

LOUIS WEISHAAR,
Importer & Dealer in
French Calf Skins, Patent Leather,
Sole Leather and Findings.
93.....TOULOUSE STREET.....93
Between Bourbon and Dauphine,
NEW ORLEANS.

Established 1838.
JOHN GAUCHE,
MORESQUE BUILDING,
CAMP STREET,
Branch House, 170 Chartres Street,
IMPORTER
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
Plain White,
Gold Band and Decorated
CHINA,
Parian and Biscuit Statuettes and Busts,
A Full Line of Bohemian & Bohemian
GLASSWARE.
A FULL ASSORTMENT OF
MAJOLICA, CLOCKS, LOOKING GLASSES AND HOUSEFURNISHING GOODS.
GLASS SHADES IN GREAT VARIETY,
AT VERY LOW PRICES.
Call and See.

COLUMBIA BICYCLE.

A practical machine for all except the old and infirm. Better than a horse as it eats no oats, because on it you can ride unbreakables in a day over common roads than a horse can go. Send 3c. stamp for price list and twenty four page catalogue, with testimonials and full information.

THE POPE MANUF'G CO.,
78 Summer St., Boston, Mass.

COAL. COAL.
WHOLESALE & RETAIL.
PLANTERS IN NEED OF
GOOD PITTSBURG COAL
By boat load or less quantity, will be supplied at LOWEST MARKET RATES the seam the upper coast from Baton Rouge, and those on the lower coast from New Orleans—by
W. G. COYLE & CO.,
33 Carondelet street.

STAINED GLASS
FOR CHURCHES.
Manufactured by
GEO. A. MISCH,
217 East Washington st.
Chicago, Ills.

LYNCH & GOMIEN,
Manufacturers of Pianos,
1321 BROADWAY cor. 35th Street.
NEW YORK.

TESTIMONIALS FROM WELL-KNOWN PERSONS.

From Mrs. General Sherman.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24, 1876.

Messrs LYNCH & GOMIEN:

Gentlemen—I am very much pleased with the Piano you made for me. It is really a fine instrument in every respect, and is admired by all who have seen and heard it, for its fine tone, delicacy of touch, and beauty of finish. Many gentlemen and distinguished persons have called since it has been in my parlor, and all pronounce it a fine instrument. We ourselves are charmed with it. I shall in all certainty recommend it to my friends who may wish to purchase.

I am, very truly and respectfully yours,
ELLEN H. E. SHERMAN,
205 I Street.

St James December 27, 1873.

Messrs. LYNCH & GOMIEN:

Gentlemen—I am very happy to be able to rank your Pianos as one of the very best I ever had and saw. I think the tones and brilliancy of tone required to perform the great pieces of modern and classical masters are equal to any Piano made in this country. Hoping that your Pianos will also stand our climates as well as any other manufactured in the North I shall with much pleasure recommend them wherever I have an opportunity. Very respectfully yours,

ANTHONY WIMMER
Professor of Music, St. Mary Jefferson College, St. James, La., (Convent, P. O.).

From the World-Renowned Artist Camilla Urso.

NEW YORK, May 27, 1873.

Messrs. LYNCH & GOMIEN:

Gentlemen—After giving your Piano a fair trial I am happy to bear witness upon the world-renowned Actions and Tone. Your instruments possess rare merits and it gives me much pleasure to recommend them to the public.

Yours truly, CAMILA URSO.

District of Letter from W. H. Abbington, Tenth Tex.

We are delighted with the Piano. The tone is loud, strong and full, yet soft and mellow.

FRANTZ & OFITZ,
Diamond Setters
AND
Jewelers,
61 ROYAL ST.,
bet. Bienville & Conti
NEW ORLEANS.

WILLIAM BURNS.
Old Virginia Kitchen,
No. 75 CAMP STREET.
Meals and Rooms by the Day or Week, on the European Plan.
Meals at all Hours of the Day.

COMMON SENSE
Will tell you to get your
TRUSSES
AND BRACES
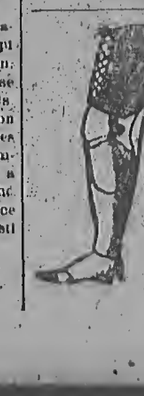
Where they are made and fitted.
The best Trusses in this or any other country, from One Dollar up. Call at
H. SPILLMANN'S,
93 Baronne Street, New Orleans.



THE ORIGINAL
Superintendent of Dr. BLY and LEWIS LOCKWOOD of New Orleans.
A. McDERMOTT,
has returned and established the business of manufacturing Dr Bly's patent
ARTIFICIAL
Arms and Legs,
and has purchased the sole right for the Southern States. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed in all cases or no pay. Prices greatly reduced.
A. McDERMOTT,
303 Camp Street, N. O.

The Christian Advocate.

PUBLISHED FOR THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES, METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH SOUTH.

VOL. 25. NEW ORLEANS, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1879. NO. 52.

The Christian Advocate.

ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE AT NEW ORLEANS AS SECOND CLASS MATTER.

REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D., Editor.
G. T. LATHROP, Publisher.

OFFICE—112 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Address all matters of business, G. T. LATHROP 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

Address all communications designed for publication, REV. LINUS PARKER, 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

AGENTS—All the members of the Patronizing Conferences.

PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

ALABAMA CONFERENCE.
REV. EDWARD WADSWORTH, D. D.
REV. FELIX R. HILL.
REV. H. D. MOORE.
MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.
REV. W. H. WATKINS, D. D.
REV. JAMES A. GODFREY.
REV. W. L. C. HINNIGHTT.
LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.
REV. JOHN MATHEWS, D. D.
REV. LINUS PARKER, D. D.
REV. CHRISTIAN KEENER.

RATES OF SUBSCRIPTION.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate is furnished to subscribers at the following rates including postage:

One Year	$2 00
Six Months	1 00
Three Months	50
To widows of the gospel and widows of deceased traveling preachers:
One Year	$1 00
Six Months	50
Three Months	25

For the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

THE CHRISTMAS TIDE.

BY DEVALD.

The blessed Christmas tide is near and many a heart is beating
To welcome the gladsome light of Love's dear earth-creating
But there are those whose sad hearts will ache
When the year God their prayers will hear, or pitch their tent with Him.

To such a second joy will come each peal of Like rock pealed of lost hopes, or saddest memories
For them now will by no song of joy, save these the While they sit lightly on the poor as they flit now
Some cases I ask the angels weep when look on them on high
To see Love and wretchedness, to hear the orphan's cry
Pale cast will be here he want, that through the chinks of snow
The wind come on the Christmas morn, back with the angels go.

Will they have sung, "their song of love," and have glad story told,
That could enter, are they shut, the shining gates of gold
For here we stay in sorrow here, upon this cold, dark earth,
Nothing but what will become for, no feast, no song of mirth.

Sad tears will fall like winter rain, and sorrow be wreath bound
Our only prayer that day will be, "Give us our daily bread!"
And oh, our hearts, so like to break will yearn, for Jesus smiled.
And broken, of the happy dead, will wish we, too, had died.

We wish and wish we could sweetly sleep beneath the wreath of snow,
Where by would come times come and sing and blow as they grow
We'd be one heart out with our woes, now then no want could,
And we'd be one heart out with our woes, now then no want could.
And we'd be one heart out with our woes, now then no want could.

For on the Lamb's throne above our burdens all
We would be responsive echos of what each other
Nor could we wish other ever was there, no sorrow
No cruel tyrant for will slay the Prince of
And to us He gives "Thy will be done," in earth
Into the Christ, trust and wait, rest on Him
And age and charity cheer on the on this sad
I pray to God we will be my guest, will live with
That He will give and bless the bread and unto
Will turn our mourning into joy, and make each
We like to use a faithful friend, when other friends
And give to all that blessed peace none else
Oh! haste the day, O Saviour King! when we Prepare for us to inhabit us fair, a place to dwell
When we may walk with Thee in white," and
All Thy years be clad.
And let that great eternal day be one glad Christ

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

DOMESTIC.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—A Cincinnati bi-centennial of the Supreme Judge Peter Parker, who was elected on 1st Monday in December, 1779, the like was not known in America.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 18.—Representative Cook's bill abolishing the office of local inspectors of steamboats, the chief engineers and clerks of the Treasury, and consolidating the duties of the offices, was favored by a majority of the committee on commerce.

MADISON, Dec. 19.—In the senate to-day Senator Fairchild, chairman of foreign affairs, said he would shortly introduce the project of a treaty to be entered with the United States, and would ask for a modification of the regulations governing the sale of alcoholic liquors in respect of customs duties levied in the United States upon Spanish wines.

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—The local authorities of the town of Elbing, eastern Prussia, petitioned the Landtag against the election, by Herr Von Carkammer, minister of education, of the new school act, bringing it purely secular education.

The committee of the Landtag, to which the petition was referred, advised the chamber to pass to the order of the day, in other words to reject the petition. This proposition was carried yesterday by a vote of 212 to 147, the majority consisting of Conservatives, Centrists and Poles, the minority of Liberals, Progressists and Free Conservatives.

Ex-Minister Forckenbeck voted with the majority. The rejection of the petitions is considered as evidence of the inclination on the part of the government to mitigate the severity of the May laws, in view of bringing the bishops eventually into the various

LONDON, Dec. 22.—A Calcutta dispatch says: Excitement is deepening on Mohmund; five princes were recently murdered.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The Standard's dispatch from Candahar says: The people in the province become more hostile daily, and the government will oppose its progress against the sepoys. In all parts of the province, the people are in a state of excitement against the English. Numerous arrests of Ghazis have been made.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—A dispatch from Candahar says: The Ameer Yakoob Khan exercises neither surprise nor apprehension over the Cabul disasters. He is now engaged in preparing for the spring campaign. He has ordered all the troops to concentrate at Candahar, and has begun to collect provisions and supplies. He is confident that he will be able to march to Cabul in the spring with sufficient force to overcome all opposition.

MEMPHIS, Dec. 19.—The steamer Plow Boy, on down from Fort Smith to Little Rock, struck a snag, Wednesday morning, near Dardanelle, and sank in three feet of water. She had three hundred bales of cotton aboard. The Manmelle left Little Rock yesterday morning to go to her assistance. It is thought she can be raised.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—The decision of the president that the appointments as census takers must be equally divided between the political parties, in all the States, has created intense disgust in his party.

It gives the Democrats, in States like Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska, a lot of patronage, and disarrange the calculations of the Republicans in the Southern States.

There will be vigorous protests from the stalwart wing, but the president said this morning that he thought it was right, and proposed to stick to it.

MOBILE, Dec. 20.—Last evening, at about 8 p. m., the steamship Mobile arrived at the wharves of this city amid the booming of cannon and blowing of whistles, and cheering of the multitude which had assembled to welcome her here. This is the pioneer steamship of a direct line between Mobile and Liverpool. Captain Harriman speaks in the highest terms of her sailing qualities. She made the trip from Queenstown to Mobile in twenty days and eight hours; having lost sixteen hours in a severe gale. Mobile can furnish profitable employment for sixteen more ships of the same kind.

DENVER Col., Dec. 20.—A Los Pinos dispatch says: Nothing has been heard of Ouray since his departure for the camp of the White River Utes. The reds are staying war feelings among both the Uncompahgre and White River Utes, which may yet prevent the surrender of the parties demanded.

MOBILE, Dec. 20.—The steamer Maggie Bixbe, of the Montgomery and Mobile line, with 1100 bales of cotton, was burned, at 10 a. m., today, at her wharf, but an hour after her arrival. The fire broke out so suddenly that in a few minutes the steamer was a mass of flames, and burned to the water's edge. About 200 bales have already been stolen. The remainder was destroyed by fire or damaged by water. The steamers Tacle and Alabaster, moored on each side of the burning steamer, escaped with slight damage.

LOSSES.—Los Pinos, Dec. 22.—Dispatches from the Ute agency to-day say: The Indians are in a defiant mood. They refuse to give up Meeker's murderers. Their demands are that the troops be withdrawn from the reservation, and that the agency be removed. Their threats are that if the troops do not leave they will kill all the employes and settlers. The Indians are said to be well armed and provisioned for the winter. Their number is estimated at 1,000. Governor Pitkin has ordered the Colorado militia to be in readiness to march to the scene of trouble at a moment's notice.

FOREIGN.

PARAGUAY, Dec. 6.—Advices from Lima to November 22 state that Garcia Rosada, late minister of finance, and Prefect Piérola, have been arrested by the railway police at Chorrillos, on the railway between Lima and Callao, and after the allies were forced to retire demoralized, causing very heavy loss. The Chilians were chagrined.

MADRID, Dec. 19.—In the senate to-day the minister of foreign affairs said that all of the ministers were in favor of the gradual abolition of slavery, and particularly in Cuba, which he immediately proposed.

In the chamber of deputies to-day Senor Fabie, minister of foreign affairs, said he would shortly submit the project of a treaty of commerce with the United States, and would ask for a modification of the regulations governing the sale of alcoholic liquors in respect of customs duties levied in the United States upon Spanish wines.

BERLIN, Dec. 19.—The local authorities of the town of Elbing, eastern Prussia, petitioned the Landtag against the election, by Herr Von Carkammer, minister of education, of the new school act, bringing it purely secular education.

The committee of the Landtag, to which the petition was referred, advised the chamber to pass to the order of the day, in other words to reject the petition. This proposition was carried yesterday by a vote of 212 to 147, the majority consisting of Conservatives, Centrists and Poles, the minority of Liberals, Progressists and Free Conservatives.

Ex-Minister Forckenbeck voted with the majority. The rejection of the petitions is considered as evidence of the inclination on the part of the government to mitigate the severity of the May laws, in view of bringing the bishops eventually into the various

LONDON, Dec. 22.—A Calcutta dispatch says: Excitement is deepening on Mohmund; five princes were recently murdered.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The Standard's dispatch from Candahar says: The people in the province become more hostile daily, and the government will oppose its progress against the sepoys. In all parts of the province, the people are in a state of excitement against the English. Numerous arrests of Ghazis have been made.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—A dispatch from Candahar says: The Ameer Yakoob Khan exercises neither surprise nor apprehension over the Cabul disasters. He is now engaged in preparing for the spring campaign. He has ordered all the troops to concentrate at Candahar, and has begun to collect provisions and supplies. He is confident that he will be able to march to Cabul in the spring with sufficient force to overcome all opposition.

FIELD NOTES.

ALABAMA.

HOLMES VALLEY, FLA., Dec. 3.—Holmes Valley circuit, Alabama Conference, has thirteen appointments. Three added this year. The net membership is 287. Added to the church this year, 92; 70 on profession and 22 by letter; 27 infants and 21 adults baptized. Have had a gracious revival at Salem church; many conversions. Also at Pleasant Grove. Four Sabbath-schools; only one prospers. Money scarce; people poor, and preacher too.

JOHN WESLEY, P. C.

TUSCUMBIA, ALA., Dec. 10.—On my return to Tuscumbia I received a cordial welcome. I pray the blessings of God on my work this year. Your presence greatly cheered us at Conference. You made many personal friends. Come every session. We like you. The Conference resolved to put a missionary in the Forks field at its own expense. Not $500 was needed for a short time. I hope next Conference will find us able to send it an additional helper to some of our long missions. Why not every conference do so? We can do it, and be many dollars out by it. We have quite a touch of business here of late now. Business of every line is more prosperous than since the war. Success to the ADVOCATE.

Z. A. PARKER.

MISSISSIPPI.

SARDIS, MISS., Dec. 9.—We have raised about $1 600 on this work this year, for building a church and parsonage, and of this amount two Wesleyan Societies, organized by my wife, raised about $500. All the collections ordered by the Conference, and one by the district stewards to furnish a house for the presiding elder, are up in full. Preachers' salaries not yet paid. A brother, whose crop has failed on account of wet weather for several years, promised the Lord a tenth of all he made above his quarterage. The yield was good, and the vow paid. Our health is improved; ready for another year's work.

J. M. WEEMS.

CANTON, MISS., Dec. 13.—I am at the close of my second year in this charge, and leave for Conference in about forty-eight hours. We have had a pleasant and prosperous year in the main. My people have been kind to and thoughtful of their pastor. They have truly sympathized with us in our sorrows, and rejoiced with us in our joys. The crops are good, price of cotton good, and there is hence a good degree of prosperity. May God bless the people. Charles nearly all met.

R. N. ENNISWORTHY.

MISCELLANEOUS

DELAWARE COLLEGE, TENN., Nov. 29.—Fine weather continues to-date. Arrival at Madisonville of great power in this community. Thanksgiving observed with sermon by our new pastor. Public exercises at college at close of term, December 25. Protracted meeting to follow Christmas week. Many new students have come in last month. A large number expected after holidays.

F. M. GRACE.

How Mr. Wesley Came to Give Up Reading Sermons.

BY H. M. S.

Imagine, as to the exterior, such a church edifice as the St. Paul's, at the corner of Fulton street and Broadway! Imagine such a building, without its tower and clock, transferred to the quality of Wall street and occupying an obscure position behind the bankers' and brokers' offices, and approached only through a narrow gateway and beneath a low arch, the passage to a sort of court, in which you might expect to find a wine-cellar or the washerwoman's! This is not the peculiar locality of "All Hallows," Lombard street, alone; but of St. Helen's, Bishopsgate, St. Botolph's, Middle Temple, Christ church, Newgate street, are each equally obscure and difficult to find.

In the Journal of Mr. Wesley he has left up active passages by which "All Hallows, Lombard street, alone," but now a large number of people, and very much to his own dismay from "The moment one of these services was of some importance to himself?

This was brought to a close one day, about a year ago, upon an impressive occasion, a beautiful interior of the church of Ireland, under the guidance of a gentleman who is a member of Convocation, a grandchild-nephew of Mr. Wesley, and a warden of All Hallows.

Some very fine old windows; a lofty ceiling, in the decoration of which much money has been lavished, resulting in a series of sculptured subjects strikingly painted in each panel overhead; a pulpit of oak, richly carved, and of such a color as indicates antiquity, no doubt the pride of the worshipers in the pews, and these were among the impressive features of the church.

And then there was a curious open fireplace in the nave, and left the broad marble-paved aisle, having on a pedestal of two funeral pitchers placed back to back, the smoke from which was conveyed away in the flues beneath the floor. And then there was the lustre, with candles which seemed as if they were to be lighted by pigeons, also apparently, as I was informed, never lighted upon such Sunday morning when I was present, to give way to the decision of the rector to the people only from candles and lamps in the pulpit.

In the Journal of Mr. Wesley we have a brief up active passages by which "All Hallows, Lombard street, alone," but now a large number of people, and very much to his own dismay from "The moment one of these services was of some importance to himself?

This was brought to a close one day, about a year ago, upon an impressive occasion, a beautiful interior of the church of Ireland, under the guidance of a gentleman who is a member of Convocation, a grandchild-nephew of Mr. Wesley, and a warden of All Hallows.

Some very fine old windows; a lofty ceiling, in the decoration of which much money has been lavished, resulting in a series of sculptured subjects strikingly painted in each panel overhead; a pulpit of oak, richly carved, and of such a color as indicates antiquity, no doubt the pride of the worshipers in the pews, and these were among the impressive features of the church.

And then there was a curious open fireplace in the nave, and left the broad marble-paved aisle, having on a pedestal of two funeral pitchers placed back to back, the smoke from which was conveyed away in the flues beneath the floor. And then there was the lustre, with candles which seemed as if they were to be lighted by pigeons, also apparently, as I was informed, never lighted upon such Sunday morning when I was present, to give way to the decision of the rector to the people only from candles and lamps in the pulpit.

"ALL HALLOWS CHURCH, LOMBARD STREET, LONDON.

"On Sunday, December 28, 1788, two sermons were preached in this parish church for the benefit of forty-eight poor children belonging to the Sunday-school Society, first in the morning by Rev. George Peacock, D. D., and that in the afternoon by Rev. John Wesley, M. A., from the words in the service, 'His commandments are not grievous.' The congregation was very large.

"When Mr. Wesley, then in his eighty-sixth year, was putting on his gown in the vestry, he said to Mr. Thomas Betts, rector of the church, 'It is above forty years, sir, since I first preached in this church. I remember I took a particular circumstance. I came without a sermon, and going up into the pulpit, began. I hesitated, and recollected, and the vestry under which mental confusion and agitation. A woman who stood in the aisle, and my concern and said, 'Poor man, what is the matter?' I recollected myself, and began again a sermon, which was the best I ever preached.' Putting his hand on my shoulder, she said, 'Is that all? Cannot you trust God for a sermon?' The question has since that time upon me that I ascended the pulpit, preached extempore with great freedom to myself and acceptance to the people, and have never since taken a written sermon into the pulpit."

In the Journal Mr. Wesley wrote with regard to this occasion: "I preached in this church at the earnest request of the committee who are to a number of poor children, and came, like me, with the intention to hear Dr. Heylyn. This was the first time that, having no notes about me, I preached extempore."

This must have been in the early part of his ministry. More than forty years afterward he visited the same church, and then he wrote in the Journal: "I preached again at All Hallows Church morning and afternoon. I found great liberty of spirit, and the congregation seemed to be much affected. How is this? Do I yet please men? Is the offense of the cross ceased? It seems, after being scandalous near fifty years, I am at length growing into an honorable man."

My friend afterward acknowledged that he had caused the version of Mr. Wesley's dilemma to be hung conspicuously in the vestry of All Hallows, perhaps with the hope that the phase of his character might become helpful to any clergyman about to pass from the vestry-room to the pulpit.—N. Y. Christian Advocate.

A Priest and Boys.

The New England Journal of Education recites the following facts, which prove that the enmity of the Romish priests in this country against our public schools is quite as bitter as it is in Belgium, France or Germany.

Two boys in Putnam, one nine and the other eleven years of age, were severely punished by the Romish priest for attending one of the public schools of that town. The reverend gentleman had called his parishioners to take their children from the public schools and send them to his own sectarian institution; but the father of these boys, although a devout Roman Catholic, believed that in matters purely educational he had a right to act according to his own judgment, and decided to send them where he thought they would make the greatest progress. The priest's displeasure was not slow in manifesting itself. On the following Sunday morning, after the children had taken their places as usual before the whole congregation, and had begun the recitation of the Lord's Prayer with the rest of the school, the priest stopped them, and addressing himself to the father of the boys, said in the most emphatic manner: "Those boys are excommunicated. Let them be sent away from the church." Then, turning to the children, he said: "Children, I forbid you to go to the public schools. You are ordered to the Catholic school. Now, go!" Which they did.

Louisiana Conference.

We gave the regular minute business and proceedings as follows:

Question 1. Who are admitted on trial? Alcott Taylor Galloway, Charles Freeman Stevens, John W. Chitwood, Jephta Landrum, Charles T. Monholland.

2. Who are re-admitted? James M. Beard, Samuel Keener, Robert M. Blocker, John L. P. Sheppard.

3. Who are discontinued? James A. Boggs.

4. Who are admitted into full connection? Patrick Garvin, John H. Cassity, John T. Graham.

5. Who are the deacons of one year? S. Henry Werlein, T. K. Fenn, LeRoy, Charles R. Benson, Charles J. Hough, A. McWilliams.

6. What traveling preachers are ordained elders? Patrick Garvin, Joseph H. Cassity, John T. Graham.

7. Who are the deacons of one year? S. Henry Werlein, T. K. Fenn, LeRoy, Charles R. Benson, Charles J. Hough, A. McWilliams.

8. What traveling preachers are ordained deacons? Patrick Garvin, John H. Cassity, John T. Graham.

9. What traveling preachers are ordained deacons? Patrick Garvin, John T. Graham.

10. What local preachers are ordained deacons? Charles T. Monholland, W. T. St. John, H. B. Cargill, John H. McFarland.

11. What local preachers are ordained deacons?—Charles T. Monholland, W. T. St. John.

12. What traveling preachers are elected elders? W. R. Whitely.

13. What traveling preachers are ordained elders? W. R. Whitely.

14. Who are located this year? J. M. Pinkham, at his own request.

15. Who are superannuated? A. G. Miller, Fred. White.

16. Who are superannuated? H. C. Thrall, John S. Davis, W. E. Doty, E. W. Yerger, Phil. M. Goodwin, Joel Sanders, Pratt Butterworth, J. G. Reid, Jesse Fuller, George Jackson.

17. What preachers have died during the past year? James E. Cobb.

Membership local preachers, 78; members, 11,291; colored, 51; total, 14,500.

Baptisms—Infants, 829; adults, 773.

Sunday-schools. Number of schools, 130; Sunday-school teachers, 831; Sunday-school scholars, 5,362.

Conference claimants.—Amount raised, $2,353 45.

Missions. For foreign missions, $2 216 27 home missions, $1,193 67; total, $3 439 94.

Conference is to be held at Shreveport next year.

Mississippi Conference.

APPOINTMENTS.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.—Francis M. Williams, P. E. Vicksburg station, C. B. Galloway; Warren, T. B. Holloman; Clover Hill, J. H. Shelton; Goulard, ——; Rolling Fork, T. C. Bradford; Mound Olivet, W. W. Hurst; Sunflower mission, to be supplied by R. S. Gale; Rocky Springs, C. W. Campbell; Cayuga, C. A. Powell; Port Gibson, B. R. Shegleton; Fayette and Martin, D. P. Bradford and H. M. Dulfese; Kingston, T. D. Watt; Natchez, R. S. Woodward; Port Gibson Collegiate Academy, J. A. H. Jones, president.

WOODVILLE DISTRICT.—J. A. Godfrey, P. E. Woodville station, J. P. Drake; Wilkinson, T. W. Brown; Jackson and Pickens Chapel, D. M. Rush; Williams circuit, B. F. Jones; Clinton station, C. D. Andrews; East Feliciana, L. B. Robertson; Bayou Sara, R. F. Flowers; East Baton Rouge, Rufus T. Davis; Livingston mission, G. E. Eggar; St. Helena, J. S. Parker; Covington, L. L. Peebles; G. T. Vickers, sup.; Amite, H. P. Lewis; North Wilkinson, W. W. Simmons; Amite City and Pontchartrain mission, B. S. Raymond and M. C. Conway; Centenary College, C. D. Andrews, president.

BROOKHAVEN DISTRICT.—H. F. M. Lee, P. E. Brookhaven and Wesson, W. H. Lewis; Bogalusa, P. Howard; Hazlehurst, W. H. Leith; Georgetown, B. T. Pearson; Lyle's Springs, J. L. Forsythe; Spring Ridge, Locke; Bethel, Pierce, N. B. Young; Magnolia, A. M. Barrington; Sandhill, H. R. Caldwell; Magnolia, E. F. Nailles; E. A. Powers, sup.; Monticello and Silver Creek, W. W. Hodges; Magnolia, J. W. Campbell; Walthall Female College, H. F. Johnson, president.

BRANDON DISTRICT.—J. M. Saunders, P. E. Brandon station, B. Craighead; Pearson, J. D. Hays; Forest, George T. Thomas; Newton, George Rutledge; Cohon, J. J. Gee; Morton, William Goode, J. W. Ellison; Carthage, T. W. Ayres; Lena, R. A. Spivey; Preston, C. Mayfield; Pelahatchie, T. Y. Chapman; Mt. Salem, J. A. Mills; Jackson, J. B. Cain; Mississippi Conference Female College, W. H. Watkins, president; Millsaps College, J. R. Hyde, president.

MERIDIAN DISTRICT.—R. J. Boyd, P. E. Meridian station, E. H. Mudgett; Marion, H. Crawford; Chunky, Thomas Hamilton; Enterprise, J. W. Hamilton; Quitman, J. M. Bowman; Stonewall, J. T. Bedell; Forkville, J. W. Cochran; Lauderdale, J. T. Lovell; Shady Grove, J. H. Hollingsworth; Okatibbee, W. W. Cathcart; East Mississippi Female College, J. W. Jackson, president.

SHARKEY DISTRICT.—T. S. Hines, P. E. Moss Point, J. M. Weems; Pearlington, C. W. Carlton; Sandhill circuit, to be supplied; Gulfport, J. S. Calhoun; Pearl River, D. Morgan; Clinton Grove, R. H. Downer; Whitington, J. Nicholson; Mt. Carmel, G. W. Brown; Westville, J. C. Nicholson; Enon, L. Parker, and one supply; Ellisville mission, to be supplied by T. J. Miller.

JACKSON DISTRICT.—H. L. C. Bramblett, P. E. Jackson station, W. H. Watkins; Morrison, H. C. Langford; Sharon and Thomastown mission, P. D. Odell and M. Bell; Canton and Sonnie, W. D. Hemmick; Yazoo City, W. E. Bedford; Benton and Midway, R. Bradley; Dover, A. E. Nichols; Silver Creek, D. A. Givens; Tranquil, L. P. Manor; Brownsville, W. C. Black; Commissioned, R. H. Norsworthy; Raymond, B. Jones; missionary to China, J. W. Lambuth.

The presiding elders, L. R. Featherston, to Vicksburg District; F. M. Williams, to Brookhaven District; J. M. Saunders, to Jackson District; J. M. Weems, to Sardis; J. H. Shelton, to Yazoo City; J. W. Lambuth, to China.

The next session of the Conference to be held at Yorkville.

Appointments of the Texas Conference.

BISHOP MCTYEIRE, D. D., PRESIDING.

GALVESTON DISTRICT.—H. W. Pilgrim, P. E. Galveston, G. W. Briggs; St. James, G. Watson, W. J. Hill; Central, S. H. Brown; Cedar Creek, to be supplied, D. E. Sullivan; Sharp Chapel, Joseph B. Isley; Wesley, Washington street, B. Jones, Fred. T. Watson; Eagle Lake circuit, H. B. Cockrell; San Felipe, B. F. Hall; Prairie Point, A. Hall; Columbia, G. W. Rogers; Velasco circuit, Solomon H. Wilkes; Marguerite circuit, to be supplied; Brazoria, Peter Bell; Columbia circuit, John H. Denson; Columbia Texas Christian Advocate, I. G. Johns.

AUSTIN DISTRICT.—E. S. Smith, P. E. Austin station, W. Shapard; Sweet Home, Carl Christoph; Webberville circuit, W. G. Nems; Austin circuit, J. W. Wilpol; Live Oak mission, J. L. Murray; Bastrop circuit, R. Gellerson; Bastrop station, Weems Wootton; Winchester circuit, M. S. Hutchins; West Point circuit, Dock Morgan; Elm Creek circuit, Dan. S. Young; J. M. Whipple, sup.; Lagrange station, F. L. Allen; Fayetteville circuit, Thos. F. Connolly, C. J. Longino; Weimar circuit, C. C. Spencer; Columbus station, F. A. Owsley; Columbus mission, to be supplied; Regent Southwestern University, F. V. Mood.

CHAPPELL HILL DISTRICT.—T. H. Rogers, P. E. Chappell Hill station, R. A. Alexander; Trayis circuit, C. P. Brown; Brenham station, E. P. Mitchell; Prospect and Mt. Caley, H. T. Kavanaugh; Burton and Somerville, A. E. Godbold; Brazos circuit, J. M. Weston, S. B. Graves, sup.; Welborn and Stone, James A. Duncan; Industry and Barron, G. S. Sandle; Caldwell circuit, J. L. Lemons, M. H. Potter, sup.; Edge circuit, P. P. Rose; Giddings circuit, Patrick Sullivan; Lexington mission, to be supplied; Nail's Creek mission, to be supplied.

HUNTSVILLE DISTRICT.—C. H. Brooks, P. E. Huntsville station, S. C. Littlepage; Lodge mission, B. F. Johnson; Willis and Montgomery, E. M. Pugh; Cold Springs circuit, I. Z. T. Morris; Prairie Palmo circuit, C. L. Farrington; Madisonville circuit, G. H. Phalr; Zion circuit, R. W. Kennon; Anderson circuit, J. H. Chamblin; Navasota and Millican, J. C. Mickle; Corrigan and Plumbersville, O. T. Holchkiss; Spring Creek circuit, S. W. Kelley.

TRANSFERRED. R. T. Nabors, to the North Alabama Conference, and stationed at Tuscaloosa; W. J. Young, to the West Texas Conference, and stationed at San Antonio; Thos. Price, to the Mississippi Conference; C. M. Caldwell, to the Kentucky Conference.

Appointments of the East Texas Conference.

BISHOP MCTYEIRE, D. D., PRESIDING.

MARSHALL DISTRICT.—R. H. Thompson, P. E. Marshall station, E. P. Boone; Harrison circuit, H. H. Scott; Elysian Fields circuit, A. D. Burks; Hallsville circuit, W. R. Pattison; Starville circuit, J. R. Wages; Henderson station, S. W. Turner; Bellview circuit, J. S. Mallis; Prairieville circuit, Geo. A. Detweiler; Overton and Tempe circuit, R. W. Baker; Pennington circuit, D. P. Griffin; Mount Enterprise mission, David M. Stovall; Garden Valley mission, C. H. Smith; Alexander Institute, J. Alexander, principal.

PALESTINE DISTRICT.—John Adams, P. E. Palestine station, R. S. Finley; Palestine circuit, J. F. Cowan; Tyler station, H. A. Phillips, W. N. Boniface, sup.; Trinity mission, Francis J. B. Craig; Athens circuit, Thomas P. Smith; Kickapoo circuit, L. M. Fowler; Larissa circuit, C. C. Brooks; Jacksonville circuit, Alfred Taylor, E. P. Rogers, supply; Rusk station, J. W. Jongeward, J. R. D. Tate; Crockett circuit, Nathan Overton; Nacogdoches circuit, T. T. Root; Pennington, J. C. Tucker.

SAN ANTONIO DISTRICT.—H. A. Simpson, P. E. San Antonio station, Noah Adams; J. B. Hall; San Antonio mission, E. C. Fisher; Mission circuit, Thos. Gladney, Jas. N. Peebles; Pleasanton, A. Richardson, Jas. S. Dawson; Castroville, A. W. Tankersley; Castroville mission, J. M. Wilson; Bandera, Virgil Boyce; Frio, Samuel Wood; Seco, Samuel Wood, sup.; Milam circuit, to be supplied; Uvalde, G. F. Wilson; Sabinal, J. T. Smith.

BRAZOS DISTRICT.—Daniel Morse, P. E. Beginning and Ending, to be supplied; Calvert, D. C. Simmons; Bryan, R. M. Stroube; Navasota, L. W. Bonner; Mercer, H. H. Vaughan; Hearne, Marvin Brooks; W. H. Crawford; Wheelock, T. Pierce Wilson; Jasper circuit, J. P. Henderson; E. M. Sweeney, sup.; Newton circuit, E. T. Doster; Hardin mission, R. M. Kirby; Terry, to be supplied; W. B. Manning, transferred to the North Texas Conference and appointed to Farmersville circuit.

For Courtesies Extended.

At a meeting of the members of the Louisiana Conference, held on the evening of December 18th, 1879, on board the Steamer Red, Mr. Chas. H. Black was called to the chair, and J. M. Brown appointed secretary, after which the following resolutions, offered by J. A. Parker and T. J. Caton, were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The officers and members of the Steamer Red, Mr. Black, have extended to us their hospitality during the entire session of the Conference; therefore, be it Resolved, By the members of the Louisiana Conference in session here assembled, that we tender to Capt. Wm. Cook, the owner of the steamer, and to Capt. Chas. H. Black, the commander of the same, our sincere thanks for the many courtesies shown us during the session, and we commend the shippers and traveling public to the Red, as being in every way worthy of patronage.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be published in the New Orleans Christian Advocate, and that we extend the officers of the steamer

J. M. BROWN, Secretary.

CHRISTIANS AND THE CHURCH.—Mr. Moody, in his address at Tremont Temple, Boston, Mass., on the subject of "Christians and the Church," said: "I am sorry to say that many Christians have left the Church, and they are not to be found in the prayer-meeting or the Sunday-school. Just Mr. Moody, as one of these people, might answer: 'Why, I have no time; I am so busy in my store or office that I have not time to go to prayer-meeting.' Such answers are not to be tolerated for a moment. If you have time to attend to your business, you have time to attend to your religious duties. If you have time to eat, you have time to pray. If you have time to sleep, you have time to read your Bible. If you have time to read the newspaper, you have time to read the Bible. If you have time to talk about the weather, you have time to speak to your neighbor about his soul. If you have time to attend to your worldly affairs, you have time to attend to your spiritual affairs. If you have time to attend to your temporal affairs, you have time to attend to your eternal affairs. If you have time to attend to your earthly affairs, you have time to attend to your heavenly affairs. If you have time to attend to your material affairs, you have time to attend to your spiritual affairs. If you have time to attend to your business affairs, you have time to attend to your religious affairs. If you have time to attend to your worldly affairs, you have time to attend to your spiritual affairs. If you have time to attend to your temporal affairs, you have time to attend to your eternal affairs. If you have time to attend to your earthly affairs, you have time to attend to your heavenly affairs. If you have time to attend to your material affairs, you have time to attend to your spiritual affairs. If you have time to attend to your business affairs, you have time to attend to your religious affairs.

A MISTAKE.—Mr. Editor: Bro. William E. Hall is an exhorter in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is not dead, as has been reported and extensively published in the Advocate some months ago. He still lives, and is doing all he can to advance the cause of his Master. He is now laboring on the Waco circuit, Waco district, Central Texas Conference, and hopes to attend the next session of the Conference. Please correct the mistake through the ADVOCATE.

J. M. BROWN.

AN INQUIRY.—Mr. Editor: Will you please inform me through the columns of your paper what has become of Rev. Samuel Gandy? He was stationed at Copiah circuit, Mississippi Conference, in 1878, and reported himself present at the session held in Vicksburg in December of that year, but I have not seen his name since. Any information you can give me concerning him will be thankfully received by his many friends.

Yours truly,
J. M. BROWN.

A MISTAKE.—Mr. Editor: Bro. William E. Hall is an exhorter in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is not dead, as has been reported and extensively published in the Advocate some months ago. He still lives, and is doing all he can to advance the cause of his Master. He is now laboring on the Waco circuit, Waco district, Central Texas Conference, and hopes to attend the next session of the Conference. Please correct the mistake through the ADVOCATE.

Yours truly,
J. M. BROWN.

AN INQUIRY.—Mr. Editor: Will you please inform me through the columns of your paper what has become of Rev. Samuel Gandy? He was stationed at Copiah circuit, Mississippi Conference, in 1878, and reported himself present at the session held in Vicksburg in December of that year, but I have not seen his name since. Any information you can give me concerning him will be thankfully received by his many friends.

Yours truly,
J. M. BROWN.

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1879.

THE CHRISTMAS BELLS.

LONGFELLOW.

I heard the bells on Christmas day
Their old familiar carols play,
And wild and sweet
The words repeat
Of peace on earth, good will to men.

And thought how, as the day had come,
The belfries of all Christendom
Had rolled along
The unbroken song
Of peace on earth, good will to men.

Till ringing, singing on its way,
The world revolved from night to day,
A voice, a chime,
A chant sublime
Of peace on earth, good will to men!

Then from each black, accursed mouth
The cannon thundered in the south,
And with the sound
The carols drowned
Of peace on earth, good will to men.

It was as if an earthquake rent
The earth and gave the lie to each content,
And made forlorn
The hearts that heard, in every home,
Of peace on earth, good will to men.

And in despair I bent my head:
"There is no peace on earth," I said;
For hate is strong,
And mocks the song
Of peace on earth, good will to men.

Then pealed the bells more loud and deep:
"God is not dead; nor doth He sleep!
The wrong shall fail,
The right prevail,
With peace on earth, good will to men."

A Visit to the Home of My Youth

AFTER AN ABSENCE OF FORTY YEARS.

REFLECTIONS.

MR. EDITOR: I have often heard it said that when people lived to an advanced age, after an absence of many years, they would almost invariably be seized with an ardent desire to see the home and scenery of their youthful days. Whether this be a fact among mankind in general or not, I will not pretend to say, but in my own case the truth of the saying has been verified to the letter.

Five years ago, after an absence of about forty years, I felt a growing desire to revisit the home of my early youth in the State of Alabama. Circumstances were such that it was not convenient at that time for me to make the trip, but the desire to do so increased as time passed on, and after the lapse of five years I felt that I could no longer resist it. I accordingly set out for the place on which my mind was continually centered, and reached its immediate vicinity on one of the loveliest evenings of early autumn, just as the sun was sinking behind the western horizon. I was entertained under the hospitable roof of a family of entire strangers, and found the landlord and lady to be kind and untiring in their efforts to make me feel comfortable. They still have a place in my memory.

Feeling much refreshed after a night of uninterrupted repose, I set out with a view to satisfy the almost incessant cravings of my heart, to see and ramble once more over the dear old place rendered almost sacred by hallowed recollections. My anticipated pleasures were somewhat marred when, on arriving at the spot, I found that not a vestige of the humble cottage in which my parents had formerly resided was to be seen. The ruthless hand of Time had apparently long since moldered it into dust. Enclosures had gone to decay. The orchard and natural beauties of the surrounding grove, where gay youth delighted to feast and sport, had succumbed to the hand of the tiller of the soil, leaving a comparatively desolate aspect. I had learned that former friends and youthful comrades had found other places of abode, or had been gathered to their fathers. All were strangers. Not one left whom face I had ever seen before. In the long train of forty years these had passed away. All, however, was not gone. In my rambles over the place I found many objects and points of interest which imparted feelings most sadly sublime. The waters of the spring from which I was wont to quench my thirst, in my youthful days, still gushed from their fountain head, and murmured quietly down the vale, while those of the Sucarnotchie river, near by, still plied their smooth course down toward the roaring Tombigbee. The little silvery fishes still sported in their glittering streams, where, as a youthful angler, I had spent some of my happiest days. The birds sang their same sweet songs. The foliage of the grand old neighboring forest trees, which were slightly tinged with a golden hue, were still fanned by the gently whispering breezes of Heaven, and the lovely hills, though not of such magnitude as they appeared in my youthful days, still looked as proud as ever. Oh, how sadly pleasing it is to go back and view, with eyes growing dim with age, the beautiful scenery on which youthful eyes sparkled in by-gone days! While the eyes gaze upon the objects, the mind goes back to a thousand little circumstances and incidents of innocent, sportive youth, and makes every spot dear to the memory. I was alone, but never before had loneliness been so lovely. My meditations were deep, devotional and uninterrupted, save by the occasional chirping of a squirrel, or the melodious notes of the little feathered tribes around me. The mind being free to ramble over the great arena of the past, the tongue, almost involuntarily, gave utterance to my solitary musings, and I found myself soliloquizing thus:

"Where is my form of life that's gone with yours
Of good Aurelius, Most lift and rules,
Where my first youthful visions dawned, and talking streams
How quick you fell me I had else forgot.

Yes, there's a charm around the native home,
Could make the miser, for awhile forget
His coin, and all the lefter lock to crime,

Remove the pirate from his black corsair,
From blood, remorse and fear, and plundered sacks,
Show him the long-left home, the rocks and trees,
That knew his playful youth, free from code
Their tongueless eloquence shall melt his heart,
And wake in thoughts, more than the friendships pure,
Of filtering daggers of the avenging foe
Almost at his guilty breast.

'Tis sadly pleasing, when life's morn is past,
To visit scenes of early fondness dear,
To ask the lisping grove, "Where are the mates
Who joined me in your shade" to feel at once
The whole remembered load of joys and griefs
Upon the struggling heart, think what we are
And dreading the dew drawn sigh, for friends much loved,
Now buried in long sleep."

The time had arrived when other engagements called me away, and I rode slowly from the loved scenes of early youth, which I felt I would revisit no more, ever and anon gazing back to get a last glimpse of the most stately trees of the grand old forest, now fast and forever fading from my view. Now all was gone.

As I sped homeward, reviewing my past life, I thought of the emptiness of all human ambition, the utter futility of man's earthly hopes and designs. These must all soon terminate with his mortal career.

My parents have long since passed away. Ten of twelve brothers and sisters have preceded me to the spirit-land. Scores of cherished friends have died around me. Thousands, yea millions, of my fellowmen have returned to their kindred dust during the last forty years, while I, one of the most unworthy of the handiwork of my great Creator, am still permitted to linger on the shores of Time. Age and bodily infirmities now warn me that my race will soon be run. I await with calmness and composure the arrival of the messenger who will summon me from time to vast eternity, where I shall again rejoin my loved ones who have passed on before me through the pearly gates into the elysian fields. For thirty-five years I have been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and could I call back the days of my early youth, and live my life over again, I would gladly risk my future salvation with the great and rapidly recruiting army of Methodists whose colors still float on the breezes. My anchor of hope has been for many years cast within the veil. My faith rests on the Rock of Ages, against which the gates of hell can never prevail.

And now unto Him, who has hitherto wrought all my deliverances during the prevalence of war, famine and dire pestilence, be ascribed the whole praise of salvation.

H.

JACKSON, MISS., Nov.

Protracted Meetings.

MR. EDITOR: In the country, especially, where preaching is enjoyed only once or twice a month, these occasions are looked forward to with a great deal of interest.

These meetings generally bring together a greater number of people than attend the ordinary services of the sanctuary, and frequently persons are drawn out who seldom, if ever, attend on other occasions. Consequently the gospel is preached to more people than can usually be reached by other methods. Ministerial help is generally secured, and, with this diversity of talent, the truth is presented in a variety of ways, and those who cannot be reached by one may, and often are, reached by the preaching of another.

One special advantage of these meetings is the application of the gospel to the conscience in rapid succession. One may become alarmed at his spiritual condition under every sermon he may hear preached, and yet, if the intervals between these sermons be long, his concern for his soul may abate, and at each successive awakening of his conscience he may be no nearer the kingdom of God than before. But if there is a new application of the truth to his mind before his feelings subside, and so on for several days in succession, he is very likely to be converted. On these occasions the church membership is generally much revived. Their faith is renewed, their prospects of heaven are brightened, and their zeal is quickened. The church receives a stimulus that affects its work for time to come. There is renewed energy and love. Brotherly feelings abound.

As the Nile rises and falls, leaving a fertilizing deposit that beautifies the face of Nature for the ensuing year, so the tide of these meetings goes out and leaves a hallowed influence that benefits every family within its reach.

But while they serve such a high purpose, their use may be easily perverted by making them occasions of mere social enjoyment. If the glory of God, in the salvation of souls, is not the actuating motive in holding these meetings, their use is perverted. By a quiet visit to each family on the eve of such a meeting one may tell whether to expect a revival or not. If the preparations exhibit anxious care to set fine tables, and to provide luxurious entertainment for visitors, then the mere social element of the meeting is the chief concern. But if there is anxiety for the conversion of the wayward son or daughter, and the building up of the church, there is ground for hope.

To make these occasions profitable to the greatest extent they must be preceded and followed by earnest prayer. The ground must be broken up, and then cultivated, if we expect an abundant harvest. Without prayer there will be coldness and formality, but no vital religion. It is prayer that mellows the heart, and that prepares us for the right reception of divine truth. It is prayer that causes the gospel seed to germinate and to grow, and bring forth fruit to the glory of God.

When the members of a church pledge themselves to pray for the outpouring of God's Spirit, and then carry out their resolutions, there always follows a refreshing from the presence of the Lord.

J. CARLEY.

Tallassee, Alabama.

MR. EDITOR: Tallassee is a factory town in Alabama, thirty miles northeast of Montgomery, and six miles north of Cowles Station, on the Alabama Western railroad. It is situated on the west side of Tallapoosa river, at Tallassee Falls, and took its name from the Tallassee Indians. The Falls make a descending leap of about forty-five feet from the highest to the lowest point, the distance between these points being forty or fifty yards. The water rushes down with great fury, and noise, and is the power that runs the factory, which cards, and spins, and reels, and warps, and weaves up about twenty bales of cotton in a day. It was in this region of country that Rev. M. C. Turrentine, of the Alabama Conference, preached as missionary to the Indians about fifty years ago. He can tell many thrilling incidents which occurred in his own life in connection with his work as Indian missionary. And they say here that he used to delight the Sunday-school children with these incidents and Indian stories, when he was pastor of the Methodist Church here, a few years ago. We have here now three churches—Methodist, Baptist and Episcopal—but only the Methodists and Baptists have regular preaching. These have a membership of about two hundred and fifty each. We have recently had our church repaired and repainted, and it is now quite a neat little village church. But, as we are all very poor, we thought at least that we found ourselves unable to pay, in the regular way, the full cost of repairing. And so we requested Rev. L. H. Rivers, D. D., of Auburn, Ala., to come down and deliver us a lecture. He very kindly and readily did so, and on Saturday night, the sixth of December, we had the pleasure of listening to his celebrated lecture on the proverb: "Every tub must stand on its own bottom." With the elements of character which he presented and illustrated, a man will certainly be a symmetrical and substantial tub, with bottom enough to stand alone. The process of the lecture amounted to zero. We have now paid all the debt but $10 or $15, which, of course, will be paid before long. A very serious accident happened to the doctor while on his way from the railroad to Tallassee. We had just crossed the Tallapoosa river, and I was leading the horse and buggy from the boat, which lacked a foot or two of reaching the edge of the water. The doctor was in the buggy. Instead of stepping from the boat into the water, which was so shallow that the boat could go no farther, the horse leaped out very suddenly and unexpectedly, and thus gave the buggy such a sudden jerk and bound that the doctor was thrown heels over head across the dash board and fell fore wheel of the buggy, falling just before the wheel at the edge of the water, on his back, in the mud. If I had not pulled the horse around to the right as quick as thought almost, the buggy very probably would have run over his neck or head, as his head was lying next to the wheel, and thus he might have been seriously hurt, if not killed. The wheel plowed the ground right at his head. It was, indeed, a close place to be in. I was very much frightened, and the doctor said that I was as white as a sheet; but if you had seen him as he was lying or sitting in the mud, you would have thought that he was not in a condition for observing things very closely just then. Fortunately he was not hurt a hundredth part as badly as I was frightened, for which I feel profoundly thankful to Almighty God. Though the doctor was not hurt, I cannot help regretting that the accident occurred. He expressed himself as being well pleased with his visit to our town. We know that we were delighted to have him among us, and hope that we will have him again. Next Monday I leave for Tuskegee, the town in which our Conference is to be held. I have been here two years, and the brethren have treated me well. But, what is better, the Lord has blessed my labors. I pray that the Lord will send to this charge a better man and a better preacher next year than they have had the last two years. May the richest benedictions of the Almighty ever descend in abundant showers upon them! Yours,

JOHN R. PEVY.

DECEMBER 9, 1879.

Baptize, Immerse, Baptize, Etc.

MR. EDITOR: How long is our polemical literature to be crammed with irrelevant arguments about correct and incorrect translations of Greek, in attempts to settle the questions about the proper mode of baptism? How long are we to be bored, and the mind of the church disturbed with inconclusive arguments of this sort? I think it is time this inquiry be made.

It has been demonstrated that arguments of this sort, either good ones or bad ones, prove, and can prove, nothing on that subject. One of our regular catalogue publications, at least, contains this demonstration. It has been before the public now twenty years or more. It received the hearty indorsement of, I believe, every Methodist paper in the United States, shortly after its publication, also of many other prints, and, I except a little squib of a thing once printed in Jackson, Miss., no attempt has ever been made to refute the argument so far as I have been able to learn. I was told at our Publishing House that they sold more of this pamphlet, for it is but a pamphlet, than all other publications on the subject of baptism.

That argument is exceedingly simple and easily understood by the commonest reader. It takes the broad ground that the Greek language, rightly or wrongly translated, is utterly incapable of proving anything in this controversy about baptism.

Now, if that is so, why spend our strength in deep water arguments, where we have everything to lose and nothing to gain?

No good use can be made of a witness who knows nothing about the case. Ask the Greek language about baptism, and he will tell you he knows nothing on that subject, he never heard of such a thing.

E. TOLET.

MR. EDITOR: I wish to ask of you your opinion respecting the following suggestions, if you please: 1. Faith. The simplest definition of faith is belief, and true belief is knowledge. The question is: Can a man truly believe anything that he does not know, according to theology? Is not belief, founded upon evidence? To illustrate my views of the subject, I say: I know that there is such a man as Dr. T. Parker living in New Orleans, because I have the evidence, yet never have seen him. One says: "Freeman" believed that God would raise little Edith the third day after he sacrificed her, but I say he did not believe it, for he had no evidence of the fact. He was deluded, as time has proved. He presumed on the faith of Abraham. Issue: All belief, without infallible evidence, is delusion and deception. Is my position right? Please give me your views on the subject through the ADVOCATE, and very much oblige,

Yours fraternally,

L. TOLTON.

Note by the Editor.—We read in Scripture of certain to whom God shall send strong delusions to believe a lie. Men may and do believe that for which there is no warrant, and is without grounds. We are responsible for our beliefs and for their consequences.

Compulsory Rest.

Under this head the Boston Watchman says:

This is a theme that might have been considered with advantage by the late Sabbath Convention, if there had been time for it. There was a paper entitled "Seven Days' Work for Six Days' Wages," but we think it did not touch the precise point we have in mind—that is, a law to compel employers to give their men one full day's rest in seven. We have nothing of the sort, as far as we know. There is a law forbidding the citizens to engage in any work on the Sabbath, except it be one of necessity or mercy. It is well known how many sorts of work are done on the plea of necessity. Railroads are active, horse cars run, steamboats plough the water, cigar shops are open, and a great number of similar evasions might be named. Men work seven days in the week in their own interests, and they compel their assistants to work seven days in the week. Perhaps we cannot hope just at present to check all this. But we can forbid any man to work habitually for himself seven days in the week; we can forbid the employment of men to work seven days in the week. We can secure for the conductor on the train, the driver of the horse car, the waiter at the hotel, the deckhand of the steamboat, a full day's rest. If the train runs, it must run with new men on Sunday; if the boat takes its excursion, it must have new men. Should such legislation be secured and enforced, it would tend greatly to check the Sabbath desecration now so common. Employers refuse to observe the day, because they can get seven days' work for six days' wages. If compelled to pay for the extra day, they would discover, in many cases, that their work is not so necessary as they have deemed it.

Nor is there anything unfair in this proposition. The forces of industry that are prosecuted on Sunday are constantly growing in number. They threaten to deprive a large part of the working people of their needful rest. But the State cannot afford to have its citizens denied their day of refreshment. If it does not see its way clear to do this, industries so unnecessary, to say, at least, say that they shall be carried on without depriving men of the repose so favorable to physical and mental health. If they are really necessary, they will proceed. If not, the sooner they cease the better.

Then, again, this measure ought to meet the hearty approval of the working classes. At present they seem to be somewhat apathetic on the subject of the Sabbath, not seeing that they are being drawn gradually into seven days' labor for six days' wages. Perhaps it is difficult to demonstrate to them a proposition so abstract; perhaps they hope for seven days' wages, and hence become lovers of Sabbath labor. But if we cannot convince them or force them to work seven days in the week, the temptation would be removed from them. The measure would at once strike them as friendly and would be apt after a little to secure their hearty support. It might lead them even to rally about the church as the guardian of their rest.

Obituaries.

Correspondents, please write names and dates very distinctly. We know, and you know, what you mean.

Obituary notices should be forwarded promptly and immediately after the death occurs. Only points of general interest, such as will help the living, details of funeral services, and such phrases as "mourn their loss" now are out of style. Verses, even original, are not admissible in this department. Give the locality, disease and its duration. In the case of infants only a simple announcement of the death, with names and dates, will be published.

FRANCES E. HOBBIE was born in Orange county, N. C., April 25, 1838. When she was quite small her father, Rev. Mr. Armstrong, of the Baptist Church, moved to Alabama and settled first at Jefferson, and soon afterward in Autauga county, where he preached for many years. Sister Hobbie married Judge W. Hobbie, of Montgomery. Soon after her marriage she, the eldest of seven children of her father, and her brother, T. K. Armstrong, who now resides in Montgomery, moved from her home and family with the Alabama Conference.

In 1874 she was prostrated with fever by her husband and brother, and a Methodist circuit rider, to whom she was a stranger, was sent for. He arrived on Monday morning, November [illegible], and found her unconscious. [illegible] Monday morning, November [illegible], when she was conscious for a few moments, and recognized her husband and brother, but it was the last time she ever knew anything in this world. Her husband and brother, Rev. T. K. Armstrong, and Rev. [illegible] Bell, were with her when she passed away. Though her sufferings were intense, not a murmur escaped her lips. The fever knew no abatement till the last, when, she would say, with open eyes and hands lifted, "I have never known a more delightful sensation than I now feel." For a quarter of a century she was a consistent, and consecrated member of the Church. She was always ready to help in all its branches, and she seemed to have kept in mind its principles and her obligations and privileges.

The afternoon before her death I had my last conversation with her. Her mind was perfectly clear, her speech strong, and her faith in the power of Christ to save fixed and confident. Often before that she had told me of her fears of the way ahead of her, and on that occasion she repeated that as much as it grieved her to leave her husband and children, the prospect of what she would see when she left them was sufficient to reconcile her to the change.

She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at the time of her death, and had been from childhood. Believing her religion to be in demonstrative, but, having been reared by one of the best of Christian mothers, she probably never knew when it was to be without a full possession of the witness of Christianity, and from her conversation in the last hours of suffering even the most casual observer could see that she was resting in the blessed peace which comes of Christ's right to do with us as seemeth to Him good.

P. T. H.

MY MOTHER, VINEY FRANKLIN, daughter of Hezekiah and Mary Parmelia Kendrick and wife of Dillier Thompson, died at Bonita, La., on the plantation of Mrs. Augusta Bonita, in the parish of Washington, on the morning of December 7, 1879, and was buried in the parish of Catahoula, on the following day, the bereaved husband and children, with a large concourse of friends and neighbors, following the remains to the grave.

Sister Thompson was born in Jackson, Miss., March 15, 1836, and was married to her husband in the parish of Rapides, La., November 6, 1856. She was happily married to Edmund Franklin, a native of Alabama, May 11, 1858. Two sons were the issue of this marriage, the youngest of whom died a mere infant. The other two, all reared to years of accountability, are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving mother. Her pious example, already cited, will have its influence upon them, and God will bless the instruction of the godly impressed with the truths of God's holy word, so frequently given with an earnestness of the great Reformer. My mother was converted at a camp meeting in early life, and joined the Methodist Church on trial, but, owing to her removal to the country at the end of her probation, lived before her two children, and when, according to her enlightened conception of her soul's salvation, she was prepared to unite with the Church, she was not near enough to any to receive her. During this time she was very much exercised in regard to the baptism of Jesus, her spirit and conscience being at times in a state of ecstasy. She would say that she was born in the Lamb's Book of Life, and that the New Testament was good enough for her to read. Matthew, Mark, Luke and John might be very well in their place, and of course she would be willing to read them, but the New Testament was her favorite book, and she was always ready to quote Scripture. She was very ready to speak of the power of God in saving the souls of men, her spirit and conversation bearing the impress of the Master's will. The Bible or Christian preacher never failed to command the attention of her children, indeed, here was her joy and strength around the family circle.

The last evening in life she talked of heaven and the sweet rest she had in the Lord. She often said: "No sickness, no sorrow, no pain, death will be felt nor feared after." With full faith in the power of prayer, even in her dying expressions, she gathered the children of husband and children for the last time, and asked them to live in the fear of God. May God in His infinite mercy, answer the prayers of this sainted mother.

SON.

ANDREW DESMUKES died in the Methodist Retreat, Bexar county, Texas, November 3, 1879, of paralysis, in the seventy-fifth year of his age. He was born in Greenville district, South Carolina, on the 12th day of January, 1805. He was brought to Texas in 1837, and settled in Bexar county, where he resided until his death. Moved to Leon county, on the Trinity river, in 1847, and to Galveston in the Mexican war, and lived on the Island of Galveston twelve years. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Galveston, in the month of May, 1846, and lived and died a faithful member of the gospel of Jesus Christ. He was married to Mary A. Dever, in 1[illegible], by Rev. [illegible], who was a [illegible] of the gospel. [illegible] Mary A. Desmukes [illegible] two sons and [illegible] daughters, all of whom are living, and all members of the Church but one. [illegible] Brother Desmukes was a man of [illegible] and [illegible] and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He was a kind husband, a tender father, and a good neighbor. He was buried in the Masonic burying ground, in the city of San Antonio, Texas, with Masonic honors. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity for more than thirty years. He was a man of few words, but of great firmness of character. He was a man of prayer, and lived a life of faith in the promises of God. He died in the triumphs of faith, and left a bright evidence that he is now at rest with God in heaven.

While a student of Centenary College, of Jackson, La., he joined the Methodist Church, and was converted at a prayer meeting which was held at Centenary College by a few of his schoolmates. If he grew cold and indifferent, or wandered away from the path of rectitude after his conversion, he repented and turned to his heavenly Father and obtained forgiveness. He was an exemplary Christian. His chief delight was to do his Father's will.

For some time previous to his death he had been the teacher of the Bible class at Wesley Church, and filled the position with entire satisfaction. His affliction was protracted and severe. He knew for some time before he died that his end was not far off. In a conversation with a friend on the subject of death he expressed himself as having no fears about his future welfare. Some of his happiest hours were when he was alone and undisturbed during the silent watches of the night, when he could hold sweet converse with his God, and pour out his soul in humble and fervent prayer to Him who alone was able to give him comfort and peace in his trials, and strength to bear his afflictions with Christian patience and resignation. Oh, what a triumph is the death of a Christian! No fear, no remorse, no darkness, for Jesus is there, and He makes the dying bed feel as soft as downy pillows are. The richest legacy that a father can leave to his children is a Christian example, and a sure testimony that Jesus' blood had cleansed from all sin.

In the death of Bro. Singletary the community has lost one of its purest men, and the church one of her brightest lights.

H. P. JONES.

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God to take from our midst the soul of our esteemed friend and brother, JOHN L. SINGLETARY. And, whereas, Our church (Winans) has lost a worthy member, and our Sabbath-school one of its most efficient workers; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, as members of the Sabbath-school and probationers to the church, bow in humble submission to the will of our heavenly Father, and, while we recognize in this sad bereavement one of the mysterious dealings of Providence with the children of men, we realize in the chastening hand of God his eternal love, and we therefore meekly yield to the will of Him who doeth all things well.

Resolved, That we tender our heartfelt sympathy to the family of our deceased brother, and recommend them to the care of Him who has said: "I will never leave nor forsake thee." Also to their trust in Me."

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication.

W. J. WILKINS,
For committee.

JANES PARKER RAWSON, son of Rev. E. D. and Anna Rawson, was born in Hardy parish, March 15, 1861, and died, at the residence of his parents, in Jackson parish, November 7, 1879, at six o'clock A. M.

This dear boy was confined to his bed for nearly six weeks, of typhoid pneumonia. He suffered much, but was very patient. He was a great boy to read his Bible and to sing the songs of the sanctuary. We feel confident that he has made his peace with God, and that the latter part of his life was spent in the blessed service which secures to him the right to dwell with Christ and the angels of God.

P. T. H.

MY MOTHER, VINEY FRANKLIN, daughter of Hezekiah and Mary Parmelia Kendrick and wife of Dillier Thompson, died at Bonita, La., on the plantation of Mrs. Augusta Bonita, in the parish of Washington, on the morning of December 7, 1879, and was buried in the parish of Catahoula, on the following day, the bereaved husband and children, with a large concourse of friends and neighbors, following the remains to the grave.

Sister Thompson was born in Jackson, Miss., March 15, 1836, and was married to her husband in the parish of Rapides, La., November 6, 1856. She was happily married to Edmund Franklin, a native of Alabama, May 11, 1858. Two sons were the issue of this marriage, the youngest of whom died a mere infant. The other two, all reared to years of accountability, are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving mother. Her pious example, already cited, will have its influence upon them, and God will bless the instruction of the godly impressed with the truths of God's holy word, so frequently given with an earnestness of the great Reformer. My mother was converted at a camp meeting in early life, and joined the Methodist Church on trial, but, owing to her removal to the country at the end of her probation, lived before her two children, and when, according to her enlightened conception of her soul's salvation, she was prepared to unite with the Church, she was not near enough to any to receive her. During this time she was very much exercised in regard to the baptism of Jesus, her spirit and conscience being at times in a state of ecstasy. She would say that she was born in the Lamb's Book of Life, and that the New Testament was good enough for her to read. Matthew, Mark, Luke and John might be very well in their place, and of course she would be willing to read them, but the New Testament was her favorite book, and she was always ready to quote Scripture. She was very ready to speak of the power of God in saving the souls of men, her spirit and conversation bearing the impress of the Master's will. The Bible or Christian preacher never failed to command the attention of her children, indeed, here was her joy and strength around the family circle.

The last evening in life she talked of heaven and the sweet rest she had in the Lord. She often said: "No sickness, no sorrow, no pain, death will be felt nor feared after." With full faith in the power of prayer, even in her dying expressions, she gathered the children of husband and children for the last time, and asked them to live in the fear of God. May God in His infinite mercy, answer the prayers of this sainted mother.

SON.

ANDREW DESMUKES died in the Methodist Retreat, Bexar county, Texas, November 3, 1879, of paralysis, in the seventy-fifth year of his age. He was born in Greenville district, South Carolina, on the 12th day of January, 1805. He was brought to Texas in 1837, and settled in Bexar county, where he resided until his death. Moved to Leon county, on the Trinity river, in 1847, and to Galveston in the Mexican war, and lived on the Island of Galveston twelve years. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Galveston, in the month of May, 1846, and lived and died a faithful member of the gospel of Jesus Christ. He was married to Mary A. Dever, in 1[illegible], by Rev. [illegible], who was a [illegible] of the gospel. [illegible] Mary A. Desmukes [illegible] two sons and [illegible] daughters, all of whom are living, and all members of the Church but one. [illegible] Brother Desmukes was a man of [illegible] and [illegible] and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He was a kind husband, a tender father, and a good neighbor. He was buried in the Masonic burying ground, in the city of San Antonio, Texas, with Masonic honors. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity for more than thirty years. He was a man of few words, but of great firmness of character. He was a man of prayer, and lived a life of faith in the promises of God. He died in the triumphs of faith, and left a bright evidence that he is now at rest with God in heaven.

While a student of Centenary College, of Jackson, La., he joined the Methodist Church, and was converted at a prayer meeting which was held at Centenary College by a few of his schoolmates. If he grew cold and indifferent, or wandered away from the path of rectitude after his conversion, he repented and turned to his heavenly Father and obtained forgiveness. He was an exemplary Christian. His chief delight was to do his Father's will.

For some time previous to his death he had been the teacher of the Bible class at Winans Church, and filled the position with entire satisfaction. His affliction was protracted and severe. He knew for some time before he died that his end was not far off. In a conversation with a friend on the subject of death he expressed himself as having no fears about his future welfare. Some of his happiest hours were when he was alone and undisturbed during the silent watches of the night, when he could hold sweet converse with his God, and pour out his soul in humble and fervent prayer to Him who alone was able to give him comfort and peace in his trials, and strength to bear his afflictions with Christian patience and resignation. Oh, what a triumph is the death of a Christian! No fear, no remorse, no darkness, for Jesus is there, and He makes the dying bed feel as soft as downy pillows are. The richest legacy that a father can leave to his children is a Christian example, and a sure testimony that Jesus' blood had cleansed from all sin.

In the death of Bro. Singletary the community has lost one of its purest men, and the church one of her brightest lights.

H. P. JONES.

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God to take from our midst the soul of our esteemed friend and brother, JOHN L. SINGLETARY. And, whereas, Our church (Winans) has lost a worthy member, and our Sabbath-school one of its most efficient workers; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, as members of the Sabbath-school and probationers to the church, bow in humble submission to the will of our heavenly Father, and, while we recognize in this sad bereavement one of the mysterious dealings of Providence with the children of men, we realize in the chastening hand of God his eternal love, and we therefore meekly yield to the will of Him who doeth all things well.

Resolved, That we tender our heartfelt sympathy to the family of our deceased brother, and recommend them to the care of Him who has said: "I will never leave nor forsake thee." Also to their trust in Me."

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication.

W. J. WILKINS,
For committee.

JANES PARKER RAWSON, son of Rev. E. D. and Anna Rawson, was born in Hardy parish, March 15, 1861, and died, at the residence of his parents, in Jackson parish, November 7, 1879, at six o'clock A. M.

This dear boy was confined to his bed for nearly six weeks, of typhoid pneumonia. He suffered much, but was very patient. He was a great boy to read his Bible and to sing the songs of the sanctuary. We feel confident that he has made his peace with God, and that the latter part of his life was spent in the blessed service which secures to him the right to dwell with Christ and the angels of God.

P. T. H.

MY MOTHER, VINEY FRANKLIN, daughter of Hezekiah and Mary Parmelia Kendrick and wife of Dillier Thompson, died at Bonita, La., on the plantation of Mrs. Augusta Bonita, in the parish of Washington, on the morning of December 7, 1879, and was buried in the parish of Catahoula, on the following day, the bereaved husband and children, with a large concourse of friends and neighbors, following the remains to the grave.

Sister Thompson was born in Jackson, Miss., March 15, 1836, and was married to her husband in the parish of Rapides, La., November 6, 1856. She was happily married to Edmund Franklin, a native of Alabama, May 11, 1858. Two sons were the issue of this marriage, the youngest of whom died a mere infant. The other two, all reared to years of accountability, are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving mother. Her pious example, already cited, will have its influence upon them, and God will bless the instruction of the godly impressed with the truths of God's holy word, so frequently given with an earnestness of the great Reformer. My mother was converted at a camp meeting in early life, and joined the Methodist Church on trial, but, owing to her removal to the country at the end of her probation, lived before her two children, and when, according to her enlightened conception of her soul's salvation, she was prepared to unite with the Church, she was not near enough to any to receive her. During this time she was very much exercised in regard to the baptism of Jesus, her spirit and conscience being at times in a state of ecstasy. She would say that she was born in the Lamb's Book of Life, and that the New Testament was good enough for her to read. Matthew, Mark, Luke and John might be very well in their place, and of course she would be willing to read them, but the New Testament was her favorite book, and she was always ready to quote Scripture. She was very ready to speak of the power of God in saving the souls of men, her spirit and conversation bearing the impress of the Master's will. The Bible or Christian preacher never failed to command the attention of her children, indeed, here was her joy and strength around the family circle.

The last evening in life she talked of heaven and the sweet rest she had in the Lord. She often said: "No sickness, no sorrow, no pain, death will be felt nor feared after." With full faith in the power of prayer, even in her dying expressions, she gathered the children of husband and children for the last time, and asked them to live in the fear of God. May God in His infinite mercy, answer the prayers of this sainted mother.

SON.

ANDREW DESMUKES died in the Methodist Retreat, Bexar county, Texas, November 3, 1879, of paralysis, in the seventy-fifth year of his age. He was born in Greenville district, South Carolina, on the 12th day of January, 1805. He was brought to Texas in 1837, and settled in Bexar county, where he resided until his death. Moved to Leon county, on the Trinity river, in 1847, and to Galveston in the Mexican war, and lived on the Island of Galveston twelve years. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Galveston, in the month of May, 1846, and lived and died a faithful member of the gospel of Jesus Christ. He was married to Mary A. Dever, in 1[illegible], by Rev. [illegible], who was a [illegible] of the gospel. [illegible] Mary A. Desmukes [illegible] two sons and [illegible] daughters, all of whom are living, and all members of the Church but one. [illegible] Brother Desmukes was a man of [illegible] and [illegible] and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He was a kind husband, a tender father, and a good neighbor. He was buried in the Masonic burying ground, in the city of San Antonio, Texas, with Masonic honors. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity for more than thirty years. He was a man of few words, but of great firmness of character. He was a man of prayer, and lived a life of faith in the promises of God. He died in the triumphs of faith, and left a bright evidence that he is now at rest with God in heaven.

While a student of Centenary College, of Jackson, La., he joined the Methodist Church, and was converted at a prayer meeting which was held at Centenary College by a few of his schoolmates. If he grew cold and indifferent, or wandered away from the path of rectitude after his conversion, he repented and turned to his heavenly Father and obtained forgiveness. He was an exemplary Christian. His chief delight was to do his Father's will.

For some time previous to his death he had been the teacher of the Bible class at Winans Church, and filled the position with entire satisfaction. His affliction was protracted and severe. He knew for some time before he died that his end was not far off. In a conversation with a friend on the subject of death he expressed himself as having no fears about his future welfare. Some of his happiest hours were when he was alone and undisturbed during the silent watches of the night, when he could hold sweet converse with his God, and pour out his soul in humble and fervent prayer to Him who alone was able to give him comfort and peace in his trials, and strength to bear his afflictions with Christian patience and resignation. Oh, what a triumph is the death of a Christian! No fear, no remorse, no darkness, for Jesus is there, and He makes the dying bed feel as soft as downy pillows are. The richest legacy that a father can leave to his children is a Christian example, and a sure testimony that Jesus' blood had cleansed from all sin.

In the death of Bro. Singletary the community has lost one of its purest men, and the church one of her brightest lights.

H. P. JONES.

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God to take from our midst the soul of our esteemed friend and brother, JOHN L. SINGLETARY. And, whereas, Our church (Winans) has lost a worthy member, and our Sabbath-school one of its most efficient workers; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, as members of the Sabbath-school and probationers to the church, bow in humble submission to the will of our heavenly Father, and, while we recognize in this sad bereavement one of the mysterious dealings of Providence with the children of men, we realize in the chastening hand of God his eternal love, and we therefore meekly yield to the will of Him who doeth all things well.

Resolved, That we tender our heartfelt sympathy to the family of our deceased brother, and recommend them to the care of Him who has said: "I will never leave nor forsake thee." Also to their trust in Me."

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE for publication.

W. J. WILKINS,
For committee.

JANES PARKER RAWSON, son of Rev. E. D. and Anna Rawson, was born in Hardy parish, March 15, 1861, and died, at the residence of his parents, in Jackson parish, November 7, 1879, at six o'clock A. M.

This dear boy was confined to his bed for nearly six weeks, of typhoid pneumonia. He suffered much, but was very patient. He was a great boy to read his Bible and to sing the songs of the sanctuary. We feel confident that he has made his peace with God, and that the latter part of his life was spent in the blessed service which secures to him the right to dwell with Christ and the angels of God.

P. T. H.

MY MOTHER, VINEY FRANKLIN, daughter of Hezekiah and Mary Parmelia Kendrick and wife of Dillier Thompson, died at Bonita, La., on the plantation of Mrs. Augusta Bonita, in the parish of Washington, on the morning of December 7, 1879, and was buried in the parish of Catahoula, on the following day, the bereaved husband and children, with a large concourse of friends and neighbors, following the remains to the grave.

Sister Thompson was born in Jackson, Miss., March 15, 1836, and was married to her husband in the parish of Rapides, La., November 6, 1856. She was happily married to Edmund Franklin, a native of Alabama, May 11, 1858. Two sons were the issue of this marriage, the youngest of whom died a mere infant. The other two, all reared to years of accountability, are left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving mother. Her pious example, already cited, will have its influence upon them, and God will bless the instruction of the godly impressed with the truths of God's holy word, so frequently given with an earnestness of the great Reformer. My mother was converted at a camp meeting in early life, and joined the Methodist Church on trial, but, owing to her removal to the country at the end of her probation, lived before her two children, and when, according to her enlightened conception of her soul's salvation, she was prepared to unite with the Church, she was not near enough to any to receive her. During this time she was very much exercised in regard to the baptism of Jesus, her spirit and conscience being at times in a state of ecstasy. She would say that she was born in the Lamb's Book of Life, and that the New Testament was good enough for her to read. Matthew, Mark, Luke and John might be very well in their place, and of course she would be willing to read them, but the New Testament was her favorite book, and she was always ready to quote Scripture. She was very ready to speak of the power of God in saving the souls of men, her spirit and conversation bearing the imp

The Christian Advocate.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1879.

CHRISTMAS BELLS.

BY W. C. DIX.

Like chariots to hail the dying year,
The Christmas bells are pealing,
And hark! once more from yonder sky,
The angel's song is stealing.
For eighteen hundred years or more,
That strain of peace and glory
Has come to glad the hearts of men,
To tell the blessed story.

Alas! that sounds of strife and hate
Should well-nigh drown the chorus;
That earth, which God made very good
Lies studded with blood before us!
That man through all the Christmas years
Has wrought and shed his brother,
And the Incarnate had not come
To bid us love each other!

Alas! that want is in our midst
And leaves its cruel traces
In wasted hands that may not work,
In crowds of haggard faces!
That festal days are days of death,
That homes are filled with sadness,
Which once in better times gone by
Were bright with Christmas gladness!

Hunger and cold how hard to bear!
The empty grate how dreary!
And still the bells are pealing on,
Nor grow the angels weary;
And hunger asks with sighing heart,
"What means this high thanksgiving—
This talk of peace, good will to men—
This struggling for a living?"

Oh, by the babe of Bethlehem,
What answer are we making?
Brothers are dying at our doors,
And stricken hearts are breaking.
Thrice blest this Christmas-tide,
Which selfish love expelling,
Shall make that home a "House of Bread,"
Where famine now is dwelling.

Sing on, sweet angels, though to-day our song
Floats down to scenes of sorrow;
To hell of peace, good will to men!
Be this the strain we borrow.
The Christ whom we proclaim to-day
And sing we've sought and found Him,
Is not in His starving poor,
Be love we owe restored Him.

—Interior.

Bicycles.

Our city pastors, and those in the country also, may find in the bicycle the solution of an important question in ministerial economy and efficiency. The following from the Boston Transcript is suggestive:

The bicycle is a greater boon to ministers—i. e., to those of them who take pastoral visits—than to any other class or profession among men. They move about more, and in localities most favorable to the use of "the silent steed." They need, as sedentary men, just the kind of exercise this furnishes. They cannot generally afford the time or the expense of keeping a horse, and it is particularly unpleasant for them to be hostler and gentleman at the same time. The machine is refined in appearance, in feeling, and in that "quietness which is the mark of a gentleman." It is easily mounted; it affords excellent opportunities for the cultivation of those graces of motion which greatly increase personal influence. It can be ridden from door to door, left without charge or special care, and will furnish the visited family no anxiety lest the sidewalk be excavated by its hoof, the tree branches be stripped by its hungry mouth, or the fence be pulled down by some frantic start.

A minister with an ordinary amount of unction and that patient perseverance which characterizes the profession can learn to keep his balance upon the machine so as to ride upon a hall floor in half an hour or less; and in three weeks more through streets or roads free from ruts and loose sand, and make frequent mounts and dismounts without soiling the most immaculate broadcloth. The number of calls which with this truly great time-saver he can make will be increased largely. In some parishes it would amount to a quarter more; in some almost to twice as many as would be made on foot.

The parishioners might be surprised, at first, to see their pastor sailing along above the fence-top upon this aerial creature, and, perhaps, might murmur for the loss of his dignity, but not for a long while. There were parishes which objected to the use of horses by ministers, but such have ceased to exist. Here and there may be found some simple soul like the old lady who said her minister might do a great many things as the world's people did, but there was one thing she was determined he should not do, and that was to eat ice-cream. The novelty will be gone after the first visit. It will become a matter of course, and all good people will be glad of the increased frequency of the visits of him whom they will no less cease to call and believe to be "the man of God." The most saintly and spiritually-minded people in a parish not far from Boston have been the most hearty in their congratulations of their pastor's new method of traveling, and have not lost their respect or their love for him because he has made use of man's skill in trying to further God's work.

The expense is not nearly so large as that attending the purchase of a horse and its needed accompaniments. The care of the bicycle is limited to itself; of a horse, must be increased by the care of the vehicle, the harness and the stable. The cost of the maintenance of the two is as the ratio between one and a thousand. If the minister be a man of the Goliath pattern, his bicycle will be much more expensive than if he be like Zaccheus, "small of stature" (for bicycles, like dry goods, are sold by linear measure.) But the good quality and workmanship of the materials, and their construction, make it reasonably certain that with the care that "the man of care" should exercise, his iron horse would be in a vigorous youth when his living horse would have entered into that most undesirable state best described as "sans hair, sans eyes, sans teeth, sans everything."

THE "KNOWS" OF NEW TESTAMENT, NOT THE "KNOWS" OF THE ROMISH CHURCH.—To the caviling Jews Jesus said, "If any man will do His will (the will of Him that sent me,) he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be divine or human. An individual promise, and not a promise to the collective church.

St. John says: "And this is the confidence that we have in Him that if he ask anything according to His will, He heareth us, and if we know that He hear us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petition that we received of Him." There is no "confidence" in the mere repetition of prayers in an unknown tongue.

"We know that the Son of God is come and has given us an understanding that we may know that He is true." Nothing here about the "true church," but much about the true Saviour.

"We know that we are of God, and the whole world lieth in wickedness." How do we know it? Not by church relations, but by righteousness of life.

"We know that whosoever is born of God sinneth not." There is a text, and it is a moral one. Christian conduct is the measure of our knowledge of Christ. "Hereby we do know that we know Him, if we keep His commandments." Conduct is the test of Christian character. "He that saith, 'I know Him' and keepeth not His commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him." "We know (by theory and experience) that He was manifested to take away our sins." "We know that we are of the truth" by our works of compassion and love. Love is the trial test of a true Christian experience. "We know that we have passed from death into life, because we love the brethren." "By this shall all men know that ye are My disciples," says the blessed Jesus. "If ye have love one to another."

The true Christian says, with all the confidence of the holy Paul, "I know in whom I have believed;" with Paul he prays that he "may know the love of Christ which passeth knowledge." "Now," he says—"I know in part," but the day comes when "I shall know even as also I am known," for "we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."—Zion's Herald.

The Palm Tree.

The Scripture says: "The righteous shall flourish like the palm tree." Let us see what this comparison means. "The palm grows not in the depths of the forest or in a fertile loam, but in the desert. Its verdure often springs apparently from the scorching dust. It is a friendly lighthouse, guiding the traveler to the spot where water is to be found. The tree is remarkable for its lasting its erect aspiring growth, its leafy canopy, its waving plumes, the emblem of praise in all ages. The very foliage is the symbol of joy and exultation. It never fades, and the dew never settles upon it. It was therefore, twisted into the booths of the feast of tabernacles, was borne aloft by the multitude that accompanied the Messiah to Jerusalem, and it is represented as in the hands of the redeemed in heaven. For usefulness the tree is unrivalled. Gibbon says that the natives of Syria speak of nine uses to which the palm is applied. Its shade refreshes the traveler; its fruit restores his strength. When his soul fails for thirst, it announces water. Its stones are ground for camels, its leaves are made into couches, its boughs into fences and walls, and its fibres into ropes or rigging. Its best fruit, moreover, is borne in old age; the finest dates being often gathered when the tree has reached a hundred years. It sends, too, from the same root a large number of suckers, which, in time, form a forest by their growth. What an emblem of the righteous is the palm of the desert, of a guilty world! It is not uninstructive to add that this tree, once the symbol of Palestine, is now rarely seen in that country."—Joseph Angus.

"THERE'S THE LORD'S ANSWER." Many years ago, when in my country charge, I returned one afternoon from a funeral, fatigued with the day's work. After a long ride, I had accompanied the mourners to the church-yard. As I neared my stable door I felt a strange prompting to visit a poor widow who, with her invalid daughter, lived in a lonely cottage in an outlying part of the parish. My natural reluctance to make another visit was overcome by a feeling which I could not resist, and I turned my horse's head towards the cottage. I was thinking only of the poor widow's spiritual needs; but when I reached her little home I was struck with its look of unwanted bareness and poverty. After putting a little money into her hand, I began to inquire into their circumstances, and found that their supplies had been utterly exhausted since the night before. I asked them what they had done. "I just spread it out before the Lord." "Did you tell your case to any friend?" "Oh no, sir; nobody kens but Himself and me! I kent He wadna forget, but I didna ken hoo He would help me till I saw you come riding over the brae, and then I said, 'There's the Lord's answer!'" Many a time has the recollection of this incident encouraged me to trust in the loving care of my Heavenly Father.—Sword and Trowel.

By the will of Rev. Caleb Kimball of Medway, Mass., presented for probate at Dedham a few days since, $100 each goes to the A. H. M. Society and the American Board; a cabinet of minerals, shells, insects and other curiosities to Beloit College, Wis.; and $5,000 to the American Education Society on the death of his wife, and also most of the remainder of his estate. He had been blind for many years.

When is love like a battle?—When it comes to an engagement.

Religious Intelligence.

—The annual report of the American Missionary Association thus speaks of its educational work among the Freedmen:

"But the glory of our schools and colleges is more than in all else in their religious character and influence—that they are Christian schools and missionary colleges. Indeed, they are so completely at one with the church work that it is difficult to draw a line between the two departments, and to tell where the one ends and the other begins. A few particulars may best illustrate the influence of faithful Christian instruction and example. Of 52 graduates at Atlanta, all at graduation were professing Christians and none have fallen away. Later we hear: 'All the members of the classes to be graduated now profess to be Christians.' A revival is reported during the year, and not less than 30 conversions. Fisk reports several additions to the college church at every communion, and as many more of those converted to other churches. At Talladega we hear of 'a precious work of grace.' Thirty-seven were received into the church. All but two of the girls and all but four of the 45 young men who are boarding scholars are professing Christians." The pastor at Hampton writes: "Nowhere can teacher be found more earnestly evangelical, laboring often beyond their strength to bring souls to Christ. Eleven of the Indian students were in March received into the college church. At Berea the graduates of this year are all professing Christians."

—The Philadelphia Presbyterian contains an account of the meeting in that city of the general committee of the Presbyterian Council of 1880. Dr. Boardman, chairman of the committee, presided, and a report was heard from Dr. Schaff, who acted in the capacity of representative of the general committee while he was abroad the past summer. Dr. Schaff told the committee he had no doubt "that we can get as many and as great men in Philadelphia next year as we are willing to take care of!" They are anxious to come if they are invited by the American committee and furnished with free transportation. Dr. John Hall said the Council was "no experiment." The Europeans were amazed at the affinity which gathered in that Council of 1877. They said we were more pronounced and evangelical than they were in Scotland, where they think they have a special right to stand up for evangelical doctrine." A collection for expenses was taken at the meeting, and between $3,000 and $4,000 was subscribed. The Presbyterian has no doubt that the necessary funds can be raised, and that many Presbyterian families will open their houses for the reception of guests.

—The Evangelical Alliance deputation to Austria has been courteously received by the emperor, who promised that the complaint of persecution of Protestants in Bohemia should be investigated. Lord Salisbury directed the British ambassador to further the objects of the deputation. The Moravian, commenting on the very remarkable resolution of the Lutheran and Reformed bodies of Bohemia, decrying intolerance and persecution, says:

"The experience of the missionaries of our church is just the other way; and they are compelled to endure the most tyrannical interference, not only at the hands of the Roman Catholic priests, but of the Lutheran and Reformed pastors. . . . Our missionaries can only hold religious services in their own houses, and each person who attends must be furnished with a card of invitation. The State's attorney in Prague declares openly that it is not even legal to say grace at table, if a stranger is present."—Independent.

—The latest news from the Wesleyan Mission in New Britain, etc., is to the effect that two new chapels have been opened since April. A lesson book has been published in the Duke of York language. Native lights occur occasionally. In one case, where a murder was committed, no reprisals were taken, because the aggrieved parties were connected with the mission school, and refrained from the exercise of the custom of their race out of respect to the Christian principles which were taught them.

The fact is given, in evidence of the total extinction of the slave trade in Zanzibar, that, notwithstanding the demand for labor to pick the clove crop in Pemba is extraordinarily, not a slave is taken.

—The Rev. F. A. West records an incident in his ministry that is worthy of being printed in silver on pages of gold. After an appeal in behalf of missions a servant girl asked of him a minute's private conference. At this interview, with moistened eyes she said: "For years I have been saving my wages to give the gospel to the heathen. Here is the result." She handed him two hundred and fifty dollars. He plead with her to retain for her own support the larger part. She answered: "I have prayed much over this matter. My duty is clear to me. I beg you not to tempt me to take back the money. I have consecrated to Christ."

THE REVISION OF THE AUTHORIZED VERSION.—The revisers of the authorized version of the New Testament met on the fourteenth instant in the Jerusalem Chamber for their ninety-second session, and sat for seven hours. There were present the Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol, the Deans of Rochester, Lincoln and Lichfield, the master of the Temple, Archdeacons Lee and Palmer, Canon Westcott, Principals Angus Brown and Newth, Professor Hort, Drs. Moulton and Vance Smith, and Prebendaries Humphry and Scrivener—in all sixteen members, with Mr. Troutbeck, the secretary. The company considered suggestions on their second revision of the Epistles to the Galatians and Ephesians.

—The Romanists in Sydney, New South Wales, are putting forth the most strenuous efforts against the present system of education, and in favor of denominational schools. Archbishop Vaughan has issued two pastorals, has begun a series of letters to the papers, and is preparing for a lecturing tour. The newspapers, the leading clergymen, and numerous correspondents, are opposing his claims and disproving his arguments. Rev. Mr. Jefferis and Dr. Kelynack, of the Methodist Church, have delivered powerful lectures on the subject.

—The Presbyterian says: "A writer for an English review, a British statesman, asserts that Bulgaria is being regenerated through the efforts of American missionaries. Then at Scutari, near Constantinople, in the heart of Moslemism, stands a Christian College and Home for Women. Then there are female seminaries at Beyrout, Sidon, Aintab, Marsivan, Erzeroum, Bitlis and other places—twenty-two schools in all, conducted by one hundred Christian American women, who have our thousand young women in their charge."

—The Evangelical party in the Church of England laid the corner stone of Ridley Hall, at Cambridge, about three weeks ago. The institution is to be a theological seminary for the instruction of the young in the Evangelical faith. There is also a Wycliffe Hall at Oxford, recently opened, for similar instruction. The cost and endowment of the two institutions are reckoned at about $300,000, of which one-half is already promised.

—The Free Church of Scotland Record, in giving account of a work under their patronage in Norway, speaks of seven congregations: Christiana, Frederickshald, Arendel, Horten, Christiansand, Moss and Riser, with only three ministers, however, 5 elders, 16 deacons, 563 members. They have a Sabbath-school, at Christiana, with 600 children and a staff of 18 teachers. Sabbath congregations and prayer meetings are remarkably good.

—Two Mennonite agents, S. S. Haury and John Baer, have been at Sitka, Alaska, looking for a place to establish a mission among the Indians. They have now gone to the island of Kodiak, 600 miles west of Sitka and 1,600 miles from San Francisco, on a similar errand. They contemplate establishing a school.

—The Church Missionary Society of England has completed the transfer of all its missions but one to the native church in Sierra Leone, the society only granting fifteen hundred dollars to it per year. The native church has fifteen congregations, fourteen clergymen, and nearly five thousand communicants.

—The Rev. David Macrae is preaching to large congregations in churches belonging to the Kirk. The committee of the United Presbyterian Church in Dundee, whereof the late Mr. Gilfillan was pastor, have had another interview with Mr. Macrae, and report that the negotiations are progressing favorably.

—The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society and the Ladies' Board of Missions of the Presbyterian Church, organized to co-operate with the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions in 1870, raised the first year $7,000; in 1872 $27,000; in 1876, $96,000; in 1877, 124 cents; and last year, $136,000—nearly one-third of the entire income of the Foreign Board.

—The success of Baptist missions among the Teloogoos, in India, is extraordinary. Converts are counted by thousands. Last year alone the number was ten thousand, and several thousand more are now said to have renounced their old faith, and to be in a state of preparation for baptism.

—The Friends of Devonshire, England, have just recorded Theophilus Waldmeier as a minister. Mr. Waldmeier was one of King Theodore's prisoners liberated by the English expedition, and he is now devoting his life to missionary labors in Mount Lebanon, in Syria.

—The American Bible Society has granted 10,000 copies of the Revised Esthonian Bible for distribution by the society's agency in Russia, in Revel, in Esthonia; to the Presbyterian mission, in Zululand, 400 copies of the Mpongwe Scriptures, and 200 copies of St. John's Gospel in the Dakele dialect.

—Bishop Scherschewsky, of the Episcopal Mission in China, has laid the corner stone of St. John's College, near Shanghai. Rev. Dr. James Paul, of Philadelphia, has contributed $10,000 to the building of this college.

—The first missionaries ever sent among the Dakota Indians were sent out forty-four years ago and were Presbyterians. Ten Presbyterian Churches have been the outcome of the work.

—Messrs. Oliver and William Hoyt, of Stamford, Conn., have just contributed to the Methodist Episcopal Missionary Society $1,500.

—During the seventeen years' episcopate of Bishop Baring in the Diocese of Durham the enormous sum of $2,718,500 was spent in building and repairing churches in the diocese.

—Unitarians are collecting funds for their mission in India in charge of Mr. Dall. The money raised is to pay for a house for Mr. Dall's assistant, Dwarl Singha.

—The American missionaries in Burmah have remained at Bhamo. Should hostilities occur they purpose seeking safety in China.

L'Evangeliste, the French Methodist paper, which has been published for many years at Nimes, was removed on the first of October to Paris.

Lord Bute has just completed and is soon to publish the first translation into English of the Roman Catholic Breviary.

—A professor from America, once a Romanist, now a Protestant, is preaching regularly in Paris to an audience of 150.

—It is said that the Russian government contemplates the sequestration of the monastic property in its jurisdiction.

—Ohio has 147 Lutheran Churches, with sittings for 181,000. A majority of these are Germans.

—The number of Presbyterian Churches in the United States is 5,415.

Our Young People.

CHRISTMAS STORIES.

BY LAURA SANFORD.

The garments of praise clean all the year,
But mended the stockings which Christmas drew near.

We work on your religion only one perfect eve,
To that with what fervor our patient souls cleave!

The cat has its leather, the pocket its gold,
The jacket and apron their fringe and bespoil,
We poor limited stockings are made but to hang
And ribbons and tapers are not for the drudge.

But Christmas, dear Christmas, that life loves things,
That treads above line princes and rhetoric kings,
Gives rapturous joy to our down-trodden race,
And bids the fine raiment of pride give place.

For we are the children to hold precious things
All, and maybe dream of and Santa Claus brings.
From dull toil of time we can hear, wearied ear,
To be at the last in the "cozy" nursery with care.

So chanted the stockings. When Christmas appeared,
'Twas right to behold how in glee they carriered
All eye round like "small deer" at tamed Hare.
In a grandful,
Charmed harsh but Pied Piper's rich minstrel sound.

You hear as if an army muttered,
And the mutterings grows to a mighty quantity,
And out of the drawers the stockings come—all
Best stockings, small stockings, lean stockings, best
Drawing stockings,
Red stockings, striped stockings, blue stockings,
Tawny stockings,
To save old stocking, give young stockings,
Father socks, mother stockings, and consistin'
Families by sizes, dozens,
Brothers, sisters, husbands, wives—
All willing to fill a Claus for their lives.

As into the stockings are all safely singled
While over the roof little sleigh bells are ringing,
As Santa Claus vanishes. Oh! how glad the sight!
To fond [illegible] fingers. Far off the bells tinkle
And just [illegible] at morning as children wakes
Lest children be waked before the [illegible]
The stockings keep watch and wait [illegible] they take.
To feel themselves [illegible]
they ache.

Nor ever during taste the [illegible] they seek
They say little thing's [illegible] for Christmas' sweet sake.
And stocking [illegible] ways
And [illegible] days.

Something for Missions.

DEAR DR. PARKER: We have a missionary society here, and I am writing in the name of the society. I am a little girl, eleven years old. We have eleven members. All of us are near the same age. We are also members of the Methodist Church. We have a children's prayer meeting and a nice Sabbath-school. Miss Lilly Faulkner is the leader of our prayer meeting. It has been about four years since our prayer meeting was first organized, and we have kept it up ever since. Bro. Isbell is our pastor, and we hope he will be sent back to us next year. We feel a great interest in the conversion of the heathen. Please, dear Editor, find inclosed $15, which to forward to the children's mission in China.

From your little friend,

[illegible]

NOTE BY THE EDITOR.—The $15 duly received and forwarded to Dr. Wilson, missionary secretary. Our young friends of Columbia are doing well in praying, and also in giving. May God bless them.

A Christmas Ghost.

BY PERDITA.

Mrs. Sims was a rather cross old lady, though she had always been fortunate enough to have her own way about everything. But to-night she was in a remarkably good humor, as she sat knitting beside her bright little fire, the needles clicked and flashed while she cogitated. No wonder she was in a good humor for once! It was Christmas Eve, and her fat turkey was baked to a turn, and stowed away in the pantry with pies, plum pudding and cake, ready for the dinner to-morrow.

She lived all alone, but every Christmas Miss Sims, her old maid sister-in-law, took dinner with her, and they suited each other to a dot, for both were cranky, cross, pernicious old maids if Mrs. Sims had been married. On this particular evening Mrs. Sims had done an unheard-of thing—she had been to church, to hear a Christmas sermon, though I fear it was merely for the respectability of the thing, after all. But the preacher had been exceedingly stupid, and had chosen a text which was very inappropriate, so she considered, for he had said not a word about the Shepherds and the Wise Men, but had touched upon the judgment day, and discoursed from this verse: "Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to Me," and then had reminded his flock of the duties of giving as well as receiving Christmas pleasures.

However, Mrs. Sims had always considered the good man stupid, and so she dismissed the subject from her thoughts, and soon began to doze in the comfortable depths of her arm-chair.

Suddenly the door opened [illegible] and in came a lovely child.

Now, the old lady had never read any of the many sweet German stories about the Christ-child's yearly visits, or she would have known in a minute who it was. But to her Christmas was only a foolish custom which made people spend a great deal too much money. The beautiful child came softly in, dressed in glistening robes, more lovely than anything she had ever seen, and a radiance like a halo played about his head.

Mrs. Sims was dumb with astonishment, not unmixed with awe, as the sweet stranger gazed reproachfully at her and said: "To-morrow I will sup with Thee." This was all, and then the wonderful child disappeared as suddenly as he had come.

Christmas morning dawned cold and beautiful, and the crowded streets were full of noisy life as Mrs. Sims went on her way to her sister's home. The crowd jostled her until they jostled away all her Christmas good humor, and she impatiently pushed aside a little beggar, exclaiming: "There! don't come mewling like a stray kitten around me, but be off and hunt up some work to do!"

She did not see the blue hands and shrunken form with pity, for "beggars were such a nuisance," and Mrs. Sims pitied nobody but herself, and her own aches and pains.

In the evening she sat with her sister in her warm dining-room, waiting for something. Where was the strange little visitor for whom they waited? Presently came a knock at the door, and the same little beggar stood on the steps and prayed for a piece of bread, and to be allowed to come in and warm himself. Somehow, Mrs. Sims could not refuse this time, and so the poor little thing crept in by the warm fire, and eyed the well-spread table with hungry looks. The old lady felt a sort of spell upon her; she knew she was not acting according to Mrs. Sims' ideas at all, when she took the little beggar and dressed him in a suit that had belonged to her own boy, who had died years ago, and then sat him up to the table—her elegant Christmas table, only save him such honor! She was more sure she had gone crazy, for she could not account for herself to herself at all!

While the child ate Miss Sims remarked "what a sweet face he had," and Mrs. Sims "guessed she'd keep him for help;" but presently the child slipped down, and, in the flash of an eye, the little beggar was gone, and in his place stood the sweet, shining One who had promised to sup with her! This time he smiled upon her very beautifully, and—what do you think he said? "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto Me!" Mrs. Sims suddenly thought her pastor a man of great ability and understanding!

Many years have passed since that Christmas, and the friends and acquaintances of this good woman never cease to wonder "what can have changed her so," for her turkeys and pies don't stay in her cake, dark pantry any more, but, all through Christmas week, and, indeed, the whole year, they find their way into other and emptier cupboards, and the children who once shunned her now love to listen for her kind words, but most of all do they love to hear her tell this story of the Christ-child's sweet rebuke to her, upon that lonely Christmas Eve. Of course you and I know it was only a Christmas dream she had, but Mrs. Sims does not think so.

JAPANESE WINTER SPORTS.—Most of our younger readers think of Asiatic countries as warm, because India, with which we are best acquainted, has no winter like ours. But Japan has a genuine winter, with snow and ice. And the Japanese children indulge in the same kind of winter sports as are common in this country.

A recent visitor from England saw many a time snow-image made by the boys, with pieces of charcoal for eyes, and a charcoal streak for the mouth. He also looked on at many a boys' battle with snow-balls, and concluded that they had better tempers than boys in England, as none of them seemed to get angry, though hit often and hard.

Their shoes don't get wet like ours, as they are made of wood, three inches high, but when the snow is deep their feet are wet and cold, as there is no upper covering. The English visitor thought the Japboys the happiest and merriest children he had ever seen.—Youth's Companion.

One night we were sitting out of doors in the moonlight, unusually silent—almost sad. Suddenly some one, a poetic-looking man, with a gentle, lovely face, said in a low tone: "Did you ever think of the beautiful lesson the stars teach us?" We gave a vague, appreciative murmur; but some soulless clod said: "No, what is it?" "How to wink," he answered, in a sad, sweet voice.

There's one melancholy fact about a calendar; there's no time when its days are not numbered.

The Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE ALABAMA, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES OF THE M. E. CHURCH, SOUTH.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1879.

REV. LINTS PARKER, D. D., Editor.

OFFICE—412 CAMP ST., NEW ORLEANS.

CHRISTMAS MORNING.

A shining cross, swift and keen,
The Angel makes to gleam silently—
As if to pierce the pale darkness,
And part the stagnation of the sky.
The frosty casement, long mantling chill,
Arches its cold glassy front I see,
When, with the first awaken'ing thrill,
A message goes by me.

Without Paradise's fresh hills stand fast
Before the sword-gleam of heaven's ire,
Within, the shield of its sacred quiet,
And light and fragrance ever given.
Even in Mamre's grove prayer
Awed by the solemn stress of morn,
For is this immortality's sphere—
Time but born?

We gaze beneath the dawn of light,
With soul on brow and eyelids lay,
But while it draws, receive our sight,
And hail the Christ at break of day!
On yonder gate we suffer'd pale
Our priestess with the vestal eyes!
Behind her twilight veils
Heave the cherubim voices, shrieve.
Whose Christmas greet the minster chime,
And stars, below with noiseless foot,
Tread o'er the roof to the belfry,
The Lord is gone through all the land
His census and taxes to demand—
Albeit the old Law the new gathers—
The salt to leave.

A star, a voice, a vision of
A pattern not to be by set
A sign of [illegible]
Of [illegible]
To what twilight sleep away
And leaves my soul [illegible]
We forward leap, the ever-day,
Pathed by the [illegible]

We [illegible] eyes, hollowed head,
We [illegible] prepared for Christmas bread—
Whatever is the [illegible]
The hallowed night we crave—
Beyond our ken the days [illegible]
The unveiled [illegible]
Yet hearts by [illegible]
May we [illegible]

Elzevir Notable Issued Quarterly.

The Manger.

Christmas chimes are now ringing all over the world. It was an honor accorded to the angels to sound the first note of this universal joy. Through the ages they had been waiting for the hour to come, and, when it came, they were ready with their unpremeditable hymn: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." The angel who brought the news to the shepherds uttered what millions have since felt: "Behold! I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people."

The babe was wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger. There were no outward indications of His divine nature, nor that He was of a royal line. In the circumstances of His birth there were the depths of humiliation. Nothing could be more lowly. The heirs of the Cæsars were born in the purple chamber, amidst the most sumptuous surroundings. The Son of God was born in a cave, a stable, where beasts were stalled, and He was laid in a manger-crib which they were fed. At the beginning of His human life He emptied himself most completely of the glory that He had with the Father. He was as truly divine in the manger as afterward, in the maturity of His manhood, when He ruled the storm and raised the dead. The word was made flesh, and dwelt among us in the state of helpless infancy. In becoming man, the infinite and glorious One became a babe. In assuming our nature He is invested with it in the form of childhood, and His life began, where ours begins, in being born into the world. In the infant Jesus the angels saw the glory as of the only begotten of the Father. Shrouded as that glory was, and veiled to unbelieving eyes, the shepherds, guided by the heavenly testimony, penetrated the mystery, and worshiped and adored.

On Christmas-day we come to the manger, along with the angels and the shepherds, to see the young Child. We cannot banish the subsequent history, the wonderful life in its perfect humiliation, the Great Teacher, the crucified, the risen and ascended Saviour, but we stand here to-day to look upon the Child whose name is Wonderful, Counselor, the Mighty God, the everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace. The praise and worship of the angels was as fervent on the morning of the nativity, as it was when the ascending and glorified Redeemer entered the everlasting doors. And so will ours be as devout in contemplating the manger as in meditating upon our great High Priest enthroned above. "Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger." He was, nevertheless, Christ the Lord. The glory was in that infant form in the manger as truly and fully as afterward, when its splendors lighted up the Mount of Transfiguration.

The completest hiding and eclipse of the divine nature was in the manger. Afterward, even as early as His twelfth year, there were flashes and gleamings of the God-head. In His words, in His miracles, in His temptations and sufferings, His divine character is manifested. But it is not likely that there was any supernatural light in the cave, or nimbus, or aureola about the Child. The painters have done this. In truth, the infant Redeemer looked much like any other Jewish child, and there were no supernatural rays to illuminate the rough stable, or to beautify the manger in which He was laid. He was "the brightness" of the Father's glory, "and the express image of His person." The "I Am" of the burning bush was there, and He that dwelt between the cherubim, but all this glory and power were profoundly covered and held in abeyance. At this first touch the Son of God seems to have touched the lowest depths of humiliation, so far as that humiliation consisted in throwing aside His pre-existent glory. There were depths of suffering and shame afterward, but, excepting the time that His body lay in the tomb, there is no period in His human history when His divine nature seems to have been so entirely concealed.

Christ was never more sweetly human than when He lay in the manger, and at the same time He was never more divine. Whatever may be our doctrinal conceptions of the atonement in its relations to Christ, the manger brings Christ intensely near to every new-born babe. It is not strange that little children were dear to Him, and that He should warn us against despising one of these little ones. Is it any wonder that "in heaven their angels do always behold the face of my Father, which is in heaven," when Christ was wrapped in swaddling clothes, and laid in a manger? The contrast between heavenly wealth and glory and earthly poverty and degradation is a day of peculiar gladness.

Inconsistent Sinners.

It is no uncommon thing to encounter people who meet your exhortation to seek and serve God, with a reply something like this: "I was brought into being without being consulted. I have inherited a depraved nature, for which I do not hold myself responsible. I have to die, and I cannot help it, as God brought me into existence and puts me out of it when it pleases Him. It is His responsibility, and not mine, and I shall give myself no trouble about it." These people seem to think that their statement is exhaustive and conclusive, fully justifying their inaction and indifference.

We propose to show them that this mode of reasoning does not satisfy nor control them where material and temporal interest are involved. I have heard no man say: "I find that I was born poor, without at all consulting my wishes or comfort in the premises. I was through childhood and youth surrounded by conditions of poverty. This is not my fault. I propose to give myself no concern about it. I expect to live in poverty and die in want." So far from this, the vast majority say: "True, we were born and reared in straitened circumstances, but we do not propose to remain poor. Our age, our country and our institutions open many doors of profitable enterprise. I can and I will improve my circumstances." So reasoning, multitudes go forward in a prosperous career, and soon achieve all the comfort and useful influence of affluent circumstances.

No man says: "I find I was born with some physical defect of eye or limb, or constitutional tendency, born so without any agency of mine, or without being allowed any protest. I am not responsible. It's no affair of mine. I shall do nothing about it." Not at all, but it's the constant thought, the unchanging purpose, the ceaseless effort to correct and improve these unfortunate physical conditions. All that science can do, it is summoned to do. All that suitable exercise, or diet, or climate can do, is done to better the condition, and make the best of said circumstances.

No man says: "I find I was born destitute alike of language, and of the ideas of which words are the signs. This, I acknowledge, is a deplorable condition, but it's my misfortune and not my fault. The responsibility of this benighted condition rests on other shoulders rather than on mine. I shall not undertake the tedious and wearying drudgery of study, but shall remain as I am, mentally, in the dark." Had this reasoning ruled, what would have been the mental condition of the world? Dark and deplorable beyond description.

Our wisdom and our happiness, so says the practical sense of all the ages, is to avail ourselves of all the instrumentalities within our reach, to improve our condition, and make the best of life. It is true we're not consulted about being brought into existence, but we are in existence, and that is a question of vast significance to us. It's true our talents are depraved, and we are not responsible for this fact, but if God in His wisdom and grace has so circumstanced us that we can escape the pollution of this depravity, and we of set purpose refuse to avail ourselves of the possible and sufficient help, there we assume the responsibility of our moral condition, with all its dread possible consequences.

Let us not stand cavilling and complaining, but let us go forward, be wise unto salvation, and make the best of our being, and avail ourselves of all its possible blessings.

W.

Louisiana Annual Conference.

Last week we gave the appointments. This week, in another place, we publish the answers to the questions embracing the regular minute business. Baton Rouge is a pleasant city, and abounds in hospitable homes. The members were well entertained. Dr. Mathews and the writer were the guests of Mr William Garig, who has a beautiful residence on the bluff, commanding a remarkably fine view of the river, and the rich and extensive sugar plantations on the opposite side. The attendance of members was not quite as large as usual, owing, we suppose, to the low water in the Red river, and other tributaries. Bishop Keener presided over this, his old Conference, for the first time since his election to the episcopacy. We need not say that it was very gratifying to the brethren to have him with us, and that his counsels and preaching were highly appreciated.

The reports showed some increase in membership, and a considerable improvement in ministerial support. The collections for missions and for Conference claimants were also considerably larger than last year. Louisiana feels the general business improvement less and later than other sections of the country, but the improvement is perceptible, and will probably be more apparent during the coming year. Able reports were made by the respective Committees on Temperance, Education, Church Literature, the Bible Cause and Sunday Schools. Some of these reports we shall publish as soon as practicable. Prof. W. H. N. Magruder read an admirable paper on Education, and Rev. John Pipes gave us one of the best and most instructive reports on Temperance that we have ever heard.

Dr. C. C. Andrews, president of Centenary College, was present during a part of the session, preaching an excellent sermon on Saturday night, and delivering an inspiring and convincing address on Education before the Conference on Saturday morning. He regards the prospects of Centenary as improving. The faculty are doing thorough work, and the patronage is larger than last year. Homer College and Mansfield Female College were represented as in successful operation, and the cause of education throughout the bounds of the Conference as advancing. The preachers are taking a deep interest in the school question, and especially in the establishment of schools under the control of the church.

Rev. W. J. Peet, who has been laboring as a missionary among the French Creoles in the Attakapas during the past year, represented this important work to be prospering. Resolutions were adopted requesting the Board of Missions at Nashville to aid the French mission, as its claims upon them can hardly be questioned. Our Domestic Board has done what it could, but the means are inadequate. On account of the rain, the missionary anniversary was postponed from Saturday to Sunday night. Rev J. T. Daves and Dr. J. B. Walker made the addresses, very appropriate and eloquent, and Dr. Mathews, president of the Missionary Board, took charge of the collection. The amount raised, mostly given by the preachers, was $240. Baton Rouge station, however, had raised its full assessment, and had raised over $2 000 for church repairs. Some venerable stories and incidents were made to do service on the occasion, but, on the whole, it was a religiously conducted anniversary.

On Sunday there was preaching at the Presbyterian Church, and at several of the colored churches, by members of the Conference. Bishop Keener preached one of his massive sermons in the Methodist Church at eleven o'clock, and Dr. Carter gave us a masterly discourse at three o'clock. One member, Rev. James E. Cobb, had died during the year. Among the last things on Monday evening was the reading of a memoir prepared by Rev. James L. Wright. Several members of the Conference spoke feelingly of our departed brother, and all felt that a pure and useful laborer had been called from toil and suffering to rest.

The next Conference is to be held at Shreveport. After a strong and very happy talk from the Bishop, at about nine o'clock Monday night the appointments were read out, and the session ended. May the brethren and their families have a happy and prosperous year, and may the word of the Lord have free course and be glorified.

North Mississippi Conference.

MR. EDITOR: The North Mississippi Conference closed its forty-sixth session last Monday night—a very pleasant, and, I believe, profitable one. A large attendance of clerical members, but the laity were in small force. I have never seen the preachers present a better appearance, nor have I ever seen them in better spirits. They have been abundantly successful in their labors the past year, and better paid than for years past. The increase in membership is over 10 000, and over $1,000 more for foreign missions than last year, besides a considerable increase in collections for domestic missions, which enabled the Board to pay all drafts in full, with a surplus of about $350 in the treasurer's hands.

Dr. Wilson, the able secretary of the foreign board, was with us, and made a fine impression both in the pulpit and on the platform. His address at the anniversary was one of the best I ever heard. Dr. Fitzgerald lifted the collection, which amounted to more than $500.

Dr. Young was with us in full length, representing Vanderbilt and the Publishing House. He was highly gratified at his success in collecting for both institutions.

Of course Dr. Johnson was with us, looking after the interests of the Western Methodist. The doctor has the sympathies of his many friends in the Conference in view of the heavy misfortunes which have befallen him by the two late epidemics in Memphis. In a few days the Methodist will be issued from Little Rock, where, we hope, it may have a prosperous career. The distinguished editor in chief, with his able corps of corresponding editors, promises to give us a paper equal to any of the Advocate family.

The public-spirited citizens of Grenada and Abbeville made a tender of valuable property to the Conference for the establishment of a female college at each place. The one at Grenada has already gone into operation under favorable auspices, and will be presided over by that experienced educator of our Conference Rev. Dr. T. C. Wier.

Grenada is one of the best locations in the State for such an institution. The building is one of the finest I ever saw, and affords accommodations for 150 boarders. With such facilities, under its accomplished president, may we not anticipate a prosperous career for the Grenada Female College?

But I must be forced to say that Dr. Fitzgerald looked lonely upon us for the first time looking after the interests of the great central organ, the Nashville Advocate. It is enough to say that he won all hearts, and it is the general wish that he may repeat his visit.

Bishop Kavanaugh, by his genial, pleasant manner in the chair and in the cabinet, as well as by his able pulpit efforts, has endeared himself to us more than ever. Long may he live to go in and out before us!

The North Mississippi Conference has a brilliant future before it. It embraces a fine territory, with an enterprising population, who are rapidly developing its material resources, while the church is striving to make these advantages contribute to the advancement of the Redeemer's kingdom.

One more item of interest must not be overlooked. That liberal-minded and public-spirited gentleman, Dr. Vanden, proposes to give us $50 000 for the establishment of a male college, provided the church will raise the same amount.

If there is not a liberal-minded Methodist in the land who will respond, I could name a few who might do it, and thereby confer a lasting blessing upon themselves and the country.

Dr. Vanden is deeply interested in the education of the young men of Mississippi, as is shown by his liberality in assisting many at the State University.

Everybody regretted your short sojourn with us at our late session. Hope to see you again.

Wishing you and the ADVOCATE a long and prosperous career, I close.

THOS. F. RAMSEY.

ECHECKA, MISS., Dec. 12, 1879.

Alabama Conference.

Tuskegee is one of the most beautiful inland towns in eastern Alabama. Forty miles east of Montgomery, at Chehaw, on the Western road, we take a narrow gauge road to Tuskegee. The five miles is made in a few minutes, and we are in the midst of the delightful little city, and in the Conference room, by ten o'clock Friday morning. Dr. Young was making one of his farewell talks just before leaving for Meridian, and raising subscriptions to the supplemental bonds. Of course he got them—twenty five-twenty five-dollar bonds, and we have no doubt he picked up several more, besides sundry sixteens for Vanderbilt, before he reached the depot. We fell heir to the editor's table, and were so deep in business during the time we spent there that we could take but little note of the proceedings. We were gratified to see Bishop Paine in the chair, certainly not less vigorous than when we parted with him at Tuskaloosa, and getting through with his work effectively. We found the brethren generally in good health and in good spirits. The reports showed improvement all around, and brightening prospects for the future. Friday afternoon Mrs. Hays, president of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, delivered an address to a large concourse in the Methodist Church. The Conference Woman's Missionary Society was organized last year, and was reported as doing well. The missionary anniversary on Saturday night was a model. The treasurer's report, as well as we remember, showed over $6 000 collected for foreign missions, and an aggregate for foreign and domestic of nearly $10 000. Montgomery was the banner station, and Montgomery district the banner district. We do not remember the name of the banner circuit. The missionary spirit is evidently growing in the Alabama Conference. The report of the secretary, Dr. Rich, was comprehensive and brief, occupying less than five minutes in the reading. Dr. Rivers, whom we heard preach in Louisiana nearly thirty years ago, was the first speaker. He has lost none of the fire, and unction and broad conceptions which then characterized him. It was a first-rate speech. Dr. M. S. Andrews, president of the board, followed in an address of great power. On the Conference floor, in the pulpit, and on the platform, Dr. Andrews is one of the most forcible and convincing men we have ever heard. After his speech came the collection. There were no propositions, nor use of the usual expedients, no beg stories. The matter was left with the consciences of the people. The collectors went their rounds, and the audience was dismissed. Something over $150 was realized in money, and much more in the healthful spiritual tone of the occasion.

On Sunday morning, at nine o'clock, Dr. A. H. Mitchell conducted a love feast service at the Methodist Church—a time of refreshing. Among those who rose as witnesses for Christ was the venerable widow of Dr. Jefferson Hamilton. Her presence at the session of this Conference is always peculiarly gratifying to its members. Her son, Jefferson P. Hamilton, is a member, and following in the steps of his glorified father. At eleven Dr. Allen Andrews delivered the sermon. It was from the text: "And now unto the King eternal, immortal, invisible." A very edifying and profitable discourse. After the sermon Bishop Paine, assisted by some of the elders, ordained the deacons and elders at one service. At three P. M. Dr. Lewis, of the Southern University, preached from the passage: "In that hour Jesus rejoiced in Spirit, and said I thank Thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that Thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent and hast revealed them unto babes; even so, Father, for so it seemed good in Thy sight." The sermon was clear, compact, and every way appropriate and instructive. The Conference sermon was preached at night by Rev. T. F. Mangum. "Study to show thyself approved unto God" was the text, and the exposition was in Bro. Mangum's best vein. Everybody was delighted. It was a treat from beginning to end. The memorial service was held on Monday, at twelve M. Three precious men had died during the year. Hilliard J. Hunter, an aged superannuate, a man eminent for holiness and usefulness; Dr. Luther M. Smith, the Christian gentleman, scholar and educator, an able preacher, a pure and beautiful character; and P. H. Lightfoot, a young and most beloved minister, whose death was like that of the sainted Fletcher, in the spirit of peace, and in the richness of the testimony and the grace attending it. Blessed men! Good and faithful servants, well done! The tributes of the brethren were tender and beautiful, and Dr. Summers, who presided, closed with one of his happiest impromptu eulogies. We were compelled to leave Tuskegee on Monday night. The Conference was not likely to adjourn before Tuesday night or Wednesday. The obliging secretary, Rev. R. B. Crawford, promised to forward minutes and appointments immediately after adjournment. They will appear next week.

The home of Dr. Summers and the editor was under the hospitable roof of Col. R. H. Abercrombie. As we sit at our old desk in the third story, penning these hurried lines, the fragrance of the turkey and brine-peas, and the feast of reason and Christian communion, are wonderfully fresh. God bless our kind and generous entertainer, and his delightful family. We paid a hasty visit to the Alabama Female College, under the presidency of Dr. Massey. The building is, indeed, a fine one, the grounds beautiful, and the institution is in a flourishing condition. All the appointments are excellent, and the young ladies are well cared for. This college belongs to the Alabama Conference, and should be cherished and generously patronized.

Mississippi Conference.

Mr. Lathrop returned from Meridian on Tuesday. He reports that the session of the Mississippi Conference opened on Wednesday, the seventeenth, and adjourned on Monday night, December 21. Bishop Kavanaugh was present, in good health, and was warmly welcomed. The attendance of members was large, and the business was done with careful despatch. The brethren must needs keep the Christmas feast, and therefore no time was wasted. We regret that we could not be present, but leaving Tuskegee on Monday evening we found it impossible to reach Meridian in time to be present, even at the close of the Mississippi Conference. We hope Dr. Andrews, the secretary, will forward the regular minute proceedings and reports in time for our next issue. The Mississippi appointments will be found on the first page of this week's paper.

Woman's Missionary Society, Louisiana Conference.

MR. EDITOR: I have the pleasure of telling you that our Annual Conference Woman's Missionary Society was organized at our recent session held in Baton Rouge. The church looks forward with strong hope to this important arm of service. We trust that by the next session of our Annual Conference to be held in Shreveport, we will have auxiliaries from each circuit, station and mission in our bounds. I would say to all desiring to organize auxiliaries, that by writing to the corresponding secretary, Mrs. W. H. Foster, New Orleans, they will be supplied with blanks, constitutions, etc. Many of the preachers have not the time or inclination to inaugurate the matter, but the godly women of the church move in the matter at once.

The following are the officers for the Conference year, viz:

President, Mrs. Mary W. Read, of Baton Rouge, La. Vice Presidents: Mrs. William H. Wise, Shreveport, La., Mrs. W. H. N. Magruder, Baton Rouge, Mrs. A. K. Knox, Baton Rouge, Mrs. B. F. Alexander, Waterproof, Mrs. Judge E. T. Merrick, New Orleans, Mrs. J. H. Keller, New Orleans, Mrs. John Pipes, Marshall, Mrs. Dr. W. E. Hamilton, Minden, Mrs. Capt. Pharr, Morgan City, Mrs. Maggie Hayes, Opelousas. Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. W. H. Foster, New Orleans. Recording Secretary, Miss Carrie Robertson, Baton Rouge, Treasurer, Mrs. R M Walmsley, New Orleans, Auditor, Mrs. Dr. Linus Parker, New Orleans.

JOEL T. DAVES.

John Thomas Butler of Hamburg S C, with his blood hounds and a negro for them to chase, is playing the Christian Neighbor, playing a questionable role in New York as Democrats in South Carolina and other Southerners think. He could be was paid to go to New York—that he has been made the dupe of a political intrigue.

For him many kinds else may say that he, his dogs and negro illustrated the South in the days of slavery, is a brand and base slander.

Services commemorating the thirtieth anniversary of the South western Bible Society will be held on Sunday evening, December 28, at Coliseum Place Baptist Church, Rev. George R Bristor will deliver the anniversary address. The exercises will commence at half past seven o'clock.

GREETINGS.—Christmas has come again and the editor wishes joy to the thousands of his readers, and to all who are connected with the ADVOCATE. May they all have a happy day, a day of good cheer and of sober but cheerful social pleasure.

Books and Periodicals.

BIBLICAL THINGS NOT GENERALLY KNOWN. New York: Dick & Fitzgerald, 1879. 18mo.

This volume is a 12 mo of 378 pages, containing a collection of facts, notes and information concerning much that is rare, quaint, curious, obscure and little known in relation to Bible subjects. The name of the author or compiler is not given. From a partial examination of the book we should regard it as a work of great interest, and as containing much that illustrates and explains many passages of Scripture. There is a copious index of subjects and also an index of texts referred to or explained.

THE LIFE AND WORDS OF CHRIST. By permission of Messrs. D. Appleton & Co., New York. Adam Black & Charles Black, Edinburgh.

THIS WORK is published in a larger and, we think, better form, costing $8 is now issued as a 12 mo volume but clear type and in durable substantial binding for fifty cents per copy. A full description and list of authorities given in Geikie's Life and Words of Christ is a work of rare excellence and the publishers have now issued it in a form as convenient and cheap as possible.

—Good Company, No 1 December, 1879, has: Old Town Fireside Tales of the Revolution; A Kind of Compensation; His Birthday Supper; Christian Men of Mark, 24 Complete; Pen Heads—Nature; The Indian Work at Hampton Institute; The Fireside Christmas; Roman Masonry; His Grandfather's Story; Fairy Mounds in Temperate Regions; How the Debates of Congress are Reported; The Colleges for Women; Railroad Bridges; Weeds; Echo Peak and Long's Peak; The Old Man of the Bear and Ragged Staff; A Wonderful Book; An Evening at Workmans; Conversation; Editor's Table; Literature. Every line composed of superior monthly. Published by Good Company, Springfield, Mass. Price, $3 a year.

—Frank Leslie's Sunday Magazine for January, 1880, is properly illustrated and contains its usual variety of reading matter. Among the articles are: Cavos and Cavedwellers; Epiphany; Mrs. Prentiss' Stories Hans; Paul Before Agrippa; Evening Thanksgiving to Christmas; Miss Olive's Boys; Henry Bergh and the S. P. C. A.

—Appleton's Journal for January has: A Stroke of Diplomacy; Cinderella; Domes in Literature; Mr Gladstone as a Man of Letters; The Sunny Side; Words Reported; Last Letters of Charles Dickens; Fragments—Matthew Arnold on Poetry, Mr Irving's Shylock; Editors Page; Books of the Day. D Appleton and Co., Publishers, issued monthly, $3 a year.

—The Art Amateur for December is filled with beautiful illustrations and artistic matter. The Art Amateur is published monthly, New York, at $3 a year.

MARRIED.

APPLEWHITE—ANDERSON—November 27, at the residence of Walter Applewhite, near Canton, Miss., by the Rev. A. W. Apperson, Mr. A. Applewhite to Miss L. Anderson.

NATHAN—HARRISON—At the residence of the bride's father, Gallatin, Miss., by the Rev. H. L. Vaughn, December 9, 1879, Mr. C. P. Nathan to Miss Sallie Harrison, all of Lowndes county, Miss.

FRIZELL—HORTON—On the 17th inst. at the residence of Mr. C. C. Horton in Hinds county, Miss., by the Rev. R. W. Boswell, W. H. Frizell, of Montgomery county, Miss. to Miss Ella R. Horton.

Publisher's Department.

While we endeavor to do our best to exclude fraudulent advertisements from the ADVOCATE, parties must judge for themselves as to the reliability of the goods advertised. In ordering please mention the ADVOCATE.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.—January next the ADVOCATE comes with the new year, and business thereafter will be conducted on the basis of all the leading papers published. Subscriptions being payable in advance for such length of time as desired. The date of expiration by which we will appear opposite to the name of each subscriber indicating the subscription expires with the close of that month, in which time the paper will be discontinued, unless renewed. This will materially simplify the office work as the printer will drop the names according to monthly expiration, and to individual partiality be shown, every subscriber will have a reminding notice of expiration. It will also facilitate agents in giving receipts for advance with office accounts, correspondingly with printed slips. Where advance payments exceeding one year are made by the, or in which paid will also be inserted. Receipts in names and dates will be promptly carried when advised, and we urge you to notify the office of such cases when known, as our desire is to avoid all friction, or causes for complaint, and have everything as nearly perfect as possible. Accounts will be kept with agents as heretofore, to whom payments may be made, or sent direct to this office, if preferred.

MILLINERY AND FANCY GOODS.—We paid a visit to the elegant parlors of Madame A. de Bagg, 5 Chartres street yesterday and found displayed a handsome array of new fall styles in bonnets and hats, already trimmed, at prices which will astonish the ladies. This lady has a thorough knowledge of every detail in the business as well as years of experience, so that she is prepared to meet the wishes of every one who may favor her with a call. Her fashionable trade is of the country people are of a very flattering nature and we can assure our friends that she will please them in every particular. Her collection of combs, brushes, jet pins, ornaments, etc., are very fine. See advertisement.

DRY GOODS.—Dazzle's store was crowded to overflowing last Saturday. It was next to impossible for making your way into and through it. Everybody busy buying presents for the holidays, and everybody pleased at the elegant assortment before them. There is nothing in the line of dry goods that Mr. Danziger will not have to sell, and it would be superfluous to enumerate the different articles with which their store abounds. Suffice it to say that Danziger will supply all your needs. For the information of our country friends, this firm sends samples from which to choose free of charge. See advertisement.

ALABAMA COAL.—This coal is becoming very popular in the city, and Messrs. A. C. Danner & Co., of 49 Carondelet street, have every reason to feel encouraged at their large sales which are increasing every day. Their coal burns more and gives more heat than wood, as it is used. They are also dealers in lumber, timber, mill stuff and the products of coal in the South. This firm stands higher for reliability and fair dealing than that of Messrs. A. C. Danner & Co. See advertisement.

JEWELRY.—The crowd at Lilienthal's, 131 Canal street, does a rushing business in getting everything in readiness for entertaining till late in the evening. This enterprising establishment has an extra force of hands to keep the goods coming and to hand to every customer his purchase, no matter how large the crowd. Their stock of goods is very large and varied, and in the various departments will be found the latest novelties in the fancy goods line.

ONE PRICE CASH STORE.—M. Aronstein, 131 Bienville street, calls attention to his immense stock of holiday goods, comprising the latest novelties in the fancy goods line, also a fine assortment of ladies' and gents' underwear and other articles too numerous to mention. Call and see for yourself, and you will be sure to find what you want at prices which will astonish you. See advertisement.

TAXPAYERS' ATTENTION.—Tax payers will save trouble and expense by calling at Lieutenant Smith's office, 57 Bienville street, and paying their taxes. The advertisement in which will appear in issue.

SPORTSMEN'S DEPOT.—Sportsmen should remember that for guns, tools, nets, hooks, lines, etc., Rathbone, 138 Chartres street is the best place to go. The store is the largest of the kind in the South. See advertisement on the seventh page.

SELF-BARBED FENCE WIRE.—

BOOTS AND SHOES.—Remember that J. Vaccaro & Bro. are Frenchmen and speak the French language. Shoes a specialty. See card.

COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA.—Dr. Pierce's Medical Discovery, at Radical Remedy is acknowledged as being a reliable one for those diseases and complaints. Give it a trial.

TAKE NOTICE.—We do not charge anything for showing goods, whether you buy or not. Call and see the elegant stock of Holiday goods, consisting of Jewelry, Diamonds, Watches, Clocks, Bronzes, Silver and Silver Plated Ware, Albums, Fancy Goods, Toilet Articles, Cutlery, Opera Glasses, Canes, Fans, Pocket Books, Portemonnaies, Cigar Cases, Pipes, Meerschaums, Smokers' Articles, Gold Pens and Pencils, Gold Chains, Charms, Lockets, Sleeve Buttons, Studs, Scarf Pins, Rings, Ear Drops, Necklaces, Bracelets, Sets, Solitaires, Etc., Etc. Everything marked in plain figures, and at prices to suit the times. Remember the place, 131 Canal street, next to corner Carondelet. See advertisement.

GAS AND STEAM FITTER.—Dr. Call, gas and steam fitter, 57 Bienville street, has made it his business to attend to the wants of his customers, and all orders left at Dr. Call's office will receive prompt attention. See advertisement.

DRY GOODS.—Read carefully the advertisement of Messrs. Kreeger & Co., 119 Canal street, and you will find that they are selling goods at prices which will astonish you. Their stock is large and varied, and their prices are low. Their offer is worthy your attention. See advertisement.

ONE PRICE CASH STORE.—M. Aronstein, 131 Bienville street, calls attention to his immense stock of holiday goods, comprising the latest novelties in the fancy goods line, also a fine assortment of ladies' and gents' underwear and other articles too numerous to mention. Call and see for yourself, and you will be sure to find what you want at prices which will astonish you. See advertisement.

TAXPAYERS' ATTENTION.—Tax payers will save trouble and expense by calling at Lieutenant Smith's office, 57 Bienville street, and paying their taxes. The advertisement in which will appear in issue.

CHINA AND FANCY EARTHENWARE.—For rich Christmas presents go to E. Toll er, 171 Canal street. His assortment is large and varied, and he has constant and polite salesmen.

THE OLD RELIABLE.—Gilbert's Cough and Throat Comfort which is so apparent at the San Francisco Boston Point of the characteristic features of that well-regulated establishment. To those who have not patronized this popular house we would recommend a visit, and to others an opportunity seldom found at so fine a display of choice goods, having reduced its rates to $3 and $3.50 per day.

FOR DYSPEPSIA, Indigestion the preshyo of Capsicum and Ginger, Dr. Tutt's Pills are unequalled as being a reliable one for those diseases and complaints. Give them a trial.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

$500 REWARD.

They cure all diseases of the Stomach, Bowels, Blood, Liver, Nerves, Kidneys and Urinary Organs, and $500 will be paid for a case they will not relieve or help, or for anything impure or injurious found in them. Ho Bitters, Tonic, Stomach and "Prayerbar" in another column.

PIZZONI'S MEDICATED COMPLEXION POWDER is acknowledged by thousands of ladies, who use it daily, to be the only preparation that does not roughen the skin, chap, blister or leave a black spot in the pores. Mothers can apply it to their babies with the puff with a sore eye, pimple and perfect safety. Sold by all druggists, and at 107 North Sixth street, St. Louis (Tindell Building).

QUEEN'S COD LIVER OIL JELLY.

APPROVED by the Academy of Medicine of New York for coughs, colds, bronchitis, sore throat, etc. Can be taken by children as a general delicacy. Plasma Emulsion and blood tonic and stomach warm. Quinine and Cod Liver Oil in one agreeable form. Quinine and Cod Liver Oil in one agreeable form. Quinine and Cod Liver Oil in one agreeable form

Farm, Garden and Household.

SPICED CUCUMBERS.—Take good big cucumbers, say half a dozen; peel them, cut into quick, and split them; then, with a spoon, scrape out their inside; get an onion, some parsley, a piece of bay leaf, if you durst, a garlic not bigger than a pea,) two [illegible] a teaspoonful of salt, some pepper, grate a little nutmeg in that, and let [illegible] gently; now take some stale bread, [illegible] as your two fists, and soak [illegible] water; then squeeze it dry and add that [illegible] now, last, put in the [illegible] vinegar enough to cover, let it stew slow [illegible] brown; when done, pick out the [illegible] of garlic. Take your halves of cucumbers and [illegible] them up together, and half them [illegible] and water for, say, [illegible] let them [illegible] cucumbers [illegible] gather a [illegible] pork [illegible] over with [illegible] The [illegible] be well done.

[illegible] HONEY.—[illegible] reports [illegible] for [illegible] of [illegible] is [illegible] and [illegible] is [illegible] honey [illegible] is [illegible] honey [illegible] is [illegible] honey

Scientific.

MANUFACTURE OF ICE.—The manufacture of ice was properly considered a great inventive triumph, but a discovery has recently been made which leaves this far in the shade. This is nothing less than a system of refrigeration which involves the use of no ice at all. The system has been put into practical operation in Boston, and is already a great success. Ammonia is the chemical agent depended upon, and by its use the air in a large six-story granite building is kept nearly down to the freezing point, even in the dog days. The building was first rendered as impervious as possible to outside atmospheric changes, and then intricate machinery was introduced, by means of which the heat and gases are drawn off, condensed and purified and retained to do the work of refrigerating. The process goes on all the while, and the air is constantly changing, but the machinery is so nicely arranged that the temperature is kept at the uniform point of about forty degrees. A curious feature of the performance is that the absorption of the heat, gases and moisture constantly accumulates a great quantity of snow in the machine room every day, and the novel spectacle is presented of men shoveling up snow from the floor of a building outside of which the thermometer stands among the nineties, and spreading it out on the roof to melt in the midsummer sun.

The building is kept nearly full of perishable provisions, a hundred thousand packages of butter, three hundred barrels of beef and thirty-five hundred dozens of eggs being among the present stock on hand, and the produce and commission houses which patronize it report that their goods are kept better than in vaults cooled by ice. Indeed the experiment has proved so successful that it is expected mammoth refrigerators of this sort will soon be introduced into the large cities, and there seems to be no reason why the system could not be applied to ocean steamships, in which case meats and other perishable merchandise could be transported across the Atlantic more successfully than ever before. There ought also to be a fine market for the application of a system of artificially cooling dwelling houses in the hot weather. There is a fortune here for some inventor.—Chicago Courier.

The Journal of Hygiene gives a summary of the present knowledge of certain poisonous cases, whose apparent absence is a source of grave danger. These are those in which a healthy person becomes for some seasons of the year a poisonous case to others. This has been observed in Japan with the common person, the mountebank, and the albatross. The symptoms are like those caused by the indigestion of corrupted meat, and though alarming, are rarely fatal. Other cases, such as the Bobo [illegible] are fatal when young, but become [illegible] when they attain their growth. Of this class of cases the cases of the horse, the ox, the sheep, and the mouse are [illegible] and [illegible] In one instance, a hundred persons who had partaken of the stewed [illegible] experienced very severe symptoms of poisoning, while some of the party, who had not eaten any of the stewed [illegible] escaped. The sweet and [illegible] of sewers [illegible] fell in [illegible] of the world, are [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

PRICES CURRENT

IN

THE NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

REVISED AND CORRECTED WEEKLY

☞ Correspondents should bear in mind that our quotations represent prices for round lots, and in filling small orders higher rates must be paid.

GROCERIES.

Butter, ₩ lb.:
Western creamery, fancy	35	37
New York, choice	25	26
Coffee, ₩ lb.:
Rio, fair	13¾	— —
Rio, good	16¾	— —
Rio, prime	17	— —
Candles, ₩ lb.:
Star, best brands	11	— —
Corn Meal, ₩ bbl.:
Choice	2 40	2 65
Cheese, ₩ lb.:
Factory	— —	— —
N. Y. cream and English dairy	15¾	16
Fish:
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in bbls	— —	9 75
Mackerel, extra No. 1, in kits	— —	1 10
Sardines, quarter boxes	— —	— —
Flour, ₩ bbl.:
Superfine	5 50	5 75
XX	6 00	6 12½
XXX	6 25	6 62½
Choice XXX	6 87½	7 12½
Choice family	— —	— —
Fruits:
Dried apples, ₩ lb	7	7¾
Dried peaches, ₩ lb	— —	— —
Raisins, ₩ quarter box	70	— —
Raisins, ₩ half box	1 30	— —
Raisins, ₩ whole box	2 50	— —
Bananas, ₩ bunch	75	1 25
Crackers, ₩ lb.:
Soda	8	8
Butter	6	7
Sugar	8	9
Gingernuts	9	12½
Oils:
Coal, in cases, best	21	22
Coal, in barrels, best	10	11
Insurance, in cases	— —	40
Insurance, in barrels	— —	35
Lard, in barrels, best	75	— —
Molasses, in barrels.
Common	25	27
Fair	30	32
Prime to choice	34	40
Golden and Roquel sirups	— —	— —
Half bbls. 5c. and kegs 10c. more.
Rice, Louisiana, ₩ lb.:
No. 2	4½	4¾
Ordinary	6¾	6¾
Fair	6¾	7
Prime to choice	7¼	— —
Soap, ₩ box:
XXX Palm	$ 30	— —
Keller's magnolia	2 00	— —
Keller's olive	2 25	— —
Starch, ₩ lb.:
	5½	6
Salt, in sacks:
Fine	1 20	1 30
Coarse	— —	— —
Sugar:
Good fair	6½	7
Prime	7	7¼
Choice	— —	— —
Yellow clarified	— —	— —
Off white	— —	— —
Crushed	— —	— —
Powdered	— —	— —
Spices, ₩ lb.:
Allspice	15¾	— —
Pepper	12¾	13
Cloves	45	— —
Cinnamon	— —	— —
Teas, ₩ lb.:
Fine to choice	1 75	1 90
Finest imperial	80	— —
Tobacco:
Low grades	7	35
Medium	40	45
Low leaf	50	60
Medium	60	65
Good	70	75
Fine	80	90
Selections	90	1 00

GRAIN AND FEED.

Corn, ₩ bushel:
Yellow	58	— —
White	58	— —
Mixed	— —	— —
Oats, ₩ bushel:
Louisiana	— —	— —
Texas	— —	— —
Dakota	45	50
Bran, choice, ₩ ton	15	— —
Hay, ₩ ton:
Choice	30	32 00
Ordinary	25	28 00
Cow Peas:
Whippoorwills	— —	— —
Mixed	— —	— —
Clay	— —	— —

PROVISIONS.

Bacon, ₩ lb.:
Breakfast	— —	8½
Shoulders	6	6½
Sides, clear rib	7½	7¾
Sides, clear	7¾	8
Hams, sugar-cured	9	11
Mess Pork, ₩ bbl	13 25	14 00
Dry Salted Meats:
Shoulders	5	— —
Lard, ₩ lb.:
Choice, in kegs and pails	8	8½
Choice, in tierces and barrels	7½	8

FRUITS.

Pineapples, ₩ bbl	1 50	2 00
Bananas, ₩ bbl	3 50	4 00
Apples, ₩ bbl	3 00	4 00
Cabbages, ₩ 100	— —	10 00

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Poultry, ₩ dozen:
Old chickens	4 00	4 50
Young	2 50	3 00
Ducks	3 00	4 00
Geese	4 00	5 00
Turkeys	10 00	12 00
Eggs, ₩ dozen:
Western	16	18
Louisiana	— —	— —

WOOL.

Burry	5	20
Tub washed, coarse	30	35
Tub clear	35	40

BALING STUFF.

Bagging:
1 ¾	10½	11
Twine, hemp	12	— —

BENEFACTORS.

When a bottle of excellent physic claims and obtains a world-wide reputation, it must by common consent be worth its value in gold. We have no hesitation in saying that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best blood purifier and liver regulator in the world, and to dry the tears of the afflicted, and bring back the roses to the cheeks of pale and sickly women, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is unequaled. Blessed by all as benefactors.—Adv

SILVER FOAM CAKE.—One cup sugar, half cup butter, one cup milk, three eggs, whites only, two cups flour, two teaspoonfuls Kellogg's Baking Powder.

VASELINE.

You may hunt the world over and it will not find
A need of the household, which brings to the mind
The sense of a more glad to be seen
Than petroleum jelly, the famous Vaseline.

If cut or a sprain, or a wound or a burn
From home to creation, the household shall turn,
On the shelf should be found the best of all balm,
And quicker than wink in the boldest of harm.

If your throat and chest are the seat of pain,
And the cough like this has to be borne,
Ere Vaseline comes as finally to warn
All the cheap trash on which it had not else seen.

Hear voice it is, pray, the throat is sore
Take Vaseline at once, and the cough is over.
It has cured the children, and from it clear
All the virtue and claim of the famed Vaseline.

T. W. ROTHICH,

UNDERTAKER,

OFFICE, 27 — MYRTLE STREET

STABLES, 273 MAGAZINE STREET

Embalming and disinterring bodies. Bodies carefully shipped. Carriages for hire.

☞ GIVE STRICT ATTENTION. ☜

COMMERCIAL.

ADVOCATE OFFICE,
NEW ORLEANS, Monday, Dec. 22, 1879.

COTTON.

The first telegrams from New York had a depressing influence, and prices were fractionally easier, but, those received since being favorable, the market has recovered its tone, and is reported steady at Saturday's quotations. Sales thus far, 2,500 bales.

The following is the official closing of the Cotton Exchange:

	To-Day.	Saturday
Low ordinary	— —	— —
Ordinary	10¼	10⅜
Good ordinary	11⅛	11⅜
Low middling	11⅝	11⅞
Middling	11⅞	11⅞
Good middling	12⅜	12⅜
Middling fair	12⅞	12⅞

Sales to-day, 10 300 bales, including 2,000 yesterday. Market opened quiet; closed firm.

Receipts at United States ports, week ending Monday, December 22, 1879.

	Saturday.	Sunday and Monday.	This week	last year
Galveston	2 623	2 [illegible]	18 [illegible]
New Orleans	9 [illegible]	2[illegible]	7 [illegible]
Mobile	2 [illegible]	4 [illegible]	19 [illegible]
Savannah	4 [illegible]	6 [illegible]	25 [illegible]
Charleston	3 [illegible]	3 [illegible]	16 [illegible]
Wilmington	4 [illegible]	[illegible]	2 [illegible]
Norfolk	4 [illegible]	4 [illegible]	1 [illegible]
Baltimore	4 [illegible]		1 [illegible]
New York	2 [illegible]	[illegible]	3 [illegible]
Boston	[illegible]	[illegible]	3 [illegible]
Philadelphia	2 [illegible]	4 [illegible]	1 [illegible]
Various	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Total	31 [illegible]	46 182	192 [illegible]

FUTURES.

The position of the market at New York may be seen by the following:

	Middling.	Monday.	Saturday.
January	12 7	13 [illegible]	12 [illegible]
February	13 [illegible]	13 [illegible]	13 [illegible]
March	— —	— —	— —
April	— —	— —	— —
May	— —	— —	— —
June	— —	— —	— —
July	— —	— —	— —
August	— —	— —	— —
September	— —	— —	— —
October	— —	— —	— —
November	— —	— —	— —
December	12 [illegible]	12 [illegible]	12 [illegible]

Sales, 85 000 bales. Market steady.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE DIEBOLD

SAFES

A large and complete assortment of these Celebrated SAFES on hand for sale at prices to suit the times. Parties desiring anything in our line are respectfully solicited to address the undersigned for estimates, etc., and feel confident of giving satisfaction, both as regards price and quality of work.

C. ROY, Agent,
DIEBOLD SAFE & LOCK CO.,
37 Canal St., New Orleans.

ROBT. E. LEE

Sale and Feed Stables,

129 to 133 Baronne St.,

NEW ORLEANS.

ALFRED BETTS & CO., Proprietors
DEALERS IN

Kentucky Mules and Horses

Respectfully solicit a call from Buyers.

SOLUTION OF

TRIBASIC PHOSPHATE OF LIME

IN

COD LIVER OIL.

The only Solution warranted by Letters Patent in the U. S. No. 11,240, obtained by Dr. Dava, in June, 1854.

DR. DAVA,
99 & 101 St. Charles st. cor.
Natchez.

FANCY GOODS. FANCY GOODS.

SCHILLING'S

Millinery Emporium, Hair Work

and

FANCY GOODS BAZAR.

159 CANAL STREET 159

Assortment comprises the very latest styles in Millinery Materials, Hats and Bonnets, Flowers of every description, and the most elegant new Paris Combs, Fancy Goods, Jewelry, Purses, Card Cases, Wallets, Pocket Books, Cutlery, Perfumery, Toilet Articles, Notions, Etc.

G. T. SCHILLING,
159 CANAL STREET.

WILLIAM LEOTE. A. SAMUELS

LEOTE & CO.,

OLD BASIN

SASH, BLIND,

DOOR FACTORY,

AND

Lumber Yard,

Offices, Cor. Toulouse & Franklin and 32 Carondelet Sts.,

P. O. Box 99. NEW ORLEANS

FRANTZ & OPITZ,
Diamond Setters
AND
Jewelers,
69 ROYAL ST.,
bet. Bienville & Conti
NEW ORLEANS.

WILLIAM BURNS

Old Virginia Kitchen,

No. 75 ANN STREET.

Meals and Lunches at the Day or Week, on the Parlor Plan.

Meals at all Hours of the Day.

Religious Notices.

THE first quarterly meeting of Pearlington circuit, Seashore district, will be held on Saturday, January 3 1880. T. S. WEST, P. E.

Quarterly Appointments.

NORTH MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

WINONA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Kosciusko and Durant at Durant	Dec. 27, 28
Winona and Vaiden at Winona	Jan. 3, 4
West Station, at Spring Hill	10, 11
French Camp, at Shady Grove	16
Z. Lilia, at Wesley Chapel	17, 18
Carrollton at Enon	24, 25
Black Hawk at Black Hawk	31, Feb. 1
Winona circuit, at Bethlehem	Feb. 5, 8
Lexington, at Lexington	14, 15
Newport at Baron	20
Attala at Spring Ridge	21, 22
Richland, at Goodman	28, 29
Greenwood, at Greenwood	Mar. 6, 7
Belefontaine at Spring Hill	13, 14

The district stewards' meeting will be held at Durant on Monday, January 12, at ten o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

51 H. A. JONES, P. E.

NORTH ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

FLORENCE DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Chickasaw circuit, at M. Zion	Dec. 27, 28
Valley station at Pine Grove	28
Frankfort circuit at Paran	Jan. 3, 4
Burleson miss., at N. Reid's schoolhouse	3
Gilbert mission, at New Hope	10, 11
Tuscumbia station	12
Florence station	15
Oakland circuit, at Reserve	17, 18
Waterloo circuit, at Waterloo	19, 20
Cypress circuit, at Sugar	24, 25
Shoal Creek and Harrison's Hope	Jan. 31, Feb. 1
Lexington circuit, at Mars Chapel	Feb. 7, 8
Rogersville mission, at Rogersville	9

The District Stewards will please meet me at Tuscumbia at the Methodist church, at 10 o'clock A. M. December ... The prompt attendance of every member of the board is all that is asked.

50 H. A. TIMMONS, P. E.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

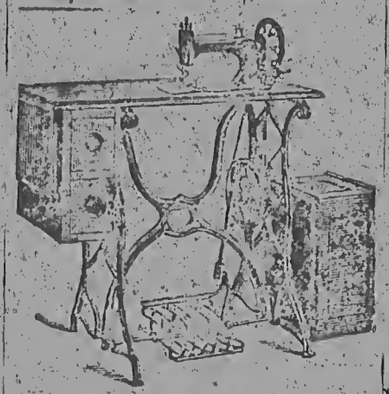
ALEXANDRIA DIST.—FIRST ROUND.

Harrisonburg	Jan. [illegible]
Holly Grove	17, 18
Columbia	24, 25
Calhoun	31, Feb. 1
Jonesboro	Feb. 7, 8
Rayville	14, 15
Alto	21, 22
Monroe	28
Bastrop	Mar. 6, 7
Mer Rouge	13, 14
Sparta	20

BEWARE OF

Imitation Machines

IMPROVED SINGER.



THE GENUINE

SINGER MACHINE,

MADE BY THE

Singer Manufacturing Co

HAS NO EQUAL.

2,500,000 Singers In Daily Use.

Two-thirds of all the machines sold in the United States are those made by

The Singer Company,

Send for Circular and Price List. Address

The Singer Manufacturing Co.,
35 CANAL STREET.
Agents for Butterick's Patterns.

MARSDEN'S

PECTORAL

BALM.

THE GREATEST HOME REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION, COUGHS AND COLDS, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, WHOOPING COUGH,

AND

All Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

Sold by all Druggists & dealers in Patent Medicines.

C. R. FINLAY & CO.,
NEW ORLEANS.
WHOLESALE AGENTS.

JENKINS'

ANNIHILATOR,

A SURE CURE FOR

RHEUMATISM, GOUT AND NEURALGIA.

It will not fail to effect a permanent cure in any and every one of these diseases, if used according to direction.

Price One Dollar Per Bottle.

For sale by druggists everywhere

C. R. FINLAY & CO.,
NEW ORLEANS,
WHOLESALE AGENTS.

MARBLE

—AND—

GRANITE

TOMBS, MONUMENTS AND GRAVE STONES

Mantels, Grates, Hearths, Tiling, Flagging, etc.

GEO. STROUD.

164 St. Charles street, New Orleans, La.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

AT

PHILIP

WERLEIN'S

PIANO

WAREROOMS,

135 . CANAL STREET . 135

Can be found

THE LARGEST STOCK OF INSTRUMENTS to select from in New Orleans. All the standard parties we work for purchase strictly for cash. Prices the lowest.

The Chickering & Son's Upright and Square Grand Pianos.

MATHUSHEK PIANOS

A full assortment of the Popular

HALE UPRIGHT PIANOS

HALE UPRIGHT PIANOS.

BEAUTIFUL IN TONE.

RICH IN DESIGN OF CASE.

The most admired

Estey & Co., Mason & Hamlin

ORGANS.

The Cabler,

Groveteen & Fuller

and Hardman.

They are the most perfect instruments, and fully warranted as being just what they represent.

Second-Hand Pianos Taken in Exchange,

Instruments sold on Installments.

Every Instrument Warranted.

The best Wood and Iron STOOLS in the market.

PIANO COVERS of every description.

Descriptive catalogues sent free to any address.

OPEN EVENINGS.

PHILIP WERLEIN,

135 CANAL STREET.

Dealer in Sheet Music, Instruction Books, Imported and Domestic Musical Instruments of every description and Music Boxes.

Have just received per steamers Nürnberg and Frisian.

Second-hand Pianos for sale.

MISCELLANEOUS.

YALE & BOWLING,

IMPORTERS AND WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

- DRY GOODS -

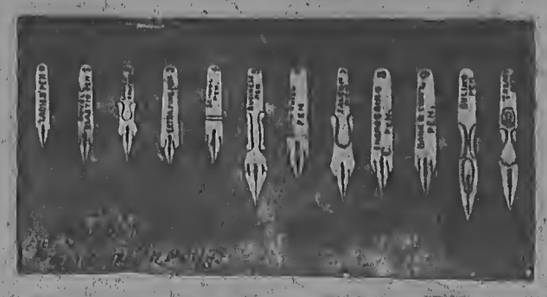
NOTIONS AND MILLINERY,

17, 19 and 21 - Magazine Street, - 17, 19 and 21

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

WARRINGTON STEEL PEN CO.'S STEEL PENS.

EQUAL IN QUALITY TO ANY



THAT CAN BE PRODUCED.

Office: 105 and 107 N. Fifth St., Philadelphia.

For Sale by Lathrop & Wilkins, 112 Camp street, N. O.

LARGEST AND MOST POPULAR

MUSIC HOUSE IN THE SOUTH.

Easiest Terms Lowest Prices

General Agency for the celebrated

STEINWAY, KNABE, PLEYEL, FISCHER PIANOS

And the Equitable organs of

CLOUGH & WARREN AND PELOUBET, PELTON & CO.

Everything in the Music line at reduction prices. Send for Illustrated catalogues.

LOUIS GRUNEWALD,
Grunewald Hall, New Orleans.

LEON ARLAUD,

- DRUGGIST -

PERFUMER AND IMPORTER OF FINE SOAPS, TOILET ARTICLES AND Eau de Cologne

PURE AND GENUINE DRUGS, GUARANTEED UNADULTERATED.

E. OFFNER,

No. 171 Canal Street, Between Baronne and Dryades.

DIRECT IMPORTER OF

FRENCH, ENGLISH AND AMERICAN

CHINA AND EARTHENWARE

GLASSWARE, CUTLERY, WOODENWARE, TINWARE.

THE FINEST QUALITY OF

SILVER PLATEWARE A SPECIALITY

LOOK AT THESE PRICES FOR GOOD AMERICAN CHINA:

Dinner, Breakfast and Tea sets, complete, [illegible] pieces, for	$15 00
Real French Porcelain Dinner Sets, 97 pieces	20 00
Handsome China Dinner Set, 112 pieces	12 00
Decorated Chamber Sets, 10 pieces	4 50
Good Glass Goblets per dozen	60
All other goods in proportion

☞ Orders by mail receive prompt and careful attention. Make up in sizes to the nearest dollar. ☜

E. OFFNER,
171 Canal Street, Between Baronne and Dryades.

D. MERCIER & SONS,

The Well Known Cheap Inn.

NO BRANCH STORE IN TOWN

CLOTHING,

HATS, BOOTS AND SHOES, FURNISHING GOODS

ETC.

Cor. Dauphine and Bienville Sts

(NEW ORLEANS, LA.

Orders for Country Merchants promptly executed on the most favorable terms.

Established 1838.

JOHN GAUCHE,

MORESQUE BUILDING,

CORP STREET.

Branch House, 710 Charles Street.

IMPORTER

Wholesale And Retail Dealer in

Plain White,

Gold Band and Decorated

CHINA,

Parian and Biscuit Statuettes and Busts.

A Full Line of Bacchus & Bohemian

GLASSWARE.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF

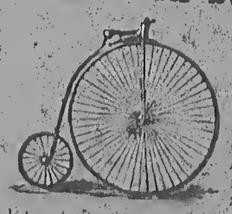
MAJOLICA, CLOCKS, LOOKING GLASSES AND HOUSEFURNISHING GOODS

GLASS SHADES IN GREAT VARIETY,

AT VERY LOW PRICES.

Call and See.

COLUMBIA BICYCLE.



A practical machine for all except the ride and it runs better than a horse. It costs no more because on it you ride more miles in a day over common roads than a horse can go. Send 3c. stamp for price list and [illegible] page catalogue with testimonials and full information.

THE POPE MFG. CO.,
79 Summer St., Boston, Mass.

STAINED GLASS

FOR CHURCHES.

Manufactured by

GEO. J. MUSCH,

317 East Washington st.,

Chicago, Ill.

LYNCH & GOMEN,

Manufacturers of Pianos,

132 BROADWAY cor. 35th Street,

NEW YORK.

TESTIMONIALS FROM WELL KNOWN PERSONS.

[illegible] Secretary of Agriculture.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 1879.

Messrs. LYNCH & GOMEN,

Gentlemen and fellow-citizens: I am pleased with the [illegible] and I [illegible] to all who [illegible] a first-class instrument, that they cannot do better than to purchase one of your Pianos. I have had one in my family for [illegible] years, and it has given entire satisfaction. I am sure that your Pianos will [illegible] as well as any other, and I [illegible] you success. Very respectfully yours,

J. R. SYLVESTER,
251 I Street.

St. James Hotel, October 27, 1879.

LYNCH & GOMEN,

Gentlemen: I have much pleasure in stating that I consider your Pianos to be able to rank [illegible] of the very best I ever had under my fingers. The [illegible] brilliancy of tone, [illegible] to be found in the [illegible] pianos to equal to your Piano [illegible] and I shall [illegible] as well as my other friends to call and [illegible] the [illegible] I have an opportunity. Very respectfully yours,

ANTHONY ZIMMER,
Professor of Music, St. James Hotel, Jefferson College, St. James, La., (COPY OF LETTER.)

From the World Renowned Prima Donna Diva.

NEW YORK, May 27, 1873.

MESSRS. LYNCH & GOMEN:

Gentlemen: After testing your Piano in private and public, I am glad to say that you have produced a splendid instrument, which I can recommend in every respect. Yours truly,

CAMILLA URSO.

Extract of Letter from W. H. Aldridge, Fort Ten.

We are delighted with the piano. The tone is good, strong and full, yet soft and melting.

COMMON SENSE

Will tell you to get your

TRUSSES

AND

BRACES

Where they are made and fitted.

The best trusses in this country and [illegible] from One Dollar to a Dollar and a Half.

H. SPILLMANN,
93 Baronne Street, New Orleans.

For ARTIFICIAL

Limbs of all kinds, apply to

H. MOLLERMOTT,

Has had [illegible] years experience in the manufacture of Artificial Limbs in [illegible]

ARTIFICIAL

Arms and Legs,

which he guarantees to be the most perfect in the United States. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed or no charge. All orders promptly attended to. Charges reasonable.

H. MOLLERMOTT,
208 Camp Street, New Orleans.